JAMES J. HILL, THE EMPIRE BUILDER, SAYS SOIL AND CLIMATE OF NORTHERN MINNESOTA ARE EVERYTHING THAT COULD BE ASKED

THIRTY POLICE ARE PUT ON GUARD FOR THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE

Bad Feeling Between Taft and Roosevelt Men Is High at Chicago.

WHAT THE REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE HAS DONE.

The Republican national committee today decided contests by placing on the temporary roll of national convention:

Third and Fourth Arkansas districts, two delegates, credited to Taft, unanimously. In the Fourth district case Committeeman Dupont of Delaware, who thus far voted with the anti-Taft people, made the motion.

Fifth Arkansas district, two delegates, credited to Taft.

Had one serious fight, culminating in a test vote of 42 to 10, over the contest in the Fifth Arkansas district; the majority stood solid and decided it for Taft. Lyon of Texas, and Bieber of the District of Columbia, were listed as "not voting."

Chicago, June 8. — Bad feeling between Roosevelt and Taft leaders which spluttered intermittently yesterday and last night, became acute today and threatened to break into an open clash with the meetings of the Republican national committee.

The gravity of the situation was driven home this morning when a police detail of thirty plain clothes men and uniformed patrolmen took their stations at the Coliseum annex, where the contest hearings are being held.

The subject of a possible clash was discussed until late last night at a number of conferences of leaders on both sides at downtown hotel headquarters. Officers of the national committee joined with others of prominence in the party councils in stating that all possible efforts were being made to prevent any occurrence that might reflect discredit upon the con-

DR. WILEY TURNS DOWN OFFER MADE BY BOSTON.

Washington, June 8.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, former chief of the United States bureau of chemistry, today declined the city of Boston's offer to become chairman of its board of health. He made known his decision in a letter to Representative M. F. Murray of Massachusetts.

WHO PUT UP THE MONEY?

Roosevelt Campaign Said to Have Cost $1,250,000 to Date.

Source of Prodigious Fund May Be Investigated By Congress.

(By Willis J. Abbot.)

Washington, June 8.—(Special to The Herald.) — This has ceased to be the center of presidential politics—particularly of the Republican party. As Mr. Kipling might have said: "Far flung headquarters melt away, press agents and great politicians depart." In the venerable old Ebbitt House is nothing but silence and gloom, for that all the Republican headquarters there are closed. True the Democratic quarters there of Clark and Harmon still exist but what after all do Democratic headquarters amount to?.

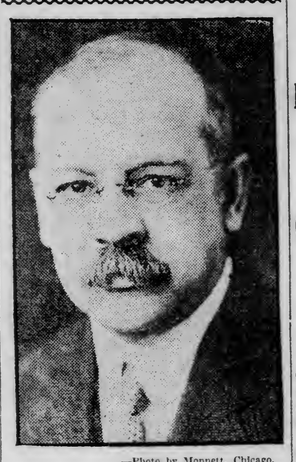

A thoroughly trustworthy statement issued today puts the amount of the Roosevelt expenditures to date at $1,250,000. What's the use of a respectable hotel fussing with a lot of Democratic pikers to whom 30 cents looks about the size of $30,000 to the Roosevelt apostles of the plain people.

Publicity of Contributions.

LA FOLLETTE MEN AT WORK

Are Framing Platform for Presentation at Chicago.

Senator Will Take Personal Charge of Plank on Trusts.

Madison, Wis., June 8.—That Senator La Follette will demand a platform at the Republican national convention which shall enunciate not only the principles which he believes should be enacted into law, but planks showing certain ideas that should be defeated, is the additional information received here today by the senator's friends who are drafting the platform.

The senator demands that the platform "shall contain no subterfuges, but a clear, concise statement of issues, promising exactly those things demanded by the public, which it will be possible to perform."

He believes that a man "has no more right to make an impossible political play than to incur any other indebtedness he cannot pay."

Will Dictate Trust Plank.

Closely following the lines of the bills introduced by Senator La Follette for the regulation of trusts, his trust plank will embody the same idea. This plank above all others will receive

"NAKED THEFT," SAYS TEDDY

Colonel Comments on Decision as to Alabama Delegates.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 8.—"There is one district in Alabama which represents naked theft," was all that Col. Roosevelt cared to say today regarding the work of the Republican national committee at Chicago yesterday in deciding contests.

"I can't say anything more about it now," he continued. "It is too important. I shall prepare a statement about it later."

Col. Roosevelt indicated the statement would be a peppery one.

MAN JOLTED FROM CHICAGO CAR MAY DIE.

Chicago, June 8.—Sudden swaying of a street car here today threw A. M. Nelson of Stevens Point, Wis., from the rear platform of the conveyance. At the hospital to which he was taken, it was said that he had received serious injuries, including a possible fracture of the skull. Mr. Nelson is a real estate dealer.

GROSS EARNINGS BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE AFTER SOME DEBATE

SESSION MAY END IN WEEK

Many Difficulties in Agreeing on State-Wide Primary Bill.

Questions of Second Choice and Judiciary Cause Heated Controversy.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the close of the first week of the extra session, the question before the house is how much more there is to be of it.

Discussion tends to the optimistic view that the session will be over by a week from today; and that is possible, even probable—but not yet certain.

That the session will produce a state-wide primary with a second choice provision, a corrupt practices act intended to be stringent and effective, a bill increasing the railroad gross earnings tax from 4 to 5 per cent, and the ratification by Minnesota of the income tax and direct election of United States senators amendments to the Federal Constitution, and that it probably will not produce reapportionment, either legislative or congressional, is hardly debatable.

That's only five measures—possibly.

PICK KENYON TO PRESENT CUMMINS

Des Moines, Ia., June 8.—Senator W. S. Kenyon may nominate Albert B. Cummins for president at the Chicago convention, if a plan being discussed by the senior senator's friends here today materializes. Senator Kenyon is not a delegate, but no difficulty is expected in procuring a proxy for him.

Only Five Votes Are Recorded Against the Measure.

Attorney General Gives Opinion That Bill Is Constitutional.

St. Paul, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house this afternoon passed the gross earnings tax bill, 100 to 5. A decision given out by Attorney General Young holds the measure constitutional.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Obstacles to the prompt, smooth passage of the gross earnings tax bill through the house were interposed this morning by house members who each and every one protested himself a staunch friend of the bill. Representatives Lennon, Washburn, Fowler and Lydiard, all of Minneapolis, raised points against the bill in its present form, as a result of which, shortly before noon, this element succeeded in bringing about a postponement of the special order until this afternoon to look up legal points.

In the meantime Representatives Rines and Warner, the authors, went

WANT NO REPEAL OF RECIPROCITY

House Committee on Ways and Means Reports on Metal Bill.

Washington, June 8.—The house ways and means committee today reported in favor of agreeing to the senate's amendments to the metal tariff bill, relating to the rates on pig iron and chromium, but refusing to accede to the repeal of the Canadian reciprocity act and the proposal for a universal duty of $2 a ton on print paper.

WANTS PROBE OF COAL CASE

House Committee Reports Favorably on Two Harbors Affair.

Approves Miller Resolution After Striking Out Preamble.

(From The Herald Washington Bureau.)

Washington, June 8.—Representative Miller' sresolution providing for an investigation of the alleged "coal trust" at Two Harbors was favorably reported by the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today.

Under the terms of the resolution the investigation is to be made by the commissioner of corporations of the department of commerce and labor. The resolution, as originally introduced, contained an extensive preamble, which was stricken out by the committee. It named the Carnegie Fuel company, the Pittsburg Coal company, the Northwestern Fuel company, the Hunter W. Finck Coal company, the Clarkson Coal & Dock company and

AGRICULTURAL OUTLOOK IS STRONG "TALKING POINT"

Many Better Advertised Parts of Country Cannot Compete With This District.

Owner of Small Farm Here Can Make Competence, Says Mr. Hill.

WHAT JAMES J. HILL THINKS

St. Paul, Minn., June 4, 1912.

City Editor, The Duluth Herald:

Dear Sir:—Your favor of the first instant was duly received. The agricultural resources of Northern Minnesota, as yet comparatively little developed, are potentially very great. Aside from the Red River Valley and the country bordering upon it, which is strictly a part of Northern Minnesota, there is a large area west, north and south of Lake Superior that can be made profitable by general agriculture and is especially suitable for dairying.

About the head of the lake and as far south as Hinckley is found the red clay soil that grows rich crops of timothy and clover. Water is abundant and the cool climate favors vegetable growth and adds quality to dairy products. Wherever there is timber the soil, when cleared, will produce good crops. The growth of the iron industry in Northern Minnesota has diverted attention from its agricultural possibilities; but farms have been growing there in number and extent, and the soil may be made to give an annually increasing product of wealth after the last ton of ore has been taken out of the earth.

GROWING RAPIDLY.

This section is the most rapidly growing portion of the state. The population of the seventeen northeastern counties of Minnesota increased 115 per cent between 1890 and 1900; 64 per cent between 1900 and 1910; and 252 per cent between 1890 and 1910. But in this state as everywhere the city is growing at the expense of the country. In 1900 Minnesota's population was 65.9 per cent rural and 34.1 per cent urban; in 1910 it was 59 per cent rural and 41 per cent urban. The increase in the urban population of the state between 1900 and 1910 was 38.6 per cent, while that of the rural was but 7.7 per cent.

The gains in rural population belong largely to Northern Minnesota, and they should be maintained until the inequality just shown has been corrected. These seventeen counties added more than 265,000 to their population between 1890 and 1910, nearly half of whom settled in St. Louis county. There is room in the more distinctively agricultural counties for a larger gain than this in the next few years.

Soil and climate here are all that such agricultural industry as this latitude encourages could ask; but there is an especially good opportunity for dairying and raising hogs. The large increase of population measures the growth of the home demand for food supplies. Duluth is near by; while trains from that city to St. Paul and Minneapolis on an average every two hours in the twenty-four open the three great cities of the state as markets to the farmer.

This should be the country of the small farm. The man who will be satisfied with land enough to carry from fifteen to twenty cows, and will do his own work and escape the expense of hired labor, may be sure of a good living from the outset and of putting by a comfortable competence for old age. Many parts of the country that are more generally advertised and better known cannot compete in actual advantages with Northern Minnesota. Few have a better outlook than this if its agricultural resources are intelligently and economically utilized. Yours very truly,

JAS. J. HILL,

That is what the Empire Builder thinks of Northern Minnesota as a farming territory.

Five or ten years ago the farming possibilities of Northern Minnesota would hardly have been chosen as a "talking point." A Duluth booster would have tactfully neglected to mention the farming possibilities of Northern Minnesota, and would have devoted himself to eulogies of the iron and lumber resources.

Northern Minnesota's development has barely begun. Texas and the Southwest have had their great rush. The stampede to California is now an old story. The fever for Western irrigated lands has abated. Florida has had its inning. Even the tremendous Prospects Throughout State Reported to Be Exceptionally Fine.

Larger Acreage Due to Rapid Development of the North.

St. Paul, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prospects for bountiful crops this year are excellent, according to reports which have come to H. J. Maxfield, state commissioner of immigration. Mr. Maxfield has issued a statement or summary of conditions as told to him by correspondents in fifty-five counties. It follows:

"At the present time fifty-five of the June crop reports have been received at this office, and without an exception everyone so far received reports the prospects for crops, as a whole, exceptionally good. In some cases, however, the prospects for berries and apples, in certain counties, are not as good as at this time last year, while in other counties the reporters inform us, that if nothing happens the crops this year will exceed those of last year.

"None of the reports show a short-

SUBMARINE IS SUNK AT SEA

Twenty-Six Men Go Down With Vendemaire After Collision.

Cherbourg, France, June 8.—During the practice maneuvers of the French fleet at 7 o'clock this morning, the battleship St. Louis collided with the submarine Vendemaire. The smaller craft immediately disappeared and is believed to have been cut in two and to have carried to their death the entire crew of twenty-six men.

The battleship was steaming along quietly when the submarine suddenly appeared under the bows of the warship. There was no time to avoid a collision, and the next moment the stem of the St. Louis struck the submarine with terrific force, driving the latter below the surface. The engines

BUSCH TALKS AT HARVARD

Praises Kaiser as Man of Peace—Compares Germany and America.

Cambridge, Mass., June 8.—Adolphus Busch of St. Louis, who has donated $300,000 to the Germanic museum at Harvard university, was prevented by illness from being present today at the laying of the cornerstone of the museum building. His address in reply to expressions of thanks for his donations was read by Hugo Reisinger of New York, and was in part as follows:

"I can assure you nothing has given me a greater pleasure than to be able to do what I have done, for I consider this museum an undertaking in which every American of German descent should take a special pride and which every one of us should make it a patriotic duty to help along, each according to his means.

"Just consider for a moment what the Germans in Germany have done for this cause.

Praise for the Kaiser.

"The German emperor, that far-sighted and high-minded ruler, who has done more for the preservation of the world's peace than perhaps any other statesman of our day—the German emperor, as soon as he heard of this museum project at once recognized in it an opportunity to show his good will for America, and accorded his powerful and generous help to it.

"He was followed by other German princes, the king of Saxony, the prince-regent of Bavaria, the prince-regent of Brunswick, and all over Germany, wherever an appeal for assistance was made, people seemed to feel instinctively that here there was a chance of erecting on American soil a monument of the best and the finest contributions of Germany to the world's artistic culture.

"On the other hand, we German-Americans have every reason to do what we can to bring to its consummation an undertaking which appeals both to our allegiance to the country of our choice and to our love for the land of our birth.

American Ideals.

"We have found in this country the realization of hopes and aspirations which—to many of us at least—would have been denied in our old home. We have found here greater opportunity for work on a large scale, we have found here a better chance for the average man to rise above the restrictions of class and tradition, we have found here a public life based upon the ideals of political freedom and civic independence.

"We are grateful for all this, and we shall do our part in maintaining lawful liberty in this country. But we cannot forget that Germany is, above all countries, the home of free inquiry and of individual conviction, that it is the land of earnest and manly devotion to the public weal, the land of rational social reform, the land of serious thought and of harmless enjoyment of life, the land of sentiment and song. And we should be faithless to our obligations to our adopted country if we did not try to implant upon American life something of this German honesty and independence of moral conviction, of this German genuineness and wealth of feeling, of this German power for simple and healthy enjoyment.

Hopes Other Schools Will Act.

"I doubt not, that in this museum also Harvard's leadership will serve as an example to other educational institutions, and I look forward to a time when we shall have Germanic museums at Columbia and Wisconsin universities, in Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco.

"Meanwhile it is for us to see to it that this first Germanic museum in America grows up to the full measure of the auspicious foundations which have been laid today.

"It seems most fitting that the two progressive nations—the old Teutons and young America—should unite in so worthy a cause. Forever live the good entente between Germany and the United States!"

JAMES J. HILL PRAISES SOIL AND CLIMATE OF NORTHERN MINNESOTA

rush to the prairie lands of Western Canada seems to have reached its height. Minnesota is next on the list, and there is no beter proof of this than the fact that the railroads are now beginning to turn their attention to Northern Minnesota. Louis W. Hill during the speech he gave at the banquet tendered him here recently, said that he liked to work in a fertile field, and that he liked to help develop the territories that were developing themselves and gave promise of results. Judging from this, Northern Minnesota gives promise of results, for the Great Northern has given more attention to Northern Minnesota in the last two years than it did in the twenty years preceding. The same applies to the Northern Pacific road.

In casting about for some person who could speak with authority on the agricultural possibilities of a country, James J. Hill was the natural choice.

Mr. Hill saw the possibilities of a great empire in the Northwest when few other men did, and he had the perseverance and the ability to develop that empire. No warmer praise could be given a district than that which Mr. Hill gives Northern Minnesota in his letter published above. "Soil and climate here are all that such agricultural industry as this latitude encourages could ask, but there is an especial good opportunity for dairying and raising hogs."

Clinching Argument.

Mr. Hill wouldn't have written the above letter if he did not believe what he said to be true. Coming from such a man as Mr. Hill it should be the clinching argument in support of the statement that in its agricultural possibilities Duluth has one of its greatest "talking points."

Three distinct zones of agricultural development are noticeable in Northern Minnesota. First there is the home garden. This feature is worthy of a booklet in itself. Duluth is now the headquarters of the National Homecroft society, and any Duluthian who doubts the growth of the backyard garden movement in this city, either lacks vision, or lives within a district that is bounded by Fifth avenue and Lake avenue and the two sides of Superior street.

The second zone is composed of the five and ten-acre tracts near the city, to which truck gardeners devote all of their time and energies, or plan to do so some day. Any automobile owner in Duluth will bear testimony to the growth of this zone within the last five years.

The third zone consists of the settlers who go out into the woods and chop a farm for themselves out of the forest.

Immigration.

For the sake of securing some information on this subject The Herald wrote to H. J. Maxfield, commissioner of immigration at St. Paul, and here are the replies sent in by his crop reporters:

Red Lake county: "We beg to advise you that there are a large number of future settlers coming into this country this spring, purchasing land and that there has also been a number of new settlers arrived here and settled on land that they purchased last fall. There were some thirty or forty families of Finlanders who moved to this county. We believe that we are conservative in saying that not less than fifty quarter sections have been purchased by local farmers since the first day of January."

Pennington county: "The influx of settlers into this particular section of Minnesota continues to remind one of the rush to the California gold fields in 1849, except in that the present rush is not a mushroom boom. Those 300 filings at the Crookston land office during April look mighty good to Northern Minnesota and more particularly to this immediate vicinity in view of the fact that most of the land is tributary to Thief River Falls."

Wadena county: "This county is getting a few new settlers, mostly from Iowa, Nebraska and the Dakotas."

Polk county: "In reply to your favor will say that we have been getting in some new settlers here this spring."

Itasca county: "Itasca county is getting many new settlers this spring. The general tone of development is higher than ever before. Farmers are coming from Iowa, Nebraska and Illinois."

Aitkin county: "We have been getting quite a number of new settlers the last eight months. I think when the next census is taken it will show that Aitkin county has enjoyed as great a growth along agricultural lines in agricultural development and in growth of population as any county in Northern Minnesota."

Des Moines, a city as large as Duluth, has one talking point. Even a resident of Des Moines, after telling about the commission form of government, will admit that the one real reason for the existence of Des Moines on the map is the fact that it is the center of an agricultural district.

Duluth is the center of an agricultural empire, the development of which is hardly begun, and yet in the past this "talking point" for the city has been mentioned almost apologetically, and hardly included among the city's assets.

Not One Crop Country.

And it is not a one-crop country. Northwestern Canada may have its flax, but Northern Minnesota has the lowly but valuable potato. Omaha throve on Nebraska's corn region, but Duluth has the dairy cow of Northern Minnesota.

Kansas City has the big winter wheat belt at its back, but Duluth can point to the bacon hog of Northern Minnesota.

New Orleans is the center of a cotton growing district, but Northern Minnesota is the greatest celery growing country in the world.

Los Angeles points to its fruit orchards as a source of wealth, but down along the south shore of Lake Superior, tributary to Duluth, is being developed one of the greatest fruit growing districts in the United States—not oranges, it is true, but apples.

Toronto and Buffalo have the wonderful peach and grape country of the Niagara peninsula behind them, but Duluth is adjacent to the best truck garden district that lies out of dors.

The country which a few years ago was looked upon as being a wilderness of jack pine and swamps, is "potentially very great" in agricutural resources, if James J. Hill who developed an empire is to be believed. As a "talking point" that ranks with the steel plant and Duluth's railroad development.

GOOD CROP PREDICTED

age of rain; in a few cases they report that the low grounds are too wet, but not sufficient to materially damage the crop and lower the yield much.

Pastures in Fine Condition.

"Nearly every county reports the pastures in excellent condition and much better than at this time last year, which insures an increase in the dairy production for the year 1912.

"Owing to the recent heavy rains, some counties report the roads in rather poor condition, others report that much work is being done on them, and that there is a general feeling among the farmers to push the good road work along this year.

"The demand for farm hands is not very brisk at this time of the year, and in most cases the supply equals the demand. However, nearly all the reporters inform us that from July 1 until it freezes up there will be a greater demand for farm help than can be supplied locally.

Increase in Acreage.

"The acreage, as reported by our correspondents, compares quite favorably with the government census report, with a slight increase, which of course is natural and will follow the rapid development of the formerly uncultivated lands in the northern sections of the state.

"We notice particularly in southern, southwestern and central Minnesota, that there is a decided increase in the corn acreage, which substantially verifies the prediction that has often been made the last few years, that Minnesota is the coming corn state.

"Many of the reporters inform us that the corn acreage would have been even greater this year, had they been able to secure sufficient good seed, of which there was a general scarcity at corn planting time. All over the state we notice a material increase in the potato acreage, and this is more noticeable in the northern counties. Taking the reports as a whole, I have no hesitancy in predicting a bumper crop for the Minnesota farmers during the season of 1912."

COPPER COUNTRY MAN IS CRUSHED UNDER BIG ROCK.

Calumet, Mich., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Benny, 33 years old, was killed at the Cliff location, north of Calumet, yesterday, when a rock weighing three tons rolled down the mountain side and over the body.

ITINERARY OF SPECIAL

The itinerary for the three days' trade excursion which will start from Duluth next Tuesday morning and travel over the range, has been completed.

Thirty-seven towns and locations are on the schedule, and time varying from five minutes to sixteen hours is given to each. On account of the necessity of conforming to the work of the operating departments of the railroads, less time is given in some towns than the committee would have liked, but the itinerary is the best arrangement possible

The train will leave Duluth at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning and will continue on the Iron Range tracks until Eveleth is reached that evening. The trip to Virginia will be made over the D., M. & N. The second day will be on the Great Northern, and the third day on the D., M. & N. again.

About 150 people are expected to make the trip. The committee has made such arrangements that a low rate is possible, and every line of business in Duluth will be well represented.

MINE ON POOR FARM.

Crow Wing County Property Believed Rich in Iron.

Brainerd, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crow Wing county's poor farm, situated three miles east of Brainerd, is believed to be rich in iron and various operators have endeavored to lease the land's for drilling them. On July 8 the board of county commissioners will consider propositions for leasing the lands in the south half of the northeast quarter in section 33, township 46, range 30. It is probable that a fifty year lease, with a royalty of at least 25 cents a ton and a certain tonnage to be mined each year, will be given.

BANK CASHIER HELD ON FORGERY CHARGE.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 8.—William G. Hill, cashier of the National State Bank of Oneida, has been held to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of forgery, third degree, in the altering of figures in a book at the bank. He pleaded not guilty. The proceedings are a sequel to the case of George E. Kirkpatrick, a defaulting bookkeeper at the same bank, who is serving a term in Auburn prison.

Officials of the bank are authority for the statement that there has been no defalcation on the part of Mr. Hill, it being claimed that the changes in figures were made in an effort to aid Kirkpatrick.

Foolhardy Bet Fatal.

Butte, Mont., June 8.—Arthur Kaalson, a miner, 20 years of age, was drowned in Luna park lake last night before two boatloads of spectators, after making a foolhardy bet of $50 that he could swim from a boat to the shore with dumbells strapped to his ankles.

MINNESOTA POLITICS

Democrats Hopeful of Success All Along Line This Year—Many Prospective Candidates for Governor and for Congress—Republican Candidates for Governor Quiet. :-: :-:

Democrats Are Hopeful.

Emerging from the Duluth convention with harmony re-established after many years of quarreling and bickering, the Democratic party is preparing to make a fight in the state. The delegates at the convention here were convinced that this is a Democratic year. The attendance at the convention was sufficient proof of the existence of that feeling. Democrats believe they have a chance in the nation, the state, the congressional districts, the legislative districts and counties. They are going after all honors, with confidence and unity.

The split in the Republican ranks and the similarity between Democratic principles and those espoused by Progressive Republicans are responsible for the confidence of the Democrats. Speakers at the Democratic convention declared that the Progressives have stolen Democratic thunder and are Democrats who have not the courage to assume the name. Democrats believe that the Progressive Republicans in large number have the courage of their convictions, if not the courage to change their label, and will vote for a Progressive Democrat rather that for a reactionary Republican, who stands for the antithesis of the Progressive Republican's principles.

The Republican party everywhere is badly split. In the state the old machine, standpat to the last bolt and cog, is warring with a militant Progressive faction. Yet nobody is certain that the Progressive faction will win in the face of astute political management and barrels of coin. If the Progressives should be downed, the day of the Democrats will be at hand, and many Democrats believe that the day will come even if the Progressives win. A large body of independent voters are tired of the Republican label and what it has stood for for many years, they say.

The proud boast of Democrats is that in the Democratic party the reactionary is the exception; in the Republican party the rule.

Prospective Candidates.

Congressman W. S. Hammond, P. M. Ringdal, Samuel G. Anderson, T. J. Knox, C. M. Andrist, Albert Pfaender, Judge C. W. Stanton and several others are Democratic gubernatorial possibilities. All are popular Democrats, and Democrats are convinced that any one would prove formidable against any Republican now in the field for the nomination in his party.

The Democrats have many congressional possibilities. In the First district, H. L. Buck may make the run again. Many people would like to see Senator T. E. Cashman in the field, but Mr. Cashman is wrapped up in his distance tariff bill and would not forsake the senate now if he could.

In the Second district Congressman Hammond is believed to be certain of re-election unless he makes the run for governor. If he should seek the state executive office, T. J. Knox of Jackson or Senator S. D. Works of Mankato would be strong candidates.

In the Third district, Senator Julius Coller of Shakopee and Senator Harry F. Weis of LeSueur are mentioned, and both are popular in the whole district.

Louis Betz of St. Paul will probably be the candidate in the Fourth district. Thomas Dwyer and Elnar Holdale have already filed for the nomination in the Fifth district.

With Lindbergh out of the congressional race, Democratic changes will be improved in the Sixth, and many strong men are among the possibilities. Senator J. D. Sullivan of St. Cloud is among the strongest.

No candidates have been mentioned in the Seventh, but somebody will be in the field, and the same is true of the Ninth. In the Eighth, Andrew Nelson of Duluth has had a monopoly on the attention.

Marking Time.

Republican candidates for the governorship have been exceedingly quiet since the call for the extra session was issued. The avowed candidates and prospective candidates alike are awaiting the action of the legislature on the primary law. Under a straight primary, the field will probably be a small one, but if the second choice law goes through—as seems extremely likely at this time—it will be a free-for-all with a great multiplicity of candidates.

The only developments recently have been those relating to R. C. Dunn of Princeton. The Mille Lacs county good roads advocate has been acting a good deal like a prospective candidate for the governorship, and his entrance into the race, if a primary law is passed, will occasion little surprise. E. T. Young is flirting with the laurels. Fred Snyder of Minneapolis seems to have declared himself out of it, although not definitely so. Eberhart, Gordon, Lee and Spooner are still in the race, although they are inactive while the legislature is in session. Nobody would be surprised to see Spooner drop out and work for the retention of his legislative seat, but he has not yet declared himself.

Files in Second.

A. J. Daly of Luverne has filed for the Republican nomination for congress in the Second district, thus forestalling several other patriots who would like to get into the race. Daley against Ellsworth will furnish a new alignment and may result in patching up some of the differences in the Republican party in the district. Friends of Congressman Hammond do not fear any Republican who may emerge victorious from the primaries and each new entrant into the field will increase their satisfaction.

Last Buffalo Shipped.

Kalispell, Mont., June 8.—Michael Pablo has just shipped from Ravalli the last of the famous herd of buffalo which he sold to the Canadian government several years ago. There were nine animals in the shipment, being all that remained of those which could be captured alive. Several outlaw buffalo still range at large on the reservation.

WHO PUT UP THE MONEY?

for the publicity of all campaign contributions prior to the national conventions. This is merely the necessary corrollary to the bill pressed by Perry Belmont for like publicity for contributions to the campaign fund prior to the election. It is a curious sort of a situation that the senate fought the first bill and only allowed it to become a law with the proviso that the statement of contributions should be made after the election was over. This, of course, made the statement valueless. It might show a man to be without conscience, so far as taking "tainted money" was concerned, as it did show Roosevelt. But in the meantime the man was elected president and did not worry about later revelations.

Of course the moment is too late to put into effect the Belmont resolution. But if it could be made clear to the people — what is known by every active man in politics—that the Roosevelt campaign for nomination has been financed by George W. Perkins, Pierpont Morgan, Frank A. Munsey of the Steel trust, by the Steel trust itself, with the Harvester trust as a cheerful aid, would not that have its effect? All this is true. Stated baldly as I do it on the responsibility of merely one political writer, it carries but little weight. But think for a moment what a mormal report from an authorized government bureau would have if it read to this effect:

Theodore Roosevelt Fund for Nomination.

George W. Perkins	?
Pierpont Morgan	?
Frank A. Munsey	?
Steel trust	?
Harvester trust	?
Total	$1,250,000

I do not put in the amounts of the individual contributions for the very simple reason that I do not know them. I have seen figures in the newspapers ranging high into the thousands, but it is so easy to say that George W. Perkins contributed $70,000, which seems to be the popular figure, when in fact he may have chipped in $15,000 or $150,000. Mr. Perkins is not going to tell.

Somebody, however, has put in great sums of money for Roosevelt. As a rule there great sums of money do not come from the plain ordinary people. There are but few Democrats in public life who could figure how to get $60,000 to carry Manhattan island or nearly as much to carry Oklahoma. From some point money is being poured into the Roosevelt coffers as it never before was given to a candidate with a doubtful chance of nomination.

Now should he be nominated, which I doubt, the source of this prodigious corruption fund will be investigated. The session has practically agreed upon remaining in session until after the conventions in order to consider the Lorimer case. If the use of money in Roosevelt's behalf continues to be as flagrant and notorious as it is now, the chances are that they may be a Roosevelt investigation quite as scandalous as that which now disquiets Lorimer.

Stephenson, Lorimer, Roosevelt.

It was shown that ia cost something over $700,000 to elect Mr. Stephenson to the United States senate. As a result a prolonged investigation and an unsatisfactory decision. It has further been charged and practically proved that it took $100,000 to elect Mr. Lorimer to the United States senate. The result of this allegation has been two costly investigations and the prolongations of two sessions of congress far beyond the time ordinarily set for them. The position of a United States senator is a high and honorable one, but the post of president of the United States is surely more lofty. If the expenditure of $100,000 for Lorimer or $700,000 for Stephenson seems to be worthy of congressional investigation, what shall be said of the use of more than a million dollars contributed either by trusts or by trust magnates to make Theodore Roosevelt the nominee of his party for president of the United States?

Mr. Roosevelt once declined to dine with Senator Lorimer because of the suspicin that money had been used to secure the latter's election. I wonder if Senator Lorimer would now dine with Col. Roosevelt.

SESSION MAY END IN WEEK

but not probably, six—and it ought not to take long to pass that many bills.

But while gross earnings tax and the two constitutional amendments constitute each one issue, and reapportionment another single issue, state-wide primary is not one issue, but several; and there are minor complications about the corrupt practices act that will take time.

The present outlook is that the session will end next week; but if the legislature takes anything like the usual time over the several issues involved, for instance, in the state-wide primary, it may prove hard to keep the rest of the session's work within the compass of the coming week.

State-Wide Primary Bill.

The way the senate went at the state-wide primary bill in committee of the whole yesterday illustrates the difficulties in the way. The bill is on general orders, and the committee went into committee of the whole for the first time to consider it. Nothing was done but to receive a number of amendments and to order them printed for the consideration of the members.

Shall it include second choice provisions?

What form shall these provisions take?

Shall it include the judiciary, or shall there be nonpartisan provisions for the nomination and election of judges?

Shall the primaries be held in September, as now, or in June, as the farmers seem to want it?

There is material for a long and more or less heated controversy in each one of those questions.

Most of them are before the senate as a result of the amendments offered yesterday.

Senator George H. Sullivan of Stillwater, who is a sort of reactionary insurgent this year, offered an amendment providing for a nonpartisan judiciary.

There is considerable sentiment for this change, but it is a question in itself, and the difficulty of agreeing on it makes it unlikely that it will be seriously considered at this session.

The pending bill requires a majority to make a first choice nomination. Senator Benson of Nicollet county offered an amendment to let the nomination be made on the first choice vote if 40 per cent is secured by any candidate.

The pending bill adopts the Wisconsin second choice plan of eliminating the lowest man, in case of the failure of any candidate to get a majority of the first choice votes, and adding the second choice votes of those who voted for him to those to whom they belong, and continuing this process until some candidate has a majority. Senator Clague offers an amendment substituting the plan of adding first and second choices together, if no candidate has a first choice majority, and giving the nomination to the highest man.

Senator Saugstad offers an amendment providing that after this year—it is too late to do it this year—the primaries shall be held in June. This, too, is a question in itself, and the senate is likely to do as the house has done with it—put it over to the regular session.

The sub-committee of the house elections committee which has the state-wide primary bill in charge spent another afternoon on it yesterday without finishing. It has made no material changes in the features of the pending bill, which is the same as the senate bill and in the combined work of Senator Haycraft of Madelia and Representative Knapp of Chisholm.

Gross Earnings Tax Bill.

By a vote of twenty to two, the house committee on taxes and tax laws yesterday afternoon voted to recommend for passage the bill by Representatives Rines of Mora and Warner of Aitkin increasing the railroad gross earnings tax from 4 per cent to 5 per cent.

The committee also voted to recommend that the bill be made a special order for 11 o'clock this morning.

This action followed a public hearing at which representatives of a number of railroads were present, and at which talks against the bill were made by T. E. Peolleys of Omaha, tax commissioner of the Omaha road, and E. C. Lindley, general counsel for the Great Northern.

Mr. Polleys, who made the principal talk, read from a pamphlet which he had prepared for the 1913 regular session, action at an extra session not having been expected, as he said—Governor Eberhart's call, it will be remembered, did not include any reference to railroad taxation—and its arguments were largely in reply to those made by The Duluth Herald in its campaign for an extra session to increase the railroad gross earnings tax.

One point made by The Herald was that the state tax commission has urged an increase in the railroad tax, and it has pointed out that if the railroads of Minnesota were assessed on the same average basis as other property, and taxed at the average tax rate on other property, they would be paying 6.09 per cent on their gross earnings—or an ad valorem tax equivalent to that.

Mr. Polleys attemtped to show that the railroads were wrong in that they had presumed that the average assessed valuation was 43.48 per cent of the actual valuation. He stated that in sixty-eight agricultural counties of Minnesota where the land is actually worth $52 an acre, the assessed value is $12.24, or less than 25 per cent. In Northeastern Minnesota he assumed an actuel value of $22 an acre, which at the average assessed value of $5.23 an acre would also be less than 25 per cent.

Ore lands he found to be assessed at 33 1-3 per cent of their actual value, and city property at 35.13 per cent of cash value.

Therefore he urged that instead of being 43.48 per cent of actual value, the averaged assessed valuation of the state is about 30 per cent of actual value. From this basis he tried to show that the railroads now are paying more taxes than they ought to pay.

The authors of the bill, C. H. Warner of Aitkin and Henry Rines of Mora, made short, crisp, pointed speeches which annihilated the reasoning of Mr. Polleys and Mr. Lindley. Mr. Warner showed that if railroads were taxed as other property is taxed they would be paying much more than they will pay under the 5 per cent gross earnings tax. He showed that when the state increased the tax rate from 3 per cent to 4, the railroads tried to get behind a constitutional point, declaring that is was unconstitutional to increase their taxes at all; and that if that point had not been decided by the supreme court of the United States, they would be trying to hide behind the Constitution now. Since the railroads were fighting the increase to 4 per cent, their net earnings per mile have doubled, he said; and they cannot, therefore, logically oppose an increase of 25 per cent in their taxes.

Mr. Warner also pointed out that when the 1-mill road tax is adopted, increasing the state's tax for good roads 300 per cent, the railroads will not pay a penny of it; and that they do not pay a penny, legally, of the cost of making local improvements from which they benefit.

Mr. Rines said that the question had been thoroughly thrashed out; that there was no question that the railroads were not paying their share of the taxes, and that instead of its being a delay of a few months, as Mr. Lindley of the Great Northern had pointed out in his plea for delay, until the regular session, it would be a delay of two years and the loss of millions in taxes due the state.

This concluded the hearing, and Mr. Warner moved that the bill be recommended to pass. This was carried, 20 to 2, by the following vote:

Against—Greene and Clarke, both of St. Paul.

Representative Minette of Sauk Center had a bill in increasing the tax to 6 per cent, and the committee voted to return his measure to its author.

Constitutional Amendments.

The Federal constitutional amendments reached the senate yesterday too late to be considered, but they were taken up this morning and referred to the new committee on the reception of bills. They will be reported back favorably at once.

The Democrats in the senate and house who attended the Duluth convention, and who returned yesterday, are overowfling with praises for Duluth, for the convention arrangements and results, and for the beauty, promise and hospitality of the city. In short, the minority party in the legislature has joined the Duluth Boosters' organization.

After spending a little more time on the highly important question of stationery supplies, the house yesterday referred the whole matter to the committee on legislative expenses to decide just what supplies should be kept and which returned. Representative Clinton Robinson of St. Charles surprised the house by rising to declare that the whole business was a species of peanut politics that was taking up more time than it deserved.

The Minnesota members of the Modern Woodmen of America have asked the legislature to pass a law prohibiting the head camp to increase its insurance rates without a referendum which will give the members a chance to pass upon it. A bill to that effect was introduced in the senate by Senator J. W. Pauly of Minneapolis and the house referred it to the committee on general legislation, which will have a hearing on it this afternoon.

House Program to Go Through.

"The house is a compact, united, harmonious body which proposes," said Speaker Dunn to The Herald yesterday afternoon, "to pass its entire program, including gross earnings tax and reapportionment, whatever the senate may do."

Speaker Dunn was one of the most enthusiastic supporters of The Herald's campaign last summer for an extra session to increase the railroad gross earnings tax, and he has been a consistent advocate of reapportionment throughout his term.

The purpose of the resolution introduced in the senate yesterday by Senator Lende of Yellow Medicine county, calling on the governor for a list of the appointments subject to confirmation by the senate which have been made since the last session, is to give the senate a chance to scrutinize some of the selections the governor has made. Particular attention will be called to the appointment of J. W. Nash of Minneapolis as surveyor general of logs and lumber from that district. The appointment was sent to the senate at the regular session, and when an attack was made upon it it was withdrawn. It was made promptly after the senate adjourned. Nash is an Ed Smith appointment, and the anti-Smith Republicans of Minneapolis have been bitterly opposed to his selection. There are, it is understood, a number of other appointments to which exception will be taken by senators.

This is an Eberhart extra session, but obviously it is not an Eberhart legislature that is participating in it.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF ADVERTISING MEN.

The next general meeting of the Duluth Advertising club will be held at the Commercial clubrooms on the evening of June 18. In preparation for this the educational committee of the advertising club held a meeting last night to arrange a program and framed up one that is believed to be of exceptional value. The general subject will be "Retail Advertising" and will consist of the following:

"The Advertising Appropriation," subdivided by the subjects "How I Arrived at It," "How I Divided the Direct and the Indirect Advertising" and "How I Check the Results," by C. L. Pritchett.

"How I Keep Salesmen in Touch With the Advertising Department" will be the subject of E. H. Whalen of the Kelly Furniture company.

W. B. Brinkman will tell "How I Secure the Support of the Department Heads."

"Specialized Advertising Copy" will be dealt with by Felix Siligman of the Columbia Clothing company.

Street car and billboard advertising will be discussed generally. The club will be addressed soon by J. M. Gidding.

VOICE PRAISE OF COLUMBUS

Italian Ambassador Removes Flags From Magnificent Monument.

Washington, June 8.—The United States is paying homage today to the discoverer of America by the unveiling of a magnificent memorial fountain, erected here by congress to Christopher Columbus, the humble Genoese navigator, who opened the portals of this hemisphere to civilization, Christianity and liberty.

Standing at the very door of the nation's capitol, the memorial seemed a gigantic magnet drawing a representative throng from every corner of America. One hundred thousand visitors crowded within the city, according to the estimates of committees conducting the ceremonies. Half of that number are members of the Knights of Columbus, gathered from near and far to give tribute to the patron of their order.

The enthusiasm in Washington today is rivalled only by the inauguration of a president. Imposing unveiling exercises were planned for this afternoon. President Taft is to speak. In recognition of the allegiance of Columbus to the king of Italy, the Marquis Cusani Confalonieri, the Italian ambassador at Washington, was invited to unveil the memorial by releasing two huge American flags, whose folds cling to the granite shaft and marble statue of Columbus surmounting the fountain.

A mammoth pageant was planned to accompany the unveiling ceremonies. Simultaneously with the beginning of the exercises, the parade formed in front of the White House and moved along Pennsylvania avenue.

of the warship quickly had been reversed, but when she was brought to a stop the submarine had disappeared and only a thrashing of the waters showed where the under-the-surface fighter had gone down.

Sixth Such Craft Lost.

The Vendemaire was launched July 7, 1910, and was the ninth vessel of the Pluviose type added to the French navy. She was 167 feet in length with a beam of sixteen feet.

This latest loss to the French navy has caused great distress, not only throughout the service, but among the public generally. No other navy has been so unfortunate in the matter of submarines. The Veldemaire is the sixth craft of this type to be lost by the French. The Pluviose was run down by a channel steamer and lost with her crew of twenty-seven men May 25, 1910.

When the wrecking vessels reached the scene preparations were made for an effort by divers to reach the submarine and attach chains to the rings in her hull, to raise her to the surface.

The La Follette platform will contain a plank opposing ship subsidies. It will denounce political navy yards, and will ask for the creation of an expert commission to investigate and report what is needed in the w· of national defense.

Another plank will oppose the Aldrich currency scheme. This will declare that the Aldrich plan is, in reality, a means of concentration of the currency and the credit of the United States under a fifty-year franchise "into those hands which have already secured control of the banking and insurance resources of the country."

Attacks "Dollar Diplomacy."

Still another plank which is being discussed would denounce the "dollar diplomacy" which "has reduced our state department as a kindly intermediary of defenseless nations into a trading outpost for Wall Street interests, aiming to exploit those who should be our friends."

La Follette's tariff plank will be strong. It will demand an effective tariff commission of experts, with real power to determine the valuation of all the elements of production, cost and profit, and "a reduction of tariff rates to be ascertained between the difference in the cost of labor in this country and abroad."

THIRTY POLICE ARE PUT ON GUARD FOR THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE

More Taft Men Seated.

Taft was given the two delegates from the Third congressional district of Arkansas in the first decision of the national committee today, adding to the eight from that state and the sixteen from Alabama, given him yesterday. The Third district decision was unanimous—51 to 0.

With outward peace hovering over its committee room, and suppressed excitement filling the halls outside, the committee resumed today the hearing of Arkansas delegate contests.

Rumors of an intended protest from the Roosevelt members against some of the actions in yesterday's committee meeting were not borne out in the early part of the session. There were no motions made, and the committee took up the contest hearing at once.

Senator Borah, who has been thus far the spokesman for the anti-Taft forces, was not in the committee room when the roll was called.

Tawney Holds Proxy.

J. A. Tawney of Minnesota was admitted on a proxy.

State Senator William Flinn of Pittsburg, a Roosevelt leader, whose coming was heralded by reports of possible demonstrations in and about the Republican national committee headquarters, arrived today and declared that the rumors which had preceded him were less substantial than thin air.

"I am not here to start a roughhouse. I have no monkey wrench to throw into the steam roller to break its bearings," said Mr. Flinn. "I am here simply to do what little I can to further the nomination of Col. Roosevelt.

"I am so out of touch with political methods that if I got in front of the steam roller I might be crushed myself, so I don't think I will attend any of the sessions of the national committee."

Mr. Flinn declared that whether Col. Roosevelt would come to the convention depended upon circumstances.

As to Roosevelt Bolt.

"If his friends advise him his presence is necessary or desirable, Col. Roosevelt surely will come to Chicago," said Mr. Flinn.

The question of a possible bolt by the Roosevelt men was parried by Mr. Flinn, who said:

"It all depends on the outcome of the contests. If the steam roller crashes along without regard to justice it will be time enough to think of that question."

Warns Roosevelt Away.

Director McKinley from the Taft headquarters issued a statement in which he asserted the presence of Col. Roosevelt would only add to "the majority which Taft will secure."

The Republican national committee was prepared to resume the consideration of contest cases today by taking up the controversy in the Third congressional district of Arkansas. The Third, Fourth, Fifth and Seventh districts, each having two delegates, were involved in the Arkansas contests remaining to be considered.

Delegates from Florida reached the city last night and members of the committee expected that the Florida case would be reached today. No attempt will be made to consider the Fourth California district case until Monday.

Whether William Flinn of Pittsburg, whom Col. Roosevelt has sent to Chicago, will take part in the contest work for the Roosevelt forces was not known when the committee assembled. During the sessions yesterday Ormsby McHarg, the Roosevelt contest manager, was assisted only by local attorneys or delegates from the states where the contestants resided.

Roosevelt forces had agreed that some statement should be made to the committee similar to that with which Senator Borah of Idaho opened the committee meeting yesterday. The decision in the Ninth Alabama case, late yesterday, in which the Roosevelt delegates were turned down, promised to arise again this morning to command the attention of the committee.

Feeling More Intense.

Senator Dixon's statement last night that "the theft was coldblooded, premeditated and deliberate" in this case, had intensified the feeling between the Taft and Roosevelt adherents in the committee.

Several members of the committee urged before the meeting that a motion be made to reconsider this case, so that another test vote might be made upon it. No agreement had been reached to do this, however, up to the hour of the committee meeting.

Allusions in Senator Dixon's statement to an alleged conversation in the committee room between Senator Crane and A. M. Stevenson in which the latter declared the delegates must be given to Taft although "there is no justification for it," also had angered several members of the committee, who threatened to bring it up on the floor of the committee room.

There was an air of excitement about the Coliseum annex as the members of the national committee began to assemble shortly before 10 o'clock. Reports that William Flinn of Pittsburg would enter the meeting with a proxy and that Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota would open the day's proceedings with a protest against anything which might savor of "steam roller methods," invested the opening of the session with unusual interest.

The committee opened at 10:15 without friction. Chairman Rosewater said the Third Arkansas district case would be called at once if there was no other business. No objections met this proposal and the Arkansas attorneys and contestants were invited into the room.

The Third Arkansas district represented another case of two conventions, both held in the same hall, the one appointed for the meeting. The Taft delegates were headed by R. S. Granmer of Eureka Springs, and the Roosevelt delegates by Tom Williams of Rogers.

Criticizes State Committee.

"We are not claiming regularity, as that term is used within the party," said J. A. Comer of Little Rock, opening the contest for the Roosevelt contestants in the Third district, "but we do claim that we represent the majority of the Republicans, as against the minority embraced in the combination known as the Arkansas state central committee.

"As typifying the situation in Arkansas I will point out what happened in Washington county. There the county convention met in response to the call of the regular organization, but when the Taft forces saw they were outnumbered by the Roosevelt men 3 to 1, they resolved themselves into a mass convention and from that time on there were two conventions.

"I apprehend there are few in this room who know how politics is carried on in Arkansas," said Mr. Comer.

Charges Fraud in Meetings.

He declared the chairman of the committee or convention will recognize only his own friends and declare their motions carried, even though the vote was overwhelmingly against them.

"The only way we can overcome that practice is to hold two conventions," said Mr. Comer, "or permit the organization to send delegates whom the people, by a majority of twenty to one, do not want."

He characterized the Arkansas outcome as a "fraud that should not be countenanced by this national committee."

Claimed Regularity.

The "Granger" or Taft delegates rested their case largely upon the regularity of their committee and convention action. R. S. Granger, the head of the delegation, described the various steps whereby the Third district Republicans had called their convention and had proceeded with its conduct.

"We have nothing whatever to cover up," said Mr. Granger.

He said no protests, contests or notices of contests had been filed with the credentials committee of the convention. Further than that, he said, the chairman asked in the convention whether any contests were claimed, but none was forthcoming from any quarter.

Motion By Kellogg.

The Taft delegates were seated unanimously by the committee. As soon as the arguments were ended, Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota moved that the Granger, or Taft, delegation, be placed on the convention roll.

A roll call was asked for by a rising vote of almost the full committee and the Taft delegates were indorsed 51 to 0.

The Fourth Arkansas district contest then was called. This district, comprising eight counties, runs along the western edge of the state.

The Taft delegation was known as the "Spear delegation," the Roosevelt as the "Legate delegation."

In the Fourth district the Roosevelts first filed their credentials with Secretary Hayward and the Taft faction therefore was required to open the arguments before the committee.

Wallace Townsend, who had appeared in the Arkansas cases yesterday, again contended for complete regularity in all proceedings by which the Taft delegates were chosen.

"Back of Livery Stable."

Mr. Townsend called attention to the fact that the four Roosevelt delegates and alternates were from Mena, Ark. None of his associates, he said, had been able to find out where the Roosevelt convention was held but he had heard it was back of a store or a livery stable.

J. A. Comer, for the Roosevelt delegates again charged in the Fourth district case that there was no organization there which represented the Republican party. It was brought out from both sides that no call for the district convention had been issued by a district committee. State Chairman Remmel issued the call under which the Taft district convention was held, but the Roosevelt faction did not recognize their opponents' action under this call and called a convention through their own committee.

All Alabama Taft Men Seated.

Twenty-four delegates from Alabama and Arkansas were added yesterday to the Taft column by the action of the committee upon the so-called Roosevelt contests from those states. All of the contests presented before the committee were decided in Taft's favor, and in all but two the decision of the committee was unanimous, although one roll call test apparently had shown fifteen anti-Taft votes.

The cases decided yesterday were those of the six delegates-at-large and two each in the First, Second, Fifth, Sixth and Ninth congressional districts in Alabama, and the four delegates-at-large and the two each in the First and Second districts of Arkansas.

Kellogg With Roosevelt Men.

The test vote came in the case of the Ninth Alabama district, in which the Taft delegates were seated by a vote of 38 to 15. The 15 were Knight of California, Du Pont of Delaware, Borah of Idaho, Lowden of Illinois, Burnham of Kentucky, Wight of Louisiana (whose vote was cast by E. W. Thilberger), Kellogg of Minnesota, Rosewater of Nebraska, Flanigan of Nebraska (whose proxy was held at that time by Lucius N. Littauer), Ward of New York, Capers of South Carolina, Thorson of South Dakota, Monday of Tennessee, Loose of Utah and Bieber of the District of Columbia. Neither Rosewater nor Lowden voted yesterday with the anti-Taft people in the test then recorded.

An incident of the day was the rejection by unanimous vote in the brief of J. A. Comer of Little Rock in the Arkansas delegates-at-large case on the ground that it contained "indecent and insulting language." Members of the committee said later that proper regard must be shown for the dignity of the court by which these cases were being heard.

Dixon Roasts Committee.

Senator Dixon at the Roosevelt headquarters issued a statement last night excoriating members of the national committee:

"Until the roll was called on the Ninth Alabama district," the statement says, "I was not prepared to believe that a majority of the national committee was prepared deliberately to murder the Republican party.

"The nation might as well know is no justification in fact, but if we roll was called on this contest, Senator Murray Crane of Massachusetts walked over to Mr. Stevenson of Colorado, who holds the proxy of Senator Scott of West Virginia, and said to him:

"'We simply cannot afford to go on record in this case against seating the Roosevelt delegates; the case is so plain, the country will not stand for it.'

"Mr. Stevenson replied:

"'We have to do it. Of course, there have to yield in other cases.'

Cold-blooded Theft.

"The theft was cold-blooded, premeditated and deliberate. With the record of the roll call of the Ninth Alabama congressional district, I now deliberately charge that a majority of the national committee, in violation of their sacred trust as trustees of the Republican party, in fear and hatred of Theodore Roosevelt, have entered into an agreement among themselves to unseat all and every Roosevelt delegate, regardless of right.

"In his bitterness at being repudiated by the Republican voters, Mr. Taft has now determined, if possible, to wreck the party rather than permit it to win with Col. Roosevelt as its candidate. But the national committee is not the national convention, as will be seen."

Mr. Stevenson denied the conversation attributed to him and W. Murray Crane anent the Ninth Alabama delegation, and said he would demand that it be made right.

California Furnishes Fight.

A contest filed in the Fourth California district, if developed, is intended to affect the entire delegations from California, Oregon and North Dakota, involving forty-six delegates. Among the delegates involved are the two "suffragettes" from California, pledged to Roosevelt.

The contest, which assails the legality of the state's primary law on the ground that its provisions are not in harmony with the rules laid down for the election of delegates in the official call of the national committee, directly affects Roosevelt, who carried California and Oregon, and La Follette, who was victorious in North Dakota.

The question at issue is the right of the state to enact a law, making the state rather than the district the unit in the election of delegates to a national convention.

Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university; Senator Elihu Root and Senator Theodore F. Burton are mentioned as among those likely to be selected to draft the Taft platform.

The Roosevelt platform, it is said, will give consideration to the trust problem and be prepared in a large part by the colonel himself.

Child Impaled on Pole.

Wadena, Minn., June 8.—Mary Kluenenburg, the 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kluenenburg of Bluffton village, was frightfully injured while at play Tuesday afternoon when the end of a bamboo fih pole pierced her body, causing injuries from which she may die.

FIND MISSING BOY'S BODY NEAR OWATONNA.

Owatonna, Minn., June 8.—The body of Clarence Shadbolt, 11 years old, an inmate of the state public school in this city, who has been missing since the afternoon of May 30, was found in a ditch about a mile west of here by some section men Thursday morning. The body had apparently been in the water for several days.

G. A. Merrill, superintendent of the school, said that as far as he knew the boy had no living relatives. He had been an inmate for three years, having been sent here from Minneapolis at the death of his mother.

CARD INDEX RECORD OF ALL SCHOOL CHILDREN KEPT

A new plan for keeping the record of every school child in the country is advocated in a circular that is being distributed by the United States Bureau of Education. The plan was worked out by a committee of investigators appointed by the bureau and has the indorsement of the officers of the National Education association. The record of each child according to this plan is to be kept on a separate card, and the cards of each school kept alphabetically.

Over 300 cites in the United States have begun to keep such cards in their public schools and among these cities is Duluth. The card is to follow the pupil as long as he goes to school, whether he is transferred from school to school in the same city or in different cites. Accurate records of the school history of millions of pupils will thus be kept and will always be available for reference.

Among the various entries on the card are the following: Age of child, date of admission to school, grade, days present, health, conduct, scholarship, place of birth, vaccination and name and occupation of parent or guardian.

The cards can be used also to obtain accurate statistical information in regard to individual schools, and the school of any particular city. The cards will show how many backward, average or retarded children there are in a certain city's school, how this showing compares with that of other cities, how foreign birth affects progress, whether kindergarten training helps a child through the grades, how absence from school affects progress and the like.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF TRADE

New York, June 8.—R. G. Dunn & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade today says: The quickened movement of trade is clearly revealed by the statistics of bank clearings, railroad earnings and pig iron production. On the other hand, in number of defaults and amount of liabilities the May record of commercial failures, while better as compared with previous months of this year, was unfavorable as compared with corresponding months in most of the preceding years. The advices from the iron and steel trade constitute the most encouraging feature of the industrial situation. There was a remarkable production of pig iron during May and with the prospect of adequate crops the reasonable outlook is for a high water mark activity this year in this great basic industry with an advance in prices not unlikely. Undoubtedly business sentiment and business enterprise are still held in check by solicitude regarding the growing crops and the pending economic controversies, but they are not standing idle by any means, but profiting by the wonderful expansion in the iron and steel trade, the advance in copper and the improvement in the condition of the textile industries, they plainly display a desire to forge ahead rapidly as opportunity presents itself. A shortage of labor is reported in the Connellsville coke and iron region.

The markets for drygoods jobbers and retailers are fairly active, improved weather conditions having assisted distribution and stimulated the demand for goods for immediate consumption. Cotton goods at first hands are rather dull, but large shipments were made on old orders. More wash goods and summer merchandise are going into consumption and while export business is quiet for the moment, shipments continue heavy. Fine cloths are quiet and dress ginghams dull, but staple ginghams are in fair demand; duck holds steady and colored cottons are firm. The cotton yarn markets are quiet and prices easier, but worsted yarn spinners are busy on sample lines for a new season. Fall orders are coming in slowly for brond silks, but new lines of tie silks are attracting much attention.

Trade in seasonable footwear continues to improve and many new orders are booked, but fall and winter contracts are backward, owing chiefly to the question of price and some manufacturers lack new business. Pronounced strength continues in all descriptions of sole and upper leather, but the market is generally inactive.

REJECT JAIL BIDS.

Cloquet May Take Over Old School for City Lockup.

Cloquet, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council rejected all eight bids for the proposed new city jail, city hall and office building.

The city band, recently organized, asked the council for city help. Aldermen Danielson, Nelson and Mattinnen were appointed a committee to secure a competent city engineer.

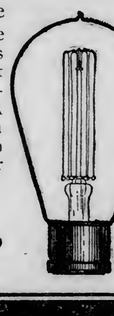

At a meeting of citizens the matter of purchasing the old Washington school building and converting it into a city building, to include jail room, was discussed. It was the general sentiment that the building as it stands is not suitable for such a purpose, but that the site is very desirable. A vote was taken and stood 3 to 1 in favor of securing the location for city jail and hall purposes. The rejection of all jail bids Thursday evening would look as though the wishes of the taxpayers may in some manner be considered and the new building be allowed to occupy the Washington site, which is in the heart of the business section and is no longer suitable for public school purposes.

500 SHARES IN AN IRON MINING FEE AT $1.50 PER SHARE

Lake Investment company is capitalized at $100,000, dollar shares. It owns one-fourth in 82.75 acres, which is part of the Kennedy iron mine at Cuyuna, which shipped 147,000 tons last year and will ship about 300,000 tons this season. The Lake Investment company also owns one-quarter in 200 acres of proved ore lands adjoining the Kennedy mine. The 82.75 acres were leased to the Rogers-Brown Ore company July 29, 1908, for fifty years, on a royalty of 25 cents per ton, with a minimum of 20,000 tons the first three years and 40,000 tons thereafter. Royalties have been paid regularly every three months on this lease. The Rogers-Brown Ore company has spent more than half a million dollars in developing and equipping the Kennedy mine.

Lake Investment company paid last year 2-6 per cent dividends and is expected to pay considerably in excess of that amount this year. The 200 acres adjoining the Kennedy mine in which Lake Investment owns one-fourth are being held for a higher royalty. With these 200 acres under lease, dividends will be largely increased. Under all the circumstances these shares are an absolutely safe investment, bound to pay big dividends for the next fifty years.

A year ago I sold 1,000 shares of this stock at $3 per share. Lake Investment shares are held in about a dozen hands—men who own the fee—and none has been offered to the public. The 500 shares for sale belong to a man having considerable holdings on the Cuyuna iron range who has to sacrifice some of his shares to make a payment on other property. In the Kennedy mine, in addition to the 82.75 acres described, are about 90 acres, the fee in which is held by George H. Crosby, William Harrison and others.

KERN SPEAKS THREE HOURS

Is Ready to Conclude His Attack on Senator Lorimer.

Illinois Man Himself Questions Speaker as to the Evidence.

Washington, June 8.—Senator Kern of Indiana will conclude his Lorimer speech today. Yesterday afternoon he spoke three hours in support of the resolution to unseat Mr. Lorimer of Illinois, but again failed to conclude his remarks. The speech was devoted to an examination of the testimony with the view of showing that many new facts of an incriminating nature had been brought out by the second investigation. He sought, among other things, to impeach the testimony of Edward Hines, attempting to show that he had been unduly active in Mr. Lorimer's behalf.

Mr. Kern declared that many members of the Illinois legislature, including Senator Holtslaw and Charles A. White, had received large sums about the time that money in the interests of Lorimer is alleged to have been used. He analyzed the testimony of various Democratic members of the Illinois legislature.

Poor Man Had Wealth.

He said that notwithstanding William C. Blair was known to be impecunious, he had exhibited a number of hundred-dollar bills after a visit to Thomas Tippit, a Lorimer supporter, and he "pooh-poohed" the claim of John H. Dewolf that he had gotten $600, used for the purchase of a piece of land, from a family Bible.

He also declared it suspicious that so many members of the legislature hired safety deposit boxes soon after the Lorimer election.

Senator Kern contended that all doubt had been removed from the confession of Senator Holtslaw to the effect that he had received money from Senator Broderick for voting for Lorimer. Charles A. White, the Democratic member of the house, whose confession was the basis of the double Lorimer inquiry, Senator Kern said, was not as black as he had been pictured.

Mr. Kern undertook to show White's connection with Lorimer and Browne by quoting from Browne, promising employment for White through Lorimer, a promise, which he said was made to placate White.

Questioned by Lorimer.

"Will the senator indicate in what part of the record he finds any suggestion that Lorimer was trying to placate White?" Mr. Lorimer asked, speaking of himself in the third person.

Mr. Kern replied that this was shown by the correspondence in which it appeared that Mr. Browne had promised a federal place and had actually obtained a place in Cook county for White through Mr. Lorimer.

"Would you have the senate understand that a senator's effort to obtain a position for a member of the legislature who had voted for him is an evidence of corruption?" the accused senator asked.

"Standing by itself, no; taken in connection with a thousand other circumstances, yes," Mr. Kern replied.

JOKE PROVED A BOOMERANG

William Kennedy, would-be joker, can hardly qualify. In his latest attempt to perpetrate a joke on another member of the species his merry jest developed boomerang qualities.

William was in police court yesterday to explain the situation and he had to explain hard too, for he was charged with grand larceny as a result of giving his keen sense of humor free play. The specific charge was that he had stolen a watch from one Tom McCarthy. Tom is Irish and the members of that race are supposed to see the point about as quickly as anybody, but this time so far as "Mac" is concerned the point got by him. William got out of it all right, the court declaring him not guilty and ordering his discharge but adding that he does not believe the men involved free from suspicion.

Kennedy told the court that while drinking with McCarthy in a West Superior street saloon last Saturday night he took McCarthy's watch as a joke, did not deny to McCarthy that he had it when asked about it and merely wished to bother the complainant. Several other men who were put on the stand said that they were present and that Kennedy told them what he was going to do it "for the fun of the thing." McCarthy, however, took the matter seriously and told the police. Kennedy was arrested on Wednesday as he stepped from a Fond du Lac train and his room was searched. The watch could not be found then, but later was found in Kennedy's overcoat.

Kennedy will likely confine his frivolity hereafter to the more subtle lines of humor.

GOOD BOOSTER FOR ZENITH CITY

Only Democratic Speaker of Minnesota House Praises Duluth.

E. T. Champlin of Vernon Center, Blue Earth county, is one of the delegates to the Democratic convention, who remained over in Duluth yesterday. Mr. Champlin is charmed with Duluth.

"I do not believe there is anything in a city in the Middle West which compares to the magnificence of the boulevard drive here," said Mr. Champlin. "I have often been told that there was nothing artistic in Duluth—nothing that appealed to the sense of the beautiful. Whenever I hear that again, I shall deny it most emphatically. Duluth is beautiful; its boulevard drive is beautiful; its parks are beautiful; its residences are beautiful. Nobody can tell me again without contradiction that Duluth has nothing artistic in it."

Mr. Champlin has the distinction of being the only Democrat ever to have held the speakership of the house of representatives in Minnesota. In 1891 the Democrats and Alliance men, who were in control of the legislature, agreed on Mr. Champlin as speaker and elected him. In all the other years of Minnesota's history, Republicans have presided over the house.

Mr. Champlin is a veteran Democrat. He came to Minnesota forty-seven years ago and has been prominent in Democratic politics for many years. He is for Clark this year, but says he submits gracefully to the rule of the majority in Minnesota, and has no quarrel to make with the victory of Wilson.

YEOMEN HAVE SOCIAL GATHERING

Duluth Homestead Host to State and District Officers.

There was a large attendance at the regular open meeting of Duluth Homestead, No. 3131, Brotherhood of American Yeomen, held last evening. A very interesting program was given and was very much enjoyed following which refreshments were served. Addresses were made during the evening by J. A. Bellmeur, manager of the Duluth district, P. F. Harruff, manager of the Two Harbors district, J. C. Wesenberg of Duluth, and J. H. Murphy of Owatonna, State manager. A most pleasant closing feature of Mr. Murphy's address was the presenting of handsome leather policy cases to J. C. Wesenberg and J. A. Bellmeur as tokens of the splendid work which they have done for the order. Burt W. Longwell, foreman of the Duluth Homestead, presided.

The musical program consisted of several numbers by the Jackson orchestra, a vocal solo by Mrs. Bergstrom, a piano solo by Miss Lois Wesenberg, a piano duet by Misses Lillian Potter and Longfield, and recitations by Misses Elener Trewartha and Margaret Wesenberg and by Clarence Barber.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Auld of Bellingham, Wash., and Mrs. Josephine Stille of St. Paul, were out-of-town visitors.

Ashland to Play Hurley.

Ashland, Wis., June 8.—The Ashland ball club Sunday will play the Hurley "Miners." Hurley has played two games with Ironwood this season, winning the first 2 to 0 and losing last Sunday's game by a score of 3 to 2.

HARDWOOD LUMBER ASSOCIATION ELECTS.

Chicago, June 8.—The National Hardwood Lumber association concluded its fifteenth annual business meeting here last night by electing the following officers: President, Charles H. Barnaby, Greencastle, Ind.; vice presidents, Orson F. Yaeger, Buffalo; J. V. Stimson, Huntington, Ind., and James M. Card, Chattanooga, Tenn.; secretary-treasurer, Frank Fish, Chicago.

F. C. Peixotto Critically Ill.

Oakland, Cal., June 8.—Ernest Clifford Peixotto, the American painter and illustrator, is critically ill here of an obscure tropical fever which he contracted this spring on an extended trip through Central and South America.

Mrs. Vest Felt Like Crying

Wallace, Va.—Mrs. Mary Vest, of this place, says, "I hadn't been very well for three years, and at last I was taken bad. I could not stand on my feet, I had such pains. I ached all over. I felt like crying all the time. Mother insisted on my trying Cardui. Now I feel well, and do nearly all my housework." No medicine for weak and ailing women, has been so successful as Cardui. It goes to the spot, relieving pain and distress, and building up womanly strength, in a way that will surely please you. Only try it once.

FIVE SUGGESTED TO HEAD PROHIBITIONISTS.

Chicago, June 7.—Some delegates already are elected to the Prohibition national convention, additional delegates are being elected daily and preparations for the quadrennial gathering are under way, it is announced by National Chairman Charles R. Jones. There will be 1,484 delegates voting at the gathering in Atlantic City on July 10, and the sessions are expected to continue for three days.

Booms of candidates for nomination for president on the Prohibitin ticket are appearing, among those frequently named being Francis E. Baldwin of New York, Eugene W. Chafin of Arizona, Col. Andrew Jackson of Texas Madison F. Larkin of Pennsylvania and Dr. Aaron S. Watkins of Ohio.

ST. PAUL IS FOURTH IN POSTAL DEPOSITS.

Washington, June 8.—Statistics just made public by Postmaster General Hitchcock shows that $7,035,565, or a trifle more than two-fifth of the postal savings deposits in the country have been made in thirty-three cities, having a poulation of 150,000 or more each.

New York city and Chicago, which rank first and second in poulation, occupy the same rank in total postal deposits. The ten leading offices, with the amount on deposit at each, are: New York, $976,749; Chicago, $951,668; Portland, Or., $443,166; St. Paul, $411,926; San Francisco, $295,904; Cincinnati, $367,622; Brooklyn, $348,190; Boston, $322,824; Kansas City, $400,717, and Los Angeles, $255,461.

TARIFF BOARD FUNDS DENIED BY HOUSE.

Washington, June 8.—The house voted 72 to 47 not to include in the sundry civil appropriation bill the money necessary to continue President Taft's tariff board during the coming fiscal year. The vote was preceded by a debate that grew acrimonious at times and was strictly along party lines.

CONGRESS MAY RECESS OVER CONVENTIONS.

Washington, June 8.—A series of three-day recesses of the senate during the two weeks to be covered by the Republican and Democratic conventions is probable. Conferences have been held among the leaders of both sides of the senate chamber, and general acquiescence in the desirability of such a course was apparent.

KILLS WIFE, WOUNDS HER AFFINITY AND FLEES.

Chicago, June 8.—Richard Riccio visited his sister's home last night, and found there his wife and an alleged affinity. He shot and killed his wife, shot the other man through the hand and then fled with the wounded man. The shooting followed a separation of the pair after charges of infidelity had been made by the husband against his wife.

To Build Dickinson Elks Home.

Dickinson, N. D., June 8.—The Heaton Lumber company of this city has been awarded the contract for erecting the three-story Elk home in Dickinson, which is to cost $75,000. The foundation was laid last fall and the superstructure will be started as soon as material can be placed on the ground.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

Activities of Other Municipalities, Which Might or Might Not Be Copied in Duluth.

ON account of the few cases of meningitis at Justin, Tex. which is only eight miles west of Roanoke, the mayor of Roanoke issued a proclamation that every citizen of the town must make a thorough cleanup of his premises. As a result a day was set apart for this and every one got busy and worked all day like Trojans, giving Roanoke the best cleaning she has ever experienced. The meningitis scare has all subsided and people that were afraid to travel on trains are going as usual.

Duluth is becoming actually the city aesthetic in the way of cleanliness, and has required no meningitis scare to cause clean-ups. The Zenith City has for years made a feature of keeping the premises of private individuals, not only in the front but in the back as well, and even the basements of flats and stores are absolutely free from refuse. That the authorities of the health department have always taken pains to see that streets and alleys are kept untrammeled by filth and other obstructions has been the occasion of remark by many visitors and has made a deep impression. Duluth does not wait for a disease scare—she anticipates it. This week two days were devoted to the work.

TRAFFIC COMMISSION OFFERS ITS AID FREE TO SHIPPERS

The traffic commission of the Duluth Commercial club has issued another bulletin to merchants in Duluth trade territory. It explains the methods of making claims against railroads, and proffers assistance in making claims and collecting them. The bulletin follows:

"Duluth, the gateway market, desires to help its customers in all their railroad relations. Claims on railroads frequently arise. We can show you how to present them for early settlement.

What to Do.

"When shipments reach you in bad order, or short, have the railroad agent examine the goods and write 'Received in bad order' on the face of the freight bill and what the loss or damage is. Then make a claim against the railroad company for the loss or damage.

Overcharges.

"If a shipment is overcharged in weight, rate or classification, have the railroad agent correct the bill before you pay it. If he won't do it, write your jobber in Duluth about it, and he will have the billing corrected.

How to Make Claims.

"A claim against a railroad company is simply a bill for the amount due, the same as a bill against a customer for goods. Claims should show how the amount asked for is made up, with the number of the railroad tariff, or classification, in which the rates or classification claimed is printed or published. The railroad agent should be able to give you this information. If he can't, write your jobber in Duluth for it.

Proof.

"The following documents should be attached to your claims:

"(a) Original bill of lading.

"(b) Original paid freight bill.

"(c) Original invoice for the goods or a certified copy of it.

"If for any reason, any of these papers cannot be furnished, you should state why. Keep a copy of your claim and copies of all letters written by you about it.

"The railroad companies keep account of claims by the claim numbers. When you make a claim the railroad company will give you the number of it. Keep the number and mention it in your letters if you should write to anyone about it.

"Many of the delays in paying claims are caused by carelessness in making them. You can hurry payment by following the rules shown above.

"When in doubt, write to your jobber in Duluth or to the traffic commission, Commercial club, Duluth, Minn. They will be glad to help you free of charge."

It Takes More Than a Sign Over the Door to Make a Dry Cleaning Department.

It takes experience, it takes carefulness and it takes expensive equipment to properly do French dry cleaning work. Many a handsome garment has been ruined by putting it in the hands of inexperienced, incompetent people. You ought to be extremely careful as to the sanitary conditions of the place to which you send your garment. A place that is not kept clean cannot return clean garments to you. The Yale laundry French dry cleaning department plant is equipped with all the best facilities to do your work. A pre-summer rush in that direction has come, in both men's and women's wear, and more than 20 people are now employed in this department. Their motto is to do the clean thing.

SCOLDED MAN SHOOTS WIFE

Chicago, June 8.—William Haller, a carpenter, shot his wife through both cheeks today because she chided him for staying out until 1 a. m. He then sent a bullet into his forehead and died instantly.

Mrs. Haller, who is 28 years old, was unconscious when the police arrived and took her to a hospital. The physicians there said that each of her cheeks had been perforated by the same missile.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

It is planned to establish in the Manual training building this summer, courses in art, domestic science, and manual training. Competent instructors will be secured to take charge of the classes and a large number of students have expressed their intention of enrolling in the courses.

The "Zenith" will make its appearance Tuesday afternoon. All the students who hold the Zenith slips will be given a book and the general sale will not be held until all of the outstanding certificates have been honored. The students are anxiously awaiting the distribution of the annuals and the excitement relative to the occasion is very pronounced.

The members of the three lower classes will be required to report for the regular daily routine on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. A vacation, however, will be given the students on Thursday, and all the classes are scheduled to report for the last chapel which will be held at 10 o'clock Friday morning in the Assembly hall. A special program has been arranged which will include among other things the farewell addresses of the class presidents. As is customary many visitors including a large number of alumni will attend these last services preparatory to the official closing of the school for the year.

The members of the base ball teams left this morning for Hibbing at which place they will contest with the high school nine of that enterprising town for the championship of Northern Minnesota. Although having been handicapped by a rather late start, which was occasioned by the vagaries of the weather dispenser, Central's representatives have been playing very consistent ball, and with the line-up that beat Virginia last Saturday practically intact, the team should make a strong bid for the championship. Those who made the trip are: Mars, Watkins, K. Harris, Hutchings, Ward Brown, captain; Wasgatt, E. Harris, Duclett, Elder and Owens.

The final examination on the physics work of the second semester was given to the classes in this subject at the close of school Wednesday afternoon in the assembly hall. Owing to the absence of Prof. T. F. Phillips, head of the physical department, who was unexpectedly called out of town Tuesday, the examination was conducted by Principal Young.

The drawing of lots for the seats in the assembly hall for class night was indulged in by the graduates immediately following the close of school Thursday afternoon. This novel, but effective distribution of seats for the commencement exercises was conducted by Principal Leonard Young and Miss Margaret Taylor.

The senior girls who will appear in the class night play, "Coming Events Cast Their Shadows Before," have been rehearsing their several parts daily under the direction of A. F. M. Custance.

The boys who have parts in the sketch met for practice with Mr. Custance in the music room Wednesday afternoon.

At the special meeting of the junior class which was held in the assembly hall Tuesday afternoon, Principal Young was present and spoke to the students regarding their part in the class night exercises. Mr. Young announced that several rehearsals of the songs and other features of the program which has been especially arranged for the occasion by A. F. M. Custance, would be held in the music room and he urged the juniors to put forth their best efforts toward the support of the exercises by as many as possible taking part. Arrangements relative to the junior-senior dance, which will be given Thursday evening, were discussed and the chairman of the committee in charge of the function gave a short report of the work already completed. The members decided to choose the editor of the 1913 Zenith and a vote was taken resulting in the election to this important office, of Lawrence Dow, who had charge of the junior section in this year's publication.

With the close of school yesterday afternoon the grind of the seniors was finished. The fourth year students have been unusually busy during the past week in preparation for the final examinations and the close of school. All of the senior exams were finished yesterday and the graduates will not be asked to report for regular work next week.

the Reeves Coal company as those who originally offered to sell coal to the city of Two Harbors, but later refused.

Allegations have been made that the coal companies refused to sell to the municipality, which was to sell it to consumers in the city of Two Harbors at cost, and that by reason of this refusal they were operating in restraint of trade. The resolution reads as follows:

"The commissioner of corporations is directed to make an investigation to determine whether the said city of Two Harbors was and is prevented from purchasing coal in wholesale quantities by an agreement, understanding or conspiracy by and between companies, persons or partnerships engaged in the coal business and in interstate commerce, and to determine whether any such companies have committed acts in restraint of trade.

GROSS EARNINGS BILL DISCUSSED IN HOUSE AND PASSAGE DELAYED

to the attorney general's office to get a written opinion answering the objections. Criticism was directed chiefly to the feature which includes under taxable earnings railroad receipts from other than operating sources—such as dividends on express company and other stock. It was urged, first, that this was a discrimination against Minnesota railroad corporations because it could not be made to apply to foreign railroad corporations competing with them in this state; and, second, that it could be used as a basis for a railroad fight on the constitutionality of the measure.

Representative Lennon wanted to cut out this feature and make it a straight 5 per cent gross earnings tax bill, allowing the 1911 law which enlarged the scope of the earnings taxes to go also to the people separately.

Representative Rines pointed out that this would produce, if both bills were ratified by the people, two laws, one taxing gross earnings at 5 per cent and the other at 4 per cent. Which, he asked, would be the law?

Representative Washburn asked Representative Spooner's opinion on the legal question, and Representative Spooner asked that the matter go over to this afternoon.

There was no difficulty about making the bill a special order. The committee's report recommending this move was adopted unanimously. The Democrats of the house caucused this morning and agreed to support the bill. Representative Lydiard of Minneapolis moved the recommit the bill to the committee, but Speaker Dunn overruled this as a dilatory motion.

Senate on Primary Bill.

The senate spent the forenoon in committee of the whole considering the proposed amendments to the state-wide primary bill. None of them have been passed upon yet, and it is unlikely that any will be until next week.

Representative Moriarity tried to get the rules suspended to get in a bill restoring capital punishment in this state, but failed by a vote of 34 for and 64 against.

Representative Kunze introduced a resolution to the effect that since there had been criticism of the quantity and character of the supplies at the last session, a committee investigate and report. The resolution went over to Monday.

Representative Hopkins introduced a joke resolution taking note of the fact that instead of binders the members are keeping their files together with shoe strings, and in the interest of economy proposed that binding twine from the state prison plant be used instead.

Representative Kunze introduced a bill providing for the non-partisan nomination and election of county school superintendents, and Representative Lydiard of Minneapolis offered a corrupt practices bill based on the Wisconsin law.

The Minneapolis city council, in a communication received this morning, asked that the legislature consider the effect of the second choice primary on its equipment of voting machines.

Representative C. R. Fowler of Minneapolis said this morning: "Whatever may be said of the action of the Minneapolis senators in agreeing to a plan to exclude reapportionment, it is not true of the house members. We are for reapportionment first, last and all the time, and I shall work for it and fight for it as hard as though the senate were known to be favorable to it."

* * *

The senate committee on the reception of bills today will report out the two proposed constitutional amendments providing for an income tax and the direct election of United States senators.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

GRAND FORKS OFFICIALS CHARGED WITH CONTEMPT.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the second time in ten days contempt proceedings were instituted against officials of Grand Forks yesterday. They are charged wiah disobeying the mandate of the district court of Grand Forks, which court ordered that certain proceedings relative to assessing property, involved in an extension plan, should be discontinued and abandoned.

OLE OLSSEN TO BE CITED

It is expected that when the city council meets on Monday night a resolution will be introduced citing Ole Olssen, a saloon-keeper at 202 St. Croix avenue, to appear and show cause why his license should not be revoked. This will be the result of a case that was in police court a short time ago in which a man claimed that he was beaten up by Olssen, and in which it developed that women of ill-repute were present in the saloon. Action was expected last Monday night but nothing happened. However, it is likely that a resolution will be introduced at the next meeting.

The resolution introduced at the last meeting of the council by Alderman Phillips condemning the act of a federal judge in Seattle in denying naturalization papers to a man out there because he declared himself a Socialist, will not come up with a report from the committee on ordinances and resolutions on Monday night. City Clerk Palmer has written to the city clerk of Seattle to get the facts and the committee on ordinances and resolutions will not act until a reply has been received.

It is quite likely that a resolution will be introduced to begin condemnation proceedings to extend Raleigh street, West Duluth, from Central avenue to Fiftieth avenue west, a distance of five blocks. A new coal dock is soon to be built east of the Zenith Furnace company by the Island Lake Coal company, and unless a street is opened, men working at the dock and teams hauling there will have to take a circuitous route to reach it.

A large number of applications for liquor licenses will be presented to the council on Monday night. Quite a number are in now but many others are expected on Monday. Between sixty-five and seventy licenses will expire on July 1, and for these application must be made by Monday to get them through in time.

EXCURSION SEASON OPENS

Clow & Nicholson Boats to Make Trips to Fond du Lac.

The 1912 excursion season will begin tomorrow.

The steamer Easton of the Booth line will make two trips to Two Harbors and the steel excursion boat, Columbia, of the Clow & Nicholson line will resume trips to Fond du Lac, considered by many the most delightful outing point at the Head of the Lakes.

Capt. H. D. Clow has had the Columbia remodeled and refitted. It is now one of the best excursion boats on the Great Lakes. The steamer Plowboy will make a trip to Fond du Lac tomorrow, leaving the dock at the foot of Twenty-first avenue west at 9 a. m. This trip has been planned for West end people.

Paul's Peerless brass band will furnish music on the Fond du Lac line boats again this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Strupp, for a number of years at the White City, Chicago, have taken charge of the restaurant at Chamber's grove, Fond du Lac.

No rowdyism will be tolerated on the boats or at the grove this year, the transportation company having arranged for extra police protection.

BOSTON HAS NO CARS ALL NIGHT

Boston, June 8.—After a night of complete suspension of street railway traffic as a result of a strike of several thousand employes, the Boston Elevated Railway company resumed operations on all surface, elevated and tunnel lines today, but the number of cars in operation was noticeably much less than usual. During the early hours no serious disorder was reported.

Lucky Candidate Marries.

Aberdeen, S. D., June 8.—Following on the heels of his nomination for state senate at the Republican primaries in which he received the highest majority of any of the successful Republican candidates, Representative J. L. Browne proved he was as successful in love as in politics, as he was married Thursday to Miss Elizabeth Clary, until recently instructor in mathematics at the normal and industrial school here.

PLAYS COMEDY AS MOTHER LIES DEAD

Lincoln, Neb., June 8.—While the body of her mother lay in its casket at the home of her sister in this city, Miss Verna Coleman, a senior at the state university, carried with marked success a leading part in the annual class play, "Midsummer Night's Dream," last night.

Her mother died suddenly Thursday night. It was too late for a substitute to be provided for Miss Coleman, and friends prevailed upon her to continue in the part. When the play ended the young woman's fortitude gave way, while behind the scenes in the playhouse a score of her classmates sobbed in sympathy.

PASTOR HELD AS MURDERER

New Sweden, Me., June 8.—On a charge of murder the Rev. Charles Lmelius, a Lutheran minister, was arrested here today. He is accused of having killed his father-in-law, Edgar Jacobson, on June 12, 1911. The local authorities at the time pronounced Jacobson's death a case of suicide, but representatives of the attorney general's office maintain that he was murdered.

RAILROADS

FINE TRAIN FOR TRADE EXCURSION

The Great Northern railroad has notified the wholesalers' committee of the Commercial club that one of the finest trains in its equipment will be furnished for the trade excursion over the ranges next week.

The train will conist of four sleepers, two diners, a buffet car, one day coach and a baggage car. The train will be electric lighted throughout and the equipment will be the best the company has. Special attention will be paid to the dining car service and the travelers will live in style.

Arrangements have been made for a big pike dinner Tuesday evening, the pike being obtained from Vermilion lake at Tower.

TO PUSH MONTANA WORK.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 8.—Winston Brothers have been awarded the contract for the construction of seventy-one miles of road for the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound line, between Lewistown and Great Falls, Mont. The work is to be rushed and, with other work in the same territory under way, 5,000 men will soon be employed, according to a Western estimate. The Winston contract is part of 140 miles that the Milwaukee will build to connect the two Montana towns, Twohy Brothers of Spokane having the contract for the Lewistown end and Winston Brothers the Great Falls end.

CLASS RATE ADVANCE IN NORTHWEST HELD UP.

Washington, June 8.—An advance in class freight rates by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway in the states of North Dakota, South Dakota and Iowa ranging from ½ cent to 19 cents a hundred pounds, has been suspended by the interstate commerce commission until Oct. 8 next. Protests received from shippers induced the commission to order an investigation of the proposed increases.

STUB ROO TONIC!

E. A. JOHNSON.

Manufacturer Stub Roo Tonic.

Stub Roo Medical Co., Duluth, Minn., Gentlemen: I think it's my duty to write and thank you for the good results I have received from the treatment of your Stub Roo Antiseptic Lotion. The eighteenth of February, 1907, I used your remedy for my sore leg while I have suffered for eighteen long years; and never could get cured, but after I began with the Stub Roo Antiseptic Lotion I could feel a difference from all the medicines I have used before. I had an ulcer, which was slow to heal, but broke open from time to time. It was never healed until I began with the Stub Roo Lotion, but with seven months' treatment I was completely cured. During these long years I suffered enough to be in my grave. Many a restless night I had to sit and lift my limb from place to place, it burned and pained me so. I worried from morning till night about my leg and thought my suffering would never come to an end, but this is all over now, thanks to the Stub Roo remedies and the good and careful treatment I have received. It is four years since the Stub Roo remedies cured my sores and cleaned my blood, and from that time I have felt happy and have been able to enjoy the comfort of life. I cannot express my thanks too much, for it certainly has done good work towards my health; more than any other remedy has done. This is the truth and heartful statement and thanks to the Stub Roo Lotion and blood purifier which I now believe are the best remedies for the blood and also skin diseases. I have recommended the medicine to many for different skin diseases and I know they are all well. My sister has used the same remedy, and her children, they got well. A gentleman in the town I lived has doctored for a frozen foot and the doctors told him he would have to go under an operation and I heard of it and I told him to see you and get cured. He did so and you saved his toes. This is the truth and nothing but the truth. As we all have strong beliefs in your remedies as it has never known to fail.

Respectfully yours,

PANDEMONIUM AT DARROW'S TRIAL

Judge, Witness and Four Lawyers All Talk at the Same Time.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 8.—Pandemonium reigned for a time at the bribery trial of Clarence S. Darrow soon after the trial was resumed today when four attorneys, the judge and the witnesses were trying to make themselves heard at the same time.

Bert H. Franklin, the state's witness, was on the stand undergoing severe cross-examination by Attorney Appel of the defense, and had given a sharp retort.

Judge Hutton, addressing the witness, informed him that his remarks and language were improper. Assistant District Attorney Ford interrupted the court, saying he took exception to the court's remarks.

Rogers and Appel of the defense and District Attorney Fredericks joined the attorney, above the din of which could be heard the voice of the witness endeavoring to assure the court he meant no offense to counsel.

Judge Hutton finally quieted the uproar, saying the court was perfectly able to control the situation.

Franklin, who was formerly the chief detective of the McNamara defense, first took the stand on May 28 and has been under examination almost continuously since that date.

YOUNG CULPRIT RELEASED BY JUVENILE COURT.

John Fashingbauer, the 16-year-old boy who was implicated with Larry Wilkes in a purse snatching episode last Tuesday, was today in juvenile court permitted to go home with his mother. Mrs. Fashingbauer arrived this morning from St. Paul, having heard of her young son's trouble, and when Judge Ensign sat in juvenile court she pleaded her boy's case. She told the court that he had always been a good boy, never been in trouble, and that it was only the undue influence exercised over him by Wilkes that caused him to come here and get mixed up in the crime. After the court let the boy go the mother took her son downtown and fitted him out in new clothes.

Wilkes has asked permission to plead guilty and get his sentence without having to wait for the meeting of the grand jury. This will likely be granted and he will probably be arraigned in district court to enter his plea early next week. The charge is grand larceny in the second degree.

MARINE

RECORD FOR DEPARTURES

Nearly Fifty Boats Clear From Harbor in Twelve Hours.

Lumber and Ore Shipments Promise to Make New Mark.

Nearly fifty boats left the Duluth-Superior harbor in twelve hours yesterday, breaking the record for two years.

Not once in two years have more than twenty boats cleared in the same length of time. To be exact, forty-five boats left the harbor, all with loads, during that brief period of time.

It was the biggest day in some years and looks well for the breaking of shipping records this year. The boats took ore, package freight, grain and lumber.

Most of the boats took ore. Eleven of them took lumber. The rush in the lumber shipping branch of the lake trade this year is almost twice in volume what it was last year. The rate is still $2.50 to Lake Erie ports the same as it has been all season.

Ore is going down the lakes at a great rate. Grain is still moving at intervals, but there is no rush and tonnage is not in great demand.

Hard coal is now coming quite freely, considering the delay in getting it to lower lake ports.

WORK BEGUN ON NEW LIGHTHOUSE.

George Lounsberry, a local contractor, who was the successful bidder for the work of building a new lighthouse and keeper's quarters at the Superior entry, has already begun work.

The building will be of concrete and will be ornamental as well as serviceable. The foundation is already finished.

The 1912 Red Book.

The Great Lakes Red Book is just off the press of the Penton Publishing company of Cleveland, Ohio. This little book contains a list of the masters and engineers and owners of the active fleet of the lakes, together with the carrying capacity of all ore carriers. It is the most convenient directory of the lake marine published. The fleets are arranged alphabetically and are indexed by number.

Seattle, Wash., June 8.—Japanese papers received by steamer report that ten Christian members of the diet were chosen in the general election on May 15. The Sei Yuki, or government party, won 213 seats, a gain of 5; the Kokuminto, or opposition party, won 98 seats, a gain of 5, and the Chuo club party lost 15 seats.

SPREAD FAME OF DULUTH

Judge Jaques Suggests That Convention Visitors Advertise Home City.

Should Have Rubber Stamps and Badges With Proper Inscriptions.

"It seems to me," said Judge Alfred Jaques this morning, "that all delegates and others who will attend the various national political conventions this summer from Duluth, have a golden opportunity to advertise Duluth to the limit. I saw an interview a short time ago in which a citizen of Duluth, who had been traveling in the East told how he always stamped on the register of the hotel he patronized, opposite his name, the statement that 'It's Cool in Duluth.' He carried a rubber stamp for the purpose, and the assertion, staring all others who registered straight in the face, never failed to make an impression and create comment. He was sought by newspaper men in the various places where he stopped as a result of this unique way of advertising his home city, and in that way obtained considerable space in the newspapers, which otherwise would not have been possible.

"Now my point is this: Let every man, delegate or otherwise, who attends the political conventions at Baltimore and Chicago, supply himself with a similar stamp—self-inking would be best—and follow the example of the man mentioned. The cost of such stamps would be a mere trifle and in this way Duluth would get a lot of advertising, the value of which would be enormous and incalculable at this time. The stamps could be used on every available space as well as on hotel registers—menus for instance.

"I would also suggest that every such visitor to the conventions be provided with a badge bearing the same words. In that way the fact that it is cool in Duluth and the implied fact that the residents of this city are live ones would thus be advertised to everyone who meets a Duluth man.

"The stamps could be purchased by the individuals, but I think that the badges should be provided by either the Commercial club or the Greater Duluth Club."

Those who heard the suggestion of the judge indorsed it and it would not be surprising if the movement would take form in a few days.

VIRGINIA & RAINY LAKE COMPANY

PROPERTY OWNERS ASKED TO DECIDE

Kent Road Ravine Crossing to Be Settled Monday Morning.

Owners of property affected have been invited to meet with the board of public works Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock to decide upon the method of crossing the ravine on Kent road at Woodland avenue, near the normal school.

The board has obtained the necessary data to report upon the paving of Kent road westerly from Woodland avenue and the matter of crossing the ravine comes up in this connection. The methods suggested are:

To cross on a fill over a culvert; or to bridge the ravine; or to go around it by purchasing private property.

The matter is up to the property owners to decide.

The board of public works will report to the council estimates for the Park Point sewer. This will be put in from the canal in Lake avenue to Twelfth street, thence over to Minnesota avenue and then in Minnesota avenue to Thirty-eighth street.

A report will be made on the Ramsey street paving.

CATCHING BOOT BREAKS TUMBLE

Hibbing Man Who Fell Into Mine Owes Life to Boot Catching.

Hibbing, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Jusovich fell seventy-five feet in the Morton mine today, from the first level to the bottom of the shaft, and was not killed. In the descent his boat caught on an abstraction in the shaft and broke his fall as the piece of footgear was torn off, but he struck the bottom at a lesser speed than was expected. He was hurried to a hospital and so far as known no bones were broken.

LEETONIA MEN RETURN TO WORK

Labor Flurry at Property Near Hibbing Seems to Be Over.

Hibbing, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The labor flurry at the Leetonia mine, an independent property four miles from here, where 200 or 300 underground men quit Wednesday, appears to be over as the men returned today and went to work again without having made any demands on the company or received any concessions.

The mining company did not stop shipping during the layoff as its open pit section was operated. The presumption is the dissatisfied men struck because the company would not allow intoxicants to be sold on their property.

"The company has not allowed intoxicants on the location for some time, and has no present intention of receding from that position," was the statement of one of the mining officials.

JACK WILSON IS CALLED BY DEATH

Well Known Duluth Man Dies in Sanitarium at Fargo.

"Jack" Wilson, perhaps the best known cabdriver in Duluth, is dead. He died after a brief illness on Thursday night in a sanitarium in Fargo, N. D., where he went only last Sunday night, dropsy being the immediate cause, although he was also afflicted with Bright's disease. His remains which arrived here at 8 o'clock this morning, will be shipped east on the Omaha this evening at 6:15, and interment will take place in the family lot at Hamilton, Ont., where the deceased was born.

"Jack" came to Duluth nineteen years ago from Hamilton and from that time until very recently has been in the cab driving business. Of late years he was a member of the firm of Bloomer & Wilson and had his own cabs. His stand was usually in front of the St. Louis hotel and he was known to almost everybody in the city, especially those who have lived here for a number of years. He was one of the best liked men in his line of business and enjoyed a large patronage. He leaves quite an estate.

He was 42 years old, has never married, and was something of a character. He was an incessant reader and was well posted not only in general reading but on all the subjects of the day. He could hold his own in a discussion of civic and national affairs with many men who thought in the beginning of their talk with him that they had a much superior education and grasp of things. Usually a surprise was in store for them. As a consequence it was a common thing to see some of the leading men of the community standing with Jack beside his cab or leaning up against a near-by building and talking matters over with him.

It is said of him that he was a liberal giver to charity, all done without ostentation, and that many a man "on his uppers" could thank Wilson for many a meal and the price of a bed. He had a keen sympathy for those who were unfortunate or seemed to be down and out, and never neglected an opportunity to help such when he found them. His sympathies did not stop with humans—he was a great lover of horses and it was always noticeable that his team was well kept and did not have to suffer for want of wraps in cold weather when standing at the curb as some have to. The animals were always well taken care of and nothing made Jack so impatient as to see horses uncovered or to see them abused.

Robert Wilson, a brother of the deceased is here from Hamilton, having come to visit his brother, who died, however, before the Eastern man could reach him. He will accompany the remains back to Hamilton. Others surviving are the father, four sisters and another brother, all of whom reside in Hamilton. No services will be held in Duluth.

JUDGE FREES BALL PLAYERS

Cases Against Winnipeg and Grand Forks Men Are Dismissed.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Winnipeg and Grand Forks baseball players were dismissed today by Judge McLaughlin on charges of violating the Sunday law by playing ball. The defense held that criminal procedure could not be taken against the defendants, redress to offended parties, if any, being gained only through civil procedure. The teams of the See-Bye league were arrested two weeks ago and there will be more excitment tomorrow, as the teams are scheduled for another game here.

Woodlands Win.

The Woodland Athletic association team beat the Crescents this morning in a baseball game played at Woodland. The score was 11 to 10, and the batteries were Wilson and Denfeld, and Biener and Barthe.

WEEK FOR TRIAL; HOUR TO DECIDE

Jury Returns Verdict Promptly in White Iron Lake Case.

It took a jury in district court less than an hour yesterday afternoon to decide a case which was more than a week at trial in Judge Cant's room.

The jury sat in one of the White Iron Lake fire cases brought by Simon Salo against the Duluth & Iron Range railroad. A verdict for the defendant was returned.

Salo sued for $4,800, claiming that during the exceptionally dry season of 1910 in the vicinity of the Knox and Adriatic locations, fires started on the railroad company's right-of-way resulting in the destruction of his farm buildings. He charged negligence, claiming that the locomotives which were used by the company were not properly equipped with spark arresters.

The case required about a week to try and most of the testimony had to be taken through an interpreter. J. De La Motte was attorney for the plaintiff and the company was represented by Baldwin & Baldwin.

The case was the last one for which jury services will be required at the May term of court. Neither are there any more criminal cases to be tried at this term of court.

GREAT NORTHERN HAULS MUCH ORE

Hill Road Sending Many Trains to Allouez Docks Every Day.

Hibbing, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Great Northern road is sending about twenty-five trains of ore to the Allouez docks every day now and may increase this amount next week. As these trains are 125 cars of ore each it can be seen the Hill road is sending down about 125,000 tons per week and that if this record is maintained the company will handle over 12,000,000 tons this year as predicted in these dispatches at the beginning of the season. The Missabe road is handling only about 500 cars of ore per day from this district, indicating that the Steel corporation will again this year give the bulk of its ore to the Great Northern to be hauled to docks. Still it is expected Missabe shipments will pick up, especially for the independents.

NOT UNANIMOUS ON PROPOSITION

Hibbing People Divided on Proposed Vacation of Streets.

Hibbing, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Petitions for the vacation of the streets in the vicinity of the Sellers mine, asked by the Lake Superior Consolidated Mines company at the last regular meeting of the council, are being circulated and largely signed by Hibbing people.

Several of the petitions are in circulation. The petitions recite that the city is a mining town whose best interests will be served by the vacation of the streets which will mean the opening of the Sellers mine, and the consequent employment of a large number of additional men.

Some Protests Expected.

It is also rumored that there will be circulated a petition asking the council to deny the vacation of the streets and alleys asked on the ground that it will depreciate property values in a large section of the city and bring what is termed "the encroachment of the mining companies" a step nearer the center of the city.

Whether there are indications that there will be something of a fight on when the council hears all parties to the matter one week from tonight, but at the same time a large number of signatures are being obtained to the petition asking the council to vacate the streets in compliance with the request of the Lake Superior Mines company.

WILL GRADUATE NEXT WEDNESDAY

Virginia High School Exercises Will Be Held June 12.

Virginia, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.) — The high school commencement exercises will be held in the Roosevelt auditorium the night of June 12. An elaborate program has been arranged. There will be orations by seven boys and seven girls of the class of twenty-seven. The schools will close for the term next Friday and many of the teachers will at once leave for their homes. As heretofore the teaching staff of the Virginia schools will be much depleted by the work of Cupid during the school term. It is said that about fifteen of the teachers who have been in Virginia during the term now ended will not teach next year.

BREAKS COLLAR BONE.

Two Harbors Man Falls From Roof of Home.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Erick Anderson, an employe of the Scandinavian Co-Operative Mercantile company, residing on the corner of Cedar street and Sixth avenue, met with a serious accident last night when he fell from the top of his house to the ground. Mr. Anderson, while making repairs to his residence, was on the roof. He lost his footing and fell to the ground, sustaining a severe fracture of his collar bone. He was taken to the Budd hospital.

NASHWAUK HAS STRINGENT ACT

Ordinance Expected to Hit Blind-Pigs Solar Plexus Blow.

Nashwauk, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the most stringent liquor ordinances ever enacted on the range was passed by the Nashwauk village council Thursday evening. The ordinance hits directly at the blind-pig nuisance and the transferring of licenses from one party to another. The ordinance states that in order for a person to secure a transfer a petition with fifty signers must be presented to the council with the application for transfer.

Signers must be citizens of the village. It also provides that a unanimous vote of the council is necessary before a permit to transfer will be granted. No person can make application for a new license or for a transfer unless applicant is a citizen of the United States. The ordinance also provides that not more than five gallons of spirituous liquors will be allowed to be retailed by a licensed saloon. This clause is for the protection of licensed saloons against illegal traffic by blind-piggers.

Hawkins Mine Busy.

Three shovels are now working in the Hawkins mine pit. One of the shovels is working in dirt, one in wash ore and one in marketable ore. Two of the shovels are working both night and day shifts and the ore shovel is working but day shifts. The mine at present more active than ever before because of the concentrating mill which was recently erected.

COUNTY BOARD ASKED FOR AID

Two Harbors Hopes County Will Help Improve City Road.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Members of the city council and the county commissioners held a joint meeting in the Commercial club Thursday evening for the purpose of discussing and arriving at some definite decision on road matters within the city limits.

The council presented a petition to the county board asking them for an appropriation of $500 to be expended in improving the public highway within the city limits. Besides $500 the board expects to spend in the neighborhood of $1,200 on the road. The road in question begins at Seventh avenue and Maple street and runs east to Burlington bay and then along the lake shore to the city limits, a distance of about a mile and a half.

Is Main Thoroughfare.

This is the main thoroughfare leading from the city to the farming vicinity and is therefore frequented very extensively by farmers going to and from market. Motorists find it very difficult to drive their cars over this section of the road owing to deep ruts caused by machines and heavy wagons in wet weather, and the Automobile club is partly responsible for the action taken by the county officials and the city council to improve this particular section of the road. The matter of connecting the state road to the D. I. R. road at Highland, which has been hanging fire for some time, was laid over until the next regular meeting of the board, which will be in about a month.

LIKE POSTAL BANK.

Government Institution at Deer River Has $1,690.

Deer River, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.) — Postmaster Leonard Scott has received a letter from the postoffice department stating that his salary would remain the same this year as last, Mr. Scott having just completed his first year's service as postmaster. This means that the business of the postoffice has kept up during the past year. The receipts the past year have shown a small but steady increase, and the business of the past year is about $120 greater than the preceding year.

One of the departments of the postoffice which is proving a success is the postal savings bank, the deposits in which are gradually increasing. This department now boasts of deposits amounting to $1,690.

Several postoffices are also supplied through Deer River, including Marcell, Bigfork, Jessie Lake, Wirt, Effie and Evergreen. Two new postoffices have been established in the country north, which will also be supplied from Deer River. Spring Lake, which will be known as Spring Lake, with Charles Finnick as postmaster, and a postoffice at the coal dock, which will be known as Mack, with J. K. Samuelson as postmaster.

Pretty Mothers

Health is the foundation of all good looks. The wise woman realizes this and takes precautions to preserve her health and strength through the period of child bearing. She remains a pretty mother by avoiding as far as possible the suffering and dangers of such occasions. This every woman may do through the use of Mother's Friend, a remedy that has been so long in use, and accomplished so much good, that it is in no sense an experiment, but a preparation which always produces the best results. It is for external application and so penetrating in its nature as to thoroughly lubricate every muscle, nerve and tendon involved during the period before baby comes. It aids nature by expanding the skin and tissues, relieves tenderness and soreness, and perfectly prepares the system for natural and safe motherhood. Mother's Friend has been used and endorsed by thousands of mothers, and its use will prove a comfort and benefit to any woman in need of such a remedy. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers, which contains much valuable information.

Mrs. Frank Eckes and daughter, Evelyn, of Two Harbors have been in Virginia for several days on a visit to Mrs. P. R. Vall.

Miss Florence Johnson of Duluth has come to Virginia to take charge of the cigar counter at the Ormonde hotel.

Capt. Joseph Shimmin, formerly of the LaBelle mine at Elba and recently of Ishpeming, Mich., has come to Virginia to reside. He has retired from active service. Mrs. Nicholas, wife of Capt. W. H. Nicholas of this city, is a daughter of Capt. Shimmin and he will live at her home.

The annual convention of the Duluth district of the Epworth league will be held here Tuesday and Wednesday. The convention will bring many from Duluth and all the range cities. Sessions will be held in the M. E. church.

William Keown, manager of the St. James cafe has gone to Aberdeen, S. D., to reside.

George V. Trimble, W. J. Benallack, Edward C. A. Johnson and Dr. Isaac Van Domlin will go to St. Paul during the coming week and will be in attendance at the grand lodge and grand encampment of the I. O. O. F.

Julius Shanedling has purchased from H. A. Sodergren seventy-five feet of frontage on Maple street opposite the city hall and adjoining fifty feet which he already owned and proposes to erect on the property an apartment house or a family hotel.

Alderman Charles W. Lundstrom, recently elected to a seat in the city council, has been a resident of Virginia since the first house was built where the city stands today. He was also a member of the council several years ago.

The Progressive league at a recent meeting talked about having a big banquet as a sort of a jollification over its success at the recent election. A committee was appointed and the feast will be held within two weeks.

BETTER SERVICE WANTED; DEER RIVER TO BIG FORK.

Deer River, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A petition is being prepared which will be widely circulated throughout this section to have a daily train service between Deer River and Big Fork, a distance of thirty-one miles. As it now is, one is compelled to remain in Big Fork for two days, as the road at the present time only runs trains every other day, making it very inconvenient for the traveling public. There is no doubt but that if the change is made the amount of travel will double.

The village council has installed a fire whistle in the electric power plant. The bell previously used was not a success, on windy nights.

A number of the main streets are being graded and the village is undergoing a general cleaning up. New walks will be put in this summer.

ITASCA ROADS GOOD.

Better Than in St. Louis County, Says Eveleth Motorist.

Eveleth, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Theodore Oakman drove his car to Cohasset Tuesday in the record time of three hours and thirty minutes, a distance of eighty miles. He was accompanied by Charles Jesmore and William Murray. The party reports that from Hibbing west through Itasca county the roads are in much better condition than in St. Louis county. Roads near Eveleth they say are in the poorest condition of all.

CHISHOLM OFFICIALS SEEK PAVING INFORMATION.

Chisholm, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—D. C. Hackett and Village Engineer F. C. Lang have gone to Southern Minnesota to investigate paving conditions in towns of about the size of Chisholm. Mankato will be one of the towns visited, as well as Albert Lea, Austin, Owatonna, Northfield, Faribault and probably Rochester. Bids for the paving of Lake street in Chisholm are to be opened and contracts let next Wednesday evening and the council members want all the information available before letting the bids.

Aged, Wrinkled Faces Easily Rejuvenated

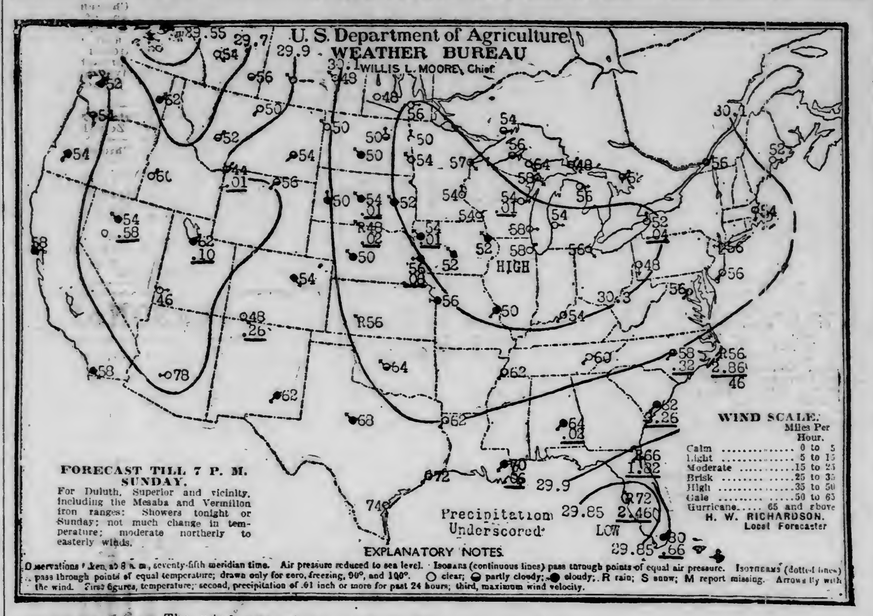

(From The Beauty Seeker).

An aged face is often only a mask to a comparatively youthful person. Beneath is a countenance young and fair to look upon. It's a simple matter to remove the mask. Ordinary mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store, gradually absorbs the worn-out surface skin; in a week or two the user has the loveliest pinky white complexion imaginable. An ounce of the wax usually is sufficient to complete transformation. It is put on at night like cold cream and taken off in the morning with warm water.

This remarkable treatment is invariably effective, no matter how muddy, sallow or discolored the complexion. Freckles, moth-patches, liver spots, pimples, blackheads and other cutaneous blemishes, naturally vanish with the discarded skin.

To remove wrinkles and flabbiness, here is a recipe that cannot be too highly recommended: Powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½-pint witch hazel. Use as a wash lotion.

Official Map of the Weather

The wind was a little cool last evening, but today is another of the days for which Duluth is justly famous. The weather man threatens to put a damper on on joy by sending showers tonight or tomorrow, but let us hope he misses. Showers in the morning and beautiful weather later were the weather man's offering a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:13 and it will set at 8 o'clock this evening, giving fifteen hours and forty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Nicholson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Barometric depressions centered over British Columbia and off the West Florida coast have respectively caused light showers through the Rocky mountains and Middle West and light to heavy rains over South Atlantic and East Gulf states. Strong northeasterly winds prevail along the North Carolina and South Carolina coasts. High temperatures occurred Friday in Arizona and Nevada. At the Head of the Lakes conditions favor more or less cloudiness and probably showers during either tonight or Sunday."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, June 8.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and probably Sunday; slightly warmer in extreme east portion tonight.

Wisconsin—Fair tonight with warmer in west portion; Sunday unsettled with showers in West and warmer in East portion.

Minnesota — Increasing cloudiness with showers tonight or Sunday; warmer in South and West portions tonight.

North Dakota—Mostly cloudy tonight and Sunday; warmer tonight.

Montana—Mostly cloudy tonight and Sunday.

Upper Lakes — Moderate variable winds; generally fair weather tonight and Sunday.

TWO HARBORS ORE BUSINESS LARGER

Two Harbors, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.) — The improvement in ore business here this year over that of 1911 is very evident by the figures of receipts and shipments given out at the local dock office. There was received at the ore docks during the month of May 1,197,067 tons of ore as against a little over 708,753 tons in May, 1911. The ore shipments during May this year were 1,128,982 tons as against 600,000 tons for the same period a year ago.

There were 164 boats loaded at the docks last month besides several shiploads of lumber and pulpwood which were shipped from the local docks. The rush in business is expected to continue throughout the entire season and the total shipments will no doubt far exceed last year's business.

MR. DENFELD TO THE GRADUATES

Proctor, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. R. E. Denfeld of the Duluth schools gave an interesting address to the high school graduates at the commencement exercises here Thursday evening, while A. P. Hodapp mentioned some improvements he said he thought the schools needed. The essays of the graduates were enjoyed by a large audience.

On Monday evening, June 17, the ladies' auxillary to the B. of R. T. are to give a grand ball at the Odd Fellows' hall.

The Proctor Juniors will entertain the Proctor fans next Sunday in a contest with the ball team of the Hiberian Athletic club of Superior. The game is to be called at 2:30 p. m.

It is reported that Mrs. E. S. Davis is sick with a cancer in a hospital in her home town at Bisbee, Ariz.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paulu of Chippewa Falls arrived Sunday to make Mr. Paulu's parents a visit.

Work is progressing rapidly on the playgrounds and tennis courts at the "Y." Two full-sized tennis courts are to be built.

Mrs. Theodore Keenlyne of Loyal, Minn., arrived Sunday to join her husband, who is working here. Mrs. Keenlyne is at present stopping at the home of Mrs. Thomas Reid.

June 21 is the date of the third annual ball to be given by the Ladies' Society of the B. of L. F. & E.

HAD SCHOOL PICNIC.

Ely and Winton Teachers and Pupils Enjoy Fine Outing.

Ely, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—About 1,000 school children with their teachers and parents had a picnic at Sandy Point yesterday.

Three busses were kept continually busy carrying persons from the city. The High School band was present with many selections. The Winton school also held their picnic at the park. Winton was out almost in a body. The Section 30 school held a picnic as their closing program today. Withal it was a day of enjoyment, and all who could possibly escape work spent the day in festivity.

Today the faculty of the Ely and Winton schools left, the forty-eight comprising the faculty going in almost every direction to their respective homes or to summer schools to pursue further training.

Ely Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will meet at the Castle hall at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and will march in a body to the Methodist church, where the annual memorial service will be held at 10:30.

Chisholm Delegates Named.

Chisholm, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Delegates to attend the firemen's convention in Minneapolis next week are: Thos. O'Connor, chief of the department; George Nitch, member of the department, and F. L. Austin, deputy recorder of the village.

Virginia to Celebrate.

Virginia, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following the custom observed for years Virginia will have a fine celebration of the Fourth this year although the commercial club, which has always taken the initiative, has not made any definite plans.

Peterson May Leave Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. W. Peterson, the attorney, has sold his home on Jackson street to Capt. Harry Nancarrow, a local mine inspector for the state, and Mr. Nancarrow's family now occupy the place. Mr. Peterson has stored his household goods for the present and with Mrs. Peterson has gone to Montevido for a short visit, returning in a few weeks. It is possible that he will remove to some other town.

Biwabik Couple on Visit.

Biwabik, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Bray left Friday for Duluth, the Twin Cities and other points in the southern part of the state before they return.

Mr. Phelps and wife of Duluth are domiciled at the Hill hotel. Mr. Phelps will have charge of the work on the new high school building for the Bailey Marsh company contractors.

L. R. Christensen made a business trip to Tower Friday.

IN FAVOR OF PLAYGROUNDS

School Board Will Bear Share of Expense of Establishing Them.

The board of education favors supervised playgrounds.

It took action last evening toward co-operation with the Playgrounds association and the public welfare board for the establishment of supervised playgrounds in Duluth, and individual members expressed their willingness to pledge the board to its portion of the expense.

The matter was presented to the board by a committee of the Playgrounds association consisting of Miss Jean Poirier, J. J. Moe and G. W. C. Ross. Miss Poirier spoke for the committee, outlining the plans of the Playgrounds association and making a plea for the co-operation of the board. A committee consisting of Directors Cobb, Stevens and Barnes was appointed to confer with committees from the other bodies interested.

In discussing the matter last evening members of the school board expressed the belief that a general supervisor of playgrounds should be obtained before any other steps are taken. The director could lay out the plans of playgrounds, attend to the purchase of equipment and otherwise direct the work with a knowledge of the requirements. It was pointed out that the board's venture into playgrounds at the Washburn school was not an unqualified success. The board last evening voted to establish a playground on the lot west of the Washington school, and the members said that the advice of a competent supervisor would be valuable in that case.

The question of an addition to the Irving school for the manual training department came up last evening and the discussion showed that the board has contemplated the necessity of the erection of a high school building in West Duluth The plans for an addition, 30x67, two stories and basement, were drawn by the boys of the manual training department and presented by Director Evered. The argument was advanced that the manual training department is not now compact enough and interferes with the work in the grades. The plans contemplated the machine work in the basement of the addition, the wood working department on the ground floor and mechanical drawing department on the second floor.

Some members of the board advanced the argument that the Irving school will do as it is arranged now until the necessity for building a new high school building arises. The board owns part of a site near the Ely school and additional land could be obtained for the erection of the high school. That would not be done this year, however.

The annual school election will be held July 20, and petitions must be in by June 29. Directors Brewer, Boyer and Stevens are the retiring directors. They will probably all be candidates for re-election.

The Homecroft society applied for the use of rooms for domestic science in three buildings. The matter was referred to the committee on schools to consider with other similar requests.

The committee on maintenance of buildings submitted its annual report setting forth the repairs necessary during the summer period. No great amounts will be expended this year, as considerable work was done last year. Among the recommendations of the committee were that the Bay View Heights school be closed next year as there will be only eight pupils, that the transportation of students from the pumping station to the Lester Park school be discontinued as there will be only three next year, and that the board purchase two lots near the Lakeside school for an addition.

Superintendent Denfeld in his report submitted a plan for the regrading of the schools, by which junior high schools will be established, with the Seventh, Eigth and Ninth grades taught in the grade buildings, the senior high school in the central building to consist of only the three higher grades. He said that Duluth will not be ripe for the operation of the plan for some years, but that it will come in time. The plan was outlined in setting forth objections to the teaching of the Ninth grade in grade buildings at present.

SEISMOGRAPH SHOWS QUAKES

Vibrations Are Almost Continuous for Twenty-four Hours.

Washington, June 8.—Earth shocks have been recorded by the seismograph at Georgetown university almost continuously since yesterday morning at 5 o'clock, the vibrations at times being of extraordinary violence.

It is estimated that the disturbance is within 2,400 miles of Washington. Following heavy vibrations yesterday morning, the seismograph continued to record lesser shocks throughout the day and night.

Vibrations beginning at 2:16 and at 4:09 this morning were even more pronounced than those of yesterday, and the university scientists believe the shocks must have been destructive.

Alaska Volcano Active.

Cordova, Alaska, June 8.—Volcanic ashes are falling thickly over the city, showing that heavy cannonading heard in the mountains was the noise of a volcano in eruption. The time between the cannonading and fall of the ashes was so short that it is believed the volcano is the Redoubt or the Iliamna mountain in the Cook inlet country.

The navy wireless station tried to communicate with the stations to the westward to get definite information of conditions in the Cook Inlet country, but the static condition of the atmosphere made it impossible to work with any of the Alaska stations.

Because of the distance the ashes must have traveled in the air, the eruption is believed to have been one of the most violent in the history of Alaskan volcanoes.

DO NOT FAVOR SUPERVISORS

West Duluth Club Members Refuse to Indorse Playground Plans.

The West Duluth Commercial club at its regular meeting last evening refused to indorse a resolution asking the board of education and the board of welfare to appoint supervisors over playgrounds in this end of the city. The members are not in favor of park supervisors and voted not to support such a resolution.

The communication requesting that a resolution to this effect be adopted by the club was received by the secretary from Miss Jean Poirier, chairman of the Duluth Playground association. Considerable discussion has been aroused lately on the subject, which was especially taken up by Dr. Curtis, the New York playground expert, who conducted a week's campaign here two weeks ago.

The club also received a communication from the Duluth Humane society requesting the members to adopt a resolution and a request to the city to standardize pavements. A lengthy discussion was held on the subject, but no action was taken last evening. The subject will be brought up again next Friday evening when a final vote of the members will be taken.

Following a request by the Duluth Homecroft society to set aside one night as "homecroft night," President A. E. Macaulay announced that next Friday evening would be open to the public to hear the speakers representing the society. It is also planned to invite all the West Duluth women to the meeting. C. E. Roe, educational director of the Homecroft society, announced this morning that the best list of speakers will be included in the program for the evening.

F. H. Martin, W. B. Getchell and C. G. Futter were appointed on a committee to draw up resolutions on the death of L. R. Clark, who was one of the directors of the club, and C. D. Marble, another one of the late members.

Only Drunks in Court.
Proceedings in police court were tame this morning. Six drunks formed the grist and Judge Cutting sat only a few moments. All pleaded guilty and all but one were fined. He was given a suspended sentence.

Equalization Board.
The city board of equalization will meet beginning June 24 and will be in session about one week. At this gathering complaints on assessments will be listened to and matters pertaining thereto adjusted.

Band Concert at Lester.
Flaaten's Third Regiment band will give a free concert at Lester park tomorrow afternoon. Extra street car service will be provided for the crowds and everybody will be cared for. Lester park is one of the most popular parks in the city without the attraction of a concert by the finest band in the northwest, and a great crowd is expected to visit the park on the lake shore tomorrow.

Ben Blumenthal Returns.
Ben Blumenthal has returned from the East, where he was in conference with Mr. Leiser and managers of the Leiser chain of stores.

Company Dissolved.
Judge Cant in district court this morning made an order for the dissolution of the Duluth Vermilion Iron company, which was incorporated in 1909 to do a prospecting and mining business. M. T. Pritchard was appointed receiver to close up affairs. The company was capitalized at $600,000, has but a small amount of personal property, no real estate and no indebtedness.

Will Enlarge Dock.
The Northern Coal & Dock company has announced its intention of enlarging its dock at Connor's Point. The improvements, it is stated, will cost nearly $50,000.

Sues on Notes.
The First National Bank of Gilbert filed suit this morning with the clerk of the district court against C. E. Bailey to recover $1,900, which is claimed to be due on two promisary noes.

Makes New Citizens.
Twenty-six men were given final citizenship papers by Judge Dibell of the district court at the monthly naturalization hearing last evening. Thirty-two cases were heard. One was dismissed and five were continued for non-appearance. The number of cases is larger than usual.

DECISIONS BY THE U. S. SUPREME COURT

As to Chinamen's Wives.
Washington, June 8.—A Chinaman who is a citizen of the United States by reason of his birth in this country, cannot lawfully bring into the states his wife, if she is a Chinese woman incapable of naturalization in her own right, according to a decision of the supreme court of the United States. The case arose in San Francisco.

Patent Damages.
A long disputed patent question was settled by the court's holding that an infringer of a patent need only pay $1 damages if he had made improvements on patents and the owner of the patent did not show how much of the intringer's profits were due to improvements and how much to the use of his patent. This holding was announced in a decision that the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company was entitled to more than $1 damages from the Wagner Electric Manufacturing company for the infringement of an electric converter. Prior to these inventions electric current could not be transmitted more than four or five miles.

Can Prohibit Pool Rooms.
The right of a city to pass an ordinance prohibiting the running of a pool room within its limits, is upheld. The point arose over the alleged violation by J. L. Murphy of such an ordinance passed by South Pasadena, Cal.

Corporation Law Valid.
Holding that the New York corporation law only prohibits foreign corporations without a license to do business in that state from suing in state courts, and that the prohibition did not apply in federal courts of that state, the court declined to annul the law as unconstitutional.

City Can Limit Telephone Rates.
The court upheld an ordinance of Louisville, Ky., fixing the maximum telephone charges in that city, and reversed the federal circuit court for Western Kentucky, which had held that the rates were confiscatory. Justice Holmes said the company must bring another suit if, on trial, the rates proved confiscatory.

Commerce Court Second.
Repeated blows were given the new commerce court in the decisions by the supreme court upholding the exclusive jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission over the administrative machinery of the federal rate laws.

The principal decision was announced by Chief Justice White in the so-called "Proctor and Gamble Case." He was sustained by the entire court. In substance he held that the commerce court was not to substitute its judgment for the interstate commerce commission in the administration of the rate laws. The specific point ruled upon was that parties who failed to get relief before the interstate commerce commission have no right to go into the commerce court and have that court pass upon the facts to ascertain if they should have been granted relief.

No New Power Given.
But in the course of his opinion, Chief Justice White went further. He showed that the commerce court was not given "new and strange" powers, but succeeded to the powers of the circuit courts in existence when the commerce court was created, and that the commerce court was limited in reviewing the commission's orders to questions of law. In cases yet to be passed upon, it is claimed that the commerce court went out of the domain of law and gave its judgment on pure questions of fact.

Both from the words of the act creating the commerce court, and from the general scheme of rate regulation, the chief justice said, it was to be seen that the commerce court had no such broad powers as it claimed to possess.

"It cannot be disputed," he said, "that the act creating the commerce court was intended to be but a part of an existing system for the regulation of interstate commerce, and that the making of it a part of that system was not intended to destroy the existing machinery or method of regulation, but to cause it to be more efficient by providing a more harmonious means for securing the judicial enforcement of the act to regulate commerce."

Work of Commission.
Chief ustice White declared that congress had created the interstate commerce commission as a quasi-judicial body to enforce the laws in order that there might be unity of regulation, and that from 1887 to 1910 it had not even been seriously asserted that as to subjects which in their nature were administrative, power lay in the courts to exercise original jurisdiction, or to enforce their conceptions as to the meaning of the act by dealing directly with the subject, irrespective of any prior affirmative action by the commission.

Originally, he said, the courts felt a duty to pass on both questions of law and of fact, but by 1910 it had come to pass that in considering orders of the commission, the courts were limited to determining whether the orders of the commission violated the Constitution, although it might not technically be doing so. It was this jurisdiction, he declared, the commerce court had inherited.

To adopt the view of the commerce court as to its jurisdiction, Chief Justice White said, would be to overthrow the system of rate regulation dapoted by congress.

REFUSES TO PAY MURDERER

Samaritan Order Says Crime of August Boo Made Policy Void.

The Modern Samaritans, defendants in a suit brought by August Boo, wife murderer, who will probably spend the rest of his life in the state hospital for the criminal insane and who through his brother, Otto Boo, is seeking to recover $500 insurance as his wife's beneficiary, filed an answer today in district court.

In its answer, the insurance order claims that had Mrs. Carrie Boo died through any cause provided for in her policy Boo, as one of the beneficiaries, would be entitled to receive $500. The other beneficiary, Engeman Boo, a small boy, has received the $500 allotted to him under the terms of the policy.

The answer calls attention to a clause in the policy in which it is agreed that in case of the death of the insured by the act of the beneficiary (except by accident) the policy will become null and void. The company claims that Mrs. Boo signed the terms of the policy and that this shuts out Boo from recovering his share.

WANTS APOLLO TO KEEP AWAY

Biwabik Man Says Sun Is Killing Him—Sent to Asylum.

The beautiful legend of Phoebus Apollo, god of the sun, which pictures the Olympian god as the one who brought the warm spring and summer and also the blessings of the harvest, has no charms for John Bishop, aged 36, of Biwabik, who today was committed to the state hospital for the insane at Fergus Falls.

Bishop has acquired an aversion to the sun. At his examination in probate court this morning he declared that Old Sol was the cause of most of his worry. He was laboring under the impression that he would soon be destroyed by the cruel and destructive heat of today.

Bishop told the doctors who examined him that he had hard work in keeping away from the sun, that at times it had been known to come within twenty or thirty feet of him.

Judge Gilpin found the man to be suffering from a severe mental breakdown and has sent him to the insane hospital for treatment.

ASSESSMENT AGAINST COUNTY CANCELLED.

Judge McClenahan, presiding yesterday in the district court at Aitkin, cancelled an assessment of benefits to St. Louis county roads in the towns of Halden and Fine Lakes for the building of Judicial Ditch No. 3. The assessment made against the county on the roads amounted to $8,850.

Charles E. Adams, special counsel of the county board, and E. K. Coe, road engineer, appeared at the hearing on behalf of the county to protest against the assessments. The court sustained the contention of St. Louis county and decided that the roads would not be benefited by the building of the ditch.

John Jenswold, a Duluth attorney, and Ed Jensen, municipal court officer, were present at the hearing at Aitkin yesterday to protest against the benefits assessed against 240 acres of land which they own in the district, to be drained. The court cancelled the assessment after it had been shown that the land was on the banks of the Savannah river and was sufficiently drained.

The Duluth & Iron Range railroad land department was also represented at the hearing. Its attorneys secured a stay in the proceedings for a week, so that a survey could be made and a report filed on the engineers.

The judicial ditch will cost between $160,000 and $175,000. It will drain between 80 and 100 square miles of country to the south and west of Floodwood.

SAYS THE OLDER HILL HAS QUIT

Louis Hill Announces His Father's Retirement as G. N. Chairman.

Tacoma, Wash., June 8.—Louis W. Hill, who recently resigned as president of the Great Northern railway, said last night he had received a telegram from his father, James J. Hill, stating that he had resigned as chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern in favor of Louis W. Hill.

The latter is one of a large number of delegates to the Northwestern Development congress at Seattle, who came to Tacoma last night as guests of local commercial organizations.

J. J. Not Found.
St. Paul, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—James J. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern railway, has not been reached as yet with the announcement that he would resign and that his son, L. W. Hill would succeed him. Such an announcement has been expected in railway circles for some time, and the announcement from Tacoma caused no surprise here.

DAUGHERTY WILL NOMINATE HARMON

Columbus, O., June 8.—Governor Harmon today confirmed the report that M. A. Daugherty, an attorney of Lancaster, Ohio, will place his name before the national Democratic convention at Baltimore for nomination for the presidency. Someone outside the state will be selected to make the seconding speech.

EXCITEMENT AT THE CITY POUND

Sixteen Cows Held at Milking Time—Owner and Poundmaster Worried.

A lot of excitement and worry was rife around the city pound at Forty-seventh avenue east last evening when sixteen cows belonging to one dairyman were impounded. The cows are owned by Peter Duty of Lakeside, and some time late yesterday afternoon broke out of their pasture and grazed at large. Poundmaster L. E. Parker rounded them up and put them in the pound, so that when Mr. Duty started to find them at milking time he was much distressed to find that he could not get them without paying $32 impounding fees.

He did not have the money and was much excited. The poundmaster was just as angry as Duty for he had to stay and watch the cows and could not go home to supper; and he did not feel the least bit like dieting. Alderman Hicken was summoned but he could do nothing. He got Chief Troyer on the wire, and in view of the fact that this was the first offense and that Mr. Duty could not well help it, he was allowed to take his cattle on payment of $6.

Next time, he was warned, the limit would be imposed. Mr. Duty says there will be no "next time" and his fences are undergoing radical repairs.

TO GATHER MATERIAL ABOUT KEWEENAW HISTORY.

Houghton, Mich., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)——The Keweenaw Historical association was organized here to collect and preserve historical material relating to the Keweenaw peninsula. The following officers were elected:

President, John T. Reeder of Houghton; vice presidents, Dr. A. F. Fisher for Torch Lake, Mrs. W. A. Childs for Calumet, W. J. Uren, Houghton; Z. W. Wright, Hancock; W. J. Smith, Keweenaw county; Samuel Brady, Ontonagon county; Mrs. H. S. Goodell, South Range; O. W. Robinson, Chassell-Baraga; Mrs. J. B. Smith, L'Anse. Secretary treasurer, John A. Doelle of Houghton; executive committee, Prof. Chase of Hancock, Hon. Charles Smith of Hubbell, E. S. Grierson of Calumet.

LIGHTNING FIRES SALOON.

Hurley, Wis., Drinking Place Put Out of Business.

Hurley, Wis., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—During the electrical storm last Sunday evening the saloon building of John Kutsick at Pence caught fire after being struck by the lightning, and was totall destroyed. Mr. Kutsick had about $460 in currency in the house which was also destroyed. He carried no insurance on the building.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chartier have announced the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Bertha, to Robert Bertagnoll. The ceremony will be performed at St. Mary's church on Wednesday morning, June 26.

Dr. T. J. Hambly has disposed of two more of his residence properties, the house occupied by F. T. Short and the one occupied by Henry Peterson, both on Second avenue. P. Lauzer purchased both.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Noonan of Saxon were called here Thursday by the serious illness of Mr. Noonan's mother.

Mrs. McManus was a guest at the meeting of the Upson Ladies' Aid society at the home of Mrs. Kammerer on Wednesday.

Mrs. F. X. Ferrow of Park Falls was called here Tuesday by an accident which befell her husband, who was injured at the Kimball and Clark mill, where he is employed as an edger. Mrs. Ferrow is staying with Mrs. Leichtman while in town.

Mrs. W. A. Whiteside left Tuesday for Duluth to attend the graduating exercises of the Duluth normal school, her daughter, Mabel, being one of the graduates.

THEIR CANOE UPSET.

Two Men Are Nearly Drowned in Rainy River.

Fort Frances, Ont., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—On Monday morning about 6 o'clock J. A. Biddeson heard some one shouting and looking out towards the Rainy river saw two men hanging on to an upturned canoe. He went to the rescue and took one at a time to shore. They were much chilled, being in the water for some time, and would no doubt have perished had they remained much longer in the water. One was Robert Green of the Green Hardware company and Walter Engstrom of International Falls.

The young men were returning from a trip down river and were sailing their canoe when a sudden shift of the wind upset them.

REUNA WILL APPEAL.

Brookston, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the contest case of C. A. Tester vs. Oskar Reuna, involving the west half of the northwest quarter of section 34, 51-18, adjoining the village of Brookston on the west, the officials of the Duluth land office favored Mr. Tester, who claimed prior legal settlement, but Mr. Reuna will appeal to the commissioner of the general land office at Washington.

A. Christensen, Ed Donley, C. T. Larson and J. N. Larson attended the meeting of the county board in Duluth Wednesday in the interest of the construction of the Duff road. This new highway will tap a well settled country south of the village, and the opening of the road will prove to be of much benefit to local business interests. Mr. Christensen had with him a petition, signed by a majority of the Indians through whose allotments the road is surveyed, showing that personally they are in favor of the new highway and are offering no opposition to its construction.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Martin have issued invitations for the wedding and reception of their sister, Alice Helen Martin, to Edwin Ross Anderson. The wedding will take place Wednesday, June 19, at 8 o'clock, at the Martin residence, 502 West Third street, and will be followed by a reception from 8:30 to 10 o'clock. The wedding party is not fully decided upon at present, but Mrs. George Martin will be the matron of honor and Don Anderson of Biwabik will be best man.

Miss Hazel Talmadge and Herbert L. Ebeling were united in marriage at a pretty home ceremony yesterday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Wargin, 113½ East Fourth street.

The bride's gown was a pretty arrangement of white voile over white messaline and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and roses. There were no attendants.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at a prettily appointed table. A center piece of pink and white roses was used and covers were laid for twelve.

Mr. and Mrs. Ebeling will be at home after June 15 at 115 East Fourth street.

Announcement has just been made of the wedding of Miss Alice Holt and Sigurd Loraas both of this city, which took place on May 3, 1911, and which has been kept secret until this time. Stead of West Duluth performed the ceremony, but the couplt have kept the fact from their friends until now. Mr. and Mrs. Loraas will be at home at 306 East Seventh street.

YOUR FURS ARE IN DANGER

Delay in storing your Furs means probable ruination by moths, loss by burglary or fire.

Prevent loss of your furs by any means whatsoever, by storing them in the Cold Dry Air Storage Vault maintained by us exclusively for furs and fabrics.

Our Cold Dry Air Storage Vault is one of the most elaborate in the United States. It is designed expressly for the storage and safe keeping of furs, costly winter garments, rugs, tapestries, etc. It is absolutely fire and burglar proof, which alone is of great value to the owner of goods placed in our care; this is protection that cannot be obtained in any other way.

All fur garments are thoroughly cleaned when received, after which they are hung on hangers in such a way that the Cold Dry Air can circulate freely throughout.

Make us responsible for your furs this season. We guarantee that they will retain their beauty and brilliancy longer and give you greater wearing satisfaction because we care for them scientifically. We do not simply try to keep the moths out of them, but when they are returned to you in the fall they have an added luster, renewed life, and greater beauty.

One season in our charge and your furs will prove what we say.

CECIL J. HOCKIN,
President of Duluth C. E. Union and Vice President of Minnesota C. E. Union.

CARROLL I. WARREN,
Vice President of the First Presbyterian Church C. E. Society.

ARTHUR E. MANTHEY,
Chairman of the Recreation Committee.

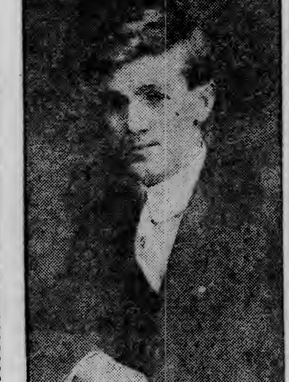

REV. J. A. McGAUGHEY,
Member of State Program Committee and Chairman of Pulpit Supply Committee.

MISS MARGARET TIDBALL,
President of Union Church C. E. Society.

MISS ANNA HICKEN,
Vice President of Duluth C. E. Union.

E. H. McALISTER,
Chairman of Decoration Committee.

CHARLES TOWNER,
Secretary and Treasurer Duluth C. E. Union.

Members of the Christian Endeavor Union of Duluth and others interested in the work done by the various societies represented in this organization are interested in the state convention, which will be held in Duluth June 20 to 23, inclusive.

Nearly 450 societies, with a total membership of about 19,000 members will be represented at this convention, as delegates are coming from all parts of the state. A Great Northern special will arrive Thursday evening at 6:30 and the opening session will be held that evening at 7:45 at the First Presbyterian church, which will be the headquarters of the convention.

After a banquet is served to the delegates at the church a reception will be held and at 9 o'clock a musical program will be given. Business sessions will be held all day Friday and Saturday afternoon a boat excursion up the St. Louis river, when the delegates and local members will be the guests of the Duluth Commercial club, will be one of the special features.

Saturday evening "Christian Citizenship" address will be given by some prominent speaker. The state program committee is endeavoring to secure either Ralph Connor, the noted author of Winnipeg; Professor Raymond Robbins of Chicago or Rev. Charles Stelze, the noted labor pastor.

The Sunday morning big open air service at Chester park at 7 o'clock will also be a special feature. Young people of all churches and denominations are invited to this service.

Sunday morning convention sermons will be preached in all the churches where there is an Endeavor society. The pulpits will be filled by visiting speakers.

Sunday evening a mass meeting at the first Presbyterian church will be the closing session. The new officers elected at one of the business sessions will be installed and an address will be given by the president of the Michigan State Endeavor union.

Cecil J. Hockin, president of the Duluth union and vice president of the Minnesota union, has general charge of all arrangements for this convention and has been ably assisted by other prominent workers of the city. E. H. McAlister is chairman of the decoration committee. Miss Lulu Grogan is chairman of the entertainment for the three days; Rev. J. A McGaughey, who is a member of the state program committee, is chairman of the pulpit supply committee for the Sunday morning services of the convention; Miss Belle Austin has charge of the assigning of outside delegates to the various hostesses who will entertain them during their stay here.

The other officers of the Duluth union are: Miss Anna Hicken, vice president, and Charles Towner, secretary and treasurer.

The various Christian Endeavor societies represented in the Duluth union are those of the First Presbyterian, First Christian, Glen Avon Presbyterian, Harry Webb M. E., Highland Presbyterian, Lakeside Presbyterian, Pilgrim Congregational, Second Presbyterian, Union and Westminster Presbyterian churches.

LEILA STICKLES,
Class Historian.

RUTH ERICSON,
President of 1912 Class.

GEORGE M. STICKLES,
Who Wrote the Class Will.

The commencement exercises opened last Saturday evening with the alumnae banquet at Torrance hall. After a delightful dinner, a program of toasts and speeches was given with the president of the Alumnae association, Miss Vivian Burrell, acting as toastmistress. Mr. Bohannon delivered an address of welcome, which was followed by "My First Year's Experience as a Teacher," by Miss Adeline Buckley, '11. Miss Anne Einsweiler, '12, gave a delightful toast to "This Year's Crop." Her metaphor, that of a garden and its various plants, was very well carried out. Miss Violet Robinson read "The Alumnae Cradle Roll," and a list of the married members of the alumnae. A special feature of the evening was a birthday celebration, according to the custom of many schools and colleges, in honor of the five-year old class, that of 1907, Miss Lillian Olsen, Miss Ray Leland and Mrs. Ell Rose Taylor Hanford spoke in praise of this class, of which they are members. After two pleasing selections, "Sweet and Low" and "The Happy Miller," rendered by the Glee club, J. L. Washburn, resident director of the normal board, talked about "The Trials of a Substitute." Miss Ruth Ericson, president of the class of 1912, spoke in behalf of her class. Dr. L. W. Kline gave a most interesting and instructive talk upon the subject, "Esprit du Corps." This concluded the program. A short business meeting followed. After the reading of the minutes of the last meeting and of the treasurer's report, officers were elected for the ensuing year. Miss Lillian Olsen will succeed Miss Vivian Burrell as president; Miss Maud Grogan's place as secretary will be filled by Miss Florence McKay, and Irene Anderson as treasurer, will be succeeded by Miss Marion Brown. A delightful evening was concluded by the singing of the normal school song.

The tenth annual commencement sermon was preached Sunday afternoon by Rev. John C. Faries. The program was as follows:

Hymn—"Awake, My Soul" ..... Handel
Responsive Reading—Eighth Psalm
Response—"Chorus of Angels," from "Eli" ..... Costa
Anthem—"Holy God, the Lord" .. Downs
Glee Club.
Sermon—"The Better Part" .....
Rev. John C. Faries
Chorus—"The Heavens Show Forth" .....
..... Beethoven

The closing exercises of the training school were given Tuesday afternoon before a large audience. The whole program showed careful drill and faithful practicing on the part of the teachers and the youthful performers. The first number was a charming little Maypole dance by the kindergarten children, in dainty white dresses. Following this, the Seventh and Eighth grades presented a delightful spring melody, accompanied by a toy symphony orchestra. This was written by Haydn during his stay with Prince Esterhazy for the amusement of the prince's guests. John Rakowsky and Edwin Skinner played the first violins; Agnes Alexander, the second violin; Charles Le Richieux,, nightingale; Galen Pearson, quail; Carl Gebauer, rattle; Philip Warner, triangle; Hamilton Phelps, drum; William Richardson, trumpet; Jeanette Wellmanke, piano. The remainder of the Seventh and Eighth grades made up the chorus of twenty-five voices.

The feature of the afternoon, however, was a charming fairy cantata, "Midsummer's Eve," in which the lower six grades participated.

The class day exercises were held Wednesday morning in the chapel. Each class gave its own songs and yells. Especially notable among these were the freshman songs, "And Freshman Is Our Name," and "Oh, You Freshman Class," and the senior songs "To Our Alma Mater," and "Wallace's Spellers," a parody on "Alexander's Rag Time Band." Miss Lelia Stickles read from a huge volume interesting extracts from the class history, with amusing comments upon each event. George Stickles read a last will and testament several yards long, in which bequests were made to each class and to each member of the faculty. Miss Janet Haley followed with a clever prophecy in which all of the seniors figured, chiefly in woman's suffrage parades, Orpheum programs or weddings.

Wednesday evening the seniors and members of the faculty were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Washburn at Hunter's Park. The afternoon was spent in cards, croquet, and conversation, and after a delightful dinner, songs, readings, etc., made the evening a pleasant one. Solos were rendered by Miss Maude Matteson and Miss Betsy Duclett, and readings were given by Edna Savage, May Ferguson and Louise Coe. Miss Harriet eStryker delighted the girls with her fancy dancing, and Mr. Washburn caused much merriment with his alphabetical sermon, in whics only the letters of the alphabet figured, but with all the intonations and gestures of the usual sermon.

Hymn—"The Spacious Firmament" .. Haydn
Scripture reading—cxlviii Psalm....
Response—Gloria Patri.....
Piano solo—"The Trout" .....
Ruth Geddes.
(a) "One Spring Morning".....Nevin
(b) "Garden of Flowers" .....Denza
Address—"The Larger Selfishness"
President George E. Vincent.
Gypsy chorus—(Preciosa) .....Weber School.
Presentation of diplomas.....
J. L. Washburn.
Class Song—"To Our Alma Mater"..
Words by Miss Ruth Ericson.

PUPILS OF SALTER SCHOOL WILL HOLD MANUAL ARTS AND INDUSTRIAL EXHIBIT

IN THE CARPENTER SHOP.

CLASS IN MANUAL TRAINING.

E. A. MOONEY,
Principal of Salter School.

FRANK GOTTWALD,
Instructor of Manual Arts.

A big manual arts and industrial exhibit will be held in the Salter school next Wednesday, June 12. Elemenetary manual training work, mechanical drawing and advanced woodwork, including house furnishings and useful articles for the home will be included in the manual arts exhibit and the industrial exhibit will show the products of various leading manufacturing concerns of this city in various stages of development.

Some of the manufacturing products which will be shown will be from F. A. Patrick company, Duluth Universal Milling company, Northern Shoe company, Union Match company, Zenith Broom company, Clyde Iron works, Duluth Linen company, and the Gowan-Peyton-Congdon company.

All afternoon classes in manual and domestic arts will be conducted in the departments on the ground floor and the main floor will be given up to the industrial and mechanical drawing exhibit and the woodwork will be exhibited on the second floor. Frank J. Gottwald is the instructor in charge of the manual training department of this school.

Edward F. Geiger, director of manual training in the public schools, will examine the work of the boys of this department who are members of the higher grades of the Salter, Jefferson and Endion schools, and will award prizes which have been offered by the Quayle-Larsen company.

The first prize will be a manual training bench, second a set of bench tools and third, three woodworking tools.

The school garden, too deserves a word of praise for the boys and girls of the school have made an excellent looking garden in a vacant lot across from the school building at Sixteenth avenue east and London road.

The exhibit will be open to the public all day Wednesday and anyone interested will be welcome to visit the school and see the displays.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

Criticism of Some of the Paintings Seen in the Courthouse—Exhibit Will Remain Open All Next Week.

UNDER the auspices of the Duluth Art association the exhibition of the Minnesota State Art society was opened with an address by Dr. George E. Vincent of the state university Thursday morning. The pictures and sculpture loaned from the Chicago Art Institute, the American Federation of Art and the MacDowell club of New York constitute one of the best exhibitions shown here by the society.

While nearly all the pictures shown are of high merit, some are especially striking.

Perhaps among the figure subjects "Girl in Green," a three-quarters length out-of-doors portrait by Jean M. McLane, will attract the most attention with its vivid color and striking pose.

"The Fledgeling," a head by Cecilia Baux, is an example of masterful simplicity. Jonas Lie shows lower Broadway at twilight, the wet pavements reflecting the color.

Colin Campbell Cooper's "Old Church, Dordrecht" has been one of the popular paintings in the exhibition and has a little group of admirers around it most of the time.

Gardner Symons' "Winter Sun" is a marvelously successful interpretation of afternoon light across snow and running water and quite dominates one end of the gallery. "Early Morning, Harlem River" by Earnest Lawson is beautiful in color and suggests mosaic.

Robert Henri has two characteristic pictures, "La Madrilenita" and "Laughing Girl," direct and broad in treatment. If there is any sharing of criticism, Mr. Hackin's portrait of "A Russian Girl" will fairly invite it.

Both "The Flenickers" by Frank Nankiwell and "In My Garden" by Putnam Brinley are painted in pure color and are brilliant and vibrating.

Perhaps a bit hard to understand is "Monhegon" Frederick Waugh. The rush of water out of the mist and swirl of foam against the rocks can only be made out after some study. There is a masterful portrait by Louis Betts of William R. French of the Chicago Art Institute.

Two bronze statuettes by Prince Paul Troubetsky are loaned by Mrs. Harold McCormick of Chicago. They are the two most important bronzes in the exhibit.

Minnesota Art.

About half of the pictures are by Minnesota artists. Robert Koehler, director of the Minneapolis Art school, has a portrait that is quiet in color, but fine in sentiment, and a canvas entitled "In the Grip of Winter," looking over snow-covered housetops where a tall building shows faintly.

David Ericson has three characteristic canvases, the one called "Night" winning the first prize for painting; the second prize being a portrait by Nickolas Brewer, who has two good landscapes in the exhibition.

C. C. Rosenkranz of Duluth has three pictures, one "The Poplars," decorative in composition; also "Summer," a rich green picture. They have attracted most favorable comment, being some of the best work Mr. Rosenkranz has done.

Edwin H. Hewitt, who is known in Duluth in his architectural work, has two sketches.

Elizabeth Ronta and Nathaniel Poussette of the St. Paul Institute have landscapes that have charm and good handling.

H. George Brandt's "Minnesota Skies" was painted near Duluth, has fresh bright color and shows the great promise of this young painter.

Among the sculpture, Mrs. Jesse Keats has a striking bust of Governor Eberhart that attracts much attention and five lively little statuettes.

There are some fine water colors by William H. Holmes, in which the students of water color will find much to admire.

The handicraft section is large and varied and consists of metal work, jewelry, leather work, designs for the crafts, weaving lace and embroidery.

The exhibition is open from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m. and is free. The exhibition will close June 16.

Womans Auxiliary.

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Episcopal church will meet with Mrs. Henry Taylor, 114 South Sixteenth avenue east Friday afternoon, June 14 at 2:45 o'clock. The subject will be "The Hawaiian Islands," and the leaders, Mrs. G. A. St. Clair and Mrs. James Wanless.

Silver Guild.

Miss Edna Harris will be hostess to the members of the Silver Guild of St. Paul's Episcopal church Monday evening at her home in Lakeside. A picnic supper will be served in the grove in the yard.

SYMPHONY IS THE FEATURE

Tchaikowski's Masterpiece Splendidly Rendered By Minneapolis Orchestra.

Mr. Oberhoffer's Organization Never Heard to Better Advantage.

TCHAIKOWSKI'S beautiful Fifth symphony was the feature of the opening concert by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra at the Lyceum last evening. The theater was well filled. There have been larger audiences to hear the Minneapolis orchestra in Duluth, but none more enthusiastic or more thoroughly appreciative.

The Minneapolis orchestra has been the chief factor in building up a spirit of musical appreciation in Duluth. It may be that the orchestra is steadily improving, and recent triumphs in New York would indicate this, or it may be that Duluth's taste is improving, or probably both, but each succeeding concert by the magnificent organization of musicians from the Flour City seems to be more enjoyable than the last.

Tchaikowski's Fifth symphony is by many thought to be the famous Russian's greatest work, although the Sixth or "Pathetique" has many warm admirers. The workmanship is brilliant. There is one main theme which is brought in during every movement, this theme being the one with which the symphony opens. This preludial andante is pessimistic in tone, being marked with heavy chords. The allegro has a very striking main theme with a curious halting effect produced by syncopation. It is said to have been developed from a Polish folk song.

The second movement or andante cantabile is a long love song, which leaves an impression of peacefulness and beauty.

A graceful little waltz forms the third movement, and the original "fate" theme appears in a very subdued form.

In the last movement this theme holds full sway, and forms a solemn festal march, ending with a reiteration of the Polish folk song theme ending jubilantly in the major key.

It is a symphony which must be heard again and again to be appreciated, and each rendition seems to bring out new beauties. It has been heard in Duluth once before, but never by any other orchestra than Mr. Oberhoffer's. A Duluth audience is not therefore capable of criticising the interpretation given it by Mr. Oberhoffer and his musicians. The majority of those who heard it last evening, however, would be perfectly content to miss hearing it played by other orchestras if they could hear the Minneapolis organization play it when they felt so inclined. It was given with fire, life, and a thorough appreciation of its beauties.

The remainder of the program was excellent. A fantastic suite by MacDowell, including "In a Haunted Forest," "Summer Idyl," "In October," was delightfully played.

Two intermezzi from "The Jewels of Madonna" and a selection from Moszkowski's "Boabdil" completed the orchestra part of the program.

The soloists were Lucille Stevenson, whose clear and powerful soprano voice was heard to good effect in a selection from "Pagliacci," and Horatio Connell, who is the possessor of a rich and sweet baritone. He sang an aria from Verdi's "Masked Ball."

This afternoon a popular matinee concert was given, and tonight will be grand operatic night. The program for tonight follows:

Soloists—Lucille Stevenson, soprano; Genevieve Wheat, contralto; Joseph Schenke, tenor; Horatio Connell, baritone.

Overture to "Rienzi" .....Wagner
Baritone solo—"Wolfram's Song to the Evening Star" .....Wagner
Horatio Connell.
Finale to "Rhinegold"—(Entrance of the Gods into Valhalla) .....Wagner
Tenor solo—Walther's prize song from "Meistersinger" .....Wagner
Joseph Schenke.
Prelude and Isolde's "Liebestod" from "Tristan and Isolde"....Wagner
Isolde—Lucille Stevenson.
"Dance of Nymphs and Satyrs" .....
..... George Schumann
Contralto solo—Aria from "Don Carlos" (O Don Fatale).....Verdi
Genevieve Wheat.

TESTIMONIAL CONCERT.

Musicians of City Will Honor Talented Young Pianist.

A TESTIMONIAL concert for Miss Frances Berg will be given next Tuesday evening at the Y. W. C. A. assembly hall under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Dworshak.

Miss Berg is a pianist of unusual ability with the instincts of a torough musician and a sincerity of purpose which are bound to succeed.

Miss Berg has been a pupil of Mrs. Dworshak's for the past eight years, taking all of her training under her direction and she worked steadily and faithfully. Her playing displays an artistic ability and an understanding of music and technique surprising in a girl of only 18 years of age and she has been highly praised by the best musicians of the city. She is the youngest member of the Matinee Musicale and has played on several of their programs, as well as on many programs during the past few years.

When she was just 15 years old she gave an entire program which contained many heavy numbers and her work was then praised highly, and since that time by her evident sincerity and apparent ability she has won the regard and fraternal interest of the older musicians of the city, who are all anxious for her success.

Miss Berg will leave in the fall for further study of music in Chicago and the musicians of the city are giving this testimonial concert for her in expression of their regard and interest.

The program, which has been arranged by Mrs. Dworshak, is exceptionally interesting and will be opened by Miss Berg with a portion of Schumann's "Faschingsschwank," a tremendous number, which in itself is a test of ability. She has not given this number before on any of her programs.

Miss Catherine Morton, soprano; George Suffel, baritone; Miss Florence Hyland, soprano; and Miss Wally Heymar, violinist, of this city will assist, and John Longtin, tenor, of Superior will also sing.

The program follows:

"Faschingsschwank" ..... Schumann
Miss Frances Berg.
"Stolen?" ..... Fisher
"Through a Primrose Dell" .....Spross
Miss Catherine Morton.
"Where'er You Walk" .....Handel
"Invictus" ..... Huhn
George Suffel.
"Waldesrauschen" ..... Liszt
Etude Op. 10, No. 12.....Chopin
Etude Op. 10, No. 3.....Chopin
Miss Berg.
"Lied" ..... Eckert
"Down in the Forest" .....Ronald
"Flower Rain" ..... Schneider
Miss Florence Hyland.
"Wilhelinj Walther's Prize Song"....
..... Wagner
"Spanish Dance" ..... Rehfeld
Miss Wally Heymar.
"Oh, so Pure" .....Spicker
John Longtin.
"Poupee Valsante" .....Poldini
Gavottee ..... Renaud
Impromptu ..... Reinhold
Miss Berg.

POOR ATTENDANCE.

Children Do Not Half Fill Lyceum for Orchestra Matinee.

THE members of the Matinee Musicale who have been interested in the school children's matinee which the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra gave yesterday afternoon at the Lyceum theater and who have given little talks on the pieces played and have illustrated with some of the music at the various schools in the city during the past week, are: Miss Josephine Peyton, Mrs. Stephen H. Jones, Miss Berta Schmied, Miss Clara Stocker, Miss Florence Williams, Miss Juanita Williams, Mrs. A. B. Siewert, Mrs. Stella Prince Stocker and Miss Clara Stocker.

which the club does and the opportunity offered by public spirited citizens for the little folks to hear a great organization like the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra is of inestimable advantage and yet the audience yesterday did not half fill the house.

At former school matinees the house has been filled and the falling off of attendance is hard to account for, as the youngsters have been filled with the highest enthusiasm at previous concerts.

That this school concert should be sustained and not allowed to be discontinued, is the belief of the club members.

WILL BE GIVEN BENEFIT CONCERT

SIGURD ERDTMAN.

Mr. Erdtman will be given a benefit concert June 20, previous to his departure for a course of study abroad.

WILL GIVE CONCERT.

Miss Alice Sjoselius Will Be Heard Again Before Leaving for Europe.

MISS ALICE SJOSELIUS will be home the last of next week and will appear in concert here on Monday evening, June 17, at the Swedish Baptist church, corner Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. She will be assisted by Miss Faith Roberg of Superior who is a delightfully artistic pianiste and the two should draw a large audience.

Miss Sjoselius will sail from New York on June 29 for Switzerland, where she will continue her study of vocal music with Mme. Schoen Rene, who is spending the summer there. Miss Sjoselius will also give two concerts on the range before leaving, one in Virginia on June 18 and one in Hibbing on June 19.

The numbers which she will sing on her Duluth program are:

"My Heart Ever Faithful".....Bach
"Where'er You Walk".....Handel
Swedish Folk Songs—
(a)—"Spinn, Spinn".....
(b)—"Till Osterland Vill Jag Fara"
(c)—"I Villande Skogen".....
(d)—"Vorten Ar".....
"Barcarolle".....Schubert
"Fruhlingsnacht".....Schumann
"Widmung".....Franz
"Mit Einer Primula Veris".....Grieg
"In April".....Hawley
"Joy Is Abroad".....Neidlinger
"I Know a Bank".....Parker

MASS MEETING

Women of City Will Hear Talk at the Y. W. C. A.

Women of the city are invited to a big mass meeting to be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. assembly hall when Mrs. D. B. Wells of Chicago will give an address on "The Meaning of the World's Unrest." This topic will deal mainly with the new Chinese Republic and will give a world vision of conditions of the present day.

Miss Grace Lindley of New York will also speak on "The King and His Kingdom."

Mrs. George Richards will sing and any one interested will be welcome and admission will be by tickets which can be procured at the Y. W. C. A.

Monday evening Mrs. Wells will speak again at the Y. W. C. A. hall on "Mormonism." To this meeting both men and women but men especially are urged to attend.

Both of these meetings are free and Mrs. Wells is a forceful speaker with a broad grasp of conditions and her talks should prove of general interest.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS WILL MEET TUESDAY.

THE Duluth Graded Elementary Union of Sunday School Workers will meet Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street. M. Glover will lead the devotional exercises and there will be music by Miss Nellie Olsen, followed by the transaction of business. The topic for the evening will be "How to Teach Missions," by Mrs. F. H. Rogers, and this discussion will be followed by round table discussions for the following section, beginners, primary and junior.

The purpose of this union is to provide practical helps for all interested in the religious training of the young. Anyone interested is invited.

Honor Mrs. Woodbridge.

THE name of Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge which has always been prominent in club life and civic work in Duluth was again added to the roll of the Woman's Council yesterday. Mrs. Woodbridge attended the regular monthly meeting of that organization for the first time in over two years, and most of which time she has spent in California.

The motion to place her name on the rolls again was honored with sincere applause and a unanimous affirmative vote.

Mrs. Woodbridge was the Council's first president and held the chair again in other terms and her advice and judgment has always been depended on to help solve the problems of hte Council judiciously.

Karma League.

THE Karma and Reincarnation league which has been meeting on Friday evenings at 8 o'clock in the lodge rooms of the theosophical society No. 28 Winthrop block, will meet hereafter on Monday evenings at the same time and place instead of Friday evenings.

The league commenced the study last evening of Mrs. Besant's "Manual on Reincarnation," and will continue the same on Monday evenings.

The subject read and discussed by the league members last evening was that reincarnation is a truth that has swayed the minds of innumerable millions and has moulded the thoughts of the vast majority for uncounted centuries. It dropped out of the European mind during the Dark Ages, and so ceased to influence modern mental and moral development. For the last hundred years it has from time to time flashed through the minds of some of the greater Westerns, as a possible explanation of some of life's most puzzling problems, and since its clear enunciation as an essential part of the esoteric teaching, it has been constantly debated, and is constantly gaining ground, among the more thoughtful students of the mysteries of life and of evolution.

That many of the world's great souls and thinkers have embraced and taught it as Paracelsus, Boehme, Swedenborg, Giordano, Bruno, Campanella, Schopenhauer, Lessing, Hegel, Leibnitz, Fichte, the younger, Henry More, Cudworth, Hume, Fourier and Leroux, was claimed.

That the teaching of Reincarnation was included as a fundamental tenet in the great historical religions of the East was also asserted.

The meaning of reincarnation, and "What It Is That Reincarnates" will be the subject studied and discussed by the league members at their next meeting.

The meetings of the league are open to anybody interested in the subject.

Guild Will Meet.

The Guild of St. James will meet Friday morning, June 14, at the St. James Orphanage at 9 a. m.

Sunday Services in Duluth Churches

Many of the Duluth churches tomorrow will observe Children's day. This day, the second Sunday in June, is celebrated by Presbyterian, Baptist, Lutheran and many other denominations. The object of the day is to devote special attention to Sunday school work, and to impress upon the minds of the children the importance of working for the establishment of new Sunday schools, as the country grows. As a rule, the minister preaches his morning sermon to the children, his sermon being especially adapted to them, and covering some subject having special reference to Sunday school work. The churches often have special decorations for the occasion, and special programs are prepared, the main idea being to make the Sunday school as attractive as possible to the children and to stir up all the enthusiasm possible in their young minds for Sunday school work.

Children's day is now generally observed throughout the United States. The General Assembly of the Presbyterian churches of America has made the day an annual affair in all its churches. The offering that is taken up at the Children's day service is turned directly over to the Presbyterian Sunday School Board of America, and is used by that body for the establishment of new Sunday schools.

Many of the Sunday schools make Children's day an occasion for promotion of the children from one grade to another. This being an annual affair, the children naturally take all the more interest in the day on account of the promotions. Tomorrow promotion diplomas will be awarded to nearly 100 children in the Sunday school of the First Presbyterian church alone.

St. Paul's—Services Sunday, June 9, in St. Paul's church, Lake avenue north and Second street, of which Rev. A. W. Ryan is rector, will be as follows: 8 a. m., holy communion; 10 a. m., Sunday school; 11 a. m., morning prayer, litany and sermon, "Demas, the Renegade;" 7:30 p. m., evening prayer and sermon, "The Joys of the Pilgrimage." On Tuesday, June 11, St. Barnabas' day, holy communion will be held at 10 a. m. The Woman's Auxiliary meeting will take place at 2:45 o'clock Friday, June 14, with Mrs. Henry Taylor, 114 South Sixteenth avenue east; subject, "Hawaiian Islands."

CHILD STILL UNCONSCIOUS

Little West End Girl May Not Recover From Fall.

Agnes Mehrman, the 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mehrman, 1723 New street, who fell twenty-seven feet from the top of the porch at her home Tuesday afternoon, is still in an unconscious condition at St. Mary's hospital, where she was taken immediately after the accident.

The child has not regained consciousness since the accident, and although she has slightly improved during the past forty-eight hours, her recovery is doubtful. The child's skull was slightly fractured. One of the hospital attendants said this morning, that should no internal complications follow, the child may recover consciousness and probably recover from the fracture of the skull.

The accident occurred at 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, while Agnes and several of her playmates were playing on the porch of the Mehrman home. The children were watching a workman carrying some boards through a window of the home, when Agnes leaned over too far, falling to the ground. The child was immediately rushed to the hospital, where she was attended by Dr. J. W. Ekblad.

LAST OF SERIES OF MONTHLY BANQUETS.

The Baptist Brotherhood of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, ended the series of monthly banquets and meetings last evening. The special study of social conditions in the West end and the city at large ended for the year with the meeting yesterday.

The ladies of the church served the banquet at 6:30 o'clock, Rev. J. H. Giffin presiding. Following the banquet the members held a general discussion on the subjects for the month. They are:

"Does our industrial system promote irreligion among men?"

"How can the church and workingmen work together?"

"What is the remedy for drunkenness?"

"Does Sunday give sufficient rest for the workingman?"

"What are the possibilities of a united church?"

"What more can our church do for the welfare of young people?"

A number of interesting facts were brought out during the discussions. Following the meeting the members voted to begin another series of these discussions some time in the near future. The last set was started Feb 2, and since then the members have discussed the saloon, Sunday labor cost of living, recreations of the young, church co-operation, labor unions, wage rates, Sunday pleasures, school societies and religious societies.

FEWER DOGS AND MORE LIGHTS WANTED.

The Fifth Ward Improement club is now attempting to reduce the large number of dogs in this end of the city. At a recent meeting a special committee was appointed to take the matter up with the police department and plan for the extermination of the stray dogs of the West end.

Residents claim that school children especially are in constant danger of being bitten while they are playing on the streets or going to and from school. They say that the reduction in the number of dogs would not only free the community from this unnecessary danger, but would also assist in keeping the district clean.

The members of the club will hold their regular meeting the early part of next week at the Emerson school. The lighting system for the hillside will be the most important subject of the meeting. There are a number of streets here which are in total darkness in the evening. It is this condition that the club is anxious to remedy.

PREPARING FOR DEDICATION OF HALL.

The executive committee of the Duluth camp, No. 2341, Modern Woodmen of America, last evening began to prepare for the dedication of the new Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street. The hall will be dedicated on Thursday afternoon, June 27.

O. W. Olson, chairman of the executive committee of the camp, announced the following sub-committees to assist in the preparing of the exercises:

Program, L. A. Larson, C. Henson, George M. Jenson; advertising, George M. Jensen, Charles Skogren and Charles Hasselstrom; reception, A. M. Anderson, R. C. Conning, J. C. Quade, John Mork, James W. Preston, A. Bergren, J. C. Mork, C. J. Marsh, J. Thorson, Ralph H. Wellington, R. Chogren, J. J. Pipic and George M. Peterson.

Mr. Olson announced last evening that the various sub-committees will meet at the hall Tuesday evening. The invitation committee expects to secure a special train for the range camps.

MORE THAN HALF OF FUND RAISED.

Nearly $1,500 of the necessary $2,500 has been secured by the Young People's society of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, in their campaign to secure sufficient funds for the purchase of a pipe organ for the church.

The campaign for the $2,500 was begun the latter part of last winter and the fact that over half of the money has already been subscribed looks promising to the members of the society. Special district committees have been appointed in the canvassing of the members of the church and the remainder of the desired amount is expected by next fall.

The officers of the society in charge of the subscription campaign are as follows: Rev. J. M. Nervig, pastor of the church, president; P. Orsmund, vice president; Miss Agnes Midthune, secretary, and C. O. Grotting, treasurer. An entertainment for the benefit of the organ fund is being planned by the members of the society.

Memorial Service.

The annual memorial services of the Duluth camp, No. 2341, Modern Woodmen, will be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Second street. Rev. George E. Silloway, pastor of the church, will preach the sermon and conduct the services. The members of the camp will meet at 10 o'clock at the Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street, from where they will march in a body to the church. About 500 members of the camp are expected to attend the services in honor of those who died during the past year.

Class for Young Men.

The Young Men's Bible class of the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, is anxious to have a large number of young men attend the meetings of the class at the regular Sunday morning sessions. They have issued a general invitation to the young men of this end of the city. Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the church, is in charge of the class and the lessons taught are all in English.

Edberg Funeral.

The funeral of Andrew Edberg, 45 years old, of Virginia, who died at St. Luke's hospital Thursday afternoon after an illness of several weeks, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms, 2118 West First street. Rev. C. O. Swan of the First Lutheran church officiated and interment was in Park Hill cemetery.

Sermon on Satan.

Rev. J. A. McGaughey of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, will preach on "His Work" at the evening services tomorrow. This is the second sermon in the series on Satan to be given for the next four weeks. The subject last Sunday was "His Origin."

Meeting Postponed.

The regular meeting of the West End Commercial club, scheduled for last evening, was postponed on account of a number of the members being out of the city. The paving reports, which were to have been announced last evening, will be given by the committee next week.

Children's Day.

The Sunday school of the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, will observe Children's day tomorrow. A special program of speeches, music and solos will be rendered at the morning and evening services.

Sunday Excursion.

The steamer Plowboy will leave dock at Twenty-first avenue west at 9 a. m. tomorrow for a trip to Fond du Lac returning at 6:45 p. m.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES

The topic to be studied by Endeavorers at their regular Sunday services on Sunday, June 9, will be "Happy Memories—How to Make Sure of Them," I. Thess. 1:1-10.

The following notices have been reported to the local union:

The First Presbyterian Endeavor society meets at 6:15 p. m. in the church parlors. Miss Cora Slymiest will lead.

The Union Church C. E. society meets at 7 p. m. in the K. P. hall, 118 West Superior street, and Mrs. Ellis McAllister will have charge of this service. At this meeting the regular monthly offering will be taken.

The Lakeside Presbyterian society meets at 6 p. m. in the Endeavor room and this meeting will be in the form of an absent and former members' service.

The Second Presbyterian Endeavor society meets at 7 p. m. The leader of this meeting will be George Trelfoced.

The Highland Presbyterian C. E. society meets at 7 p. m. in the church and will be under the leadership of Elmer Brayton.

The Baptist Young People's society meets at 7 p. m. and the leader will be Edward D. Rauck.

This week's meeting in several of the societies will be in the form of a memorial to the former members, and letters have been written to these members calling their attention to this service, asking for a message to the society. Their answers will be read at the meetings of the societies using this plan.

The regular Sunday service at the poor farm, on June 9, will be under the auspices of the Young People's society of the First Presbyterian church.

On Monday evening, June 10, the Endeavor society of the Second Presbyterian church will hold its regular monthly business meeting in the church.

The convention committee announces that the Commercial club has assumed entire charge of the Saturday afternoon outing, June 22, chartering a boat entirely for the visiting Endeavorers. The trip will be to Fond du Lac. All arrangements by the Duluth Endeavorers are practically completed and indications point to a good attendance by outside delegates.

HILLSIDERS' PROBLEMS WILL BE DISCUSSED BY CLUB MEMBERS

Civic questions concerning the hillside district will be discussed by the West End Hillside Improvement club at its regular meeting next week. The meeting will be held at the Ensign school, Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street.

One of the most important features to be taken up is the proposed street car extension to Hermantown and Proctor.

The following committee will make its first report to the club on the proposed re-establishing of the former grado on Twenty-third avenue west: J. A. Rivers, Henry Trulson and Christ Nelson. The residents claim that the grade has been washed out since it was established six years ago. This condition is dangerous to the houses on the avenue, because of the large amount of water which now runs into the yards and lots instead of running into the sewers.

The following committee has appeared before the council requesting the members to install a drinking fountain at Piedmont avenue and the boulevard: E. Er

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Some Promises Made by the Press Agents for Coming Attractions

AT THE EMPRESS

For the second week of the summer season the patrons of the Empress will be offered an entertaining bill of vaudeville and pictures as the show which opens for a week's engagement commencing Sunday, will be stronger than that offered during the past week. For the summer months only the Empress is offering six vaudeville and picture features at the small admission price of 10 cents, except Sundays and holidays, when the best seats will sell at 20 cents. This change is in line with the policy of all the Sullivan & Considine theaters throughout the hot summer months, and the patrons of the Empress are guaranteed a clean and refined entertainment at a very small admission price. The Empress is cooled by the most modern ventilating system known to theatrical architects and the air in the auditorium is changed every two minutes by means of five powerful electric fans which are constantly forcing cooled and filtered air into the theater. The management of the Empress has secured exclusive film service whereby only absolutely first-run licensed pictures will be shown.

In Paul Gordon and Rica the patrons of the Empress will see a most versatile and capable team of entertainers. Their offering consists of cycling, singing, dancing and talking and they are said to be exceptionally clever in each of the above mentioned lines of entertainment. Mr. Gordon has long been known as one of the greatest trick bicycle riders in the theatrical world and during the course of their act he will present a series of evolutions upon the bicycle that are said to be extremely difficult and highly sensational. Miss Rica is known as a charming comedienne. Blessed with a pleasing voice and an engaging personality, she wins her audience from the start and she will probably become a favorite during her engagement in this city.

The management of the Empress announces the engagement of Miss Esther Niessen, "the Norwegian Nightingale." Miss Neissen is favorably known to the Scandinavian population of this city, either by reputation or through having seen her. She is known as one of Norway's cleverest daughters and her engagement at the Empress will give the Scandinavians of this city an opportunity to see one of their most noted countrywomen. Miss Neissen came to America last season for an exclusive tour of the Sullivan & Considine circuit and created a sensation at each of the houses in which she appeared. In Seattle, so great was her success that the management was forced to hold her over for five weeks. In San Francisco Miss Neissen's engagement was lengthened from one to six weeks. She is now on her way back to New York and thence to Europe, where she has engagements until the year 1915. She has had many flattering offers to appear in grand opera, but so far has preferred to remain in vaudeville.

Kennedy and Burt will be seen in their singing and talking specialty, "Love in the Rain." This little offering is said to be one of the most entertaining and pleasing of its kind in vaudeville. Miss Burt is the possessor of a clear soprano, while Mr. Kennedy is blessed with a resonant baritone. During the course of their turn, Kennedy and Burt will introduce several of the latest song hits.

For the first half of the coming week, the management of the Empress has secured three exceptionally fine motion picture subjects. The comedy subject for the first change will be "The Dream of a Motion Picture Director." This film is produced by the Lubin company and is considered one of the best comedy subjects ever turned out by that company. This subject deals with a motion picture director who has been called upon to produce a motion picture play. Inside of an hour and while the stage hands are setting the stage for the production, he falls asleep and has a fantastic dream in which all the members of his company play a part. The comedy in this subject is convulsing and it is up to the standard set by all Lubin comedy films. "The Cylinder's Secret," an intensely dramatic subject, by the Vitagraph company, is the second offering for the week. In this picture-play, the dictagraph plays a prominent part and is the means of saving an innocent man from the gallows. The Selig company is noted for its excellent presentation of war stories and "A Reconstructed Rebel," the third subject for the week, is said to be one of their best. This film tells a tale of two flags and two old veterans who fought on opposite sides during the Civil war. The action during this photoplay is very stirring and the climax comes as a direct surprise to the audience. All three of these subjects are guaranteed "first-run film" and are said to represent the highest degree of perfection in picture play.

Commencing Saturday afternoon and continuing throughout the summer season, the Empress will present a special school children's matinee each Saturday afternoon. All students under 14 years of age will be admitted for 5 cents. It is the desire of the management of the Empress to cater to ladies and children and special attention will be paid to their comfort and entertainment at all times.

AT THE LYCEUM

The opening production of the summer season of musical stock is a three-act play on current events and promises to be a diversion for theater goers of Duluth. The Boston Lyric Comedy company of Chicago will open its season tomorrow evening at the Lyceum theater, featuring the stellar attraction of the show, "The Politicians."

The story deals with a local political situation and is framed on the lines of several of the Ziegfield New York successes, many of which have been seen at the Lyceum. The main attractions in New York during the summer months is "The Follies," and it is just such a production that is to be featured every week during the summer months.

The cast has been carefully selected by Col. William A. Thompson and includes Charlie Sinclair, former producer for Mr. Ziegfeld and for Henry W. Savage; Miss Lillian Crossman, last year with "Madame Sherry;" that vivacious ragtime singer and turkey trot dancer, Pearl Evans; Miss Ada Morrison, another Ziegfelder, and not "Tommy Atkins," but Tommy Allen, leader of the suffragettes and who received great praise from the Chicago press for her clever work at the Press club play last week. The comedians include George and Louis Pearl and John Burns, well known in vaudeville. Denton Vaine, from Frank Daniel's company and Karl Stall. The show-girls are splendid dancers and their song numbers are catchy.

"Teddy R." and "Billy T." are the two central figures and the many political satellites and suffragettes are centered around them. "Teddy" and "Bill" are Republicans, of course, and they secure election to the main offices of the town that has always been Democratic. They are elected principally by suffragettes and a floating element, which they grab off the freight trains passing through the town. The suffragist speeches are the hit of the show. It has been a dry town and they make it wet and arrange to intersperse the saloons and gambling houses with the residences, when it is suddenly discovered that they are not residents of the town and have no right to hold office. They are then ousted.

At the induction into office there is much merry making and the barn-dance made famous in the Olympia theater, Paris, last season is featured in the production next week. The aeroplane number, which created such a sensation in Ziegfeld's "Follies" last summer is also included among the musical numbers of the show. The aeroplane number was first played on the American Roof Garden in New York and has never been repeated outside of that city.

"The Follies of June 9" will play the entire week, with special matinees Wednesday and Saturday. Popular prices will prevail throughout the season.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

William Faversham, who recently closed his tour in "The Faun" and sailed for Europe on the Oceanic last Saturday with his wife and children, announces that he will make his first Shakespearean production at one of the leading Shubert theaters in New York next autmn, opening on Nov. 4. He has decided to present "Julius Caesar," and will be supported by a special company, including Tyrone Power, Frank Keenan, Fuller Mellish, Julie Opp, Suzanne Sheldon, Berton Churchill and Arthur Elliott. Mr. Faversham will play "Antony," Mr. Power "Brutus," Mr. Keenan "Cassius," and Miss Opp "Portia."

Lara Hope Crews is to be starred next season by Kaw & Erlanger in a new play being written for her by A. E. Thomas. It is to be staged by Henry Miller, who will be financially interested in the venture. Mr. Miller will continue his engagement in "The Rainbow" at the Liberty, in New York, until the real hot weather, but will reduce expenses by letting out some of the principals, replacing them with cheaper people. Among those slated to get are Hope Latham, Miss Crews and Effingham Pinto.

* * *

Arrangements have been completed for Crystal Herne to star next season in a new play by Augustus Thomas entitled "When It Comes Home," under the management of Klaw & Erlanger.

As a result of his visit to Chicago and an inspection of the play "Ready Money," A. H. Woods has awarded to James Montgomery the commission of adapting the Viennese opera, now called "The Woman Haters' Club."

Two of the best known acts in vaudeville, the Four Mortons and the Four Fords, will disband shortly. In the case of the Mortons, the visit of the stork to the home of Clara Morton necessitates her retirement from the stage. The elder Fords, Eddie and Kitty Morton, will continue in a double act, while Paul Morton will probably be seen in a Broadway production.

The Four Fords will split up into three acts. Maude and Ford are to appear in a Greek pantomine, Eddie Ford in a dancing act, assisted by four young women, and Max Ford will try a single act.

Josephine Jacoby, formerly of the Metropolitan opera house, will be a member of the Gilbert & Sullivan Opera company which will present "Pinafore," "The Mikado," "Patience" and "The Pirates of Penzance" on tour next season. Miss Jacoby, it will be remembered, sang in the star revival of "The Mikado" made by the Shuberts season before last.

After all Sam Bernard has decided to visit London. He will accompany Lee Shubert abroad the early part of June. Mr. Bernard, of course, goes to London in the interest of "Ah, du lieber Augustine," the American rights of which are held by the Shuberts. The piece is now running in London under the English title of "Princess Caprice."

Although the New York Hippidrome has been closed less than two weeks, rehearsals for the coming season's production will be called July 1. The re-opening, which is scheduled for the latter part of August, will find Arthur Voegtlin, Carrol Fleming and William J. Wilson in charge of the stage.

Anna Wheaton has replaced Frances Cameron in support of James T. Powers. Miss Cameron appeared as one of the "Two Little Brides" in the musical play of the same name.

It is rumored that Mike Donlin and Charles Marks of Pittsburg are to arrange a high class regular attraction, of which one-half will be the Mabel Hite's cabaret show and the other half will be devoted to operetta or burlesque. The whole is to be similar to Ziegfeld's "Follies."

* * *

One of next season's attractions will be a new musical play by Glen Macdonough and Raymond Hubbell. Klaw & Erlanger have entered into a contract for the producing rights. The present title of the piece is "American Extravagance Abroad." Dec. 1 is the scheduled date of production.

The announcement that Oscar Hammerstein has engaged Vinie Daly, former vaudevillian, recalls the fact that Miss Daly will return to American vaudeville in the fall. She is under a contract made by Martin Beck to sing the principal role in Leo Fall's "The Eternal Waltz," which was one of the productions planned for the new Palace theater. Her engagement in London does not preclude her from appearing in the Keith and Orpheum theaters next season, according to the bookings arranged by Mr. Beck and E. F. Albee.

Julie Ring, sister of Blanche, has arranged to revive in the fall, "A Yankee Girl," the musical play that already has served the Ring family to good purpose.

The John W. Rumsey Play company has purchased from Walter Hackett the rights to a new comedy on which he is at present laboring. The piece is entitled "The Best Policy."

On May 25 Henry Stanford opened in the leading part in J. Hartley Manner's new play, "Peg o' My Heart," at the Burbank theater, Los Angeles, Cal. Laurette Taylor is playing the title role.

Channing Pollock and Renhold Wolf, who put together the book and lyrics of "The Red Widow," are collaborating again on a new musical comedy in which Clifton Crawford will make his stellar debut at the Park theater early in the autumn. Mr. Pollock is doing his end of the work at "The Monastery," his summer home at Shoreham, N. Y.

In summing up the result of the theatrical year just concluded, Theodore A. Liebler of The Liebler Co., quoted as saying that the value of the season has been not so much in the new plays presented, though these included an unusually large number of exceptional merit, as in the educational work done among playgoers by foreign organizations who brought over with them the very latest European ideas on stagecraft.

"The Irish Players," said Mr. Liebler, "and Professor Reinhard's company showed us little that had not been known to native producers for many years. The most effective presionistic methods in staging have been in use here for a long time, though few people have been aware of it. Witness the original productions of 'Salomy Jane' and 'The Dawn of a Tomorrow.' I do not hesitate to state that the production of 'The Garden of Allah' marks the most successful application of impressionistic methods ever presented on any stage. The value of these methods is demonstrated here in the fact that it was the 'realism' of the scenes in this play that was most applauded. But the foreign companies that have visited us, bringing with them mathematical demonstrations of how fine effects are produced, will doubtless do great service in that the genius and imagination of our own stage directors will be less likely to lack appreciation in the future."

Another cause for gratification Mr. Liebler found in the past season was the favor accorded good acting by metropolitan audiences. He points to the success of George Arliss in the title role of "Disraelli" and Nat C. Goodwin as Fagin in the all star revival of "Oliver Twist" as examples.

THEATER RECEIPTS IN PARIS

Reached Over $11,000,000 Last Year—Tax for the Poor Levied By the City on the Receipts Amounted to $1,275,000 in 1911.

Paris, June 8.—A good idea of the increasing amount of money that is spent in theatergoing in Paris is obtainable from figures just published, giving the receipts of the different places of amusement. The gross receipts of all, which amounted in 1850 to $1,700,000, had reached over $11,000,000 in 1911. The last few years show a steady rise of from $500,000 to $1,000,000 a year. This is largely attributed to the opening of cinematograph shows, and to the increased popularity of the summer and winter music halls, concerts and cafe concerts.

The great national theaters, like the Comedie Francaise, the Opera and the Odeon, have also shown an increase in revenue, and the leading boulevard theaters have held their own with handsome door receipts.

On the receipts of every theater in Paris the city levies a tax for the poor, this money being distributed by the society known as the Assistance Publique. The poor have benefited considerably from the increase of revenue. In 1850 they obtained only $138,000, but in 1911 their benefits had jumped to $1,275,000.

The inauguration of the official Harvard Foundation, caling for an additional exchange of professors between Harvard university and the various French universities, marks an important forward step in what might be called the institution of a "foreign policy" for the universities of France. The ministry of public instruction has opened a special department devoted to finding out what France may offer to the foreigner who desires to study in France, and to the practical establishment of French instruction abroad. There are 5,560 foreign students today in French institutions of learning ,and the courses of study of the universities at Rennes, Dijon and Lille have been arranged to suit the needs of the foreign students.

At Tours a special summer course is to be arranged, and at the girls' college there a special department will be opened for young women from abroad similar to that which exists at the school at Versailles.

The other development is in the propagation abroad of French university influence. French professors and teachers have been placed in large numbers in various European colleges, including Leipzig, Budapest, St. Petersburg, and recently a professor was sent to the Normal college of New York.

The "foreign policy" of the French universities is also made possible by such organizations as the Alliance Francaise, the Franco-American committee, the French Institute of the United States, and of course by the new relations between Harvard and the French universities. Other countries in which the French influence is spreading are Roumania, Servia, Norway, Sweden and Chile.

The new Harvard Foundation signalizes a movement to create even wider bonds of sympathy between the United States and France. It is planned to send French students to the United States and the creation of a French museum at Harvard is a project of the near future.

By the recent death of Madame Edouard Andre there passes one of the most interesting figures in the brilliant French society of the Second Empire. As Mlle. Nelly Jacquemart she won fame as a portrait painter, carrying all before her at the Salons of 1868, 1869, 1870, and at the Universal Exposition of 1878. Among her best known works are portraits of Marshal Canrobert, President Thiers, Gen. Palikão, Count de Chambrun, Duke Decazes, Baron G. de Montesquiou, Count de Saint-Amand and of a host of celebrities of the period.

After her marriage to the financier Edouard Andre, she ceased exhibiting at the Salon and devoted herself to completing her collection, which she made one of the finest in Paris, comprising antiquities, bronzes, sculptures, ivories of the ogival period; Limoges enamels, Hispano-Moorish lustre ware, Italian fayence, Middle Age and Renaisance furniture, and a very choice gallery of paintings, including excellent examples of Rembrandt, Rubens, Vandyck, Jordaens, Watteau, Fragonard, Greuze and many others.

Madame Andre has left her Paris mansion in the Boulevard Haussmann, her country seat, the Chateau de Chaalis, and her personal fortune amounting to over $3,000,000 to the Institute of France. By terms of her will $1,000,000 is to be devoted to the upkeep of the Boulevard Haussmann mansion and the art treasures contained in it. Another million is to be applied to the upkeep of the Chateau Chaalis. Finally $400,000 is to be distributed by the institute in accordance with certain private bequests. The remaining $600,000 is to be devoted to whatever purposes the institute shall deem fit.

MEMORIAL UNVEILED AT NATIONAL CAPITAL

COLUMBUS MONUMENT, WASHINGTON, D. C.

The proposal to honor Columbus with a great memorial at the national capital, which has been agitated since 1892, is at last realized. At the instance of the Knights of Columbus congress appropriated $100,000 for this beautiful memorial of marble and granite and it stands in the plaza in front of the Washington Union station. It was unveiled today in the presence of the president and other officials.

SUMMER PROGRAM OF BOYS' DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCED

The summer program that has been arranged for the members of the Boys' department is one that will appeal to every member of the club, no matter what his tastes may be.

The boys' building will open every day and evening, as usual; but most of the special activities will take place outdoors, with the supervision of the Boys' department secretaries.

Commencing Saturday, June 15, the special swimming schedule will open and will provide swimming five days of the week. On Monday mornings at 9 o'clock there will be a chance for beginners, and the Boys' department guarantee to teach any body over 12 years old how to swim. There will be no excuse for any boy in Duluth not knowing how to swim. The other periods are for boys who can swim. Mondays at 2 o'clock and Tuesdays at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday there will be outdoor swimming at Park Point. These parties will leave the aerial bridge every Wednesday at 2 p. m. under the direction of Mr. McLeod and Mr. Batchelor.

Every Saturday there will be a trip. These trips have proven very popular and provide for those boys who do not go away for the summer.

Saturday, June 8, there will be a hike to the Jean Duluth farm.

Saturday, June 15, a fishing party to French river. On Friday night preceding this trip there will be a talk on fishing, the kinds of bait, hooks, how to cast, etc.

Saturday, June 22, a bicycle trip to Pike Lake. For those who have no wheels, there will be a swim at Park Point.

Saturday, June 29, trip to Lakewood, flower hunt, athletics, baseball.

Saturday, July 5, hike to Thompson. Take blankets, sleep out all night, return Saturday morning.

Saturday, July 20, war canoe trip on the St. Louis river.

June 26, a bicycle trip to St. Paul will be taken. Already a number of the members have signed up for this trip. This party will not carry any baggage, but will eat at farmhouses along the way, and sleep wherever night finds them. Two days will be spent visiting at the Twin Cities. Aug. 5 to 7 there will be a three-day camp at Pike lake. A short camp of one week will be spent July 30. The place will be announced in a few days. It will be in some nearby place and will be for boys who for any reason cannot go to Camp Miller.

Aug. 19 to 31 is the date set for the fifteenth season of Camp Miller. More than 500 boys have attended this popular camp. Camp Miller is a well-known name in many Duluth homes. The date set will enable many boys to work during the vacation period and to take the last two weeks to rest up and get ready for school again. A special booklet is printed giving full information of Camp Miller and can be had by addressing the secretary of the boys' department.

The clubrooms will be open every day and evening for those who want to read or play games. Members may use the gymnasium any time. Tuesday at 2:30 will be the special period for juniors. Tuesday at 4 will be the special period for intermediates, and Wednesday at 7:30 the special period for the boys who work.

DEBRUTALIZING INDEPENDENCE DAY

Death Role of 1911 Only One-Third That of 1908—New Ways to Give the Day Meaning—"Barbarous Fourth" Now a Thing of the Past.

By LEE F. HANMER,
Department of Child Hygiene, Russell Sage Foundation.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

John Adams is to blame for getting Fourth of July celebrations started on the wrong track. A century and a quarter ago he wrote that the day "will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. * * * It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations from one end of this continent to the other."

He certainly prophesied well, but the public put so much emphasis upon the "guns" and "bonfires" as features of the anniversary that the celebration of this great American holiday soon degenerated into what has been fittingly termed "The Barbarous Fourth." Yankee ingenuity developed all sorts of noise producing devices till the Fourth soon became a time of unrestrained dissipation on the part of small boys with firecrackers, pistols, torpedoes, giant crackers and toy cannons.

Public sentiment attempted to call a halt. Nearly forty years ago Julia Ward Howe told of an ordinance passed in her home town forbidding the use of dangerous explosives within the city limits on Independence day. "But," she added, "the mayor was a personal friend of our family and granted us special permission to have in our backyard our usual private celebration with firecrackers, torpedoes, rockets, etc."

This incident illustrates the spirit of much of the effort made to eliminate dangerous explosives in Fourth of July celebrations. Everybody is sure that though firecrackers ought not to be allowed an exception should be made for "me and my son John." The progress of the "sane Fourth" was consequently so slow that in 1908, after more than three decades of effort, there was a casualty roll of 5,623 throughout the United States.

In the midst of this losing fight, a few communities to supplement prohibition decided to devise substitutes that, because of their attractiveness and appropriateness, might crowd out the undesirable features of the celebration. This plan worked well from the start.

In the spring of 1909 the department of child hygiene of the Russell Sage foundation arranged with the Playground Association of America to hold a conference of municipal representatives to consider plans for "a safer, saner Fourth of July." Forty-five municipalities responded. The report of this conference was widely published and twenty cities responded by organizing celebrations along the lines suggested. The result was that the casualties dropped from 5,623 to 5,307.

Next year the campaign was pushed vigorously by welfare organizations throughout the United States. Definite programs suggesting interesting things to do were printed and sent broadcast throughout the country. Ninety-one cities planned their celebrations in accordance with the new suggestions and the casualties were reduced to 2,923. In 1911 the infection spread still further and 163 cities planned "safe and sane" celebrations. The casualties again dropped nearly one-half, totaling only 1,603.

As the movement spread state laws and city ordinances have been enacted and enforced with a fair degree of success, prohibiting the manufacture, sale and use of dangerous explosives in connection with the celebrations. Fireworks under proper supervision and handled by experts are still a part of most celebrations and there seems to be good reason why this time-honored feature should not be continued. The program of the day, however, has been made up of games, parades, drills, tableaux, concerts, athletic contests and pageantry.

A suggestion that has worked out most satisfactorily is that of studying the history of the community in which the celebration is being planned, taking those instances that are dramatic and typical of the spirit of the day and presenting them by means of tableaux and pageantry.

In large cities there has been a tendency to provide numerous district celebrations instead of one large central occasion. The public school buildings in many cities are thrown open. For the coming Fourth of July the board of education in New York city will arrange celebrations in over 200 public school buildings. The principals and teachers of the vacation playgrounds will be in charge of the programs. There will also be twenty-one athletic meets for boys and grown-ups, special exercises at the city hall and neighborhood celebrations in each of the seventy-three aldermanic districts throughout the city.

The plans of the Vanderburg County Sunday School union at Evansville, Ind., for a parade, picnic, games, speeches and illuminations are typical of what is going on all over the country. On their letter head is printed "The association numbers forty-four schools with 10,000 members. We believe in a sane and a beautiful patriotic celebration with no firecrackers and no cap pistols to blow off fingers and put out eyes. Just a big circusy kind of a day—plenty of fun for the little ones, and a day of inspiration to all."

Topeka, Kan., has conceived a plan for "A Birthday Party Given By Uncle Sam for Distinguished Guests." Among them are Miss Columbia, Boys and Girls of '76 and '61, Betty Ross, Mr. Industry, Miss Democracy and Cousins from Across the Sea.

The movement now seems to have gained sufficient headway to be carried forward largely by its own momentum. There is no doubt that the "Barbarous Fourth" is a thing of the past.

Although the casualties and the fire losses on Independence day have been enormous and appalling, there has been another kind of loss that we can ill afford and which the "New Fourth" will do much to check. It is the loss of the opportunity that this great holiday offers for fixing in the minds of our boys and girls, and especially those who have recently come from foreign lands to make America their home, the significance of our institutions, the price paid for independence, the blessings of democracy and the responsibility and high privilege of American citizenship. A little review on these topics and a reminder of these and other of our social and civic blessings wil be good for all of us.

SEEK TO CHECK MOVE TO CANADIAN LANDS.

Seattle, Wash., June 7.—How to check the movement of American farmers to Canada and divert them to the northwestern states, was a topic that interested the delegates attending the Northwestern Development congress. Most of the speakers who discussed the question blamed the method of administering public lands for retarding development in the Northwest.

William A. Campbell, secretary of the league, reported that during the year it has spent or caused to be directly expended for advertising the American Northwest, $102,000, at the cost of $3,500 to the seven states.

There are, he said, 900 commercial clubs between the Great Lakes and Puget Sound and but 300 of them will answer a letter of inquiry, when people write them offering to do something for their communities.

A STRAIGHT INSIDE TIP.

Visionaries and theorists get scant attention in these times. People may be amused by them, but nothing more. But when the man who knows speaks, that is a different matter and his words demand and get the kind of notice that counts.

That is one reason why The Herald takes extreme satisfaction in presenting to its readers, as it does tonight, the opinion of James J. Hill regarding Duluth and its relations to the great inland empire. The other reason is that Mr. Hill's opinion bears out what The Herald has consistently maintained—that few parts of the country have a better outlook than has Northern Minnesota, if its agricultural resources are intelligently and economically utilized.

And these resources are to be so utilized. It was to that end that the Northern Minnesota Development association was formed. It was to that end that the state underook the disposition of the state's land among those who will live on the soil and cultivate it. It was to that end that the state provided experimental farm stations in the northern counties. It is to that end that municipal, county and general organizations are working, in order that Northern Minnesota's fertile and easily obtained acres may grow from uncultivated tracts to wealth-producing farms, where the people shall prosper and be able to get away from the drudgery that too often mars the last years of human life.

Read Mr. Hill's letter. Note on the map the immense territory tributary to Duluth, the more naturally and surely so from Duluth's advantages as a shipping and receiving center, both by water and by rail. Then consider Mr. Hill's own record as a keen student of conditions as they are and a sure forecaster of conditions as they are to be. And here is his prophecy—that the man who takes intelligent advantage of the opportunities offered MAY BE SURE OF A GOOD LIVING FROM THE OUTSET AND OF PUTTING BY A COMFORTABLE COMPETENCE FOR OLD AGE.

This is a straight tip, on inside information. And the best part of it is that it is yours, not only to use for your own advantage, but to pass on to others. It is one of the things that point to the certain greatness of Duluth.

Up In the Air.

A Stanford university athlete jumped six feet, eight and a quarter inches into the air. This is said to be the highest ever attained by a human being, but the statistics compilers evidently forgot the grand ascension of the Minnesota administration just about the time the state Republican convention got busy.

AN EXPLANATION THAT FAILED.

A year or so ago, when father began to complain because mother insisted on having so much more money than she had been having, and mother answered that it took so much more to run the house and buy things for the children to wear than it had taken before, when, in short, there was general talk about the high cost of living and a good deal of wondering why the increase had come about, certain eminent gentlemen assured us that we were mistaken. That the trouble was due instead to the "cost of high living." That if we would be content to live as our fathers and mothers did we would have no such complaints to make.

The explanation somehow failed to take a very strong hold, except on those minds that are particularly attracted by odd turns of phraseology. There seemed to be two main reasons for this failure. One of them was that the chief exponent of the "cost of high living" theory was a gentleman who for some years had not been obliged to hoard and count the pennies in order to get needed shoes and other wearing apparel for Louis and Walter. The other reason was the Lincolnesque one that "you can't fool all the people all the time."

A recent report on prices of food, made from authoritative trade quotations, showed that within the last twelve months there has been a ten per cent increase, taking a straight average, in the prices of the necessities of life. The same report included the statement that prices were "high" a year ago. Among the increases noted are 22 per cent for meat, eggs, butter, fish, potatoes, coffee, tea, sugar, salt, molasses, rice, beans and peas; and 33 per cent for wheat, corn, barley, oats, etc. "The average increase in food products is nearly 20 per cent," said this report, "which means that the housewife must pay $6 to fill a market basket that only cost $5 to fill in June, 1911." And remember that the 1911 prices are admitted to have been "high."

It rather knocks out the "cost of high living" theory. Take the staple foods, for example, those on which our fathers and mothers practically subsisted. Meat, eggs, butter, fish, potatoes, coffee, tea, sugar, molasses and rice, beans and peas. The report shows that they cost today one-fifth more than they did a year ago, when prices were merely "high." Also consider that wheat, corn, barley, oats, flour, etc., cost one-third more than they did under the "high" prices. Our fathers would have thought themselves hardly used if they had had meat less than twice a day. But it costs more now to have it on the table for five meals in the week than it cost them to have it for fourteen.

Various theories for the increases have been advanced, but none of them has proved to be a solution of the trouble. Maybe that solution is coming soon. It is to be hoped that it will. In the meantime, it will be well to forget fantastic phrase-twisting, and get down to a real effort to reach the base of the difficulty.

Repetitive History.

And now comes the philological explanation that the word "blackguard" originally referred to the coal man, but philology fails to explain whether it had anything to do with shifting prices.

THE LAWN'S YELLOW STREAK.

Has your lawn a yellow streak?

Or is it yellow in patches instead of in streaks?

Or is there so much yellow in it that it is less like a streak than like a solid mass of the color?

Every once in a while somebody says something after this order: "Fought 'em? I should say I have! I've tried cutting 'em off and stamping 'em down and I've even spent hours on my hands and knees, pulling them out or digging for the roots. And they grow just the same. I'm sick of it. Let 'em grow, and when they get tired of growing let 'em quit. And if they never do get tired, let 'em keep on growing."

Of course you know what it is—the eternal dandelion. But maybe the fight isn't as hopeless as some of us have thought. Various agricultural authorities have turned their attention dandelionward, and some of those in the agricultural colleges have arrived at what they claim is a solution of the difficulty. Here is what they offer:

> The iron sulphate can be purchased for a few cents a pound in quantity, and is used at the rate of one-and-one-half to two pounds to one gallon of water. The solution should be applied soon after the iron sulphate is dissolved, as there is a chemical reaction which takes place soon after it is dissolved. The solution is not poisonous to handle, but will discolor iron and clothing.
> When the spray solution is properly made and applied, the dandelions can be killed without injury to blue grass or white clover, except that the leaves of the clover may be spotted for a time. The spaces where dandelions are killed should be seeded at once with blue grass seed to fill up the vacant ground and prevent weeds from germinating. The solution should be strained through a fine sieve or cloth into the spray can, so that no material can get into the pump to clog it up.
> The solution cannot be successfully applied with a sprinkling can, as the large drops will not stay on the leaves. Spraying should be done when the wind is not blowing, and when the sky is partly cloudy.

There is the scientific formula for curing lawn jaundice, and it certainly sounds better than getting down on one's hands and knees and grubbing the yellow pest out by the roots. According to what the experts say, it should be effective, and their reputation is good enough to make their plan at least worth trying.

Wonderful Science!

Scientists say the Egyptians of Biblical times were using incubators in their poultry business. The quality of some of the storage fowl on the market these days is evidence in favor of the charge.

PROGRESS IN OHIO.

The Ohio constitutional convention is about through with its labors, and some very interesting results are apparent.

Though thoroughly progressive, the constitutional convention has been a body of progressives with its feet on the ground. It has proposed some notable improvements in the structure of state government, in the form of forty-two amendments which will be passed upon by the people of Ohio this fall.

Because most of them are interesting to states which, like Minnesota, have not yet reached the point of overhauling their system of government, some of the more important changes proposed are given below:

To abolish the rule of unanimity of jurors in civil cases, thus opening the way to the "three-fourths" verdict and closing the door to litigants who avert defeat by inducing a single juror to bring about a disagreement.

To apply the initiative and the referendum to legislation and to constitutional amendments.

To limit appeal litigation so that except in felony cases there can be but one trial and one review of any case; also providing that five of the six supreme court judges must concur to set aside a law as unconstitutional.

To authorize the use of voting machines.

To give women the right to vote.

To provide primary elections for all state officers, to provide the presidential preference primary and to provide for the direct election of United States senators by the Oregon plan.

To abolish capital punishment.

To place all appointive state positions under civil service rules.

To provide home rule for cities and school districts.

To authorize the legislature to provide for the removal of all public officials, including judges, on hearing. This provision was adopted as a substitute for the recall.

To authorize the legislature to regulate the issue and sale of corporation securities.

To abolish the present statutory limit to claims for damages for death by wrongful act.

To authorize the taxation of incomes, inheritance and franchises.

To provide for the presentation of expert testimony by the state, so that it shall not be, as now, hired testimony.

To provide for the conservation of natural resources and for improved labor conditions.

These are all wholesome changes. Minnesota has only a few of them; it needs them all.

Minnesota, as much as any other state, needs a constitutional convention to revise its fundamental law and to bring it up to date.

Getting At It Scientifically.

Oxygen, it is said, constitutes about one-third of the solid earth. The proportion of gas probably explains the origin of the political practice of mud-slinging.

SWAT'S THE USE?

Every time anybody starts something, somebody else bobs up with a pessimistic inquiry as to the advantage of the scheme. It was that way when Tom Platt suggested that the Republicans try to shelve Roosevelt. It was that way when the Thirteen colonies first figured on establishing the basis for the D. A. R. It was that way even when the serpent advised Eve to eat the apple. Evidently the bobber is not wholly responsible, but acts only in accordance with an inscrutable decree.

Anyway, that's one of the things that the Amalgamated Association of Fly Swatters bumps into every once in awhile, even in the present advanced age. And that's odd, too, because there are so many knockers and likewise so many flies that you'd think the knockers would simply apportion the flies among themselves, get busy and be happy. But somehow they seem to draw the line at flies. They'll knock everything else, but rigidly let the flies alone and even defend them from other people who want to knock them. Probably there is a fellow-feeling of some kind, a sort of pest brotherhood that has bred an instinctive readiness to defend kindred in the hour of peril.

But the next time one of these pestilential pessimists sneers at you for swatting a fly, and wants to know what's the use of doing that, just remind him of Kansas City. And if the mere reminder doesn't shut him up, quote him the following, from a report made by Dr. Hasbrouck De Lamater, assistant commissioner of public health in the Missouri city:

> With the conclusion of a ten-day "swat the fly" campaign and continual warfare by the board of health, less than half of the city's usual allotment of flies remains. At the present rate, the extermination of the house fly, most dangerous carrier of disease germs, is only a matter of time.

To be sure the swatting is not entirely the cause of Kansas City's bullish fly market. There has been a general cleaning up there, too. Piles of refuse have been removed or rendered sanitary, and vacant lots have been cleaned up. But every swat counted, and the health officer freely advises the people to keep a-swatting.

Every time you kill a fly you take a chance on killing a couple of hundred thousand of more of them at the same time. That's rather an advance on the Little Tailor in the fairy story who killed "seven at one blow," but these are more advanced times and more is expected of us. So just keep at it, and if Mr. Pessimist doesn't like it, why let him keep his flies to himself, and he'll be welcome to them until the rest of us have killed all our own. Then we'll take care of his for him.

Rubbing It In.

The Wahkon Enterprise has the immoral courage to refer to "Governor Ebersmith." Wow! How does Ed like that?

COAL.

The coal trust has two ways of getting its hands into the pockets of the consumer of coal.

One way is through the exorbitant price of coal, the other is through exorbitant coal freight rates.

There seems to be no check whatever on the process of fixing the price of coal. Somebody, or some secret council somewhere, says that coal shall be so much, and coal is that much. Everywhere it is the same—with freight rates added.

Lately the coal miners by threatening a strike gained a small wage increase which will cost the mine owners about six million dollars a year more than in the past.

The mine owners promptly raised the price of coal so that its sale will yield them twelve million dollars more each year.

The consumer pays six millions for increased labor cost, and six millions more for increased profits.

But that is only one of the coal trust's means of reaching the pocket of the consumer.

The other way is through the coal-carrying roads. The coal companies and the coal-carrying railroads are the same—in ownership if not in fact. Congress passed a law saying they shouldn't be, but the supreme court said it was unconstitutional.

Let us illustrate.

From Pottsville, in the Pennsylvania anthracite fields, to Philadelphia, it is about seventy-five miles.

The iron ore-carrying rate for a similar distance from the Mesaba range to Duluth used to be eighty cents—half as much as the coal carrying rate—and that has lately been cut voluntarily by the ore-carrying railroads to sixty cents.

It costs nearly three times as much to haul a ton of coal seventy-five miles as it does to haul a ton of iron ore the same distance.

One coal-carrying road in 1910 made net profits amounting to 35.41 per cent. Few coal road dividends, if any, are less than ten per cent, and dividends of twenty per cent are common. This on stock in the profuse watering of which the stockholders have not been at all backward.

There are exorbitant profits on the sale of anthracite.

There are exorbitant profits on the carrying of anthracite.

The user of coal pays the bill, every penny of it. The poor must freeze because of the high price of coal, or starve to buy it. Everybody but the rich is oppressed by the high price of coal.

And the high price of coal is maintained that owners of stock in coal mines and in coal-carrying roads may reap fat dividends.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

FOR THE BENEFIT OF DULUTH HEIGHTS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I should like you to publish in your valuable issue, a good word for Duluth Heights and its inhabitants. At the present time Duluth Heights is one of the most beautiful places to be seen. Also a more sociable and entertaining people can't be found. Now its my greatest ambition to make this place still more attractive and also prosperous for its inhabitants. Here is the proposition which will certainly do something for Duluth. For some days I have been looking over the city and have seen a large variety of articles of wood which could easily and with less expense be manufactured in Duluth to supply our retail furniture stores. It may seem out of place to locate a factory up there, but its only about five miles distant. On the Pike Lake road there is the lumber mills supplied with lumber of all kinds. Now in order to boost Duluth I think it will help considerably to utilize our own lumber and labor to the best possible advantage. I have suggested this to some of my neighbors and they consider it an excellent proposition. One of the said gentlemen has liberally offered a factory site as an inducement. I was informed of the necessity of having something on Duluth Heights in order to give some of our citizens a better opportunity for permanent labor. I am confident in many cases goods could be shipped in a better condition and with less expense from Duluth Heights than from some outside distance. According to the business I have in view would employ about fifty men and boys. This would certainly boost Duluth Heights. I am personally in the position to bring in some outside capital and also additional mechanics providing this proposition will make a favorable impression with our retail merchants and also the Duluth general public. I should like for this matter to be brought before the public. Therefore your favor in this respect will greatly oblige. Yours respectfully,

JOHN JEWELL.

WEARY NOT OF WELL DOING.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A short time ago a spasm of virtue seized the police department of Duluth, and the Sunday lid was clamped on good and hard, and the good people of Duluth were given to understand that it would stay on for good. The chief of police was reported to have said he would hold every officer personally responsible for the strict observance of the law on his beat. And the law-abiding people of Duluth rejoiced at the new order of events to be ushered in.

Alas for human weakness. How long was Adam in paradise? Only last Sunday the lid was tilted? No! Lifted? No!! Just thrown off without any more ado. And the thirsty ones were not denied. Evidently the spirit of compassion had seized upon the dispensers of liquor and the police together.

The saloons were all doing business on the same basis. Who will blame them? Is not the chief end of man to make money? If he who is paid for enforcing the law does not care—whose business is it? Just as a sample let me say that one of the most respectable of all the saloons in the city kept open house all day Sunday and until 2 o'clock Monday morning. And the police did not know, of course—didn't see any lights—didn't hear anything going on either. Of course not. None so blind as those who will not see, and none so deaf as those who will not hear. Is this to continue?-Or will the good people of Duluth say emphatically to their chief servant: Thus shall you do—or get out. There is a recall. And tomorrow is Sunday. I mention this, as the police department perhaps has no calendar, and the mayor is too busy to look, if he has one.

Now, seriously, Mr. Mayor, every ordinance and every law is there to be observed, and you are no more privileged to disregard the same than the meanest tramp on the Bowery. And I want the friends of law and order to remember that the attorney general of Minnesota on complaint lodged with him is obliged to talk to the mayor in a way he will understand. If the people do not like the Sunday closing law, let them wipe it off the statutes, but while it is law, it should be enforced. Do it for Duluth. The good name of Duluth is not advanced, while the city is known to be law-defying, instead of law-observing.

OPPOSES LIMIT ON TIME OF CIVIL SERVICE EMPLOYMENT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The editorial comment by The Herald on the note of warning sounded by the Postal Record of Washington, D. C., official organ of the National Association of Letter Carriers, in regard to the section of the legislative executive and judicial appropriation bill recently passed by the house of representatives, which limits the tenure of office of all civil service employes of the District of Columbia to five years, is, to say it mildly, causing considerable surprise among the civil service employes of Duluth.

While it is true this does not at present affect us, being limited to the departments at Washington, we cannot but feel that if such were enacted into law it would be an entering wedge to pry open the whole civil service structure and would eventually be applied to all civil service employes.

The Herald contends that it could not mean a return to the "spoils system," as the new appointees would be still chosen by competitive examination but does not point out who would care to take an examination for such a position when the chances for ultimate success for the ordinarily bright young fellow are much better outside the government service than in it. Even now with conditions as they are, approximately 50 per cent of the substitute clerks and letter carriers resign before a regular appointment is secured.

But the distressing point is the manner in which The Herald would dispose of the men who have given their best service to the government and now in the evening of their lives have reached the period where they are "inefficient." In the face of the fact that practically all civilized nations but ours, and many of the large corporations, including the Steel corporation and five of the largest railroad systems of the country, have adopted systems of retiring their old and faithful employes with sufficient to keep them from want until the shades of night have fallen, The Herald applauds the proposition, that this nation, the greatest on earth, throw its old and disabled employes on the scrap heap as that will be the inevitable result if this legislation which has already passed the house is enacted into law.

The public is demanding a high standard of efficiency from its civil service employes, the pay is not large, the chances for promotion very limited, and permanence of position is really the most desirable feature of the service. We hope The Herald will not again advocate the taking of that away. Respectfully submitted.

J. F. McDONALD.

Duluth, June 7.

You Can't Always Sometimes Tell.

Chicago Record Herald: President Taft is considering a platform that may be ready for use in case of his nomination. So are other candidates. It is well to be prepared for accidents.

THE GOVERNORSHIP.

Quack Ads.

Laporte News: It is reported that "Eberhart special editions" may be issued by various papers in different parts of the state. If any of our readers receive copies of papers containing full page write-ups indorsing the present administration, just remember it comes under the same head and should receive the same consideration that would be given to a quack medicine ad.

The Light Shines.

Northome Record: We are truly thankful to the Bovey News for setting us right on the Eberhart question. The News says that Fortunatus is the best governor Minnesota ever had (or, at least, implies that much) and that he will be re-elected because of that fact. We have been groping about in the darkness for some time, and now that the light has come we are already beginning to feel better.

Surely.

Holt Northern Light: Wonder if Adolph O. Eberhart still thinks himself a man of destiny?

Who'll Believe It?

Virginia Enterprise: Don't know just how Fortunatus Eberhart feels about the Roosevelt victory in Minnesota, but presume he and Billy Hamm and Ed Smith can frame it up to make the people think Teddy was their choice.

That Is Important, Too.

Biwabik Times: Ed Smith and his machine got an awful swat in the recent primaries. Another blow and the entire outfit will be put out of business This outcome is more important than the choosing of a candidate for governor.

Out of Date.

Perham Enterprise: The Eberhart-Smith combination has procurred the publication in various of its organs of the state of a detailed defense of the governor's administration of the various state offices directly under his control. By them it is regarded as a conclusive answer to critics of the governor. As we take it, however, the objection to Eberhart is not so much in what he has refrained from doing or refused to do. In other words, it is not what he has that is objectionable so much as what he ought to be but isn't. Mr. Eberhart has fallen upon evil times. Twenty years ago he would have made a very acceptable governor. But the present is no time for an immaculate sissy. The hour calls for a man of virile intellect, a leader, not a follower; a man close to the ground, yet with the vision of the starry heights. Minnesota is a black spot on the political map, an Egypt for which there has come as yet no Moses. It requires no affidavit to prove that Ed Smith is no Pharoah's daughter and that he did not find Fortunatus in the bull-rushes. An inherent liking for the Pullman sprung from no such origin. He loves the railroads as Taft loves the courts and the judges. To borrow Roosevelt's cutting characterization, "he is a well meaning man, but he means well feebly and is surrounded by men who neither mean well nor are feeble." The work calls for a man who is not alone well meaning, but wants what the people want and knows how to get it.

A Weak Spot.

Fairmont Sentinel: The weakest spot in the administration of Governor Eberhart is his failure to join with other western governors in fighting the Sanborn railroad rate decision before the United States supreme court. If proper use is made in the campaign of his dereliction of duty in this matter, it is sufficient in itself to accomplish his sure defeat. His course was inexcusable and indefensible. It was a clear case of the people in the right against the corporations in the wrong and Governor Eberhart lined up with the corporations. The time has gone by when a high official can do this kind of business and "get away with it."

Governor Is Mixed.

Pine River Sentinel: Minnesota as a state is very liberal in more ways than one. For instance, there are not over half a dozen states in the Union that spend more money in running its governmental affairs than we do, but Governor Eberhart says the administration is being run economically. Perhaps, though, the governor's idea of economy is slightly mixed with the 3-cent railroad rate which may account for the difference of opinion the majority of people hold.

Theodore Roosevelt, Stand-patter.

New York World: Mr Roosevelt is still the friend of extortionate protection and of the empty market basket. Observe this gem from his Jersey speeches:

"In the tariff, for instance, I believe in a protective tariff, but I want to see the benefit of protection get into the pay envelope. I don't want to see it all stop at the office."

In other words, it is all right to rob the consumer if the manufacturer will give a little more of the loot to his employes. That is the sort of tariff reform that Uncle Joe Cannon and Nelson W. Aldrich are in favor of. That is their excuse for extortionate schedules—to enable "the benefit of protection to get into the pay envelope."

To be sure, if it has not got there now it never will get there. If the manufacturer has not divided he never will divide. But if he does divide a little more liberally with his employes, then the Payne-Aldrich schedules are all right. That is the logic of Mr. Roosevelt's argument. The function of the consumer is to be robbed.

The Progressive movement in the Republican party began in a demand for tariff revision to reduce the cost of living. It has ended in the third-term candidacy of Theodore Roosevelt, who is as much of a standpatter as Smoot.

When June Is Here.

When June is here the burgeoned trees
Yield tribute to each passing breeze;
The ghostly dandelions white
Sift through the air in feather flight,
And fleck, foamwise, the grassy seas.

The lilt of birds, the drone of bees,
And all the jocund minstrelsies
Of nature swell for our delight,
When June is here.

We reck but little, at our ease
Of either leaven or the lees
Of life; but with a heart as light
As buoyant swallows in their flight,
We cast aside care's panoplies,
When June is here.

—John Northern Hilliard in Lippincott's.

Deceived by His Style.

Popular Magazine: When Charles A. Cotterill was making up a motor car tour in Northwestern Ohio not long ago with a member of congress, the machine got stuck in the mud, and the party invaded a farmer's house with a request for dinner.

"I don't know you," said the congressman to the farmer, "and you don't know me, but you elected me to congress, and now I want you to give us a dinner."

The farmer and his wife furnished an elaborate meal, and it was when the repast was half over that the countryman, with a worried look, exclaimed to his wife:

"Oh, yes," said Cotterill quickly, "here it is," and he took it out of his lap and held it up for all to see.

"Oh!" apologized the farmer, "I thought you didn't have one because you didn't have it on."

The Opponents of Progress.

Kansas City Star: Following the abolition of the old council system and the adoption of commission government for Atlantic City, N. J., comes the revelation of graft in the city council.

It will be recalled that the news reports during the campaign for the new rule in Atlantic City stated that the members of the old council and the ward politicians of that city were fighting commission government.

Of course they were!

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Fun of Beating Heredity.

There is no fun, we will admit, in realizing that you are obliged to beat heredity before you can amount to anything in this world. The consciousness of bad blood in his veins is a fruitful source of depression in any man's life. When this earthly career promises to be little else than a battle with inherited weaknesses or incapacities it takes a moral giant to continue the fight with any heart. One with clean blood in him and generations of virtue behind him cannot realize the fight of the man by his side enmeshed as he may be in ancestral evil tendencies.

Most people have within them impulses from the past that they wish could be obliterated. Some forgotten old ancestor has left us an unholy legacy that will burden us to the end. The life stream is not absolutely pure in any of the sons of men. Mr. Moody said that he once started to look up his family tree, but, stumbling over a horse thief a few generations back, gave up the quest in dismay. Heredity is a hindrance as well as a help with even the most favored ones. The fathers have eaten sour grapes and the children's teeth have been set on edge.

Herein is presented a serious moral problem. What are we going to do when we come across the bar sinister in our own coat of arms? Are we going to excuse ourselves for moral dereliction by pleading inherited weakness? Are we going to take failure for granted along some one line?

How many are doing that very thing! A man turns off slovenly work and, being reproved for it, replies, "I was born heedless. It is a family failing I regret, but cannot help."

Or one enters upon some slippery path by which his forbears have gone down to doom and is quite angry with his friends who remonstrate. "Don't you know I can't help this sort of thing? It's born in me," he says.

Now this argument may serve the needy as an excuse, but there is nothing in it as far as fact is concerned. We are not helpless automatons worked by strings held by a lot of buried ancestors. Men are not simply what the past has made them. They are in process of making themselves. However desperately a man may have to work to shake off his cruel legacy it is possible for him to do it and to emerge into freedom. No one is brought into this world foredoomed to absolute failure. Love is seated on the throne of the universe and Love would cast no life "as rubbish to the void." That God visits the iniquities of the fathers upon the children is to be taken only as a statement of the law of bodily and mental inheritance which is so plain a fact of physiology. It does not mean that the Heavenly Father is angry with his children or disposed to put upon any an insuperable handicap.

There are no more glorious battles on the pages of history than those that men and women are waging every day against the power of inbred sin. The process of winning manhood and womanhood is one of the finest spectacles the sun shines on. It is a mighty triumph for one who comes from a race of tipplers to live sober. It is a splendid victory for one to shake off his fearful inheritance of sloth or lust or greed or temper. They are the world's real victors who are overcoming in this way.

When the son of the notorious bandit, Jesse James, besides supporting his widowed mother by years of hard and honest labor, can carry off the highest honors, summa cum laude, in a Western law school, it is time for some of us to stop wailing over our inherited handicaps and get to work.

Let it ever be remembered that environment is no less a power than heredity and that most men can choose in this regard if they cannot choose their ancestors. To beat a bad heredity is at once a great task and a great challenge. It is likewise an invitation to the profound joy of rising morally superior, by the grace of God and one's own endeavors, to forces that are able to drive us solidly on the rocks if we give in to them.

THE PARSON.

The Company She Kept.

Popular Magazine: A Boston couple, of middle age and kind hearts, spent their vacation near Augusta, Ga., and during their visit took a great fancy to an old colored woman. When they left Augusta, they invited her to pay them a visit, which she accepteld with the understanding that they were to pay her expenses.

Having arrived in Boston, she was given a room in the house of the white folks, and was invited to have her meals at the same table with her host and hostess.

"Mrs. Jones," said the hostess, "you were a slave, weren't you?"

Mrs. Jones replied that such had been her condition of servitude.

"I suppose your master never invited you to eat at his table," hazarded the Boston woman.

"No, honey, dat he didn't," replied Mrs. Jones. "My master was a gentleman. He ain't never let no niggers set at the table, 'longside of him."

A Study in Punctuation.

Brooklyn Eagle: A celebrated Eastern educator comma who has spent much time in studying literature comma tells us that the modern writer uses so many punctuation marks semicolon that he often gets them in the wrong place and that they are a nuisance comma anyhow period

Another shark on literature comma however comma says that it is impossible for any person to write without using punctuation marks period Being of a genteel turn comma we do not feel like coming right out and calling the latter gentleman a quotation marks liar quotation marks but we have demonstrated comma to the satisfaction of ourself comma at least comma that writing can be done without the use of any punctuation marks whatsoever period How do you like it interrogation point

"Titanic" as Baby's Name.

Vienna correspondence to London Standard: A baker, on registering the birth of his daughter, at Arad, in Hungary, informed the registrar that he intended to have her christened Titanic, as she was born on the day the White Star liner sank. The official, however, refused to accept this name, as it is not to be found in the calendar of Roman Catholic saints' days, and the baker had to content himself with the less topical name of Rosalia. In this case the rule of the church, which is upheld by the state, saved the child from bearing through life an appellation which is not only unsuitable, to say the least of it, for a little girl, but would also recall for many years one of the most tragic disasters of modern time. Sometimes, however, the rule operates rather hardly, as when recently a Viennese was not allowed to have his child christened Daisy after her mother, who is an English woman.

Why Don't They?

That it's bad
To be sad;
And lots of glum folks say, they'd willingly give
All they had
To be glad;
Why don't they just suddenly make a resolve
That for gloom
There's no room,
And live the ideal that they wish that they could?
'Twould be good,
If they would.
Might add,
And they could
If they would.

Dr. H. Roman, a graduate of McGill medical college at Montreal, has decided to locate at West Duluth.

Mrs. Culkins of Ada, Minn., is a guest of Mrs. H. H. Phelps at West Duluth.

John P. Sousa, leader of the Marine band, has signed a five years' contract to organize and conduct a band at Chicago. His salary will be $6,000 a year and an interest in the profits.

PRODIGALITY VS. REFORM

By SAVOYARD.

Every mind capable of harboring the slightest discrimination must arrive to the conclusion that one-cent postage would be of incalculable advantage to the American people, both collectively and individually. Like the dews of heaven the benefits would accrue to all, rich and poor. Communication between people and people, man and man, is the soul of civilization. Cheap transportation quickens all human energy, mental, moral and physical. One-cent postage would be desirable if it cost $50,000,000 and there should be a corresponding reduction in the rate charged for every class of mail matter. It would vastly aid in the education of the people as well as vastly promote their national welfare.

But they would not have it. This "retrenchment and reform" Democratic house of representatives preferred pensions, and so instead of one-cent postage that we might have had and should have had we get a pensions appropriation that is an increase of expenditure on that account from $160,000,000 annually to $185,000,000 and the Democratic speaker of the sixty-second congress says that is not enough—that it should be $235,000,000 a year, though President Grant, who ought to have known all about it, declared that $30,000,000 a year was too much.

This Postmaster General Hitchcock decorates himself for having made the postoffice department pay its way. Postage is as much a tax on the people as any other tax, tariff or excise, and the postage tax, most of it, is a tax on business, a burden on those who buy and sell, produce and consume. Postage has never been reduced, here or abroad, that benefit did not result. It stimulates all classes of legitimate business, extends and enlarges all legitimate markets. It increases production and stimulates consumption.

But our statesmen eager for seeming economy have always sought to make the postoffice self-sustaining and to that end they tax business more than it should bear through the postoffice. Business and the people could better endure $3 of taxation at the custom house by operation of a tariff for revenue only than they can stand $1 of taxation through the postoffice. The tariff on print paper is a folly, but it is not so great improvidence as excessive postage, and letter postage above one cent is excessive as long as the deficit in the postal revenues is less than $10,000,000.

Big business is a fool as well as a scamp. There is the telegraph that is enormously over-capitalized and the people are outrageously taxed in the matter of charges for messages. In Europe you can get as much service out of the telegraph for one dollar as ten dollars will buy you in our free and enlightened country. There the telegraph is a convenience for the people. Here it is a monopoly for the malefactors of great wealth, who are morally guilty for forgery when they put water in the capital stock of a corporation. Our people are not going to stand that always, and a double decade will not come and go before the government will confiscate all telegraph lines and pay for them their actual value.

The express companies are even worse than the telegraphs. Their charges are simply enormities. By that acme of rascally monopoly, the interlocking directory, they are the property of the railroads and make contracts with themselves for themselves and levy all the traffic on the people that "the traffic will bear." You send a 20-pound package half way across the continent by express if you are curious to find out what robbery is. No wonder there is a movement for a parcels post that even a congress subservient to monopoly dared not deny.

But they are shrifty knaves—these express folks. They knocked the thing out by point of order more than once. Then they were shrewd enough to go out and manufacture opposition to it among the very people that it is designed to benefit and will benefit. They made excellent people believe it was a scheme to create a monopoly of the retail merchandise business and take it in the hands of department stores in great cities, and here came petitions against cheap transportation from merchants in smaller cities and towns who would be vastly benefited by the parcels post.

The same argument was made against trolley electric railroads. The merchants in small towns and villages were led to believe that their customers would all go to the trolley center like Indianapolis to buy a paper of pins of a bunch of shoe-strings, and the country store would cease to be. That is what they argued when trolley lines went out from Lexington, Ky., Georgetown, Paris, Nicholasville and other towns were to be ruined. But like all legitimate progress, the resulting benefits were infinitely greater than the resulting evils. And the same will be of the parcels post when the people get it as they surely will, and that before a great while.

The "leaders" are resolved to adjourn congress before the nominations are made at Chicago and Baltimore. There is not an employe of any concern in the land, corporation, firm, or individual, that could hold his job if he were as careless, as indolent, as incompetent as the American congress. It would be a step in the way of reform if our national solons were paid by the day instead of by the year. Then they would not be so anxious to leave their duties half performed. One would think that congress is a great evil to hear the arguments for speedy adjournment advanced by members anxious to get away and by "interests" that are solicitous for congress to get away. In 1890 the first regular session of the Forty-sixth congress was adjourned sine die after Garfield was nominated and before the convention met that nominated Hancock as his Democratic competitor. There were wise men then who believed that Hancock would have been elected if a Democratic house of representatives had not run away from its legislative duties when they were not half performed.

The Hon. Heyburn is one man who is not aboard. He thinks congress not only a constitutional institution, but a beneficent institution, the mission of which is to go projeckin' with statecraft—all but the blessed protective tariff—and he loves to have that discussed. In his opinion wise counsel is the child of thorough and intelligent discussion and he would have the debating society in political disputation until November.

But most of them are on their heads to get away. The result probably will be that the senate, which is the deliberating branch, will half cook the appropriation bills at night sessions, when the road is straight, smooth and broad for "jokers" and "jobs." Then adjournment will come and it will be costly. The American people would make money if it were a Medes and Persian rule that a senator or representative should resign his seat in congress the day he became an active or receptive candidate for president.

It would do much to promote wise and necessary legislation.

IN THE LITERARY WORLD

MAKING A ROCK GARDEN. By H. S. Adams. New York: McBride, Nast & Co. 50 cents net.

A rock garden, be it understood, isn't a "rockery." A "rockery" is a pile of stones with soil in the center or in the chinks on its sides, in which seed can be planted. That's not a rock garden. A rock garden is natural, or must be built so it will look natural. A mighty boulder on the grounds where you can fill in with vines and plant flowers and vines; a stone wall aged enough to look as though it belonged there; a natural or artificial rocky precipice—these are rock gardens. A real rock garden, manifestly, is a thing that few people can have, but we suspect that some of Mr. Adams' practical advice may be used for the "rockery" which he abhors, if he is not looking, for the book is practical and artistic, and it will be found interesting and helpful to those who are planning beautiful estates.

THE JUST AND THE UNJUST. By Vaughan Kester, author of "The Prodigal Judge." Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill company. $1.25 net.

A young man squanders an inherited fortune and clouds his career by unseemly methods of getting rid of his money. Love for a pure, good and beautiful girl awakens him to a realization of the evil of his ways. He determines to redeem himself, in the eyes of the girl as well as in his own. But the clouds of the past still hang over him, and because of them he is suspected of a crime. Circumstantial are against him, and perjured testimony fastens the coil tighter about him. Loyalty to the wife of the real criminal prevents him from making the defense he might have made, even though his situation makes it likely that he will lose the girl.

It is a good story—entertaining, absorbing, well written and with admirable character drawing and action worked out of a good plot. If we had read it before we had read "The Prodigal Judge"—which is one of the most readable stories lately published—we should be certain we should have declared it to be the better story of the two. Having read it second, we are only sure that it is a story that makes a wide appeal, and that everybody will find entertaining.

Here are more tales which Jack London absorbed in his South sea voyaging, and it will not be necessary to tell admirers of this marvelous young writer that they are good stories. This particular collection deals with the adventures of David Grief, who came as a young man from England to the South seas seeking excitement and who became the very embodiment of their spirit of anarchic adventure. Tamed like a native and lithe as a panther, he became a real "son of the sun."

Grief amassed great wealth, not because he loved it, but because he loved the game and played it masterfully. He loved the pleasure of snatching it when the odds were all against him, and the fruits of victory were proportionate. The stories dealing with this wonderfully resourceful adventurer of the South seas are as diverting as anything Jack London ever done.

"En casserole," be it understood by the uninitiated, is cooking in earthen dishes so seemingly arrayed without that the food may be brought to the table in the utensil in which it is cooked. Among its advantages, besides the obvious one of keeping the food hot and unmussed by redishing, are these: The risk of metallic contamination is excluded; the trouble of redishing is avoided; casseroles are easily cleaned; the cooking process is slow but thorough, retaining all the flavors and nutrition of the food; and there are others. Besides a general discussion of casserole cooking the book includes a large number of recipes which we are assured by competent authority are practical and excellent, and they cover practically the whole field.

By a remarkable coincidence, the story from which Capt. Garnett's book of sea tales takes its name, appeared in a magazine just before the steamer Titanic struck an iceberg and sank in the Atlantic in April of this year. The story tells of the wreck of the giant steamer Admiral, "that ill-fated vessel with the shortest of lives, which will yet live in the memory of man for many years to come." The second mate on the bridge scents danger with the instincts of the seaman and warns the captain of ice, but the captain, disliking his mate, disregards the warning and sends the ship ahead at twenty-two and one-half knots an hour, only to collide with a giant iceberg and go down with his ship and 1,000 souls. The tale holds an interest of its own, but it is heightened by the demonstration of the Titanic wreck and fact rivals fiction.

"The White Ghost of Disaster," is only a small part of Capt. Garnett's book. There are other absorbing sea tales, told by a man who knows his subject.

George Fitch is a real American humorist. He takes the commonplace things of life, looks them over with his sense of humor uppermost, and then tells about them in good United States tortured into constructions that might cause horror to the language purist, but that cause wholesome laughter to flow from the ordinary citizen. Mr. Fitch's motor boat story is a scream from the opening paragraph to the place where "The End" halts the reader. The motor boat owners may appreciate it more than anybody, but even the man who doesn't know any more about a motor boat than Mr. Fitch's definition, "A motor boat is any boat that can mote and which positively refuses to do so at irregular and unexpected intervals," will have its humorous significance thrust on him in a few pages. George Fitch would give a professional humorist a laugh, and that's the great achievement.

THE LIGHTED WAY. By E. Phillips Oppenheim. Boston: Little, Brown, Brown & Co. $1.25 net.

Mystery and adventure, mingled with love, make a pleasing combination for the fiction reader. Arnold Chetwode, a clerk in the office of a wholesale provision merchant in London, finds himself thrust into strange surroundings when invited to "fill out" a dinner party at the home of his employer. The politics of Portugal are played out in London and Chetwode finds himself drawn into them through Count Sabatini, his employer's brother-in-law. Chetwode is the eye-witness of a murder and in attempting to get at the solution of it, he gets into many adventures which also involve his employer's wife and the anarchistic uncle of a girl friend living in the house where he has his home. It is all straightened out in the end, but it's exciting while it lasts. Mr. Oppenheim has the fiction writer's art of holding the interest while withholding his denouement. The love interest is scattered through the startling occurrences in just the right proportion, and the book holds the reader to the end.

A play with a great success has given Mr. Hornblow material for an absorbing story. It is a class story—the story of the woman in furs and jewels, who lives in a mansion and draws rents from wretched hovels in Poverty row. It tells of Maggie Schulz, who cannot understand the social conditions which make it almost a crime to bring children into the world in a tenement where they have little chance of life. About to give birth to a child, she longs for the open spaces of the West, where her child will have its chance. She and her husband are poor, and when her opportunity offers she steals that her child may live. Her theft is discovered, but a friend from the upper world comes to her rescue and her dream of a free life in Wyoming is realized.

The story strongly presents the social question of the slums. It is a severe arraignment of the tenement owner and a strong plea for the tenement dweller. It deals in types with only enough exaggeration to make the lesson the more forcible. It is a story that makes the reader think.

Nadine Carson in her foolish youth married a millionaire paranoic who held her in terrible subjection until she was forced to have him placed in a sanitarium. Her life spoiled by the venture into matrimony, starving for the things which a woman craves, she allows men to pay her attentions which causes talk, even though they are harmless. The game takes a serious turn when a real friendship develops between her and a minister of a fashionable church. They think their love is hopeless, until a woman turns up with claims of a former marriage to Colin Carson. Nadine offers to give up her wealth, but her attorney suspects a blackmailing scheme and says there is no proof of a former marriage. The proof appears unexpectedly and a real marriage is made possible for the woman. The story is well told, and is not without its exciting phases. The digressions into the workings of a woman's mind are not the least interesting pages.

Among the Magazines.

The current number of Life is a Turtle-dove Number—a large double number, with a splendidly drawn center page cartoon by Macdonald and a colored cover by J. C. Clay, entitled "The Fountain of Youth." Other interesting pictures are by Bayard Jones, William H. Walker and Rea Irvin. As an antidote for crabbedness this number ought to be a success.

Garbed in a striking spring suit the June Cartoons, just from the press, is proving one of the most attractive and interesting magazines of the month. The publishers have improved both the grade of the paper and the contents, and the selection of the cartoons from the pens of the representative artists of the world is one that makes the book of lasting value. The cover of this month's Cartoons deserves mention. It is a departure from the former covers of the magazine and it is to be hoped that others of like color will follow. This month Cartoons is found to have a most complete collection of foreign political cartoons and what is more interesting, is the collection of foreign humor drawn by the leading artists of the old world.

"The Trial by Water," the narrative of a personal experience during the great Galveston flood, is thrillingly described in the June issue of Sports Afield. An account of a famous Maine shooting ground is followed by "Birch Creek's Big Trout," after which we note a capital article on "The Sport of Trap Shooting," with some early day reminiscences. "At the Edge of the Cloud" (Mr. Barnes' story of frontier life during the Civil war) increases steadily ininterest—amply warranting the cordial welcome accorded it in all parts of the country. "White Bass Fishing in Wisconsin," "Our Trip to Half-way River," "Trout Fishing in Canada," "The Best Gun for Upland Sport," "Game Conditions in Pennsylvania," and a strong editorial against our nefarious enemy, the cat, are some of the especially good articles.

The issue of Harper's Weekly for June 1 contains a remarkable article by Mrs. Bellamy Storer, in which the author publishes for the first time a letter from Mr. Roosevelt gratefully acknowledging her kindness in obtaining for him the post of assistant secretary of the navy. In this number Arthur B. Krock presents an intimate view of Oscar Underwood. A. R. Pinci, writing under the title "Where Harmon Stands," records an interview in which the opinions of the Ohio governor are set forth at length. Charles Johnston writes upon "A Motor Run to Fontainebleau." James Huneker contributes an article entitled "The Real Rodin." A double-page of reproductions of some of Rodin's statues also appears. Fiction, finance, humorous contributions and many other articles, together with the usual editorials, go to make up this number.

PAYS VISIT TO OBERAMMERGAU

Rev. M. S. Rice Discovers Some Interesting Community Facts Among the Bavarian People Who Take Part in the Passion Play—House-Right of the Old People.

Oberammergau, May 26.—To the Editor of The Herald.—We came to Oberammergau last Friday and will leave tomorrow. Two years ago when their Passion Play was on I purposely passed right by the town. I had then no interest and now I have far less interest to see the play. I only wanted to see and visit among these people when they were not on "dress-parade." It will not be my purpose now to write here what I think about this world-famed so-called Passion Play. I think what I always thought, only I think it now much harder than ever and am prepared to give my reasons for it. As to its worth as art in theatricals, there can be but one judgment. I have no dispute of that fact. But why should we ever expect it liable to be otherwise. For ages these people have lived toward this play. The children are born to it. They aspire every day to take part in it. A gentleman who has lived here several months every year for years including the play year of 1910, told me the other day that he was last week visiting at a friend's house on the hillside south of the village, and in a little pasture below them were five little lads about 10 years of age playing crucifixion. They had fastened two boards together mak'ng a rough cross and had actually tied one of the boys to it, and were playing toward the great day to which their town tends. Of course if it is a question of merely acting the part, it must be expected here. But I must not discuss this now.

Visit to Anton.

I have met Anton Lang, had a long visit with him in his home, and seen him make pottery. He is not a strong character. His face is weak. The people who come over here to see him trained and trimmed to look like the ordinary paintings of Christ, and whose feelings are with long expectation wrought up to the highest tension, almost worship this simple man. The things that are done toward him are to say the least, ridiculous. An incident was told me yesterday by the man who introduced to Mr. Lang an American clergyman two years ago and heard the entire conversation between them. The minister with note book, was recording matter for a lecture on the play, and asked among many others the question, "Do you, Mr. Lang, when you play the part of our Lord, feel as though you were actually the Christ Himself." Mr. Lang replied. "Oh, yes! yes!" in his simple way, not comprehending at all what the preacher meant, as he told the gentleman who introduced them, when told of the question the next day. That preacher is doubtless telling that about our country somewhere today. But I must leave that.

I have been in their homes, about their streets, and tried hard to get hold of their common lives. This morning I went with them to their church. It was crowded full, and I stood till the close then followed followed them into their graveyard to see buried one of the three who have been lying exposed in their "dead-house" ever since I came hre. The service was truly a solemn one, but to me a most grewsome one. They seem to have great reverence for the fimmediate dead, but once buried their care ceases. I had watched yesterday the digging of the grave for this burial. The old sexton with spade and pick tore his way through the bones of others buried there before. He tore open the last coffin buried and hurled its splintered, partly rotted boards with the bones of the deceased, amid the heaping mud beside the grave. With my umbrella handle I pulled together after the grave was finished a piece of the skull, the large portion of which was exposed, still sticking in the side of the grave, two large leg bones and a shoulder blade. Other bones were everywhere. Into this hole I saw them lower the simple coffin of roughest pine lumber, simply varnished, and decorated with the ordinary fixtures. There was no outer box. After the company had departed and the grave was all finished, in the pile of mud that was left over to be carted away, I found many small bones. I only note this in order to show a custom that to our people seems too hideous to be true, but here it is the way of the ages. They will continue for the years to come thus to bury their dead.

Interesting Community Facts.

I discovered some most interesting community facts among these Bavarian people. When Oberammergau was originally granted by the government there were 131 houses here, and the community was divided into 131 wood rights, each home sharing equally. This wood right is very interesting. In lower Bavaria it carries with it only the right for fuel, but here it is more. The community has all the right of the forest under certain governmental regulations, as to replanting and care for young trees. A community committee has in charge the logging industry, and a forester oversees the assignment of trees for felling and also the response of each wood right in the work of replanting each year. Every limb of a fallen tree is cared for and corded up and all sold at auction. Then annually a dividend is declared among the right holders. Last year the dividend was $250 to each holder of a right. Two men I knew of own thirty-two of the shares. They bought them when the owners needed money, and got them at cheap rates and today they are valuable. Mrs. Anton Lang is a real business woman. She has been keen to make use of the prosperity that has come to her house through the part of "Christus." Last year she bought a wood right for $2,500. That right will now remain with their house unless Anton by poor management has to play the part of Lazarus; then they may have to sell out.

Another very interesting community fact I found here is the cow right each home has. Every home has a right to free pasturage for one cow, the community owning the pasture. If any home has more than one cow a fee must be paid for each extra one. But more, the homo that has no cow still has a cow right, and receives $60 annually toward their milk bill, the extra fees of others helping pay that sum. Every morning the village herder with two lads drives the herd past my window and disturbs my sweet sleep with the tinkling bells. The young cattle and steers are all herded together back upon the high mountains, the herders remaining with them there from May to October.

House-Right of Old People.

Perhaps the most interesting of all these unique conditions I have learned of is what they call the house-right of the old people. They use an expression in speaking of a number of old folks about the town, "they go with the house." When a son or a daughter is married a certain sum is settled upon them and their case is ended as to inheritance. The son or daughter who remains at home is given the home and the father and mother retain the house-right, meaning that they have a certain part therein set aside for them and that they are to be cared for as long as they live. It is a quite comfortable fact to hear attached to an old broken down man or woman.

These little community facts each carry vital significance to some of the deep problems of life. As I walk out here among their splendidly kept forests and see how nothing is wasted and how vigorous the young trees look in the year—by year stages of their growth, I think of the prodigal waste that spreads all about in the glorious woods of my beloved home. If we were only a little careful of our abundant resources what a future we could insure for our people. As I see this fine bunch of cattle going out to graze every morning, I think how nice it would be to have $50 applied on my own milk bill, and assure you I could use two rights with a relish. As I see some of these old people with a house-right settled on them I am pleased at a quite commendable effort to handle one of growingly demanding problems, the sorrow of old age.

But I will crowd out all the news from your issue if I keep on writing. What I must leave unwritten I will be glad to talk over with those who are interested. If I could travel as I like to I would do all of it among the small towns and villages, where the lives of the people are wide open for observation. Yours,

M. S. RICE.

SOX DROP A "THRILLER"

Wreckers Lose Sensational Game to Villagers Across the Bay.

Sours Makes Longest Hit Ever Seen on the Grounds.

Lincoln J. Carter in his palmiest days never furnished more genuine thrills than did the Duluth-Superior mix at the ball park yesterday afternoon which went to Superior by a 6 to 7 count.

Fickle victory perched first on one side and then the other. That's what brought on climax upon climax and piled situation upon situation, as the dramatic critic would say.

The little drama of Western life was enacted in nine complete acts with a constant changing of scenery and surprises coming in every set. The parts were in capable hands particularly when Superior was in the field, the Duluth players failing to rise to the climax at opportune times thereby giving the dusty warriors from just beyond the swing bridge a chance to carry home a huge package of joy or in other words to enjoy the lop-sided end of the score.

Mr. Rhondes, who allowed he'd take the part of a pitcher, did so in a way which proved remarkably true to life after the first frame when Darby's brave lads connected for four complete circles of the diamond. In the second inning Mr. Foss and his support forgot their lines and by the time they had been prompted, Superior had tied the score. Then another came in the third, one in the eighth and one in the ninth while the best Duluth could do was two in the eighth.

The game was brilliant with heavy hitting and glaring errors. Both teams made them and it was a toss up until the last man was out in Duluth's half of the ninth as to who was to finally cop the bacon.

Our Mr. Sours distinguished himself by making the longest hit ever made on the local lot. He straightened one of Rhoades' best curves in a manner befitting the occasion, lifting it over the fence in deep center. At the crack of his trusty willow, McGraw, Menelce and Leber, who had been reposing at the several stations, trotted home. The smash was deliberate and well executed. It was also timely, and the umpire stated that no law of the game had been violated.

In the second, Persch started something by doubling to left, Sours missed Francis' drive, Persch scoring. Roy was out. Then a Mr. Ford, who takes the part of a second baseman for the Superior team, clouted one that gained him enough prestige to trot around the bases just back of Francis, who had been awaiting a chance to complete the circuit. Dunn singled to right, Black doubled and Dunn completed the count of 4. Superior got another in the third. The rest of the game were blanks up to the eighth, when Superior scored one, and Duluth, in an effort to come from behind, scored two. It was useless, however, for Superior got another in the ninth and Duluth failed to count, although they came mighty near sewing it up again.

There was lots of spectacular plays, a lot of hitting, some poor and some fast baseball. Here's the way it looks on paper:

TOLEDO WINS FAST GAME FROM ST. PAUL.

Toledo, June 7.—Toledo won an exciting game here, 10 to 7, St. Paul using five pitchers in an effort to avert defeat. In the sixth Krause wavered and the visitors scored seven runs after two were out. Outside of that inning, he was practically unhittable. Franklin's home run with a man on base, tied the score. Every man on the Toledo team hit safely. The score: R. H. E.

MILLERS ARE HALTED BY COLUMBUS TEAM.

Columbus, June 7.—Columbus stopped the Minneapolis team today, taking the game, 6 to 5. Cook out-pitched Olmstead and was better supported until the ninth, when substitute batters and Altizer made hits that put the losers in sight of a tie. In the third, Gerber virtually decided the game by a home run over Clymer's head with two men on bases. The score: R. H. E.

COLONELS BREAK INTO THE WIN COLUMN.

Louisville, June 8.—After losing ten straight, Louisville broke the ice by defeating Kansas City in the first game of the series. Richter was in rare form and allowed the visitors but four scattered hits. Altrock was hit hard at times. Ludwig, Lennox and Richter led with the bat. The score: R. H. E.

INDIANS BAT BREWER PITCHERS ALL OVER LOT.

Indianapolis, June 8.—Indianapolis had a batting bee at the expense of three of Milwaukee's pitchers and piled up fifteen runs while the visitors were getting seven. Williams corked himself in the third inning, but remained in the game until the ninth, when Manager O'Leary went in for a second base. The score: R. H. E.

DUBUC WEAKENS IN NINTH AND TIGERS TAKE THE GAME

Detroit, Mich., June 8.—After pitching shut-out ball for eight innings yesterday, Dubuc weakened in the ninth and Boston scored three runs. With men on second and first and one run needed to tie, Speaker ended the game with a fly to Jones. Both pitchers were effective with men on bases. Score: R. H. E.

ENGLAND EXPECTS TO LOSE OLYMPIC GAMES

British Press Admits That There Is Little Hope for the Coveted Victory at Stockholm.

All England is prepared to witness the defeat of the British athletic representatives in the coming Olympiad at Stockholm. This fact has been acknowledged in the British prints on more than one occasion this year, and in each instance the English writers have pointed mournfully to the showing of their countrymen in the English championships last summer, when foreigners practically swept the track and field. Even the four-mile race went to a Finn on that occasion, and that defeat was worse than all the rest put together.

Now comes along the London Standard with a long story telling of the dark outlook for Britain in the coming international athletic test. The Standard's article, which runs over two columns, is quoted below, and it shows clearly that athletic experts across the pond are prepared to see England's athletic prestige get even a worse bump than it did at Shepherd's Bush in 1908, when practically all of the British victories in the standard events were scored by men from the colonies. The most interesting section of the Standard's article reads as follows:

"In two months' time Stockholm will be the venue of the greatest athletic meeting the world has seen—the fifth Olympiad. In England certain preparations have been made for suitable representation (so far as the responsible authorities can achieve it) of our athletes; many likely to be selected have been requested to train for the games; a fortnight ago a coach was appointed, and the Olympic trials will be held within three weeks.

"It is not the purpose of the present article to criticize the actual preparations taking place in England; one can only hope, and in justice believe, that the selected athletes will be the best than can make the journey, and that they will be as carefully supervised as money and the best professional coach in the country can insure. Since the impression (unhappily justified) is fairly general, however, that English athletes are likely to receive a pretty severe defeat, and since not a little discussion has taken place upon the inferiority which will be demonstrated at Stockholm, there is ample room for an explanation of the why and the wherefore of this inferiority which English pride must now expect to see and to continue unless a remedy be found. If it is necessary to criticize the methods (or the want of them) of the responsible authorities, they only have to endure the lot of all those in high places, who are called upon to give an account of their stewardship when a disaster has happened or is impending.

"It is scarcely useful to issue a forecast of the probable placings at Stockholm, though, as far as our representatives are concerned, a keen follower of contemporary athletics would not be inaccurate if he said that England (let us leave Scotland, Ireland, and the colonies out of the discussion), had not only no certainty in any event, but not even a fighting chance in many. What the standard demanded by the Amateur Athletic association of the aspirants for selection will be has not yet been stated by that body, but in the opinion of those who know anything of foreign performances, it will be a waste of funds to enter representatives in several events. We can confidently say that a weight-putter of 40 feet, a high jumper of 6 feet, a standing high jump of 5 feet, a standing long jump of 10 feet 6 inches, a pole jumper of 11 feet—to take a few salient deficiencies—would be a pleasant surprise.

Are English Inferior?

"Are English athletes physically inferior to foreigners? is a humiliating, but practically essential question to answer. A few years ago, when foreigners began to cast longing eyes upon our championships, one might have reversed that question into the form—Is there any reason why a foreigner should not be as good as an Englishman? The writer recollects that during the Athenian Olympic games of 1906 he predicted great all-round successes for Sweden in the quite near future, but he hardly expected two years later to see the first four places in the 800 meters in London taken by an American, an Italian, a German, and a Hungarian respectively, though it was no surprise to any moderately far-sighted follower of athletics when at the A. A. A. championships last year the same German won the half-mile; another German carried off the Harvey cup for a marvellous display of all-round jumping, which nobody in the world could have surpassed; a Finn won the four miles, and it was thought by many that a Frenchman won the hurdles. Incidentally, an American won the 100 and 220 yards, but we have always tamely submitted to that as if it came from above.

"No, our athletes are not physically inferior to any—in point of fact, we have the finest material in the world—nor is there any fear of degeneracy—the average is as high as it has ever been. It is true we have no world-beater at this moment, but such giants are the delight of Nature, who may place them in any country, as those wonderful visitors of ours last year well proved to us, and as we shall certainly see confirmed at Stockholm.

"The fact is, the rising tide of world athletes has submerged us. Numbers have told against us. America, with her large resources to draw upon, has realized that the sure way to produce champions is to reach a high average, and to effect that end it is essential to adopt such methods as will insure an athlete getting the very best out of himself. In England that is called somewhat reproachfully "specializing." It really means that a man finds his forte, adheres to it, and uses his mind to develop it. We do that in England when we put a speedy, long-limbed man into the three-quarter line instead of among the forwards, or a heavyweight oarsman at five instead of bow. By judicious training America developed her weak point, longer distance running, and the result was that J. P. Jones, holder of the world's amateur record for a mile, was not long in appearing. We may take it as an athletic maxim that a transcending average means a champion sooner or later.

"Continental athletes followed America's lead. They studied, specialized, and received coaching. They were unhampered by traditions and hopelessly inadequate methods as we are, and instead of creeping up to us, they have reached and passed us with a rush, as a motor car overtakes a pedestrian."

SOME INCIDENTS IN THE RING CAREER OF THE CHICAGO FIGHTER

Packey McFarland Tells Some Amusing Events That Have Occurred Since He First Donned the Mitts.

New York, June 8. — In the life of every one there are incidents which though seemingly trivial may prove of deepest significance in shaping a career. The boxer is no exception and while in a reminiscent mood Packey McFarland told of some of the things he looks upon as having given him help on his climb to the top of the pugilistic ladder.

McFarland's unvarying self-possession in the ring and the fact that while fighting he never speaks to his opponent have often been the subject of comment. The reason is found in an incident back in the spring of 1907 when Packey met and defeated Kid Goodman in a 15-round encounter at Davenport, Iowa. This is the way McFarland told of it:

"At that time men in the game almost without exception made a practice of abusing or joshing men with whom they fought. I hadn't had a whole lot of real experience and, like any youngster, I copied the tactics of those I had seen, and by the time I met Goodman I could bawl 'em out with the best, or rather the worst, of the crowd. Accordingly from the time I got in the ring with Goodman until the fight was over I kept up a running fire of joshing and even abuse.

One Good Talk.

"It happened that after the battle we went to the same Turkish bath. There Goodman came to me and gave me as polite yet convincing calling down as I ever heard. He told me that what I said to him had been entirely uncalled for, that it hadn't helped me win and that I ought to be ashamed of myself. Well, I was. Of course it hurt to have him tell me all this, but it did me good, for I soon saw there was nothing to be gained by abusing an opponent, and I determined to cut it out. I did, and from that day I have never spoken to an opponent in the ring. Incidentally the occurrence had the effect of steadying me under fire of abuse from another, and ever since I have never let anything in that line bother me in the least. My belief is that a man is in the ring to fight and not to tell the other fellow he is a lot of things that he isn't."

Another incident not strictly of the ring, but which shows one reason why McFarland is one of the richest boxers in the world, is connected with his first trip to New York. He had been very successful in the West and was, accordingly, a big card in New York. Billy Gibson had engaged him by telegraph for a battle at the Fairmont, but when Packey reached New York he found another club was in a position to give him more money. He was not under contract with Gibson to the extent of anything more than a telegram that said "All right," but he knew that Gibson was counting on him to perform for him and he decided to pass up the larger offer and enjoy the satisfaction that he had played fair. The result is that between Gibson and McFarland there has been formed a friendship rivaling that of Damon and Pythias. Furthermore, McFarland's bouts at the Fairmont have since netted him more than $50,000. He gets a lot of satisfaction out of this, for he was glad to be convinced that making money and acting on the level are not incompatible.

Trouble With "Dad."

McFarland is one of the most serious-minded of fighters, but he has the sense of humor of the true Celt, and as he talked he could not refrain from telling some of the funny things that have cropped up during his career.

"I guess you never knew," he said with a smile, "what a narrow escape I had from having my career in the ring cut short long before my real success came. And I might have landed in the jug, too. When I was training for my bout with Tommy Yanger, in 1907, I was at home in Chicago, and one Sunday we had chicken for dinner. My father had some very set ideas about boxing, and because I didn't eat a whole chicken that day he made up his mind I would never be a real fighter. Then he told me that I would have to get out of the game because I never would make good and he even threatened to have me arrested if I didn't. Finally he relented and allowed me to keep on but he was pretty sure I would never get anywhere, just because I didn't eat as much as he thought a fighter must.

"Father started out to be quite a fan, but he never saw me fight but once. That was the battle with Jack Fox, a negro, in the suburbs of Chicago, in 1906. I knocked Fox out in the foruth round, but in the meantime it took half a dozen men to keep my father from climbing into the ring to help, because he was afraid I was going to get a beating. I never invited him to a fight after that, and as far as I know, he has never seen one since.

"Father was once the cause of me passing up $10,000, but I have never really regretted it, because if I had accepted I don't know what he would have done. As you remember, my first big fight was with Jimmy Britt at Colma. Immediately after that fight I was offered $10,000 to meet Joe Gans. Father put his foot down right away—and kept it down. 'I would rather see you brought home dead than licked by a nayguh,' he said, and that was the end of it.

Fued of Races.

"Of many weird incidents in the ring Packey thought none so funny as one in Fall River. His opponent was one Johnny Connelly. Packey gave him a fine lacing for five rounds, when Connelly, frightened out of his year's growth, jumped out of the ring and raced like mad for his dressing room, where he locked the door and refused to come out. "I know when I've got enough," he yelled to his manager when the latter tried to get him to go back into the ring, and nothing could persuade the panic-stricken Connelly to get in the fight.

About this time Emil Thiery, Packey's manager, was in the verge of laughing himself to death. Thiery is German, and many are the debates between him and his charge over the relative merits of the German and Irish races. McFarland always contends that an Irishman would never run away from a fight, no matter how badly he was being beaten; so this incident was pie for Thiery.

"There goes your fighting Irishman," he shouted to Packey's chagrin. Yet Pack was not convinced. He did a little gumshoe work and pretty soon dug up the information that Connelly was a Scotchman. He says he lost no time putting Thiery adjacent to this fact. Packey got almost as much satisfaction out of this as overhearing Jack Walker, the English fighter, whom he knocked out in 1905, declare: "Why, the blooming rascal had four 'ands and 'e uses all four at once!"

Pleased to Beat Wells.

McFarland was asked from what fight he got the most satisfaction. It didn't take him long to decide—the recent bout with Matt Wells in this city. "When I came out of my dressing room and walked to the ring with the band playing "The Star Splanged Banner" it was the happiest moment of my life," he said. "Then I ksew I couldn't lose. It also pleased me to beat Wells because he used all those English tricks, which I don't believe help the game at all. He has a habit of pulling his opponent's glove, hitting with the seam of his and jumping up when he sees a body blow coming so that it would land low, and I'm glad I beat him."

McFarland is probably the only fighter who ever in the height of his fame was willing to admit that he was in his prime, and did not expect to ever be any better. This he did readily. He said he realizes he can't fight on indifinitely, and is already preparing to "go to work" when his fighting days are over. His ambition is to be a lawyer, and already he has begun to read law. Some have tried to discourage him, declaring it would take him too long to finish his studies and be admitted to the bar, but they haven't succeeded. Pack is only 24 now, and because he is so interested in law he is sure he would not complain over long preparation. He is a great admirer of Bourke Cockran, and it is from him that he got his inspiration to become a lawyer.

"I know I can't continue boxing forever," said McFarland, "and I want something else to do when I retire from the ring. Of course, I have enough money to keep me going, but there is no percentage in loafing, and I don't intend to get the habit."

NEW YORK YANKEES HAVE RELEASED DOLAN

"COZY" DOLAN.

WOMEN ARE BECOMING FACTORS IN ATHLETICS

Women may not win at once the right to vote for which they have been striving, but the progress they have made in the last few years in fields hitherto controlled and zealously guarded by "Mr. Man" indicates that their activity is bringing them closer to an equal footing than ever before.

This is true particularly in the field of sport. Sport since its origin was governed by the masculine side of the family, for the simple reason that it never has been acknowledged to come under the classification of a "ladies' game." But in the last few years there has come a change. Today there are in control women who are acknowledged factors in the success or failure of the organizations of which they are the leaders.

It might be well to state right here that woman's present position in sport is a matter to be reckoned with seriously, due for the most part to the fact that many sports have become commercialized. There are many sports today which as yet have not reached the stage where they may be termed as commercialized, but the greatest sports, the ones in which the greatest numbers are interested, are those the public pays money to see.

It is in commercial sporting events that women have become the strongest factors. In two of these, baseball and pugilism, women have become prominent. Woman's advent in baseball is not extraordinary, except for the fact that she has not been in control until the last couple of years, but every one will concede that her entry into the field of boxing is remarkable.

There are today in professional baseball two women club owners. One of these clubs is in a major league, the St. Louis Cardinals of the National league. The other club controlled by a woman is the Milwaukee club of the American association, which carries the highest classification of any minor league.

Mrs. Helen Hathaway Robison Britton has owned a majority interest in the St. Louis Nationals since the death of her uncle, Stanley Robison, a little more than a year ago. The club was placed in charge of Edward Steininger, but Mrs. Britton's active interest in its affairs has been demonstrated, in fact, so prominently that it resulted in a case in the St. Louis courts. It also is worthy of mention that when the National league held its annual meeting in New York last winter Mrs. Britton was in attendance as the representative of the club, the first woman who ever "sat in" at a league meeting.

Mrs. Charles E. Havenor is the newest woman magnate in baseball. She acquired control of the Milwaukee club on the death of her husband, Charles S. Havenor, a few months ago. Mrs. Havenor was elected president and immediately announced that she intended to take an active interest in the management.

Mrs. Havenor entered the game well fortified to govern the affairs of the association club. She was an advisory lieutenant of the magnate before his death and his confidant in all business affairs of the club. She followed baseball closely, particularly the business end. She has a playing manager who looks after that end of the game and a business representative, Charles F. Mall, former president of the Wisconsin-Illinois league.

There are two women in Philadelphia who are stockholders in a boxing club of the Quaker city. The club is called the New Olympia. It is being constructed to be dedicated to boxing. Without solicitation these women, whose entrance into the game was made anonymously, bought forty shares of stock. Thirty shares was purchased by one, while the other took ten.

The financial interest purchased by these two women sets what is probably a new record in boxing, for nowhere before have women been known to have been interested in a boxing club. The new Olympia club is to be one of the finest in Philadelphia. It is being constructed on South Broad street. The time limit set for its completion is July 1. Not only will boxing be a feature but other sports will receive attention. But the club will be dedicated to boxing.

A few years ago there was in Philadelphia a woman, not one of those interested in the New Olympia club, who by relation was associated with a promoter of boxing there. When the game was in the ruck she decided to take a hand in it herself and started out to make matches. She got them, too, and one of the fighters she signed for a show afterward said: "She certainly signed me for a cheaper price than any other promoter ever did."

Perhaps there will be some bargain hunting now in pugilism since women are in the game.

CLASSIC EVENT AT CINCINNATI

Fast Horses Will Run in the Great Latonia Derby.

Cincinnati, O., June 8.—Six magnificent three year olds, comprising the best field that has faced the barrier in the Latonia Derby for many a year will start in the 29th revival of the turf classic of the West today.

Up to the closing of the entries yesterday only five starters were assured, Miller Henderson and Frank Hogan, joint owners of the long shot Cockspur being in doubt as to the ability of the colt to go the distance.

H. C. Hallenbeck, the New York turfman had the distinction of having his black and white colors carried by the favorite, Worth, winner of Kentucky derby. Second choice to Worth is the filly Sprite, owned by H. K. Knapp, conceded to be the greatest race mare developed in recent years, having the lines and ability of the famous Roseben.

More early speed is represented in the derby today than for many years, three of the entrants Worth, Sprite and Maj. T. C. McDowell's grand colt The Manager, all having negotiated the three quarters in 1:12 or better. The late speed, or finishing qualities is marked in the trio but Manager Mack, Col. William Young's colt and Free Lance, which will carry the colors of George J. Long are probably more noted for their finishing powers, making up for their slow beginning. On this account the race may be the most stubbornly contested ever run at the famous Milldale course. Cockspur is conceded only an outside chance by the turfmen. Worth is asked to shoulder top weight of 127 pounds conceding ten pounds to Sprite. Horses, weights, jockeys and owners follow:

Worth, 127, C. H. Shillings, Hallenbeck.

Sprite, 117, Molesworth, H. K. Knapp.

Free Lance, 114, Peak, George J. Long.

Manager Mack, 114, Loftus, William Young.

Cockspur, 110, Henry, Henderson & Hogan.

AUTOMOBILES

ROADS ARE IN FAIR SHAPE

But Little Touring So Far Between Duluth and Twin Cities.

Considering the wet weather this spring, the country roads about Duluth are now in fair shape for touring, say automobile parties who have used them.

The Miller Trunk is, with the exception of a few bad spots, in better shape than it was this time last year. Several parties have of late made the run from Duluth to the range and return and while the trip is not as pleasant as it will be later, there being a number of rough places, the road is said to be in fair condition considering the great amount of rainfall.

But few parties have made the trip to Minneapolis or St. Paul as yet this spring. The roads are said to be excellent in spots, but very soft in others. From Rush City on to the Twin Cities, which is mostly though loose sand, is said to be better this year than in some time. The soft places are said to be mainly between Duluth and Rush City.

The road to Two Harbors is in fine shape about half way to that place. The Duluth end of the road is good, but through the Knife river district it is said to be very rough. On the outskirts of Two Harbors, the road is hard, dry and smooth.

The short runs out of the city to Pike lake, Rice Lake, Cloquet river, Proctor, Carlton and other like places, are said to be good going if the going is taken slowly.

Most of the roads are now hard so that there is little likelihood of getting stuck, but heavy toting over them while still soft has made them very rough in places, it is said.

COSTS TO TOUR IN OLD COUNTRIES

European People Not as Enthusiastic Over Outing as Americans.

"We Americans are decidedly more fond of touring than the people of Europe," says a man who has just returned from abroad.

"In England and on the continent," he continued, "the majority of people who own an automobile or are in a position to buy one, do not care for extensive travel. In spite of the fact that the roads between London and Edinburgh are so good that a car from the United States can make the entire distance on high gear, the route is not used much for through travel and the English people do not derive the enjoyment from their roads that we would if we had such highways here.

"Gasoline in Europe sells as high as 40 and 60 cents a gallon and this is probably one of the main reasons why there is not more touring among the owners of motor cars. The many light cars offered by European manufacturers are designed to afford economy in gasoline consumption and are not powerful enough to make possible long tours over hilly roads. It is the modern, low priced car exported from this country that is demonstrating the possibilities of motor car construction in the way of light, economical and efficient low priced cars.

"The interest of the English, French, German and Italian motor car enthusiasts in the automobiles sent over from the United States is greater today than ever before. The worth of our low priced cars has won a recognition that will eventually mean the increase of touring among automobile owners and a general increase in the number of people owning cars."

TACOMA TO HAVE AUTO RACING

Big Cash Prizes Offered and Fine Track Being Prepared.

(By Frank E. Roberts.)

Tacoma, Wash., June 8.—With $25,000 in gold coin raised to guarantee expenses; $10,000 for purses and prizes and a five-mile road course prepared on a great, gravelly prairie just outside the southern city limits of Tacoma, the Tacoma Carnival association and the Tacoma Automobile club have completed arrangements for the first automobile speed contests, of other than the unsatisfactory mile track variety, ever held in the Northwest.

The races will be held July 5 and 6, as a part of Tacoma's big summer festival, the Montamara Festo, under American Automobile association sanction.

On July 5 there will be three road races of 100, 150 and 200 miles each, combining in each respective event, light cars of 250 cubic inches piston displacement and under; medium cars of 300 cubic inches piston displacement and under, and heavy cars under 450 and more than 300 inches displacement.

The big event of the meeting will come July 6. This will be a 250-mile free-for-all contest, in which the circuit of the track will be made 50 times. In this event the prizes total $5,000, divided on a basis of 70 per cent to the winner, 20 per cent to the second and 10 per cent to the third, applying in all events. The heavy car event of July 5 takes $2,500; medium car contest $1,500, and the light car race $1,000.

County roads over a naturally hard, gravelly prairie form the course. Turns of reasonable length and angle are being constructed. The surface will be oiled to lay the dust and the plans call for one of the finest speedways in the country. The prairie is quite level, but where it is inclined to be rolling the roads have been cut down to avoid grades.

As for speed, the Tacoma course promises to rival that at Santa Monica, Cal., where the latest world's record for road racing was established, and also the Savannah course, where wonderful and seemingly impossible time was made last year.

Work has been in progress on the Tacoma course for a month past, and another month will find it ready for the hum of the tires.

Accommodations will be provided for more than 50,000 spectators and there will be any amount of parking space.

FAMOUS DRIVER CAUGHT TUNING HIS RACING CAR

RALPH DE PALMA.

LORD MONTAGUE VISITING HERE

Lord Montague of Beaulieu, a foremost automobilist of Great Britain and an ardent sportsman and journalist, has been inspecting the highway and motoring conditions in and around New York city during the past fortnight, prior to making an extended tour of the Western states.

Lord Montagu is editor of The Car, one of the best known English motoring publications; holds a seat in the house of lords, where he represents the motorists' interests; is vice president of the Automobile Club of Great Britain; handles all of the engineering and motoring news for the London Times, and is also a special correspondent for the Daily Mail.

During his sojourn in New York Lord Montagu has been extensively entertained, a luncheon being given in his honor shortly after his arrival, at the Engineers' club, by Horace M. Swotland, president of the Class Journal company, publishers of the Automobile, Motor Age, Commercial Vehicle and the Automobile Blue Book, the leading motoring periodicals in this country. This luncheon was attended by many prominent automobilists, publishers and well-known automobile manufacturers.

During the past week Lord Montagu has been the guest of honor at several important social functions and has spent considerable time studying the traffic conditions in New York, in which he has evidenced much interest.

ON THE ROAD AGAIN

Old Thomas Car, Built in 1908, Sent Out Once More.

Four years ago a stock Thomas car was racing from New York to Paris to maintain the prestige of American-built automobiles and to win a bronze trophy offered by the New York Times and Le Matin of Paris.

Today the same car is again on the road.

Pointers for Motorists.

When fitting an inner tube it is a good plan to dust a small quantity of talc or French chalk inside the envelope. Just sufficient to cover the interior surface is all that is required. Too much talc, says the Michelin tire expert, gradually accumulating into solid lumps is a frequent cause of punctures. On the other hand insufficient talc will not prevent the inner tube from sticking to the envelope.

Inner tubes should always be perfectly clean and dry when fitting. Even the slightest moisture should be avoided.

It is a common practice to lay a tube on the step of the car or even on the ground previous to fitting. This is a very expensive habit. There is always a place to hang the tube where it will be free from moisture or dust. Hang it over a side lamp or tire holder, but never lay it down where it will come in contact with foreign and injurious matter.

Inner tubes should always be carried in waterproof bags such as can be bought at any garage for 25 cents. They should never be kept in the original cardboard boxes, says the Michelin man. These boxes are sufficient for the garage but not for storing tubes kept in a car. Waterproof bags keep the tubes away from water, oil and grease, but are not intended to protect the tubes from sharp tools. Always keep spare tubes in bags and keep the bags away from metal objects.

Motorcycle Notes.

The motorcycle has proven its ability to make good any place. Consul E. N. Gunsaulus reports that there are more than 1,000 of the two-wheelers in use in Johannesburg, South Africa.

Henry Crow of Ashville, N. C., recently completed a motorcycle trip to Atlanta, Ga., and return.

Another rural carrier is riding the two-wheeler. Graham Coleman of Brookings, S. D., has deserted the "old mare" for a motorcycle.

The Little Rock, Ark., Motorcycle club is "boosting" the F. A. M. and conducting a membership campaign.

GRADUATE AT ANNAPOLIS.

Annapolis, Md., June 8.—After a brief address and the presentation of diplomas to members of the graduating class by President Taft, the festivities of June week were brought to a close at the naval academy last night with the farewell ball, given by the members of next year's graduation class to those who now officially sever their connection with the institution.

The president arrived after the exercises had begun in the big armory. In a three-minute address the president reminded the new naval officers of the record of the American navy and urged them to live up to its traditions.

President Taft handed to each graduate his diploma. Then, escorted by Troop A of the Maryland national guard, he rode to the state executive mansion, where he paid a brief visit to Governor Goldsborough before boarding his special train for Washington at 5:45 o'clock.

CURING SICK NO MIRACLE

Claim Natural Healing Method With Electricity Does It All.

"Doctor, I believe that you have Divine Gifts when you cured me: I don't believe that anything natural could have cured me after I had given up hopes. I surely thought I would never get well." Those were the ideas of a Mrs. Hanson of St. Paul, who came to Electro Medical Doctors several weeks ago to consult them about her Goitre which gave her great difficulty in breathing and often caused her heart to fail, so that fear of death was constantly troubling her.

This good lady has been a great deal with Christian Science people in search of health and in former years an ardent enthusiast of Dowie, the "faith healer" in Chicago. Evidently the difficulty of breathing had made life hard for her at times, till she found it necessary to do something else besides "believing." "There may be such a thing as divine gift and supernatural power," said the doctor, "but if there are any, I am sure that I never had command of them, for Natural Methods, such as we have in our institute here are good enough for me. I suppose, if Edison would have come a hundred years ago, they surely would have taken him for a wizard, yet everything that great scientist discovered was in the realm of nature and perfectly natural."

We have applied Electricity in nearly everything commercial and we are just beginning to apply it to a sick body. It is only a few months ago that Madam Curie of Paris had actually brought back to life a man who had been dead for over two hours. There was no use to inject medicine into a dead body, so she tried Electricity according to scientific principles she had worked out carefully, and after 20 minutes he was restored to life with Electro Medicine. This was perfectly natural.

Genius is supremely higher than talents, and no man of genius has even opposed electricity in its wonderful workings. This shows that if it was considered unworthy of doing all that is claimed for it that it would fall by the wayside and be discarded the same as all worthless things that are cast aside. Electricity is now only in its infancy. Electricity contains all the elementary principles, and therefore all the healing properties of all things in being. All the balms, oils and minerals in existence as needed for the maintenance of bodily health are contained in electricity. No medicine does as much or can do as much for the system as an electric current properly used. The leading physicians recognize electricity as one of the great panaceas for all chronic diseases.

People who had tried everything else, and even failed to get a cure through an operation, have found their health in the offices of the Electro Medical Doctors at No. 28 W. Superior St. Natural healing methods have proven to be of greater power than medicines, massage, blistering or baking.

Not a Day In Bed

Gramling, S. C.—In a letter from Gramling, Mrs. Lula Walden says: "I was so weak before I began taking Cardui, that it tired me to walk just a little. Since taking it, I do all the housework for my family of nine, and have not been in bed a day. Cardui is the greatest remedy for women, on earth." Weak women need Cardui. It is the ideal woman's tonic, because it is especially adapted for women's needs. It relieves backache, headache, dragging feelings, and other female misery. Try Cardui. A few doses will show you what it can do for you. It may be just what you want.

QUIT JOBS AT HURLEY

Miners Employed in Montreal Mine, Denied More Pay, Quit Work.

Unless Trouble Is Soon Adjusted Other Men May Be Imported.

Hurley, Wis., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The underground men at the Montreal mine went on strike Tuesday, demanding higher wages, and as a result work at the mine has been suspended. The men are getting $2.45 and $2.50 a day for eight hours' work and are demanding $2.60 and $2.65. The company officials refused the demand, telling the men they could go to the office, although as yet none have done so. About 400 men are out of employment, the pumpmen and firemen being the only men now at work.

Good Order Prevails.

No serious trouble is expected, as everything is quiet and orderly. With the exception of a few leaders, the men seem satisfied with the pay, so it is thought that several organizers of the Western Federation of Miners persuaded the men to strike for this raise. If the trouble cannot be adjusted within a few days, other men will be hired and operations will again be resumed at the mine.

The federation has thirty branches of different upper peninsula societies.

NORWEGIAN SOGNALAGA HAS ELECTED OFFICERS.

President foreman, Rev. Mr. Verness of Osage, Iowa; vice foreman, T. R. Hopperstad, Albert Lea; treasurer, J. J. Hovi, Hayward; secretary, Prof. Ronnia, Sioux City; corresponding secretary, John Dyberik, Oxfordsville, Wis.; historian, Prof. G. Flom, Urbana, Ill. Directors, J. B. Thompson, Albert Lea, and R. N. Nelson of Madison, Wis.

Secretary O. E. Williamson declined re-election. John Brakke of Lake Mills, Iowa, one of the founders of the society and its first president, made an address telling of the association's work, and complimenting the people of Owatonna on their hospitality. Mayor S. R. Nelson, although not a Norwegian, made a decided hit by addressing the delegates in fluent Norwegian.

Resolutions were adopted thanking Owatonna and expressing appreciation of the treatment accorded the delegates.

THE BLESSING OF MOTHERHOOD

Healthy Mothers and Children Make Happy Homes

Motherhood is woman's highest sphere in life. It is the fruition of her dearest hopes and greatest desires; yet thousands of noble women through some derangement have been denied this blesing.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

San Antonio, Texas.—"To all women who desire to have children in their homes and to be well and happy I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered from a displacement and other female weakness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was the only remedy that ever helped me, and now I am a happy mother and highly recommend your medicine to all my friends."—Mrs. A. B. MARTINEZ, 121 S. Laredo St., San Antonio, Texas.

Brooklyn, N.Y.—"I was ailing all the time and did not know what the matter was. I wanted a baby but my health would not permit it. I was nervous, my side ached and I was all run down. I heard that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was good and took the medicine. I have now a beautiful baby and your Compound has helped me in every way."—Mrs. J. J. STEWART, 299 Humboldt St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

BUSINESS MEN IN AN ORGANIZATION

Chamber of Commerce Has Been Formed at Ironwood, Mich.

Ironwood, Mich., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A chamber of commerce has been organized here. About fifty of the business and professional men of the city were present at the first meeting.

C. E. Houk, who acted as temporary chairman introduced Col. Mott, manager of the Upper Peninsula Development league, who volunteered to be here on this occasion and assist in starting the club on its right course. After remarks from Col. Mott, the officers were elected as follows: President C. E. Houk; vice president, S. S. Curry, secretary, A. W. Peterson; treasurer, P. H. Kearney.

The remains of Carl Chelquist arrived Thursday night from Minneapolis, and were taken to the home of his parents in Ironwood township. Deceased was only 21 years of age and lost his life through tuberculosis.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Byron Shove Monday.

Mrs. Chester Shepard of Fort Snelling, Minn., is visiting here.

William Crowle and son returned to Hibbing, Tuesday morning.

The Merchants & Manufacturers' Association of Milwaukee arrived in the city yesterday morning and spent about three hours here, visiting the business places and looking over the mines, afterwards going to Hurley, Mellen and Wisconsin.

Rev. Mr. Wilson and J. Nelson were at Upson during the week arranging for a picnic at the park to be held by the Swedish Lutheran Sunday school of this city on June 24.

Miss Hilda Hovde of Upson is a guest of Mrs. Alfred Morris this week.

Miss Mamie McMannon gave a miscellaneous shower last evening in honor of Miss Margaret Moore, whose marriage to Hugh Campbell of Antigo, will be solemnized in the near future.

Schools Give Exhibition.

In spite of rain a large number of people attended the first physical training exhibition of the public schools, given Tuesday afternoon on the campus of the Luther L. Wright school. The following program was observed: Flag salute, all schools: hoop drill, Swedish gymnastic class; May pole dance; Indian club drill; musical dumb-bells; Indian club selected relay races; marching tactics; running high jump; necome. Music was furnished by the Temple theater orchestra. On account of the rain, some of the games were omitted.

Lawyer O'Neil left this week for Sheboygan for the purpose of looking after the interests of the creditors of the Bank of Ironwood.

REVOLUTION ABOUT OVER.

Says Wisconsin Man Who Just Escaped From Mexican Revolutionists

Manitowoc, Wis., June 8.—George A. Garrey, a nephew of Judge J. S. Anderson of this city, returned yesterdays from Mexico, where he was with a party that was held prisoners by the revolutioists while passing through. Mr. Garrey is a mining expert for Eastern interests.

With other Americans he was subjected to detention by the rebels and was held several days. Garrey says that the backbone of the insurrection is broken and that the government has the situation well in hand but declares that it has been the most serious outbreak Mexico has known in many years.

AGAINST ALLIANCES.

North Dakota Baptists Oppose Federation of Churches.

Bathgate, N. D., June 8.—Baptists of the Red River Valley association in convention here opposed alliances with other churches, according to resolutions adopted. It is pointed out that the movement toward the federation of churches tends to do away to a certain extent with the practice of Baptist policies, those policies becoming secondary, and it is also contended that congregations, no matter how weakened in numbers, should remain true to the Baptist faith at all times.

Resolutions were adopted condemning the action of President Taft in suspending the order of the secretary of the interior forbidding the wearing of sectarian garb in connection with Indian schools.

WANT ASHLAND BONDS.

Three Bids Received for Issue of $100,000.

Ashland, Wis., June 8.—As the certified check put up by S. A. Kean & Co. of Chicago, who offered a premium of $1,680 for the $100,000 refunding bonds, was not in keeping with the advertisement the council committee has held the bids open waiting for the Chicago concern to make a correction. Two other bids were received.

M. R. Halsey & Co., bond brokers of Chicago, agreed to pay $10 premium in additon to the face value, but also wanted the city to pay them several hundred dollars as commission.

ROOSEVELT BEATS BOTH RIVALS BY ABOUT 3,000.

For Roosevelt, 25,000; for La Follette, 15,000; for Taft, 7,000.

COUDERAY INDIANS OBSERVING FESTIVAL.

Couderay, Wis., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Indians on the Couderay Indian reservation are holding their Corpus Christi festival at Reserve, an Indian village on the reservation. Nearly all the 1,100 Indians on the reservation are in attendance at this gathering, which will last several days and which is one of the most important events of the year. A number of Indians representing other reservations in the state are also here partaking in the celebration.

ACCUSED HUMANE OFFICER AFTER DAMAGES.

Dickinson, N. D., June 8.—Suit for $20,000 damages has been started by William Blake, state humane officer, who was recently arrested here on the complaint of S. L. Carroll. Carroll is charged by Blake with false imprisonment. Charges against Blake which grew out of his alleged association with wards taken from parents who had failed to give them proper attention are still maintained, and the trial of the humane official will be held in September.

IMPORTANT WITNESS IS KILLED BY CARS.

Belfield, N. D., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jerry Holmen, struck over the head by a crowbar by John Kregal, is slowly recovering.

John Danielson, who was killed on a train near Beach, was wanted by the officials here as a witness in the Holmen case. It was while he was attempting to escape the officials that he met with the accident, walking on the track resulting in his being run down.

Should Assess Wisconsin Lodges.

Madison, Wis., June 8.—For ten years in Wisconsin Odd Fellows lodges as well as Masonic temples have been subject to assessment. If they have not been assessed it is either due to negligency or oversight by the local assessor. In some parts of the state it appears the lodges have been assessed and others not, but Tax Commissioner Nils P. Haughen says that the local assessors should assess such property.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland—On Monday two young men, Joe Janicek and Andy Israel, who had been working at the Ashland brewery, quit their jobs and left town. In their hurry to get away they forgot to pay their board bills. They were brought back from Menominee, Mich., for trial.

MAY BUILDING PERMITS AGGREGATE $335,135

Healthy Increase Over April Is Shown By Monthly Figures.

Architects Report Good Volume of Future Business on Tables.

Duluth building permits for May numbered 141 and represented an expenditure of $335,135. While falling short of the May, 1911, record, there is a gratifying increase over the preceding month. In April, this year, 152 permits were taken out, but the estimated cost involved was but $172,728. Last year during the month of May 190 permits were issued and called for an expenditure of $568,579.

Local architects report a steady volume of future construction in their offices on which the work of preparing plans, designs and specifications is now being prosecuted. The building situation for June looks bright and builders say that the coming season will be a good one.

Architect Vernon J. Price has received a commission from the county school board to draw plans and specifications for five schools. One will be constructed at Embarrass in district No. 11, and the others will be erected in unorganized districts No. 28, 26, 30 and 15. The average cost of the building will be about $1,500.

The same architect is also preparing plans for the remodeling of a portion of the old Washington school on First avenue east across from the high school building. The rooms will be made over to meet the requirements of the Prisoners' Aid society, which has been given the permission of the school board to convert the old building into a home and school for wayward girls. About $2,000 will be spent in making the changes.

William J. Sullivan, architect, will next week let the contract for the new school building which will be erected this summer at Wahkon, Minn. The school is an eight-room affair of brick construction and will cost in the neighborhood of $30,000.

F. L. Levy reports the sale of the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 33, 52-13, to Mr. Woldhagen from John La Pointe.

Architect W. A. Hunt is preparing plans for a $15,000 two-story brick building to be erected for a Swedish society at Bessemer, Mich. The structure will be devoted to lodge and clubroom purposes and will have a dining room, kitchen and auditorium. The same architect prepared the plans for the First National bank at Bessemer and has just let the contract for the work to Jacobson Brothers of this city for $25,000.

A national home for the St. Jospeh's society will be built this summer at Chisholm on plans furnished by F. L. Young & Co., architects of this city. The building will be a two-story brick affair and will have an auditorium. It will cost about $10,000.

The same firm of architects is preparing plans for remodelling the residence of J. B. Gengreau on South Twenty-seventh avenue west at a cost of about $2,000.

Architect P. M. Olson will take bids next week on the construction of the J. S. Strate residence to be erected on Woodland avenue between Sixth and Seventh streets. The cost will be about $5,000.

Anthony PPuck, architect, has prepared plans for a 3-story brick flat building to be erected on Second street between Tenth and Eleventh avenues east for the Karon Investment company at a cost of $17,000.

The largest building permit of the week was that taken out by the Booth Fisheries company for the construction of a warehouse to cost $24,000. The building will be erected on Minnesota avenue between Morse street and the canal.

The Duluth Street railway is remodeling its car barns at Twenty-sixth avenue west and Superior street to provide for waiting rooms for its employes. The work will cost about $3,500.

Repairs to a building owned by Watterworth & Fee on Second street between Third and Fourth avenue west which was damaged last week by fire are now being made. The work will cost $4,300.

Johnson & Carson have started the erection of a $1,000 dwelling house on Fifty-ninth avenue west between Ramsey and Wadena streets.

N. A. Nelson is erecting a home on Sixty-ninth avenue west between Waseca and Redruth streets. The house will cost $1,500.

A frame dwelling house is being erected for F. G. Hofler on Seventh street between Thirteenth and Fourteenth avenues east. It will cost $1,500.

J. Sederberg is having plans prepared for a residence to be erected on Greysolon road. It will cost $4,000.

The Midway Swedish Lutheran church will erect a new building, 32 by 64, with seating capacity for 400 and a parochial school. The cost will be $6,000.

THE NEW BETHEL BUILDING.

Splendid progress is being made in the construction of the new Bethel building, which is being erected at Mesaba avenue and First street by Contractor George H. Lounsberry. The superstructure is practically up and the building will be ready for occupancy this fall. It will cost $70,000 complete.

The new Bethel will accommodate about 200 people. Among its many features will be a public reading room, a chapel, a fumigator to disinfect clothing and baths. Its main object is to provide temporary accommodations to needy men, to look after their spiritual welfare and to thwart temptations which are daily thrown out to homeless workingmen.

The Bethel institution in this city is one of the oldest of its kind in this part of the country. In its day it has ministered to the wants of many thousands of men and with the new building which is now being erected the work can be considerably enlarged. The institution was founded by Dr. C. C. Salter in 1873.

The old building was sold last March for $18,000. It is located on Lake avenue south. The work of erecting and soliciting financial subscriptions for the new building is in charge of the board of directors which consists of: W. D. Edson, president; W. J. McCabe, vice president; H. A. Sedgwick, secretary; F. H. White, treasurer; H. M. Peyton, Luther Mendenhall, Page Morris, F. E. House, W. D. Bailey, A. W. Frick and John Helmer.

BRIGHT PROSPECT FOR JUNE REALTY MARKET

Good Demand Reported for Acreage and City Property.

Deal in Business Section of West End Most Important of Week.

Duluth's real estate market continues strong. The prospects for a heavy volume of business during June are bright. The real estate transfers indicate not only a well defined movement in acreage and outside property, but also show that there is considerable trading on the Duluth market.

Dealers are optimistic as to the general outlook. In the city, prices are somewhat stiff for business and in-lying residence property and in many instances it is being closely held. In spite of this fact trading in city business and residence property has been fairly good during the past week.

In acreage the week has been a good one in most of the offices. The Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company land department this week sold 3,660 acres in Red Lake county. Practically the whole of it went to prospective settlers who are living in Southern Minnesota. A Polish establishment is also being established at Floodwood.

The Ebert, Walker & McKnight company has had a good week in acreage. The firm has received earnest money on a tract of 798 acres in Aitkin county and has sold 120 acres in Lake county for D. C. Eaton to Josephine H. Bowden. Other sales were eight acres north of Chisholm to Frank Pozae for $600 and eighty acres near Bemidji to James D. McGhie.

Perhaps the most significant transfer of the week in city business property took place at the West end in the sale of a choice piece of Superior street frontage at 2016 and 2020 West Superior street from Sarah P. Smith to B. J. and Axel Summerfield of Cloquet for a consideration of $28,000.

The property fronts seventy-five feet on the lower side of Superior street and is occupied by a two-story brick block used for stores. The sale was made through the office of Stryker, Manley & Buck who were agents for the seller. P. George Hanson & Sons of the eWst end represented the buyers.

Whitney Wall reports that demand for property in Homewood addition is increasing since the street railway line has been assured the hillside district. The street railway company was ordered to put in the tracks at the meeting of the council Monday night, last. Mr. Wall expects that the grading of the streets will be finished some time during July.

The Gary Land company, operators at the Gary townsite near the steel plant, and the selling corporation for A. C. Volk & Co. reports an active week at Gary. The firm has not yet fairly started on its big selling campaign, but has received applications from fifty agents who are willing to represent the Gary property in outside towns. A few sales were made during the past week.

The Duluth Realty company reports the sale of seven lots in the addition to Ironton, near Crosby, this week. These lots have been disposed of in good shape during the past few months, going at the rate of one a day. In view of the fact that the mines at Ironton, Armour No. 1 and No. 2 have started shipping, the lots have come into demand for building sites for homes of the workingmen. A large number of buildings have already been put up and many more are planned this summer.

A. H. Burg & Co. report considerable activity in Northern Wisconsin acreage during the past week. The inquiry for large parcels of Lake Nebagamon farm land was never better than at the present time and several large deals are pending.

A house and lot on the northwest corner of Twenty-seventh avenue west and Helm street fronting forty-five feet on Helm street, was sold for $6,000 this week from Thomas J. Wilton to Florence B. Smith.

A transfer of fifty feet on the east side of Sixtieth avenue west between Green and Worden streets was made this week by Horace D. Felix to John Geistman. The consideration is not known. It is understood that the owner will improve the property.

Mary J. Kenna has sold to Joseph S. Shusterman for $3,600 a house and fifty-foot frontage on the upper side of Fifth street between Lake and First avenues west.

C. Sundby & Co. report the sale this week of a house and twenty-five-foot frontage at 1801 West Second street from John Hauer to J. P. Le Breche for $2,500.

A ninety-foot frontage on the west side of Forty-seventh avenue east below Cooke street was sold this week from Albert Stoltz to Charles O. Larsen for $2,190.

Abraham Swarts this week sold to Lulu M. Gasper for $750 a fifty-foot lot on the upper side of Cambridge street between Forty-first and Forty-second avenues east.

The Western Realty company reports an active market for garden tracts on the Morris Thomas road. Several sales were made during the past week and a number of deals are pending.

Gunder Edwards has sold a thirty-five-foot frontage on the east side of Seventh avenue east between Ninth and Tenth streets to Robert A. Peffer for $2,700.

NEW TRACT OF GARDEN PROPERTY ON THE MARKET

Much activity is being experienced in the sales of Exeter farm property, according to the Alliance Real Estate corporation, which is putting a rich and fertile tract of land two and a half miles from Lester park car line on the market, to be sold for summer residences, truck gardens and chicken farms at easy prices and terms.

The land is already cleared and ready for immediate cultivation and the proposition is appealing to many Duluthians. Not only is the land excellent for truck gardening, but is also said to be very favorable for poultry farming. Some of the most successful farms of this kind in the county are located in this neighborhood.

One of the state farms for experimental purposes in aid of agriculture is located two miles from the Exeter farms, and is being rapidly put in shape to assist farmers in cultivating their lands properly, and putting in crops for which the soil is best suited. Such a farm within easy reaching distance, making expert advice, example and assistance easily obtainable at all times, is an incalculable advantage to the novice, and of great assistance to the old farmer.

Aside from the value of this land for the purposes mentioned, it is said to be ideally located for summer residences. The land has been cleared under the supervision of an expert whose special tack it has been to see that the natural beauties of the spot were unchanged by the clearing operations, that nothing might be done to detract from the charm of the place as a location for homes.

Duluth will be represented at the national meeting of real estate men in Louisville this month.

At the annual meeting of the Duluth Real Estate exchange held this week, several of the members signified their intention of attending.

The following officers for the year were elected: G. P. Craig, president; J. D. Stryker, vice president; H. J. Mullin, treasurer; E. F. Spink, secretary.

Gives Talk on Roofing.

At a meeting of the Duluth Architectural club Thursday evening at the Commercial clubrooms an interesting stereopticon lecture was given by John G. Homan of Pittsburg on the subject of roofing. The talk was given in connection with views showing the manufacture of roofing and in the manner in which it is laid. Slides of residences and factories in some of the larger cities were used for illustrations.

NORTH DAKOTA DRUG STORES CRITICIZED

Superintendent of Enforcement League Says Many Are Blind Pigs.

Bismarck, N. D., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many drug stores operating in North Dakota are bad blind pigs, according to Superintendent F. L. Watkins of the North Dakota Enforcement league.

He points out that some judges have not granted any drug permits, and he believes that such steps have been taken because he has found, in his examinations, the fact that many druggists are violating the law.

The number of drug permits in the state, announced by Mr. Watkins, is 110. There are six districts in which no permits have been granted.

BORROW ENGINE AND ARE KILLED

Ohio Railroad Men Use Locomotive to Go for Flowers for Wives.

Covington, Ky., June 8.—Two roundhouse men employed in the Silver Grove yards of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, near here, borrowed a locomotive to pick flowers for their wives early today, and shortly afterward were killed in a collision with another locomotive. Both engines were demolished and three other men were injured.

Court at International Falls.

Brainerd, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.) — Judge McClenahan will open a session of district court at International Falls July 5. Doubt is expressed here whether Dr. Dumas will be sentenced at Bemidji July 8, as reported, as it is believed a further stay will be asked for pending an appeal to the supreme court from the judgment of conviction.

CROW WING SUNDAY SCHOOL MEET JUNE 25.

Brainerd, Minn., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Crow Wing county Sunday school convention will be held in Brainerd on June 25 and 26 and steps are being taken to make it the biggest of its kind ever held in the county. Sunday school experts from St Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth will address the gathering. The tenth annual convention of the W. C. T. U. of the fifteenth district will be held here June 11 and 12.

MORE RAINS BEAR WHEAT

Drouth-Stricken Region of the Southwest Gets Some Relief.

Wheat Closes Slightly Lower —July Flaxseed Changed a Little.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 8.—Reports of the rains in the Southwest, not confined to the eastern third of Kansas and Nebraska, but extending over the major part of both of those states, constituted the main feature of the wheat session on the markets of North America today. The rains in the Southwest seem to have given some real relief. The wheat market, however, gave way with obstinate resistance, for brokers generally are imbued with the idea that much of the hard winter wheat acreage of the Southwest has been damaged beyond recovery, and that a bumper crop in that section, so confidently predicted a few weeks ago, is now an impossibility, even under the most favorable weather conditions.

Duluth wheat closed today at a decline of ¾@⅞c. Minneapolis and Chicago July were off ¼c and Winnipeg July was unchanged. Duluth cash wheat closed 1c over July. Durum and oats closed ½c up. Rye and barley closed unchanged.

The primary wheat receipts on the markets of North America, as has been the case for some time, closed considerably under those of a year ago. It looks as if the country were pretty well cleaned up of wheat, or farmers would be bringing in much more of it by reason of the prevailing high prices.

Wheat on the Liverpool market today closed ¼d higher to ¼d lower. The poor quality of wheat arriving from Argentina excited some alarm and caused quite a demand for the good grades of Manitoba. The Continental markets of Europe, especially France, were aggressively bidding for wheat. These factors were offset, however, by the expectation of larger world shipments, a good percentage being headed for the United Kingdom.

July Flaxseed Up a Little.

During the early part of the day July flaxseed made its usual bulge, but not long before the session ended the rise was almost completely wiped out. Indications were during the greater part of the session that July would close at an advance of 3 to 4 cents, but it closed only half a cent up at $2,36½ bid. The Winnipeg market likewise had quite a bulge in July flaxseed, being at one time 3½ cents up, but it closed at an advance of only 2 cents at $2.08. Buenos Ayres July seed closed yesterday 1¾c up at $1.83½ and London-Calcutta June and July today closed 13s6c up at $2.33⅝.

There is no doubt that the general tendency of flaxseed is upward, not only at Duluth, but on all other markets of the world. This is especially true of the No. 1 flaxseed at Duluth, that grade being very scarce here. But there is an improving demand even for the lower grades. Minneapolis crushers have been very briskly buying up the seed of all grades. For a time today Minneapolis was bidding the Duluth July price for No. 1 cash flaxseed. The movement of low grade seed has become brisker on the Duluth market, and would be in pretty fair volume, if the seed were more plentiful, but there is not much arriving. Today there were but five cars of flaxseed on the track at Duluth for inspection. Of these five cars, one graded No. 1, two No. 2 and two no grade. Eastern crushers are waking up and bidding rather aggressively for all grades of flaxseed, both at Duluth and Winnipeg.

"Flour trade is rapidly picking up," said A. D. Goodman, manager of the Duluth Universal Milling company today. "The buyers seem convinced that wheat is not going to be materially lower before the coming of the new crop in the fall, and they cannot wait that long. I think they are right. I am inclined to think that during the coming summer, wheat is more apt to go up than down. The prospects of a large wheat crop in the Northwest just now are magnificent and could not be better, but for that very reason any further news of moment that comes from the Northwest is bound to be bad news. The general expectations in regard to the spring wheat are as high now as they possibly can be. A great many things can happen to that crop between now and harvest time."

Received the following from Logan & Bryan: "What is most needed in this wheat trade is a volume of business in line with the very bullish news from the entire wheat belt. Many leaders are expecting only a narrow trading market until the crop figures are known Monday, but they talked that way yesterday morning and market had an advance of 1½ cents. Some rains are reported in Kansas this morning."

The continuous reports of damage to winter wheat, both hard and soft, means that if the Northwest produces the fine bumper crop of spring wheat of which it now gives promise, there will be a large movement of wheat from this section to other parts of the country. It means that the Northwestern farmer will get a good price for his wheat and at the same time have a big crop and of course that means that he will make money. The North and South Dakota farmers certainly can stand making a little money this year, for in both of these states the farmers had wretched luck two years ago, and while a year ago the farmer of North Dakota did somewhat better the South Dakota asters did unfortunately another bad season. The Dakota farmers and country storekeepers are largely in debt and Duluth and Twin City jobbers would undoubtedly welcome a condition of affairs that would enable these debtors to settle up.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Rain in Kansas and Nebraska Gives Easy Tone to Wheat.

Chicago, June 8.—Rain that fell during the night in Kansas and Nebraska gave the wheat market today an easy tone. The fact, however, that the amount of moisture was only light prevented prices from sagging to any great extent. A forecast of large world shipments acted in favor of the bears. Opening figures were ¼c to ⅜@⅝c lower. September started at $1.05⅝ to $1.05½@1.05⅝, the same change from last night as the market taken as a whole. After a rally to $1.06¼, the price fell back to $1.05⅜.

A further dip ensued owing to slackness of demand. The close was easy with September at $1.05⅝@1.05¾, just ¼c under last night.

Demand from commission houses found offerings of corn scanty. No supplies were available except from public traders selling in a small way. July opened unchanged at 74⅜c and ascended to 75⅛c.

Belief that receipts would be small after the next week or so upheld the market. The close was steady at 74⅞ for July, a gain of ¼c net.

Cash houses were good buyers of futures in the outs crowd. Bullish crop reports from Nebraska furnished the incentive. July started a shade off to ½@¾c up, at 51¼c to 51½c and climbed to 52c.

Provisions showed strength in sympathy with the market for live hogs. Initial sales varied from last night's level to 2½c higher, with September delivery $18.90 for pork, $11.10 for lard and $10.62½ for ribs.

Cash grain: Wheat—No. 2 red, $1.11½@1.13; No. 3 red, $1.09@1.11½; No. 2 hard, $1.10@1.12; No. 3 hard, $1.09@1.11; No. 1 northern, $1.16@1.20; No. 2 northern, $1.14@1.17; No. 3 northern, $1.11@1.17; No. 2 spring, $1.12@1.18; No. 3 spring, $1.09@1.16; No. 4 spring, $1.03@1.13; velvet chaff, $1.05@1.12; durum, $1.01@1.09.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Brief Session on Stock Exchange Is Perfunctory and Uninteresting.

Tobacco Subsidiaries Add to Phenomenal Advances of Early Week.

New York, June 8.—Dullness and irregularity marked the early dealings on the stock exchange today. Price changes were unimportant aside from a point gain in Canadian Pacific, and two points or more in one of the former Tobacco subsidiaries. The active issues ranged within a fraction of yesterday's close.

The market closed easy. Today's brief session on the stock exchange was perfunctory and uninteresting throughout. Trading was light and without feature except as to the former tobacco subsidiaries, most of which added materially to their phenomenal advances of the early week. The market favorites were utterly neglected until near the close when the whole list went off somewhat.

Cotton Market.

New York, June 8.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 3 to 7 points on the old crop, but unchanged to 2 points lower on the new and sold 4 to 5 points net lower during the first few minutes, under liquidation by recent buyers and local pressure. Offerings were well taken at the decline, however, owing to continued buying by some of the old bull interests and the market during the middle of the morning rallied 3 or 4 points from the lowest on covering for over the week-end.

Cables were a shade better than due, and probably helped the old crop position at the opening.

Futures closed steady; closing bids: June, 11.05; July, 11.15; August, 11.21; September, 11.28; October, 11.39; November, 11.43; December, 11.49; January, 11.46; February, 11.50; March, 11.57; May, 11.62. Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 11.65; middling gulf, 11.90. No sales.

Chicago Livestock.

Chicago, June 8.—Cattle—Receipts, 200; market steady; beeves, $5.90@9.30; Texas steers, $6.35@8.00; western steers, $6.40@8.00; stockers and feeders, $4.20@6.80; cows and heifers, $2.80@8.00; calves, $5.50@9.00. Hogs—Receipts, 13,000; market steady to shade up; light, $7.15@7.60; mixed, $7.20@7.67½; heavy, $7.20@7.70; rough, $7.20@7.40; pigs, $5.30@7.10; bulk of sales, $7.30@7.65. Sheep — Receipts, 9,000; market weak; native, $3.90@5.50; western, $3.60@5.50; yearlings, $5.00@7.00; lambs, native, $4.75@8.50; western, $5.25@8.65.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., June 8.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Trade was featured with one of the heaviest orders for circus horses ever placed in America. Eastern and Twin City parties who are now organizing a circus and menagerie filled an order for all the horses which the big new show will require, some $30,000 worth of extra quality circus horses being selected. This circus will have the finest stock in America, including a number of the best 6 and 8-horse teams which money can buy. Ramsay Houghton, formerly boss hustler of the Barnum & Bailey show, is busy training these horses for circus work, and they will be used in moving the show during its initial performances during the next few weeks. There was a fair retail demand. Receipts included four carloads of draft and general purpose horses. Values as follow:

Drafters, extra	$190@250
Drafters, choice	130@190
Drafters, common to good	90@115
Farm mares and horses, extra	145@180
Farm mares and horses, choice	115@135
Farm horses, common to good	70@115
Delivery	120@210
Drivers and saddlers	110@200
Mules, according to size	150@240

Notice of Dividend.

Calumet & Arizona Mining Company has declared a dividend of one dollar ($1.00) a share, payable June 24, 1912, to stockholders of record at the close of the books of the corporation June 7, 1912.

Transfer books close at the close of business June 7, 1912, and reopen at the opening of business June 17, 1912.

GORDON R. CAMPBELL, Secretary.

COPPER STOCKS SLIGHTLY HIGHER

Copper stocks made some gains at the session of today, although trading was very dull. With copper metal selling at 17½c, the stocks could not help making some gains, though the gains were slight. Calumet & Arizona gained a little more than 75c. Small gains were made also by North Butte and Keating. Amalgamated was slightly off at the close. The general stock market of New York was very dull and rather weak, and this had a sympathetic effect on the copper stocks.

"Following the small increase in world's visible supply of copper in April, May came back with a vengeance with a decrease of 26,993,106 pounds, bringing the figure on June 1 down to 149,559,963 pounds. The decrease in May was the biggest since November last, when it totaled 30,000,000 pounds.

"The world's visible is now barely a month's supply, even taking into account the 25,000,000 pounds at Hamburg and Rotterdam, which have not until recently been included in the foreign visible statistics. Including the decrease at these two ports, the total decrease for May was $1,806,866 pounds.

"The decrease in the world's stock thus far in 1912 amounts to 68,000,000 pounds, of which 40,000,000 punds has been in United States surplus. The foreign visible for the first time since September, 1908, is now under 100,000,000 pounds—at 99,944,320 pounds.

"The feature of the copper producers' May statement was the jump of 9,000,000 pounds in export deliveries, domestic shipments meantime showing a 3,

TWO-BILL AGREEMENT GETS FINAL BLOW BY VOTE OF THE SENATE

Only Three Senators Vote to Stand By the Agreement.

Federal Amendment on Election of Senators Is Finally Passed.

Resolution Against Canadian Reciprocity Pact Is Buried in Committee.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The senate two-measure agreement received its final blow this morning when Senator S. D. Works of Mankato raised it in opposition to the adoption of a report of the committee on the reception of bills in favor of the resolution ratifying the federal constitutional amendment providing for the direct election of United States senators. He moved to lay the resolution on the table, and his motion was lost, 3 to 36, only Senators Dunn of St. Paul and Anderson of Albert Lea voting with Senator Works. This, the first report from the committee on the reception of bills, came in early in today's session of the senate.

Senator Works pointed out that a majority of the senate had signed an agreement limiting the work of the senate to the state-wide primary and corrupt practices act. He thought that agreement, entered into as gentlemen, should be upheld.

Senator Duxbury said that the rule adopted by the senate providing for the committee on reception on bills, and that no bills other than those should be received except by a unanimous vote of the committee, was a substitute for the resolution.

The Works motion being voted down, the rules were suspended and the resolution adopted, 51 to 0. First there was a debate over an amendment proposed by the committee providing for sending a notification of

OKLAHOMA UNDER THE FEDERAL LID

Indian Territory Liquor Prohibition Not Ended By Statehood.

Washington, June 10.—Federal prohibition against the carrying of intoxicating liquors into that part of Oklahoma formerly Indian territory, from points outside the state, was today held still operative by the supreme court of the United States, notwithstanding Oklahoma's admission to the Union.

The decision was in the case of Charles Webb, who had been charged with violating the federal law. Justice Pitney said Oklahoma Indians still were wards of the nation, and the Federal government had preserved its right to protect them.

METAL SCHEDULE BILL TAKEN UP BY HOUSE.

Washington, June 10.—The metal tariff bill, amended in the senate to repeal the Canadian reciprocity act and fix a universal duty of $2 a ton on print paper, was taken up today in the house. It was indicated the house would disagree to these two amendments.

WILL MEET AT BORDER

Duluth Plans to Be Well Represented at International Falls.

Special Car Will Carry Delegates to the N. M. D. A. Meeting.

Duluth and St. Louis county will be well represented at the meeting of the Northern Minnesota association at International Falls June 20 and 21.

The Duluth Commercial club and the St. Louis County club will both have representatives at the meeting, which will be one of the most important in the history of the association.

Arrangements are being made for a special sleeper for the St. Louis county delegates. The car will probably be attached to the Canadian Northern train leaving here Wednesday evening, June 19, and arriving in International Falls early Thursday morning. The car will be held at International Falls during the meeting, and the Du-

IRON RANGE DISTRICTS

Two Provided for in New Reapportionment Bill Before House.

Second Choice Provision Not Complicated as Some Are Claiming.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new reapportionment bill which will be introduced in the house this afternoon by Representative Cleon T. Knapp of Chisholm provides for sundering the legislative relationship between the iron ranges and Duluth, which has been in effect ever since the "shoestring" apportionment 1897.

It was retained in the Congdon bill of 1911, because it was deemed best for all concerned that it should be so. However, the iron range communities undoubtedly objected to it strongly, so in the present bill it is abandoned altogether, and the ranges are given two districts all to themselves, leaving three to Duluth and Lake and Cook counties.

The St. Louis county members have been working on it for several days, but it was not until yesterday that

GOVERNMENT WINS LAND FRAUD CASE

Supreme Court Says Hyde and Schneider Must Serve Terms.

Washington, June 10.—The eight-year struggle of Frederick A. Hyde and J. H. Schneider to escape imprisonment for alleged conspiracy to defraud the government out of lands in California and Oregon, ended in failure today when the supreme court found no error in their conviction in the District of Columbia.

PRESIDENTIAL YACHT NEARLY RUN DOWN.

Old Point, Va., June 10.—The presidential yacht Mayflower, with the president and Mrs. Taft and a party of their distinguished guests aboard, narrowly escaped a collision, early Sunday, with the steamer Northland of the Norfolk & Washington line, not far from Point Lookout, where the Potomac river empties into Chasapeake bay. Only the vigilance of the officers of the Northland and the Mayflower and their prompt action prevented what looked for a minute like an accident.

As it happened, the Northland narrowly missed the Mayflower. Officials and one or two persons on the passenger boat who were looking only got a momentary shock. It was a perfectly still moonlight morning, with no sea running, and the lights of passing vessels could be seen for miles. The few passengers awake showed no signs of panic, but they looked relieved when danger was over.

EIGHT MURDERED IN THEIR BEDS IN IOWA; REVENGE THE MOTIVE

Joseph Moore, Business Man, His Family and Guests All Killed.

Heads of All Crushed to Pulp By Murderer—Ax the Weapon.

Villisca, Iowa, June 10. — Joseph Moore, a prominent Villisca business man, his wife and four children and two women supposed to be Mrs. Van Gilder and her daughter, relatives of the Moores, were found murdered this morning in the Moore home. Their heads had been mashed to a pulp.

An ax covered with blood and human hair, found in the house, is supposed to have been the instrument with which the crime was committed.

All were murdered in their beds. There is no definite clew to the murderer, although search is being made, it is said, for one person suspected by the authorities.

Owing to the mutilation, the identity of the two women could not be absolutely established this morning, but the Van Gilders, who live a few miles from Villisca, are known to have been visiting the Moores yesterday, and last night all attended an entertainment together, so it is felt certain that the victims are the women named.

No robbery was committed, and it seems clear that only a desire for revenge could have prompted the murder, unless the work was done by a madman.

HIRTH WINS AIR RACE TO VIENNA

Former Automobile Racer Captures More Honors in Aviation.

Vienna, June 10.—The aeroplane race from Berlin to this city under the auspices of the Imperial Aviation society and the Austrian Aero club, started yesterday morning, was won by Hollmuth Hirth, German, carrying as a passenger Lieut. Schoeller of the German army. Hirth with his companion covered the distance (330 miles in a direct line) in 295 minutes (six hours, 35 minutes) actual flying time.

The three Austrian lieutenants, Blaschke, Miller (alias Csakay) and Bergmann, were forced to land on the way here from Breslau. Csakay was the best performer in the first stage of the contest, from Berlin to Breslau, about 200 miles, which he accomplished in two hours and 58 minutes.

Hirth in the course of his flight flew over the Altvator mountain range in Moravia, which rises to an altitude of 4,887 feet.

Hirth, who is well known in America as an automobile racer, has, since he started aviation, been a winner in every big flying competition in which he has entered.

HARMON AND POMERENE

How Ohio's Governor Made Enemies of Bryan and John R. McLean.

Hearst's Influence More of an Injury Than Aid for Clark.

(By Willis J. Abbot.)

Washington, June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Political Washington has been interested in the force with which Governor Harmon handled the Ohio convention. Not only did he prevent any sort of a compromise, but after enforcing the unit rule which gives him forty-eight votes from Ohio, he vigorously suppressed the ambitions of his own protege, Senator Pomerene, to be chairman of the convention because Pomerene had opposed the enforcement of the unit rule. In this there is a good deal of significance. Pomerene would not be United States senator today had it not been for Governor Harmon. Harmon would not have at the present moment the bitter hostility of John R. McLean's two influential papers, the Cincinnati Enquirer and the Washington Post, had he not quietly aided the election of Pomerene. I do not mean

INJUNCTION GIVEN IN GRAIN CASE

Rosenbaum Company Forbidden to Use Warehouse for Its Own Holdings.

Chicago, June 10.—Circuit Judge F. A. Smith issued an injunction today restraining the J. Rosenbaum Grain company from storing grain owned by them in any of their warehouses, and also enjoined them from receiving in their warehouses grain which has been treated in any of their clearing houses.

The decision was given in the suit of Adolph J. Lichstern, millionaire grain buyer and member of the board of trade, who alleged that grain owned by him and stored in the Rosenbaum warehouses was in danger of being mixed with inferior grain and grain which had been cleaned and treated.

Lichstern set up that as warehouse men the defendant grain company should not be allowed to mix its grain with that of other grain owners in the warehouses.

MARINES IN BATTLE WITH INSURGENTS

Clash Occurs in Which American Guards Drive Off the Cubans.

Battleship and Cruiser Go to Havana From Key West.

Gomez Is Said to Have Threatened to Resign as President.

Santiago, Cuba, June 10.—A company of United States marines, commanded by Capt. Edward B. Manwaring, engaged in guarding El Cuero mines, was attacked at 1 o'clock this morning by a force of insurgents, who were repulsed after considerable firing. There was no casualties among the marines and the loss of the insurgents is unknown.

Warships Leave Key West.

Key West, Fla., June 10.—The battleship Rhode Island and the cruiser Washington left the harbor at 5 o'clock this morning, presumably for Havana. They were under sealed orders. Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus, commander of the third division of the Atlantic fleet, was on board the Washington, his flagship.

The collier Mars followed the Rhode Island and Washington just before noon. She may be used as a dispatch boat, it is reported.

Threats by President Gomez to resign as the result of the sending of American warships to the island are rumored among Cubans here.

Postponement of Fourth California District Contest Stirs Factions.

Cases of Indiana's Four Delegates-at-Large Are Taken Up.

H. G. Stilwell Asks Taft Committeemen to "Stop Steam Roller."

CONTEST DECISIONS BY REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE.

Last week, Alabama, 16; Arkansas, 16; Florida, 12; Georgia, 28; total, 72—all credited to Taft.
Today: Arizona case, six delegates-at-large, postponed until Wednesday.
California case, Fourth district, two delegates, postponed until Wednesday.
Seated Indiana delegation-at-large (four delegates) credited to Taft.
The vote was made unanimous, New not voting.
Seated the First Indiana delegates for Taft, unanimously.

Chicago, June 10.—Postponement of hearing of the contest in the Fourth California district this morning brought to high intensity the heated conflict between the Taft and Roosevelt factions in the Republican national committee.

The vote of 38 to 13 by which the postponement was effected, on motion of Senator Crane of Massachusetts, drew beyond any possible doubt the lines between the factions.

The negative votes were those of: Knight of California; Borah of Idaho; Burnham of Kentucky; Wight of Louisiana; Kellogg of Minnesota; Littauer (for Flanigan of Nevada); Ward of New York; Capers of South Carolina; Thorson of South Dakota; Loose of Utah; Rogers of Wisconsin and McCoy of the Philippines.

Indiana Case Called.

The contest against the four Taft delegates at large from Indiana was then called. Under the committee's rules a half hour will be allowed to each side for the arguments in the case of the delegates-at-large.

Bainbridge Colby of New York appeared as attorney for the Roosevelt delegates. He charged first that the attempt to organize the credentials committee of the Indiana state convention on the night before the convention had been illegal and unathorized by the state committee's official call.

Mr. Colby declared that a rule of procedure had been adopted by the credentials committee which gave five Taft members of the committee the opportunity to choose members from the Third, Sixth and Thirteenth districts, so as to give them control of the full committee.

TEDDY GOING TO CHICAGO?

Question Is the Chief Topic of Discussion at Party Quarters.

Cummins Boom Will Be Pushed Hard—La Follette Platform Growing.

Chicago, June 10.—Possibility of the arrival in Chicago of Col. Roosevelt within the next few days furnished the chief topic of discussion at both Roosevelt and Taft headquarters with the beginning today of the final week of preliminaries for the Republican national convention.

This and the question of what effect such action by Col. Roosevelt would have upon the pre-convention situation, held the foreground to the exclusion of many other matters of considerable importance.

Roosevelt leaders did not agree in their opinions as to what the former president will do. A number maintained that Col. Roosevelt will not be in Chicago at any time prior to the convention, while others stoutly asserted that they had received positive information that he will be here by Wednesday or Thursday, at the latest. None of them, however, would talk for publication on this debated point.

The political colony was largely augmented today by the arrival of scores of leaders and numerous delegates to the convention from various sections of the country. With the arrival of these men, activities at the several headquarters increased and the preliminary battle lines between the Roosevelt and Taft camps were drawn tighter.

Flinn Hard at Work.

William Flinn of Pittsburg and Frank Knox of Michigan, officers of the Roosevelt committee of twenty organized Saturday, today began their work of rounding up the Roosevelt strength on the ground. From this time until the convention formally is called to order June 18, Flinn, Knox and their assistants will be busy cementing the Roosevelt forces and completing the plan of action for convention week.

Congressman William B. McKinley of Illinois, manager of the Taft campaign, returned to Chicago from his home at Champaign, where he spent Sunday. He plunged into his final week of preconvention work with the declaration that President Taft's prospects for renomination had been made certain.

STRIKE TIES UP BIG FRENCH LINER

Thousand Members of Crew of the France Start Walkout at Havre.

Havre, France, June 10.—The crew of the French liner France, consisting of 550 firemen, trimmers and seamen, together with 500 other seamen of other classes, this morning voted the declaration of a general strike in Havre and appointed a strike committee.

The committee has urged the crew of the France, who left the vessel as she was about to sail for New York, not to return until complete satisfaction of their demands has been accorded. They demand an increase of $6 a month for the firemen and $4 a month for other categories.

The strikers are all naval reservists and it is believed they will endeavor today to tie up vessels in other ports.

ENDURANCE TEST IN BOSTON STRIKE

Partial Resumption of Car Service Includes Use of Strike-Breakers.

Boston, Mass., June 10.—The strike of several thousand employes of the Boston Elevated Railroad company for a minimum wage and recognition of their union, settled down today to a question of endurance. A partial resumption of car service on the elevated, tunnel and surface lines was made after a night free from serious disturbance.

About 100 men reached the city from New York on one of the early morning trains. In several instances menacing crowds caused strike-breakers to abandon the cars to which they had been assigned. Many cars carried police guards.

Both sides profess to be confident of the outcome of the struggle.

TO OPEN LAND IN AITKIN COUNTY

Miller Introduces Bill Approved By Secretary of the Interior.

(From The Herald Washington Bureau.)

Washington, June 10.—Representative Miller today introduced a bill to open for settlement about 3,000 acres of land, mostly in Aitkin county, Minnesota. The tract was withdrawn in 1891 for reservoir sites and flowage purposes, as the government was then contemplating the construction of reservoir projects. As part of the lands so withdrawn were five or six miles from possible reservoir purposes, Mr. Miller wishes to open them for settlement.

Part of the lands were opened by executive order. The present secretary of the interior, however, would not agree to having them opened by executive order, declaring legislation was necessary. The secretary told Mr. Miller this morning that he would approve of Mr. Miller's bill.

Some opposition has been made by the national waterways commission to the proposed legislation, but this has been withdrawn, Senators Nelson and Burton, members of the commission, having agreed to the proposed legislation. Unless some further opposition develops in congress the measure will pass.

RAILROADS

MILWAUKEE MAY BUILD

C., M. & St. P. Road Said to Be Planning Road From Fargo.

Would Connect at Brainerd With Proposed Line From Ortonville.

Is the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad headed for Duluth from two directions?

Is the Milwaukee road going to follow the example of the Soo and "come all at once?"

Duluthians interested in traffic affairs firmly believe that the Milwaukee road is headed this way, and will come from at least two directions.

The following special dispatch from Fargo today would bear out this theory:

"Fargo, N. D., June 10.—Fargo and Moorhead are to have direct lines of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad to Winnipeg and Duluth, according to statements of R. Hamilton of Milwaukee, engineer in charge of the company's construction.

"The line to Winnipeg will run directly along the Red river on the North Dakota side to Grand Forks, where it will cross the river going north to Winnipeg on the Minnesota side. The line from Duluth to Moorhead and Fargo will be an air line.

"Commercial clubs of Moorhead and Crookston have obtained practically all of the right of way between these two cities, while Fargo and Grand Forks Commercial clubs have obtained practically all the right of way for the opening line on the North Dakota side."

The company that has been organized to acquire a right of way from Ortonville to Duluth is believed to be a Milwaukee enterprise, or at least it is felt that the Milwaukee stands ready to step in and take over the right of way when it has been acquired.

A glance at the map of Minnesota shows an interesting situation. The projected line from Ortonville will run through Morris, Alexandria and Brainerd. A line from Fargo and Moorhead to Brainerd, connecting with this projected line from the Southwest, would give almost a direct line to Duluth. This would give the Milwaukee road a connection from Duluth and Lake Superior with its main line to the West at Ortonville, and also connections with its Winnipeg line at Fargo and Moorhead.

SUCCESSOR TO HILL HERE

New President of Great Northern Pays Brief Visit to Duluth.

C. R. Gray, new president of the Great Northern Railway company, was in Duluth this morning on an inspection trip.

Mr. Gray was accompanied by J. M. Gruber, general manager of the road and J. H. Taylor, general superintendent.

The party arrived this morning and left this afternoon for St. Paul.

Mr. Gray stated that he was in the city for no other purpose than to look over the company's equipment at the Head of the Lakes.

He said that his presence in Duluth is of no significance in any connection. "Following out the general custom of Great Northern officials we are simply here on a trip of inspection," he said.

The party took an automobile trip around the city and left this afternoon for St. Paul.

PROGRESS ON CANADIAN ROAD

Labor Supply Is Small But Work Is Not Delayed.

"Construction work on the Canadian Northern railroad is progressing as well as could be expected," said F. S. Burgess, manager for the James S. Corbett Construction company, one of the contracting companies, at the Spalding yesterday.

The construction company is engaged at the present time in building a large rock fill at Nipigon Bay, east of Port Arthur, Can.

Mr. Burgess states that men are not any too plentiful, although the construction company has not suffered to any great extent from a scarcity of laborers.

Mr. Burgess says that there is quite a land and building boom at Fort William and Port Arthur and that the Canadian Head of the Lakes is coming rapidly to the fore.

PARK BOARD NEEDS FUNDS FOR CONCERTS.

Unless citizens of a philanthropic nature come along and put up some coin for the city park board to use, there will be but little chance of public band concerts in the city parks this summer. The street railway company has already agreed to contribute, but more money is needed. The members of the park board believe that they will be able to raise enough money to insure at least five concerts during July and August but it is up to the citizens, for there is not enough money in the park fun for the purpose despite the provision reecntly made in the city charter for band concerts during the summer. The tax levy for next year will cover the matter for 1913 but the question now is as to the concerts of 1912.

The park board has announced the opening of the Snively road for July 1. The ten stone arch bridges over the west branch of the Lester river and Amity creek have just been completed after one year's work. Grading is in process and it is expected that the drive will be of wonderful beauty when completed.

MARINE

WANT SEASON LENGTHENED

Plan of Keeping Navigation Open in December Being Discussed.

Would Permit Shipping of Large Part of Fall Crop.

Duluth vessel men seem to favor the lengthening of the season of navigation.

"If we had a longer season a great deal more wheat could be sent down in the fall and there is always room for more coal coming up," said one man this morning. "Another thing, the Eastern mills would not run so low in ore if three or four weeks were tacked on the shipping season."

All along the lakes there is great interest in the lengthening of the season. Some are for it and some are against it, although the majority seem to favor the idea, if business warrants it.

The Canadian minister of the interior has been in conference with marine insurance and navigation companies of Toronto, trying to work out a plan for the extension of the season. Additional lighthouses and ice breakers would be necessary, it is stated.

It is proposed to keep the lakes open through December, thereby allowing the shipping of from 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 additional bushels of wheat.

MAY END FREE LAKE TRIPS

Secretary Orders Freighters Carrying Passengers to Get Safety Equipment.

Lake freighters may either make provision for the safety of passengers or cut out "deadheading" people up and down the lakes on pleasure trips.

As the business of the carriers lies in moving freight and not passengers, it is probable that rather than go to the extra expense, the companies will shut down on the free trips, thereby disappointing many people who have been in the habit of going each year.

The vessel companies have long wanted to cut out the free trips, as they claim carrying passengers has become a nuisance.

Acting Secretary B. S. Cable of the department of commerce has decided that a boat carrying passengers must furnish them proper safety devices just as though the passengers were paying full fare.

NEW CHARGES IN HANFORD'S CASE

Washington, June 10. — Further charges against Federal Judge Hanford of Seattle were received today by Representative Norris from a Seattle lawyer, and will be laid before the house judiciary committee tomorrow. A resolution to impeach the judge for his decision in the Olsen Socialist case already is before the committee.

CZAR PARDONS ENGLISH SYMPATHIZER OF POLES.

Warsaw, June 10.—As a result of British intervention, the Russian emperor has issued a pardon to Miss Kate Malecocka, the Englishwoman recently sentenced to four years penal servlce because of her sympathy with the Polish revolutionists. The condition of the pardon is that she quit Russia forever.

MINNESOTA POLITICS

Carnival of Office-Seeking Is Coming in Minnesota—Candidates for Congress Slow in Coming Forward—Office of Congressman-at-Large Is Still in Existence.

Political Inactivity.

Political activity in Minnesota will lag until after the legislature completes the work of the extra session and disperses. Until the primary bill is safely passed and signed, and its provisions definitely determined, there will be few new candidates in the field for any office.

As soon as the legislature adjourns the campaign will start in earnest. It will be a campaign such as Minnesota has never seen before. Under the primary law, the candidates for the offices under the governorship will not be able to hold back until after the caucuses and then seek to round up the delegates. Neither will the candidates for governorship be able to look to the chosen few to deliver. The fight will be carried to the people, and the man who would hope to succeed must take his cause before the voters for scrutiny.

Take six or seven candidates for governor and picture them running up and down and over and across the state pleading for the votes of the sovereign people. Add to them any number of candidates for lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, and railroad and warehouse commissioners. Take into consideration that the campaign for congressional nominations and house nominations will be in progress at the same time. Add to all that the candidates for county offices, and one has a carnival of office seeking that is enough to drive the average voter to abdication of his powers of citizenship, rather than to consider each candidate on his merits.

After this year, the primary for state offices will probably be held in June, but it is too late this year. The whole campaign will come in a bunch and the poor, helpless voter will be overwhelmed by campaign oratory, campaign literature and campaign claims.

No Capital for Governor.

Judging from the press comments, the expected capital that was to accrue to Governor Eberhart on his extra session call failed to materialize. The political nature of the extra session call was so obvious that even the least observing could not fail to observe. The exchanges almost without exception declare that even though the legislature does pass beneficial legislation, the governor will gain nothing from it, and the second choice primary will kill any chances he did have of obtaining the nomination under a committee-made preference primary which would retain the county as a unit. It's pretty rough on a governor in a desperate political situation.

Congressional Candidates.

Republican candidates for congress are not coming forward with any too much alacrity. Little definite opposition has developed to the present members from Minnesota, but friends of those members are not counting too much on present security and are preparing for opposition in most districts.

Opposition to Sydney Anderson developed in the First district when John J. McGaughey filed some time ago. Mr. McGaughey has not yet opened his campaign, as he was ill. He has now recovered and has announced that he will soon begin tearing into the congressional record of the youthful office-holder, at the same time exposing Mr. McGaughey's sterling qualities to the multitudes, or words to that effect.

In the Second district, F. W. Ellsworth and A. J. Daley are in the field for the Republican nomination against Congressman Hammond, with A. L. Ward of Fairmont and Senator Jules Haycraft of Madelia in the background as reserve candidates. Aspirants for the honor of going into the election against the Democratic congressman are numerous and indications are that complete harmony will not be restored to the Republican party in the Second this year.

There is talk of opposition to Congressman Davis in the Third, but it has not crystalized on any one man. In the Fourth, Congressman Stevens will certainly have opposition. Hugh T. Halbert may make the run again, and there is also talk of a candidate from Stillwater. Naturally, a St. Paul man would have the better chance.

Congressman Nye has no unassailable position in the Fifth and will probably be opposed at the primaries. In the Sixth, if Lindbergh sticks to his resolution to run for the senate, there is likely to be a merry contest. Being first on the ground, Alvah Eastman has the advantage, but Mr. Eastman will not be allowed to walk off with the nomination without a struggle. There has been talk of opposition to Volstead in the Seventh, but nothing has developed. In the Eighth, Congressman Miller will undoubtedly have things his own way in the primaries, though he will be opposed at the election.

F. H. Peterson of Moorhead has already announced his intention of opposing Congressman Steenerson in the Ninth, and there may be other candidates.

Under these circumstances, the Republican show in nearly every district will be worth watching.

Congressman-at-Large.

The action of the legislature in deciding to steer clear of congressional reapportionment at the extra session leaves the office of congressman-at-large in existence.

Alvah Eastman's expressed intention of running for congress in the Sixth leaves the congressman-at-large job open. Mr. Eastman's decision is based on Congressman Lindbergh's announcement that he would run for the senate. If Mr. Lindbergh should back down—something that might take place if Senator Nelson should decide to stay in the game—Mr. Eastman would probably return to his campaign for congressman-at-large.

Just now, L. C. Spooner is the most likely looking possibility for congressman-at-large. Of course, Mr. Spooner is a candidate for governor, but he has shown signs of wavering and may seek any one of three other offices: his seat in the house, congressman-at-large or congressman from the Seventh district.

To date Alvah Eastman is the only man who has shown visible signs of a desire to become congressman-at-large, and Alvah promptly lost that desire when Lindbergh announced his candidacy for the senate. Congressman-at-large is only good for two years, but the man who makes a campaign this year and gets a state-wide acquaintance will be in a formidable position for anything he cares to go after in 1914.

Candidates Are Coy.

Candidates for county office in St. Louis county are coy. Many strings are being pulled and rumors of candidacies without number are in the air, but nobody is anxious to start a long, expensive campaign. Few will announce their candidacy until well after July 1, which will give plenty of time for campagning and organization before the primaries in September.

they got it in shape for introduction. If the present proposed form develops any objectionable features, the bill can be amended later.

With this exception, and with the exception of the fact that the bill is not to be effective until after the coming election, this is precisely the same as the Congdon bill of 1911, which passed the house and was beaten in the senate.

Judging from the present indications, that same thing will happen to it this time; and the practical certainty that the senate is even more determined to beat it now than it was at the regular session, together with the fact that everybody is anxious to finish up this week and get home, will make it much more difficult to pass it through the house than it was in 1911. The Northern members will stand pat on it; but there are enough of them to pass it. It was only by the help of many votes from Southern Minnesota that it was possible to pass it through the house in the regular session. Besides this, there are large areas in the Sixth and Seventh congressional districts that will not be changed much if any by a reapportionment, and while the members from these sections favor reapportionment as an abstract proposition of fairness, it is going to be hard to get them to take up reapportionment when they feel that it only means a delay in the date of adjournment without accomplishing anything.

Northern Minnesota members are now canvassing the house on the question. Before the bill comes back from the reapportionment committee, they will know just where they stand and just how many votes they can bank upon.

St. Louis County Districts.

The bill gives St. Louis, with Lake and Cook counties attached, five senators and ten representatives as against the present three senators and six representatives. The district proposed are as follows:

Fifty-third district—All of St. Louis county west of the line between ranges 17 and 18, including the Western Mesaba range with Hibbing, Chisholm and surrounding towns.

Fifty-fourth district—All of St. Louis county east of the above line and north of Duluth, including the townships of New Independence, Grand Lake, Industrial, Solway and township 50-17. This includes Virginia, Eveleth, Tower, Ely and their neighboring communities.

Fifty-fifth district—The Sixth, Seventh and Eighth wards of Duluth and township 49-15, which includes Proctor village.

Fifty-sixth district—The Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth wards of Duluth and the townships of Herman, Canosia, Friedenberg, Gnesen and Rice Lake.

Fifty-seventh district—The first ward of Duluth, all of the townships of Duluth and Normanna, and Lake and Cook counties.

These districts are balanced in proportion to population as nearly as possible, and are as closely related in interests and by transportation facilities as it is possible to make them. Changes may be suggested which can be made in committee or on the floor, which the above is the result of several days of very careful work on the part of the members.

Second Choice Provision.

You might think, to step into such a circle of lawmakers as can be found almost anywhere in the house and senate chambers or in the hotel lobbies during spare hours, that the second choice provision is as complicated and intricate as a Chinese puzzle.

Somebody ought to write a romance about it, if he gets time, and call it "The Mystery of the Second Choice; or, The Marvelous Puzzleheadness of Those Who Do Not Wish to Understand.

Almost everywhere you go you will find one of these groups, busy figuring with pencil and paper on the second choice, with several individuals in each group pretending that it is a ridiculously complicated thing which no ordinary intelligence can grasp.

Careful chemical analysis of about sixteen of these groups and of their deliberations develops this interesting fact:

Nine out of ten of those who appear to be so dismayed by the complexity of the second choice are men who are personally opposed to having any second choice provision at all.

Those who favor the second choice provision because they realize that it will produce much more nearly a true party choice for any given nomination than the straight primary, which permits the nomination of candidates by a mere plurality which may be only a small minority of the total vote, seem to have no difficulty at all in understanding it.

The plan which receives the most general support, and which is the Wisconsin plan and the plan provided for in the Haycraft-Knapp bill now before both houses, provides for a process of elimination in joining first and second choices to determine the result.

Under that plan the ballot would be something like this:

Candidates—	First Choice (Vote for one.)	Second Choice (Vote for one.)
B.
C.
D.

The tally sheets would be something like this:

First Choice Vote.	Second Choice Vote. A.	B.	C.	D.
A 30,000	.....	10,000	10,000	10,000
B 25,000	1,000	.....	17,000	7,000
C 20,000	1,000	15,000	.....	4,000
D 5,000	1,000	3,000	1,000	.....

Not Complicated for Voter.

There is nothing complicated about the voter's work. A, B, C and D are the candidates for governor, for instance. A is a reactionary candidate, B, C and D are progressive candidates. At the election 75,000 votes are cast. Thirty thousand of them are cast for A, the conservative candidate. Forty-five thousand are divided between the three progressive candidates.

Under the straight primary A would be nominated because he had the largest vote. The fact that a majority of the voters wanted a progressive candidate would not be considered at all. They would be defeated by the division of their forces between their three progressive candidates. A would be nominated with a large majority of his party against him on principle.

But under the second choice plan there would be no nomination on the first choice vote because a majority is required. No candidate having received a majority, the process of elimination would begin.

D, being low man, would be dropped. The second choices of those who voted for him would be credited where they belong. Of his 5,000 supporters, 1,000 had A for second choice, 3,000 were for B and 1,000 for C as second choice. These figures would be added to the first choices of A, B and C. This would give A 31,000, B 28,000 and C 21,000. Still there would be no nomination, as 37,501 votes constitute a majority.

So C, the next low man, would be eliminated, and the second choice votes of his followers credited up. Of his 20,000 supporters 1,000 gave A as second choice, 15,000 were for B; 4,000 were for D, but D is now eliminated. This would give A 32,000 and B 43,000. B now having a majority, is declared the nominee. This would be the case if his total did not constitute a majority, because the process is continued until but two candidates are left, and the nomination goes to the one having the largest total of first and second choices.

Thus the majority of progressives in the party would prevail, and the minority of conservatives would lose; though they would hae won unquestionably under a straight primary without the second choice provision.

The plan is not flawless. It is pointed out, for instance, that the second choices of those who vote for the two high men never are counted at all. Nobody, however, has discovered a way to get around this except through substitutes for the elimination plan which have not, so far, found much favor.

Another Plan.

One substitute, proposed by Representative G. W. Brown of McLeod county, is really a variation.

He proposes that before the process of elimination begins, all first and second choices be added to see if this gives any candidate a majority of the total.

A—First choice vote, 30,000; second choice vote from B, 1,000; second choice vote from C, 1,000; from D, 1,000; total, 33,000.

B—First choice vote, 25,000; second choice vote from A, 10,000; from C, 15,000; from D, 3,000; total, 53,000.

C—First choice vote, 20,000; second choice vote from A, 10,000; from B, 17,000; from D, 1,000; total, 48,000.

D—First choice vote, 5,000; second choice vote, 10,000 from A, 7,000 from B and 4,000 from C; total, 26,000.

Mr. Brown would now eliminate all but the two highest men, who are B and C. He would add to their first choice votes the second choice votes for them cast by the voters whose first choices were A and D.

This would work out as follows:

B—First choice, 25,000; second choice from A, 10,000; second choice from D, 3,000; total, 38,000.

B would be nominated.

A third plan is simply to add first and second choices together, as in the first step of the Brown plan, and to give the nomination to the highest man.

Under the example given, B would be nominated by either of the three plans. A, the reactionary, could be nominated only by the straight primary without a second choice provision.

The Brown plan seems unnecessarily complicated. The third plan mentioned, that of adding together first and second choices and giving the nomination to the high man, has the merit of simplicity, but it makes second choices of equal value with first choices.

Taking it all in all, the elimination plan proposed in the Haycraft-Knapp bill and borrowed bodily from Wisconsin, seems to be the one most likely to be adopted in the end.

Better Judges Required.

Some of those who are objecting to the second choice feature point out that the character of the men chosen for judges and clerks of election in many places will make many mistakes likely, and foster recounts and contests. There may be something to that; but if there is, it points to the need of providing a better quality of judges and clerks. The custom in many places is to put in these responsible positions the deadwood of politics—ancient retainers and political hangers-on who are not qualified for other political places, but are content with the fees received from this work. There is no reason why bookkeepers, clerks and others skilled at figures and quick at accounting should not be employed as judges and clerks of election, and no reason why the law should not require their employment, even if it is necessary to increase the prevailing rate of pay.

The state-wide primary bill is a special order in the senate tomorrow, and probably will go through that body Tuesday or Wednesday. The house elections committee will report the bill back to the house favorably, and with few changes, this afternoon or tomorrow. By Thursday or Friday it should have been acted upon by both houses, though there may be differences between the two that will further delay final action.

ANOTHER HOSPITAL CASE YIELDS.

Place—Good Samaritan's Hospital in Dawson City, Yukon Territory, Alaska.

Prognosis—Hopeless, not only because physicians consider it so but the conditon of the patient was so extreme that death was believed to be not far away.

A friend of Hatch's by the name of E. S. Strait, auctioner of Dawson, heard about his plight and called upon him. Strait told Hatch that five years ago he was in the same fix and sent to California for Fulton's Diabetic Compound and recovered and to insure his health he keeps it on hand. He told Hatch that he would loan him some until more could be had from San Francisco. To the surprise of Dr. Cato, who has charge of the hospital, and the nurses, and his friends, Hatch made a recovery.

Instead of being in his grave as the Hospital authorities predicted four months later found him on a visit to his old home in Portland, Maine.

Diabetes in people of middle age and and over is now a curable disease.

Financial aid is being requested for the new Cloquet City band, and the managers of the Bijou theater will give the entire receipts of the two performances Wednesday evening to the band boys.

FIFTH DISAGREEMENT.

Houghton County Criminal Case Is Making Record.

Houghton, Mich., June 10.—The fifth jury in the Strom case reported inability to agree and was discharged.

Sticking to his determination to keep on trying the case until a verdict either of acquittal or conviction has been obtained, the district attorney instructed Deputy Sheriff McGrath to proceed to draw another jury, the sixth since the case began.

S.S.S. DRIVES OUT RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is due to an excess of uric acid, an irritating, inflammatory accumulation, which gets into the circulation because of weak kidneys, constipation, indigestion, and other physical irregularities which are usually considered of no importance. Nothing applied externally can ever reach the seat of this trouble; the most such treatment can do is soothe the pains temporarily; while potash and other mineral medicines really add to the acidity of the blood, and this fluid therefore continually grows more acrid and vitiated. Then instead of nourishing the different muscles and joints, keeping them in a normally supple and elastic condition, it gradually hardens and stiffens them by drying up the natural oils and fluids. Rheumatism can never be cured until the blood is purified. S. S. S. thoroughly cleanses and renovates the circulation by neutralizing the acids and driving the cause from the system. It strengthens and invigorates the blood so that instead of a sour, weak stream, depositing acrid and painful corrosive matter in the muscles, joints and bones, it nourishes the entire body with pure, rich blood and permanently cures Rheumatism. S. S. S. contains no potash, alkali or other harmful mineral, but is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks of great purifying and tonic properties. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.

Headquarters will be established at the Radisson hotel in Minneapolis, where members of the order and the Grand Army of the Republic and all allied orders and friends will be welcome.

State officers for the ensuing year will be elected and other business of importance will be transacted.

The Duluth representatives of J. B. Culver corps No. 62, who will leave tomorrow morning over the Great Northern to attend the convention, are: Mrs. Esther Stitt, Mrs. Ella F. Gearhart, Mrs. Sarah Pierce, Mrs. Delina Burnett, Mrs. Villita Rankin, Mrs. Mary Gillion, Mrs. Kate Brown, Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Nella Williams.

W. R. C.

Regular Meeting Thursday Afternoon.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Relief corps will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Memorial hall. Mrs. Etta Tischer, second vice president will act as the presiding officer in the absence of Mrs. Stitt, the president. A good attendance is desired.

ANNUAL PICNIC.

Mrs. McGonagle Will Be Hostess to D. A. R. Chapter.

Mrs. W. A. McGonagle of Hunter's Park will entertain the Greysolon du Luhu chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at their annual picnic Friday afternoon at her home. The election of officers will be held after the luncheon.

WILL LIVE IN DULUTH.

St. Paul Painter of Miniatures Will Reside Here.

Mrs. Bessie Currie Paterson, who has recently come to Duluth with her husband to reside, is an artist of considerable note, especially in her miniature work. An exhibition of some of her work is shown at the art exhibit at the courthouse this week and has been attracting admiration and praise from the visitors during the first few days of the exhibit. Exquisitely done, each miniature has an individual charm, and many have expressed the view that this was one of the choicest collections of the whole exhibit.

Mrs. Paterson, who comes from St. Paul, where she has lived for the past twenty-five years, is a graduate of the Chicago art institute, where she worked under John H. Vanderpool, who also has thirty drawings in the state art society's exhibit at the courthouse. It was Mr. Vanderpool who praised Mrs. Paterson's work as being "true in characterization as well as being structurally understood," and as being also "the best draftsman in his class." At the institute, also, Mrs. Paterson received an honorable mention for painting from nude life in a competition confined to students of two years' standing, the awards bearing the signatures of William M. R. French, Frederick W. Freer, John H. Vanderpool and H. Carpenter, as well as the management of the art institute. She expects to study in Paris a part of next year.

In an article on "A new Miniature Epoch" which appeared in the Fine Arts Journal some time ago, before Mrs. Paterson's marriage, her work was spoken of as follows: "Miss Currie is particularly fine as a delineator of child character in a portrait. Her children's faces on ivory impress one as little tots who have sat down, not to have their portraits painted, but rather to be interested in what the artist herself is trying to accomplish."

RECTOR LEAVES.

Dr. MacLean Goes on Vacation Trip.

The Rev. T. W. MacLean, D. D., of Trinity pro-cathedral left last evening for Milwaukee. He will attend a trustee meeting of Racine college, of which he is an alumnus and will visit his son, Malcolm MacLean of the Chicago Post in Chicago before going to Potawatome Park, Mich., where his family are summering at their cottage on the lake.

HOME FROM CONVENTION.

Music Teachers Adopt Plan for Examinations.

Miss Mabel Fulton, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Flaaten and Miss Josephine Carey of Duluth, who attended the annual convention of the Minnesota State Music Teachers' association last week, have all returned. The meetings proved of general interest to all of the delegates and the invitation of the Duluth musicians, tendered by Miss Fulton to the association, to hold its convention in Duluth next June, was accepted.

The most important event of the association was the adoption of the plan of examinations for music teachers throughout the state. This will not be compulsory, but will be regarded as a privilege by the musicians and will help give some general standard upon which to judge the teachers.

Several Duluthians have been placed on the board of examination, the various boards being made up as follows: Organ, Horace Rayner, Duluth; Hamlin Hunt, Minneapolis; G. H. Fairclough, St. Paul; piano, Leopold Bruenner, St. Paul; Gustavus Johnson, Minneapolis; Miss Josephine Cary, Duluth; voice and public school instruction, Willard Patten, Minneapolis; Carolino V. Smith, Winona; Charles A. Fischer, St. Paul; violin, Errico Sansone, St. Paul; William McPhail, Minneapolis; Miss Mabel Augustine, Minneapolis.

J. Victor Bergquist was appointed chairman of a committee to consider the drawing up of articles of incorporation and design for a corporate seal, and Hamlin Hunt is at the head of a committee to revise the constitution.

A banquet and reception was the opening function and several concerts and round tables were enjoyed by the delegates. A "stunt" which caused considerable laughter at the banquet was a mock colored wedding in which some twenty-five prominent musicians of the state took part. Miss Fulton was cleverly made up as a ring bearer.

ERDTMAN CONCERT.

Patrons and Patronesses Named for Coming Musical Event.

Among the patrons and patronesses for the concert which will be given June 20 by Sigurd Erdtman, assisted by other musicians, at the Y. W. C. A. auditorium, are Messrs. and Mesdames G. S. Richards, C. P. Craig, Stephen H. Jones, Alexander Marshall, E. W. Matter, Ernest Luchmund, Millie Bunnell, Charles S. Mitchell, Louis Dworshak, Andrew Nelson, Robert Bruce Liggett, Dr. Tilderquist, Helmer Ogren, Josef Lonegren and Bishop McGolrick, Miss Theresa Lynn, E. D. Ranck, G. E. Warren, C. E. Johnson, Charles F. Forsell and A. Ahlen.

The executive committees interested in making this concert a success appointed by various organizations for whom Mr. Erdtman has sung at concerts and entertainments are composed as follows:

Y. W. C. A.—Mrs. Robert Bruce Liggett, Mrs. Stephen H. Jones Mrs. Claypool, Mrs. Hardin, Miss Trimble and Miss Lelia Sparks.

Bishop club—Mrs. A. A. Deslauries, Miss Theresa Lynn and Mrs. A. V. Kelly.

PRUDDEN-EATON.

Invitations Out and Party Chosen.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Edward Prudden of 326 Thirteenth avenue east have issued invitations for the wedding of their daughter, Elsie June to Harry Albert Eaton of St. Louis, Mo. The event will take place Wednesday evening, June 26, at their home at 8 o'clock in the presence of relatives and friends. Rev. A. W. Ryan of St. Paul's Episcopal church will perform the ceremony.

The bride will have as her maid of honor her sister, Miss Mildred Prudden and the bridesmaid will be Mr. Eaton's sister, Miss Jessie MacInnes of Worcester, Mass. Ronald McMartin will be the ring bearer and Misses Bessie Burgo and Louana Phelps will be the ribbon bearers. Dr. C. E. Prudden, a brother of the bride, will be best man.

Mr. Eaton and his bride will be at home in St. Louis, Mo., after Sept. 15.

Mrs. Arthur Hanford and Miss Bertha Hanford of Woodland will entertain at a tea next Saturday afternoon for Miss Prudden and Mrs. Robert McMartin of Lakeside will give a luncheon for her Wednesday.

TALKS AT EXHIBIT.

Sunday Crowd Large; Interesting Demonstration.

Charles Broschi of St. Paul interested the visitors at the art exhibit this afternoon with a demonstration of modeling and sculptoring and he will also give a demonstration of this form of art again this evening.

Mrs. Henriette Oldberg of Minneapolis will talk tomorrow afternoon on "Flax and Its Artistic Possibilities in Minnesota," and tomorrow evening on "Scandinavian Handicraft and Its Relation to Duluth."

The art exhibit attracted hundreds of visitors yesterday afternoon. The pleasant weather made nearly every one want to get out of doors and the art exhibit proved the destination of many pleasure seekers.

The large hall on the fifth floor where the paintings and sculpture exhibits are arranged was crowded with interested guests who lingered over the pictures and drawings and took in each picture at their leisure. The third floor rooms where the arts and cratts exhibits are arranged proved equally attractive and were filled all afternoon with those interested in the needlework, weaving, hand made jewelry, laces, carved wood work, pottery, metal work and other arts and crafts exhibits.

The exhibit will continue all week being open every day from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m. and on Sunday from 2 to 6.

It is entirely free and every one is welcome.

Surprise Party.

Miss Ida Stein was pleasantly surprised at her home last evening by a number of her friends. Among those in the party were: Misses Eva Stein, Rachel Goldstein, Helen Goldman, louise Polinsky, Eva Andovsky, Mary Siden, Pearl Cohen, Gertrude Cohen, Sophie Shapiro, Rose Kapustin, Lena Ostrov, Kate Barrish, Edith Shapiro.

Messrs. Himan Stein, Mike Stein, Joe Letman, Morris Litman, Ben Litman, Nathan Love, Mandy Levine, Isadore Shapiro, Solomon Urowsky, Frank Webber.

Social Center Conference.

A conference is called on social center work for this evening at 8 o'clock in the hall in the library. What is being done, what is to be done, and how it can be carried forward with the least possible false motion or duplication, are the three topics which will be discussed by representatives of the institutions where social center work has been carried on and by others interested in the work.

The Board of Public Welfare of which Rev. Robert Yost is chairman and John S. Pardee, secretary, has called this meeting, which is open to all interested and a large attendance is hoped for.

Martin-Anderson.

Miss Alice Martin has announced the members of the bridal party in her wedding to Edwin E. Anderson, which will take place Wednesday evening, June 19 at 8 o'clock, at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Martin, 503 West Third street. Mrs. George Martin will be the matron of honor, and Don Anderson of Biwabik, brother of the bridegroom, will be best man. Master Clement Peters and Maurice Martin, nephews of Miss Martin, will stretch the ribbons for the bridal party. Dr. A. W. Ryan, pastor of St. Paul Episcopal church, will read the ceremony in the presence of relatives and a few immediate friends.

A large reception will follow the ceremony from 8:30 to 10 o'clock.

Church Meetings.

The West Side Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. Thomas McNaught, 1015 East First street, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The Girls' Guild of the Glen Avon Presbyterian church will meet at the home of Miss Agnes MacFarlane at Hunter's Park on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. All the high school girls of the congregation are urged to be present.

* * *

A "magazine social" will be given in the parlors of the Glen Avon church Friday evening by the Christian Endeavor society of that church. All of the young people are cordially invited and are asked to dress to represent the name of some magazine.

Coming Out Party.

Mrs. Thomas D. Merrill and Miss Marie Merrill of 2625 Greysolon road have issued invitations for an at home Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. This is to be Miss Merrill's coming out party.

Alumni Banquet.

The Bryant school alumni will hold its annual banquet tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock at the school. The members of this year's eighth grade class will be the guests of honor at the affair. The serving will be done by seventh grade girls, putting into use some of the training which they have received in their domestic science course this year.

Summer School.

A seven week's summer school course has been planned at the Duluth state normal school and the course is planned especially for teachers who are engaged in work at their profession during the other months of the year. The range of subjects makes it valuable for both high and grammar school teachers. Among the courses of study are those in grammar, geography, United States history, arithmetic, manual training, drawing, physics, civics, algebra, geometry, botany, agriculture and physchology.

Tomorrow is the day to register for this course and the regular work will begin on Wednesday. The teaching staff will be composed of the members of the faculty of the school.

THE EVENING STORY

CINDERELLA'S SISTER

By Mary Bull.

She was not beautiful, but she was distinctly pretty. Her hair was gold and fluffy, her eyes were grey, and more than ordinarily intelligent, while to her sister Cinderella, she was wonderful—a being of exquisite workmanship.

Cinderella herself was far from pretty, she was painfully ordinary. You meet her in street cars; she blushes when the man next to her brushes her black hat awry—it is always black and always a little awry you will notice. But her eyes? Yes, her eyes are far from ordinary; they are filled with a peculiar self-annihilation and renunciation, deliberate and entire.

Cinderella adored her sister; her love was the love of an infinitely proud and tender mother, it was the passion and wonder of her drab little life.

The sisters lived in apartments in Harlem; at least Cinderella lived there; pretty Cynthia borrowed Cinderella's Indian shawl and pearl necklace and went to artistic dances and dinners. Then she would come home and tell Cinderella all about them, touching carelessly on her conquests, and Cinderella quivered in the red glow of the fire and dreamed wonderful dreams for Cynthia, and went to bed still quivering—after she had tucked Cynthia up and given her her own water bottle.

Then, one day, there came a man! He was ordinary, too, insomuch that he was impressionable and kindly, but he was extraordinary because he was very rich—and Cinderella's friend.

He was very wonderful to her, for she had never had a friend before. She remembered faithfully the five times that he had pressed her hand and looked into her eyes at parting; she remembered and recalled them just as she remembered and recalled all Cynthia's few and hasty caresses but the pleasure of the one never eclipsed the ineffaceable joy of the other.

Cinderella realized that she never could command a wonderful or an idealistic love; she would be just the recipient of the gentle, protective affection, the unemotional, the uninspired. She acknowledged it to herself often; the wild and wonderful loves of Marie Corelli and Rider Haggard she believed in implicitly, but not for the Cinderellas of the world, only for the golden-haired, blue-eyed beings who swayed men's hearts; therefore her own ached a little when her stranger met Cynthia for the first time.

Cynthia, in the moments when she buzzed in and out of Cinderella's life, had teased her about this new man, half-mockingly. The mocking went from her when she actually met him; she became a creature of most pensive eyes and sad, sweet little smiles. She wore white and talked of books and art, and sang "Rose in the Bud" in a sobbing voice, while Cynthia sat in a corner and knitted a woolen muffler for the snuffy little crispring of the janitor; she realized that the stranger had ceased to belong to her, that he had become Cynthia's, it was just and right.

Cinderella sobbed a little in her sleep that night and shut out many of her waking dreams in the days that followed, but in her sleep they came back to her in all their sweet futility, little baby voices called to her out of oblivion, sunshine dappled the earth.

Very often Cinderella's friend came to the Harlem apartments and Cynthia talked to him, or sang, but the sobbing note had gone from her clear young voice; it was almost arrogant in its serene self-confidence.

Cinderella spent many hours dressing Cynthia's fair hair, and lent her her high-heeled bronze shoes and old paste hair ornament to go to the theater in—apparently with the man, Cynthia offered no explantion. When she had gone Cinderella sat and knitted or read and learned that she loved the man—but her sister more than ever.

So the days grew shorter and Christmas drew near. Cinderella found many excuses to walk in the brightly lit streets; they mocked her a little, the clatter and bustling excitement.

She thought of Cynthia and the man, sitting before the fire hand in hand, and as she pictured them in her thoughts the cloak of renunciation brought its own particular glow. But there came a misty rain-sodden evening when Cynthia came home to her with wet curling hair and unfathomable eyes. She threw off her waterproof, and hurled her hat on the sofa, knelt by Cinderella, and twining her arms tightly about her, said:

"I"—Cynthia's voice was very gentle—"I have something to tell you, dear."

"I am going to be married."

Cinderella had lived this moment many times before and traced it further, with shining eyes, to the actual wedding—and onward again, when tiny Cynthias should push and cling to her—Cynthia's children.

Now, in reality, blackness crept around her—clinging, heavy blackness; out of it she saw the man's quiet uneventful face, heard his steady unemotional voice.

"You have never seen my boy," Cynthia went on swiftly; "he is your man's brother, so that in a way it was you who introduced him to me. And—Oh, I'm so wonderfully happy, dear!"

The darkness had cleared suddenly, and a wonderfully illuminating splash of sunshine took its place. Cynthia had slipped down until her head rested on Cinderella's knee; she spoke dreamily in the red light, while from outside came the raucous echo of an orange vender's cry.

"I cannot think why you don't like my boy's brother. I wish you would; he is such a dear man! Yesterday he confided in me; he said he wanted to see you tomorrow early, though he feared it would do no good. He told me that he wanted you as he had never wanted anything in his life; but you had been so cold and strange lately and seemed to avoid him on every occasion that he was almost in despair. I said I would manage that he should see you."

The little touch of arrogance, supreme self-confidence, flashed in Cynthia's voice—and died; she lifted her flushed, pretty face.

"Somehow, I seem to feel that you care for him, and I am so very glad, dear!"

Still Cinderella never spoke or moved, Cynthia settled herself comfortably and smiled.

"You know," she said, "I was most horribly afraid that you would think I was in love with your man. He is a dear, and perhaps I did care for him at first; then he introduced me to his brother, Dick, and Dick and I cared for each other at once."

Cinderella was busy adjusting things in her own mind, and with quiet deliberation she asked one question, most vital.

"You are happy, Cynthia, darling?"

"Most gloriously."

Cinderella sighed in relief. The next remark came more slowly. Her tender eyes shone softly in the firelight and her fine face glowed with happiness as she said:

"You — may — tell him—Cynthia—when you see him that—I shall be in at 7 tomorrow."

Cynthia nodded easily. "Of course! But there are a thousand questions to be asked and answered and you haven't asked me one."

"Tonight," said Cinderella, slowly. "I want to imagine. Tomorrow will be soon enough to know. But you, little girl! For you I cannot be glad enough."

TO CROOKSTON NEXT.

U. C. T. Vote to Meet in Polk County Seat in 1913.

Red Wing, Minn., June 10.—The 1913 session of the United Commercial Travelers, grand council of Minnesota and North Dakota, will go to Crookston, which won the convention after a hard fight.

Albert Lea was in the running and worked political wires early and late. The vote was close.

W. W. Fegan of Grand Forks was elected grand counselor to succeed the retiring grand counselor, W. B. Clarkson of Owatonna. O. H. Griswold of Winona was elected grand junior counselor. Frank S. Pool of Minneapolis was advanced from grand page to grand conductor. W. L. Grasse of Fargo was made grand page.

The only two offices to which new men were elected were those of grand sentinel and grand treasurer. H. G. Lillybald, past senior counselor of the Red Wing council was unanimously elected grand treasurer.

P F. Murphy of Stillwater was made grand sentinel on the last ballot taken at the council of 1913. G. M. Peterson of Duluth opposed Mr. Murphy in the race for the office. Each man was pushed strongly by large delegations of brother councilmen.

ODD FELLOWS WILL GATHER

Duluth and Range Members Will Attend Grand Lodge Anniversary.

A large delegation of Odd Fellows from Duluth, the range country and elsewhere in Northern Minnesota will leave Duluth tomorrow for St. Paul to attend the sixtieth annual meeting of the grand lodge of Minnesota, which will take place in that city on Wednesday, June 12. A special effort is being made to get as large a delegation as possible to attend from this part of the state, for a campaign will be made to get the next annual meeting of the grand lodge for Duluth.

The railroads operating in Minnesota have granted a special fare-and-a-third round trip rate for this occasion. Some of the roads put the special rates in today, but others, notably the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Soo will not have the reduced fares until tomorrow. The return tickets will be good on trains returning to the starting point on June 15 or earlier.

Among the delegates who will attend from Duluth are R. E. Patterson and T. W. Hugo. About twenty members of the order in the range towns have already made arrangements to go.

The meetings of the grand lodge will be held in the Old Capitol building in St. Paul. The grand encampment will meet a day earlier, Tuesday, June 11, at Odd Fellows' hall in the same city. The Rebekah assembly of Minnesota will hold its twenty-fifth annual session on Wednesday, also at St. Paul, at Capitol City hall, West Seventh and Walnut streets.

KANSAS WILL WANT OVER 25,000 MEN.

Topeka, Kan., June 10.—Between 25,000 and 30,000 men will be needed to harvest fields of Kansas, beginning June 20, according to statements by Charles Harris, director of the Kansas state free employment bureau. In the statement, men seeking work in the fields are warned not to arrive before June 20 and are told where they are needed. In Barton county 2,350 harvesters are wanted; Rush county is second, asking for 2,100 men, and Pratt county is third, wanting 2,050, while in other counties the requests for help run from 1,500 to 40.

TO STANDARDIZE CITY PAVING

Committee of Woman's Council at Work Collecting Data.

Standard grades of paving for certain classes of thoroughfares may receive serious consideration in Duluth as a result of data now being gathered and which will be put in the hands of the board of public works.

The proposition that municipalities should adopt a standard grade of paving has long been urged by the American Association of Engineers. The Woman's Council of this city is now investigating the scheme and will make recommendations to the city with reference to it within a short time. A committee headed by Mrs. Oscar L. Mather is now at work gathering information.

The council committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks has long held that Duluth at least recognize certain materials as acceptable for certain kinds of thoroughfares and insist upon adherance to them. The plan of having a dozen or more various kinds of pavement in use in one city is considered poor policy.

In working out this plan, the city will solve the problem which will arise in the determining upon the grade first by considering the amount of traffic on the street; second, the class of traffic; third, grade, and fourth, weather conditions the year around.

The ordinance which authorizes the city to pay for the cost of paving street intersections makes the city the largest single contributor to any street improvement of this nature, and consequently the city has a right to exercise its voice in the matter of selection of materials.

The data which the committee of the Woman's Council is collecting will be put in the hands of the board of public works.

Struck by a Jack.

Garrison, N. D., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A terrific blow across the lower jaw and side of his head rendered E. H. Kunkel unconscious when the handle of a jack slipped and struck him full force. The jack was supporting a heavy lead pipe when the accident happened.

THUGS ENTER GROCERY STORE

Assault Proprietor But Are Frightened Away By His Shouts.

Two thugs Saturday night in an attempt to burglarize a grocery store at 326 East First street struck Peter Anderson, proprietor, over the head with the butt end of a revolver, inflicting a painful though not serious wound and escaped without rifling the till. The police have not caught them.

The assailants were young men and probably amateurs. They came into the Anderson store about 11 o'clock, just before closing time. Anderson was serving a customer. After the customer left he turned to the two men, one of whom ordered a small quantity of pepper. Anderson gave them the pepper and said that it would be ten cents.

The man who took the pepper handed by Anderson shoved a nickel over. Anderson repeated that the purchase was ten cents, but before he could make his point clear he had a revolver staring him in the face.

As one of the men ordered him to "hand over some coin" the other struck him across the forehead with the butt end of a revolver. Anderson fell, but did not lose consciousness. He yelled for help, and as he did so the youthful "stickups" made an exit through the rear door.

Patrolman Henry Wolf, Mounted Officer Noren and a squad of officers were on the scene within a few minutes. Anderson was taken out in the fresh air and a physician was summoned. He gave the police a description of his assailants.

PARCELS POST "COMING SOON"

Hitchcock Says It May Be Adopted Before Congress Adjourns.

Washington, June 10.—Legislation providing for a general parcels post throughout the United States and its possessions, except the Philippine islands, practically is certain to be enacted by the present congress, perhaps before the conclusion of the session now in progress, in the opinion of Postmaster General Hitchcock. He has urged insistently upon congress, he says, the desirability of domestic parcels post, because, among other reasons, he believes it will aid substantially in the solution of the problem of the high cost of living.

KANSAS PREPARING FOR DEADLY FOURTH.

Topeka, Kan., June 10.—Kansas may have an old-fashioned Fourth of July this year, but the state board of health is prepared for any accidents that may result. Dr. S. J. Crumbine, president of the board, has ordered an unusually large supply of tetanus serum and this will be distributed to all who need it.

Besides having an extra supply of the serum, the board of health will keep a physician on hand during all of the day and night preceding the Fourth and July 4, in order that telegraphic or telephonic messages may be received and the serum sent immediately to the towns asking for it.

Kills Wife and Himself.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 10.—William Alford, aged 40, of Anderson, Ind., shot and killed his wife, Josephine Alford, aged 46, and then committeed suicide. The killing occurred as Mrs. Alford was entering the front door of a fashionable home on North New Jersey street, where she was employed. Domestic trouble caused the tragedy.

DEATH ENDS SUFFERINGS OF MORE THAN HALF A CENTURY

After having been almost a constant sufferer from rheumatism for more than half a century, Mrs. Mary Towner, 83 years old, for twenty-two years a resident of West Duluth, died yesterday morning at the home of her son, Charles Towner, 128 North Sixty-fifth avenue west. She had been confined to her bed for almost three years and had been suffering from rheumatism for the past fifty-four years.

Mrs. Towner leaves three sons and two daughters. They are: William and Charles of West Duluth, Ivan of Helena, Mont., Mrs. Aaron Keck and Miss Ellen Towner of Akron, Ohio. She is also survived by fifteen grand children and twenty-one great grand children. She was born at Fairlight, Sussex county, England, and came to this country in 1872 with her husband and family. They returned to England after two years, when Mr. Towner died. Mrs. Towner left England again in 1876, later coming to Duluth in 1889.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning from the Holy Apostle's Episcopal church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Elinor street. Rev. E. B. Collier, pastor of the church, will officiate and interment will be in Oneota cemetery.

MRS. MARY TOWNER.

GUN MEN TERRORIZE SMITHVILLE PEOPLE.

Residents of Smithville were terrified Saturday evening when the report was circulated that the three men who answer the description of those who took part in the hold-up between Smithville and New Duluth Wednesday evening were in the neighborhood. It was reported that the three men were shooting at the trees and telegraph poles just outside of the city.

The shooting incident occurred near the home of A. G. Renstrom, whose children, Helga and Nelson, came running home from the field, where they had been sent to get the cows, claiming that they had heard several revolver shots in the woods. The New Duluth and the West Duluth police were both notified at once. No trace of the men could be found Saturday evening or all day yesterday by the police and several of the residents in Smithville, who had organized in a posse to scour the neighborhood.

At the first call Sergeant Barber and Policeman Paradise of the West Duluth station rode out to Smithville in an automobile belonging to James Terry. The machine was pressed into service upon its arrival in Smithville and was used the entire evening by the police in their search about the surrounding country. Patrolmen Root and Hinrichs of the New Duluth station rode out to Smithville on bicycles. A search was made on the Pittsburg location, where the men were said to have lived in a shack. A search there failed to locate them, but signs indicated that the men had recently been at the place.

DOCK FIRE CAUSED BY CIGARETTE BUTTS.

It is believed that cigarette stubs or sparks from the pipes of fishermen were the cause of the fire which was discovered after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon in an old dock at the foot of Fortieth avenue west. Department No. 8 answered the call and worked over two hours in putting out the blaze. The fire had worked into the slabs and sawdust, which comprise the larger part of the dock, and smoldered for a long time before breaking out.

If You Like Good Beer drink Fitger's Beer
It's Good for You

THERE are few people who deny the healthfulness of good beer. Say what you will, the fact remains that good beer is a delicious refreshment, a fine builder of good blood and a gentle pacifier of overworked nerves. (9)

When you are tired and crave something other than solid foods, there's nothing so satisfying as a cool glass of Fitger's Beer. With meals it is very enjoyable, making simple food taste like a feast.

Try it—That's the real test.

LAYS NECK ACROSS RAIL IN FRONT OF LOCOMOTIVE

Railroad Laborer Ends His Life in the Railroad Yards.

Foiled in First Attempt, But Is Successful in Second.

Arthur Bergman, aged about 35 years, committed suicide shortly after noon today by throwing himself under an Omaha engine a few feet west of the Sixth avenue viaduct. His neck was broken but he was not decapitated owing to the slow speed of the engine and the quickness of the engineer.

Engineer Fredericks, who was driving the engine, says it was the most unexpected and deliberate act he has ever seen. Bergman, a few minutes before tried to throw himself under a switch engine of the Northern Pacific road near the Union station, but was dragged away by a man standing near. Bergman then started through the yards and the matter was reported to Patrolman Fred Harling, who started after Bergman.

Before the patrolman could catch the man, Bergman saw the 12:40 Omaha train from Eau Claire come along and slow up at a crossing just west of the viaduct. Bergman watched the engine and when it started again deliberately pulled off his coat and hat, seemed to measure the distance, according to the engineer, and threw himself on the rail, his neck resting thereon.

The engine was going slow at the time and the engineer threw on the air quickly. As it was, the wheel of the tender—the engine was going in rear end to—simply struck the man's neck, breaking the spinal cord, but scarcely bruising the flesh. The wheel was sliding when it struck the man.

Theodore Swanson, who runs a saloon at 621 West Superior street, says that Bergman, who was a railroad laborer, and single, returned from Canada about a week ago. Mr. Swanson says that Bergman has not been drinking a great deal and up to an hour before the suicide was perfectly sober. Mr. Swanson had just given him a dollar to get something to eat and says that Bergman did not seem to be in low spirits, but was about the same as usual.

CLING THIRTY-SIX HOURS TO MAST OF WRECK.

Norfolk, Va., June 10.—Capt. Chase and six men, the crew of the three-masted schooner Frederick Roesner, after clinging to the one remaining mast of their water-logged and dismantled vessel for thirty-six hours, were rescued off Hatteras by the United Fruit steamer Carrillo.

Bound from Wilmington with a cargo of lumber for New Bedford, the schooner was struck by the gale Friday night. Under full sail at the time, two of the masts went by the board. The overhanging wreckage of sticks, yards and sails put the heavily laden schooner at the mercy of the waves, which soon began to pound open the seams.

The next meeting of the society will be held in the Copper country, the date to be selected by the association there.

ESTATE GOES TO FIANCEE

Magloir D. LaBrache Left Bulk of Property to Intended Bride.

Judge Gilpin in Probate Court Names Administrators of Three Estates.

Miss Lucile A. Grotke, 408 East Fifth street, bookkeeper for the Singer Sewing Machine company of this city, will receive about $1,500 and two city lots from the estate of Magloir D. LaBrache, her fiancee, who died on Nov. 9, 1911.

Final accounting in the estate was made by Judge S. W. Gilpin in probate court this morning and the administrator's affairs were wound up. The estate was divided according to the will. Although LaBrache left to his intended bride most of his property, he did not leave his immediate relatives out of consideration.

To each of his three sisters, LaBrache left $200 and he willed his brother, Joseph La Brache of this city, $100. The sisters who each received $200 bequests are Mrs. Richard Turpin of Blind River, Ont., Mrs. Adelor Therolt of Warren, Ont., and Mrs. Henry Checley of Seattle, Wash.

Judge Gilpin allowed the final account in the estate of Esther Postal. The dead woman's husband, Robert B. Postal, will receive all the estate, which is a small one.

The court appointed George Bacich of Virginia administrator of the estate of Daniel Juricivich, and John Povach of Hibbing administrator of the estate of Anton Dren. In both cases there is a claim for wrongful death. John Grams, Sr., was appointed administrator for the estate of his son, John Grams, Jr.

Final accounting was allowed in the estate of Elmina A. Hoffecker. The property consists of a few pieces of real estate.

THREE PLANS FIND FAVOR

Property Owners Unable to Agree on Means of Crossing Ravine.

The problem of crossing the ravine at Kent road from Woodland avenue is still a problem.

This morning a large number of the property owners of that vicinity gathered in the office of the board of public works to discuss the matter, having been invited by the board to do so. They could not agree.

These three plans for crossing the ravine were put up to them: To bridge it, or to fill it over a culvert, or to go around it.

The majority seemed to favor the last named plan; but others wanted either of the other ways. Now it is up to the council, for if the plan of going around the ravine is adopted, the city will have to purchase a considerable amount of private property; and it is up to the council to decide as to whether or not it wishes to do this. The matter will be reported to the council tonight.

Other matters that will be up before the council will be:

Citing Ole Olssen to appear to show cause why his saloon license should not be revoked.

The passing of the new drug ordinance.

A number of reports from the board of public works including an estimate of paving Central avenue and an estimate of the proposed sewer in Park Point will be outlined.

Game Wardens Board Sunday Evening Train on Alger-Smith Road.

Put It Up to Returning Fishermen as Sportsmen—No Dissent.

At a certain stretch of the Alger-Smith right of way it rained small trout last evening. The explanation is simple. It was not a phenomenon.

The evening train which comes down the Alger-Smith road on Sunday evenings is entitled to be named "The Fishermen's Special," for it is usually jammed to the point of discomfort by modern Waltons. Yesterday evening the same condition existed, fishermen from Duluth returning after their day's sport with their catches. All went merry as a marriage bell and everybody was talking at once telling the old, old tale of how the biggest one got away, and the other stock stories. The merriment of a few suddenly changed to consternation, however, for at a point up the line three heartless game wardens got on the train. They were Wardens Storey, James and Tabor.

These officers could not, legally, search the knapsacks of the returning fishermen, but they put the matter up to them in a way which simply made the returning anglers open up and display their strings. The game wardens went through the train and asked the passengers as sportsmen to show their catches, admitting that they had no legal right to search. It is said that there was not a "poor sport" on the train, for each showed what he had without dissent.

However, it is hinted, that numerous trout which might be considered under size, thumped suddenly on the right of way as the train sped along. Nobody was found with a catch beyond the legal limit, for the fishing was none too good, and it is understood that the wardens found little that would constitute a violation of the law. A few undersized trout were found, and their owners warned. The wardens will not say whether or not this practice of going through a train will be continued, but the fishermen who were searched yesterday feel that it will be merely prudence to be prepared for such an encounter again, and stay within the law.

DECORATES GRAVES OF DEAD CONFEDERATES.

Washington, June 10.—A group of grizzled veterans who wore the gray fifty years ago in the struggle between the states, assisted by allied Confederate organizations, gathered in Arlington cemetery Sunday to decorate the graves of the Confederate soldiers.

The address of the occasion was delivered by Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia, who counselled his hearers to remain true to the high ideals which are the heritage of their Southern ancestry. An impressive feature of the exercises was the unveiling of an immense floral set piece fashioned in the form of a southern cross. The graves were the, strewn with flowers, the Children of the Confederacy assisting. Special decoration was made on the tomb of unknown dead and the grave of "Fighting Joe" Wheeler.

TWO AVIATORS FALL TO DEATH

Kimmerling and Tonnel Killed on Day After Visseur Dies in France.

Mourmelon, France, June 10.—Kimmerling, one of the best known aviators, and an engineer, Tonnel, who was flying with him as a passenger, were instantly killed Sunday by a fall of 300 feet. Kimmerling was trying out a new monoplane. The machine was seen to oscillate violently, and then suddenly it dropped straight to earth.

Kimmerling had taken part in many important competitions, including the Paris-Rome-Turin race, in May, 1911, and the European race in July of the same year, in which he finished fifth, and the double fatality, coming so quickly after that of Saturday, when Visseur was killed, has had a depressing effect among the aviators gathered here.

Kimmerling was an aviator of great experience and was considered cautious. The machine was wrecked and it was therefore impossible to ascertain the cause of the accident.

TWO BOYS DROWN TRYING TO SAVE COMRADE.

Traverse City, Mich., June 10.—Clarence Cole, aged 9; Louis Cole, 8, and Edgar Scutt, 8, were drowned Sunday in Boardman lake. The three boys were playing on a log boom when young Scutt fell into the deep water. Clarence Cole jumped in to rescue him, but immediately went to the bottom. Louis Cole, hoping to save his brother, also sprang into the water and went down with the others. The bodies were recovered.

The members of the trio are Mrs. Sedate Pier of Wausau, Sydney Windecker of this city, and Sylvester Windecker of South Byron.

MADE A HIT AT RED WING

Duluth Commercial Travelers Return From Annual District Convention.

Captured Baseball Prize—Royally Entertained During Their Stay.

Most of the members of Zenith Council, No. 40, U. C. T., who went to Red Wing to attend the annual convention of the order for this district, returned yesterday morning, while others are not back yet. The Third Regiment band, which accompanied the Duluth representatives, returned yesterday. This band was easily the hit of the convention and gave practically all of the feature music of the occasion. The Duluth crowd as a whole made quite an impression, for it arrived in Red Wing over the Northern Pacific in royal fashion, having a special of three sleepers and a buffet car. About thirty traveling men, together with the band and a U. C. T. baseball team of twelve members were on the special.

The baseball team won the U. C. T. championship, defeating Crookston in a seven-inning game on Friday morning by a score of 16 to 0, defeating, in the afternoon, Owatonna by 7 to 1, and Fargo by 16 to 0. The Fargo contingent had defeated the St. Paul crowd on Thursday and this game at Red Wing decided the championship. Fargo quit after Duluth had rolled up the score given in three innings. Duluth won besides the championship, the first prize of $100 which was offered.

The Third Regiment band gave concerts at the band stand on the water front on Friday afternoon and evening and headed the parade on Saturday morning, following them being Zenith council, its members carrying Japanese umbrellas. Saturday afternoon the visitors were delightfully entertained by a river ride, a distance of six miles and back. A barge was provided and most of the trip was spent in dancing.

The delegates from North Dakota and Northern Minnesota succeeded in securing the convention for 1913 for Crookston. George N. Peterson of Zenith council was nominated for the office of grand sentinel and made a good showing against the winner. He was afterwards appointed to the grand auditing committee. Duluth is in line for a grand officer in 1913. The Duluth members of the delegation declare that they had a fine time and that Red Wing certainly knows how to entertain.

Hail Near Sheldon.

Sheldon, N. D., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hail accompanying a heavy rain and electric storm did considerable damage to growing crops east of here. Anton Liedal reports a field of sixty acres of rye just ready to head out practically ruined. Several other pieces of rye were struck.

SPENT DAY OUT OF DOORS

Duluth Took Full Advantage of Warm, Bright Sunday.

Excursion Boats and City Parks Crowded During Day.

Weather conditions were ideal and the day was given over to picnics, excursions, ball games, water sports and other recreation.

Thousands of pleasure seekers visited rustic retreats afforded in the sylvan scenery of Duluth's beautiful parks. Lester park drew the largest crowd, but the other parks, Chester, Congdon, Cascade, Lincoln and Fairmont also had visitors by the score.

Excursions were run up the river to Pond du Lac and on the lake to Two Harbors and many people took advantage of the summer day and enjoyed an invigorating outing. The ball game drew its full quota and the boat club was also a popular place. There were a large number of small craft in the harbor yesterday.

Many spent Sunday at nearby streams and lakes fishing.

Excursionists who returned last evening from the slip on lower Fifth avenue had occasion to complain of the absence of lights on the lower end of the street. Below the railroad tracks there were scarcely any lights burning last evening when the excursion boats landed their crowds.

Apparent inability on the part of the street railway company to cope with the problem of handling the Sunday crowds at Lester Park provoked considerable unfavorable comment among Lakeside residents yesterday.

Thousands of pleasure seekers visited Lester park yesterday morning and afternoon and all day the street cars were packed to the gates. Most of the cars filled with passengers at Third avenue west or at the park and as the cars carried through passengers, few stops were made at intermediate crossings in Lakeside.

Lakeside residents who wanted service yesterday were sometimes forced to wait until several cars had passed before they could be accommodated with the privilege of riding.

that Pomerene was elected senator because of any active work on Harmon's part. Indeed, it came as near being a case of election of senator by direct vote of the people as we have in this country. Pomerene was nominated for lieutenant-governor with the perfect understanding set forth in newspapers in Ohio of all political classes that should he be elected to that office, and the legislature be Democratic, he would be elected senator.

Made Two Enemies.

It was a very curious fact that the beginning of the bitter hostility of Mr. Bryan to Governor Harmon proceeded from this very understanding. Mr. Bryan raged and declared that Harmon was playing into the hands of John R. McLean. McLean in turn raged and declared that Harmon was antagonizing his ambitions to be United States senator. In the end the man elected by the people was seated, leaving the unfortunate Harmon with the hostility of both Bryan and McLean. Neither one will listen to reason and both have to be reckoned with as enemies in the Harmon presidential campaign.

There is a tendency in Washington to decry the strength of the Harmon movement. Even with his solid state behind him he will go into the convention with fewer votes than either Clark, Wilson or Underwood. At the same time he is a factor to be reckoned with. Had he gone out as vigorously as Wilson or Clark eighteen months ago, he would in the judgment of the best posted politicians here hold the convention in the hollow of his hand. It is quite true that he has one element of weakness from which neither of the others suffers. The very men who think Bryan is a burden upon the Democratic party say that they do not dare to nominate a man whom Bryan will antagonize. That is a fight yet to be fought out. It is paralleled to some degree by the antagonism to Champ Clark which rests very largely upon Mr. Hearst's earnest support of him. There is a feeling, probably unjustifiable, that Clark would be a Hearst president and people are already speculating upon cabinets made up of Hearst's proteges with Hearst himself as vice president. Whether such speculations are ridiculous or have some foundation in fact is difficult to tell in advance of the convention. Nevertheless, it is a question whether the powerful influence of Hearst is for Champ Clark more of an aid than an injury.

The Republican Situation.

It is the general conclusion here that the Republican organization has given up any hope of electing a president. This statement refers more to the Taft faction than to the Roosevelt faction, for the latter being made up largely of impractical enthusiasts seem to believe that the spectacular Teddy can be elected whether nominated on the regular ticket or as an independent candidate. The Taft people, however, after months of patience have on their fighting clothes. There is not the slightest doubt but what they would rather split the Republican party and put it out of power for four years at any rate than to have Roosevelt nominated and elected. It is quite apparent that a like patriotic impulse animates the Roosevelt people, who would rather beat Taft than elect a Republican president. Under these circumstances it is entirely to be expected that the Taft organization, having control of the national committee, will put through a program at Chicago which will be not merely an excuse, but really an invitation to Col. Roosevelt to bolt.

Here comes in the curious phase of this political situation which has not been paralleled since the days before the Civil war. There are hosts of Democrats in public life here in Washington who believe that even without a regular nomination Roosevelt will be a most dangerous candidate and one to be seriously reckoned with. They declare that even if not elected himself he will destroy the Democratic majority in the house of representatives. But some go so far as to say that running as an independent he will get thousands of Democratic votes which he could not get as the regular Republican nominee and they apprehend the very worst from his candidacy. These dismal predictions are largely based on his sweeping successes in the primaries, and overlook the fact that less than a quarter of the normal Republican vote was cast in those primary elections.

"BOOSTERS" ARE READY

Fully 100 Lusty-Lunged "Song Birds" Will Go to Range.

Songs, Red Fire and Band Will Feature Trade Excursion.

About 100 live, lusty-lunged Duluth boosters, accompanied by the Third Regiment band, will leave the Union station tomorrow morning on a special train for a three days' trip over the Vermilion and Mesaba ranges.

The range people probably all know that Duluth is on the map, but they will realize it better after the trade excursion this week. They will have a better appreciation of the fact that Duluth wants to create and maintain friendly relations with the range towns. They will realize that Duluth's business men are not sitting idly by waiting for trade to come to them, but are going out for it.

The natty white caps, which marked the Duluth trade excursionists last year; canes with blue Duluth pennants attached and badges bearing the names of the wearers have been provided for the trip. The "song birds" have been organized under the direction of Norton Mattocks and Harry A. Earnshaw and the booklet of songs is a gem. The serenades will be big features of the trip, as they were last year. Red fire has been provided for the night parades at Virginia and Hibbing. There will be something doing every minute the Duluthians are in a town, and if they don't establish a reputation as live visitors, it will not be for lack of substance.

The Itinerary.

The special train will leave the Union depot tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock and the first stop will be at Knife River. An hour will be given to Two Harbors and forty-five minutes each to Ely and Tower. Short stops will be made at Embarrass, Aurora, Biwabik, McKinley and Gilbert and an hour will be given to Eveleth. The train will arrive at Virginia at 8 o'clock tomorrow night and will remain there until 11:30 Wednesday.

The trip Wednesday will be made on the Great Northern. Thirty minutes will be given to Mountain Iron and an hour to Chisholm. Short stops will be made at Buhl, Kewatin, Nashwauk, Calumet, Marble and Holman and two hours will be given to Coleraine and Bovey. The train will arrive at Hibbing at 7:50 Wednesday night and will remain there until Thursday noon.

Thursday the trip will be on the D., M. & N. between Hibbing and Duluth, short stops being made at Iron Junction, Forbes, Zim, Kelsey, Payne, Alborn, Culver, Burnett, Saginaw, Munger, Adolph and Proctor. The train will return to Duluth Thursday evening at 4:55.

Following is a list of those who will make the trip:

FIFTY KOSHER MEAT RIOTS IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, June 10.—The police Sunday responded to fifty riot calls in the Ghetto to quell disturbances due to the Kosher meat boycott. Nobody was injured seriously and few arrests were made. A committee of 300 Jewish women was appointed at the different meetings held to visit the big packers at the stockyards Tuesday afternoon to renew their protest. "Wrecking crews" composed of dozens of Jewish women made a tour of the Kosher meat shops in the district in the afternoon and poured kerosene on chickens exposed for sale in front of the markets.

UP TO THE SENATE.

Good for the Minnesota house of representatives!

By its action last Saturday in passing the bill for an increase in the railroad gross earnings tax, the house showed that it has at heart the interests of the people of the state.

By the overwhelming vote by which it took that action it showed the widespread, and in fact almost universal, opinion among the people of the state that the railroads should be made to bear somewhere near their just burden of taxation.

Now it remains for the state senate to say whether this action by the house shall have been in vain, and in view of the near unanimity of the vote in the house it is reasonable to expect that the bill will be passed by the second body also. Then let us have a second-choice state-wide primary law, a good corrupt practices act, and fair reapportionment before the week is over.

There need be no squeamishness on the part of any member of the senate in voting for the gross earnings bill. The greatest obstacle that has appeared to its passage in the senate was the adoption of the two-measure program. But in that action the senate left itself open to consider any measure that might be reported out by the unanimous vote of the committee especially appointed to consider matter brought up for this session. There is every reason to expect that the committee will unite on the gross earnings bill, and that will leave the way open to all members of the senate to vote in favor of the measure, without in the least violating either the spirit or the letter of the two-measure agreement.

It is essential that the gross earnings tax increase be acted upon at this session. Then it can go before the people in November, whereas a delay until the session of next winter would mean two years more of delay in getting the measure before the voters.

The house has done well. Here's hoping the senate will show itself as responsive to the popular will as the house, and duplicate that body's action without delay.

Rather Inconsistent.

Col. Roosevelt ought not to complain that the seating of Taft delegates at Chicago is a "naked theft." He knows he wouldn't cover it up himself if he could.

BACKBONE OR BLUFF?

When the naval bill was before the house the question of an appropriation of $12,000,000 to build two new battleships was thoroughly thrashed out. Finally the majority members decided in caucus that Uncle Sam does not need the two battleships just now nearly so much as he needs the money, and the house passed the bill without providing for the floating monsters.

Now the senate has had its turn at the naval bill, and has added the two battleships. Just why this was done does not appear, though perhaps, for all that shows in the senate's attitude, some contractor needs the money. It remains to be seen whether the house will stick to its original program and insist on no battleships; whether the dropping of them from the naval scheme of things for the year was due to principle upheld by substantial backbone, or whether it was just an economy bluff.

New York City usually is one of the most timorous spots in the country when foreign affairs are mentioned. It seems to feel that its sky-scrapers and subways would be especially attractive prey for an enemy. Yet the New York World, commenting on the actions of the two houses of congress, says:

> "Imperative reasons" are urged in the senate for the construction of two more battleships, but no details are given. The imperative reasons which actuated the house of representatives in its refusal to provide for this expenditure were well considered and openly discussed. In the main, they rested upon economy, good will, peace, civilization and common sense. It is always easy to find imperative reasons for jingoism and militarism, especially in the senate. Unless the house majority is prepared to admit that its most deliberate judgments are reached through channels other than those of intelligence, it will not lightly recede from the stand it has taken.
> No matter what may be said by those most interested, no harm will result from a cessation of battleship building for one year. If the house was not prepared to hold its ground on this issue, its surrender now to the senate will be one folly added to another.

Considering the senate's action on the peace treaties, its attitude on the battleship question is not much to be wondered at. But that is no reason why the house should back water on its original program. Uncle Sam can find other and better use for $12,000,000 than to build unnecessary fighting monsters that will be obsolete in another dozen years. It wouldn't do him any real harm to save that amount, or if he is bound to spend it, why not use it to give the senators baths? It is said to cost about $6 per bath, and that would mean 2,000 baths for every present member of that body.

Make the Day Glorious.

The senate has decided to dispose of the Lorimer case by July 8. Why not do so on the Fourth?

THAT METAL BILL AMENDMENT.

The house ways and means committee did right in refusing to accept the senate amendment to the metal tariff bill, which provides for the repeal of the reciprocity act. It would have done well to have held out a little more firmly for the reductions in duties provided in the house bill, perhaps, but inasmuch as there appears to have been little chance of getting such reductions through the senate, it may be as well to take what can be had and do the best possible with that.

But the reciprocity attachment to the metal bill has every appearance of being just exactly what the house committee pronounced it to be—"a political subterfuge to maintain protective conditions," or "to defeat passage of the bill." Certainly the committee was right in declaring it "not germane to the metal schedule."

It is not unnatural that the standpat element in the senate should want to get such laws as the reciprocity measure out of existence. It is a foregone conclusion that the day in power of that element is getting pretty well toward its close. When the next regular session of congress meets there will be plenty of work that the standpatters will want to get through with before March 4, and the more of that kind of thing they can put over at the present session, the more time they will have to accomplish their purpose in the winter term.

But in this particular instance it is a clear case of trying to exercise their power while it lasts, to protect the interests that they have represented while they have been in office, and the members of the house committee have taken the right stand in refusing to let the high tariff element get away with their scheme. At the same time they have shown that they know what to expect from those senators, and are on guard to keep the country from losing what benefit it has been able to wring from the Sixty-second and Sixty-first congresses in spite of the strong protective organization in the senates of those two bodies.

Sinister Sequence of Events.

The Japanese current has warmed up Alaska until her volcanoes have become active. Now, Mr. Hobson, here's your chance.

SAME PRINCIPLE---SAME RESULT.

Two plus two always adds up to four.

Mix given chemicals in the same way and you invariably get the same reaction.

Natural laws, whether set in motion by man or by nature, bring invariable results from their operation.

But sometimes it is interesting to see how these things work out when somebody else tries them. It gives us a perspective that it is hard to get when the operation is being performed by ourselves, and we get a clearer idea of both cause and effect.

Western Canada is having what in common language is called "a boom." Land is selling rapidly, building is going on with remarkable activity, and there is great demand for materials for structural work. Just now there is much demand there for cement for building purposes, and the price has risen to a point that verges on the prohibitive. The railroads are claiming to have difficulty in transporting it, and the manufacturers are reaping a huge harvest on account of the prices they can get.

Meanwhile the people who use or want to use the cement are getting restless. The manufacture in Canada is in the control of a combine, and the combine, through this control, is able to charge practically what it pleases. The only way the Canadians can get away from the prices demanded by the combine is to get their cement somewhere else—from this country, for instance.

Naturally the question arises, then why don't they get it from this country? And the answer is—the tariff.

There is a clear, unanswerable example of the operation of the high tariff system. A combine—or trust as we call it over here—gets control of some given industry that supplies an article in popular use. On the plea that its greater capital and concentrated effort will make cheaper production possible if it is only given a free hand and a clear field, it persuades a beneficent government to put a tax on products of that kind from other countries, so that competition will be impossible. The tax is imposed—and there you are.

It is easy to see that the Canadian government is doing a foolish and wrong thing in thus protecting the cement combine against competition that would force it to sell the people what they need in quantities and at prices that would make it possible for them to get it.

It is doubly foolish and doubly wrong because it not only limits the purchasing opportunities of the people, but because the high tax prevents importation, where a low tax would permit it and at the same time bring in a revenue to the government; and because it forces the people to pay a higher than normal price, the surplus of which goes, not to the government, in which the people are personally interested, but to the men who make up the cement combine, to whose prosperity the people are thus forced to contribute against their own will and against their own interests.

But when we have finished feeling sorry for the Canadians, let us remember that we are in the same fix they are, except that with us it is not a question of cement, but of meat and bread and flour and clothing and sugar and shoes and everything else.

We are being given a multiplied application of the operation of the same man-manipulated natural laws of supply and demand and control that Canada is getting in the matter of cement.

Canada is learning that two and two always make four. By comparing her lesson and our own condition, we can see that we are being taught, unconsciously but emphatically, that fifty plus fifty always makes one hundred.

Expect Anything Now.

The Boston Transcript editorializes almost passionately in praise of the soda fountain. Evidently they have a silly season even in the Hub.

MUSIC IN THE PARKS?

Are we to have music in the city parks this summer? The park board says it is up to those of the people who are able to contribute to such a cause, to decide.

Although an amendment to the city charter was adopted last February authorizing the expenditure of funds for public entertainment purposes, there is no money available for that use, the board reports, and there will be none until the next city budget shall have been passed. That will be too late to be available this season, so the park concerts are held up for the present, unless somebody will supply the necessary funds.

For two years The Herald employed musicians to give concerts in the various parks at intervals during the summer. That the entertainments thus furnished were thoroughly appreciated and enjoyed was proved not only by the expressions of hundreds who took occasion to comment on the subject, but by the way thousands of people turned out to hear the concerts. Later a yet more substantial proof of popularity was given in the vote by which the charter amendment was adopted.

The people of Duluth like to hear the bands, and it will be a pity if they are deprived of that privilege this year. The street railway company is reported to have been found willing to contribute generously to the cause, but more funds are needed to insure a full series of open air concerts. The cost of each entertainment is about $80. Here is a chance for contributions that will help to make life more enjoyable for thousands.

Are we to have music in the parks this summer?

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

AUTOMOBILES AND THE STREET CARS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Don't you think it would be a good thing to have the city council pass an ordinance prohibiting automobile drivers from passing open street car gates? I am not an auto owner for reasons better known to myself, so I patronize the street cars. I have never been hurt, but pretty badly scared while getting off a car some time ago. It seems to me to be a dangerous practice to run by a street car when the gates are open. I would like to hear from some of the automobile owners. E. A. SMITH,

NO LOVER OF TEDDY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

No doubt Teddy is the choice of the people and that the nomination is being forced upon him. This was amply proven in the Ohio contest, where the Roosevelt committee spent $300,000 for their comeback. It appears all that is the people's choice is to spend a lot of money and make a noise like an escaped lunatic.

Mr. Roosevelt denounces Mr. Knox as "Senator Penrose's representative in the cabinet." Maybe he is right.

But whose "representative in the cabinet" was Secretary Knox when he served as a member of Mr. Roosevelt's official family?

The Frenchman who invented the talking moving picture machine should hasten to America and get a record of "the people's only hope" calling himself indispensible. A few months hence it would be the funniest thing in the world.

POPE'S DECREE AND THE PROTESTANT CHURCH.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A certain element among our Protestant brethren seem disposed to make trouble, even though there be no reason for it.

The Catholic church is to them an object of hatred and continual target for their shafts of misrepresentation.

There is no body of citizens more loyal to the state, none more peaceable or more respectful of other people's rights than Catholics; they ask for nothing which they are unwilling to grant; moreover they want nothing but justice.

Notwithstanding this; notwithstanding the fact that the Catholic church is the most powerful anagonist of evil; notwithstanding she is the most liberal dispenser of charity, strangely enough, she is the victim of the most violent and baseless persecution. Men who claim to be leaders in Christian thought and propagators of Christian principles, belie their position by denouncing and misrepresenting the Catholic church. Instead of seeking information as to her teaching they take it for granted that she is an evil thing and so they busy themselves stirring up prejudice against her.

With regard to the latest object of their misapprehension and wrath, the pope's decree on marriage, it affects Catholics only and is therefore nobody else's affair.

As to the apparel of teachers in school, who has the right to dictate what style of clothes a teacher shall wear?

Isn't it "nervy" to say to Catholic sisters teaching Catholic children: "You must not wear such a habit; you must wear clothes of our choosing?" CATHOLIC.

Duluth, June 6, 1912.

STAND CORRECTED.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your issue of June 3, you say that E. T. Champlin "has the distinction of being the only Democrat ever to have held the speakership of the house of representatives in Minnesota." As "I am for Duluth" first, last and all the time I cannot let any honor which may have fallen to our city in the past be "overruled and set aside." John G. Watrous of Duluth was not only the first Democratic speaker of the house of representatives of the state of Minnesota, but was also the first speaker of that body, he having been elected to that position by the first house of representatives and held the same from Dec. 2, 1857 to March 12, 1858, and on the latter date was succeeded by George Bradley of Shakopee, another Democrat, who continued as speaker to the end of the session, on Aug. 12, 1858. So please drop Mr. Champlin to third place and boost John G. Watrous of Duluth, to first. Respectfully,

T. H. PRESSNELL.

LAKESIDE CAR SERVICE INADEQUATE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The discomforts of summer life at Lakeside were made plain yesterday by the miserable car service. It was impossible to get in the Lakeside cars at all in the down town section in the afternoon and once in you were packed in like sardines and unable to get off the car unless you rode to the end of the line. The Lakeside Land company and the city council certainly owe us better treatment than we have been getting of late from the street car company.

Trapping the Suffragette.

New York Times: Early in her speech the militant suffragette struck the keynote of emancipation from masculine control.

"The day of tyranny is past," she said. "Men may command, but we no longer obey."

It was a stirring speech. At intervals throughout its delivery an insignificant looking little man in the rear of the hall called out, "Louder, please," and each time the speake rpitched her voice in a higher key. When, in obedience to his often repeated requests, she had apparently attained a vocal limit, she said:

"Can you not hear what I say?"

"Perfectly," said the little man.

"Then why have you been asking me to speak louder?"

"Just to show," he said he, "that in spite of your bragging a great, fine woman like you will still do what a little, no-account man like me asks her to."

Leadenhall Street.

Westminster Gazette: Leadenhall street, which is to be widened, was so called from the lead roofed mansion of Sir Hugh Nevill, which the city acquired for a court of justice. Few London streets possess more interesting literary and historical associations.

Here Peter Motteaux, the translator of "Don Quixote," kept "an East India shop," and Gibbons' great grandfather "did not aspire above the station of a linen draper in Leadenhall street." East India house, where Charles Lamb and the two Mills were clerks, stood on the south side of the street, and 156 and 157 occupy the site where the little midshipman in "Dombey and Son" used to slang.

Will Scare Sunny Jim to Death.

Milwaukee Sentinel: If Thomas W. Lawson succeeds in breaking into the United States senate, he is likely to startle that dignified body with a display of frenzied politics.

THE GOVERNORSHIP.

Eberhart's Memory Is Bad.

Motley Mercury: Governor Eberhart claims he has always been in favor of a primary for state officers. If so we have either had a terrible failure of memory or else he has kept mighty still about his desires. But then you know there is nothing like climbing on the band wagon provided you can fool the people into believing you are on it after your actions would go to prove you were anywhere else but there.

Busy Governor.

Luverne Journal: Governor Eberhart was too busy to attend the state convention. Oh, no, he wasn't at the capitol with his coat off and his sleeves rolled up busy at the state's business. He was making a speech at some church conference. That conference has been in session for weeks. Strange our governor picked out the day of the Roosevelt convention to address it.

Neglected Law.

Fergus Falls Journal: One of the purposes for which Governor Eberhart convened the legislature in extra session is the passage of a "stringent corrupt practices law." Minnesota has had a "stringent corrupt practices law" for years, but the governor's friends have paid so little attention to it that he has doubtless forgotten that it is in existence.

From the People's Side.

Elk River Star-News: It the sentiment prevailing in the state convention in Minneapolis is a criterion to go by, the governor would have no more chance of succeeding as a candidate for re-election than a jack rabbit, but as a lst hope, his action n callg hascer%m last hope, his action in calling an extra session may aid in making the scrap more interesting.

Hard On Machines.

Albert Lea Standard: It is a discouraging year for the long self-confident and selfish bosses. Lee and Gordon are making a clean and gallant campaign against Eberhart and his machine and it begins to look as though his name will be Dennis and that the Democrats will be up against a candidate for governor who is worthy of their best mettle.

Restored Hearing.

Cambridge North Star: The day of miracles is not past. Governor Eberhart's hearing was restored in an hour by the state convention. Let us not boast too much, however, until we see whether or not the cure is permanent.

To be Retired.

Anoka Herald: With the popular temper sorely tried, the brewery domination coming more and more into evidence, and the triumph of the progressives in the state so complete, things begin to look gloomy for the sage from Mankato. If his opponents can get together and eliminate their personal ambitions they can retire Mr. Eberhart and free Minnesota from the yoke which it has worn too long, the domination of the brewing interests.

Waiting for the Primary.

Stillwater Gazette: There are several more eligible candidates for governor of Minnesota who have not been mentioned. Why this backwardness about coming forward?

ROYAL BUSINESS MEN.

New York Sun: Not a few of the rulers in the old world are prosperous business men. The most conspicuous example is the kaiser, who includes among his interests a porcelain factory. The general conduct of it is based upon rules and regulations laid down by the emperor himself. Indeed, it is said, the emperor is not above engaging employes himself, adjusting their wages and even designing certain of the wares turned out.

The emperor is a model employer, anxious as to the comfort of his men, who have been provided with cottages and pensions, and given a share in the profits, which are reported to approximate $50,000 a year.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the prince of Lippe-Detmold is a dealer in butter and eggs, while he has as a side line a busy brick factory that adds materially to his income.

The king of Wurtemberg is the proprietor of two hotels within his domains, which are reported to be worth something like $45,000 annually to him.

The emperor of Austria-Hungary, like the kaiser, operates a china factory. This establishment, situated near the Austrian capital, is said to employ more than a thousand skilled workmen. The king of Saxony, too, has business interests of this character, though on a smaller scale.

Perhaps the most unconventional of the royal business men is the king of Servia, who in addition to several shops doing general trade, is said to promote the sale of a patent medicine and to run a motor car agency.

The Pardoning Power.

Case and Comment: Anciently in England the right of pardoning offenses within certain districts was claimed by the lords of Marches and others who had jura regalia by ancient grants from the crown or by prescription. The prerogative was later vested in the king, who was intrusted with it upon special confidence that he would spare only those whose case, could it have been foreseen, the law itself would have excepted out of the general rules.

At the present day in England a pardon may and commonly does proceed from the crown, through the home secretary, although steps relieving the king of a part at least of this duty have already been taken.

In the United States the federal Constitution gives the president the "power to grant reprieves and pardons against the United States, except in cases of impeachment." In some of the states the pardoning power is given to the executive alone, in others it is given to the executive with the advice or consent of council or other body, and in still others the power is given to pardoning boards.

It has been held, however, that the pardoning power is not naturally or necessarily an executive function, and that, where the Constitution is silent, it vests no more in one branch of the government than in the other. Upon the principle that the executive has only the pardoning power expressly given by the Constitution, the legislative right to exercise the power has been sustained. It may be stated generally that the decisions seem to be in favor of the legislative power to grant pardons before conviction, but that, while not altogether reconcilable as to legislative power to grant them after conviction, they are, on the whole, against such power.

The Spring Journey.

Oh green was the corn as I rode on my way,
And bright were the dews on the blossoms of May.
And dark was the sycamore's shade to behold.
And the oak's tender leaf was of emerald and gold.

Their chorus of rapture sang jovial and loud.
From the soft vernal sky to the soft grassy ground,
There was beauty above me, beneath and around.

The mild southern breeze brought a shower from the hill;
And yet, though it left me all dripping and chill,
I felt a new pleasure as onward I sped,
To gaze where the rainbow gleamed broad overhead.

Oh such be Life's journey, and such be our skill,
To lose in its blessings the sense of its ill;
Through sunshine and shower may our progress be even,
And our tears add a charm to the prospect of heaven!

—Bishop Heber.

The Unpardonable Fault.

KERN AND LORIMER.

Indianapolis News: The clear and studied speech made on the Lorimer case by Senator Kern should influence the senate in its action on the Illinois corruption investigation. Mr. Kern made prominent two facts—generally believed to be upheld by the evidence presented—that were passed lightly over by the majority of the senate committee in its report exonerating the Illinois member. These facts were that the bribery inquiry was not closed by the first hearing, and that the testimony given by Clarence S. Funk with regard to an alleged $100,000 slush fund should not be subordinated and ignored in favor of the defiant denials of Edward Hines. The plea of res adjudicata, Senator Kern showed, applied to legal cases, but not to political, and the Lorimer case is political. Again, the senate, by voting to reopen the inquiry, virtually repudiated this principle.

Frantic attempts have been made by the Lorimer ring to defend and uphold not only the name of the accused senator, but that of his right hand field agent, millionaire lumberman and high tariff apostle—the energetic Mr. Hines. In its majority report the senate committee passed on the question of veracity between Funk and Hines, by insinuating that Funk was prompted by selfish interest in the political intrigue and by his dislike for Hines. Senator Kern said that he was convinced of the truth of Funk's charge that he (Funk) had been approached by Hines and asked to contribute $10,000 toward the $100,000 fund needed "to put Lorimer over." Mr. Kern based his acceptance of Funk's statement on facts presented—the evidence concerning Hine's activity in the interest of Lorimer, of his long distance telephone conversations, of his anxiety to get compromising witnesses out of reach of the grand jury, and of his alleged boasts that he had "put Lorimer over."

Whether the majority of the senate committee believed it or not, Funk's version of the Lorimer election has been generally recognized as the truth. Mr. Kern's denunciation of Hines will meet with the approval of many who have followed the case, and especially of those who, several months ago, happened to receive a remarkable pamphlet, seventy-nine pages thick, extolling the abused, misrepresented and maligned Mr. Hines. In closing this pamphleteer appealed as follows:

"Properly weighing my words, I assert in all earnestness my opinion that the attempted blasting of the reputation of Edward Hines is the most dastardly outrage ever perpetrated in the name of a free press. When the truth about Dreyfus was revealed a wave of horror at the outrage and a thrill of sympathy for the victim swept the world. I unhesitatingly declare my opinion that Edward Hines has been wronged as deeply and as unjustly as was the martyr of the French conspirators. I call on every fair minded reader to help undo the terrible wrong which has been inflicted on Edward Hines."

Senator Lorimer has been whitewashed once by the senate and now by the majority of another senate committee. But in neither case did the whitewash stick.

DOES THE POWER EXIST?

St. Louis Republic: In the investigation of the money power which is now under way, the main question is not whether the power of groups of strong banks to bring on panics has been exercised. It is simply whether it exists.

There are certain abuses in government and finance whose existence even as possibilities is fundamentally incompatible with a Democratic form of government. This is one of them.

Of late years this country has witnessed the growth of autocratic powers in government. The power of the speaker of the house under the Cannon rules is the most conspicuous example. This power, we were assured, was necessary under the circumstances. It would not be wrested to low or ignoble uses.

But it was. It was used to shore and buttress up legislation in the interest of privilege. Under it members of congress engaged in protected industries throve and prospered amazingly. The revelations made in connection with the wool, cotton, rubber and steel schedules of the Payne-Aldrich bill are still fresh in the public mind.

Irresponsible power will sooner or later be irresponsibly exercised. The whole history of monarchy proves it.

Now in the case of the power of the money trust to precipitate panics, the public does not care a straw what excuses or apologies or explanations may be offered for it. It does not care whether the banks plotted to obtain the power or whether it was acquired little by little without thought or plan. Nor would the public be greatly interested or placated if it could be proved that the power, though existent, had never been employed, and that the panic of 1907 could be explained in some other way.

The public simply wants to know whether the power exists. If it does, it will be used some day, for no scepter ever yet rusted for lack of a hand to grasp it. If such a power exists, it is undemocratic un-American, utterly abhorrent to the spirit of our institutions.

The house committee will, of course, look into alleged exercises of this power. But a negative result here will not end the matter. Such an investigation will not only determine whether the power of federated banks to precipitate panics has been exercised; it will also determine whether it exists. If it does it must be done away with. For the possibility of such private control of the money and credit of a nation is as sinister a fact as the actual exercise of the power.

Frankness.

Caroline Stephen: "When we speak of the hope or conviction by which we live we can at least do so gravely and frankly* * we are too apt to turn the edge of disagreement by banter; too apt to shrink away from what we really most care to say * *or to hear through dread of a smile; too ready to distrust our own sincerity because of the inevitable ebb and flow of our feelings and so to throw a veil of something like cynicism over the subjects we feel most sacred."

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

It Is Satisfied.

Mankato Free Press: The Duluth Herald ought to be satisfied. An extra session has been called.

Truce Is Declared.

Stillwater Gazette: The St. Cloud Journal-Press and The Duluth Herald have been debating semi-occasionally the question of a Minnesota primary law. Better call it all off now and leave the same to the tender mercies of the legislature.

Good Advice.

Mahnomen Pioneer: The Duluth Herald has been giving the members of the legislature a lot of good, sensible free advice lately as to the course that should be pursued at the coming special session.

And Does Yet.

Foley Independent: The Duluth Herald ought to be happy. That paper succeeded in creating sentiment for an extra session. The Herald doled out miles of editorials in favor of the extra session last summer, believing it was for the interests of the people.

Not in Ed Smith's Place.

Fairmont Sentinel: Governor Eberhart it is true issued the call for the extra session but the real power behind the throne was The Duluth Herald.

Good Time Coming.

Milaca Times: The Minnesota Editorial association will go to Duluth and the iron range country in July and their summer outing. Included will be a trip to Isle Royale on Lake Superior. There are many things to interest the newspaper men in St. Louis county and the time given over to the association meeting will be none to long to get a comprehensive idea of what is going on at the Head of the Lake. Duluth in particular has always taken a lively interest in the association and has never failed to be there with the glad hand when the boys are passing through on their way to some other port for their outing, and now that the terminal point is Duluth a grand good time may be expected and it is hoped that every member of the association will take advantage of the occasion and return the compliment.

One For Bryan.

Appleton Press: We agree with The Duluth Herald in its statement that the party that hopes to win must nominate a candidate who is right not only on a single concrete issue, but on general principles underlying all issues. But we do not agree with The Herald that Woodrow Wilson is preeminently the candidate who is right. In fact we can not fail to note some things in Wilson's record which do not measure up to The Herald's test. If the great issue in this campaign is to be between government for special privilege and government for the people, Bryan has no worthy rival for the nomination. If sound principle, unswerving allegiance to the cause of the people and uncompromising opposition to governmental favoritism are the qualifications of a successful candidate this year, the Commoner has all other aspirants beat a mile.

Thankful All Around.

Cass Lake Times: By a wise and kind dispensation of Providence, these campaign orators don't have to believe all they tell the people.—Duluth Herald.

Nor tell all they believe—and the hand or Providence is in that too.

Apples for Insomnia.

Family Doctor: People ought to know that the very best thing they can do is to eat apples just before retiring for the night. Persons unintiated in the mysteries of the fruit are liable to throw up their hands in horror at the visions of dyspepsia which such suggestion may summon up, but no harm can come even to a delicate system by the eating of ripe and juicy apples before going to bed.

The apple, proceeds this authority, is excellent brain food because it has more phosphoric acid in easily digested shape than any other fruits. It excites the action of the liver, promotes sound and healthy sleep and thoroughly disinfects the month. This is not all, the apple prevents indigestion and throat diseases.

Moslem Power.

Lecture by E. D. Morel in London: The power of Islam was founded upon the Koran, and the Koran to the natives of Nigeria was at once the Constitution, the charter and the bill of rights. It was often overlooked that Islam was not only a religion, but a social system; that to attack the religion was to attack the fabric upon which society reposed, and that to attack the fabric was to attack the religion. We must then beware of doing anything to undermine the constitution of our Nigerian subjects by introducing legislation and judicial machinery which did not and could not prove a substitute for what they already had.

Robert is So Unsophisticated.

Washington Post: Bob La Follette thinks he is holding the key, but to the rest of us it looks more like the bag.

Trying to Redeem Himself.

Columbia State: Secretary James Wilson is saying a good word for beer. Thus is solved the problem who shall be the America's cup defender.

TWO DROWN IN HARBOR

West End Men Meet Death While Unloading Lumber.

Are Struck By Falling Timber and Rendered Unconscious.

While at work unloading timber into the bay from flat cars, Maxime Daunle of 2803 West Third street, and Henry La Croix of 315 Park avenue were knocked into the slip at the Mullery-McDonald mill, at the foot of Twenty-fourth avenue west, and drowned shortly before noon yesterday. The men had been working on the water's edge of the car and had just completed pulling out the stakes, when the chain holding the load is believed to have given away. The timber, which is 24 feet long and 12 inches square, struck the men, knocking them both unconscious into the water. They both went down before any assistance could reach them.

The police and Coroner McComb were both notified at once and a detail of policemen and men from the Durkan & Crawford undertaking rooms immediately rushed to the scene of the accident. The bodies were recovered after two hours' searching. The body of La Croix was taken to the Durkan & Crawford undertaking rooms and that of Daunle was taken to the Fillatrault undertaking rooms in West Duluth.

Daunle was 40 years old and leaves a widow and six children, four of whom are step children. Mr. Daunle had been married five years. La Croix was 38 years old and he leaves a widow and two children. Both men have worked together for years and were two of the best skilled workmen in local mills. They had been employed at the Mullery-McDonald mills for the past two months.

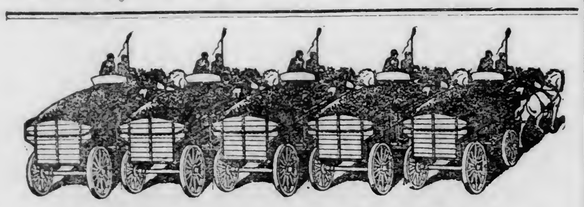

Daunle was a member of the St. Louis court, Catholic Order of Foresters, and the St. Jean Baptiste society. La Croix was a member of the St. Jean society and the French Naturalization club. These lodges and societies will have charge of the funerals of the two men, arrangements for which will be made some time today.

TETU-GIBEAU.

West End Young People Will Be Married Tuesday Morning.

Miss Irene Tetu, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Tetu, 2713 West Huron street, and Napoleon Gibeau will be married at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning at the St. Jean Baptiste Catholic church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. Following the wedding ceremony a breakfast will be served at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Gibeau will make their home in the West end, following a short wedding trip.

Miss Tetu was pleasantly surprised at her home Saturday evening by a number of her friends. She was the recipient of a number of handsome gifts. Games and music featured the evening's entertainment, after which refreshments were served to the following guests: Dr. and Mrs. A. Giroux, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. LaFleur, Mr. and Mrs. Urvin Becker, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Tetu, Mrs. E. Elmquist, Mrs. C. A. Eckstrom, Misses Edith Elmquist, Evelyn Blais, Amelia Gebeau, Gertrude Fugelso, Sarah Renauld, Elinora Anderson, Margerie Genereau, Bessie Young, Eva Blais, Cora Perreult, Polly Cavanaugh, Alexandria Boisjoli, Nina Robitaille, and Messrs. N. Gibeau, H. Alexander, Wilfred Le May, John Balanger, James Toole, Armelle Robitaille, John Bishop, Anthony Chamberlain, John Renault, Fred Blais, Albert Woods, John Sherin, John Genereau, H. Send Back Two of Them - You Wont Need So Much

OF every five loads of coal you pay for, two might have been saved. Linofelt in the walls and roof of your house will cut 40 per cent off your fuel bills every winter, at an initial expense never to exceed one per cent of the cost of building. The cost comes but once. The saving, the comfort, and the health continue every day of every year that your house lasts.

These are not advertising figures. They are merely the conservative statement of hundreds of actual tests. For you they are comfort facts—economy truths.

LINOFELT

can be used in your present house now so as to get a large part of its maximum efficiency at a very low cost.

Heat always RISES. Look at your roof and eaves! What provision do they show for meeting this natural law?

If your attic is unfinished, have Linofelt laid over the attic floor. If your top floor is finished and heated, have your roof lined with Linofelt. This can be done in any house. Call up our local agents and have your house attended to today.

Linofelt achieves its marvelous results because it does meet natural laws squarely. No substance capable of use in building meets the requirements of heat-and-cold insulation so completely as the fibrous stalks of the flax plant. Linofelt is a quarter-inch quilt of specially prepared flax fibres, bound between two sheets of building paper. It comes in rolls 3 feet wide and 200 feet long. One thickness of Linofelt stops heat and cold better than 38 thicknesses of building-paper.

Write now for our booklet telling all about Linofelt; call up our local agents for information on how to use it today.

MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR MODERN WOODMEN HELD

Most impressive memorial services were held at the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, yesterday morning in honor of the members of the Woodmen camp who died during the past year. Members of Duluth camp, No. 2341, attended the services in a body, meeting first at the new hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street.

Rev. George E. Silloway, pastor of the Grace M. E. church, conducted the service, taking his text from Job: 15-14, "If a Man Dies, Shall He Live Again." The altar was decorated with flowers in honor of the following members of the camp, who died during the past year: John Erwick, B. H. Hutchinson, S. Anderson, George T. Wilton, O. Wanwick, Frank Carlson, K. A. Lundstrum, Andrew West, Gust Erickson, C. H. Norgarden, A. Erickson and S. Jasion.

The pastor opened his sermon by reading the text from Job and then telling of the circumstances that made Job ask the question: "Every time in a man's life, when the presence of death comes before him, he then begins to ask the same question, 'If a man dies, shall he live again?'" He said: "The anpswer to this questin is found both inside and outside of the Scriptures.

"In the first place philosophers all over the world believe in immortality in some form or other. Nations all over the globe in some way believe that man lives again after death. This universality of belief alone stamps the thought as credible and worthy of consideration. Secondly God never created hunger in a man's heart, but what he had manufactured some means of satisfying it. Before this hunger there is always some means prepared for satisfying it. Then if man has a desire to live after death, to be a part of the world besides dust, it only reasons that God has provided some means for satisfying this hunger.

"That this powerful machine should go back to dust is hardly conceivable. Conservation of matter and energy alone prove the theory that nothing is ever lost. No atom of matter ever disappears, although there may be a transformation of either at any time. If this be so, then there can hardly be a loss of spirit, as that is a part of the energy.

"In the Bible the thought again finds its answer in the belief that there will be an ultimate reconstruction of the world in the formation of the new Jerusalem. In the creation of the new heavens and the new world is found the basic idea of external and everlasting life."

Satan continually attempted to defeat God's plan.

"Satan has the power to create jealousy in the minds of the people, jealousy is his greatest agent."

Next week Rev. Mr. McGaughey will preach on "His True Character," the third sermon of the series.

WILL REPORT ON LID-LIFTING

West End Temperance Societies Have Been Conducting Investigation.

Reports of recent saloon investigations will be made this evening at the regular monthly meeting of the Union Temperance society to be held at the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street.

At the last meeting of the society a social service committee was appointed to investigate the saloons and any violations of the law that may exist. Special attention has been given by the investigators to the alleged Sunday sale of liquor, and reports will be made at the meeting this evening.

The Union Temperance society comprises special committees representing the following temperance societies of the West end: Lyseltmi, North Star and Morning Star lodges of the I. O. G. T., the West End W. C. T. U. and the Scandinavian Temperance society. The investigation is being conducted at the expense of the four temperance societies.

W. C. T. U. WOMEN ATTEND DANCES

Will Report on Conditions Existing in Park Dance Halls.

Dancing in public parks will be the principal business to be taken up tomorrow afternoon at the meeting of the Scandinavian Women's Christian Temperance union to be held at the home of Mrs. N. M. Erickson, 228 St. Marie avenue. A committee was appointed at the last meeting of the society to investigate the alleged immoral dancing in public parks. The subject was taken up following a request by Lincoln park residents asking for the rescinding of the dancing permit allowed the lessees of the park pavilion.

Several of the members of the union have been attending the dances and have watched the dancers. A full report will be made tomorrow afternoon and a resolution by the union will probably be passed at the same time.

The members will also elect delegates to the district and state conventions. Mrs. J. F. Fredin will lead the discussion on "The Mother and the Home," following which a musical program will be rendered.

WILL LOBBY FOR INSURANCE BILL.

Robert Rankin of 1918 West Third street was yesterday afternoon elected the representative of the Modern Woodmen camps of St. Louis county to appear before the state legislature in the fight for lower insurance rates. A bill is now pending before the state legislature designed to prevent the Woodmen lodge from raising the rates on Minnesota members until the matter has been fully taken up by the entire membership of the order.

Mr. Rankin will leave for St. Paul this afternoon and will take an active part in the proposed legislation. Delegates have been elected from every county in the state to appear before the members of the legislature in behalf of the proposed bill. The St. Louis county camps met yesterday afternoon at the new Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street, and a set of resolutions was drawn up by the members requesting the legislature to pass the insurance rate bill. Mr. Rankin represents over 3,000 Woodmen.

SATAN'S WORK IS PASTOR'S THEME.

Rev. J. A. McGaughey of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, in his sermon on "His Work," the second in the series of five sermons on "The Life of Satan," said that the greatest mistake Satan ever made was in causing the death of Jesus. He took the statement from the Bible, "With naked hands he had taken and crucified Him." "Satan overstepped himself," said the speaker, "in fulfilling God's plan. But Jesus defeated Satan in that He rose from the dead and is therefore the conqueror of Satan and death."

Rev. Mr. McGaughey said in part: "As Satan was cast out of the heavens, he naturally turned to his infamous work, practising his wiles on God's first created. Since that time there has always been a war between the seed of woman and the serpent, who represents Satan. The incident of the apple was the first discord brought into this world by the serpent, while the first born child of the universe was made a murderer by Satan. Cain killed his brother Abel, not for any particular reason, but because murder had been inculcated into his heart by Satan.

"CHAPEL CAR MISSIONS"

Rev. Swaney Nelson Talks on Work of Traveling Churches.

Rev. Swaney Nelson of the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, preached on "The Chapel Car Missions" at the children's day services yesterday morning. The Temple choir rendered special music for the occasion under the direction of Prof. N. E. Erickson. Rev. Mr. Nelson was assisted by Carl Person, who spoke on "The Bible and Its Distribution."

Rev. Mr. Nelson said in part:

"It was in 1890 that Rev. C. Hoyt of Minneapolis, pastor of the First Baptist church at that time, was traveling through some of the Western states with his brother, a railroad president. He observed at that time that there were no churches or any religious meetings being held among the people out in the great West. The idea of establishing a chapel car came to him and he immediately worked out the plan. The proposition met with favor and the first car was built in 1891 and was named 'Evangel.'

"Since that time five more cars have been built. They are: 'Emanuel,' 'Good Tidings,' 'Good Will,' 'Messenger of Peace' and 'Herald of Hope.' Since the first car was built over 175 churches have been organized and 286 Sunday schools have been established throughout the country."

CHURCH FORCED TO BUILD AN ADDITION.

The congregation of the Hazelwood Presbyterian church, Thirty-ninth avenue west and Fourth street, will meet in the church this evening to discuss plans for a new building and an addition to the present structure. The growth of the congregation and the Sunday school in the past few years has necessitated the additions to the building.

WILL OFFICIATE AT HIS SISTER'S WEDDING.

Rev. and Mrs. George E. Silloway of 310 North Twenty-second avenue west left this afternoon for Minneapolis, where Rev. Mr. Silloway will officiate at his sister's wedding. They will return Thursday evening.

Will Tour West.

Mrs. E. Gustafson of 2308 West Eighth street will leave early next week for a three months' visit to relatives and friends in Western cities. She will visit at Seattle, Spokane and Portland and will spend a week at Yellowstone Park on her return home.

Sunday School Institute.

The elementary grades of the West end Sunday schools will all meet at an institute meeting tomorrow evening at the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street. The plans for the month and the monthly reports will all be made at that time.

West End Briefs.

The Bishop's Committee of St. Peter's Episcopal church will meet this evening at the rectory, 113 North Twenty-eighth avenue west, to complete the plans for the annual banquet to be held at the church Thursday evening.

St. Luke's Guild of St. Peter's Episcopal church will be entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Laughton, 2516 West Second street.

The Bethany Junior Society of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, will meet in the church parlors this evening.

The Luther League of the Bethany Swedish church will meet tomorrow evening, accompanied by the choir, at the home of William Engwalls at Hermantown.

Rev. C. G. Olson of the Bethany church will conduct a prayer meeting at the church Wednesday evening.

L. A. Simonson of 2102 West Superior street returned Saturday from a short business trip at Virginia.

Mrs. George Stevenson of 2306 West Second street returned yesterday from Staples, Minn., where she had been visiting relatives for several weeks.

George M. Peterson of 510 North Twenty-fifth avenue west returned yesterday from Red Wing, Minn., where he attended the state convention of the U. C. T.

Quick repairing at Economy Shoe Works, 204 Twentieth avenue west.

All That Is Earthly Is Subject to Pain.

—King Solomon.

The victims of Rheumatism all tell the same story; they have sore, inflamed muscles and stiff, aching joints; they have no ambition or strength, and get nervous and irritable, which is not to be wondered at. We realize how much they suffer.

"Nurito," a prescription free from Opiates and Narcotics, will banish all aches and pains, and limber up those sore and inflamed muscles, or your money will be refunded.

We realize that there are worthless and dangerous remedies which are sold as cure-alls by the help of manufactured testimonials, whose object is to extract gold. "Nurito's" purpose is to give relief, and is compounded exclusively as a specific remedy for those only who suffer from Rheumatism, Sciatica or Neuritis.

Convince yourself. Go to The Boyce Drug Store or Lyceum Pharmacy today, get a $1 box of "Nurito," the remedy that produces results.

You can feel it working.

REPUBLICAN FIGHT OVER DELEGATES IS MADE MORE BITTER

lected for the credentials committee from the Third and Sixth districts had been unseated by the Taft forces on that committee, which he said took up the contests, and made up the temporary roll for the next day's convention.

In the Marion county contests, he said, the committee had not even let the Roosevelt men present their case. He charged that 124 contested delegates were thus seated by the credentials committee.

The next day, when the convention assembled, he continued, these 124 contested delegates were allowed to vote on their own right to sit in the convention. With these votes the Taft forces had 667 delegates and the Roosevelt side 648, without the 124 contested.

The Taft forces thus had secured control of the convention through the medium of contested delegates, while the night before they had secured control of the credentials committee by shutting out committee members whom they claimed to be contested.

Mr. Coloy said the Roosevelt forces actually had seven of the thirteen members of the credentials committee, but the rules laid down by the Taft forces allowed the latter to secure control.

Argument by Stillwell.

Horace G. Stilwell of Anderson, Ind., continued the argument for the Roosevelt contestants. He declared that some unknown person had posted a notice on the night before the convention, postponing the Third district meeting to select a member of the credentials committee from 7:30 p. m. to 11:55 p. m., but in the interim a Taft member of the committee was selected and given a seat.

In the midst of his argument Mr. Stillwell, reading from a prepared manuscript, began to throw some remarks into the debate which again aroused the ire of the Taft forces.

"I ask you to stop the process of your steam roller and give this case a fair consideration," he said.

The character of the fight to be made on the Indiana contest cases became apparent early in the day, before the national committee members began to assemble at the Coliseum Annex. Attorneys for both factions in the Indiana contest were in conference at uptown hotels early in the morning.

The Indiana cases had been looked upon as the first real test of strength in the committee. With Former Vice President Fairbanks heading the Taft delegates at large and Former Senator Beveridge the leader of the Roosevelt delegation, the fight took on more general interest than any of the other contests, aside from the issues involved in it.

Roosevelt Lineup Imposing.

The Roosevelt forces, when the case of the delegates at large was called, were imposing. With Ormsby McHarg, who had general charge of the Roosevelt contests, was Bainbridge Colby of New York, drawn into the case through the desire of Col. Roosevelt and to whom the chief arguments in the Indiana cases had been entrusted. It was Mr. Colby's first appearance in the national committee hearings, although he had taken an active part in the conferences of the Roosevelt forces since the national committee organized last Thursday.

Merrill Moores of Indianapolis, a former classmate at Yale of President Taft and a warm friend of the latter, had been selected to present the chief arguments for the seating of the Taft delegates, headed by the former vice president. Charles Dick and Frederick C. Bryan were both at the counsel's table, with several members of the Indiana delegation and associate attorneys.

Borah on Hand Again.

The committeemen began arriving early at the Coliseum. Senator Borah, who did not take part in Saturday's session because of illness, had recovered sufficiently to allow him to again enter the committee's deliberations. In the throng that gathered outside the committee room, from which all but members and contestants were excluded, were many of the men prominent in the leadership of the opposing factions.

It was expected early in the day that the Kentucky cases, which were to follow Indiana, would be reached and concluded before the close of today's session. In these cases again, aside from the keen interest that attaches to the arguments because of the Roosevelt charges of "fraud," the fight was more interesting because the Taft delegation was headed by Senator W. O. Bradley, and the Roosevelt delegation by Ed. C. O'Rear, former chief justice of the Kentucky supreme court.

Twelve in Indiana.

The Indiana contests involve twelve delegates: The four delegates-at-large and two each from the First, Third, Fourth and Thirteenth congressional districts.

The Kentucky contests involve the four delegates-at-large and the two each in the First, Second, Fourth, Seventh, Eighth, Tenth and Eleventh districts—eighteen in all.

There also are on the docket the cases affecting the six delegates-at-large from Arizona and the two from the Fourth district of California, which were passed last week. The case is a Taft contest. The Arizona contest over delegates-at-large was set over by the committee until later in the week, to enable the Arizona attorneys to prepare the case.

Fight by Knight.

A proposal to put at the foot of the calendar all cases passed over, met objection from Committeeman Knight of California, who demanded that the California cases passed over Saturday be taken up this morning. Former Governor Pardee and Francis J. Heney were present, he said, and ready to proceed, but his plea for immediate action was denied.

DIFFERENT VERDICT.

Found in Civil Action From Criminal Procedure.

Green Bay, Wis., June 10.—The jury in circuit court returned a verdict finding that Cora Edwards fired the shot that killed William T. Eberling, a Green Bay miller; that she fired it intentionally and that Eberling was free from intemperate habits at the time he obtained accident insurance. This verdict was given in the case brought by Eberling's sister to recover the amount of an insurance policy of $12.000. Eberling was killed at Neenah over a year ago. A jury at Oshkosh acquitted the Edwards woman of the charge of murder.

To Deport Insane Man.

Rugby, N. D., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fritz Peterson of this city, who was adjudged insane and taken to the state hospital at Jamestown, will be deported to his native country, Sweden, according to advices received from the United States department of commerce and labor, immigration service. Mr. Peterson came to Rugby about a year ago, having landed in the port of New York April 4, 1911.

Trusses Like These Are A Crime

Get Rid of Elastic Bands, Springs and Leg-Straps. Such Harness Has Forced Thousands to Undergo Dangerous Operations.

Trusses like those shown above—the belt and leg-strap, elastic and spring contraptions sold by drugstores, surgical supply houses and many self-styled "Hernia Specialists"—make life miserable for everybody who wears them.

And—even when drawn so tight you can scarcely stand to keep them on—they do no good whatever.

Instead, they often do immense harm—they squeeze the rupture, often causing strangulation—dig into the pelvic bone in front—press against the sensitive spinal column at the back.

The Plain Truth Is This.

Rupture—as explained in our free book—can't be relieved or cured—can't even be kept from growing worse—unless constantly held in place. Just as a broken bone can't "knit" unless the parts are held securely together.

And—just as a bandage or splint is the only way a broken bone can be held—the right kind of truss is the only thing in the world that can keep a rupture from coming out.

What a difference it will make when you get that kind of truss.

And you can get exactly that kind of truss—without risking a cent of your money.

It's the famous Cluthe Truss or Cluthe Automatic Massager.

Far more than a truss—far more than merely a device for holding the rupture in place.

So different from everything else for rupture that it has received 18 separate patents.

Thousands say it is as comfortable as their clothing.

No belt, elastic belt or springs around your waist, and no leg-straps—nothing to pinch, chafe, squeeze or bind. Self-regulating, self-adjusting. It is held in position by suction—can't shift or slip—the only truss in existence that is honestly guaranteed never to let the rupture come out.

Sent on 60 Days' Trial to Prove It.

We have so much faith in the Cluthe Truss—we have seen it work wonders for so many others—that we want to make one especially for your case and let you wear it at our risk.

We'll give you 60 days' time to test it—if it doesn't keep your rupture from coming out, when you are working and at all other times—if it doesn't put an end to the trouble you've heretofore had with your rupture—if you don't get better right away—then the truss won't cost you a cent.

How It Strengthens and Heals.

In addition to holding the rupture, the Cluthe Truss or Cluthe Automatic Massager is constantly giving a soothing, strengthening massage to the weak ruptured parts.

All automatically—the massage goes on all day long, all without any attention whatever from you.

This massage—which strengthens just as exercise strengthens a weak arm—is so remarkably beneficial—so remarkably curative—that in 199 cases out of every 200 rupture begins to get better from the day a Cluthe Truss is put on.

The World's Greatest Book on Rupture.

Don't go on letting your rupture get worse—don't spend a cent on account of your rupture until you get our book of advice—which two cents for a stamp—or a penny for a postal—will bring you.

This remarkable book—cloth-bound, 82 pages, 21 separate articles, and 19 photographic pictures—took us over 40 years to write—took us that long to find out all the facts we've put in it.

It explains the dangers of operations and why they don't always cure to stay cured. Tells why—for the protection of the public—drug stores should not be allowed to sell trusses.

Explains why belt, spring and elastic trusses can do no good. Exposes the humbug "methods," "appliances," "plasters," etc.

And tells—absolutely without misrepresentation—all about the Cluthe Truss—just how it holds—how it gives the curing massage—how it is waterproof—how it ends all expense—how you can get it on 60 days' trial—and gives names and addresses of over 5,000 people who have tried it and want you to know about it.

Write for it today—don't put it off—this book may be the means of adding many years to your life and of restoring you to full strength and usefulness.

Just use the coupon, or simply say in a letter or postal, "Send me your book." In writing us, please give our box number as below—

The report of the treasurer of missions, Rev. Lars Lund, showed that nearly $150,000 has been received for home and foreign missions during the year. Of this amount, $82,693.37 had been received for foreign missions and $53,026.08 for home missions.

Fifty-nine congregations were admitted to the United church during the first three days of the convention.

The convention decided to elect a committee of five members to carry on negotiations for organization with a similar committee which in all probability will be elected by the synod of the Norwegian Lutheran church. The nominating committees will make the nominations and it is probable it will report its selections for membership of this committee.

MAN 81 KILLS SELF.

Red Lake County Octogenarian Blows Off Head.

Red Lake Falls, Minn., June 10.—Joseph Patnode, 81, while suffering from temporary mental derangement, killed himself last week in the granary on Henry Cyr's farm a mile and a half north of Brooks. Mr. Patnode had been staying at the Cyr farm for some time. Of late he had been despondent and had spoken of suicide.

He took a gun from the house and went to the granary, where he made arrangements for self-destruction. He fastened the gun to the side of the building, tied a string to the trigger, placed his head to the muzzle of the gun and pulled the string. The discharge blew half of his head away and death was instantaneous.

Coroner Joseph Belair and Dr. I. Lemieux, who were summoned, found it was a plain case of suicide and decided an inquest was unnecessary.

Mr. Patnode was born in Isadore, Quebec, eighty-one years ago.

He had resided in Red Lake county many years. A few years ago he sold his property here and went to Canada to reside. But he did not like the Canadian country and not long ago returned to Red Lake county.

IS IMPROVING ROADS.

Crookston Automobile Club Is Winning Farmers Over.

Crookston, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The recent road building machinery which was purchased by the Crookston Automobile club is proving the best friend winner among the farmers of any move ever inaugurated. The big gas tractor has pulled the two reversible road machines over 200 miles and the practically unlimited power of the engine has made it possible to do a class of work that could not be done by all the horses that could be hitched to a road machine. As both sides of the road are worked at once the old trouble of side drift is entirely done away with and the work done has been far beyond the expectations of the promoters. It is planned to keep this outfit at work the entire summer on the roads leading into Crookston and work is being done on the roads at a distance of ten to twelve miles from the city. By fall they will be twenty miles out in some directions on the main roads. The club is also placing guide posts in all directions. The cost of road work with this machine is less than one-tenth of the cost with team work.

HOME MISSIONARY MEET.

Annual Gathering of North Dakota Society This Week.

Enderlin, N. D., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the Women's Home Missionary society of the Methodist church of North Dakota will assemble here for the eleventh annual gathering Wednesday and Thursday. The feature of the program will be a series of addresses by Mrs. Cotton Mather of Fort Collins, Colo., field secretary of the national board of home missions, while other speakers on the two days' program are Mrs. George E. Miller of Fargo, Mrs. J. E. Switzer of Valley City, Mrs. C. F. Wilkins of Enderlin, Mrs. E. Duden of Wimbledon, Mrs. H. H. Healy of Grand Forks, Mrs. S. Newlove of Hamilton, Mrs. F. M. McCoy of Grand Forks and Mrs. S. Amerland of Fargo.

CHILD KILLED, MOTHER HURT BY ST. PAUL CAR.

St. Paul, June 10.—Raymond Dusek, aged 6 years, was instantly killed, and his mother, Mrs. Frank Dusek, probably fatally injured late Sunday by being run down by a street car at a crossing where they had just alighted from another car. Mr. Dusek and two other children were only a few feet behind his wife and son when the accident occurred. They were returning from one of the parks where they had spent the day.

LESS EXPRESS CHARGE

Will Be Made in North Dakota Very Soon.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 10.—(Special to The Herald)—Express companies operating in North Dakota have been notified by the North Dakota railroad commission to make appearance at a special meeting called for July 2 in Fargo if they wish to make any remonstrance to the proposed express rate schedule which has been drawn up. The proposed schedule that has been drawn up and copies of which have been placed in the hands of the operating companies, provides for a general reduction of express charges.

Under the schedule of rates a new charge is proposed for agricultural implements shipped by express, while the merchandise rates also have been given consideration.

AMASA, MICH., TRAGEDY.

Jacob Kanges Is Killed During a Drunken Row.

Amasa, Mich., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jacob Kanges was shot and instantly killed here yesterday by Andrew Lahti in a drunken row at the home of the latter. Lahti was arrested. He claims he fired the shot in self-defense.

ANOTHER SURVEY PARTY WORKING TOWARD ROCKIES.

Pembina, N. D., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Another boundary line commission has been sent out by the Federal government from this point to work from Red River to the Rocky mountains. The first party was sent to survey the boundary line across Northern Minnesota.

O. B. French is in charge of the party that will go across Northern North Dakota to the Rockies.

This summer there will be a biological survey of the Red river, this survey being in charge of Dr. R. T. Young of the state university. He will cover the river from Fargo to the boundary line with Grand Forks as the base of operations.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Marinette—Andrew L. Johnson, a Peshtigo man, is believed to have been one of the victims of the Titanic. He was on his way to this country from Sweden about the time the Titanic was lost. Since the disaster, nothing has been heard from him.

Ashland—Elson Hawkinson, a brother of Nels Hawkinson of Ashland, was drowned in Bad river at Mellen, Sunday night, June 2, the body not being recovered until yesterday. He was a married man and leaves a family of grown up children. He was about 60 years of age.

Washburn—Court Commissioner N. M. Oscar signed an injunction restraining the Bayfield County bank and city of Washburn from carrying out the terms of the lease as already entered into by these parties and matters will be at a standstill for a short time at least and until the circuit court can pass upon the question.

Milwaukee—Charles Johnson, aged 45, is held in the county jail under bonds of $10,000 on three separate statutory charges preferred by his daughters, aged 9, 13 and 15 years, and for Carrie Anderson, aged 12.

Stevens Point—The automobile craze has struck the farmers in this locality, whose potato crop is making them wealthy. Thirty-four farmers in the town of Almond have invested in machines ranging from small runabouts to touring cars. It is safe to predict that before the season of 1912 closes a large number of farmers of Portage county will be indulging in the luxury.

Milwaukee—Mrs. Ellen Drew, widow of Patrick Drew, and mother of John I. Drew, deputy city treasurer, died Saturday in the family home, 282 Ogden avenue. Mrs. Drew, who was 80 years old, had been declining, due to advanced age, since January. For forty years Mrs. Drew lived in the home in which she died. She came to Milwaukee in 1854.

Ashland—Ringling Bros. circus will show Ashland this season for the first time in many years. Ben Norton, advance agent for the show was in Ashland Saturday, making arrangements for the show which will be here on Monday, July 15.

Eau Claire—The city council yesterday appointed Mayor J. B. Fleming to represent the council on the board of school commissioners.

Marinette—Mrs. Joshua Hodgins and daughter, Miss Margaret Hodgins, who have been in Washington the guests of Mrs. Hodgins' father, United States Senator Isaac Stephenson, have returned home.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Marquette—Judge Flannigan denied the motion of the attorneys for Dr. Samuel N. Janes for the quashing of the information and the accused doctor was arraigned. He pleaded not guilty and the case was continued until the next term of court.

Ishpeming—At the meeting of the clergy and lay members of the Episcopal diocese of Marquette in Grace church, Rev. G. G. Zeigler and C. J. Shaddick of this city were elected members of the standing committee which has entire charge of the affairs of the diocese during the illness or absence of the bishop.

Calumet—The Copper Range road is preparing to resume work at an early date on the St. Louis fill, just southeast of the St. Louis mine workings.

Hancock—Urho Jasberg, son of J. H. Jasberg, has gone to Chicago to take a position in the Chicago office of the land and colonization bureau of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, of which J. H. Jasberg is general colonization agent.

Houghton—The commencement exercises of the Houghton public high school eighth grades took place Friday evening in the assembly room of the high school building. The address was delivered by R. T. Bennallack. A pleasing program was rendered by the pupils.

Ontonagon—Patrick Moore, a well known character of this village, was adjudged insane by Probate Judge Van Slyck and ordered taken to Newberry to the hospital for the insane.

Marquette—Two bear cubs have arrived for Presque Isle park. They are the gift to the city of Game Warden William R. Oates and were captured in Iron county by Jack O'Connell, deputy warden in that county.

Menominee—A new rifle range has been constructed near the city limits by Company L. A shoot under the direction of Maj. B. J. Phillips, chief inspector of small arm practice, will be held on July 31.

Laurium—James T. Fisher has been notified by J. W. Blodgett of Grand Rapids, Republican national committeeman for Michigan, of his appointment as honorary sergeant-at-arms for the Republican national convention in Chicago June 18.

Crystal Falls—The Woman's club of Crystal Falls has been organized with fifteen charter members. The following officers have been elected: President, Mrs. Bosanko; first vice president, Mrs. Scadden; second vice president, Mrs. Roger Jackson; secretary, Mrs. Croghan; treasurer, Miss Holmes.

Calumet—Crestview, one of the Copper Country's most popular summer resorts, will be thrown open to the public on June 16. The train schedule will be about the same as that used last season, with the exception that the management will keep the Casino open one evening each week, to accommodate the dancers.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Cuyuna—The steam shovel has arrived in Cuyuna and on the first day of its work it loaded fifty-five cars of ore from the dump of the Kennedy mine of the Rogers, Brown Ore company. Ore will continue to be hoisted from the shaft and will supplement the ore loaded directly from the dump.

Rosedale—The Commercial club has started preparations for a rousing Fourth of July celebration. It elected an executive committee, composed of Dr. W. Stuart Leech, Olaf Holdahl and Israel Sjoberg, with power to appoint the other committees.

Rochester—Miss Ethel Richardson, a young lady about 20 years of age, residing near Stewartville, took her life on Thursday by emptying a bottle of carbolic acid. While no motive for the rash act has been given, it is presumed that the deadly poison was taken in a fit of despondency over a love affair.

Crookston—Fisher will celebrate the Fourth of July this year and the committee in charge is making great preparations for the day. There will be several ball games and races of all kinds. It is expected that many Crookstonites and people from all the surrounding towns will attend the celebration.

Red Lake Falls—The city waterworks bonds in the amount of $25,000 have been sold. The bids for the bonds were considered by the council Tuesday and the bid of Edwin White & Co., in which they offered to pay a premium of $900 on the 6 per cent bonds was accepted.

International Falls—The Misses Ada and Margaret Henderson of Duluth are guests at the home of their sister, Mrs. Harry Ruettell.

International Falls—Miss Leopoldine Rauscher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rauscher, of this city, carried off the honors of the Bemidji high school. Her average standings won for her the proud distinction of being the most perfect pupil, earning for her the post of valedictorian of the class of 1912.

Blackduck—The senior class of the high school decided to purchase a piece of statuary to be presented to the school as a class memorial. After paying the bills incidental to commencement the class had a balance of about $25 in the treasury which the members of the class voted to expend for a memorial.

Fergus Falls—George L. Austin of the state dairy inspection department, has now moved to this city, and is devoting considerable time to the inspection of dairies in this locality.

Wahkon—C. M. Halgren has tendered his resignation as town clerk, giving as his reason that the postal regulations do not permit a postmaster to hold an elective office.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—The following have been nominated as officers of the Commercial club to be voted on Tuesday: President, Morton Page; first vice president, John S. Watson; second vice president, R. J. Cone; treasurer, F. A. Irish; trustees, C. H. Anheier, C. L. Follett, J. A. Chesley; time of election, Tuesday evening, June 11.

Bismarck, N. D.—Joseph Remington, the murderer sent up for life from Cass county, will go free The board of pardons decided that it had no authority to rescind its action, taken last fall. It is probable that Remington will step from the prison doors some time in August.

Fargo, N. D.—William B. Wansbrough, for years the court crier in the federal court and one of the best known citizens of Fargo, has sold his home on Ninth street south and left for Portland, Or., where he will join his son, H. E. Allen, who resides there. Mr. Wansbrough is a union veteran and was one of the best known Grand Army men in the city.

Beach, N. D.—Lewis T. Crawford of Sentinel Butte was elected president of the Billings County Development league, organized here. F. E. Near of Beach was chosen secretary. Vice presidents at large—John Odland, Sentinel Butte; John Keohane, Beach; F. J. Hill, Beach; James A. Beery, Medora.

Grand Forks, N. D.—On Wednesday evening in the Empire hall the Grand Forks nest of the Order of Owls was installed with about 100 members. A. H. Bearnshaw acted as organizer and the work was carried through very successfully. The officers of the lodge will be installed next Wednesday evening.

Bismarck, N. D.—Freight traffic on the Pingree-Wilton line of the Northern Pacific has been commenced from Wilton. Engine crews are working out of Wilton and out of Pingree, and soon traffic will be general over the line.

Fargo, N. D.—Secretary M. C. Bachelor of the North Dakota Fair association has received the entries in the three-minute early closing event of the Fargo fair for a purse of $1,000. The list of entries includes those made by some of the best known horsemen in the country.

Jamestown, N. D.—Two silos are now being constructed at the state hospital for the insane under the supervision of the dairy commissioner of the state, according to plans furnished by the dairy division of the agricultural department at Washington.

CORNER STONE TO BE LAID SUNDAY

Impressive Services at Crookston Cathedral Announced By Bishop Corbett.

Crookston, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bishop Timothy Corbett Sunday announced that the corner stone of the new cathedral, the foundation and a portion of the walls of which are now up, will be laid next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Knights of Columbus and the Catholic Order of Foresters will attend in a body, surrounding the entire structure, while the Citizens' band will play sacred music at intervals. Documents are now being prepared to be deposited in the corner stone, including records of the diocese, city, etc. In addition to the usual ceremonies Bishop Corbett will deliver an address. The event will attract many Catholics from every parish in the diocese of Crookston. The cathedral, completed, will cost $90,000 and will be one of the most beautiful and imposing structures in the Northwest.

Is Treed by Wolves.

Marinette, Wis., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Lewitzsky, a homesteader of Faithorn, while returning from the home of a neighbor, at night, was pursued by a pack of wolves and forced to take refuge in a tree. The farmer did not dare venture from his place of safety until daylight next morning.

NORTH DAKOTA G.A.R. MEET TUESDAY

Casselton Ready to Give Veterans and Other Visitors Warm Welcome.

Casselton, N. D., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—With Mayor Porter welcoming the visitors this city will royally greet and entertain the state encampment of the G. A. R. and the meeting of the W. R. C. tomorrow afternoon. Commander J. H. Matthews of Larimore will respond for the veterans and Mrs. Freeze of Jamestown for the women's corps.

Tuesday evening the annual camp fire will be held at the opera house under the direction of Smith Stimmel, who has arranged a splendid program. Among the speakers will be Carl Carroll, commander of the soldiers' home at Lisbon.

Wednesday morning the annual election of officers of both bodies will take place, and the installation will be the feature of the closing session in the afternoon.

NINETEEN ORDAINED.

Notable Exercises at United Norwegian Lutheran Meet.

Fargo, N. D., June 10.—The feature of last night's session of the United Norwegian Lutheran convention was the ordination of nineteen pastors. The service was conducted by Bishop P. W. K. Boeckman, representing the state church of Norway. Over 7,000 pastors and lay delegates attended the convention Sunday.

The full liturgy of the Lutheran state church of Norway was used at the ordination services. The sermon was preached by Bishop Boeckman of the diocese of Frondhjem, Norway, who is the official delegate from Norway. Rev. E. K. Johnson of the theological seminary at St. Anthony Park, Minn., chanted the first portion of the liturgy. Rt. Rev. T. H. Dahl officiated at the ordination proper. The St Olaf college choir of fifty students and professors from Northfield, Minn., sang.

The report of the treasurer of missions, Rev. Lars Lund, showed that nearly $150,000 has been received for home and foreign missions during the year. Of this amount, $82,693.37 had been received for foreign missions and $53,026.08 for home missions.

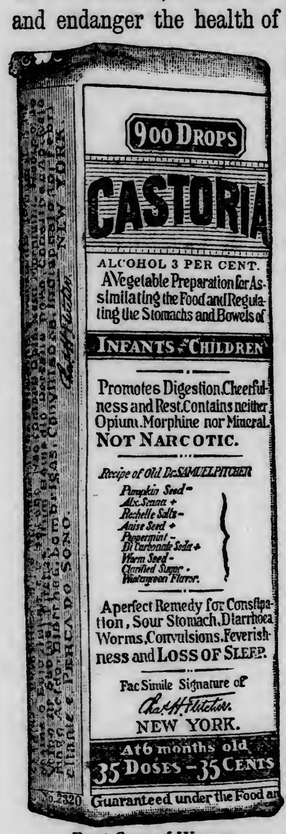

Fifty-nine congregations were admitted to the United church during the first three days of the convention.

The convention decided to elect a committee of five members to carry on negotiations for organization with a similar committee which in all probability will be elected by the synod of the Norwegian Lutheran church. The nominating committees will make the nominations and it is probable it will report its selections for membership of this committee.

What is Castoria.

CASTORIA is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic, all Teething Troubles and Diarrhœa. It regulates the Stomach and Bowels, assimilates the Food, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. Albert W. Kahl, of Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I have used Castoria in my practice for the past 26 years. I regard it as an excellent medicine for children."

Dr. Gustave A. Eisengraeber, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "I have used your Castoria repeatedly in my practice with good results, and can recommend it as an excellent, mild and harmless remedy for children."

Dr. E. J. Dennis, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have used and prescribed your Castoria in my sanitarium and outside practice for a number of years and find it to be an excellent remedy for children."

Dr. S. A. Buchanan, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have used your Castoria in the case of my own baby and find it pleasant to take, and have obtained excellent results from its use."

Dr. J. E. Simpson, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."

Dr. R. E. Eskildson, of Omaha, Neb., says: "I find your Castoria to be a standard family remedy. It is the best thing for infants and children I have ever known and I recommend it."

Dr. L. R. Robinson, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria certainly has merit. Is not its age, its continued use by mothers through all these years, and the many attempts to imitate it, sufficient recommendation? What can a physician add? Leave it to the mothers."

Dr. Edwin F. Pardee, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

Dr. N. B. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."

The Delights In Baking With CALUMET BAKING POWDER

To fully appreciate the real pleasure of baking, buy a can of Calumet and as a test bake a batch of biscuits.

See how light and wonderfully raised they come from the oven.

Then break one of them open and note how thoroughly, evenly and fluffily the dough has risen.

And the final test—the one that counts—butter and taste.

This test will prove to you that Calumet is the most dependable Baking Powder for every purpose.

It will prove its economy over the high-price trust brands and its great superiority over the cheap and big can kinds.

For Calumet is highest in quality—and moderate in cost.

THE HOMECROFT CORNER

Conducted By the Duluth Homecroft Society.

Tomatoes, Cabbage and Cauliflower.

Secure your tomato plants now, if you have not already done so. Select plants that are stocky and well grown if you can find them. Set them at least, four feet apart, being careful to pack the earth firmly about the roots, but provide for about one inch of loose earth or mulch on the surface. Get early varieties for this locality if you expect to ripen much fruit. The Chalk's Jewel is the most satisfactory variety for all purposes, but if you can not find plants of this variety you will find the Earliana very good. In order to get good results in Duluth and vicinity tomato plants should be carefully trimmed or pruned two or three times during the growing season. There are two methods of culture. that have proven very satisfactory. First, allow from two to three vines to grow on each plant, cutting out all others and removing the branches starting from the exiles of the leaves. All branches should be carefully tied to stout stakes or a low trellis so as to keep the fruit well up from the ground so that both sun and air can reach it. By this method of pruning the strength of the plant is conserved for the maturing of good fruit. One dozen plants should give the average family all the ripe fruit wanted for the table and for canning from Aug. 20, until frost. If those partially ripened are gathered just before frost and taken to the house, your season for fresh fruit can be materially lengthened.

Second, prune your plants to one vine and train to stout stakes six feet high. If this method of culture is followed plants can be set three feet apart. Do not neglect to keep the top soil about plant well loosened during the entire season.

Cabbage and cauliflower thrive best on rather low ground well enriched with stable manure when it can be secured. Set plants 18 inches apart in rows three feet apart. Hoe frequently, at least once a week during the growing season. If green worms appear before cabbages begin to head, spray with a solution of arsenate of lead, using one teaspoonful of the paste to two quarts of water. If used faithfully early in the season, you will experience little trouble later. After heading starts pick off the worms with your fingers and kill. Be careful to keep arsenate of lead from children and chickens—it is very poisonous. The best instrument for applying is a potato sprayer. You can purchase one at any hardware store for 50 cents.

Sprouting Corn.

If you have not planted your sweet corn yet, get some Golden Bantam or Peep O'Day, soak in warm water for two hours, wrap in flannel and place in a warm room for two days. At the end of this period it will be well sprouted. Plant at once. Corn treated in this way will mature ten days earlier than when planted dry.

STARS AND WOODS PREACH SERMONS

Rev. George R. Gebauer Says Man Should Hearken to Nature.

That the divine presence is visible to man in the stars, the woods and throughout the universe if man will but observe and think, was the thought running through the sermon preached yesterday morning by Rev. Geo. R. Gebauer, pastor of the First Unitarian church, on "Influences." He said in part:

"It was none less than the great Kant who said: 'The two things which most overawe me are the starry heaven above and the moral law within.' He said nothing of any relationship between the two, but to me there seems to be such. I am convinced that if only we would take our children into the star-lit silence of the night, and in the presence of this visible infinite speak to them of the infinite and the eternal of goodness, we should find them much more receptive than in our Sunday schools with their sanctimonious trimmings. What the stars preach to us is truly 'heavenly,' and the sweet influences of the Pleiades creates a reverence which holy scripture will hardly give in such rich and pure measure.

"It is wrong to speak of a dead world of matter, if thus the very stars speak to us. No, this is not a soulless universe and Arcturus and Vega and the farthest nebula are filled with the divine soul and try to draw us upward. And as the stars preach to us, so does the earth, nature about us uplifts the sore and troubled soul. The woods and the hills say to us, when we come with fevered brow from the daily pursuits, as Emerson puts it: 'Why so hot, little man?' Yes, it is nature that tells us that man is more than a dollar-earning or dollar-grasping animal, and that his life may be measured by something else than the capacity for making money, and wasting wealth. Yes, life in the end is only true life when it is close to nature; a life is only full when it can look in reverence up to the stars and love nature as a devine mother.

"I think it would be a blessed thing to close for the summer not only the schools, but the churches, and turn the saints and sinners to pasture, if people would only forget themselves there. How it might expand those shrivelled souls, the souls of poor over and under-reformed humanity, of pale-faced gospel-ridden churchgoers, of miserable sermon-crammed sinners, simply to go into the woods and become men again, and forget all about preachers and teachers and saints and sinners and reformers and 'sich like.' Not that we do not need the prophets and preachers, but that it is well to get away from them for a time."

KANSAS PRIEST'S LIFE THREATENED.

Kansas City, Mo., June 10.—For one week police have guarded the home of Rev. M. D. Krmpotic, a Crotian Catholic priest in Kansas City, Kan., following the receipts of threatening letters by him. Because of sermons Father Krmpotic preached against anarchy, his life was threatened and unsigned letters declared his church and home would be destroyed. He has made his will, leaving all his property to charity.

Last week a member of a secret order come here from Chicago, and in a meeting of Crotians attempted to turn them against the priest. The man was thrown out of the building and for several days was in a hospital. Later, it is charged, he met Rev. Krmpotic on the street and warned him he would try to harm him.

McCORMICK OFFICER OF NATIONAL COMPTROLLERS.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 10.—Samuel M. Wilhite of Louisville, Ky., was elected president of the National Association of Comptrollers and Accounting Officers. Chattanooga, Tenn., was selected for the convention of 1913. W. S. McCormick of Duluth, Minn., and L. D. Everets, Milwaukee, Wis., were elected vice presidents. This session closed the seventh annual convention of the association.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

Activities of Other Municipalities, Which Might or Might Not Be Copied in Duluth.

MUNICIPAL markets where farmers and consumers can deal directly with one another are advocated by a committee of Boston women, which is to call on Mayor Fitzgerald and request his co-operation, by instruction of the Woman's Homestead association, which held a meeting to protest against what it terms "the butter, egg and potato trusts." The organization also appointed a committee to see Governor Foss to request him to appoint a committee as quickly as possible "to investigate the extortionate prices of the necessities of life." The association alleges that it has testimony which shows that in 1909 thousands of bushels of apples and potatoes were allowed to rot in the fields because it cost more to ship them than the farmers could get for their products, while at the same time apples and potatoes were selling at high prices in Boston. The appeal to the governor is signed by Charlotte Smith, president, and Susan E. Stevens, secretary, and several members, and the appeal for the appointment of a committee of women to investigate is signed by 100 women.

Duluth has had some experience with a municipal market, and it was satisfactory as far as it went. The city market in the armory resulted in better vegetables at lower prices, and it is hoped it will be even more successful this year.

ENRILE IS IN TEXAS JAIL

Former Right-Hand Man of Mexican Rebel Chief Arrested.

Flees Across Border and Is Taken on Charge of Theft.

El Paso, June 10.—Gonzales C. Enrile, deposed financial executive of the Mexican revolution, fleeing from enemies in the rebel zone, who tried to kill him, into fancied security in the United States, was arrested early Sunday as he crossed the international border from Juarez, by C. H. Webster, a Texas ranger.

Enrile was the right-hand man of Gen. Orozco, and the author of a caustic anti-American proclamation, and chief promoter of the present revolution. His provisional arrest was ordered by the Mexican federal government, which charges Enrile with embezzlement of funds while consul under President Diaz at Clifton, Ariz., eighteen months ago. His extradition on this charge would place him at the mercy of the Mexican government for his political acts.

Handled Rebel Funds.

Enrile handled the funds of the revolution for three months and admittedly made many enemies, finally being repudiated by Gen. Orozco.

Weak from two knife wounds and a bullet hole in his shoulder, received in an encounter with two known assassins in the city of Chihuahua three weeks ago, Enrile doubted the intentions of his physicians and sought medical treatment in the United States. He applied to Marion Lether, the American consul in Chihuahua, for safe conduct in the United States, but the latter declared the matter outside his jurisdiction.

Announced His Death.

Preceded by a telegram announcing his death Saturday, which was intended to foil his Juarez enemies, Enrile was placed secretly aboard a train in Chihuahua arriving in Juarez last night. He would have escaped the rebel officials there, but for the watchful eyes of Capt. Carlos Gonzales, chief immigration officer in Juarez. He immediately arrested Enrile, taking him before Jose Orozco, head of the garrison, who, notwithstanding the safe conduct issued by his cousin, Gen. Pasquale Orozco, the rebel chief, made preparations to execute Enrile.

On bended knees the fugitive begged for his life, beseeching Gen. Pasquale Orozco, Sr., father of the military leader, to get in telegraphic communication with his son in Chihuahua. The elder Orozco did, and finally released Enrile. Early Sunday Gonzales, the man who blocked Enrile's escape, was found dead in a resort with a bullet through his brain.

Mystery in Enemy's Death.

The death of Gonzales, who was a classmate at Bucknell college of Christy Mathewson, the New York National league pitcher, is unexplained. The general impression is that the friends of Enrile caused his death, fearing that he might kill the latter, despite instructions from rebel headquarters.

"You might as well get Gen. Orozco," said Enrile grimly as Ranger Webster led him to the county jail. "I came only for medical treatment, but if I am given up to the Mexican federal government, the revolution has lost its personal friend and supporter."

Enrile talked of his own importance to the rebel cause and expressed the fear that the Madero government would apprehend him by extradition. He will be held without bond forty days, pending the arrival of extradition papers from Mexico, when he will be given a hearing before a United States commissioner.

Rebel Forces Beaten.

Though Enrile's flight by no means indicates the collapse of the rebel cause, it is admitted here that it bears out the reports of disorganization and internal intrigues with which the rebels are said to be struggling.

Gen. Huerta is reported to have moved far north of Santa Rosalia, while from Nacas, fifty miles east of Torreon, the defeat of the rebel forces under Generals Campa and Argumendo by Gen. Blaquet and 1,500 federal cavalry, is reported to the Mexican consul here.

If confirmed, this means the end of the rebel movement toward the rear of Huerta's columns, a harrassing expedition that has been causing the government commander no little worry.

COAL TRADE CONDITIONS

The Black Diamond, the official organ of the coal trade, in its issue of Saturday says:

"The predominant note of the coal trade for the last week is one of protest against the higher prices which are being charged this year due to forced concessions to the miners and to other increases in the cost of production. In many markets the buyers, rather than close contracts at the prices offered by the producers, are announcing their intention to depend solely upon the open market for the ensuing year. This is particularly true in the Southwest and in crtain districts of the East. The bigger buyers, of course, are contracting as usual.

"The most pronounced rebellion against the new prices is seen in anthracite coal. In certain circles—such as among the rich householders—no attention is being paid to the advance and the refill orders are coming in early with big tonnages. However, all through the East the middle and poorer classes are protesting violently and this protest is reflected in numerous political actions and n ewspaper campaigns. The anthracite operators are still standing rigdly and stubbornly to their demand for the higher price, saying that it no more than covers the increased labor, production and storage costs. The producers have gone so far as to cut down production to about 75 per cent capacity, whereas they normally make little difference in running time between summer and winter. They express themselves as justified in this action by the fact that, running full time, they could not more than equal last year's output before the end of the coal year. Knowing that the demand, although belated, will come and the price be paid, they see a strong chance for a higher rather than for a lower price before the winter months are far advanced."

State Representative Fined.

Chicago, June 10.—State Representative Daniel J. Sullivan of the Twenty-seventh district was fined $25 and costs by Municipal Judge Fry on a charge of conducting a handbook in a saloon.

ANTI-TREATING LAW HELD CONSTITUTIONAL.

Olympia, Wash., June 10.—The Tacoma anti-treating ordinance is valid, the supreme court rules in upholding a conviction in a Tacoma justice court. It was shown that a saloon keeper had served drinks to two persons and one had paid for the liquor. The court says regulation of "treating" is not a violation of any right of an individual.

Winton People Bothered By Intruder Who Makes Self at Home.

Ely, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald)—The residents of Winton are disturbed by the pranks of an apparently harmless man, who persists in entering homes while the people are away. Several homes have been thus entered. Nothing has been taken at any place. The intruder makes himself at home in each place, in some places even going to bed. The people on "The Point" are bothered more than others. Saturday night a watch was set for him without any result.

Mrs. J. W. Horne was surprised Saturday by a number of her friends, the occasion being her birthday.

The Queen Esther circle will be entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Vida Williams at the Savoy location.

FINDS COST LESS THAN EXPECTED

Two Harbors Commercial Club Reports on Cutting Down Willow Street.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club committee, to whom had been referred the matter of having the hill on Willow street, between Fourth and Fifth avenues, cut down and graded, reported to the Commercial club that they had thoroughly investigated the proposition and found that the work can be done for much less than supposed. If the proposition is put through the expense will fall largely on the school district and on the Minnesota Iron company, which own most of the land on both sides of the street. The school board is believed to be in favor of having the improvement made, but the attitude of the Minnesota Iron company is not known, although it is the opinion of the club that it will meet with no objections from them.

The secretary of the club has been instructed to call the attention of the city council to the necessity of having signs painted to be used at the Seventh avenue viaduct. The general contour of the viaduct is such that there is great danger of collisions between teams and automobiles, and it is the opinion of the bridge committee that "Slow" signs on either side of the bridge would eliminate much of the danger.

The council will also be requested to place a sign on the beach at Burlington bay, advising the people that the city sewer enters the lake at that point. During the summer this beach is used very extensively by people for picnic grounds and very often the water out of the bay is used by them, which they would not do if they knew the conditions.

HAVE MASONIC EVENT.

Degrees Exemplified and Given at Banquet at Two Harbors.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Saturday night the Masons held a very interesting meeting here, the third degree being exemplified on five candidates. The work began at 5 p. m. and lasted until about 9. After the meeting a banquet was served by the ladies of the Eastern Star. At the banquet several very interesting talks were made along the line of fraternal work. Dr. J. D. Budd discussed the Masonic patrons, "The St. Johns." B. F. Fowler gave an interesting description of the "Ancient Landmarks," and Rev. McLeod responded to the toasts of "Our Guests," and H. K. Cullen gave the members one of his "true" stories. There was a large attendance of the members of the local lodge, and many visitors from Tower and other points on the range.

BREEDERS TO MEET.

Grand Rapids, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. J. McGuire of this village, president of the Northern Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin Guernsey Breeders' association, announces there will be a meeting at Carlton, next Saturday.

"While it is not generally known," Mr. McGuire says, "there has been a strong movement under way for the past six years for the development of the Guernsey breed of dairy cattle in the timbered section of Northern Minnesota, and Northern Wisconsin. Northern Minnesota while the latest to develop the dairy industry, has made remarkable growth along this line, and now has more pure bred Guernsey cattle than any other section of the state.

"The purpose of the association is to replace the common stock now kept on the majority of farms with a breed of dairy animals. Its dairying will be the leading oranch of agriculture for this section of the country.

"All persons interested in the breeding of Guernsey cattle are invited to attend the meeting at Carlton."

MAYOR MURPHY CAN GO AHEAD

Virginia Executive Has Council in Sympathy and Can Do Something.

Virginia, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tomorrow night the first meeting of the city council with the three members elected to succeed the three who were recalled will be held. Now that the mayor has a working majority in the city council it is expected that no time will be lost in going ahead in the effort to carry out the policies as laid down in the platform on which he was elected in February and on which the three new aldermen were elected May 28. The predominating note in the mayor's policies is economy in city administration and scarcely secondary to this or perhaps included in it, is the acquiring of the water and light works.

Since city work was somewhat impeded during the campaign it is now given out that all public improvement work will be hurried and that a large part of what had been projected for the year will be done. The park and boulevard work, which is in the hands of a commission, has gone ahead without reference to the outcome of the election and large forces of men and teams have been continuously engaged. Street and alley new work is a few weeks behind schedule.

HIBBING WON MANY POINTS

Range Town Carried Off Honors at Saturday's Big Track Meet.

Hibbing, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing carried off most of the honors at the high school track meet here Saturday, winning on general results by over forty points.

St. Julien of the locals was the star athlete, winning the 220-yard dash, the pole vault, running jump and broad jump.

Yesterday the Hibbing regulars defeated the Columbias of Duluth in a royal swatfest, the score being 23 to 5.

STUDENTS SEE MINES.

Looking Over Properties on the Vermilion Range.

Tower, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twelve students from the school of mines of the state university are registered at the Vermilion hotel. They are studying conditon at the local mines.

Twelve parties of tourists are expected by the leading hotels from New Mexico to spend several weeks enjoying Lake Vermilion.

A muskellunge was caught near Fordvill last week that measured about three feet in length and weighed thirty pounds. The specimen sold for $5 and will be mounted and preserved.

The Duluth jobbers will arrive at Tower on their special train and accompanied by a band at about 2:35 p. m. Tuesday.

The Hotel Vermilion's accommodations were taxed to capacity Saturday night. A large number were here on business and a number of tourists were also registered.

Tere will be a meeting of the Commercial club Wednesday night at the Vermilion hotel, when plans will be discussed for entertaining the St. Louis County club, which meets here in August.

The Ketchum & Cook company will probably start their big saw mill here in a few days. They will give work to over 200 men.

EPWORTH LEAGUE MEET.

Annual Session of Duluth District at Virginia This Week.

Virginia, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth district Epworth league will hold its annual convention here Tuesday and Wednesday, in the Methodist Episcopal church. Five session will be held, two Tuesday afternoon and evening and three Wednesday. Among the delegates will be several from Duluth and West Duluth. The committee on entertainment is the Misses Elia Cummings, Millicent Roskilly, Mr. Jager, Fred Roskilly and C. Bellamy. The sessions will open with devotional services by Rev. E. C. Parish of Biwabik and a welcome address by W. H. Garland, president of the local organization.

TO TRY MATILLA.

Criminal Proceedings Against Chisholm Man Is Next.

Hibbing, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—As soon as Judge Hughes and a jury dispose of a civil action on trial in district court here today involving a disputed account among some Italians, which may be this afternoon, the criminal calendar will be taken up. The first case to be tried is against Gus Matilla, charged with first degree assault upon John Turga at Chisholm.

To See Chicago Fun.

Hibbing, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Having been promised an admission ticket to the Republican convention at Chicago, Mayor Weirick will go down to see the fun in the Windy City.

HIBBING HAS K. C. COUNCIL

Instituted Sunday and Duluth and Brainerd Degree Teams Present.

Hibbing, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing Council No. 16, Knights of Columbus, was instituted here yesterday in the presence of a large number of members of the order from range points and from Duluth. The new council has forty charter members and many old members living on the range in this locality will become affiliated with the council.

The exercises of institution were conducted by Past Deputy Grand Knight Leo A. Ball of Duluth, assisted by J. J. Nolan of Brainerd. The Duluth and Brainerd degree teams did the work.

The following officers were installed: Grand knight, T. C. McEachen; deputy grand M. C. Scott; chancellor, G. L. Thouin; recording secretary, Mike Cox; financial secretary, E. A. Bergeron; treasurer, Frank Tobin. Following the exercises there was a banquet, at which a number of toasts were responded to.

TO SEE COUNTY BOARD.

Deer River Committee Will Urge Fixing Cohasset Road.

Deer River, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club has appointed the following committee to wait on the county board at Grand Rapids Wednesday and urge that the road to Cohasset be made passable: S. J. Moran, Len Scott, R. F. Beall, J. F. O'Connell and George Herreid. Quite a number of others have expressed a willingness to go to Grand Rapids and boost for this road, among them being P. R. Brooks, who is an enthusiastic road advocate, and Chris Johnson, the local livery man. The cooperation of the Grand Rapids and Cohasset Commercial clubs will also be asked in having the repair work on this road done as expeditiously as possible.

The club also appointed A. D. Ingersoll and W. A. Everton as delegates from Deer River to the development meeting at International Falls June 20 and 21.

DULUTH TEAM LOSES.

Beaten By Virginia Mohamis in Lively Contest.

Virginia, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A big crowd saw a classy ball game here yesterday afternoon between the Duluth Athletics and the Virginia Mohamis, the latter winning, 8 to 5.

The Adams players hit the ball hard enough but did not hit at the opportune times. Arnie Olson, shortstop for the visitors, played the game through without an error, made two hits out of three times up, one a three-bagger, the other a two-bagger.

One of the features was a double play by Hole of the Mohamis to McCulloch. Cliff Dennis made a timely hit in the fifth and brought in three runs. The double play Meyers to McCulloch was also a feature. Score:

Summary: Two base hits—Dennis, Kreitzer, Arnie Olson, Swanstrom, Al Olson. Bases on balls—Off Schmirler, 5; off Merrifield, 5. Struck out—By Merrifield, 3; by Schmirler, 6. Double plays—Hole to McCulloch, 2; Meyers to McCulloch, 1. Hit by batted ball—McCulloch, 2; Thompson, 1. Sacrifice hits—Alder, 2. Umpires—Anthony and Bolthouse.

The next game the Mohamis will play will be with Biwabik at the Oliver baseball park next Sunday. The Adams boys will play here again July 4.

FINED $100 EACH.

Two Pelican Lake Fishermen Accused of Violating Laws.

Virginia, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry Wurkkela charged with having troutlines in Pelican lake and Nathan Lahtenan charged with netting fish were each found guilty late Saturday in municipal court after a jury trial. Judge Carey fined each $100 and costs. On account of the families of the two men who are homesteaders and poor, the fines were remitted, the costs being paid. M. H. McMahon, attorney for the two men found guilty stated that the cases would be appealed to the district court. The chief witnesses against the accused were Warden Wood and L. R. Beattie, ranger in the employ of the state forestry department, who stated they found the trout lines and the nets in Pelican lake where they had been placed by the men.

HIBBING MERCHANT TO GIVE UP BUSINESS.

Hibbing, Minn. June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—M. Rogalsky, for sixteen years in the clothing business here, being one of the pioneer merchants, announces that he will quit business and take life easy. He will continue to reside here.

Virginia to Celebrate.

Virginia, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—With five bands playing, with oratory and with athletic events, Virginia will have a fine July 4 program. The new Mohami band will make its first public appearance. The Boys' Military band is organized again this year. Then there is the Virginia city band, the Finnish band and the Italian band. The observation of the day will be under the direction and restrictions imposed by the Commercial club.

"MELLIN'S FOOD BEST FOR BABY"

"It gives me pleasure to inform you that I believe beyond the shadow of a doubt you have the best food obtainable for the baby. I am in a position to know, for we've tried them all and didn't get any results until we tried Mellin's Food. I am glad to recommend Mellin's Food to all enquirers."

Mr. E. L. Hiteman, 1127 Laguna St., San Francisco, Cal.

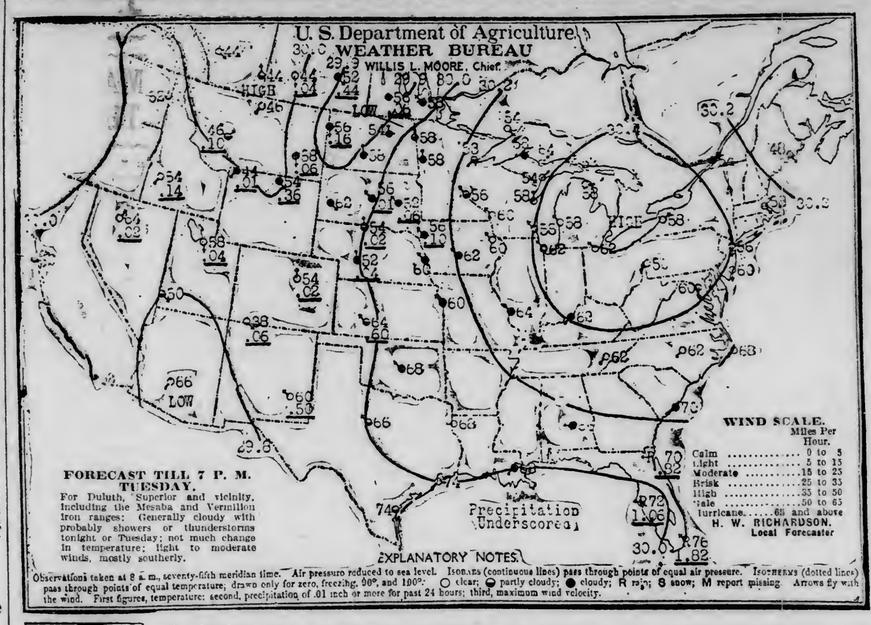

"Received your book on how to feed and take care of babies. I must say that Mellin's Food is all right. I am feeding it to my twins and they are doing finely on it. Will recommend it to any mother who has a baby to take care of."

Official Map of the Weather

FORECAST TILL 7 P. M. TUESDAY.

For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges: Generally cloudy with probably showers or thunderstorms tonight or Tuesday; not much change in temperature; light to moderate winds, mostly southerly.

Observations taken at 8 a. m., seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isobars (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature, drawn only for zero, freezing, 90°, and 100°. ○ clear; ◒ partly cloudy; ● cloudy; R rain; S snow; M report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. First figures, temperature; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

RAIN

A Sunday like yesterday is enough to wipe out all grouches against the weather man. He certainly was a male Lady Bountiful. No fairer day could be imagined. They who have a hammock out constantly for Duluth weather must have been chagrined. For tonight cloudy weather with thunderstorms is scheduled.

Rain fell a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:13 and it will set at 8:02 this evening, giving fifteen hours and forty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours light to copious showers fell throughout the Northwest and Southwest and Rocky mountain region in connection with the disturbances centered over Western Manitoba and Arizona. Heavy rains fell over Florida during the same period. Hot weather prevailed Saturday in Western Texas and Arizona; in other districts the temperature has been moderate since Saturday morning. At the Head of the Lakes the weather will be somewhat unsettled during tonight and Tuesday and showers are likely."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, June 10.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and probably Tuesday; slightly warmer in extreme east and south portions tonight.

Wisconsin—Generally fair in east, probably showers in west portion late tonight or Tuesday; warmer tonight and in southeast portion Tuesday.

Minnesota—Unsettled weather with showers tonight or Tuesday; warmer in south portion tonight, cooler in west portion Tuesday.

Iowa—Unsettled weather with probably showers tonight or Tuesday; warmer tonight.

North Dakota—Mostly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; cooler in west portion tonight and in east portion Tuesday.

ther companies of the United States marine corps were dispatched from here this morning to Guantanamo City. A company of marines from the battleship Missouri, under command of Capt. James Joseph Mead, is on the way to Baracoa on board the Culgoa.

Ready to Enter City.

Washingeton, June 10.—American marines today are available for service in Havana.

The cruiser Washington and the battleship Rhode Island, which steamed out from Key West early this morning under orders sent from Washington late last night, are at the Cuban capital.

Each of these ships, in addition to her regular complement of marines, carries an extra complement of 125, including officers. They would only be landed in the Cuban capital, of course, in a case of dire emergency, in which event the bluejackets of both ships also would be available.

Situation Is Grave.

The gravity with which this government regards the situation is indicated by the fact that Rear Admiral Osterhaus, commander of the Atlantic fleet, is aboard his flagship, the Washington. The remainder of the third division of the fleet remains at Key West and can join the flagship in a few hours.

The mine planter San Francisco will leave Annapolis today with a complement of midshipmen aboard, and will join the ships at Key West.

The first division of the Atlantic fleet, the Massachusetts, Utah, North Dakota, Florida and Delaware, also leave Annapolis today with midshipmen aboard. While their destination is now Cape Cod, the navy department may order these ships to join those near Cuba at any moment.

Ferarra in Washington.

Speaker Ferarra of the Cuban house of representatives, one of the first lieutenants of President Gomez, will have a conference today with Secretary Knox at which the situation will be thoroughly canvassed. The speaker is noncommunicative about his mission here. It has been reported that his visit is in connection with a loan for the Cuban government's use in putting down the insurrection.

In government circles here the developments on the island and the Cuban speaker's conferences with Secretary Knox, and perhaps with President Taft, are being watched with greatest interest. It seems that the events of this week probably will decide if the military force of 5,000 men now waiting to move to Cuba shall be ordered on.

TEDDY GOING TO CHICAGO?

settling the Taft-Roosevelt fight. Leaders on both sides while admitting that they had heard some of the third candidate discussion, declared that such a contingency was beyond the possibilities.

Discussion of planks for the party platform is becoming more general in the various quarters. One of the "missionaries" is James T. Williams, Jr., formerly a federal civil service commissioner and named as a delegate-at-large from Arizona.

Two particular planks are in Mr. Williams' program. One would extend the civil service to include all postmasters, collectors of customs and internal revenue and practically all other federal appointees not already in the classified lists. His other plank would commit the party to a liberal irrigation policy.

Michigan Men Arrive.

Among the early arrivals today were two parties of opposite political tendencies from neighboring states. From Michigan came C. A. Palmer, W. R. Oakes and G. M. Bate, all state officials and all Roosevelt men. They were accompanied by Judge W. D. Gordon, who is to represent the Roosevelt delegates in the contests from that state.

The Indiana political colony was increased by the arrival of E. H. Schmidt, United States marshal; Volney T. Mallott, Harry O. Wallace, W. E. Davis and John L. Hogue. Public duties and private enterprises were both represented in this group, but all were "boosting" for President Taft.

Expect Cummins Boosters.

Before the end of the week, Iowans expect that more than 1,000 enthusiastic boosters from beyond the Mississippi will be in Chicago to demonstrate their fealty to the senior from Iowa.

Before leaving for Washington, Senator Kenyon said:

"Friends of Senator Cummins believe the rank and file of the Republican party are tired of the present controversy and tired of personal politics. We present in him a man who can unite the party and lead it to an old time victory. His candidacy is not for the purpose of injuring anyone or punishing anyone.

"Senator Cummins always has been on the people's side in every contest. A record that will inspire confidence, a magnetic personality and a character without a spot or blemish. Where can the party turn for a leader better than he? It would be well if out of this turmoil such a candidate would be nominated at the convention."

La Follette Men Due.

It was expected that before night the headquarters of Senator La Follette would be opened and the Wisconsin men actively at work for their candidate.

A number of the national committeemen received letters today protesting against the seating of the Taft delegates from Alabama, Georgia and Arkansas.

The letters were worded in a similar manner.

More of Wisconsin Platform.

Madison, Wis., June 10.—The La Follette leaders are getting down to real work on the platform they will submit to the Chicago convention. When the steering committee meets here the latter part of this week, there will be a number of issues for discussion, and the number of planks already drafted indicates a platform so long that many of the clauses will have to be discarded.

It is now believed that La Follette's platform will demand unyielding enforcement of the law and a requirement of public and private honesty which shall recognize that boodling is treason, that embezzlement is theft, that speculation is gambling, that tax dodging is larceny, that factory labor of children is slavery and that deleterious adulteration is murder."

Limit to One Term.

Another plank being discussed would provide for an amendment to the Constitution fixing the term of the president at six years and making the incumbent forever ineligible for another term.

Herbert Quick and other close friends of Senator La Follette are favoring another amendment to the Constitution to provide for amending the amending clause of the Constitution so as to make it possible to change the fundamental law of the land easily.

Still another plank now being discussed provides for the abolition of the power of federal patronage, and especially requiring the selection and promotion of officers and employes in the postal service by merit and fitness. This same plank would require that salaried officers give their entire time to the duties of the office.

Corrupt Practices Plank.

A strong corrupt practices act will be another plank. This will demand a complete disclosure of all political contributions or financial pledges at the time they are made, with periodical statements before and after election of the purposes and recipients of all disbursements.

A plank that is sure of incorporation in the platform will demand the abolition of the commerce court.

WILL MEET AT BORDER

luth delegates will thus be spared participation in the hotel congestion.

No formal program of speeches has been prepared for the coming meeting, but various subjects will be announced for discussion and leaders will be appointed. The meeting will outline a legislative program for the regular session of the legislature next winter. Co-ordination of state departments, the extension of reclamation work and good roads are among the most important subjects to be discussed. If the legislature should fail to act on reapportionment at the extra session, that would top all other subjects in the association legislative program, of course.

Great interest in the coming meeting is shown in all counties in the association and a great crowd will be on hand in International Falls when the meeting opens. There will be no politics in the meeting, but the usual fringe of politicians is expected to appear around the edges.

International Falls has made great preparations for the entertainment of the visitors. The border town is an interesting one, and there are many points of interest around it. The program will give ample leisure for enjoyment of the entertainment program so that the popularity for sightseeing, given by the visit to International Falls, may not be wasted.

Minnesota's action to the federal government. This was opposed by some because of the danger that in a short session amending the resolution might cause its defeat between the two houses, so the committee withdrew it.

• • •

Gross Earnings Tax Bill.

The gross earnings tax bill reached the senate this morning and was referred to the committee on the reception of bills.

Attorney General Smith, it is reported, is a little concerned about the provision of the Rines-Warner bill, borrowed from the law of 1911, providing for taxing the gross earnings of railroads from other than operating sources, the fear being that this may be held double taxation. He is investigating the matter and will prepare an opinion. Even if he should so hold, this will not imperil the 5 per cent increase, as a failure of the 1911 attempt to reach all railroad earnings would only add force to the arguments for an increase in the tax rate.

Canadian Reciprocity.

The senate refused to suspend the rules and receive a resolution offered by Senator Glotsbach asking Minnesota congressmen to work for repeal of the Canadian reciprocity pact. On a motion to suspend the rules, fifteen voted for and thirty against, so the motion was lost. The resolution was referred to the committee on reception of bills, which will refuse to report it out because a unanimous vote cannot be had on it in the committee.

Representative J. S. McConnell of La Crosse, author of the second choice feature of the Wisconsin primary election law, has been invited to come to St. Paul by Chairman Haycraft of the senate elections committee, and this morning the committee voted to hear him this afternoon and invited the house to sit in.

Ringdal for Governor.

The Democrats in house and senate will meet at the Merchants' hotel tonight and they are likely to take action unanimously indorsing P. M. Ringdal of Crookston, member of the state board of control, as the Democratic candidate for governor.

The house was not in session this morning, but met at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

• • •

ON TRACK OF CANCER GERM

Medical Scientists Coming In Close Range of Dreaded Disease.

Like New York Cancer Hospital, Electro Medical Doctors Have Successfully Healed Unfortunates.

Thirty-four thousand persons died of cancer last year in the United States. Cancer sufferers, with the hope that springs eternal in the victim's breast, grasp at every last advertised straw of the "cancer cure fake." The New York Cancer hospital has successfully cured hundreds of unfortunates for a good many years. It is the same method the Electro Medical Doctors of this city are pursuing when they heal this dreaded trouble with the assistance of X-Ray, Electricity and the Ultra-Marine-Violet-Finsen light. In getting a cure for this disease it is different than "shopping by mail." Those treatments cannot be sent by mail, as one of Iowa's good old farmers asked the Electro Medical Doctors to do. Such are the methods of "quacks," who for the greed of money, send the unfortunate victim some worthless dope.

In spite of the frequent announcements and advertisements for "Cures of Cancer," the dreadful ravages of the disease do steadily continue. Medicine can not claim to have conquered this malignant type of tumor, for we can hardly claim to know its cause. It is a matter of great interest that Dr. Ervin Smith, a great light among the scientists of today, has discovered that a plant disease called "crown gall," presents striking resemblances of the cancerous growths in animal tissue. Its micro-organic source has been discovered, isolated and cultivated.

In cancer we have an enormous multiplication of certain tissues, which, by continued growth, crush and disorganize the surrounding tissues. The blood vessels are not sufficiently numerous to nourish it properly, so that after a longer or shorter period (months or years), portions of it disorganize often into open wounds which are then readily infected by all sorts of secondary organisms, with all the well-known disastrous results. But the circumstance that constitutes the peculiar malignancy of cancer is the tendency to form secondary growths in various parts of the body, including the vital organs, and it is this clearly recognized danger which in modern times has led to the universal recommendation on the part of competent physicians and surgeons of the early extirpation of suspicious growths, the hope being that the surgeon may be able to dissect out all the infected tissues and thus free the patient from the disease.

It is thus that, following an operation, the germs are carried all through the body, by way of circulation and, as a result, the greatest number of patients die after they have been operated upon. This may be practically expected by every cancer patient who submits to an operation, though some have been fortunate enough to be saved through the skill of a good surgeon. The Electro Medical Doctors, whose offices are at 26 West Superior street, are conservative and will always preserve the right not to submit a patient to treatments whose case is gone too far. They do not object to the knife wherever it is necessary. However, in cancers, Electro Medical Methods have proved to be eminently successful, like in the case of Mrs. Mary Smith of this city, whose testimonial has been read in this paper. The Doctors are far from professing to be specialists only in cancers. Their chosen field is "chronic diseases" of men, women and children, in which they are specialists and experts, through long practice, experience and skill.

WORMAN HAS INDIAN SIGN

Big Crowd Sees White Sox Lambast Offerings of Chase.

Before one of the largest crowds of the season, Duluth yesterday threw the barbed hooks of stinging defeat into the ancient enemy from across the ferry path, the contest going our way by the score of 7 to 3. Worman was in the box for the locals and that fact has a great deal to do with the victory. The old boy was in regular form, which means that he had the pupils of Taylor on the run.

Chief Chase was on the mound for seven of the stanzas of the contest, Carroll finishing the contest, when Taylor went in to bat for the chief. The Indian did not have the usual goods and only some sultry fielding behind him and the general break in his favor prevented the score from mounting higher.

In the very first the big crowd received a scare, for the visitors started off as if they were going to place the game on ice. Francis singled past second with one down. Roy was down when Leber threw wild on Ford's offering, Francis scoring on the play. Dunn hit one to Sours and the shortstop followed the erratic example of Leber the result being a score for Ford.

We got one of the runs back in our time with the willow. Kuehn swatted one for two bags, was sacrificed to third by McGraw and scored on Meneice's out at first. In the second Sours hit one past second for a single. O'Brien walked. Blum hit to Chase and Black dropped the throw to third to get Sours. With Popham down Worman hit to Briggs and Sours came home ahead of the throw.

Opened the third with a double. Meneice beat out a bunt and took second on balks. Leber whiffed. Sours walked. O'Brien hit to Black, who got McGraw at the third station but threw wild to first and Meneice trotted over the pan.

With McGraw down in the fifth Meneice walked and Leber singled to center. Sours was again passed and then O'Brien, just to show that he resented wrathfully being picked as an easy mark, hit a stinger down to Briggs. The shortstop knocked the hit down and got the Orator at first, but Meneice came home with a score. Blum hit a clean one to the center pasture and Leber and Sours came over the pan.

The last score came in the sixth inning. Popham singled in this round. "Pop" was forced at second, but the sorrel one fooled the natives by swiping the second sack. With Kuehn down McGraw tripled to center and the heaver trotted home.

Following is the score:

Duluth—	AB.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Kuehn, lf	4	1	1	0	0	0
McGraw, cf	4	0	2	3	0	0
Meneice, rf	3	2	1	5	0	1

MAROONS TAKE WEIRD CONTEST

Winnipeg Wins Slugging Match From Dacotahs in Wind Storm.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 10.—Winnipeg defeated the Flickertails yesterday by the score of 19 to 13, the game being played in a small-sized cyclone. While both teams hit the ball hard, the velocity of the wind made many hits go safe that would under ordinary circumstances have been easy for the fielders. One of the largest crowds of the season witnessed the game. The two teams divided the double header at Winnipeg Saturday. Grand Forks winning the afternoon game 4 to 1, and Winnipeg the evening contest, 8 to 0.

TWO WILD PITCHES LOSE FOR THE TIGERS.

Detroit, Mich., June 10.—Willett's two wild pitches, each allowing a run, enabled Washington to defeat Detroit, 4 to 3, in the series opener. In the sixth with runners on first and second and no one out, Henry fielded Moriarity's tap and by a lightning throw retired Crawford at third. A moment later Hughes caught Bauman off second. Score:

PATRICK MACKINAWS SENSATION OF THE ENTIRE SPORTING WORLD

A prominent Duluth business man after seeing a number of baseball games in the East in which the New York Giants played, writes the following to Duluth friends:

"A friend of mine who is a reporter on one of the large New York dailies tells me that the professional baseball players including the Giants themselves have a superstitious feeling that the Patrick-Duluth mackinaws worn by the Giants are a lucky talisman. My reporter friend says that Manager McGraw brought the Giants back from the early spring training at Marlin, Tex., in better form than any of the other big league teams largely on account of your mackinaws. By their use the Giants were able to play in any weather, rain or shine, and still be perfectly protected. If the Patrick-Duluth mackinaw were to help the Giants win the pennant it will certainly be a great advertisement both for Duluth and for the mackinaw. Because of this superstition the mackinaws certainly will get credit, and well deserved too, for whatever success the Giants reach. I thought you would be interested in this gossop."

Athletes and the sportsmen all over the country East and West believe they have discovered in the mackinaw a remarkable garment for their use. The college crowd both boys and girls are the greatest enthusiasts. At every school and college of importance in the Northern states from New York to Seattle, the distinctive plaids of the Patrick-Duluth mackinaw, so familiar to all Northwestern people, will be seen crowding the side lines at football and hockey games, strolling over the campus, whirling by in a motor car, or galloping down the country roads on horse back.

Most of the college football teams wore these mackinaws last season. At the opening of the baseball season this year the New York Giants, Chicago Cubs, the Duluth White Sox, the teams of the Three Eye leagues, and many other professional baseball teams East and West have adopted the Patrick-Duluth mackinaws as part of their regular equipment. Manager J. J. McGraw of the Giants writes:

"E. A. Patrick & Co., Duluth. Gentlemen—In my opinion your mackinaw coats are the best ever put on the market for spring training."

The latest university football team to adopt the Patrick-Duluth Woolen Mills mackinaws is that of the University of Nebraska. The director of athletics at Lincoln has ordered a complete outfit of these coats in the university colors, cardinal with cream trimming for the entire football squad with a number of Patrick-Duluth green coats in the same coloring, for coaches, trainers and managers of the team.

A party of Duluthians on ship board during a West Indian cruise last winter met a group of Philadelphia people. Upon introduction the Philadelphians at once said, indicating their traveling coats—"Duluth,—Why that's where these wonderful steamer coats of ours were made—not your mackinaw woolen mills up there."

VETERAN SHOOTER ADVISES REGARDING TOURNAMENTS

(By A. Gunerack.)

The question is frequently asked, "Why don't the boys take more real interest in our shooting tournaments? Why don't we have the same kind of 'shoots' that we have had in former years?" Why don't we hear any more of our championship events such as we had in the days of Budd, Stice, Brewer, Carver, Grimm, Elliott, Gilbert, Hikes, Crosby and a number of other masters of the trigger?"

There is reason for this. In those days the manufacturer of guns and ammunition employed this class of men to do their advertising and the participants in these matches used the guns and ammunition of the concerns whom they represented. New conditions have arisen, a lot of men now travel for the various concerns and do missionary work only. Some of them take part in tournaments and others travel about the country visiting the jobbers, and we might incidentally remark that they sometimes assist in running the "shoots" and succeed in that way of gaining an acquaintance and a patronage that they otherwise might not be able to reach.

We are sorry that these individual contests have become a thing of the past as the entire shooting world looked forward to them and read with much interest the results of the match. We do not believe that the so-called "Missionary Man" of today is just what the shooter wants, and especialy he who is a believer in game protection. These fellows travel about the country and have all kinds of opportunities to locate the best places for game and fish and some of them advertise broadcast among their friends and acquaintances these localities and the result is that many localities are overrun by a lot of people, including the so-called "Game Hog."

Again referring to the lack of interest in our trap shooting tournaments, we believe that the influence of the target manufacturer is in a great measure responsible for this, as the events on the average program contain too many birds and it appears like a target and ammunition selling scheme. The entrance money is practically used up in paying for the birds and the expense of running the tournament; this does not include the cost of shells.

This will in a measure explain why the so-called "pot" is so small that you will hardly get your entrance fee back even though you kill al the birds you shoot at. We firmly believe that if future tournaments would program only about half the birds they do now and double the entrance fee, so that when the shooter makes a reasonably good score he will draw out enough money to at least in part, may the expense of his day's shooting; make a new definition as to what constitutes a professional and bar him from taking part in the tournaments, the pots would be larger. To define what constitutes a professional shooter at this time would be a difficult problem, but for the purpose of food for thought and for the consideration of the shooting public, we suggest that it might be well to make a rule about as follows: "If a man attended a certain number of tournaments in a year, he that number six, twelve or more, it would put him in the prohibitive class; we have so many fellows that travel from tournament to tournament to whom the old definition of professionalism cannot be applied. This once done you will be in a position to make satisfactory division of the money; you would thereby make a saving for the shooter on targets as well as on the shells that he shoots. Make your arrangements so that if the shooter participates in the regular events and desires additional shooting, he can satisfy himself by entering and shooting in as many sweepstakes as he pleases.

Then again, there are a great many men who would be glad to shoot through an early season tournament if the number of birds were within reason. Some of them may lack the strength and others may not be in condition. These suggestions, might, as I said before, furnish food for thought, and be the means of arousing the shooter to action. One thing is absolutely certain, something must be done to make trap shooting more attractive than it now is, as under the present system one is constantly paying in money without any practical returns. The winning of an occasional "pot" helps to defray the expenses, which has an inspiring effect on the shooter and will do much to bring back the old spirit in a lively contest.

It is up to the trap shooting fraternity to get busy, but little figuring is necessary to show you where you get off at under the existing system of running the so-called "modern tournament."

AITKIN SHOOTER WINS TOURNAMENT

E. J. Goward Carries Off Diamond Badge at Brainerd Gun Contest.

Brainerd, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. J. Goward of Aitkin won the diamond badge at the tournament here of the Riverside Gun club open only to Minnesota contestants, his score being 44 out of 50, there being twenty-six singles and twelve pair shot at.

G. J. McGraw of Minneapolis was second with a score of 42. V. N. Sugrue of Cuyuna, who won the badge in 1910, stood third with 41 to his credit. George Trent, Jr., of Brainerd, was fourth with 40.

Father and Son Score.

It was the first time in the history of any Minnesota tournament that a father and son, George E. Trent, Sr. and George E. Trent, Jr., scored respectively the highest scores in the professional and amateur classes, the former 283 out of a possible 300 and the son 277 out of a possible 300.

H. C. Rinkel of Minneapolis scored 270 in the professional class; J. H. Stair of Crookston, 230; J. E. Dickey of Minneapolis, 267. Gilbert R. Clark shot the first day and the Duluth man made 139 out of a possible 150.

Duluth Men Shoot.

Among the out-of-town shooters were: W. J. Webb, W. A. Abbett, A. S. Klock, Hugo Eisenach and Gilbert R. Clark of Duluth; J. H. Stair and H. H. Chesterman of Crookston; H. C. Rinkel, J. E. Dickey and G. J. McGraw of Minneapolis; G. A. Saries of St. Paul; M. A. Nashold of Fargo; Henry J. Thielman of St. Cloud; J. W. Dewey of Fergus Falls; L. E. Parker of Los Angeles, Cal.; E. J. Goward of Aitkin; Frank Morrison of Excelsior; Vernon Sugrue of Cuyuna.

ATHLETES MAKE GREAT SHOWING

Manager Halpin Predicts Sweeping Victory for American Team.

New York, June 10.—Confident that the showing made both east and west in the Olympic try-outs Saturday, coupled with the Pacific coast records, spells the most sweeping victory Americans have made in the Olympic team. The members of the selecting committee will meet here today to pick sixty leaders in the score of athletic specialties on the Stockholm program.

Matthew Halpin, manager of the team, who has twice been abroad with American athletes, said upon his return from Boston:

"You can't make it any too strong. We have the best material ever to pick from and the team that sails for Stockholm Thursday will be a world beater. Everyone of our tryouts have been world beaters and with the bunch all together we shall be invincible."

This confidence was echoed by everyone who has followed the weeks of preparation for the games. The preliminaries came to a climax yesterday with new marks by Linberg, of Chicago, for 400 meters; by Kivlat, of New York, and Patterson of Chicago, for the 1,500 meters; by Kramer, of the Long Island A. C., for the 10,000 meters and the sensational pole vault record of thirteen feet, two and one-fourth inches by Wright of Dartmouth.

The record of Horine, the high jumping marvel of the Pacific coast at six feet, seven inches, the wonderful discus throwing by Duncan of New York and numerous other marvelous performances, give the American team, which will meet all comers at Stockholm, at least six new records in the events on the Stockholm program and near records in practically all the other athletic events.

SUPERIOR AND DULUTH GAMES

Stones Win Easily.

There were four games played in the Duluth-Superior league yesterday, two of the contests being close and well played, while the other two were rather one-sided and the scores running into large figures.

The E. M. Stones won from the Duluth Heights by the close score of 5 to 4. The winning team played a miserable game in the field, but out-hit the losers and bunched its hits effectively. The Stones got away to a good lead and were never headed.

Score by innings:

Stones	4 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—5
Duluth Heights	0 0 2 0 1 0 0 1 0—4

Jeffersons in a Walk.

The Jeffersons had but little trouble with the Blue Bells. Knox held the chimers to eight hits and they never got within speaking distance of the East End aggregation. The play of both teams was ragged, errors being plentiful on both sides.

Score by innings:

Jeffersons	2 3 0 7 4 1 1 0 0—18
Blue Bells	0 1 0 0 4 2 0 0 0— 7

Batteries—Knox and Baker; Paulson and Liming.

New Duluths Win.

The New Duluth-Bingham game was close and interesting throughout. Underhill was on the mound for the winning team and was hit much more freely than Amundson for the losers. But the play behind the latter was ragged and Underhill also prevented the hits from being bunched.

Score by innings:

New Duluth	0 0 0 1 2 0 2 1 x—6
Binghams	0 0 1 0 0 1 2 0 0—4

Batteries—Underhill and Breisch; Amundson and Murphy.

Sodality Wins Easily.

There was little to the game between the Sodality and the Temcos. The Catholic boys won as they pleased, the score of 19 to 3 indicating the superiority of the winning team. Brooks had the losers thoroughly puzzled, while the Temcos tried out several twirlers in the futile attempt to check the hitting of the Sodality.

Score by innings:

Y. M. S.	0 2 2 3 3 1 3 5 0—19
Temcos	0 0 0 0 1 0 0 2 0— 3

Batteries—Brooks and Miller; Larkin, Yoeckel and Olson.

REGATTA DATES ARE CHANGED

It was reported today that the dates for the holding of the Northwestern International Rowing regatta have been changed from July 19 and 20 to July 26 and 27. This announcement was made today, and it is stated that the date is set back because of the fact that a large excursion is going to be held to Winnipeg on the last mentioned dates.

It is given out here that specal rates are going to be made over several of the railroads and that it is expected that there will be a large crowd from here and also from many of the towns along the lines of the railroads making the special rates.

GOOD RECORDS MADE AT MEET

The high school track meet was held Saturday and some very good contests in the various events were provided. Matt Brown, the crack all-round athlete, was the star of the meet, scoring firsts in several of the events and also being instrumental in his class capturing the relay race. The high school won, 52 to 22. The records are very good for an interscholastic meet.

The summary:

100-yard dash — Brown, Smithies, Stillman; time, 10 seconds flat.

220-yard dash—Brown, Smithies and Stillman, 23:1 seconds.

COMMERCIALS OPEN SEASON

The Commercial league, one of the best baseball aggregation in the city launched its season Saturday, all of the teams playing.

Judging from the opening games of the season the material is very fast and the league is going to give to its supporters a better article of baseball than was the case last season, when the standard was very high.

The Board of Trade team took the opening game from the South Shore aggregation, the contest being played at the Thirty-second avenue west grounds. The Marshall-Wells team defeated the Stone-Ordean aggregation by the score of 3 to 2, Hammerbeck being on the rubber for the winners, while Martin did the throwing for the grocers. Both teams played clean and fast baseball.

The Patricks got away to a good start in the race by defeating the Northern Shoe company's team by the score of 10 to 3. The game was played at Athletic park and was witnessed by a liberal attendance of the supporters of both teams. Miller did the pitching for the Patricks and Hon for the Northerns.

DULUTH BOYS ARE DEFEATED AT HIBBING.

Hibbing, Mnn., June 10.—Fifteen hundred enthusiastic fans gathered at the ball park here Saturday to watch the Hibbing High school baseball team defeat the Duluth High school team by the close score of 7 to 6. The game was fast throughout and although the Hibbing boys made an armful of errors, their hits were well timed and effective.

The score:

FIRST OF THE TOURISTS

Annual Influx of Summer Visitors to Duluth Has Begun.

Local Hotel Managers Expect Very Busy and Prosperous Season.

The first tourists are beginning to arrive at the Duluth hotels. Several came in this morning by rail from Port Arthur, while a number of reservations have been booked for tourists that are due to arrive here during the present week.

Edwin H. Lee, managing director of the Spalding, stated today that he expected the present season to be the best in the history of the Spalding hotel. Mr. Lee's statement was based upon the information that has been gathered from the steamship lines and also on the correspondence he has had with several large parties of tourists that are coming here later in the season.

As far as is definitely known at the present time the first large party of tourists that will reach the city is due here shortly after the middle of the month. On that date there are a number of New York and Boston people coming. The party is expected to stop here for a few days before continuing the trip on to the Yellowstone park and through to the Pacific coast.

While East, J. A. Hickey, manager of the St. Louis, made arrangements with several agencies to route their parties by way of Duluth. Mr. Hickey stated today that he had heard from some of these prospective tourists and that he believes that during the present month there will be two large parties through from the West, coming from both the American and Canadian Pacific coasts.

The managers of the five leading hotels of the city are looking forward to a very large business this summer, for, according to their statements the railroads and the steamboats are expecting an unusually heavy season of travel.

MISSING WOMAN IS LOCATED

Mrs. W. W. Nelson denies that she "disappeared."

One day last week her husband reported to the police that his wife and children had disappeared from their home at 2629 Minnesota avenue, and that he did not know where to find them. He told Chief Troyer that Mrs. Nelson has a sister living in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and one at St. Cloud, Minn., and that communication with both revealed that the missing woman was not with either. Nelson told the chief that his wife was not quite right in her mind and he feared that she had wandered off with her children in an effort to get away from fancied conditions which worried her. Until today no further trace of her was found.

This morning, however, The Herald received a letter from Mrs. Nelson, written at Sault Ste. Marie, in which she denies the disappearance story. She says that she is with her sister and left because her husband had treated her cruelly.

OFFICERS' SCHOOL WAS DAILY GRIND

Duluthians Return After Week of Instruction at Lake City.

Nine officers of Duluth companies of the Minnesota National Guard returned yesterday from Lake City, where a school of instruction was conducted last week by regular army officers. The Duluth officers report that the school was no vacation gathering. They were busy from 7:30 in the morning until near midnight discussing maneuvers and drill regulations, and learning from the army officers.

The school of instruction was preparation for the joint maneuvers to be conducted at Sparta, Wis., this summer under the direction of the war department. The Second and Third regiments of the Minnesota National Guard will go into camp at Sparta in August, with a number of regiments from other states. The First regiment will hold its encampment at Lake City as usual.

ILLINOIS MAN STABBED.

Passing Two Fighting Men in Fargo, Gets Wound in Lung.

Fargo, N. D., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Donald Milne, about 28 years old, who gives his home as Rockford, Ill., was stabbed through the chest and lungs by an unknown assailant shortly before midnight, on lower Northern Pacific avenue.

Milne was passing when he noticed a fight between two men. An eye witness to the crime says Milne did not stop or interpose himself into the fight but one of the combatants left his opponent and stabbed Milne once through the center of his chest. The blade pierced between the ribs and penetrated the lung, causing considerable loss of blood.

The man was taken to a hospital, where it was found the knife had pierced the lungs. It is stated the wound is not fatal.

GERMAN TARS SEE NEW YORK

Full Program Arranged for Men and Officers From Battleships.

Mayor Gaynor Figures Largely in Plans for Formal Functions.

New York, June 10.—Exchanges of official courtesies occupied much of the time today of the officers of the visiting German squadron, while sightseeing filled the hours on shore of the sailormen.

The more formal part of today's program began with a visit of Brig. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, U. S. A., in command of the department of the east, to Rear Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz on board the Moltke. Gen. Bliss was accompanied by Rear Admiral Winslow, commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard.

This call over, the admiral and his staff prepared to call on Mayor Gaynor at the city hall. Governor's Island and the navy yard were next in the line of visits; and the remainder of the day, up to 2:30 o'clock, was to be devoted to an automobile sightseeing tour for the German officers.

Gaynor to Preside.

Three o'clock was the time set for the mayor's return visit to the German flagship. Tonight the German officers will be guests at a hotel dinner. The mayor will preside and addresses will be delivered by him, by the German ambassador, Rear Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz, Rear Admiral Winslow and others.

The German sailors have free transportation on all the city's transit lines and they were quick to take advantage of the opportunity for sightseeing points of interest. Tonight 750 of the Germans with as many Yankee tars will be entertained by the Deutscher Kriederbund at Sulzer's Harlem river park.

OPERA COMPANY OPENS SEASON

Musical Comedy and Vaudeville Performance Provides Good Entertainment.

The summer season of the Boston Lyric Musical Comedy company opened last evening with a splendid performance of "The Follies of June 9," featuring the special attraction, "The Politicians." A large audience greeted the company on its opening night and the many encores accorded the members during the performance proved the popularity of the summer musical venture.

The production is in some ways similar to "The Follies" of the American Roof Garden in New York, as produced every summer by Florenz Ziegfeld. Full of songs, dances, ensemble numbers, jokes and a light plot, the production manages to give a delightful evening's entertainment. There are thirty-five people in the company, twenty of whom comprise the chorus of girls, who are the real hit and attraction of the show. The girls can all sing and dance exceptionally well. They are good looking and with their new costumes make a most pleasing appearance. The following girls comprise the chorus for the season: Misses Ione Lowe, Margaret Schaller, Beatrice Noble, Helen Cleve, Winifred McAdams, Kitty Henry, Mayme Dahlman, Margel Deane, Bertha Miller, Claudette Wilson, Terralne Lally, Clara Norton, Kathleen Monahan, Cecelia Jacques, Violet Stall and Hattie Campbell.

The principals of the company play their parts well, special credit being due to the Pearl brothers as Billy T. and Teddy R., John Burns as Michael; Denton Vane as Willie Gray; Karl Stoll as Judge Gaylor; Miss Tommy Allen as Mary Talker; Miss Pearl Evans as Mitzie Cleff; Miss Lillian Crossman as Anita, and Miss Ada Morrison as Mrs. Gray. Miss Allen's suffragette speech is a "scream," as is Miss Evan's "Turkey Trot" song, which scored five encores last evening.

A slender plot runs through the play dealing with the politics of Rosedale, a dry town. Billy T. and Teddy R. are elected to office against a large opposition by bringing in outside laborers and tramps to vote the Republican ticket. After induction into office they plan to make the town wet and arrange to build saloons all over the city. The city rises against them and they are ousted from office. During the action of the play the Pearl brothers and Mr. Burns introduce a grand opera specialty, which is very funny. The courtroom scene in the last act kept the audience in constant laughter.

"The Follies of June 9" will continue throughout the week, with special priced matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

NEW PROGRAM AT THE EMPRESS

Remarkable Trick Bicycle Act Features New Vaudeville Bill.

Some remarkable feats in trick bicycle riding constitute a very attractive feature of this week's program at the Empress theater.

This performance is given by Paul Gordan and Rica. The young man balances himself on a single wheel, with several very odd and cumbersome-looking pieces of apparatus, and at times carries the lady on his shoulders. At the last of the act he rides a bicycle for three, balancing it on end, and finally takes the young woman from the top of a high ladder upon his shoulders, and the two balance themselves eight feet above the stage floor, circling around the stage on the single wheel, which the young man all the while propels with the pedals. The act is varied with singing, dancing and amusing talk.

An intensely interesting moving picture story of a rebellion in Ireland against British rule is another of this week's attractions. "Love in the Rain," a singing and talking oddity, is entertainingly rendered by Mr. Kennedy and Miss Burt.

Miss Esther Niessen, "The Norwegian Nightingale," is heard in several good numbers. She has an exceptionally good voice with a very wide range, and she proved very popular with yesterday's audiences.

Three films of motion pictures are presented and all are so good that it would be hard to choose between them. The titles are: "The Cylinder's Secret," "A Dream of a Motion Picture Director" and "A Reconstructed Rebel."

OLD LANDMARK IS BEING RAZED

Wreckers Start Work Tearing Down Well-Known Kendall Barn.

In about ten days or two weeks, one of the oldest landmarks of Duluth, the Kendall barn at the corner of Second avenue west and First street, will be no more. Wreckers began the work of tearing it down this morning. In a very short time it is expected that it will be razed as the result of its having been condemned by the authorities. H. C. Kendall & Co., who have occupied the building for thirty years dating back from the present time, will go out of business. Already a good deal of the stock has been sold.

The original building was erected when Duluth was still in its swaddling clothes and was the first of the big livery barns. The stable on the north side was since erected by the Kendall company. In the old days the Kendall barn housed a portion of the volunteer fire department apparatus and the place was a sort of hang-out for the old timers for years.

The building was erected first by Jacob Leidel, now dead, but later the property passed into other hands, and after having been transferred several times, became the property of Winston brothers of Minneapolis, who are the present owners. The ground has been leased for ninety-nine years to the Furniss Realty company, but that concern does not expect to build for several years yet.

IN POLICE COURT

Iver Nelson, aged 23 years, was brought back yesterday from Seattle, Wash., by a deputy sheriff and this morning was arraigned in police court. He is accused of having, on Feb. 26 last, seduced Miss Ida Carlson of 1001 Garfield avenue on promise of marriage. Nelson was not ready for a hearing and it was put over until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

* * *

Anton Parchem, an aged man and an old offender, was before the court this borning on the old charge of begging. Parchem's case was continued until this afternoon. The culprit is a puzzle to the police. Every once in a while he is gathered in for begging. He has a family of grown children living in the West end and they are all willing and anxious to support the old man and his wife in comfort, and, it is said, that in fact they do so now. But the old man does not seem able to keep from begging money with which to purchase liquor. The members of his family feel very badly about it and wish that something could be done to stop the humiliation which they suffer through the failing of the father.

One of America's Foremost Corsetieres Is Now With Us

Duluth women are fortunate in having an opportunity to talk corsets with Miss M. Larsen, who has stopped off in Duluth while making a coast to coast trip, in the interests of the Bon Ton Corsets, which have long been favorites of French dressmakers.

The highest art of corset making is exemplified in these justly famous corsets, which combine beauty of line of present day fashions with grace and comfort.

Miss Larsen will be pleased to give advice or fittings, whether you now desire a corset or not.

No attempt will be made to urge you to buy. She will simply show you the many superior advantages in being properly corseted, and should you desire, will give you a memoranda of the style and size best suited to your needs. You may then secure that model whenever you wish.

If some other make or style of corset is best suited to your figure, she will frankly tell you so.

A visit will insure comfort and style if her advice is followed.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, June 10.—Accidents to steel finishing plants and the Memorial holiday alone prevented the breaking of all steel output records in May, as was done in steel-making pig iron. Specifications and shipments, however, established a new high mark. Not a few of the independent mills lacked an adequate supply of labor. As it was, the United States Steel corporation produced 1,485,000 tons of steel ingots, a record exceeded only in March, 1910. The output of finished steel products by the corporation's subsidiary companies, was at the rate of 13,365,000 tons per year. New orders, while less than the daily average in April, equaled the full productive capacity of the mills, and shipments averaged only about 4,000 tons per day less. To the 2,513,000 tons of pig iron produced in May, the corporation furnaces contributed 1,269,000 tons; 25,000 tons more than was ever before produced in one month.

Railroad equipment buying was much reduced in volume last week, with interest mainly in bridge contracts, including 8,000 for the Louisville & Nashville, 1,500 tons for the Canadian Pacific, 1,000 tons for the St. Paul. The principal rail contracts were 18,000 tons for the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, 12,000 tons for the St. Louis & San Francisco. Supplementary orders also were placed by the Harriman interests.

Fabricating shops booked orders for 39,000, following contracts for 172,000 tons in May, of which the American Bridge company took about 70,000 tons.

The National Tube company advanced prices of steel pipe on six inches and less, $2 per ton. Oil country goods also were advanced by their interests. The American Steel & Tin Plate company, operating 94 per cent of capacity, purchased 3,000 tons of open hearth sheet bars in the open market.

HENRY IS SET TO WORK BY THE POLICE.

The police saw to it this morning that Henry Lovald got to work. He had a job waiting for him at Lakeside and his wife and daughter begged of the police on Saturday night, after he had been arrested as a loafer, that he be made to work today for they need the money. Mrs. Lovald, who, with her daughter and little son, visited Lovald Saturday night, said that whisky has her husband in its thrall and that although he earns good wages when sober, he prefers to carouse. Mrs. Lovald and her daughter have both been compelled to work hard to keep themselves, and frequently to keep the erring husband and father. The police promised her that Henry would be at work today where a job awaited him at Lakeside.

When reproached by his family, Henry shed tears of remorse and said that he was sorry. His wife agreed to give him one more chance.

WEATHER FOR THE WEEK

Washington, June 10.—The indications are that the coming week will be one of moderate temperatures over the greater part of the country. The bulletin issued by the weather bureau forecasts a reaction to normal temperature, following several days of unseasonably cool weather over the Middle West and the Southern and Eastern states.

"Fair weather," says the bulletin, "will prevail the next several days in the Eastern and Southern states, while an area of low barometric pressure that now covers the Western plateau region, will advance slowly eastward, and give local rains the first part of the week in the Middle West, and the latter part of the week in Eastern and Southern states."

TABBY "MOTHERS" CHICKS.

Cloquet Feline, Deprived of Offspring, Takes Over Newly-Hatched.

Cloquet, Minn., June 10.—"Wash" McDonald, a driver for the Cloquet Lumber company, has a cat whose ideals of motherhood are advanced. The other day Tabby, a big half-maltese, gave birth to six kittens, which soon afterward disappeared, presumably by way of the water route. About the same date an old hen came off her nest with sixteen baby chicks. Four of these disappeared within a day or two and McDonald began a search for them. They were finally discovered in the hay mow, nicely mothered by Tabby. Mr. McDonald says that two years ago the cat stole chickens after her kittens were drowned, and now he intends to reward her by giving into her care the whole family of sixteen.

NORTH DAKOTAN DROWNS.

Loses Life in Eau Claire River, Ten Miles From City.

Eau Claire, Wis., June 10.—Carl Breitenfeldt, a young man, whose home is in North Dakota, was drowned in the Eau Claire river Friday about ten miles up stream from this city, and four miles north of Fall Creek. The drowning occurred just below what is known by old river men as Big Falls.

How the accident occurred can not be learned. The body was recovered about an hour after going down and was shipped via the Omaha to the former home in North Dakota.

The young man had been in this section but a short time, having relatives residing about Fall Creek.

DIAMONDS TO PLAY WITH

Baby Used Precious Stones Worth $45,000 to Pelt Her Father.

Spalding Hotel Guest Spends a Very Anxious Two Minutes.

If you had a little girl, or boy either, for that matter, would you permit her or him to play with $45,000 worth of property? Add an open window to the risk loss, and place the scene on the fourth floor of a hotel, the Spalding, and you have the opening scene and the dramatic possibilities in the first burst of confidence.

Even a man carrying $45,000 worth of valuables easily lost can be forgetful. We are all human, as book agents and installment men have discovered. Charles Meyers of New York is a black diamond man. He carries those dull and uninteresting little pebble-like things around in a black leather case, which is silk lined and carefully provided against the loss of the articles in question.

It might be mentioned, before the story goes any further, that Mr. Meyers is here with his wife and little girl, Adelaide. Now we have all that fixed. The happy family is fixed out in room 42—on the fourth floor of the Spalding.

All day Sunday the leather case and the jewels rested securely in the safe of the Spalding. Last evening a man called on Mr. Meyers and the talk fell to black diamonds. Mr. Meyers went down to the safe and got the leather case and came back and exhibited them to the man.

They had cigars and conversation and the hour waxed along, as hours will at times. While the conversation was going on, as the story goes, the leather case was put back in the inside pocket of Mr. Meyers and forgotten.

Presumably the coat was hung over the back of a chair, as coats are at times—and here we will leave the coat for a while.

This morning, about ten bells, Mr. Meyers called on the desk clerk, Roy, and politely asked for the black diamonds. He was told that he took them last night and had returned the receipt for their keeping. Thereupon a startled look overspread the countenance of the gentleman of New York and he hurriedly searched his pockets. The leather case and the diamonds were missing.

Rent the Elevator.

The elevator was on the third floor coming down. Mr. Meyers beat it on its return trip to the fourth floor. Mrs. Meyers was in the sitting room of the suite, humming a little tune, all about nothing at all, as women will now and then. At times and places such tunes are peculiarly aggravating.

Straight into the sitting room bounded the thoroughly scared Meyers. His breath came in pants, and his heart beat wildly against his heaving chest. He managed to gasp forth his inquiry. Mrs. Meyers had not seen the diamonds. She, too, was scared.

The baby was quite forgotten, though she is only 4 and had beautiful golden hair that hangs in ringlets around her neck.

Out into the bedroom Meyers dashed. He almost stumbled over the baby. The baby was toddling to a chair, near the window. Both her little hands were filled with something.

Mrs. Meyers said her husband yelled like an Indian she once saw in a border drama. The baby gurgled in glee and threw the things she held in her hands in all directions—

It was fortunate indeed that none of the black diamonds went out of the window—say five or ten thousand worth. They looked an hour, and there was not one missing, though the bed was moved several times and the dresser was shunted around like a freight car during a busy season at the transfer yard. The end of the black leather case was somewhat chewed up, as babies often find leather, and rubber and other things convenient to aid infantile digestion.

When Meyers found that there was not a single black diamond gone—$45,000 worth there—he did not scold the baby with the dimple in its neck and the golden ringlets; he carried her down on the elevator and personally saw to it that the kiddo had some candy, even though Mrs. Meyers says candy is not good for children.

George is on the night shift at the desk, and it is very likely that he will have a consignment of valuable things, that look like little black pebbles, done up in a leather case, a little disfigured at one end, in the safe this evening—and—well, that's about all—

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

BURGUIGNON — Jules Burguignon, aged 87 years, died this morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Rosalie Le Flohic, 314 East Second street, old age being the cause. He was ill only a short time. Mr. Burguignon arrived here from California only a few weeks ago to spend the remainder of his days with his daughter and grand daughter. Another daughter, Mrs. Marie L. Flohic lives in Superior. Besides these he leaves several sisters and brothers, three daughters and two sons, three granddaughters and three grandsons, some of whom are still in France and others in South America. Mr. Burguignon was a native of Alsace-Lorraine, France, and came to America many years ago. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

LILJA—Herman Lilja, 26 years old, died yesterday noon at the home of his mother, Mrs. Augusta Lilja, 16 East Tenth street. He had been ill for two weeks with typhoid fever, which was the cause of death. Two brothers, Hugh and Rudolph, and two sisters, Mrs. H. E. Walker and Miss Ethel Lilja survive him besides his mother. The funeral arrangements will not be made until tomorrow.

TOWNER—Mrs. Mary Towner, 83 years old, for twenty-two years a resident of West Duluth, died yesterday morning at the home of her son, Charles Towner, 128 North Sixty-fifth avenue west, after having been confined to her bed for the past three years. The deceased had been suffering from rheumatism for the past fifty-four years. Mrs. Towner leaves three sons and two daughters

AKEY—Mrs. Frederick Akey, formerly Miss Ruth Janisch, died yesterday at her home at Spooner, Wis. Mrs. Akey was a graduate of St. Luke's hospital and practiced her profession in Duluth for a number of years. She left Duluth about three years ago. Pneumonia was the cause of death.

MATTSON—Victor Mattson, 37 years old, died yesterday at his home at Midway, after an illness of several years from tuberculosis. He leaves a widow and four children, ranging in age from one year to 13. They are Ernest, Nester, Elsie and Carl. Mr. Mattson lived at 517 North Fifty-second avenue west up to a year ago, having lived in this end of the city for the past ten years. The body has been taken to the Richter undertaking rooms. The funeral arrangements will be made sometime this afternoon.

STOICH—Mike Stoich, 21 years old, of 5620 Raleigh street, died Saturday evening at the tuberculosis hospital after an illness of six months. The funeral was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Filiatrault undertaking rooms, 5415 Ramsey street. Interment was in Oneota cemetery.

JOHNSON—The funeral of George Johnson, 48 years old, who died Friday evening at his home, 125 South Sixty-sixth avenue west, after a short illness, was held at 1 o'clock this afternoon from the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms and at 2 o'clock from the First Swedish Lutheran church, Sixth avenue east and Third street. Rev. J. A. Krantz of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church preached in English and Rev. C. O. Swan in Swedish. Interment was in the Lutheran cemetery.

FRIDAY WILL BE FLAG DAY

Anniversary of the Adoption of the Stars and Stripes.

Special Exercises Will Be Held in the Public Schools.

Next Friday will be Flag day. It will be the one hundred and thirty-fifth anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the flag of the nation, the official act having taken place on June 14, 1777.

The American Flag association, formed fifteen years ago, has sent circularly to national, state and civic officers requesting that immediate action be taken to have the day properly celebrated, and this morning Mayor McCuen received such a notice. It is likely that he will issue a proclamation asking that on that day flags be displayed on all public buildings and on as many business buildings and residences as possible.

It is also quite likely that the public schools will have appropriate programs in celebration of the anniversary of the adoption of the flag. Aside from these methods of celebration it is not usual for public observance of the day to take place. For the school exercises the association which has created the day and aims to perpetuate it has a ritual which the school children are expected to repeat, in which they pledge fealty to the flag and to the nation. The object sought by the school observation of flag day in the schools is to create in the hearts of the young a reverence for the national emblem and a love of country and to inspire in them a proper spirit of patriotism.

VILLAGES DESTROYED BY ALASKA VOLCANO?

Seward, Alaska, June 10.—Passengers on the mail steamer Dora, arrived from the westward after passing through a hail of ashes from Katmai volcano, believe several small fishing villages on the shores of Shelikof strait have been destroyed by the eruption. The revenue cutter service at Unalaska has been asked to send assistance.

The Dora steamed into the harbor with a white covering of ashes, giving her the appearance of a phantom ship. Those on the steamer were nearly suffocated by poisonous gases as she passed through the falling ashes.

The Dora was in sight of the Katmai when the eruption began and those on the vessel witnessed a brilliant spectacle.

Sale of School and Other State Lands

STATE OF MINNESOTA, STATE AUDitors office, St. Paul, June 1, 1912.

Notice is hereby given, That on July 17, 1912, at 10 o'clock A. M., in the office of the County Auditor, at Duluth, St. Louis County, in the State of Minnesota, I will offer for sale certain unsold state lands, and also those state lands which have reverted to the state by reason of the non-payment of interest.

Terms: Fifteen per cent of the purchase price and interest on the unpaid balance from date of sale to June 1, 1913, must be paid at the time of sale. The balance of purchase money is payable in whole or in part on or before forty years from date of sale. The rate of interest on the unpaid balance is four per cent per annum, payable in advance on June 1st of each year, provided the principal remains unpaid for ten years; but if the principal is paid within ten years from the date of sale, the rate of interest will be computed at five per cent per annum.

Appraised value of timber, if any, must also be paid at time of sale.

Lands on which the interest is delinquent may be redeemed at any time up to the hour of sale, or before resale to an actual purchaser.

All mineral rights are reserved by the laws of the state.

Not more than 320 acres can be sold or contracted to be sold to any one purchaser. Agents acting for purchasers must furnish affidavits of authority. Appraisers' reports, showing quality and kind of soil, are on file in this office.

Lists of lands to be offered may be obtained of the State Auditor or the State Commissioner of Immigration at St. Paul, and of the County Auditor at above address.

SAMUEL G. IVERSON,
State Auditor.

DROUTH AT LAST BROKEN

Wheat Takes Another Slump at Tidings of Southwest Rains.

July Flaxseed Makes a Sudden and Unexpected Downward Move.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 10.—Rains through Kansas and Nebraska have at last broken the drouth completely and more rains in both states are forecasted for tomorrow. Such news as this could not fail to put wheat down on the North American markets today, although the long spell of hot dry weather in the Southwest has done a vast amount of damage that no good weather can repair. Duluth July wheat today closed at a decline of 1c. Cash wheat closed 1c over July. Durum was 1½c off and oats ¼c off. Rye and barley were unchanged. Duluth July flax closed 8½c lower and September took a drop of 4c.

Wheat on the markets of North America sagged during the morning by reason of full reports of the relief of drouth in the Southwest. Although the hope of a bumper wheat crop in that section is gone, the rains came in time to save the bulk of the crop. The downward movement was checked to some extent by reports of a large decrease in the visible supply of wheat in America during the last week, and smaller primary receipts than those of a year ago.

Duluth July wheat, which closed Saturday at $1.14⅜ asked, opened today at $1.14 asked, and at noon was quoted at $1.13⅜ asked. Chicago and Minneapolis wheat were also lower, but Winnipeg was a little higher, being influenced by the bullish news from Liverpool, where wheat closed ⅛ to ¼d higher. The Liverpool market was bulled by the expectation of a decrease in the amount of wheat on passage to the United Kingdom, a strong opening in Paris and firmer Plata and Manitoba offers for the good grades.

July Flax On a Toboggan.

Something caused July flax to take a tremendous slump this morning. Some of the brokers say it was because the interests that had been holding it up had too much flaxseed on their hands and were trying to dispose of some of it. The opinion that the move was due to manipulation, or, perhaps withdrawal of manipulation, seemed to be shared by many of the brokers. Whatever caused it, July flaxseed on the Duluth market at noon was down 8½ cents. This seemed to pull down the Winnipeg July option, for at noon that was 7 cents off at $2.06. There were 15 cars on the track at Duluth for inspection. Buenos Ayres July closed Saturday ¼c off at $1.83¾ and London June and July today was unchanged at $2.33⅜.

FLAXSEED.

Flaxseed developments on the Duluth market during the week ending last Saturday were such as seemed to bear out the prophecy of E. H. Smith to the effect that the July option would make a spectacular rise, much the same as the May option did. Every day of last week, without exception, closed with more or less of a gain on the part of the July option at Duluth, and for the whole week the option showed a gain of 12½ cents. At the same time the July option on the Winnipeg market gained 13 cents. At the close on Saturday the two markets were 28½ cents apart, taking the July option on each market.

That is a margin that might justify bringing No. 1 Northwestern seed upon the Duluth market for sale there, duty-paid, but the main trouble with such a deal is that one who buys No. 1 Northwestern on the Winnipeg market is liable to get an inferior grade substituted for it at a discount in price, under the rules of that board, and the inferior grade would be of no value in making delivery on an option in the Duluth market, for on this market under the rules the holder of the option can refuse anything but No. 1 seed. No. 1 Manitoba, unmixed with any heavier seed, is too light to grade as No. 1 on this side of the international line. No. 1 Northwestern is considerably heavier.

During the same week flaxseed on the Buenos Ayres market made a gain of 4½ cents, but the London flaxseed market showed neither a gain nor a loss. On the whole the week was decidedly bullish in flaxseed over the world at large. There is no doubt at all that the demand for the seed has been greater by far than the supply. Crushers say sales are good, but not what they might be if the high price of flaxseed did not compel them to put the price of oil so high.

Minneapolis has been buying up seed very briskly. Crushers there are by no means confining their purchases to the best grade, but are purchasing almost any grade that comes along. On the Duluth market the demand is no longer confined to the No. 1 seed, to be used in making delivery on options. To be sure, the demand for No. 1 is the strongest and that grade is particularly scarce, but there is a good buying demand for nearly all grades that can be used at all in making oil. Flaxseed is being shipped at Duluth not only by water to the Eastern markets, but by rail to Minneapolis.

As the tables below show, the receipts have fallen off enormously at Duluth, while the shipments have made a big increase. This is true of both domestic and bonded flaxseed and the supplies on hand of both are rapidly nearing the zero point. Since the opening of navigation, the receipts of bonded flaxseed on the Duluth market have amounted to little, and the domestic receipts are now fast falling into insignificance. The situation is decidedly bullish.

MARKET GOSSIP

A man just home from Hayes City, Kan., after going 300 miles through the big wheat belt, says Kansas has suffered a heavy loss. There were fine rains all over the state, but he would not put Kansas over 77,000,000 bu under any conditions.

A Chicago broker wires: "As I look at the wheat just now the rains southwest will probably insure whatever promise that section has, but with all that, chances of a bumper crop are gone. Traders will be inclined to wait for cash business developments in spring wheat for the next impulse."

Ryecroft wired from Chicago: "Mr. Snow tells me that during the past week he has been getting complaints that meadows are not doing as well as expected and that in spite of good weather grass is not growing as it should, and that this with the loss of clover acreage from killing will give a smaller hay crop than has been expected."

H. F. Salyards, manager of the grain commission firm of Ely, Salyards & Co., having just returned from a visit of several days to the Lake Traverse region of South Dakota and Minnesota, declared today that he had never seen that region show such magnificent grain prospects as now at any other time during the last ten years. "The grain there," he said, "is two or three weeks ahead of that of other parts of North and South Dakota. There have been no dust storms, such as farmers have complained of farther north. I traversed all through that country for three or four days, sometimes going by water and sometimes using an automobile. My main object was to get the grain movement from that section, now going largely to Minneapolis, diverted to Duluth. In this I had a great deal of success. Our firm has terminal facilities for handling the grain at Brown's Valley at the southern end of the lake. Brown's Valley and Lake Traverse are Duluth and Lake Superior in minature. Grain is collected at various points along the shore of Lake Traverse and sent by water to Brown's Valley, where it is shipped over the Great Northern. I see no good reason why the bulk of this grain should not go to Duluth for shipment over Lake Superior, instead of going to Minneapolis. This would be the movement, if freight rates were not so favorable to Minneapolis, and an adjustment is bound to take place in time."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Are Depressed Because of Big World Shipments.

Chicago, June 10. Hugh world shipments had a depressing influence today on the price of wheat. The forwarding reached a total much larger than had been expected. General rains in Nebraska and Kansas during the last two days acted against the bulls. Traders, however, seemed disposed to be cautious pending the government crop report. The opening was ⅛c to ⅜@½c lower. September started at $1.05⅝ to $1.05½, a drop of ⅛@¼c to ¼@⅜c and declined to $1.05¼.

A recovery followed owing to assertions that a few days longer without rain would make South Dakota another Kansas. The close was steady, ½c net lower with September at $1.05⅞@1.05¼.

Good weather gave the corn market a bearish tone. The fact that receipts here were liberal tended likewise to pull down quotations. July opened unchanged to ⅛c off at 74⅝c to 74¾c and sagged to 74¼@74⅜c.

The market failed to generate rallying power, Eastern demand being too sluggish. The close was weak with July ⅞@1c down, at 73¾@73⅞c.

Oats developed weakness in sympathy with other grain. Business, though, did not show much activity. July started a shade to ⅛@¼c down at 51½c to 51⅝c. Later there was a rally to 51⅞c.

Firmness at the yards gave strength to provisions. Pork led in the tendency to a higher level. Initial sales ranged from 2½c off to 12½c advance, with September delivery $19.05 to $19.10 for pork, $11.15 for lard and $10.62½ to $10.65 for ribs.

Cash Grain: Wheat—No. 2 red, $1.11½@1.12; No. 3 red, $1.09@1.11½; No. 2 hard, $1.10@1.11½; No. 3 hard, $1.09@1.10½; No. 1 northern, $1.15@1.19; No. 2 northern, $1.14@1.17; No. 3 northern, $1.11@1.16; No. 2 spring, $1.12@1.18; No. 3 spring, $1.09@1.16; No. 4 spring, $1.03@1.13; velvet chaff, $1.05@1.12; durum, $1.01@1.09.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Is Extremely Narrow on Expectation of Government Report.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 10.—Wheat market was extremely narrow on account of the announcement of the government report today. July closed ½c lower than Saturday; September ½@⅝c lower and December ½c lower. Local elevator stocks of wheat decreased 75,000 bu for the day.

Car lot wheat receipts follow: Minneapolis today, 186; week ago, 173; year ago, 294. Duluth today, 39; week ago, 27; year ago, 42. Winnipeg today, 255; week ago, 450; year ago, 135.

Cash wheat was in fair demand and the market was easier. Mills were not as keen buyers. No. 1 northern sold for 1⅜@2c above the July contract.

Millstuffs — Shipments, 2,395 tons. There was a slow demand for millstuffs at unchanged prices.

Wheat—July opened $1.12¾@1.12⅞; high, $1.12⅞; low, $1.12½@1.12⅝; closed $1.12⅝. September opened $1.05⅜; high, $1.05¾@1.05⅝; low, $1.04⅞@1.05; closed, $1.05. December opened $1.05¾; high, $1.05¾; low, $1.05½; closed, $1.05½.

Closing cash—No. 1 hard, $1.15½; No. 1 northern, $1.14⅜; to arrive, $1.15⅝; No. 2 northern, $1.13⅛; to arrive, $1.13⅜; No. 3 wheat, $1.10; No. 3 yellow corn, 72@73c; No. 3 white oats, 51½c; No. 2 rye, 83@83½c.

Bran in 100-lb sacks, $19.50@20.50.

Flour—The flour market remained dull and void of any special new feature. Demand was slow and prices unchanged. Shipping directions fairly active. Shipments, 43,052 bbl. First patents, $5.56@5.75; second patents, $5.20@5.45; first clears, $3.90@4.15; second clears, $2.80@3.10.

Flax—Receipts, 34 cars; year ago, 8; shipments, 1. Demand fair for flax today. Spot No. 1 seed sold for 3c under Duluth July. Closing price, $2.25.

Barley—Receipts, 21 cars; year ago, 15; shipments, 2. Barley unchanged to easier. Only fair demand at best prices a trifle lower. Closing range, 65c@$1.14.

New York Grain.

New York, June 10.—Close: Wheat—July, $1.14⅝; September, $1.10⅜.

New York Money.

New York, June 10.—Money on call steady, 2¾@3 per cent; ruling rate, 2¾; closing bids, 2½; offered at 2¾. Time loans steady; 60 days and 90 days 3 per cent; six months 3⅛@3¾ per cent. Close: Prime mercantile paper 3¾ to 4 per cent. Sterling exchange steady with actual business in bankers' bills at actual business in bankers' bills at $4.84.75 for 60 day bills, and at $4.87.20 for demand. Commercial bills, $4.84. Bar silver, 61⅛c; Mexican dollars, 48c. Government bonds easy; railroad bonds, irregular.

HEAVINESS IN STOCKS

Dull and Narrow Market and Movement Uncertain and Irregular.

Expectation of Decisions By Supreme Court Has Restraining Effect.

New York, June 10.—Extreme dullness prevailed at the opening of today's stock market. Changes in the active list were nominal, with a 2-point decline in American Snuff.

An increasing tendency toward reaction was shown in the first hour. The coalers manifested great heaviness, with a mixture of substantial gains and losses in the specialties.

Publication of steel tonnage figures with an increase of only 86,000 tons was followed by renewed heaviness in that stock and other leaders while trading in general again diminished.

An element of restraint in today's dull and narrow stock market lay in the possible announcement of some important decisions by the United States supreme court. There was heaviness in the anthracite issues and uncertainty of the movement elsewhere, various properties being directly concerned in cases now before the court. Steel hovered within a fraction of last week's close despite the belief that May tonnage figured to be issued later in the day would be quite favorable. Sugar shares added to recent gains with some reversal in Tobacco stocks. Among minor railways, Wabash issues were especially weak. Bonds were irregular.

The market closed irregular. Publication of the government crop report, showing further serious deterioration of winter wheat, caused marked weakness in St. Paul. Announcement that no anthracite decision would be rendered caused abrupt weakness in the coal shares.

Cotton Market.

New York, June 10.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of from 5 to 9 points in sympathy with the better tales than due and on covering by sellers late last week.

Trading was only moderately active at the advance and fluctuations were somewhat irregular during the first hour, but on the whole undertone was steady on the apprehensions of unsettled weather. The weather map showed generally clear conditions in the South over Sunday and private crop accounts were favorable.

Futures closed very steady; closing bids: June, 11.24; July, 11.34; August, 11.38; September, 11.47

WHY NOT SECURE A TRACT OF LAND AND PROVIDE A HOME?

It Is a Good Thing in Good Times and a Better Thing in Hard Times.

We have wild and improved lands for sale in tracts of 40 acres and upwards.

Prices low and terms of sale easy.

These lands are situated in the most desirable localities of Carlton and St. Louis counties, Minn., where settlement is going on rapidly.

Handy to railroads and ready markets, and well provided with church and school facilities.

A personal examination will convince the most skeptical that this land offers superior inducements to the homeseeker.

Come in and let us show you.

For prices and terms of sale apply to or address

HAZEN & PATTISON,
428-429 New Jersey Building,
Duluth, Minn.

FOR SALE—55 MILES NORTH OF Minneapolis, and about 110 Miles from Duluth, you can buy the richest kind of black muck bottom land (in tracts of 40 acres and upward) at an actually "dirt cheap" price. It has a depth of from three to five feet on a clay subsoil. If you are a judge of land values don't buy till you have seen this tract; great for celery, lettuce, onions and garden truck of all kinds. Splendid improved farms adjoin and good automobile roads connect with four different shipping points; small payment and ten years time on balance. Will take you there and back from Minneapolis by auto in a day. This is an investment worth while. Address W. B. McDonald, 1308 West Twenty-fourth street, Minneapolis, or call by long distance N. W. 'phone South 2812.

IMPROVED FARM,

Twenty miles from Superior, on railroad and best roadways; school, store, postoffice; cattle, horses, pigs, chickens, farm implements, etc.; good tenant.

BARROWS.

THE NEW MINING TOWN ON THE Cuyuna range, offers splendid opportunities for investment and for the establishment of business in various lines. This town is located in the richest part of the range, adjoining the Barrows mine, which will ship ore this season, and where a large force of men is now employed in putting down the third shaft, two being already completed. A number of other mines adjacent to the townsite will be opened up, making Barrows one of the greatest mining centers on the range. Streets are graded, cement sidewalks in, and buildings are going up rapidly. Lots are now offered at from $150 to $400 on the partial payment plan. Buy now while you can buy at the first offered price; get located in a live new town and prosper with the development of the country.

A few years ago lots that were sold in Hibbing, Virginia and Chisholm at the prices we are now asking are worth today several thousand dollars. For further information apply to

SENATORS LAUGH AT SPECIAL MESSAGE BY GOVERNOR EBERHART

Makes Caustic Reply to Request for List of Appointments.

Attacks Combine for Purpose of Defeating Legislative Reapportionment.

Calls It Clear Example of Willful Disregard of Public Duty.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

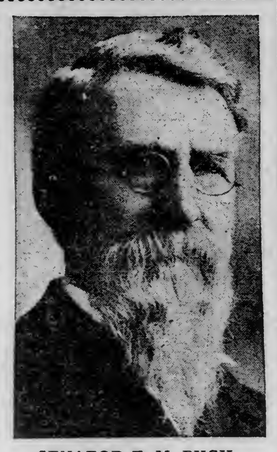

St. Paul, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Piqued by the pending resolution calling for his recess appointments, Governor Eberhart this morning sent a caustic special message to the senate. Its reading was greeted by hearty laughter in the senate, and no action was taken with it. The message follows:

"My attention has been called to a resolution pending before you calling on me to communicate to you all appointments to office made by me since the last session of the senate. Such appointments will be communicated to you at the proper time.

"The resolution in question can have but one purpose, and that is to divert the attention of the people from the issues in which the whole state is interested and for which this session has been specifically called. Reduced to its simplest terms, the resolution is merely an effort to occupy the valuable time of the senate in useless controversies over political patronage, rather than the consideration of the constitutional rights of the people, to the end that they may secure equal rep-

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Two Harbors, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth trade excursionsists are on their way.

Despite the dark skies and the downpour of rain here, enthusiasm is not dampened. Nearly 100 business men who believe in the future of Duluth and know it is the natural market of a large territory, which naturally includes the range, are anxious to tell Duluth's neighbors about it. They are starting out to make Duluth's greatness better appreciated, and they have sincere enthusiasm, good voices, tons of literature, a band and other media with which to fulfill their mission.

British Titanic Inquiry Shows Ownership of Big Steamship Combine.

Discovery of American Control Embarrassing to Shouters for Subsidies.

(By Willis J. Abbot.)

Washington, June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The revelations made in the British investigation of the Titanic disaster concerning the ownership of the vessels included in the International Mercantile Marine are important enough to be emphasized and to be firmly fixed in the minds of the American people.

Every year there goes up from certain interests in this country a bitter wail to the effect, first, that the American merchant marine is disappearing, second, that we pay to English ship owners every year hundreds of millions of dollars for freights and for passenger service. That the American flag is disappearing from the seas is indubitable. But just where these enormous sums paid out for freights and passenger service go has not yet been made clear. It appears by the testimony, however, in the British Board of Trade investigation into the Titanic disaster that the International Mer-

COURT'S RULE HITS DARROW

Widening of Scope of Evidence Broadens Field of State's Attack.

Cooney of Chicago Tells of Work Done for McNamara Defense.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 11.—Patrick Joseph Cooney of Chicago was expected to undergo a rigid cross-examination today at the hands of the attorneys for the defense in the trial of Clarence S. Darrow, the Chicago attorney accused of jury bribery.

The direct examination yesterday of Cooney was brief, and for this reason the impression was created that the prosecution would go more fully into his work as an agent for the McNamara defense upon redirect examination.

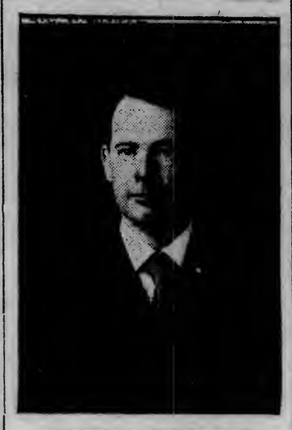

Hard Blow to Defense.

Members of the defense made no effort to disguise their depression as a result of a ruling by Judge Hutton yesterday, the effect of which would be to open the doors to all sorts of evidence which would tend to show that the defendant and his assistants in the McNamara defense had been guilty of wholesale corruption of witnesses as well as jurors, during the pendency of

Of Louisiana.

R. C. Wickliffe's Badly Mutilated Body Discovered at Washington.

Tragic Death Occurs While He Is Returning From Fishing Trip.

Passenger on Train Is First to Discover the Dead Man.

Washington, June 11.—Representative Robert C. Wickliffe of Louisiana met a tragic death here today. His badly crushed body was found on the railroad tracks in Potomac park, near the entrance to the bridge across the Potomac river. It is presumed he was either knocked off or fell from a train.

Mr. Wickliffe had been away for a day's fishing and was returning this morning when he was killed.

A passenger on a train crossing the bridge saw the lifeless body beside the tracks. Mr. Wickliffe's watch had stopped at 9:23 a. m. A number of passenger trains of various railroads cross the bridge at that hour.

Serving Second Term.

Mr. Wickliffe was serving his second term in congress. He was a Democrat, lived at St. Francisville, La., and represented the Sixth congressional district of the state. He was a lawyer and a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

He had a conspicuous position on the committee on agriculture and has been heard in debate. Mr. Wickliffe was 37 years old. He was reared at his father's home in the parish of West Feliciana. He was district attorney before he became a member of congress.

WATER POLLUTED BY ALASKA VOLCANO

Revenue Cutter Saves People From Suffering and Possible Death.

Kodiak, Alaska, June 9, via tug to Seward, June 11.—Kodiak and Woody Island villages are buried under a foot of ashes as a result of the eruption of Katmia volcano, which began Thursday afternoon and lasted forty-eight hours. No lives have been lost here, but many other settlements near the volcano must have suffered indescribably.

The revenue cutter Manning was in port here when the eruption began, and furnished refuge for all the inhabitants of the town, 500 men, women and children, doubtless saving many lives. The Manning is now serving distilled water and government rations to the destitute people, the water supply having been polluted and springs filled with ashes.

Is Serious Affair.

Washington, D. C., June 11.—The Alaskan volcano, in amount of precipitation and extent of territory covered, probably will rank among the biggest similar disturbances of modern times, according to private dispatches received here.

St. Paul, Wood Island and Kodiak are reported buried to a depth of a foot by ashes, sand and pumice stone. The poisonous gases in the atmosphere at one time bade fair to annihilate the entire populace by suffocation.

TO REGULATE RESERVOIRS

New Move Regarding Control of Reservoirs on Upper Mississippi.

Plan to Prevent Floods and Serve the Agricultural Interests.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative C. H. Warner of Aitkin introduced in the house this morning a resolution asking the Minnesota delegation in congress to change the regulations governing the government storage reservoirs on the upper Mississippi so as to give greater consideration to agricultural interests in Aitkin, Beltrami, Crow Wing, Cass and Itasca counties than was deemed necessary when the present regulations were made, more than twenty-three years ago.

The resolution is in substance as follows:

"Whereas, the United States reservoirs located in North Central Minnesota are controlled by regulations which provide that 'the surplus over the ordinary low water supply to the

SHAW GUILTY OF STEALING $19,000

Boston Woman Is Convicted of Receiving the Stolen Money.

Boston, Mass., June 11.—Arthur W. Shaw was found guilty of the larceny of about $19,000 from two Maine shoe manufacturing firms by a jury in the superior court today. A verdict of guilty of receiving the money was returned against Mrs. Georgia M. Stuart of this city. Sentence will be pronounced later.

Shaw was president and treasurer of the A. W. Shaw Boot & Shoe corporation of Boston and Freeport, Me., and was also connected with the Cumberland Boot & Shoe company of Freeport. Last winter he disappeared and receivers were appointed for the Shaw corporation. He was arrested in Los Angeles, Cal.

Sacramento, Cal., June 11.—Responding to urgent telegrams from Chicago and Washington, Governor Johnson is racing eastward, his [illegible]ance being desired in Chicago not later than next Wednesday, the day the contest over the California delegation will be taken up by the national Republican committee. Governor Johnson left after an exchange of telegrams with Senator Dixon, Roosevelt's manager, going in advance of the special train which will carry the Roosevelt delegation.

MORE FLOODS ON THE MISSISSIPPI

Water From Hymelia Crevasse Again Menaces Big Louisiana District.

New Orleans, La., June 11.—Water from the great Hymelia crevasse, the worst of the Mississippi river floods, again is menacing lives of inhabitants of the Des Allemands section of Louisiana. In answer to appeals from army officers engaged in relief work, a special train was hurried to the Des Allemands section late yesterday, refugees taken out of the danger zone and food supplies distributed.

Water is four feet deep over the greater part of the La Fourche section and is going higher. Supplies also are being sent there.

Since government engineers gave up the attempt to close the Hymelia break, the breach constantly has widened and flood water has daily extended into country not before damaged. Although the river gauge is more than four feet below that at the crest of the flood the mile-wide breach furnishes plenty of opportunity for water to cover a large area. The only chance of the flood water getting back to the regular channel seems to be for the river to fall below the level of this low country.

C. B. MILLER TO BE IN THE BOX

Will Pitch for Republicans in Annual Game With Democrats.

(From The Herald Washington Bureau.)

Washington, June 11.—Representative Clarence B. Miller of Duluth is preparing to duplicate the marvelous baseball feats of his university career. Mr. Miller is one of the members of the house Republican team which will do battle with a team of Democrats on the diamond here next Saturday in aid of a local charity.

"My arm is a little stiff because I haven't played for a long time," said Miller, "but I believe I can get it in shape by Saturday to show these Democrats something in the way of fine ball playing."

New York, June 11.—Chairman Mack and Secretary Woodson of the Democratic national committee announced today they would leave New York for Baltimore to prepare for the Democratic national convention tomorrow afternoon.

TWO ALABAMANS FOR ROOSEVELT

Say They Will Vote for Him in Spite of Taft Instructions.

Mobile, Ala., June 11.—"I'm going to vote for Roosevelt if they chop my head off," declared Postmaster Byron Trammell of Dothan, a member of the Alabama Republican delegation.

He is one of the two delegates to the Chicago convention from this state who say they will vote for Roosevelt. The other is Postmaster J. B. Daughtry of Geneva, both being from the Third district.

Trammell says that Roosevelt announced he would be a candidate after the delegates from the Third district were elected, and that his entrance into the race changed the entire political complexion. Under such circumstances, he says, he has a right to support the colonel if he chooses to do so, notwithstanding he is listed as a Taft delegate.

INCOME TAX AMENDMENT RATIFIED BY LEGISLATURE

Gross Earnings Tax Bill Approved By the Senate Committee.

State-Wide Primary Bill Before Senate as a Special Order.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—By a vote of 49 to 5, the senate this morning adopted the joint resolution ratifying the income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution. This completes Minnesota's action on the two pending amendments so far as the legislature is concerned. The resolution was reported this morning by the senate committee on the reception of bills.

Senator S. D. Works of Mankato moved that it be indefinitely postponed. He said there was not much use in referring again to the gentlemen's agreement entered into prior to the session, but he opposed the resolution on the ground that the right to tax incomes should be reserved to the states. His motion was lost, however.

AREN'T MEN THE WRETCHES?

TAFT KENTUCKIANS GIVEN THE SEATS AT CHICAGO

Vote on Them in Republican National Committee Is 38 to 11.

Night Sessions May Have to Be Held—Standing of Candidates.

Chicago, June 11.—The Kentucky contests involving the delegates-at-large were decided in favor of the Taft men by the Republican national committee after a hearing that lasted all the morning session. They were seated by a vote of 38 to 11.

It was agreed the contests in the First, Second and Fourth districts (two delegates each) be submitted and decided on the same arguments as in the case of the delegation at large.

Those in the First and Second were seated by votes of 40 to 0, and the Fourth district contest was withdrawn, seating the Taft men.

Ormsby McHarg made the opening statement for the Roosevelt forces, and Judge O'Rear of Frankfort, one of the two Roosevelt contestants for delegates-at-large, made the argument.

The Taft delegates-at-large seated by the committee are: Senator W. O. Bradley, James Breathitt, W. D. Cochran and J. E. Wood. Only two of the seats at large were contested, the unseated Roosevelt delegates being Ed C. O'Rear and Leslie Combs.

May Hold Night Sessions.

UNLIMBER BIG GUNS

Taft and Roosevelt Factions Joined By Leaders at Chicago.

Borah Flatly Refuses to Be Considered for Vice Presidency.

Chicago, June 11.—William Barnes, Jr., chairman of the New York Republican state central committee and delegate-at-large to the national convention, arrived today and immediately went into conference with Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts, Senator Newell Sanders of Tennessee, Lafayette B. Gleason of New York and other leaders of the Taft forces.

Mr. Barnes is looked upon the probable Taft floor leader in the convention, and there is said to be likelihood that he will take part in the deliberations of the national committee on the contested delegates. He declared that his principal business at this time was to aid in the confirmation of of Senator Elihu Root of New York as temporary chairman of the Republican national convention.

"Practically all of the ninety New York delegates will vote for Senator Root," said Mr. Barnes, "and I have no doubt that he will be elected."

Mr. Barnes took possession of a suite on the floor below the national Taft headquarters.

Hadley on Hand.

Governor Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri arrived this morning. He is to argue the Missouri contests before the national committee.

Should the Roosevelt forces control the national convention he is believed to be their choice for temporary chairman, and the position of floor leader for the Roosevelt men may be accorded him.

There was discussion of possible candidates for the vice presidential nomination, and Senator William E. Borah

HOT WEATHER IS WANTED

Late Summer Is Affecting Many Lines of Business.

Vacation Travel Not Yet Begun—No Demand for Summer Apparel.

Scorching hot weather is being prayed for by people in a number of different lines of business.

Railroad men say that women will not travel or begin to think of summer vacations until they have begun to feel the heat in the kitchens.

"It's got to be positively hot before they will think of getting the children out on the beach of some far away lake. The heat and dust of the city are what makes them long to visit mother on the farm or Aunt Kate at some summer place," said C. A. Asterlin, district passenger agent for the Nickel Plate road.

Agents for boat lines want hot, dry weather for lake travel. "We can't hope for any amount of business until the weather becomes sultry," said one of them this morning. "Of course, spring has been late all over the country and business has been held up and we are no more unfortunate at the Head of the Lakes than they are in other cities east, west and south."

The stores want warm weather to stimulate a demand for straw hats and summer wearing apparel.

People generally are not using a great deal of ice and ice companies claim that they are not doing the business they should.

Shoe stores say they cannot sell low shoes until the weather is hot and ice cream signs are no inducement to people these days, drug store owners say.

That is why many people want hot weather. Others want it just because they like it.

TWO PIONEERS OF CLOQUET CALLED

B. J. Summerfield, Long Time Merchant, and Joseph Claveau Pass.

Cloquet, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—B. J. Summerfield dropped dead at his home on Chestnut street this morning at 7:15 from heart failure. He was ill Monday, but remained down town nearly all day and there was no warning of impending death. His sudden call is the greatest shock to the community in years. He had been in the clothing business here twenty-eight years and was one of the most prominent citizens and respected by all. Mr. Summerfield was a refugee from Russian persecution and came to Duluth and then to Cloquet when a young man and fought his way to the top in the business world. He leaves a wife and seven children. Fannie, well known in the Twin Cities; Emanuel, Ned, William, Gertrude, Stell and Leonard; two brothers, Ike Summerfiald of Bennon & Co., St. Paul, and Alex Summerfield of Cloquet. The remains will be shipped to the parents home in Duluth this afternoon and the funeral will be from the Jewish synagogue.

Saloonkeeper Dies.

Joseph Claveau, 57 years old, died this morning of Bright's disease. He had been in the saloon business here for twenty-eight years and was one of the pioneer residents. He leaves a wife and eight children, Mrs. Fred Ostlund, Blanche, Loyd, Fred, Frances, Albertina, Wesley and Corrine Claveau. The funeral will be held Thursday morning from the Catholic church. He leaves a brother, Louis Claveau, of Minneapolis and Mrs. John Paquette of St. Paul.

SOO CONDUCTORS ARE BEING TRIED

Alleged to Have Carried Passengers in North Dakota at Reduced Rate.

Fargo, N. D., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Soo Conductors Ryan and Tripp were placed on trial in the United States court this afternoon charged with conspiracy to defraud the Soo road in the way of fares between Portal and the Twin Cities. The arrests were made several months ago, but "spotters" had been on the case for weeks prior to that. It is asserted that through the assistance of residents of Portal and North Portal the conductors carried passengers without tickets and at greatly reduced fares. The charges created a sensation when first made. It was announced this morning that as soon as a jury was secured Messrs. Moland and Briggs of Harvey would be the first two witnesses. It is charged they were carried by the conductors. There are a large number of witnesses to testify.

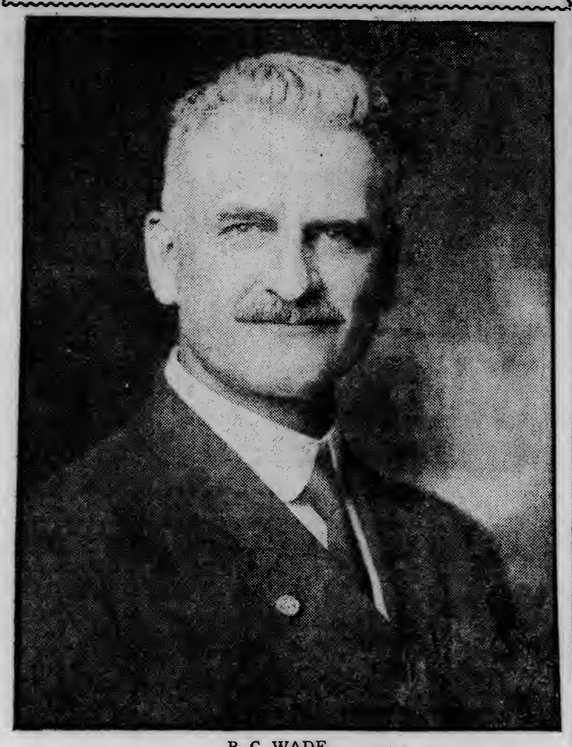

The jury acquitted Dr. W. F. Swank of Miles City Monday of the charge of perjury in connection with a former United States court case. Swank is a veterinarian at Miles City and his former testimony was in connection with some horse shipments.

Though still engaged in his labors in Colorado, Mr. Wade has recently been engaged in some special work at Des Moines, Iowa.

The new secretary will take up his duties here on the first day of July, and will come to the Head of the Lakes with the highest recommendations.

IT WORKS IN FLOUR CITY

Manager of Minneapolis Loan Association Tells of Plan Used There.

Says Duluth Should Organize and Support a Similar Association.

R. C. Glidden, manager of the Equitable Loan Association of Minneapolis in a letter to The Herald says that he sees no reason why Duluth should not organize and support a remedial loan association, such as now is in existence in the Minnesota metropolis. He considers it to be the only effective way to cope with the loan shark evil.

The Minneapolis Remedial Loan Society was organized in 1910 under the general law to do a general loaning business in competition with the various loan shark companies of Minneapolis.

Regarding the plan of operation, Mr. Glidden says:

"Up to the present time we have secured all loans by mortgage on household goods and pianos. Loans ranging in amounts from $25 to $300 are made. The interest charged is 10 per cent per annum and a fixed flat fee of $3.70 for making the loan. This charge takes care of making appraisal, drawing papers, car fares, acknowledgements, filing and satisfying mortgages.

"All loans are made for a period of six months, and under the terms of the note, the borrower agrees to return the loan by monthly installments with interest; the interest to be computed only on the remaining balance of the loan.

"The capitalization of the corporation is $100,000, half of which is paid in and is standing out in loans at an average of about $78 each. In 1911, 1,023 loans were made and this year that number will be greatly increased and will continue to increase every year as we become better known."

Minnesota Laws.

Under the Minnesota law regarding loans, according to Assistant County Attorney Warren E. Greene, who is interested to see a remedial loan society organized here, an interest charge not to exceed 10 per cent is allowed. An additional fee which must be reasonable, may also be charged. No graduated tax has been fixed by law. Whether or not the fee would constitute usury would depend entirely on what in a given case the courts might determine as reasonable or unreasonable.

Courtenay Dinwiddie, secretary of the Associated Charities, an organization which is much interested in the forming of a remedial loan society in Duluth, will leave this evening for Cleveland, where he will attend the third annual convention of the National Federation of Remedial Loan associations of the Country.

The national federation is comprised of twenty-five loan societies of which the Equitable Loan Association of Minneapolis, and one which has recently been organized in St. Paul, are Minnesota members. At the annual meeting several interesting addresses on the loan shark problem and the remedial loan situation will be given. Mr. Dinwiddie, on his return from Cleveland, expects to be able to place in the hands of the remedial loan committee of the Associated Charities considerable interesting data relative to the operation of the various societies in the larger cities.

Among the speakers at the Cleveland meeting will be: A. H. Ham, a recognized authority on remedial loan associations in this country; H. A. Cone of Detroit; Hugh Cavanaugh of Cincinnati; J. T. Exnicios of District of Columbia, and A. D. Baldwin of Cleveland. The sessions will be held on June 13 and 14 in the Masonic temple building.

The officers of the federation are: W. N. Finey, Baltimore, chairman; J. T. Exnicos, Washington, secretary; A. H. Ham, Frank Tucker and Charles F. Bigelow, membership committee.

McKinley Charges Bad Faith in Accusations of Fraud.

Cites Unanimous Votes in National Committee as Proof.

Chicago, June 11.—Congressman William B. McKinley, manager of the Taft bureau, has issued the following statement:

"By the unanimous vote of the Republican national committee, including the votes of such well known supporters of Theodore Roosevelt as Senator W. E. Borah of Idaho, Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota, George A. Knight of California, Col. Cecil Lyon of Texas, William L. Ward of New York, Pearl Wight of Louisiana and others, the Taft delegates-at-large from Indiana were ordered seated in the coming convention over the Roosevelt delegates-at-large, who contested their rights to the seats.

"Following the action of the Indiana Republican state convention in selecting the Taft delegates, who now are seated by the unanimous vote of the Republican national committee, Theodore Roosevelt in a speech at the Auditorium in Chicago March 27, said:

"'As I have said, such a primary contest (New York) is not merely a farce, but a criminal farce. What was done in New York is substantially what was done in Indiana. Against all the money, all the patronage, all the efforts of the Realing machine, with nothing but the plain people of the state to rely upon, we carried the state convention handsomely, and then by fraudulent action, which can be called brutal in its utter defiance of decency, nearly 200 delegates were thrown out and the will of the people reversed.'

Oyster Bay Statement.

"May 5 in a written statement issued at Oyster Bay in reply to President Taft's speech in Baltimore, Roosevelt further said:

"'In Kentucky, Indiana and in New York city and elsewhere, Mr. Taft knows well that the delegates elected for him represent bare-faced frauds. He stands guilty of approving and encouraging fraud. He deprives all people of their right to express their will as to who shall be nominated.

"'In all these primaries and conventions I have stood for absolute honesty and fair play. Mr. Taft has stood for crooked misrepresentations of the whole people.'

"This is a most apt illustration of the unbridled manner in which Mr. Roosevelt, throughout this entire campaign, has assailed the Republican party, its principles, its president, and its leaders everywhere.

Charges Bad Faith.

"If Mr. Roosevelt does not have his way he denounces everything and everybody in sight, regardless of the merit of his cause and in defiance of all square dealing. In this particular case, his decision as to the Indiana contests has been repudiated by the unanimous vote of the Republican national committee. The absolute bad faith of Mr. Roosevelt in bringing contests such as these before the Republican national committee, is again emphasized by unanimous decision against him."

IN POLICE COURT

William Brophy of 1806 London road, giving his occupation as that of locomotive engineer, was arrested yesterday afternoon at the instance of T. J. Storey, deputy game warden, charged with two counts of selling brook trout and one count of having taken trout under the length required by law. Brophy pleaded guilty to the first two counts, when arraigned in police court, but denied the third. He was sent up for sixty days without the alternative of a fine. It is claimed that Brophy is a professional poacher and has been carrying on for years the practice of selling to hotels and restaurants, game and fish which cannot legally be sold. An effort is being made to gather into the legal net some of his patrons.

Mrs. Mary Brustad was arrested yesterday afternoon for maintaining and using a house in a public street, to-wit, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Main street. The case was continued until June 26 to give Mrs. Brustad an opportunity to have the house moved, as she told the judge that she was already making arrangements to have this done.

Hoffman Smith, bartender at 517 West Michigan street, who was arrested some days ago for beating Carl Reenkaug, was fined $15 and costs late yesterday afternoon in police court. He said that Reenkaug started trouble in the saloon and while being put out was roughly handled. The court could not see that an effort to secure peace necessitated that the belligerent be pounded as badly as was Reenkaug, and told Smith that a jail sentence without alternative of a fine was what he should have, but as it was his first offense a fine would be imposed. Smith paid it.

reservoirs and so much of said low water volume as may not be immediately needed for any purpose below any dam, shall be stored until the limit of capacity or safety of the reservoir is reached, or until the water is needed for navigation upon the streams below the dam; and

"Whereas, the foregoing regulation was promulgated by the secretary of war more than twenty-three years ago, when that portion of the upper Mississippi valley in which the reservoirs are located was given over to the hunter, trapper, lumberman and Indian and when there was but little agricultural deelopment; and

"Whereas, in the great counties of Aitkin, Beltrami, Crow Wing, Cass and Itasca agriculture is today the principal industry and is to continue to grow in importance as the rich agricultural lands are subdued and placed under cultivation; and

"Whereas, the holding of water in the government reservoirs 'until the limit or capacity is reached, or until water is needed for navigation,' does not permit the running off of water, unless needed for navigation, does not contemplate the reservoirs serving the agricultural interests to any extent, and in a period of several wet seasons would mean that the reservoirs would be stored to the limit of their capacity practically all the time, and powerless to serve the agricultural interests on the stream below or to prevent floods; and

"Whereas, we believe that the agrisultural interests in the counties named are of such magnitude and growing importance as to demand recognition in the management and regulation of the reservoirs; therefore,

"Be it Resolved, By the house of representatives, that the members of congress from Minnesota be and they are hereby earnestly requested and urged to secure a change in the regulation of the government reservoirs that will permit and provide for at least 25 per cent of their storage capacity being reserved to prevent floods and to serve the agricultural interests along the river."

This is a matter of great importance to the settlement of the counties named that has been agitated for some time, so far without resulting in tangible relief.

Department of Conservation.

Practically all hope that an initial step toward the creation of the department of conservation and state development that is needed in this state will be made at this session disappeared yesterday afternoon when the house committee on general legislation refused to adopt and introduce as a committee bill the measure proposed by Representatives C. H. Warner of Aitkin and Thomas Kneeland of Minneapolis providing for the submission of a constitutional amendment taking the sale of state lands out of the hands of the state auditor's office.

This step must be taken before a new department can be created. It was the hope of the authors of the bill that it would be possible to get this amendment proposed at the extra session, in order that the people might vote on it this fall.

However, the committee was opposed, apparently, to opening the door to miscellaneous legislation outside the house program, so it refused to take up the Warner-Kneeland bill. No further attempt will be made at this session, in all probability, along this line.

Had this measure received approval, it was planned to present a joint resolution providing for a committee to investigate and report a scheme for consolidating the various bureaus and departments relating to the various branches of government activities that have kinship to the general proposition of making the most of the state's resources. All work of this sort will now go over to the regular session.

There was no particular objection to the plan, in the committee or elsewhere; but the action of the committee indicates a fixed determination to confine the session to the house program and to get home as soon as possible—a thing that is never far present from the mind of any member here.

Reapportionment Bill.

The reapportionment bill was introduced at yesterday afternoon's session of the house by Representative Cleon T. Knapp of Chisholm, and was referred to the house reapportionment cimmittee. Speaker H. H. Dunn, in the temporary absence of Representative Congdon, appointed Mr. Knapp as chairman of the committee. Immediately after the session Mr. Knapp called a meeting of the committee at which it was decided to refer the bill to a sub-committee of nine, one from each congressional district, to be appointed by the chairman. This committee is to receive and consider any changes in the bill as it stands that may be suggested. The bill as introduced was precisely as it has been described heretofore in these columns. It is not effective until May 1, 1913, which allows the senators to hold their places for the remainder of the four-year terms for which they were elected. It redistricts St. Louis county so as to eliminate the "shoestring" effects to which objection was made because they hooked up the iron ranges with Duluth, and it divides Winona county's two representatives between two specific districts, one from the city of Winona and one at large, instead of having both representatives elected at large as in the 1911 bill. Otherwise it is exactly the same as the Congdon bill of last year.

A. V. Vnderson of Goodhune county, Prohibitionist, proposed a new reapportionment scheme to the house yesterday afternoon in the form of a proposed constitutional amendment providing that legislative apportionment should be based on the registered votes instead of on population. It also included the "seven senators" provision, which is that no county, no matter how large is population, should have more than seven senators.

The bill didn't last long. When it came before the reapportionment committee it was voted unanimously to recommend that it be indefinitely postponed.

"Second Choice" Explained.

J. E. McConnell of La Crosse, a member of the assembly of the Wisconsin legislature, gave an intesting address before a joint informal session of both houses late yesterday afternoon, in which he illuminated the "second choice" provision and dispelled most of the clouds thrown about it by those who are trying to beat this primary election innovation. Mr. McConnell is the author of the second choice provision in the Wisconsin law.

He showed that the object of the second choice provision is to prevent minority nominations and to prevent the will of a progressive majority of a party from being defeated by division between several candidates.

He made it easy to understand when he pointed out that the straight primary election without the second choice provision is like a convention which would take one ballot and adjourn, giving the nomination to the man who got the most votes without winnowing out the candidates until some one candidate received a majority. He said that there is nothing complicated or intricate about it, as many opponents assert, and he declared that it is by no means beyond the understanding of those with intelligence even less than the average voter possesses.

The house yesterday afternoon adopted a resolution asking W. J. Bryan to address it during his forthcoming visit to St. Paul, and Speaker Dunn appointed a committee to invite him consisting of Representatives Pfaender, Mattson, Farley, Robinson, Lydiard, Orr, Minette, Ribenack and Diessner.

First Measure Through.

When the passage by the senate of the resolution ratifying the amendment providing for the direct election of United States senators was reported yesterday afternoon to the house, which had already passed it, the announcement was greeted with applause. This is the first measure that has passed both branches of the legislature.

Representative Kunze's resolution to provide a clerk and a stenographer for the committee which is to investigate the charge of extravagance in the purchase of legislative supplies for the regular session was referred yesterday afternoon to the committee on legislative expenses, on motion of Representative Clinton Robinson. Those who are anxious about the investigation opposed the motion, but it was adopted, 40 to 38.

The state-wide primary and corrupt practices bills will be returned to the house by the elections committee tomorrow. Action on both these measures is expected in both houses by Friday, though differences between the two houses may postpone final action a day or two.

The senate committee on the reception of bills voted yesterday afternoon to recommend for passage the house bill ratifying the income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution. The gross earnings tax bill was laid over to this morning.

CROOKSTON HAS LIGHT CALENDER

Few Cases to Be Tried at Present Term of District Court.

Crookston, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—With one of the lightest calendars in many years to be disposed of the petit jury for the June term of the district court assembled yesterday, but no cases were tried, as a settlement was effected in the three civil cases set, and indications point to the calendar melting away in other places, making the term the shortest on record. There are no big civil cases. The grand jury furnished only six indictments, blind-pig cases, as follows: Simon Eliason and Mrs. Hulda L. Otnes of Lengby, selling liquor without a license. Their plan was to sell dance tickets for $1 each and the alcohol went free. After having been warned to desist by County Attorney Hagen, who had been notified of the practice, the two gave a big 17th of May party, where they did a land office business. H. L. Gaylord, merchant, and his clerk, Nels Lovick, of Fertile, selling liquor without a license and selling indiscriminately. John Higborg and Anton Nelson, Dugdale, blind-pigging and selling to minors.

All have been released on bonds and will probably face trial next week. County Attorney Hagen will push all cases and will demand jail sentences, as he believes further leniency should not be shown in such cases, though in these instances all are accused for the first offense.

UNWRITTEN LAW MAY BE INVOKED

By Charles Swanland Held for Killing Arvid Vidstrom Near Kelliher.

Bemidji, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Swanland, held for the murder of Arvid Vidstrom near Kelliher on May 13, waived examination before Court Commissioner Crowe yesterday and was remanded to the county jail, awaiting the action of the September grand jury. P. J. Russell has been retained by Swanland, and it is understood that his defense will be the unwritten law.

TWENTY-SIX NEW LAWYERS ADMITTED

Justice Bruce of North Dakota Swears in New Attorneys.

Grand Forks, N. D.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twenty-six men passed the North Dakota state bar examination and were sworn in yesterday before Justice A. A. Bruce of the supreme court, former dean of the university college of law. This is the first University of North Dakota law class that has graduated under the new three-year law course and only one member failed.

The twenty-six lawyers follow: E. A. McFarland, Bisbee; M. W. Flasted, Ekalaka, Mont.; George Shafer, Shafer; J. A. Jorgenson, Grand Forks; W. E. Quigley, East Grand Forks, Minn.; H. A. Mackoff, Grand Forks; Leigh J. Monson, Fargo; V. W. Campbell, Hamilton; Theodore Torgeson, Hendrum, Minn.; Benjamin M. Rigler, New Salem; Albert Wold, Cummings; A. L. Aylmer, Jamestown; H. W. Olson, Bowman; Theodore Sweinseld, Petersburg; Ray drydem, Grand Forks; O. O. Trageton, Northwood; Thomas F. Robinson, Verona; F. Clyde Duffy, Grand Forks; S. Esberg, Grand Forks; W. L. Jackman Burnstead; A. M. Kime, New Rockford; R. C. Pinkham, Casselton; W. J. Ray, Dickinson; F. E. Wright, Max; and H. L. Halliday, Beach.

FOUR SMALL BRUSH FIRES ARE REPORTED.

Bemidji, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Four small fires in the woods, one near Cass Lake, one at Island Lake, another at Grant Valley and one not far from here, have been reported to L. F. Johnson, the Bemidji fire ranger, but in no case did the fire do serious damage. Farmers or loggers clearing land or burning slashings have exercised unusual care, and Mr. Johnson urges that all persons engaged in this work continue to observe the new laws bearing on this work.

USING SHORT WEIGHTS.

Several Cases Unearthed By Inspector in Crookston.

Crookston, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Inspector of Weights and Measures O. N. Lindh, recently appointed from Lengby, who makes Crookston his headquarters, has found an abundance of work here. In one store he found all the measures considerably off, and a complete new set of rules had to be installed. He has found many scales inaccurate, but has had no trouble in getting the merchants lined up. In but one instance has there been a failure to follow his instructions, the case of a manufacturer giving short weights, and he has given his last warning to this concern, and has decided upon immediate prosecution if the orders of the department are not obeyed at once. Because of the nature of the business, a prosecution would be disastrous, and he is working in every case to adjust the cases amicably and avoid trouble.

ARE HUNTERS BY INSTINCT

Boys Not Naturally Vicious or Cruel, Says Duluth Sportsman.

Best Way to Save Birds Is to Establish Rifle Ranges.

"If Lexington and Bunker Hill were to be enacted over again, I would give infinitely more for a few young boys who could shoot and hit the birds than the whole body of young gentlemen of the Central high school who taught us such a lesson in patriotism just before the last Memorial day."

A. A. Farrington, one of the official reporters of the district court, who is quoted above, is much interested in the plea of the Duluth Humane society, which was published in the June 4 issue of The Herald.

"I do not believe," says Mr. Farrington, "that the young boy is naturally so vicious and cruel that he delights in viewing the death throes of a bird or its pitiful fluttering from a painful wound. It is not that which brings the gleam of triumph to his eye, the shout of victory to his lips. It is the successful shot."

Mr. Farrington declares that the American young boy takes as naturally to a gun as a wild duckling to the water. "The boy who can hit a bird with a slingshot, an air gun or a small calibre rifle can easily be developed into the citizen who can when necessary protect his home, his fireside, his honor, his country's honor, with equal skill; provided of course, the example of our high school boys does not sap every thrill of patriotic decency from his martial soul."

Mr. Farrington's reference to the high school boys evidently grows out of the refusal of the student body of the Central high school to participate in the annual Memorial day parade when requested to do so by the G. A. R. veterans.

Mr. Farrington does not take issue with the Humane society and its plea to save the birds, but would exonerate the small boy from any inherent viciousness in this practice. He believes that the way to solve the problem is to establish shooting ranges for small calibre rifles in the schools.

Among other things Mr. Farrington says: "It is the marital spirit within a boy seeking its expression in the love and skillful use of weapons—a spirit which fortunately modern commercialism has not entirely crushed out of our people—that prompts him to kill the birds, our saviors.

Mimic Battles.

"We observe the young boys dressed as cowboys and Indians fighting mimic battles about the street corners and lawns, pointing their wooden weapons and shouting 'bang' at sight of the charging foe, enjoying themselves innocently, healthfully and to the full, finding in this way simply another expression of the same spirit. But here that spirit has some guidance, in the wonderful and romantic stories of the conquest of our mighty forests and plains.

"Whatever may be the ethical considerations involved in this conquest, it is certainly true that civilization has benefited by it. The ethical questions may well be left to the academic discussion of our high school boys. The practical questions were solved by men made of entirely different stuff. The young boy will still be playing cowboy and Indian while the assembly hall of the high school rings with the patriotic silence of its embryo wartime merchant kings.

"The huntsman, the man familiar with firearms, and their skillful use, will tell you that a hundred men who can shoot straight are equal to any thousand men who cannot. This seems to have been the lesson of Lexington and Bunker Hill and of a long list of epoch-making battles.

"High school boys to the contrary notwithstanding, in a moment of national peril our citizens will spring to arms and armies will be raised as if by magic. Every struggle of our country's history confirms an unfaltering faith in the splendid patriotic heart of its people. But hearts are only a part of the machinery for the overwhelming of persistent enemies. Guns pointed by hands guided by heroic hearts, and pointed straight — as straight as the young boy points to hit his bird—is a combination that nothing human can withstand.

"If we here have a hint at the reason for the boy's practice of destruction, why not give the spirit that induces it direction?

"When my hunting puppies gleefully chase their ball and from sheer exuberance of spirits chew it as cheerfully, I teach them still to hunt and chase but not to destroy it. In other words, I simply give guidance to their natural instinct, and this ultimately results in their procuring for me the wild food that comes to my legitimate share, thereby putting to good use that which of itself might be condemned.

"Would it not be as easy and as well to guide the boys' instinct to a useful purpose, especially when we have his keen and eager intelligence to assist us? The answer is obvious. Let me suggest. Add to the faculty of our common schools a sane, practical guide and teacher in the use of slingshots, air guns and small caliber rifles. Teach the boys the usefulness of birds and the usefulness of firearms, rightly used.

Shooting Ranges.

"Establish shooting ranges for small caliber rifles in the schools. Give the boy his fill of the intelligent use of firearms. He will learn their danger, and consequently how to care for and respect them. He will learn the triteness of the phrase, 'It is always the "I didn't know it was loaded" which kills.' He will be too much interested in his targets and his scores, his individual and team contests with other schools and classes to care anything about shooting at the birds. He will be too proud, and justly so, to exhibit his skill under the proper safeguards and control to the audience of his admiring parents and friends, to waste any time in the destruction of birds. And ultimately, if the call comes to him to defend his home or his country he not only will but he can do so, and he will have something beside a uniform to do it with. In short, we will develop a nation of riflemen against whom no human enemy can prevail. This is not a theory. It has been tried and its effectiveness has been abundantly proved.

"But, my boys, and my men, and my women who find the bird's plumage so adorable in your hats, which accounts for ten thousand times more cruelty and destruction of bird life than that of all the young boys of our country put together, the unnecessary killing of birds is not only wrong but it invites agricultural and consequently economic, disaster. You do not yet realize it but you will. Read simply of the tremendous struggle that Massachusetts is today making to preserve what little foliage and vegetation she has left from the frightful destruction of insects and your realization will come much sooner than you perhaps think.

"I am firmly convinced that a year's instruction in Forbush's "Useful Birds and Their Protection" and the establishment of small caliber rifle ranges, rifle practice and competitions in our public schools, will do more for the protection of useful bird life from the ravages of the small boy with his slingshot than all the theories, pleas, appeals or lectures on the subject will do in a decade.

"It is worth a trial?"

CAT SHOW AT THE AUDITORIUM

Blooded Pussies Will Be on Exhibition on July 16.

If you have a cat, enter it—he, she or it—in the big pussy pow-wow that is going to be held at the Auditorium on July 16.

To be specific, the Northwestern cat show will be held on the date mentioned. It is expected that it will be the biggest thing of its kind ever held in the city, and even at this rather remote date some of the kitties are being groomed for the show.

There will be two classes. Class A will be for cats with pedigrees, which means breeding and aristocracy. This class will be sub-divided into five classes. Then there will be Class B, which is for cats that lack the pedigree. There will be ten sub-divisions to this class, and every lady, or gentleman too, for that matter, who owns a cat that is nice and amiable, though lacking in pedigree, is cordially invited by the managers of the show to have the cat tagged and entered.

Some of the very finest cats in the country are owned right here in the city, and it is expected that the local pussies will make a very good showing in the various classes. It is expected that there will be everything from a mewing maltese to a purring Persian.

BETTER TIMES ON THE RANGE

Hibbing Motorists Report Good Roads and Improvement in Business.

R. W. Hitchcock, editor of the Hibbing Tribune; Mrs. Hitchcock, Mrs. E. M. Smith, Mrs. J. C. Gibson, Mrs. H. G. Burnham and Paul Hitchcock came down from Hibbing yesterday in an automobile.

R. W. Hitchcock stated at the Holland today, where the party is staying, that the roads at the present time are very good between here and Hibbing.

"We averaged over fifteen miles an hour and did not try to hurry in the least," said Mr. Hitchcock. "The roads are dry and generally free from ruts. Autoists need not be afraid of tackling the roads to the range."

Mr. Hitchcock stated that the June pay day in the Hibbing district would be the biggest in some time. He stated that the Steel company was moving more ore at the present time than at any time last season, and that the volume of ore was steadily increasing.

"Conditions on the range are rapidly improving," continued Mr. Hitchcock. "More men are being employed and the business is increasing. It looks like a very good year, with the result that the merchants and business men of Hibbing and the other range towns are very well pleased."

Mr. Hitchcock and the other members of the party left for Hibbing this afternoon.

"SHRINKERS" NOT IN USE

No Swindling Methods in Weighing Discovered in Duluth.

Ingenious Device for Altering Scales Found By State Department.

A dispatch from St. Paul to the effect that the state railroad and warehouse commission had discovered the use of an ingenious little apparatus in a grain elevator at Ortonville, used for the purpose of producing a false weight, was shown today to F. M. Schutte, state weighmaster at Duluth. Mr. Schutte was asked whether there was any evidence of any such device being used at Duluth, and he said there was not, as far as he had any knowledge.

"I do not believe that it would be possible for anybody to tamper with any of the scales in the elevators at Duluth," said Mr. Schutte. "The scales are adjusted by our inspectors every morning before the weighing begins, and all of the weighing is done under state supervision. We never have had any trouble of the kind. I do not think any of the elevator companies care to practice any such frauds, even if they had the chance. They like to see the returns make a large aggregate just as much as any one else does."

The dispatch from St. Paul tells of the use of a small device, called the "shrinker." It is used to alter the location of the fulcrum of a scale, and by a tiny bit of shifting, can produce a vast amount of difference in the result.

FRENCH LINER GIVES UP TRIP

Strike Is Declared to Be Over Question of Wages Only.

Havre, June 11.—The sailing of the French liner France has been indefinitely abandoned owing to the seamen's strike.

Theophile Delcasse, the minister of marine, after a conference with his colleagues in the ministry, informed the French line that the government was ready to supply seamen to man the vessel. However, as the gathering of these men from the various French ports will require several days, their arrival here will be too late to permit the France to carry out her scheduled trip.

Many of the passengers who had booked on the France have decided to go to Cherbourg and take the Majestic or the Kaiser Wilhelm II.

Over Wages Only."

Paris, June 11.—"The management of the French trans-Atlantic line issued a statement this morning declaring that the strikers left the France after demanding an immediate increase of wages, despite the fact that their wages had been raised only a fortnight ago. The statement continues. "The men's demands are connected solely with wages. They have made no complaints in reference to lifeboats, lifesaving appliances or food."

YOUNG BUCK DIES IN CAPTIVITY

A 1-year-old buck deer, captured four days ago by John Dubois at Railroad street and Twenty-seventh avenue west, died yesterday in a barn where Dubois was keeping it, in the hope of curing a bad cut on the animal's left shoulder before turning it loose.

The deer was captured by Dubois last Thursday in the river near the Scott-Graff mill. The animal was seen floundering in the water, and Debois managed to rescue him. As soon as he saw that the deer was wounded, Debois called Dr. John McKay, who sewed up the cut, and advised that the animal, which was weak from the loss of blood, be turned loose as soon as he had revived sufficiently.

It is thought that the deer swam across the river from the Wisconsin side, and was hurt by running against a slab in the lumber yard, being chased by dogs.

Home From Fargo.

Some of the members of the First Norwegian Lutheran choir returned yesterday and some of them this morning from the great sangerfest in Fargo.

At the grand concert Saturday night every seat was taken in the immense building, holding between 5,000 and 6,000 people, and still hundreds were turned away. The grand chorus was assisted by the Concordia College band and Adolph Olsen, violinist, from Minneapolis. The only two choirs singing separately at the concert were the St. Alof choir from Northfield and the First Norwegian Lutheran choir from Duluth.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Boston Opera company.

"The Follies of June 9."

Duluth theatergoers have rarely had the opportunity of hearing the latest popular songs of the East, such as is now offered by the Boston Lyric Musical Comedy company in its summer season of musical stock at the Lyceum. The chorus of twenty girls features the song hits of all the productions now being sung in the New York theaters, thus offering the pick of the musical hits.

This week in "The Follies of June 9" the latest version of "Everybody's Doin' It," "Oh, You, John," "The Gay Suffragette," "My Lady Angeline," "Cupid's Telephone," "Moonlight Bay" and "I Want a Regular Man" are among the most popular musical numbers featured. The stellar attraction of the show, "The Politicians," is scoring a hit because of its political satire on the two presidential candidates, President Taft and Theodore Roosevelt.

"The Follies of June 9" will continue throughout the week, with popular priced matinees tomorrow and Saturday.

CASS LAKE DELEGATES LEAVE FOR MINNEAPOLIS.

Cass Lake, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Cass Lake delegation to the State Fireman's convention at Minneapolis, Pat Cain, D. V. Wardner and Albert Marshik, left last night to attend the two days' session, June 11 and 12.

The ball game between the fire department and Commercial club resulted in a victory for the Commercial club by a score of 23 to 24.

TITANIC SURVIVOR UNABLE TO WORK

Nicola Lielich, a survivor of the Titanic disaster, recently employed in the mines of the Virginia district, left Duluth yesterday on his way to New York, for the purpose of bringing an action for damages against the White Star Steamship company. He claims to have lost $400 in money besides his baggage, when the ship went down. His complaint will also allege that his health was permanently injured by exposure in the water, so that he is no longer able to work, as he used to, in the mines. Under the marine laws it is doubtful if he can even recover for his personal belongings but he intends to try.

Mr. Lielich was picked up by one of the life-boats, as he was swimming around in the icy water. He held a two-year-old boy, whom he had found floating on the water, and that was why he was taken upon the boat. When Mr. Lielich was picked up, it was found that ice had formed about his legs, so that the lower part of his trousers had to be cut away.

After returning to the Range country, Mr. Lielich attempted to work again at mining, but he found this impossible, he says, on account of cramps. For a time he was able to earn some money by lecturing on the Titanic wreck in moving picture houses.

On arriving at New York he was cared for in one of the hospitals of that city. As his money and baggage were lost, the sisters presented him with $25. He left the child whom he had rescued, in their care.

LAYS PLANS TO ATTACK HANFORD

House Judiciary Committee Will Present Impeachment Resolution.

Washington, June 11.—An impeachment resolution, similar to that in the Judge Swayne case, is to be presented to the house by the judiciary committee against Judge Cornelius Hanford of Seattle, Wash., under fire for his action in the Olesen Socialist citizenship case. A sub-committee will go to Seattle to hear the charges against Judge Hanford.

SHOWER OF ASHES IN FAIRBANKS, ALASKA.

Fairbanks, Alaska, June 11.—A shower of ashes is falling here and the sun is obscured. A heavy cannonading can be heard in the foothills of the Alaska range, according to reports of people arriving here from the south. The sounds come from the direction of Mount Hayes.

Illinoisans in Reunion.

Hillsboro, N. D., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Former residents of Illinois will gather in Hillsboro tomorrow for the first annual Dakota-Illinois picnic. The city has prepared to entertain a big crowd and it is expected that almost every county in the valley will send an Illinois delegation.

No Need For Gray Hairs

Gray or Faded Hair Is a Mark of Neglect and Can Be Quickly Banished.

The horror and dread of gray, streaky or faded hair is not imaginary, for this condition brings with it an aged look which is most unpleasant. Many people use a plain barsicum tea to restore the original color and sheen of younger days to brunette hair. This tea is made by steeping a small, original package barsicum in one pint water. The hair should be combed with a comb moistened in this tea until the color is restored.

When blonde hair fades wash with arbane tea, as this soon restores the fascinating golden tint. Titian or auburn hair will resume its former rich color after washing occasionally in cambia tea, made by putting an ounce cambia in one pint boiling water. This is a certain and safe method and the cost is trifling.

SUICIDE, OR PLAIN HOAX?

Hat and Note Found on North Pier of Duluth Canal.

O. W. Berchtold of Chicago May Have Fallen or Jumped in Current.

A derby hat, with a note stuck in the inside band was found on the north pier of the ship canal about 9:30 last night and the police are puzzled to know whether or not somebody jumped or fell into the canal, or if somebody lost a hat, or if the whole thing is a hoax. The note was ostensibly from O. W. Bechtold of Chicago, Ill., and was dated May 18, 1912. It gives directions for notifying relatives and friends in case of serious accident and, judging from the condition of the paper, was freshly written, for the paper is not at all soiled. The hand-writing is odd but good script.

The hat was found by Frank Frankson of 1210 West Franklin street and he turned it over to the watchman at the canal who gave it to the police. It has in it the label of Mitchell & Mitchell, hatters of Chicago, and is marked with the usual gilded stickers, the initials being "O. B." The hat itself has evidently seen a good deal of wear. The note reads as follows:

"In case of serious accident notify Prof. F. Berchtold, Corvalis, Ore., 560 Tyler St. My father.

"Miss Mabel Jefferson, Kirkpatrick, Ind., Box 32, care Charles Peterson. My fiance.

"And the Illinois Commercial Men's association, Chicago, Ill. I'm a member.

"Wire these at once. The money will be refunded by my father or my estate. O. W. Berchtold, Chicago, Ill."

Chief Troyer today sent notice of the find to the addresses given.

The hat was found at lamppost No. 17, well out on the north pier. At that point the canal is about twenty-seven feet deep, and with the swift current which rushes through the canal it is believed that if Berchtold went in either purposely or by accident there is very little chance of ever recovering the body.

man of the committee, moved that the rules be suspended to pass the bill, and on roll call his motion carried, 48 to 6, Senators Swanson, Wallace, Wilson, Works, Gunn and Dunn voting no. On the passage of the resolution the vote was the same, except that Senator Works changed to the affirmative.

The special committee on the reception of bills this morning voted unanimously to recommend the railroad gross earnings tax bill, and a report will be made to the senate and prompt action taken at the earliest possible moment.

State-Wide Primary Bill.

The senate at 11 o'clock took up the state-wide primary bill as a special order, and will keep at it until it is passed. This will hardly happen today, however. Early this afternoon the senate was arguing Senator G. H. Sullivan's amendment proposing a non-partisan judiciary provision.

When the bill was taken up Senator T. M. Pugh of Duluth, said that St. Louis county does not want a state-wide primary bill, and Senator Cheadle replied that his understanding of it was that was just what St. Louis county does want.

The senate early this afternoon adopted an amendment to the Haycraft-Knapp primary election bill, providing for the non-partisan nomination and election of all judges, including probate and municipal judges, county superintendents of schools and officers in cities of the first class. This includes Duluth.

On motion of Senator Works, the senate invited W. J. Bryan to make a talk before it.

To Repeal Automobile Law.

The house this morning passed, under suspension of the rules, a bill repealing the provision of the automobile law of 1911, requiring all vehicles, including farm wagons and, by inference, wheelbarrows, to carry front and rear lights. The bill also prohibits the use of muffler cutouts in cities and villages or when passing teams.

* * *

The house adopted the reapportionment committee's report indefinitely postponing A. V. Anderson's proposed constitutional amendment to make registered votes instead of population the basis for legislative apportionment. No fight was made for it.

Woodmen's Bill Received.

The house voted unanimously to receive the bill prohibiting the proposed advance in insurance rates of the Modern Woodmen of America without a referendum vote and referred it to a committee.

* * *

Representative Kneeland made a futile fight to have the constitutional amendment proposed by him and C. H. Warner, separating the sale of state lands from the state auditor's office, but the house refused to receive it.

The house passed a bill appropriating $35,000 for the expenses of the session and the senate voted that $25,000 would do and referred it to a committee to draft a bill. The house voted the mileage of the members this morning. Nothing was heard of the proposal to cut the mileage rate from 15 to 3 cents a mile.

Adjournment Talk.

Representative G. W. Brown offered a resolution providing for a committee of three to confer with a similar senate committee on the date of adjournment, and Representative Rines sent it to tomorrow by giving notice of debate. Hope of an adjournment this week is dwindling rapidly, though still held in some quarters.

Some of the members are threatening to go home Saturday whether the legislature adjourns then or not.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

DULUTH BOOSTERS ON TRIP TO THE MESABA AND VERMILION TOWNS

last year are among the party on this trip. They learned last year what the effect of the trips was and they are anxious to do their part to carry that effect to other sections. They were busy imparting their enthusiasm to other members of the party this morning, and by the time Two Harbors was reached everybody knew the way of the trade excursions and was ready to join in with a will.

The range is, of course, not new territory. Therein is the difference between this trip and two taken last year. The range knows Duluth and Duluth knows the range, so that the present trip is more in the nature of a friendly visit than a trade extension excursion. Trade extension is an object also, for many of the towns to be visited are strange to some of the excursionists and they will learn, while endeavoring to teach the towns the greatness of Duluth.

Finely Equipped Train.

The train which left the Union station at 8 o'clock this morning is a beauty. It was furnished by the Great Northern railroad and is made up of the best equipment the extensive rolling stock of that road affords. It is made up of a baggage car, a first-class coach for the band, two diners, a chair car and four standard sleepers. The train is electric lighted, furnished with gas and is equipped with all modern aids to traveling comfort.

The train is being personally conducted by a number of officials of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, including President F. E. House. Mr. House will remain with the party only today, but B. H. Hoyer and J. E. Watt of the Duluth & Iron Range will go all the way through.

During the trip from Duluth to Two Harbors this morning the distribution of equipment kept Mal, Eva and members of the wholesalers' committee busy. Blue caps with Duluth bands, blue Duluth pennants attached to canes, badges and itinerary books were handed out to the members of the party and by the time the train pulled into Two Harbors everybody was equipped.

W. B. Cross is chairman of the wholesalers' committee this year. The publicity on the trip is given over to Harry A. Earnshaw and Norton Mattocks, Ralph W. Brown and Walter T. Wright have charge of the entertainment. F. C. Berry is again charged with the task of keeping the train up to schedule. F. X. Gravel is in charge of the band and with the big Duluth pennant will lead all parades. F. E. Church and R. A. Ostram will attend to one of the most important details—the commissary.

A rainstorm here disorganized the parade and kept the party and the citizens under cover. The band played under an awning and the Duluthians got un what enthusiasm they could.

A three hours' run from Two Harbors to Ely will give the excursionists plenty of time to collect their forces for the campaign on the Vermilion range. They had a little warming up in a brief stop at Knife River and they hit their gait at Two Harbors. The Vermilion range will see them in full working order this afternoon.

GEORGE D McCARTHY.

UNLIMBER BIG GUNS

of Idaho was mentioned in that connection. Senator Borah emphatically refused to be considered in the light of a possible future presiding officer of the senate.

"Under no conceivable circumstances or conditions would I accept the nomination for vice president," he said. "I have assumed that it would not be necessary for me to make this statement, but in view of the discussion of the matter I want to put an end to it once and for all. And this ends it, for under no circumstances would I accept the nomination if it were tendered me."

Iowans Enthusiastic.

Senator Kenyon of Iowa, who found it not necessary to go to Washington as he had expected yesterday, said that Iowans were coming in on every train eager to help the presidential boom of Senator Cummins. The Cummins headquarters will be ready later in the day for the crowds who are expected there, and the Hawkeye club is prepared to direct the enthusiasm of the Cummins men so that it will have the greatest possible effect.

Numerous conferences marked the morning in the several headquarters.

The Taft forces were in jovial spirits today, following their victorious fight in the national committee yesterday which resulted in the seating of the contested delegates in Indiana for the president. Only optimistic forecasts of the results of future contests were heard among the Taft forces.

Roosevelt's camp welcomed the coming of Governor Hadley. As one of the original seven governors who urged the former president to make the race and one whose name has been mentioned frequently as a possible running mate for Roosevelt, his counsel was in demand.

Roosevelt Conference.

Supporters of Roosevelt held a conference last night which lasted into the early hours of this morning, but what was discussed none of the conferees would tell. Senator Borah and other national committeemen who yesterday voted to seat Taft delegates in Indiana participated in the meeting.

S. M. KEILLEY HAS CHANGE OF HEART

S. M. Keilley, city building inspector, takes it all back, he says. That is, he renegs on his previous assertions that the surrounding country here is not good for agricultural purposes. He has been convinced, and when one convinces Mr. Keilley, some convincing work has been done. He has just been visiting Port Wing and there the change of heart took place. He was talking about it today and gave utterance in an enthusiastic way to a great admiration for the country around Port Wing.

"I must admit," he confessed, "that I have felt sore at the public organizations and the newspapers here for trying to make outside people believe that there is a great agricultural country hereabouts; it seemed to me like a bunco game, for I thought that I knew this country pretty well. Well, I'm free to say that I was not half so wise as I thought I was. I just visited Port Wing, and let me tell you that I never saw finer land for growing things than I saw there. I believe you can grow almost anything on it. And the orchards—well, those orchards are the best looking that I have seen in the West anywhere. You don't need Florida or Colorado or any of these other much vaunted places for fruit ranches. You can have them right here at home and also have the four seasons which are proper for good health. And to think that I had overlooked a country only thirty miles from Duluth in my previous conclusions. I'm going to look at some other places and more thoroughly convince myself. You bet it's a great agricultural country."

MRS. M. A. MATHEWS, 101 Years Old

Mrs. M. A. Mathews will be 102 next August, yet she feels fine and is in good health, all of which she attributes to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, which she has used for 25 years, ever since it cured her of penumonia.

"My grandmother, Mrs. M. A. Mathews, Hudson Heights, N. J., who has passed her one hundred and first (101st) birthday, is still hale and hearty. Why? Because she has been using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for 25 years and is still using it. How she came to use it was one day she was taken sick with pneumonia, and when one of my aunts came over to see her she brought her a bottle of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. It took her completely out of the sickness, and since that day to this she has been taking it three times a day. Grandma has expressed a wish that you use this in your advertising."—Florence Mathews, Hudson Heights, N. J.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

For old people, for tired people, for people who are not well, young and old, there is no stimulant so good and so pure, so beneficial when taken according to directions, as Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey One of its great uses is as a builder of good digestion. In cases of feeble digestion or any kind of indigestion it does good. By bettering digestion it gives more nourishment and builds strength for the whole system, and so throws off or prevents disease. Every household should have a bottle on hand. Apart from its value as a tonic and health builder, it is indispensable in emergencies.

If in need of advice, write our Medical Department, stating your case fully. Our doctors will send you advice free, together with a valuable illustrated medical booklet. Get Duffy's—sure. Sold by druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct, $1.00 per large bottle.

WASHINGTON MEN IN FAVOR OF BOLT

Contesting Roosevelt Delegates Willing to Follow Him From Hall.

Spokane, Wash., June 11.—L. Roy Slater of Spokane and W. L. Johnson of Colville, contesting Roosevelt delegates from Washington to the national convention, announced prior to their departure for Chicago that they favored a bolt and a separate Roosevelt convention, if the national committee continued to seat contested Taft delegates.

"If the national committee shows it is deciding contests on personal bias, Roosevelt will be justified in calling his delegates to follow him to a separate convention," said Slater. "In that case I will be among the first to follow."

NO MORE MONEY TO MOUNT ROOSEVELT'S SPECIMENS.

Washington, June 11.—The house voted down a proposed increase from $100,000 to $500,000 for the use of the public health and hospital service in combatting epidemics. Former Speaker Cannon and Representative Kahn of California, Republican, led the fight for the increase. An effort to increase the amount with which the Smithsonian institution intended to complete the mounting of the African specimens presented to it by Former President Roosevelt, also failed.

Health and Beauty Advice

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

X. T.: Large pores, I know, are disfiguring. However, you can soon reduce them if you use an almozoin cream-jelly, the recipe for which I give: Put 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine in ½ pint cold water, then add 1 ounce almozoin. When thoroughly dissolved it is ready to use. This almozoin cream-jelly should be applied plentifully and rubbed in well. After using the cream-jelly a while you will find pimples and blackheads will have vanished and the skin once rough, oily and blotchy will be of a velvety softness, clear and beautiful. The almozoin cream-jelly is unfailing in protecting the skin from freckles, tan and sunburn.

A. G. B.: Dieting is a cruel method of flesh reduction and a needless torture, because with a parnotis solution, made by dissolving 4 ounces parnotis in 1½ pints hot water, you can reduce your weight without suffering or inconvenience. Taking a tablespoonful before each meal gently and gradually dissolves the fatty tissues without possible injury, and when your weight is where you want it, the flesh will be firm and the skin free from wrinkles.

Mrs. A. D.: Don't experiment with alleged "hair-tonics," because they may streak the hair. If your scalp is lifeless and scaly, you should shampoo with canthrox, then apply a little of the quinzoin tonic, made by pouring ½ pint water in ½ pint alcohol, to which is then added 1 ounce quinzoin. Occasional applications of this home-made tonic soon banish dandruff and correct unnatural oiliness. The faithful use of the quinzoin tonic will encourage the hair to grow in long and beautiful.

D. O.: Those troublesome hairs can be made to disappear like magic by applying a paste made with powdered delatone and water. After 2 or 3 minutes it should be removed and the skin washed, when it will be found that the hairs have completely vanished. No pain or discoloration of the skin follows the use of delatone.

Mrs. Max: Long, curly lashes add much to the expression of the eyes. Apply pyroxin daily to lash-roots with thumb and forefinger and your stubby eyelashes will grow long and beautiful. By putting pyroxin on eyebrows with forefinger you can make them come in thick and silky. Don't get any pyroxin where hair is not wanted.

Violet M.: Failing strength is not due to age in your case, because at 40 a woman should be at her best mentally and physically. What you require is a blood-tonic and body-builder, and I am giving you the recipe for a good one here: Dissolve ½ cupful sugar in ½ pint alcohol, then stir in 1 ounce kardene and add enough hot water to make a quart. Take a tablespoonful three times a day and your blood will soon be rid of poisonous accumulations, pimples and blotches will disappear and your sallow, oily complexion will give way to a healthy pink and white color. This tonic is splendid to guard the body against sickness.

Jane: I do not wonder that soap will not rid your scalp of dandruff, because it lacks the necessary elements for that purpose. Dissolve a teaspoonful canthrox in a cup of hot water, then rub a little at a time on the scalp. You will be surprised on how quickly it entirely dissolves every atom of dust, dandruff and excess oil. After rinsing, the scalp will be clean and pliant, and the hair will dry ever so quickly, with a rich sheen, and be soft, fluffy and easy to arrange.

Anna G.: You cannot expect to have a smooth, clear skin and youthful complexion if you persist in the use of powder, because the dust-like particles clog the pores and cause a rough, pimply, blotchy and oily condition of the skin. Discard powder and try this inexpensive spurmax lotion and you will be delightfully surprised with the result: Dissolve 4 ounces spurmax in ½ pint witch hazel (or hot water) and add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Apply this sparingly to the skin and rub lightly until dry. The spurmax lotion imparts a velvety smoothness and exquisite tint to the skin and rids it of impurities and unnatural conditions. It is especially nice for hot weather use, as it does not spot nor streak from perspiration and is invisible when on.

Rena W.: Inflamed eyes greatly detract from physical charms, and unless this condition is corrected it may be necessary to wear glasses. Make up and use this inexpensive, harmless eye-tonic: In a pint cold, clear water dissolve 1 ounce crystos, then place 2 or 3 drops in the eyes daily. This quickly reduces inflammation, stops the smarting and gives to dull eyes a remarkable brilliancy. You will find it fine for granulated lids and removing foreign particles.

PURE MILK FOR BABIES

City Health Commissioner Wants Infant Welfare Stations Opened.

Nurses Would Advise Mothers on Proper Treatment of Infants.

Dr. Fahey, city health commissioner, fired his first gun last night in a campaign to save the babies during hot weather. He sent a communication to the city council asking that an appropriation of $825 be made for the establishment of infant welfare stations at West Duluth and the West end during the months of July and August. The matter was referred to a committee for investigation.

The idea is copied from Eastern cities which have been operating such stations with marked success, and from Minneapolis, which has had them in operation for sime time. It is planned that at such stations the purest of milk will be on sale at cost, the stations to be open each day from 8 a. m. to noon, each in charge of a nurse who will advise mothers how to care for the milk and as to the general care of infants during hot weather.

In the afternoons, it is proposed, the nurses will visit all of the homes in their respective districts where the milk is used and suggest sanitary measures for the treatment of the infants. In the East, it is pointed out, many babies who would otherwise have perhaps perished, have been saved and kept healthy through the labors of such nurses. No charge but the actual cost of the milk is made, the services of the nurses being free to mothers who desire them. The estimated cost for the two stations for two months is $825, the sum asked by the doctor. This is divided as follows:

Salary of nurses, $240; rent, $100; milk, $125; ice, $50; refrigerators, $135; nipples, gauges, etc., $25; two scales, $25; street car tickets, $20; incidentals, $100.

QUIZ THORNE ABOUT STEEL

Lawyers in Action Against Big Corporation Examine Banker.

George Perkins' Part in Panic of 1907 Rehearsed By Witness.

New York, June 11.—The blame for the run on the Trust Company of America during the panic of 1907 was credited to stories printed in the New York newspapers upon information obtained from George W. Perkins, according to testimony given yesterday at the resumption of hearings in the government suit to dissolve the United States Steel corporation. The testimony was elicited by Judge Dickinson, attorney for the government, in an effort to prove that the run was a part of a plan to "hammer" the stock of the Tennessee Coal & Iron company in the interest of the United States Steel corporation, which took over the Tennessee company during the panic.

Oakleigh Thorne on Stand.

It was testified by Oakleigh Thorne, former president of the trust company, that the institution held Tennessee Coal & Iron stock as collateral when the run began. He declared the run directly was due to an article published in the New York Times referring to his institution as a "sore spot" in the financial situation. His testimony was supplemented by that of Osmund Phillips of the Times staff, who said that he secured from Mr. Perkins, then a partner in J. P. Morgan & Co. and a director in the Steel corporation, the information upon which the article in the Times was based.

Mr. Thorne testified that there had been no trouble with his institution up to the time that attention was called to it by the publication of the article. Counsel for the Steel corporation brought out that other articles tending to direct attention to the Trust Company of America had been published the same day as the Times article.

Tin Plate Case Up.

The government's case against the American Sheet & Tin Plate company, one of the corporation's big subsidiaries, was also taken up yesterday, with C. W. Bray of Bridgeport, Pa., former president of the Beaver Tin Plate company, and later of the American company, as a witness. Judge Dickinson put into evidence an alleged engagement entered into by the Tin Plate association, whereby members should sell at agreed prices, and to which Bray's name was signed as the president of the Beaver company. The witness said he could not recall anything about the agreement, but furnished the government evidence tending to show that the American Sheet & Tin Plate company had dismantled many plants taken in at the time of its organization. He said further that he was a member of the committee on sheet and tin plate that had been appointed by the general committee in charge of the Gary dinners.

"There were no regular meetings of the committee," Bray said, "but whenever the members happened to see each other they discussed prices and the state of the market."

The prices of each were the same, he testified.

CANADA CUTS DUTY ON CEMENT IN TWO.

Winnipeg, Man., June 11.—Reduction by one-half, from 52 per cent to 26 per cent, of the duty on cement brought in from the United States, has been announced by the federal government at Ottawa. A tremendouus trade in this commodity with firms across the line is predicted as a result.

Over $15,000,000 worth of building in Western Canada is at a standstill this month owing to the inability of the Canadian cement merger to fill its orders.

Half a million dollars worth of orders to United States plants was sent out from Calgary yesterday, it is said, and other bigger orders are expected to follow.

FREIGHT ON STREET CARS

Contractor Suggests That Road Material Be Transported at Night.

Says Plan Would Save Money and Prevent Cruelty to Horses.

J. F. Schleunes has suggested a plan whereby draft horses will be spared the long hauls of road material, coal for the city stations, and other things.

The suggestion came in the shape of a communication which was read before the city council last night. It was referred to a committee. Mr. Schleunes points out that the street railway company can haul on one of its freight cars twenty-two yards of material with ease, while a team of horses which hauls a yard and a half of gravel from the docks in the city to Woodland are practically exhausted for the day, chiefly because of the long up-hill pull.

Mr. Schleunes' suggestion is that the city establish in portions of the city where long hauls are necessary at present, stations close to the street railway line, and that side tracks be built into these stations, where shall be stored road material, coal, heavy merchandise, etc., and that the street railway company be required to furnish cars to haul such material at night, or during hours when there is not a rush of traffic, to points where the material is needed. He recommends that such changes in the street railway charter as may be necessary be made.

He suggests this from a practical as well as a humanitarian point of view.

OWNED BY AMERICANS

cantile Marine vessels are practically owned by Americans. It was stated under oath that the only British investors represented were such as were necessary to comply with the requirements of the British Board of Trade and to complete the directorates of the various companies included in the trust. This organization is the greatest of all the trans-Atlantic combinations. It is a Pierpont Morgan combine and Mr. Morgan, either in a burst of patriotism, or with a shrewd idea of getting rid of a name which has been made odious by the loss of the White Star Titanic, has urged that all the lines combined in the trust shall be operated under the general title of the American Line.

The discovery that this greatest of all steamship combines, in which only four ships fly the American flag, is owned by Americans, is likely to embarrass the shouters for subsidies. The sight of the star spangled banner at sea may make the heart of the patriot beat a little faster. But if he should reflect that in order to fly that flag the treasury had been raided for some millions of dollars annually while about half of the passenger ships flying the British flag were owned by Americans who invested in them purely for commercial reasons and without asking government aid, it is possible that sentimental patriotism migth receive something of a jar.

No Precedent Established.

It is curious that any practiced politician like Frederick W. Upham, the Republican national committeeman from Illinois, should have been deluded into proposing a resolution compelling delegates to the convention to pledge themselves to support the nominee before their credentials were accpted. It is even more curious that a great number of papers throughout the United States should have seriously printed a press dispatch to the effect that a precedent in favor of such a resolution had been established in the Republican convention of 1880. The truth of the matter is, as all well versed in political history know, that a resolution to this effect was offered in that convention by Roscoe Conkling and supported with all his surpassing oratorical talent. It was fought by an almost unknown man from West Virginia, who by the vigor of his opposition and the fierceness of his denunciation won the enthusiasm and the good will of both the delegates and the galleries. The fight was one of the most dramatic in the history of political conventions. The resolution, notwithstanding the eminence of its sponsor, was voted down. There are rumors that the Upham resolution may be accepted by both sides this time because each side thinks it has a majority of the delegates. My own judgment it that the convention will not stand for it, for the very simple reason that no delegate is going to sign away his right to future political independence when he accepts his credentials from the secretary of the convention.

The Outlook at Baltimore.

The Baltimore convention outlook seems more and more perplexing as the time for the gathering comes nearer. Champ Clark is picking up delegates daily, although Wilson's success in Minnesota has been perhaps the most spectacular feature of the recent week. Nevertheless the elder politicians do not believe that either Clark or Wilson will be nominated. They figure largely on the great potency of New York's ninety votes, as to the disposition of which no one today can make even a reasonable guess. It is known that Murphy, who controls these votes, is personally hostile to Wilson. It is equally certain that his bitterness against Hearst will make it wholly unlikely that he will throw them to Clark, who, day by day, is coming to be more regarded as a Hearst beneficiary. The feeling, therefore, is that at the psychological moment, with Wilson and Clark tied, the votes of New York will be cast for some third man who will break the tie and who will be looked upon as capable of carrying New York and adjacent New England states. It may be Underwood, it might be Kern. There is growing talk of Marshall of Indiana, and Harmon with his solid state behind him is a factor to be reckoned with. As a rule betting on nominations is not a good barometer, but it is rather interesting to note how closely all these candidates, even those in the first rank, like Clark and Wilson, are being estimated by the sporting community around Wall street.

PRIVATE CAR PROBE ORDERED

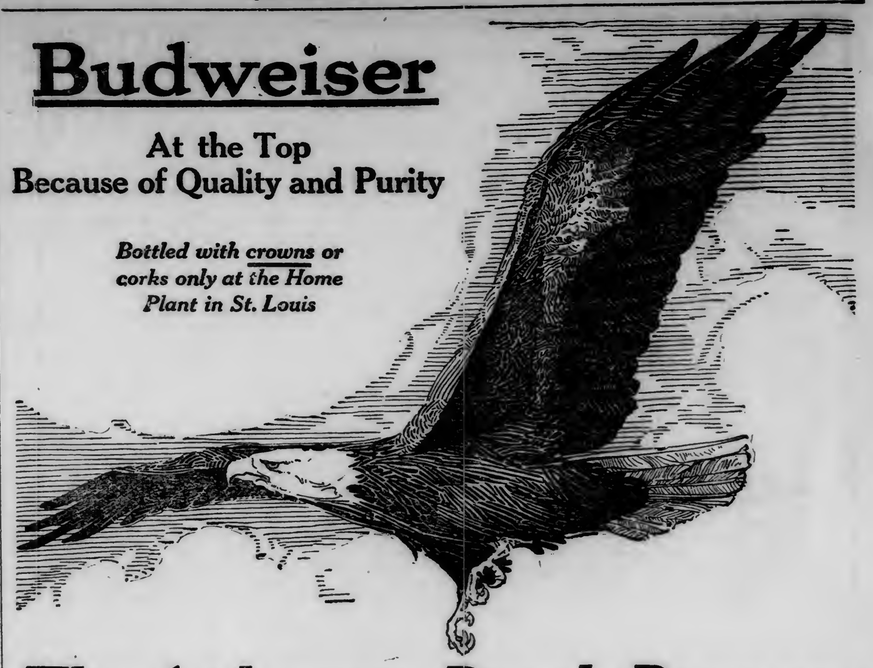

Commerce Commission Action Applies to All Railroads in the Country.

Washington, June 11.—The interstate commerce commission has ordered an investigation of the complaints that allowances paid by railroads for the use of privately owned cars and the regulations governing the handling of such cars are unreasonable, discriminatory and unlawful. All railroads in the United States are made respondents in the proceeding, the date of which has not yet been fixed.

STUB ROO TONIC!

E. A. JOHNSON.

Manufacturer Stub Roo Tonic.

Stub Roo Medical Co., Duluth, Minn., Gentlemen: I think it's my duty to write and thank you for the good results I have received from the treatment of your Stub Roo Antiseptic Lotion. The eighteenth of February, 1907, I used your remedy for my sore leg while I have suffered for eighteen long years and never could get cured, but after I began with the Stub Roo Antiseptic Lotion I could feel a difference from all the medicines I have used before. I had an ulcer, which was slow to heal, but broke open from time to time. It was never healed until I began with the Stub Roo Lotion, but with seven months' treatment I was completely cured. During these long years I suffered enough to be in my grave. Many a restless night I had to sit and lift my limb from place to place, it burned and pained me so. I worried from morning till night about my leg and thought my suffering would never come to an end, but this is all over now, thanks to the Stub Roo remedies and the good and careful treatment I have received. It is four years since the Stub Roo remedies cured my sores and cleaned my blood, and from that time I have felt happy and have been able to enjoy the comfort of life. I cannot express my thanks too much, for it certainly has done good work towards my health; more than any other remedy has done. This is the truth and heartful statement and thanks to the Stub Roo Lotion and blood purifier which I now believe are the best remedies for the blood and also skin diseases. I have recommended the medicine to many for different skin diseases and I know they are all well. My sister has used the same remedy, and her children, they got well. A gentleman in the town I lived has doctored for a frozen foot and the doctors told him he would have to go under an operation and I heard of it and I told him to see you and get cured. He did so and you saved his toes. This is the truth and nothing but the truth. As we all have strong beliefs in your remedies as it has never known to fail.

Respectfully yours,

MURDERED BY RELATIVES?

Clews in Eight-fold Butchery in Iowa Point to Two Men.

Bloody Finger-prints in House of Death Attract Law's Officers.

Villisca, Iowa, June 11.—Almost no positive clews may be said to have been brought to light as a result of the work of detectives on Sunday night's murder case, wherein eight persons, Joseph Moore and family and two visitors, met death.

The theory upon which the authorities are working involves two men, relatives of the murdered family, both of whom are said to have held deep grudges against Moore and his wife as a result of domestic troubles. One of these men, it is said, is known to have been in Villasca recently, and it is rumored the other also has been here.

Bloodhounds which followed a trail from the Moore home to the river yesterday, losing it soon afterwards, were again used tday.

Like Kansas Case.

A detective working on this case also helped in the investigation of the wholesale murder at Ellsworth, Kan. He notes several points of similarity between the two cases. One of these is the use of a kerosene lamp. In each case one was found burning in the room where the crime was committed.

Bloody finger prints of the Ellsworth murderer have been preserved and will be compared by experts with those found in the Moore home.

It was planned to hold the funeral of the eight victims of the traged this afternoon. They are: Joseph B. Moore, Mrs. Joseph B. Moore, Herman Moore, aged 11; Katherine Moore, aged 9; Boyd Moore, aged 7; Paul Moore, aged 6, all four children of the Moores; Lena Stillings, aged 15, and her sister, Ina Stillings, aged 9, who were visiting the Moores.

Bedclothing Not Disturbed.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore were found in one bed, the clothing of which was not in the least disturbed. In another bed were two of the boys. The daughter occupied a third bed and the youngest boy was alone in a smaller bed. In neither instance was the bedding disarranged.

The Misses Stillings occupied a room in another part of the house. One of the girls has a cut on an arm, and it was in such a position as to indicate she had awakened before the attack and that there was a short struggle.

A feature of the tragedy which indicated that possibly the murderer left the house quickly, was the finding of a lighted lamp on the floor of the Moore bedroom.

Apparently Deliberate.

One puzzling feature of the crime which serves to heighten the mystery, is the apparent deliberation of the murder. All indications are that he entered the house by the front door with a key; that he left by the same way and locked the door behind him. Dust upon the sills of the two windows left unlocked showed he did not enter that way.

Horses neighing in the barn at the Moore home caused a woman neighbor to notice that no member of the family appeared to be about the house. The city marshal was then summoned and the doors forced. Moore and his wife were the first to be discovered. They were lying in their bed in a front room. Then came the finding of the bodies of the two guests, and later those of the children in a third room.

Moore was the manager of a local implement concern and prominent in business and social circles.

The most intense excitement prevails here, and people from all parts of the country are flocking to Villisca. Local national guard companies and scores of armed citizens are scouring the territory adjacent to Villisca in the hope of running down the murderer. Not one of the victims is known to have had an enemy.

Trouble With Van Gilder.

Omaha, Neb., June 11.—Miss Minnie Moore, sister of Joseph B. Moore, who with his wife and four children and two young women guests was murdered at Villisca, Iowa, is employed in a local establishment. She said today that John Van Gilder, who several years ago married her sister, left Villisca after trouble with his wife, which Van Gilder charged was due to Moore.

Miss Moore left for Villisca yesterday afternoon.

MILLER DECIDES TO BE CANDIDATE AGAIN.

Representative C. B. Miller announced in Washington last night that he will be a candidate for congress from the Eighth district before the Republican primaries next September.

"Having received assurances of support from all parts of the district," said Mr. Miller, "I have decided to file for the nomination."

This announcement is not unexpected, as it has been generally understood in political circles for some time past that Mr. Miller would seek re-election. So far no other candidate has appeared for the Republican nomination.

EXPECT CUBA TO BE QUIET

Washington Officials Believe No More Force Is Needed There.

Bluejackets From the Nashville Landed to Guard Mines.

Washington, June 11.—The absence of any fresh outbreaks in Havana has encouraged the state department in the belief that the measures already taken to show the purpose of this government to maintain order in Cuba have been sufficient.

It has been decided that there shall be no additions to the naval force now in Cuban waters unless unexpected developments make them necessary. Admiral Fisk, the ranking officer at Key West, will remain there for the present with the battleships New Jersey and Nebraska.

By wireless the navy department will keep in constant touch with the first division of the Atlantic fleet after it leaves Hampton Roads with the midshipmen aboard, and it is expected that plans for the exercises of that portion of the fleet, which were interrupted by the threatening aspect of Cuban affairs, soon will be resumed.

Bluejackets Landed.

Santiago, Cuba, June 11.—The United States gunboat Nashville today landed a detachment of sixty-five bluejackets with a mountain gun for the protection of the Woodfred mines. The sailors will later be replaced by marines.

Quiet in Havana.

Havana, June 11.—Quiet prevails in Havana today. The government declares no dispatches have reached it containing news from the province of Oriente. During the night the police made many arrests of negroes who are charged with conspiracy.

Admiral Osterhaus, commander-in-chief of the United States Atlantic fleet, arranged to pay off visits to Secretary of State Sanquilly and President Gomez.

No news of disturbances in the vicinity of the capital has come to hand.

"GENERAL STRIKE" IS NOT GENERAL

British Labor Movement Gets Less Response Than Was Expected.

London, June 11.—The response to last night's call for a general strike of the transport workers of the United Kingdom has been by no means general. This causes little surprise, as the men in some centers had decided already to continue at work, and in other centers the recommendation of the London committee of the transport workers' federation was received too late for action to be taken on it today. Besides this, many more of the conservative leaders of the workmen are opposed to a general strike at present, as the funds of the trades unions are in a state of great depletion, owing to last year's dock strike and the recent coal strike.

The order for a general strike has not affected the Thames district very much.

Much Free Labor.

There is more free labor now in London than has been known for years, the destitution among the poorer classes, which is acute, forcing the men to seek employment.

Despite the order, the unions in Cardiff, Swansea and other South Wales ports where the unions spent most of their funds during the coal strike, work is going on as usual. Similar conditions prevailed this morning at Newport while at Bristol and Avonmouth the dockers quit work but the truckmen continued at their duties.

Father Hopkins, who wields powerful influence in the sailors' and firemen's unions, which has the largest membership of any workmen's society in the Transport Workers' federation, has appealed to the men not to strike without giving adequate notice of the termination of the agreements between them and their employers last year.

Has 90,000 Members.

The membership of the Transport Workers' federation comprises 90,000 belonging to the sailors' and firemen's union, 75,000 dock, wharf and river-side workers, 30,000 members of the London truckmen's union, 77,000 gas workers, 8,000 watermen and lightermen, 8,000 stevedores, 6,000 enginemen and about 20,000 laborers belonging to various smaller unions.

Chicago Concern "Stung."

Eau Claire, Wis., June 11.—The jury in federal court rendered a verdict of $3,000 for plaintiff, Louis E. Wilkins of Baron, against Miller and company of Chicago, and no cause of action against Murphy and company. The plantiff, it is alleged, sustained injury in a potato warehouse at Comeron.

EPIDEMIC OF SCARLET FEVER

Superintendent Orders Lakeside School Closed for Remainder of Term.

Yesterday Superintendent R. E. Denfeld of the city schools caused the Lakeside school to be closed on account of the prevalence of scarlet fever among the pupils who attend.

One teacher of the school declares that between twenty and thirty children are affected with the disease, but this Dr. E. W. Fahey, the city health commissioner, denies. At any rate the school is closed for the rest of the term and vigorous steps are being taken to stamp out the malady. Some of those affected are blaming the health department.

Dr. Fahey said this morning that the increase in cases, while not as much as reported, is due to nothing but the carelessness of parents or teachers or both. He has had the school fumigated and has had it investigated several times, having the first of those found to have scarlet fever isolated and doing everything possible to prevent a spread of the disease.

"If the disease has been spreading," said he today, "it is because of failure to promptly report cases. If reports are not made, what are we to do? It would be impossible for this department to watch the children individually. Parents should report to this department, and under the law could be compelled to do so."

W. T. McDONALD GIVEN OFFICE IN CANADA

Washington, June 11.—A station note from the Washington experimental station to the department of agriculture at Washington, D. C., reports that Prof. W. T. McDonald, professor of animal husbandry at Washington state college and animal husbandman of the station, has resigned to become livestock commissioner of British Columbia, July 1, 1912. Prof. McDonald received his B. S. A. degree from the Ontario agricultural college in 1903, and M. S. A. from Iowa state college in 1906. He was associate editor of the Farmer and manager of the Webb-Shaw experiment farm, St. Paul, Minn., 1903-1905; was professor of animal husbandry, Oklahoma agricultural and mechanical college, and animal husbandman at Oklahoma station, 1906-1908; since then at Washington in his present position.

IS SAVED BY POLE,

Bemidji, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—While responding to a hurry-up call from a patient, Dr. Einer W. Johnson of this city ran his automobile at full speed against a telegraph pole on the shore of the Mississippi river near a bridge, the pole being the only thing which kept him from plunging into the water. Dr. Johnson and Harris Nelson of Leonard, the only occupants of the machine, were thrown from the vehicle but landed without serious injury. The auto was wrecked but can be repaired. Dr. Johnson says the accident was caused by the steering gear becoming defective.

NO EXCUSE FOR DELAY.

Once more the United States supreme court has finished its periodical dealing and the Minnesota rate case is left in the deck. "'Tis true 'tis pity," etc., but it is just as well that the court has adjourned now, if it had not intended to give that decision this spring anyway, for it has saved a lot of useless and baseless argument anent the gross earnings tax bill that was likely to clutter up the legislative session.

When the matter of increasing the gross earnings tax came before the legislature at its last regular session, members who opposed that action for various causes, urged delay on the ground that the rate case was not yet out of the courts and they feared such action by the state might prejudice its case. Then came the Sanborn decision, and many people who theretofore had paid little attention to the gross earnings tax matter became suddenly convinced that an increase was necessary.

Within the next few months appeal after appeal was made to the governor to summon the legislature in extraordinary session to enact an increase in the tax. The governor repeatedly refused, and ever and always the word from his office was something to the effect that the rate case would come before the supreme court in a few weeks, a decision would be rendered soon, and it would be better for the state to wait until that final decision had been given before taking action.

And the state waited. It waited until autumn was well advanced, and saw the date for the arguments set over until January. Then it waited for January and saw the date set over again. Finally the arguments were made and the state stood on tiptoe waiting for that early decision. Now the supreme court has adjourned until the second Monday in October, and the decision has not yet materialized.

Perhaps it is just as well. If the decision had been in the state's favor, the opponents of the increase in the gross earnings tax would have raised the cry of "confiscation" against the measure, and if it had been in favor of the railroads they would have raised the cry of "retaliation." It is a case of "heads I win, tails you lose" with them. Anything to beat it. And if they could have had their way the people of the state would have gone on paying all their own taxes and bearing in addition part of the burden that should be laid on the railway corporations.

As the matter stands now it is less easy to cloud the issue of justice in taxation with the charge of retaliation. Moreover, the house has already passed the bill to raise the tax from 4 per cent to 5 per cent, and there is every reason to expect that the senate will do likewise. Then it will come before the voters at the November election, the increase in the tax can be made this year, and the state will be the gainer by some two millions of dollars that it needs and that otherwise must have been wrung out of the pockets of the individual citizens.

THE SOONER THE BETTER.

Postmaster General Hitchcock, who not so very long ago was proposing to "put the parcels post system to the test" by applying it to a certain limited portion of the postal service in this country, has had a change of heart or mind or something. In a statement made public Monday he said that legislation providing for a general parcels post throughout the United States and its possessions "except the Philippines" is "practically certain to be enacted by the present congress, perhaps before the conclusion of the session now in progress."

Here's hoping Mr. Hitchcock is a fully qualified prophet in good standing, and that he will have every reason, in this case at least, to stand up boldly and say that he told us so.

There is only one thing that could have moved the postmaster general to such a prophecy as that, and that is realization that public opinion is in favor of the establishment of the parcels post. Certainly the express companies have not yielded and dropped their opposition. If they have, it is time to get ready for some new gowns that will look well in the millennium. But seeing that there are so few other indications of the approach of that epoch, and knowing the express companies as the people have learned to know them, there isn't much use in speculating on any dropping of the fight by them.

But the express companies have not been the only ones who opposed the parcels post idea, and those other opponents will be interested in some data gathered by John M. Stahl, legislative agent for the Farmers' National Congress of America. Mr. Stahl wrote to editors of papers in various countries where the parcels post is in effect, and asked them three questions about it, as follows:

First: Do you think that your parcels post has done more harm than good to the shopkeepers in your villages, towns and small cities?
Second: Are the shopkeepers specified above opposed to your parcels post?
Third: Considering all your people, has your parcels post been a net benefit, or a net injury?

From England came the reply that the system is more a benefit than an injury to the shopkeepers, who "use it both ways." As to complaints, the writer said he had "never heard any," and to the third query the answer was, "Net benefit."

From Austria-Hungary, whose postoffice has the most liberal parcel-carrying provisions of any country on the globe, came the following three replies: "More good;" "No;" "Benefit."

Conceding the possibility of differences due to the greater areas and more scattered population of this country as compared with those of Europe, Mr. Stahl also sent his three questions to 250 newspapers in Australia and New Zealand, where the area is almost exactly the same as the United States, with a far more scattered population. Each of these 250 agreed that the system was of immense benefit to the people and that there never had been any complaint against it. As to injury to small shopkeepers, fifteen of these 250 thought it possible that some few such were injured, but they knew the rest were certainly benefited. An explanatory note added by one writer from Australia was to the effect that the parcel-carrying "does harm to the shopkeepers that charge extortionate prices" and that this element was the one that opposed it. The Australia and New Zealand correspondents also said in reply to a specific question that they have mail order houses in both those countries.

There is just one objection to the installation of the parcels post system in this country now, and that is that the express companies wouldn't like it. It's a mighty poor objection, and if the present congress is going to give us such a service, good for the present congress. And the sooner it does so, the better.

Look Out, Mr. Hitchcock.

Certain Chicago transactions, viewed in the light of precedent, might be taken to indicate that one Senator Dixon is trying to meet the latest requirements for a cabinet job.

HELLO!—RANGES?

Hello! Hello!—Ranges?——

This is Duluth. Say, we're sending you a choice bunch today, and hope you'll take good care of it——

Oh, about a hundred or so. All live ones.——

Yes. Yes, they're all good fellows, and they're going to renew acquaintance with you up there and swap a few pointers along social and commercial lines at the same time.——

What's that? Invasion?——

Oh, yes, if you want to call it that. Perfectly friendly, though. Don't forget that.——

No, Oh no. They've been there before, a good many of them, anyway. You'll find some old friends among them, and say—just take our tip and get acquainted with such of the crowd as you don't already know. They're worth getting acquainted with. Sure.——

What's that?——

Well, let's see. They're going to give you a little music—quite a bunch of warblers among them, they say—and they'll give you a little talk about what there is to see and buy down here; and they'll probably want to know something about what you have to sell, and what you need most and the best way to get it there. And they'll want to see those famous mines of yours, and the way your towns are growing. But most of all they want to talk with you fellows face to face.——

Yes, that's it. You've got the idea. Here we all are up here in this one big county, and we ought to be getting better and better acquainted all the time, and that's the prime object in sending this crowd up to you. They'll try to show you our side of the common interests, and at the same time they'll want to hear your side of it. Get sociable with them. Have a good time and lay the foundation for more good times to come.——

What's that? They're getting in now?——

Good! Well, we won't keep you. Get busy, and let us hear from you when you get time. So long.——

Thanks! So long, and good luck!

Would Explain It.

A New York girl, when asked why she never married, said that she had studied the stars and the result was a determination to remain single. Now look for odds that one of the stars was Nat Goodwin.

FIX A PAVING STANDARD.

There should be no lack of support for the movement toward standardization of paving for the city streets. It is a line of work that has been not only approved, but urged, by the American Association of Engineers, and is in line with the progress that Duluth is making in every direction.

Every city has certain conditions to face that are peculiar to itself, and these conditions are elemental in determining not only the character of its industrial life, but the materials to be used in the various branches of construction. This applies to pavements even more than to many other lines. Under the old methods of running city affairs it was customary to try one sort of paving material in one section and another in another section, even adjoining the first, with the result that some parts got a good quality of pavement and others got a makeshift.

In recent years, too, there has been a decided advance in accurate knowledge regarding the value of various materials for street-making purposes. With this knowledge available, it is possible for a city to adopt a certain standard that must be enforced on all streets where work of that character is done, and by that means those methods and materials that have proved unsatisfactory can be eliminated.

No city can afford to have poorly paved, poorly drained public thoroughfares. The condition of the street is an important factor in local trade as well as in determining the value of property. A haphazard way of going about the choice of materials and methods of laying them is all wrong, and anything short of absolute standardization must be classed as haphazard.

Moreover, with the adoption of given standards for materials and methods, there should come a saving of money, for there is comparatively little fluctuation in the prices of materials; a careful estimate of the cost of work in a locality of any given character would furnish a reasonably close estimate for work in any other locality of like character, and it would be possible to tell in advance, almost to a cent, the cost per yard of any such work that might be proposed.

By all means let us have standardization, and then adhere to a high class of work and material. Duluth is too large and covers too great an area to continue under the haphazard method. The data which the Woman's Council is gathering should be of great value in determining some of the basic features of the problem. It should be supplemented by careful study and the adoption of rules that will give the widest reasonable leeway with the greatest possible assurance of good results.

THE CONFESSED CONSPIRACY

By SAVOYARD.

It was not until he made his powerful address at Harrisburg, Pa., that Woodrow Wilson revealed himself to the American electorate as one of the greatest political philosophers, one of the profoundest political thinkers of our history. From that hour he has been the terror of those "interests" that have waxed fat on privileges—the usurped right to gather where they have not strewed. "Bad Big Business" became alarmed. Tom Ryan offered $50,000 to the Wilson campaign fund. It was rejected because Wilson refused to enter that trap, and now Tom Ryan's son is an anti-Wilson delegate from old Virginia to the Baltimore convention. Tom Ryan was willing to give $50,000 to make Woodrow Wilson president six months ago, but that was before Bad Big Business fully understood Woodrow Wilson. Since they found out what sort of man Governor Wilson is they have pursued him with malicious inveteracy in every quarter of the union.

Whatever else Joseph W. Bailey is, he is certainly candid in his discussion of the situation. Here is what Mr. Bailey told the people of Texas about it in a public address:

"I must reply to the frequent charge that Underwood, Clark and Harmon are in a joint conspiracy to defeat Governor Wilson. My countrymen, whenever you find three Democrats like them making common cause against a fourth you may be sure that the fourth ought to have common cause made against him. It is true that in some states Clark has been given the field against Wilson; in others Harmon has been given the field; in still others Underwood has been given the field. And I suppose you have heard from Georgia and Florida in the last few days. That's no crime; neither is it a combination in restraint of political ambition. Wilson represents a departure from Democratic principles and it is just and fair to see whether he could get a majority in the Democratic states or not. He has not carried a majority in a Democratic state yet and he will not carry one. He is a Southern man and yet he has not carried a Southern state that held a primary, and I don't believe he will. It is not the man: it is the policies and principles he advocates. I do not hesitate to say that I would vote for Harmon, Clark or Underwood, either or all of them, to defeat Wilson."

Mr. Bailey told the truth. Wilson is a candidate everywhere. Underwood is a candidate in a few cotton states only. Champ Clark is not a candidate in any state where either Underwood or Harmon is stronger than he. All of them seek the defeat of Wilson and each of them has plenty of money to finance his campaign.

But none of them was intrepid enough, or opulent enough, to challenge Wilson in New Jersey. That work was left to Jim Smith and William R. Hearst. The Smith machine is powerful in Essex county, that embraces two congress districts, and those two dissidents went against Wilson. Jim Smith is a delegate to the Baltimore convention. For whom will he vote? Anybody to beat Wilson. Here are some of the folks bent on defeating the governor of New Jersey: Fred Dubois, manager for Champ Clark, former Republican senator in congress and jobbyist of the Wool Growers' association. With him is one Pettigrew, another former Republican senator who supported the Lodge force bill that was designed to re-establish negro governments in the South. Then ther are the Martin machine in Virginia, the Gorman machine in Maryland, and the Baltimore city ring. To these add the Harrison machine in Chicago, William R. Hearst and Jim Smith. Nor must the Wall street jackpot be forgotten, with its millions to buy the nomination of a "safe and sane" man like Parker was and like Clark, Underwood and Harmon are. George Fred Williams and Tom Watson are also against Wilson. Was ever American so opulent in the enemies who pursued him?

But it is a big job to defeat Wilson, and he is going into the convention with about as many votes as any of them. What is more and better, those votes will stick to him. They are for him for what he believs and for the enemies he has made. If the Baltimore convention is going to nominate a ticket that William R. Hearst will support there is no use to have a convention, for there can be no race with such a ticket, and Jim Smith is nearly as bad. The other day, some twenty-four hours before the Democratic primary, one of Hearst's infamous publications was circulated over New Jersey. It had a cartoon representing an American laborer with a Chinaman on his back, and a lying editorial charging that Wilson was in favor of Chinese labor.

Now a voter who would believe any such stuff is so ignorant he would have to be shown how to vote, and so worthless that he would have to be hired to vote. But the only constituency Hearst has, the only class to whom Hearst does or can appeal, is the ignorant and depraved. And this is the man Champ Clark publicly announces that he is under obligation to. The Democratic party must not nominate for president any man who manages to get himself into a fix that would imply any obligation to this man Hearst

It is constantly and confidently asserted that if Champ Clark shall be president his secretary of state will be Hearst. I don't believe it. It is unthinkable. If Clark should he elected president he would need and have to have an exceptionally strong and respectable cabinet, for somebody would have to take Champ in charge to keep him from saying things and doing things. Oscar Underwood would be an excellent man for that purpose, but Underwood is not going to serve in a cabinet with William R. Hearst. That's flat.

Then it is common report, and that is what carried Maryland for him, that the mayor of Baltimore has been promised second place on the ticket by the Clark management. I do not believe that, either, because it ought to be impossible that such a trade could be entered into by any of the responsible managers for any candidate; but this is certain: Clark would not have secured the Maryland delegation if Mayor Preston had not believed that he had the pledge of the Clark strength for vice president.

But to get back. Mr. Bailey's declaration in Texas that there is a conspiracy entered into by the Clark, Underwood and Harmon forces to compass the defeat of Woodrow Wilson leaves no room to doubt the charge that there is such conspiracy. That matter is now settled and perhaps no further serious denial of the conspiracy—now that it has shot its bolt—will be made.

To sum up. Wilson could have had the nomination had he accepted Tom Ryan's money. Wilson would have been the only man in the running had there been no combination of the other candidates against him.

Third and last, Wilson stands an excellent chance to get the nomination in spite of them. The sound and honest judgment of the party ought to bestow the honor on him for his merits and because he is the only candidate whose nomination would be equivalent to election.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 200 words—the shorter the better. IMPROVING THE HILLSIDE AVENUES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

While this is clean up time of the year and there is a great deal said about having people clean up their back yards and alleys, I want to mention some other places that the city authorities might improve a great deal, and that is some of the avenues on the hillside that are building up with near respectable homes. Take Tenth avenue east as an example because the writer happens to live on that one. Take it from Sixth up to Tenth street. It is in terrible shape. Just last year the storm sewer was put in and the surafce was never put in shape. Just left to wear down and as a consequence the street is full of holes and mounds and rocks all over the avenue, large enough some of them to almost upset a vehicle if it happen to run onto one. The gutters are filled with filth and germs, a good deal more so than same of the back yards talked of by the health authorities. Now I don't see why when the downtown streets that are paved have men working on them continually almost, why we on the hillside should not at least have our streets and avenues put in a healthful condition once a year at least. Now referring to the above named avenue once more, if the rocks were hauled off and a drag or the road roller run over it a few times it would greatly improve it for driving purposes and in looks also and would be but a very small drain on the city's finances.

Again some day Tenth avenue will be one of the main driveways to the boulevard and the celebrated Farrell road whenever the gulch is filled up or bridged over up about Twelfth street. Yours for improvement,

C. F. STARKEY.

Duluth, June 10.

REPLIES TO MR. BERWICK.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Mr. Berwick's letter in your open court column June 7 is very kind and good. It as much as says: of two evils we ought to choose the lesser. We have to either allow the saloon keepers to "get religion" and thence impart it to the students of public schools at commencement exercises, or have the ministers do it. That is very good, but my question was how is it legal for any one to have any religious function on such occasions, where rights of conscience are to be legally protected? No matter how you boil the question it comes out, "how is it lawful?" Any child has a right to object and stop the whole proceedings, if my knowledge serves me rightly. For instance many children do not believe in Christianity at all. It is a very mean advantage to say the least of it for any one, be he saloon keeper or minister, to harangue religion either in invocation, benediction or valediction to those who do not so believe. Those who do so are violating the law, and owe an apology to those whose conscience they offend. If I am not right in point of law, I would like to be told so. VERITAS.

EBERHART AND RAILROAD GROSS EARNINGS TAX BILL.

St. Paul Dispatch: Even the friends of Governor Eberhart, in many instances, cannot see where the extra session has benefited his chances. Leadership in the house, through a shifting of committees, was delegated by Speaker Dunn to men hostile to the administration. In the senate the opposition to the chief executive always has been intense. If Governor Eberhart has any friends in the legislature, they are in the house. But even they have not been active in his behalf.

It is generally conceded that the passage of an increased gross earnings tax bill is an indirect slap at the governor. When The Duluth Herald began its crusade for an extra session, it was urged for no other purpose than boosting the gross earnings tax from 4 to 5 per cent.

At the start, practically nothing was said about reapportionment, as it was generally agreed the senate would not pass a reapportionment bill at an extra session. Governor Eberhart resolutely refused to call an extra session to boost railroad taxes, urging that there would be plenty of time when the decision was given in the Minnesota rate case.

When the chief executive decided to call an extra session he did not include in his call a gross earnings tax bill.

The opposition seized on this as an opportunity to make capital against the Eberhart-Smith organization. With the house tax committee enlarged by Speaker Dunn, it was comparatively easy to secure a favorable report on a gross earnings tax bill.

As the bill provides for the submission to a vote of a constitutional amendment at the next general election, Governor Eberhart has no control over the measure by veto. The opposition is preparing already to challenge Governor Eberhart's failure to include the passage of an increased gross earnings tax bill in his message.

The Cleveland Chamber of Commerce is now attempting to drive out swindlers who make $250,000 a year from their sucker list. It is applying in Ohio the lessons taught recently in Kansas. A card index called the "sucker list," gives the names of the local easy marks and is in the possession of every stock swindle headquarters. There are said to be more than 30,000 names from Cleveland on the list. What the chamber of commerce is doing is to invite everybody who is approached by a salesman with any stock scheme to write to the secretary and the attorney of the chamber for information. They are doing this work now, but they hope the state will do it later. Here are some of the promoting experts:

J. Jones, 1127 Blank street, grocer—easy mark.

J. Smith, 27 Dash street, doctor—talk to him about his son—easy.

Herrick Was Useless.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "The queerest talk I ever had over the telephone," confided Myron T. Herrick, just before he left us, "was down in Columbus, when I had the honor of being the governor of this state.

"I was about to retire for the night when a local reporter rang me up. You must know that I had been reported dead that evening. I was in the best of health, as a matter of fact, but it was said that I had gone the way of all flesh. On this last call I answered the 'phone myself.

"'Mr. Herrick's residence?'

"'Yes, sir.'

"'Is he dead?'

"'No.'

"'Do you think he'll die tonight?'

"'I do not.'

"'Well, if he does, will you answer the 'phone and tell me?'

"'It won't be possible in that case.'

"'It won't eh? Well, get somebody on the line that can help me out—you are useless.'

"I acknowledged by limitations," continued our new ambassador, "and sent the cook to see if she could do better."

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1892.

President Benjamin Harrison was renominated by the Republican national convention at Minneapolis yesterday afternoon on the first ballot, the vote standing: Harrison, 554 1-6; Blaine, 162 5-6; McKinley, 173. The Blaine men had practically given up the fight, when the majority report of the credentials committee was adopted by a vote of 463½ to 423½.

At the June meeting of the Jobbers' union Messrs. Ferguson, Fitzgerald, McIver and Anneke were appointed to act with committees from other bodies in preparing for the reception of visitors from the Republican national convention, and Messrs. Patrick, Hawkes, Cutler and Woodward were appointed on the reception committee.

The Trades and Labor assembly has nominated the following candidates for offices to be filled at the next meeting: President, James McDowell and E. Applehagen; vice president, R. Richter; recording secretary, E. Applehagen; financial secretary, L. K. McChesney; treasurer, T. R. Gleason; statistician, James McDowell; sersergeant-at-arms, M. Gleason, C. Johnson; trustees, Messrs. Lindsay, Weber, Jennings, Richart and Applehagen.

The St. Cloud Journal-Press announces that Judge D. B. Searle of that city has consented to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress from this district. The only other candidate announced is H. C. Kendall of Duluth, he having defeated Col. C. H. Graves in the St. Louis county convention.

The Miller-Calhoun Opera company will open a six weeks' engagement at the Lyceum on June 14. The company includes Miss Lotta Gilman, Miss Julia Calhoun, Miss Eugenia Nichelsen, Miss Gertie Lodge, Tom Martin, Douglas A. Flint and Charles J. Campbell. A special feature will be the Misses May and Affie Warner, noted danseuses, late of the Pauline Hall company.

On June 25 the corner stone of Duluth's new government building will be laid by the Masonic fraternity, the government having granted permission at the request of President T. W. Hugo of the city council. Grand Master A. Barto of St. Cloud will lay the stone and members of the lodges throughout the state will assist in the exercises. Walter Van Brunt has been appointed to secure the metal box to be laid in the stone and the documents to be placed in it.

The body of Joseph H. Keiver of Keiver & Burke, contractors, of Superior, was found in the Floodwood river yesterday. The theory of accidental drowning seems to be well established.

THE EXTRA SESSION.

He Always Was.

Cannon Falls Beacon: As we digest the meaning of an extra session the conviction grows upon us that "Boss" Smith is an astute politician.

Justifiable Doubt.

Montevideo Leader: It is plain that Governor Eberhart was not anxious that the people should be benefited by a special session of the legislature until he discovered that his own chances for continuing in office were in great danger. Then he got busy. It's the first time in our recollection when it was deemed necessary to convene a state legislature in special session to save a man's political bacon and we doubt if this will do it.

Playing Politics.

Roseau Region: The calling of the legislature together at this time is playing politics at the expense of the people. There was a genuine demand for an extra session last winter. No such a demand exists at this time. The move is a political trick, intended on the one hand to deceive the people as to the real issues at stake and on the other to make political capital for those who awoke lately to find that they had fallen under the disfavor of the people.

Not Many.

Wahkon Enterprise: Governor Eberhart's delayed acquiescence to the demand for an extra session of the legislature does not seem to have gained him any appreciable number of supporters.

Probably a Boomerang.

Holt Northern Light: Governor Eberhart's calling of a special session of the legislature at this time is regarded by a lot of people as the prize bungle of his decidedly bunglesome administration.

Eberhart Smoked Out.

Perham Enterprise: The state convention smoked out Eberhart, but not until the governor thought he saw a chance to divide the forces of the Progressives and improve his chances for renomination. Admittedly the governor has a better chance in a divided field than he has in a divided convention, but the right kind of progressivism on the part of the other candidates can put a quietus on the game or a first and second choice primary law prevent a minority nomination. The sudden awakening to the "popular demand" which not long ago was strenuously denied existence is a recognition of the fact that the old gang is doomed—and few will gainsay that it is a well merited fate.

Desperate Throw.

Buffalo Journal: It is practically admitted that the call for the extra session was a desperate throw by the governor. The newspapers generally have commented along the same lines as expressed by the following in the Belle Plaine Herald: "He looks upon the passage of the statewide primary law as his only chance of securing his own nomination, and it is quite obvious that he would be turned down under the present convention plan." That being true it is hardly possible that he would get enough votes at a primary election to secure the nomination, even without a second choice, but we expect to see the second choice provided for in any primary bill which may be passed.

Second Choice Provision.

St. Charles Union: Governor Eberhart's deathbed repentance in calling an extra session to pass a direct primary law, a corrupt practices act and a reapportionment bill will be of no consequence in saving his political head from the noose this fall. Realizing, from the result of the recent convention, that even under the present machine-controlled convention system Eberhart was doomed and the straw governor is now reaching for the last straw. The game now appears to be to pass a direct primary law, and this law will be the means of nominating the present governor unless it provides for a second choice. Having only one choice would give Eberhart the solid machine and standpat vote while the other votes would be divided between the multiplicity of candidates. But by the second choice the real sentiment of the voters could be ascertained, and Eberhart's defeat would be a certainty. Watch the gang fight against a second choice primary.

Guns Heard Ninety-Seven Miles.

Letter in London Spectator: My house is on a high hill near Godalming, and as I sat reading the other afternoon I heard, or rather felt, a long vibrating boom several times repeated. I thought it must be a motor van maneuvering behind the house, but found nothing there. Then I guessed what it might be, and forthwith wrote to the chief gunnery officer of H. M. S. Orion to make sure. Through the very kind courtesy of this gentleman, I am able to state for certain that the discharge of the Orion's guns was distinctly audible ninety-seven statute miles from the ship, the sound taking somewhere about eleven minutes to travel the distance.

An Exciting Dinner.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "How did that New York dinner pan out?"

Fine. I never was so much waited on in my life. A bellboy brought the soup, the night clerk handled the game, one of the chambermaids fetched the roast, the elevator man served the salad, the bootblack juggled the dessert, and the manager himself brought the crackers and coffee. It was awfully exciting."

Full Meed of Honor.

New York World: The captain of the Carpathia, with the thanks of congress, a $1,000 gold medal, public tributes of all kinds and the kisses of feminine admirers as well, may be said to have received a variegated lot of rewards for his rescue of the Titanic's survivors. And there is besides the consideration of his public fame for a life time—surely a meed of honor for an act of humanity at sea.

Yes, It Is Not.

Chicago Tribune: It is remarkable what an interest stenographers show in their work at this time o' year. Is it not?

AT THE FOUNTAIN.

Boston Transcript: In the limited repertory of solo pieces for the violoncello is a charming little scherzo by Charles Davidoff (none but virtuosi need apply) named, on programs, "Am Springbrunnen." Properly played, it bubbles and sparkles; there is flavor to it, bite, and foaming fizz. And though the playing of it on a hot day is warm work, it is the soda water of music, and a very refreshing drink it is, too.

Something like the felicity of this music hovers about all the soda water fountains in warm weather. They may not be altogether the best arsenal of ammunition against hot weather, but they are so much better than the worst that it is well to ask ourselves whether we are half thankful enough for them. Cold and cheerless these fountains look in winter, and it needed a good dozen years for them to establish a claim to all-the-year-round business, chiefly by the aid of hot cocoa; but on certain warm days they loom up as the shadow of a great rock in a thirsty land. And the thirst is an innocent thirst. Americans sojourning on the Continent report as their most acute pangs of homesickness the unprocurability of peanuts and the absence of soda fountains. Europeans view our addiction to soft drinks with mingled amusement and scorn. That suave, if mendacious, advertisement which long gladdened the eyes of our forefathers could be truthfully translated for the soda fountain: "When she was a child she cried for soft drinks, when she was a miss she used soft drinks, when she married she served soft drinks, when she had children she gave them soft drinks." Let the muckrakers abuse them as they will; no doubt certain of them have been greviously "doped;" but the fact remains that the soda fountain is still the militant wing of the W. C. T. U., and how many lads a hopeless addiction to strawberry pop has saved from drunkards' graves will never be known even to the anxious parents who nurse them through their stomach-aches.

At the beginning of the heated term, therefore, let us hymn the soda fountain. It has become quite as much the fountain of ginger ale, and egg drinks, and phosphates, and submerged ices, but it is still and always a true American institution; beneficent, innocuous, satisfying, a place where the poorest as well as the richest may squander nickles and dimes with a wholly blameless sense of riotous living and no evil consequences save a somewhat soggy interior for the rest of the afternoon. The soda fountain is, in short, the bounteous breast of democracy; we are all equal at the marble slab.

Some day, when the soda fountain has passed, giving place to a counterless harmful—which the gods delay—historians will chronicle its vogue and its immense esteem as a proof of those simple tastes and rugged, abstemious virtues on which nations grow to greatness—as the Romans on their sense of duty. And our children's children will be exhorted to renounce the Falernian and return to the soft drinks of their forefathers. Until that day, "An egg-phosphate for mine, please!"

The Morals of Animals.

John Burroughs in the Century: I fear we can not find much support for our ethical system in the ways of wild nature. I know my friend Thompson-Seton claims to find what he may call the biological value of the Ten Commandments in the lives of the wild animals; but I can not make his reasoning hold water, at least not much of it. Of course the Ten Commandments are not arbitrary laws. They are largely founded upon the needs of the social organism; but whether they have the same foundation in the needs of animal life apart from man, apart from the world of moral obligation, is another question.

The animals are neither moral nor immoral; they are unmoral; their needs are all physical. It is true that the command against murder is pretty well kept by the higher animals. They rarely kill their own kind; hawks do not prey upon hawks; nor foxes prey upon foxes, nor weasels upon weasels; but lower down this does not hold. Trout eat trout, and pickerel eat pickerel, and among the insects young spiders eat one another, and the female spider eats her mate if she can get him. There is but little if any neighborly love among even the higher animals. They treat one another as rivals, or associate for mutual protection. One cow will lick and comb another in the most affectionate manner, and the next moment savagely gore her.

Hate and cruelty for the most part rule in the animal world. A few of the higher animals are monogamous, but by far the greater number of species are polygamous or promiscuous. There is no mating or pairing in the great bovine tribe, and none among the rodents that I know of, or among the bear family, or the cat family, or among the seals. When we come to the birds we find mating and occasional pairing for life, as with the ostrich and perhaps the eagle.

As for the rights of property among the animals, I do not see how we can know just how far those rights are respected among individuals of the same species. We know that bees will rob bees, and that ants will rob ants; but whether or not one chipmunk or one flying squirrel or one wood mouse will plunder the stores of another I do not know. Probably not, as the owner of such stores is usually on hand to protect them.

A Real Friend.

Detroit Free Press: "Brown volunteered to lend me some money."

"Did you take it?"

"No. That sort of friendship is too good to lose."

HISTORY OF IRON MINING

T. J. Walsh Is Writing the Story of the Minnesota Ranges.

Is Only Surviving Member of the First Exploring Party.

A complete history of the iron industry in Minnesota is being written by Thomas J. Walsh, president of the North American Iron Mining company, the Combination & Vermilion Extension company and the Minnesota Steel & Iron company.

The history will give a complete account of the events connected with the discovery of iron ore in this state. It will tell how George R. Stuntz, a Duluth surveyor, happened to pick up a piece of iron ore not far from Vermillion lake in 1880; how George C. Stone of Marquette, Mich., became interested; how the firm of George C. Stone & Co. of that city employed Peter Erickson and Andrew Sandell to explore for iron ore on the shore of Vermillion lake, where the Soudan mine is now located.

"I was hired to go with Mr. Erickson and Mr. Sandell," said Mr. Walsh, today. "I had the job of driving the cart. I was only 13 years old then. It was in the year 1882. Both of those men are now dead. Mr. Stone is also dead. Edward N. Breitung of the firm of George C. Stone & Co., after whom we called our place of excavation the Breitung mine, is also dead. Of all those who were interested in this exploration for iron ore, I think I am the only survivor. Our party was the first that ever went after iron ore in the state of Minnesota and we found it.

"In the fall of that same year the property of George C. Stone & Co. was taken over by the newly organized Minnesota Iron company. All that property consisted of was four quarter sections of land, a horse and cart, and a few picks and shovels. The new company consisted of George C. Stone, E. N. Breitung, Charlemange Tower, Sr., of Philadelphia, and Marshall Field and Lazarus Silverman, both of Chicago. Every one of those original organizers is dead. The mine is now the Soudan and is owned by the United States Steel corporation, which acquired it from the Minnesota Iron company in 1900.

"The drill steel that we used we found on Gold Island in Vermillion lake. These implements had been abandoned by the gold diggers, who operated on that island in 1856. We found many things on that island which came in very handy with our work. We picked up old hammers which we were very glad to get. Some old boilers that we found on that island we converted into stoves. We brought these things over the water from the island in a boat which we constructed out of boards, sawed from the timber around us. We would suspend a log in the air and saw it up and down, one man being above and the other below, with a cross-cut saw. Our nails we manufactured from some bar iron. Our anvil consisted of a piece of steel driven into a stump. We made our own charcoal to heat our iron, as we had no coal. It was thus that we heated our drills.

Flour $00 a Sack.

"Our bread was baked at the Sucker Point Indian Reservation school by Mrs. Donaldson, a squaw, wife of the Indian farmer, who was a white man. Such food was very expensive. Indian flour often cost $60 a sack, each sack containing 96 pounds. Talk about high cost of living! Can you beat that? For pork our company had to pay $100 a barrel. Each barrel contained 200 pounds, thus making a price of 50 cents a pound for pork. The meat trust seems generous when I remember those prices. Most of our food consisted of wild rice, fish, partridges, beans and sorghum molasses. Once for a stretch of ten days we lived on sorghum molasses, fish and partridge."

Though only a lad of 13 at the time, the narrator of this history knew something of the existence of primitive people on the soil of Minnesota, long before either the Europeans or the Indians were there, and from time to time he picked up relics of rare historical value. These he has preserved to this day. Among these curiosities, which he gathered, are about thirty pieces of tempered copper, consisting of arrow heads, spear heads, knives and other weapons and implements. Mr. Walsh declares that as far as he knows he possesses the best collection of tempered copper relics in existence outside of the National museum. The primitive people who made these implements out of copper knew how to temper and harden it, but this is now a lost art, a fact that makes the relics all the more precious. A few years ago a representative of the National museum attempted to buy Mr. Walsh's collection, but he would not part with it at any price.

In addition to the tempered copper relics. Mr. Walsh picked up a number of implements belonging to the stone age. Most of these were weapons, being for the most part the heads of hammers, which were probably used in fighting.

Mr. Walsh's history will contain the whole story of the big steel plant at Duluth. As his story of that plant must be complete, his book cannot be finished until that establishment is completed and in operation.

IS LET OFF WITH FINE

Mrs. Clara St. Marie Escapes With Payment of $250.

Clara St. Marie, 22-year-old wife of Philip St. Marie, who with her husband was convicted at this term of the district court of the crime of sharing in the earnings of an immoral woman, got off lightly when brought up before Judge Dibell yesterday for sentence. She was sentenced to pay a fine of $250 or spend six months in the county jail. The fine was paid.

Mrs. St. Marie and her husband were found guilty by a jury of having received earnings from 17-year-old Minnie Lee, a wayward girl. The Lee girl had a room at the St. Marie home, 123½ West First street, and she claims that in return for the privilege of bringing men to her room, the St. Maries were given half of the money that she received.

Under the laws of 1909 the offense of receiving earnings from a prostitute is a crime punishable by not more than three years in the state's prison. St. Marie, who was indicted and convicted jointly with his wife, will be up later for sentence before Judge Dibell.

LAST VOTE IN FAVOR OF CANADIAN CHURCH UNION.

Edmonton, Alta., June 11.—The Presbyterian general assembly of Canada, in session here, unanimously voted to enter into an organic union with the Methodist and Congregational churches of the Dominion of Canada. The two other denominations acted favorably on the question last year, and it only awaited the action of the Presbyterians to make the union complete.

STUDENT ACCUSED OF TAKING ENGINEER'S LICENSE.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 11.—A senior in the engineering department of the university has lost his diploma and his second class engineer's license has been revoked, as a result of a theft of a first class engineer's license from J. H. Colwell, state boiler inspector, Saturday. The authorities are withholding the name of the student.

Pressure is being brought to have the license returned and if he can "square" himself with the university authorities, he probably will be given his second class license. It is said that he has made a clean breast of the affair to Mr. Colwell and has asked the inspector to be lenient.

The first class license was taken from Mr. Colwell's pad while he was delivering an address at the agricultural college.

HANCOCK BOY FALLS FROM DOCK, DROWNS.

Hancock, Mich., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Makl, aged 8 years, was drowned Monday in Portage lake here. While leaning over the edge of the dock he fell in.

TWO FISHERMEN DROWN.

Lose Their Lives When Boat Upsets in Bass Lake.

Fergus Falls, Minn., June 11.—Coroner Vigen was notified late Sunday of a double drowning in Bass lake, in the central part of Otter Tail county. Erick Felde, a widower, 50 years old, and Christian Johnson, 38 years old, had gone to the lake Saturday evening to fish. Shortly before noon Sunday an overturned boat was seen in the lake and a search resulted in finding hats and oars. Grappling irons were secured and the bodies were recovered last night.

The boat was small and both victims were heavy men. It is supposed they had been fishing and had started to draw up the anchor at dark Saturday night and in so doing overturned the boat.

TIMBER BURNING IN CANADIAN ROCKIES.

Winnipeg, Man., June 11.—Forest fires in the vicinity of Golden, in the Rocky mountains are destroying vast quantities of timber. A large mill on the Columbia river, belonging to the Columbia River Lumber company, was burned, together with a large quantity of logs and standing timber. Three hundred men are fighting the fire in that vicinity.

Another forest fire is raging on the west side of Blackberry creek, west of Golden, and is said to be spreading toward the town. The financial loss cannot be estimated yet, but will reach hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Buried at Fergus Falls.

Fergus Falls, Minn., June 11.—The remains of Andrew Olson Krattebol were brought from Duluth Friday afternoon and the funeral took place Saturday from Our Saviour's church, the services being conducted by Rev. D. J. Grove. Mr. Krattebol was employed at the insane hospital here three years ago, and his brother is still employed there. His father and mother reside in Norway.

WOOD, FUNSTON AND GOETHALS HIT

Senate Adopts Conference Report on Army Appropriation Bill.

Washington, June 11.—The senate by a vote of 27 to 24 adopted the report of senate and house conferees, containing a number of anti-administration provisions, on the army appropriation bill. One of these provisions would legislate out of office Gen. Leonard Wood, present chief of staff of the army. As agreed to, the bill would require army officers acting as chief of staff after March 4 next to have had at least ten years' service in the line with rank below brigadier. The provisions were the subject of a three-hour bitter debate. It was contended the chief of staff restriction was directed at Gen. Wood, and that it had been inserted by the conferees without the consent of either house. The provision also would affect unfavorably Gen. Funston and Col. Goethals. The house has not yet adopted the report, but probably will do so at once.

DR. McGREGOR SENT TO PRISON FOR LIFE.

Bad Axe, Mich., June 11.—Dr. Robert A. McGregor of Ubly, recently convicted of murder in the first degree in connection with the death of Seyrel Sparling, has been sentenced to life imprisonment in Jackson prison. Dr. McGregor was found guilty of causing Young Sparling's death by administering poison. Mrs. Carrie Bodle Sparling, the boy's mother, soon is to be tried on a similar charge.

Escanaba Man Accused.

Escanaba, Mich., June 11.—Patrick Boyle of this city is under arrest charged with robbing Richard Roberts, a timber jobber of Northland, of $150. Roberts invited Boyle to his camp and in the night, it is said, rifled the pockets of his benefactor and made his escape. When accused he made no denial

IS GRANTED HER FREEDOM

Both Cases Against Mrs. Eleanor Torrence Are Dismissed.

Jury Disagreed at Each of the Two Trials Held.

Eleanor Torrence, wife of A. W. Torrence, twice tried for grand larceny at the March term of the district court, will not be retried, although the two former trials resulted in jury disagreements.

Upon the motion of Assistant County Attorney Warren E. Greene yesterday, Judge Dancer dismissed the two indictments which have been hanging over her head since the grand jury met in March.

Mrs. Torrence was indicted and tried on two counts. At the first trial she was accused of having stolen several articles from Mrs. Clara Harris, one of her tenants. The jury disagreed after having been out several hours.

The second prosecution, which also resulted in a mistrial, involved the claim of the state that she had stolen goods valued at between $200 and $400 from Mrs. Lila W. Breckenridge, another one of her tenants.

Both trials were tedious affairs and dragged in the courts for several days. The case was hard fought by both the state and defense. Mr. Greene represented the prosecution and Andrew Nelson was attorney for the defense.

Mrs. Torrence was released from bonds by an order of the court yesterday.

FREAR SEEKING VOTES.

Wisconsin Congressional Candidate to Speak at Barron.

Cumberland, Wis., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary of States James A. Frear spent yesterday here and is booked to speak at the Barron County Dairymen's convention at Barron today. Mr. Frear is a congressional candidate from this, the newly created Tenth, district and his candidacy is receiving very favorable consideration and his nomination is conceded by many throughout the district.

Husband Held for Murder.

Sturgis, S. D., June 11.—Mrs. Edwin Southmand, who resides on a ranch with her husband twenty miles north of this place, was found dead in bed with a gunshot wound in her body. Edwin Southmand, her husband, was taken into custody after a coroner's jury returned a verdict that the wound was not self-inflicted. Southmand claims she shot herself.

UNCONSCIOUS FOR A WEEK

Little West End Girl Still Lies in State of Coma.

Sustained Fracture of Skull in Fall From Porch.

For exactly a week Agnes Mehrman, the 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mehrman, 1723 New street, has been lying at the St. Mary's hospital in an unconscious state. The little girl fell twenty-seven feet from the top of the porch at her home last Tuesday afternoon and she is still in the same unconscious condition as when picked up immediately after the accident.

The child has not regained consciousness for a single moment during the past week and her recovery is still in doubt. The child's skull was slightly fractured in the accident. One of the hospital attendants said yesterday that a change is expected within a day or two. It is almost impossible to make a thorough examination of the child in her present condition and the nature of any internal injuries there may be cannot be learned as yet.

The accident occurred at 3:30 o'clock last Tuesday afternoon, while Agnes and several of her playmates were playing on the proch of the Mehrman home. The children were watching a workman carrying some boards through a window of the home, when Agnes leaned over too far, falling to the ground. The child was immediately rushed to the hospital, where she has been attended by Dr. J. W. Ekblad.

BEGIN WORK ON NEW CLUB ROOMS

Work has been bgun by the Duluth Street Railway company on the new clubrooms to be built at the barns, Twenty-seventh avenue west and Superior street, for the benefit of the motormen and conductors.

Plans for this addition to the car barns were made several weeks ago, when the addition and improvement were ordered by the management. The estimated cost of the improvement is $3,000. Two large rooms will be built in the rear of the car house, with an entrance on Superior street and another on First street. The rooms are expected to be finished and completely furnished by July 15.

The rooms will be 40 feet long and 20 feet wide, entirely surrounded by brick walls so that the gases from the car barn will not penetrate the rooms. The lower room will be provided with books, newspapers and magazines. Several reading tables and one or two pool tables will be installed. A small room to the left will contain the lavatory and three shower baths.

The room to the right will be fitted with a lunch counter similar to the short order restaurants of this city. No provisions for serving lunch have been made as yet, but it was announced yesterday that the privilege will be leased to one of the local restaurants within a few days. The second floor will have several beds to be used by the employes, who are compelled to work on the late runs. The second floor will also be provided with lockers, reading tables and game boards. A caretaker is to be placed in charge of the quarters.

VASA LODGES WILL MEET HERE

Annual District Convention Will Be Held in Duluth June 21.

Representatives from all the Vasa Order lodges in Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin will gather in Duluth for the annual district convention Sunday and Monday, June 21 and 22. This is the first convention ever held outside of the Twin Cities and will take place at the new Woodman hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street.

The convention will begin with a social session on Sunday afternoon, June 21, at which a large class of candidates will be initiated into the local order, No. 170. In the evening a banquet will be given for the visiting delegates. The auxiliary order of the local lodge will have charge of the affair.

The business session will be held on Monday, when the insurance rates of the order will be discussed and officers elected for the year. The two Duluth lodges will have about 600 present at the meetings, while the Superior lodge of 400 members will also be well represented. The national order now has 300 lodges with a total membership of 30,000.

The executive committee in charge of the convention is as follows: Andrew Horngren, chairman; Peter Olson, Otto Gafvert, John Brandt and C. E. Loff. The district officers are Carl E. Skoe of St. Paul, district master; Mr. Horngren, vice district master; and Theodore Nygren of Minneapolis, secretary.

Tetu-Gibeau.

Miss Irene Tetu, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Tetu, 2713 Huron street, and Napoleon Gibeau were married at 8 o'clock this morning at the St. Jean Baptiste Catholic church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. Following the ceremony a breakfast was served for the relatives at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Gibeau will make their home in the West end after a short wedding trip.

BRYANT ALUMNI WILL HAVE BANQUET.

The Bryant Alumni association will hold its annual banquet this evening for the graduating class at the school assembly hall, Vernon and Third street. Percy Clarey will be toastmaster and Boyd Yergan, president of the association, will give the opening address of welcome. During the evening the following program of toasts will be rendered: "The Bryant," Miss Lucille Gorby; "The Origin if the Alumni," Miss Clara Goodhand; and "The Old Times," Gaylord Halverson.

The banquet will start at 7 o'clock and will be followed by the program of toasts and musical numbers. The entire alumni association, the teachers of the school and the following twenty-five members of the graduating class will attend the banquet and entertainme..t: Milton John Anderson, Carl Elmer Hammer, Albert John Hoch, William Adolph Johnson, John Alfred Olson, Albert Edwin Peterson, Carl Gilbert Sundholm, Ernest Edward Sundholm, Anton Vent, Alvin Carl John Willberg, Emauel Westberg, Mabel Theresa Frestedt, Myrl Marie Churchill, Julia Violet Gabrielson, Inez Geraldine Hangenud, Margaret Leella Jeffrey, Ensil Delia Johnson, Martha Florence Labod, Myrtle Victoria Mathison, Dora Frances Mitchell, Leona Helen Rosek, Romona Agnes Super, Ella Marie Gabrielson.

HIGHER EDUCATION IS SPEAKER'S THEME.

William E. McEwen spoke on "Higher Education" at the annual business and social meeting of the Adams Alumni association held last evening at the school assembly hall, Seventeenth avenue west and Superior street. Mr. McEwen urged the members to aim for the best in education at all times. Higher education, he said, will prepare one for a fuller enjoyment of life.

Andrew Johnson was elected president of the association for the ensuing year; Daniel Johnson, vice president; Arthur Helam, secretary; and Miss Gladys Wheelock, treasurer. The program for the evening was opened with a vocal solo by Miss Myrtle Harding and included readings by Miss Enid Shaw and several songs by the class of 1912. There were about 100 young people present.

PROPERTY OWNERS WILL TALK PAVING.

The property owenrs on Twenty-seventh avenue west will meet tomorrow evening at the polling place on Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street. Final arrangements will be made for the circulation of a petition among the property owners of the street for the grading and paving of the thoroughfare.

The plan at present is to make a 24-foot roadway, surfaced with crushed rock and to have cement curbing and sidewalk. The plans include Michigan and Fifth streets, but it is probable that the work may be extended to Seventh street, as a large real estate holder on this part of the avenue is anxious to pave the street. Several of the owners below Michigan street are also in favor of the improvement and the petition may include the property owners from Railroad street to Seventh street along Twenty-seventh avenues west.

FUNERAL OF ONE OF VICTIMS OF DROWNING.

The funeral of Maxime Donnie, 40 years old, 2807 West Third street, who was drowned Sunday noon while working at the Mullery-McDonald mill, at the foot of Thirty-fourth avenue west, will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning from the St. Jean Baptiste Catholic church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. Interment will be at Calvary cemetery.

The arrangements for the funeral of Henry La Croix, 38 years old, 315 Park avenue, the other victim of the accident, have not been made. The body is at the Durkan & Crawford undertaking rooms awaiting the arrival of out-of-town relatives.

Confirmation Class.

Rev. C. G. Olson of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, has started a new confirmation class of thirty-nine members. Of this number twenty-two are boys and seventeen girls. The next meeting will be held Saturday morning, June 22.

NEW WAHKON M. E. CHURCH DEDICATED

District Superintendent Copper and Another Duluth Minister Take Part.

Wahkon, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The First Methodist Episcopal church of Wahkon was dedicated last Sunday. The dedication services were in charge of Rev. Dr. E. K. Copper of Duluth, district superintendent, assisted by Rev W. H. Farrell, pastor of Asbury M. E. church, Duluth, and Rev. Edward McCann, pastor of the local church.

Dr. Copper preached at the afternoon service, from the text "We Are Laborers Together With God." The church was well filled and the district superintendent's remarks were well received. At the close of this service a Sunday school was organized, with the following officers: G. E. Sloan, superintendent; A. J. Wagner, assistant superintendent; Miss Julia Oby, secretary; Mrs. A. J. Wagner, treasurer; Miss Margaret Huftelen, organist. The graded system of lessons will be adopted, instead of the international system.

New Members Received.

The attendance at the evening service was somewhat larger than in the afternoon. Twelve were received into full membership and three on probation. Rev. Mr. Farrell preached an excellent sermon on "The Great Salvation." After the sermon Dr. Copper announced that there was a floating debt of about $200 that must be provided for before the dedication could be completed, and called for subscriptions. The amount was raised in a few minutes. The trustees then presented the building to the district superintendent for formal dedication. Special music was a feature of all the services.

The building has just been completed and furnished, and represents a cash expenditure and valuation of upwards of $1,500.00. The furnishings are complete—a handsome pulpit, the handiwork of a local mechanic, a splendid organ, chairs enough to seat nearly the capacity of the building, a full complement of hymn books, lights, etc. Revs. Copper and Farrell paid high compliment to those who had been instrumental in accomplishing what had been done and stated that few of the smaller churches started out as auspiciously as this one.

Convicted at Manitowoc.

Manitowoc, Wis., June 11.—John Radej, tried here for the killing of John Rolland, a farm hand, was found guilty of murder Monday in the second degree. Radej killed Rolland on a farm near here May 17. The case will be appealed.

Mother of Eleven Gets Divorce.

Fergus Falls, Minn., June 11.—A divorce has been granted to Mrs. Johanna Tabery, who charged cruelty against her husband. The couple are parents of eleven children, ranging in age from 1 year to 26 years.

TEMPERANCE SOCIETY OPPOSES DANCING IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The proposed holding of dances in public schools, the teaching of folk dances to children and the violation of the liquor laws were the chief subjects discussed last evening at the regular monthly meeting of the Union Temperance society, held at the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street.

The members of the society went on record as being opposed to dancing in the schools.

The subject was brought up following the reading of the newspaper clippings to the effect that the school board will be requested to permit dancing in the schools of this city. Several of the members of the union gave short talks on the subject, after which the society voted to oppose the movement.

Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the First Swedish Baptist church, said: "I cannot understand why members of the Woman's council should favor dancing in schools. The council has other things to do besides furthering things which lead to the destruction of the home. The people whom we represent, which means a large population in the West end, are opposed to it, and I am in favor of this society going on record as unalterably opposed to it."

Folk Dances Opposed.

Mrs. E. Gustafson, president of the Scandinavian Women's Christian Temperance union, deplored the fact that folk dances are being taught in the public schools. "These folk dances," she said, "are the ones which are held by the lower elements of the countries of Europe, Russia, the Scandinavian peninsula, Finland and Germany.

"While they are innocent enough with the little children, it gives them an idea of dancing and the thought that dancing in all its stages may be proper. I think it is a disgrace that our children and those of other parents, who are opposed to dancing, should be taught that which may tend to degrade them in later years."

"Schools are free from religion and they should be just as free from those things which are irreligious," said Rev. C. G. Olson, pastor of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church. "The teachers are not allowed to teach what the church would like and it is just as proper that they should not instruct in that which we believe is wrong.

"I am opposed to any form of dancing in the schools, because it brings my children in contact with it. I believe it would infuse a spirit which would later land them in the public dance halls. It is better to keep this form of temptation from the school than to allow it to exist and keep the children from it.

"A recent report of an attorney, who had made investigations of immoral cases, claims that 75 per cent of young women who had gone to the bad had taken their first step downward through the dance hall evil. If that is so, is it not a sufficiently strong argument?"

Although no action was taken on the violation of the saloon laws, the members held a general discussion on the subject. Several of the speakers claimed that the hotels are running their bar rooms every Sunday and that the liquor laws are constantly being violated. The union indorsed the re-election of Capt. D. E. Stevens as a member of the school board and also signed a petition by a unanimous vote offering the name of L. A. Simonson as a candidate for school director.

More Dollars for Jingles

In June, 1912, 50 persons will make $20.00 each writing short, snappy Post Toasties Jingles most acceptable for a "Toasties" Jingle Book.

This offer for June, 1912, is entirely separate from, and in addition to, the Jingles purchased by us in May, 1912.

Read instructions below, then see how good a Post Toasties Jingle you can write. It's pleasant amusement for Girls and Boys and older folks.

A COMPLETE JINGLE
(As an example only)

Early morning breakfast, sad 'tis to relate,
Servant over-slept today, getting awful late,
Father growing nervous wants a bite to eat,
Calls for his Post Toasties, goodness, that's a treat.

FINISH THIS JINGLE

Old Mother Hubbard's family, a happy bunch were they,
Of healthy little kiddies playing all the day,
History hasn't told us, but to me t'would seem,

Sign here—Name..... Date .....

Street ..... City ..... State .....

Address and mail your Jingles to

Jingle Dept. 297, POSTUM CEREAL CO., LTD., BATTLE CREEK, MICH.

Use of above form of answer is suggested, but not required.

We will buy 50 Post Toasties Jingles, acceptable for use in a Jingle Book, received during June, 1912, at $20.00 each.

Only the Jingles we pay for will be used, but no Jingles, whether purchased or not, will be returned.

The names and addresses of the writers of the 50 Jingles purchased in June, 1912, will be printed and mailed to each enquirer who sends us a 1c stamped and addressed envelope for return.

The Jingles will be judged honestly upon merit, so if you are a sensitive person and not a good sportsman don't try, for we have no time to "pet up" those whose Jingles are not accepted.

Fill in the missing line of the incomplete Jingle printed above, making the last line include the name "Toasties," with correct rhyme and metre.

Or, write an original Post Toasties Jingle of not less than 4 lines, any one line of which must contain "Post Toasties" or "Toasties."

As many Jingles may be submitted as desired. No Jingle submitted in May, 1912, will be considered in this June, 1912, offer.

One can make this a pleasant form of entertainment, may make some extra money, and in addition become acquainted with

Bowels Are Basis of Child Health

The careful mother, who watches closely the physical peculiarities of her children, will soon discover that the most important thing in connection with a child's constant good health is to keep the bowels regularly open. Sluggish bowels will be followed by loss of appetite, restlessness during sleep, irritability and a dozen and one similar evidences of physical disorder.

At the first sign of such disorder give the child a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring and repeat the dose the following night if necessary—more than that will scarcely be needed. You will find that the child will recover its accustomed good spirits at once and will eat and sleep normally.

This remedy is a vast improvement over salts, cathartics, laxative waters and similar things, which are altogether too powerful for a child. The homes of Mrs. Evelyn Matson, 516 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wis., and Mrs. Kate Hawley, Waukesha, Wis., are always supplied with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and with them, as with thousands of others, there is no substitute for this grand laxative. It is really more than a laxative, for it contains superior tonic properties which help to tone and strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels so that after a brief use of it all laxatives can be dispensed with and nature will do its own work.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

WISCONSIN G. A. R. MEETS

Department Commander Smith Decries Desecration of Memorial Day.

State Has 207 Posts in Good Standing With 6,107 Members.

Antigo, Wis., June 11.—"The desecration of Memorial day is a perennial subject of protest," said Department Commander Hiram J. Smith, Wisconsin G. A. R., of Racine, in his annual address before the state encampment which opened here today. Continuing, Commander Smith said:

"The interest in the observance increases each year. At the same time a certain class ignores the sacredness of the day. Two weeks ago 75,000 people gathered at Indianapolis to witness an automobile race. It is easy to imagine that Memorial day exercises were of secondary consideration in that town. This episode is but an exaggerated example of what occurs throughout the length and breadth of the land. However, it is proper to note that elaborate observance by the Grand Army and allied organizations generally prevailed."

Is Against Incorporating.

On the subject of incorporation of the national organization Commander Smith could see no good reason in favor of the measure.

The report of assistant adjutant general F. P. Lyman of Kenosha showed that there were 207 posts in good standing in Wisconsin comprising 6,107 members.

WEIGHT "SHRINKER" IS LATEST SWINDLE

State Railroad Commission Unearths Device for Making False Weights.

St. Paul, Minn., June 10.—The most ingenious and pernicious device for the purpose of fraud that ever came to its notice, most difficult of detection and found to be operating to create false weights on scales in Minnesota and Iowa, has been discovered by the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission, which has issued a description of it, as a warning to farmers, live-stock receivers and shippers, grain elevators, railroad station men and others to be on the lookout. It is a small piece of steel, like the blade of a pocket knife.

To what general use it has been put the commission is unable to say, but the fact that it can be carried in a vest pocket and used to increase or decrease the weight of a scale load, according to how placed under the scale beam, prompted the commission to lose no time in making known the facts.

AGED MAN HANGS HIMSELF IN BARN

Former Inmate of Asylum Ends Life Thirteen Miles From Motley.

Brainerd, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Kimmerberg, aged 64, hung himself in a deserted barn near the farm of his son in Meadowbrook, about thirteen miles northeast of Motley. Kimmerberg had spent some time at an asylum and later, when released, his wife died. This preyed on his mind.

He had been heard to mention self-destruction at various times and a watch had been kept on him. The coroner from Cass Lake viewed the remains and pronounced it a case of suicide.

LA FOLLETTE MEN LOYAL TO SENATOR

Decide at Meeting to Keep Aloof From Roosevelt and Taft.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 11.—So far as the delegates from Wisconsin are concerned, there will be no support given to President Taft or Theodore Roosevelt by men elected to represent Senator La Follette in the Republican national convention. Efforts also will be made to hold the delegates from North Dakota to the same line of action.

At a meeting of the so-called La Follette steering committee, held here last night, it was decided to support La Follette.

National Committeeman Rogers of Wisconsin was at the meeting and in addition to the steering committee which is composed of Governor Francis E. McGovern, State Senator Walter Cowen, Senator John C. Kleczka of Milwaukee and State Senator Sanborn, there were in attendance Henry F. Cochems and several other Milwaukee delegates.

McGovern For Temporary Chairman.

It was definitely decided to place a La Follette candidate for temporary chairman in the field. This candidate probably will be Governor McGovern.

It was also decided to abandon the meeting of La Follette delegates which had been called for Monday night of next week, and to hold the meeting in Chicago at the La Follette headquarters, when efforts will be made to have every La Follette delegate present.

In addition to providing for this home hand program, Walter C. Owens was selected as the Wisconsin member of the committee on resolutions: Walter L. Houser of Mondovi as the Wisconsin member of the committee on credentials and Henry F. Cochems as the Wisconsin member of the committee on rules.

Governor McGovern is the chairman of the Wisconsin delegation.

MONUMENT UNVEILED.

Many Witness Unveiling of Martyr' Monument at Moorhead.

Moorhead, Minn., June 11.—The monument recently erected on the campus of Concordia college in honor of Hans Nielson Hauge, the Norwegian religious martyr, was unveiled yesterday. The ceremonies were conducted by his grandson, Rev. Nelson Hauge, representative of King Haakon to the United Norwegian Lutheran church. Twelve thousand people witnessed the unveiling. The principal address was made by Bishop P. W. K. Boeckman of the diocese of Trondhjem, Norway.

Floral wreaths were placed at the base of the monument by representatives of all the Norwegian Lutheran church bodies in the United States.

TO APPEAL TO UNCLE SAM.

Norwegian Lutherans Claim French Hinder Madagascar Mission Work.

Fargo, N. D., June 11.—An appeal to the United States government will be made by the United Norwegian Lutheran churches for intervention against French interference with mission work on the island of Madagascar, according to action taken by the convention of that body here. The question was referred to a committee to prepare a proper petition to the state department at Washington, following an address by Rev. M. Sacterlia, secretary of mission work on the island.

"For ten years, our missionaries have almost been compelled to creep and crawl before the French officials," said the Rev. Mr. Sacterlia. "They have closed our churches; they have sought to prevent our missionaries from laboring among the natives, and they have done everything within their power to confiscate our property. This property is owned by us, who are citizens of the United States."

A committee of five has been appointed to confer with a like committee of Norwegian Lutheran synods upon the question of organization.

MENOMINEE MASON FURTHER HONORED

HARRY T. EMERSON.

Menominee, Mich., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the grand commandery of the Knights Templar, held in Detroit, Harry T. Emerson of Menominee was elected grand warden. Mr. Emerson is also illustrious potentate of the Ahmed temple of the Mystic Shrine of this district.

On his return from Detroit Mr. Emerson was met at the station by the Menominee commandery Knights Templar, in full uniform and plume. The company marched to the Masonic temple, headed by the Menominee band. A banquet was served at the temple during the course of which several important speeches were made.

LIFER DROPS DEAD.

Man Sent to Penitentiary From Mandan Suddenly Called.

Mandan, N. D., June 11.—A famous murder trial is recalled by the sudden death at the Bismarck penitentiary last Friday of Myron R. Kent, alias W. W. Pancoast, who dropped dead in the office of the state penitentiary. Kent was convicted in this city almost eighteen years ago of the brutal murder of his wife at their farm house about three miles south of the city, and was sentenced to serve a life sentence in the penitentiary.

The case was perhaps the most famous ever tried in the county, and one of the most interesting in the state. J. E. Campbell, who defended the convicted murdered eighteen years ago, received word from the warden of the penitentiary as to what to do with the remains, the warden stating that in no other word was received, they would be turned over to the medical department of the state university. As a son survives some place in the world Mr. Campbell advised that the remains be interred at the penitentiary, in case the son should return.

CARMEN'S UNION LOSES.

Supreme Court Rules in Famous Crookston Case.

Crookston, Minn., June 11.—The supreme court in a decision by Justice Holt ruled against the Carmen's union in the case originating here, in which J. W. Smith, master mechanic of the Great Northern, was arrested on the charge of violating the blacklist law—discharging men because they belonged to the Carmen's union.

The higher court held that so long as coercion and intimidation is not used, an employer may hire and discharge men as he sees fit, and that the fact that one of the conditions of employment exacted is that the man employed shall not be a member of a labor union, is not a violation of the law against discrimination.

The decision affirmed the findings of Judge Watts of the district court, in the case of several men who were discharged by the Great Northern railway because of their affiliations with the Brotherhood of Railway carmen. J. W. Smith, master mechanic of the Northern division, had been made the victim of a test case. He had been arrested and charged with violating the law forbidding any employer or firm from interfering with anyone who is a member of a labor union.

The court takes the position that unless the employer exercises coercion or intimidation, no action under the law can lie against him.

MRS. STEVENS RECOVERS

After Years of Suffering. Tells How Her Health Was Regained.

Waurika, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I got so bad that I could not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and began its use and wrote to you for special advice. In a short time I had regained my health and am now strong and well." —Mrs. SALLIE STEVENS, R. F. D., No. 2, Comanche, Okla.

Newton, N. H.—"For five years I suffered from female weakness and dragging down pains. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored my health and the pains are gone." —Mrs. F. A. PEASLEE, R. F. D., Box 38.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has remedied many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and it may be exactly what you need.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

AGED CRUISER DIES.

John Burgoyne Is Called on Homestead Near Horseshoe Lake.

Brainerd, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Burgoyne, aged 83, died on his homestead near Horseshoe lake. He leaves a wife and two daughters, Miss Zelma Burgoyne and Miss Bess Burgoyne. Mr. Burgoyne was widely known throughout the Northwest, where for many years he followed his vocation of timber cruiser. For a time he lived at Gull River, removing later to Brainerd and a year ago on his homestead.

DULUTH CONCERN TO ERECT MORE BUILDINGS.

International Falls, Minn., June 11.—S. G. Byerly, traveling auditor of the Duluth Brewing company, has returned to Duluth, after spending several days here looking after the business affairs of his company. The Duluth Brewing company last year built the beautiful Rex hotel and this year will put $50,000 into substantial improvements in this city, including two modern brick buildings.

Fine Madison Postoffice.

Madison, Wis., June 11.—Madison's new postoffice building is to be larger and more complete than before planned according to a letter received by Postmaster Devine from Congressman John M. Nelson. Mr. Nelson says that on June 7 he introduced a bill asking an appropriation of $500,000 for the new building to take the place of the bill introduced a month ago asking for $357,000.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Alexandria—Probate Judge A. G. Sexton died Saturday. Judge Sexton in point of service was the second oldest probate judge in the state, having served twenty-one years.

Rochester—Prof. H. P. Johnson, superintendent of the East Grand Forks schools, has accepted the superintendency of the Rochester city schools, succeeding Superintendent C. L. Woodfield. Prof. Johnson comes to Rochester with the indorsement of the state high school board. He was engaged at a salary of $2,400 a year.

St. Cloud—St. Cloud is to have a second potato warehouse, and it will be built this season in time for the fall crop. This was decided upon a hurry call of a meeting of business men to meet W. H. Ferrell of Princeton, who has already some twenty warehouses, and is known throughout the country as the potato king.

St. Peter—Paul Haesecke, a well known citizen, died here after suffering a stroke of apoplexy. He was a well known member of the Sons of Herman. During 1897 Mr. Haesecke was grand president of the Sons of Herman. Several times he was delegate to the national grand lodge of the order. He was a native of Writzen, Prussia, having been born June 13, 1855. He came to America in 1873. He had been a resident of St. Peter since 1878.

Motley—The Northern Pacific steel gang has been putting down new steel on the main track. The new steel is much heavier than the old steel and is what is known as ninety-pound steel.

Deer River—Postmaster Scott has received information from Washington that a new postoffice will now be established at Spring Lake, and the office is to receive and send mail both from the north and south. The name of the postmaster is not yet known.

Crookston—The Farmers' Co-operative company, organized through the efforts of J. D. Ball and others, has purchased the S. C. Johnson elevator on the Northern Pacific tracks, and are now in possession and ready for business. Mr. Johnson has not announced what he will do in the future but will remain a resident of Crookston.

Fergus Falls—Sheriff Billings, who travels in all parts of the county, says that crops are especially good on the sandy lands around Otter Tail this year. The six inches of rain that fell during May just suited that section.

Crookston—One of the largest real estate transfers noted this year was recorded Saturday in the sale of 2,160 acres of land near Crookston by Peter Kiene, represented here by E. W. Taylor and Son, to the Colonial Land Holdings company. Considerable of this land is located near Tilden, and other pieces north and east of Crookston.

Brainerd—W. H. Gemmell, general manager of the Minnesota & International railway, has returned from International Falls, where he accompanied the agricultural special. During its trip, says Mr. Gemmell, the special stopped at eighteen points and approximately 4,000 people heard the lecture.

International Falls—The Northern Minnesota Hospital association is calling for bids for the construction of a wing of that institution that will practically double its capacity. Work is to be started at once.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Houghton—J. Parke Channing of New York, an eminent mining engineer, Sunday night was the guest of the Copper Country M. C. M. club at dinner at the Houghton club. He delivered a most interesting lecture on the Miami mine.

Hancock—The fiftieth anniversary celebration of the First Congregational church of this city came to an end Sunday night with addresses by Rev. J. W. Sutherland, D. D., and Rev. G. Y. Washburn, a former pastor of this church.

Calumet—The Calumet lodge of Elks will hold a celebration of Flag day, June 14, at the Calumet temple and will invite the members of the Hancock temple and all visiting Elks in the Copper country to join with them in the day's observance.

Houghton—The first portion of the dredge shipped from Cleveland to the proposed Sturgeon swamp reclamation has arrived at Arnheim. It was shipped by the Central Dredge company and as soon as the entire equipment has been received it will be set up at Arnheim, at which point digging will be begun.

Calumet—Gordon R. Campbell of Calumet has been elected generalissmo of the grand commandery, Knights Templar of Michigan, the election taking place at the fifty-fifth annual conclave at Detroit during last week.

Houghton—Pilgrim lodge of Odd Fellows has elected the following officers: P. G., Fred Schroeder; N. F., Alfred Snowdon; V. G., James Kendall; secretary, Cy Wedge; financial secretary, Paul Carah; treasurer, Joseph Schnitzer; representatives to grand lodge, Jacob Gottliebson and Jacob Yeip, alternates, Robert Brooks and Joseph Schnitzer.

Laurium—About $2,200 has been raised to date in the Y. M. C. A. campaign for funds for the current expenses of the association. The committees in charge will continue the campaign till the $3,500 mark is reached.

Lake Linden—Mrs. Leonard Leigh, a former Lake Linden resident, passed away Thursday night at her home in Seattle, Wash. The end was looked for as the members of the family knew she could not recover. She had been ill for some time.

Baraga—This city is planning a double celebration for July 27. Besides dedicating the new Odd Fellows hall, which cost about $3,500, the celebration will be in honor of the completion of a new waterworks plant, also a new gas producing system, the combined cost of which amounts to about $75,000. The gas system will be the only one of its kind in the upper peninsula. Both plants will be in operation July 27.

Marquette—The funeral of Mrs. Ellen Knowles, aged 76 years, who died here Saturday at her home, was held Monday morning from St. Peter's cathedral, with burial in Holy Cross cemetery. Mrs. Knowles was born in Ireland and came with her parents as a child to Eagle Harbor. She had been a resident of Marquette for the last ninteen years. She is survived by a brother, Thomas Dwyer, of Detroit, and a sister, Mrs. Kate Nichols of Denver.

Ishpeming—F. Braastad is to raise cattle on his farm near Teal lake. A carload of young steers, purchased last week in Chicago by A. C. Braastad, has arrived. Mr. Braastad has a fine pasture on his farm and the young cattle will be in good condition for slaughtering in the fall.

Negaunee—The Sons of St. George of Negaunee, Ishpeming and Winthrop attended the Mitchell Methodist church Sunday morning in a body and listened to an appropriate sermon preached by the pastor, Rev. Hartley Cansfield

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—P. A. Morgan of Grand Forks was found guilty of using the United States mails for fraudulent purposes by the jury in the federal court and was sentenced to thirty days in the Devils Lake jail and a fine of $300 was imposed.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Moyle Edwards, formerly mayor of Breckenridge, member of the legislature in Minnesota and editor of the Breckenridge Telegram for years, is now editor and business manager of the Devils Lake World.

Aberdeen, S. D.—The sound of a pistol shot aroused the family of W. F. Mason, a lawyer here, and Mr. Mason rushed to the lawn to find his son, Merrill, aged 24, dying from a bullet wound. The shooting was accidental.

Fargo, N. D.—Among the purchasers of North Dakota farm lands the past week were William Lockwood of Pipestone, Minn., and J. B. Barlow of Ripon, Wis. They have toured the southern part of the state and are enthusiastic about the state so far as they have had opportunity to see it.

Devils Lake, N. D.—The equipment and machinery for a new cigar factory was unloaded Saturday at the tracks of the Great Northern railway and will be moved to the rooms above the Inter-Ocean office, where Devils Lake will have a home cigar factory in the future.

Belle Fourche, S. D.—A horse dragged 12-year-old Joseph Kline, son of Mrs. Mary E. Kline, to his death at the Floyd Cook ranch, forty-five miles north of here. The boy took some horses to the pasture, and, when he alighted at the gate, wrapped the rope to one of the horses around his arm. The animal started to run and dragged young Kline a mile and a half before it stopped.

Grand Forks, N. D.—M. C. Pepple, contractor and builder, is busily engaged remodeling the building recently vacated by the Unique theater. Sam Rosenthal will open up a clothing store in the building about the middle of this month.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Fond du Lac—Miss Emma Conley, former instructor in domestic science at the Fond du Lac high school, has been chosen to take charge of that department in the Oshkosh State Normal school. Miss Conley is a graduate of the University of West Virginia, and was for several years in charge of the domestic science department of the Marathon County School of Agriculture.

Monroe—A. S. Douglas, mayor of Monroe for eight years and district attorney of Green county for fourteen years, died after a year's illness with arteria sclerosis. He once served on the county board, the board of education of Monroe, and in the state assembly in 1903 and 1904. While mayor of Monroe he aided in forming the Wisconsin League of Municipalities and was its second president. He served in Company A, Fortieth Wisconsin volunteers, in the Civil war, acting as captain for a while. He came to Monroe in 1869.

Portage—Miss Agnes Hortman, aged 22, daughter of George Hortman of Springdale, committed suicide by hanging in the machine shed on her father's home. Despondency is given as the cause for her act.

Madison—One year at hard labor in state's prison was given Carl G. Buchta of Lodi in municipal court by Judge Donovan. Buchta was arrested some time ago on a charge of passing worthless checks here on the Lumberman's Bank of Lodi.

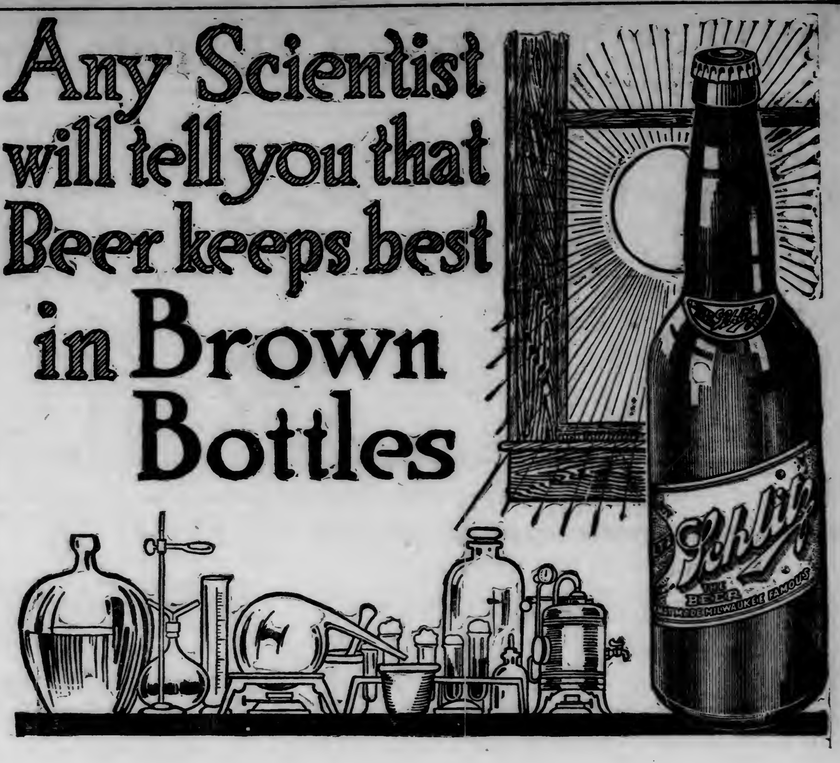

Darlington—James Scott, aged 78, a prominent Lafayette county citizen, is dead. He was county clerk for two terms and member of the assembly in 1887.

Oshkosh—Clara Dobish, 2 years old, died from burns received Sunday afternoon while playing with her brother, aged 4, under the veranda of their home.

Milwaukee — San Langacello, who pleaded guilty to the charge of white slavery on the testimony introduced by Ruby Roser, was sentenced to three years in Leavenworth penitentiary by Judge Geiger Monday afternoon. Thomas Veto, said to have been an accomplice of Langacello's, also pleaded guilty and was given ninety days in the house of correction.

Madison—The La Follette campaign committee, in charge of the election of delegates to the national convention, filed a statement of campaign expenses, showing that $1,487.21 had been expended.

Any Scientist will tell you that Beer keeps best in Brown Bottles

Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology, Chicago, writes:

"We have tested beers repeatedly, placing the bottles into direct sunlight, and testing the same after one, two, three and five minutes exposure; found that the beer with three and five minutes exposure became undrinkable on account of the peculiar odor developed. The detrimental effect of light upon beer can be successfully counteracted by the employment of brown or dark colored glass bottles."

Schlitz uses the Brown Bottle to protect its purity from the brewery to your glass.

Heating Insurance
By The Campbell System

THE question of home-heating is the big problem up here in the Northwest—important—not only for comfort but for health and life itself. That is why it will pay you from every point of view to investigate the Campbell method of heating.

You should lose no time in deciding on the system by which we confidently assure you even, regular heat, and good ventilation—in all times and weathers.

CAMPBELL'S WINTER CHASER

has this enormous advantage that you are bound to be satisfied; you run no risk of getting the wrong plant. The Campbell Heating Co., of Des Moines, Iowa, is with us in this plan which insures heat satisfaction, warm floors, no drafts. We submit to them your personal needs for heating; they make expert plans and specifications, guarantee to heat your home with moist, warm, clean air up to 70 degrees in the coldest weather—or they will not undertake it at all.

Fuel-saving is a big factor for the Campbell Heating System and the large fire-pot—reservoir—the big air-chamber and entrance door in jacket—all are vital reasons why the Winter-Chaser is best. Will you let us explain more fully?

Council Orders Saloon Keeper to Appear and Defend His License.

Drug Ordinance Is Adopted —Much Routine Business Disposed of.

Ole Olssen, who has been running a saloon at 202 St. Croix avenue, and who recently got into trouble with the police department, will be cited to appear before the city council at its meeting next Monday night, to show cause why his license should not be revoked.

The council last night passed a resolution to that effect, and the city clerk is ordered to serve notice on Oleson not later than next Friday.

Among the applications for renewals of license read last night was one by Michael Kealey, formerly a plumber of Duluth, who claims to have purchased the Olssen saloon. Therefore, when Alderman Curren pointed out the claimed transfer, the council voted to include Mr. Kealy in the citation, and he too will be notified by the city clerk. The action in summoning Kealey was taken upon the urging of Alderman Hicken, who declared that it is an outrage to take cognizance of a so-called transfer under the conditions existing.

In connection with the matter, two petitions asking the citing of Olssen and the revocation of his license were received. One was from the men of the First Presbyterian church, generously signed, and the other was from the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement company, signed by the secretary.

In general, the meeting of the council was uneventful, and adjournment came early. Even the impassioned utterances of T. J. McKeon over the alleged unjust attitude of the license committee toward O. H. Hagen, who has applied for a license to operate an employment bureau at 411½ West Michigan street, failed to start the pot bubbling. The application was reported back by the committee without recommendation, putting it up to the council.

Mr. McKeon, as attorney for the applicant, asked permission to speak, and after a motion was made to grant the license, merely to bring the matter before the house, Mr. McKeon said that the license committee is laboring under a misapprehension as regards Mr. Hagen's connection with the bureau. He reviewed the matter, saying that the man who formerly ran the place got into trouble frequently; that the minds of the members of the license committee had been poisoned against Mr. Hagen, for they believe that he is merely trying to get a license as ostensible owner, while Carlson is really back of it. Mr. McKeon declared that Carlson has left the city and has nothing whatever to do with the bureau, while Mr. Hagen seeks a license on his own account. The matter was put over for one week to allow further investigation.

The drugs ordinance, which was put over form a week ago last night, was adopted as amended, without discussion.

• • •

The board of public works was ordered to cause the two telephone companies to remove their poles from Commonwealth avenue between Prescott and Goodhue streets, New Duluth, and the Duluth-Edison Electric company was directed to move the light near Fiftieth avenue east and London road to the pole immediately west thereof.

• • •

Chief Troyer was instructed to have the police notify owners or occupants of houses along their beats which are unnumbered of the requirements of the ordinances that all houses must be numbered.

• • •

The city attorney was directed to proceed against certain persons in various parts of the city who have not complied with the order recently issued to connect their property with the sanitary sewers.

Chief of Police Troyer was granted $100 to pay his expenses in attending the meeting of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, which will be held in Toronto, Ont., July 8.

• • •

A resolution was issued ordering the park board to take proceedings to condemn five certain parcels of property for park and parkway purposes.

The franchise held by A. C. Volk & Co., permitting it to build a street car line between Seventy-first avenue west and New Duluth, was revoked finally and the way is now clear for the Duluth Street Railway company to go ahead with its extension.

Liquor licenses were granted to the following:

Gus Erdahl, 509 West Michigan street; A. J. Erickson, 198 Sixty-Third avenue west; John Peterson, 11 East Superior street; John McLennan, 9 East Superior street, being a transfer from 204 Lake avenue south.

The First M. E. church was given permission to raise a 60-foot flag pole at the southwest corner of Third avenue west and Third street.

• • •

A resolution was passed ordering the paving of Ramsey street, West Duluth. It is believed that vitrified brick will be the material used, but that will be determined later.

• • •

The bid of Stronquist & Moyer for repapering and revarnishing the council chamber was accepted.

• • •

City Attorney H. A. Carmichael reported to the council that the jury in the damage suit of Anna Erickson against the city had, in district court, returned a verdict in the woman's favor for $100. Mr. Carmichael explained in his communication that in view of the fact that recovery was made because of an injury received by tripping over a hatching in the sidewalk adjoining the business establishment of J. J. Moe & Sons on Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street, he would ask that concern to pay the amount of the verdict, and if refused would bring suit against it.

• • •

The Northwestern Coal company was awarded the contract for furnishing coal to the fire department, and the Peerless laundry was given the fire department's laundry contract.

About 1,000 persons, by signing a petition, have announced themselves as opposed to L. C. Coffin being permitted to operate a dance hall at 18 Lake avenue north.

The petition was expected at the meeting of the city council last evening, but for some reason or other it did not put in an appearance. A week ago last night Mr. Corrin was granted a license to run this dance hall, the council finding that no objection had been made when the matter came up. Since then certain persons, claiming that they did not know of the application until after the license was granted, have started to try to influence the members of the council to reconsider its action of a week ago last night.

Just why the petition was not presented last night as was the undoubted intention, is not revealed. A meeting of those who had signed—about 1,000 in all, it is claimed—was to have been held early in the evening, and it was planned that they would all go in a body to the council chamber and present the petition. Nobody appeared, however, and no petition was filed.

REJECTS CHANGE IN METAL BILL

House Votes Against Repeal of the Reciprocity Measure.

Washington, June 11.—The house voted 144 to 101 not to accept the senate amendment to the metal tariff revision bill, which would recall the Canadian reciprocity pact and fix a universal duty of $2 a ton on print paper. The house accepted two senate amendments reducing the duty on pig iron and on certain alloys. The bill again will go to conference.

COURT SAYS TRAIN NEED NOT DRY UP

Montana Decision in Indian Reservation Liquor Case Reversed.

Washington, June 11.—Under a decision by the supreme court, trains going through Indian reservations may remain "wet." The court reversed the judgment of the Montana federal court, holding Henry Clairmont of Ravalli, Mont., guilty of "having introduced liquor" upon the Flathead Indian reservation in 1908.

TWENTY-YEAR-OLD YOUTH GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 11.—Life imprisonment at Jackson, was the sentence passed upon 20-year-old Millard Johnson in the circuit court for attempting to hold up an automobile party just outside the city Saturday night. Johnson and a companion, armed with pistols, attempted the robbery in real Western fashion, but one of the members of the automobile party knocked Johnson down. The latter's companion fled and still is at large.

FRANK D. HILL'S BODY ARRIVES FROM EUROPE.

New York, June 11.—The steamship George Washington, in from Bremen yesterday, brought the body of Frank D. Hill, American consul general at Frankfort on the Main, who was killed by falling over the railing of a hotel staircase. It will be taken to his home in Minnesota for burial.

HILL SAYS OUTLOOK FOR CROPS IS GOOD.

Chicago, June 11.—Thoughts of a fishing trip he soon will take to Labrador and prospects of good crops in the Northwest, caused James J. Hill to smile as he passed through Chicago on his way to New York.

"What is the crop outlook," he was asked.

"It is a good distance from the green fields to the bushel measure," he replied. "Many things may happen before all the crops are harvested. The prospects for crops, however, are very satisfactory."

CANADA WILL BUILD FORT WILLIAM ELEVATOR.

Regina, Sask., June 11.—Robert Rogers, minister of the interior of Canada, announced here that the Canadian government had purchased a large tract of water front at Fort William, Ont., and would erect a large elevator to be owned by the government. The elevator will have, he said, a capacity of 3,000,000 bushels, and will be operated for the benefit of the Western Canadian farmers in opposition to the railways and privately owned houses.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

Activities of Other Municipalities, Which Might or Might Not Be Copied in Duluth.

VISIONS of electrically-lighted country highways throughout New York state are already plain to Senator Loren H. White of Schenectady county, who has just succeeded in having passed by the senate his bill authorizing the state highway department to experiment with ten miles of road to be selected by that department. Should the experiment prove a success, Senator White calculates that electric power from the surplus water of the barge canal and other water power owned by the state can be supplied at low cost. "Roughly speaking," said Senator White, "there are 9,000 miles of road in the state, including those improved and to be improved. It is estimated that the concrete poles, heavily insulated wires and lamps all ready to turn on the lights will cost not more than $500 a mile. That would make a total of $4,500,000 for equipment of the 9,000 miles. Only about 4,000 miles are improved, however, and the work would have to be undertaken gradually the same as any other state enterprise, so that it would not require to exceed $2,000,000 for the improved roads we have now. After the first cost the maintenance would be trifling because the road patrolment, now a part of the state highway department, could easily attend to the incandescent lamps, which require attention only twice a year, and the power would be furnished by the state." Senator White says the purpose is to have a 400-candle light every 300 feet and the hoods and shades are to be so fashioned as to throw the light along the highway in each direction and neither upward nor sideways. The state conservation commission is said to be very much in favor of Senator White's plan.

Duluth is having enough to do to get its streets properly lighted, without considering county roads for the present. The county is not likely to consider the plan until it gets some much needed road construction work done.

WANTS PRIVATE BRIDGE AT ST. LOUIS FORFEITED.

Washington, D. C., June 11.—Senator Reed of Missouri has introduced a resolution to forfeit the St. Louis Merchant company's bridge across the Mississippi at St. Louis between the Eads bridge and the mouth of the Missouri river, and directing the secretary of war to operate it as a free public highway. He charged that its earnings had been pooled with another bridge.

SWEDISH LUTHERANS MEET ON WEDNESDAY.

Chicago, Ill., June 11.—Members of the executive board of the Augustana synod of the Swedish Lutheran church of the United States and Canada, are preparing for the annual meeting which will be held in Chicago, June 12 to 18. About 500 delegates, representing 1,200 congregations and 200,000 members, will be present. On June 16 the pupils of thirty-five Swedish Lutheran churches in Chicago will be occupied by visiting ministers, and thirty ministers ordained. The meeting will be opened by Dr. L. A. Johnston of St. Paul, president of the synod.

YOUNG MOTHERS

No young woman, in the joy of coming motherhood, should neglect to prepare her system for the physical ordeal she is to undergo. The health of both herself and the coming child depends largely upon the care she bestows upon herself during the waiting months. Mother's Friend prepares the expectant mother's system for the coming event, and its use makes her comfortable during all the term. It works with and for nature, and by gradually expanding all tissues, muscles and tendons, involved, and keeping the breasts in good condition, brings the woman to the crisis in splendid physical condition. The baby, too, is more apt to be perfect and strong where the mother has thus prepared herself for nature's supreme function. No better advice could be given a young expectant mother than that she use Mother's Friend; it is a medicine that has proven its value in thousands of cases. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

BRUCE'S COLUMN

COMMENT AND DIVERS DISCUSSION OF THE MERRY WORLD OF SPORT.

ONE scout has already been looking over the work of Bluhm. He is but 19 years old, and like the girl of 16 has never been kissed by that kind of fate that chooses the human sheep from the human goats. If the kid ever learns to be a batter, and he should, there is nothing that we know at the present time that is going to keep him out of the big leagues. He is about the sweetest proposition at first that we have had since the days of Johnny Ness—and just think of the tender age of the boy.

SAY, you wouldn't think that a fisherman of the experience of Billy Rigg would fall out of a boat, would you? That's just what he did. Henry Meining had to jump in and pull the old scout out. It happened last Saturday up at Smith lake, about twenty-three miles out from Brainerd. We were there and witnessed the incident. Of course, Bill will go around to his friends and deny the affair, but Hank Meining is the one who will tell how it really happened. Yes sir—Bill stood up in the narrow boat to make a cast, the boy pulled on the right oar, and over Bill went, head over heels into the water. He yelled like an Indian and Hank Meining, becoming somewhat alarmed, jumped in and did the rescue act. Bill explained that his big wading boots filled with water and caused him to feel like a human piece of lead.

All of Bill's friends will kindly laugh—please do.

LITTLE AD WOLGAST will lick the daylights out of Joe Rivers—one qualifying word—if he is right. The Mex, in the opinon of some, was moulded for Adolph. But the ring has furnished the fight followers with many concrete examples of the champion going back and being the easiest kind of picking for some youngster coming up. Have you ever stopped to notice that the man coming down the stairs is the man generally worn out? Under normal conditions Wolgast is too young a man to be near the stage where they go back, and if the operation has not done much to weaken the great vitality of the Cadillac kid, then you are going to behold the Mex getting his. Writing thusly one can build both ways.

ALL THESE YEARS the great national game has rolled along and there has never been a strike of the members of the team. Then comes a season with one strike and then another averted just in the nick of time to prevent the players from assuming the attitude of the walkout. The St. Paul team almost struck—did in fact—the money coming through just in time to prevent the players from remaining out for more than one day. Precedent, hard luck and matrimonial difficulties are liable to become bunched.

TOM JONES comes through with one about lightweights being glad to fight Wolgast for nothing. Joan of Arc was quite unique in that she fought for a cause. This is a more material age; one in which the lady of the dollar is the shrine of worship. Mister Jones, bald head and brilliant socks, should have lived in an age gone by and have sprung this line of talk about fighting for the glory and honor of the cause. By the by, did you ever hear of Tom Jones doing anything where money wasn't at the other end of the path?

IF FRANK CHANCE is forced from the game one of the finest players who ever donned the spangles of war will be recalled from the great names of the present. The big boy has been beaned so many times that he is about through. If Frank Chance quits it will be because the pain is so great that he can no longer stand it. Gameness is the middle name of this man. He is one of the grandest characters of the time, and if he goes, baseball is losing one of the men who has helped to make the great modern game the greatest sport of all nations. Chance apparently does not know what it is to fear. After being hit on the head he would not or could not step back of the plate, and the result has been that his health has been shattered, school the time of the terrible blow from a ball pitched by Suggs of Cincinnati. Chance has not show the least deterioration as a player and he would have probably been good for a number of years. He announced this spring that his baseball playing days were over—well, now it looks that one of the finest that the games has ever produced is going to say goodbye.

DULUTH CREW MAKES GOOD PRACTICE TIME

In one of the first time rows of the season, with a green man in at No. 4, the Duluth Boat club's eight negotiated the mile and a half course the other night in 8:20. This is considered very good time for so early in the season and is the most encouraging performance that the boys have given the present year.

"The boat didn't work right at first," said Jimmy Ten Eyck today. "She sat too high in the water. After a great deal of experimenting I hit upon the trouble. All of the seats were taken out and put lower in the boat. She had too much free board. The result is perfect satisfaction. The boat runs along now like a raft. The boys are getting on their power and I am of the opinion that the new shell is by far the best boat that the club has ever owned."

It might be mentioned that the bantams came over the course the other night in 9:30. The bantams at the present time are made up of Horak, D. Moore, Rhineberger and Phil Moore. The boys are going good and with continued improvement there is the possibility that Duluth will stand a fighting chance to repeat the win of last season.

To date the candidates for the crew have missed but seven rows during the season. This fact, taken in consideration with the early start on the road and the amount of work done on the machines, has placed the men in better shape at this stage of the training period than any other crew that has trained at the club. Some indication of the condition of the men was given in the time row of the other evening.

Cliff Thorburn, the Henry Clay kid, is still hanging on to his stroking job, and Josephus Lathrop, old patience, is at the morning and night job at oar No. 7. Roy Kent, the champion fusser of the squad, the pompadour kid, is firmly entrenched at No. 6, and Wallace Quimby, the auburn-locked lad with a fondness for ice cream and Kodak pictures, is doing right well at 5. Leslie Thompson, the "ooo-whoo" yodler of the crowd, one of the long distance, flirtatious kind, with a strain of timid reserve when the game is flushed, is at 4. Young Mister Grant, the money changer and ledger expert, is at 3, and Glass, the high school athlete, is at 2. Beschenbossel, who sometimes becomes confused at the spelling of his own name, is at bow and promises to hold down the job for the season.

The crew is doing right well and some fun and hard work are being accomplished daily. Aside from boils, early hours, cold weather and the metallic voice of the coach, things are progressing in a lovely manner.

JEFFRIES MAY REFEREE

Los Angeles, Cal., June 11.—James J. Jeffries may be the third man in the ring with Ad Wolgast and Joe Rivers when this pair battle for the world's title, July 4. Tom Jones, manager for Wolgast, and Joe Levy, manager for Rivers, met yesterday with Manager Tom McCarey of the Vernon club and Jeffries was quickly selected. He asked for time to think it over and told McCarey that he would give a final answer today.

Active training for the lightweight championship fight at Vernon, July 4, between Ad Wolgast and Jose Riveria, (known as Joe Rivers) has commenced in the camps of both principals. Rivera's condition was said to be good because of Wolgast's operation for appendicitis, much speculation centered around his appearance.

Aside from being slightly winded, his work was as fast as ever in nine rounds of boxing, however, and his punching power, if anything, seemed improved by his long period of inactivity.

Manager Tom Jones said Wolgast will depart in a few days for the Carolina, where he would "rough it" for a week.

To the surprise of followers, Wolgast is a slight favorite in the betting.

JOHNSON BEFORE THE GRAND JURY

Chicago, June 11.—A speciall federal grand jury sworn in yesterday will be asked to return an indictment against Champion Jack Johnson on a charge of smuggling. A midnight raid on Johnson's home several weeks ago by federal officers resulted in the finding of a necklace valued at $3,000 which the pugilist is said to have smuggled into this country.

Johnson made a futile attempt to settle the affair with the government without being prosecued. He is reported to have agreed to pay the government $6,000 if District Attorney Wilkerson would promise not to prosecute the case.

EASY GAME FOR DULUTH

White Sox Defeat the Taylorites By One-Sided Score.

The Dublins Fatten Batting Averages Off Four Opposing Pitchers.

At the habitat of the villagers, the Superior baseball team, namely Hislop park, Duluth yesterday defeated the Taylor team by the score of 10 to 3. It was a case of hitting the pill to various corners of the lot, the boys from our side securing eighteen hits during the fray. Hoffman was used to hold the Red Hose in check, while four pitchers, or alleged pitchers, were used during the afternoon by the enemy—and without avail.

Erickson was the only man on the Duluth team who failed to hit safely during the game. He should be heartily ashamed of himself. Hoffman, who is not supposed to hit, garnered three blows during the course of the matinee. Rabbit Kuehn also gathered three.

The Sox started the scoring in the first round. Kuehn doubled to left. He advanced a base on McGraw's bunt and a double by Menelce. Persh doubled for the enemy, went to third on an infield hit and scored when Roy doubled down the foul line.

Both teams rested during the next round, but in the third inning the Sox came back and added three more runs to the score. Menelce opened the festivities with a single, was advanced to third when little Leber doubled against the fence, and scored when Sours also dented the fence with a similar offering, Leber also counting. Sours advanced on O'Brien's infield out and came over when Blum singled.

In the fourth two more runs were scored, though they were not really needed. Bunny Kuehn and McGraw walked. Popham, taking Menelce's place in the field, beat out an infield offering, and the bases were filled. Ford muffed a long fly in center and Kuehn scored. Sours hit to left and McGraw cantered home. In the next round the score was further swollen, two more being chalked up by the unwilling score board tender, who was born in Superior. In this round Erickson lofted to center, Hoffman doubled to center and Kuehn beat out a hit to Shortstop. Both scored when McGraw hit to center for two bags.

We seemed to be scoring in couplets during the course of the afternoon. Our last scores of the day came in the seventh, two rolling in to make frantic the talkative fan who sits in the Superior stand on a pass and makes alleged witticisms regarding the playing of the opposition. Yesterday his wit was lame, blind and halted.

In the round referred to Popham doubled with one down. He traveled to the far corner of the diamond when Leber was retired at first. Briggs mussed up the offering of Sours, and Pop was over. Sours came through on successive singles by O'Brien and Blum.

This afternoon the boys will play here, leaving after the game for a series of games on the road. From the fact that the Sox are playing some great baseball at the present time, and also from the fact that the boys will not be seen here for some time, it is believed that a large crowd will journey out to the park to see the contest.

CUBS WIN SEASON'S MOST EXCITING GAME.

New York, June 11.—Chicago defeated New York in the first game of the series in the most exciting game played in New York this season. Chicago won in the tenth when, with Tinker on third, Crandall was ordered to pass Zimmerman. Zimmerman reached out of the batter's box and drove a wide pitch into the right field wing of the grandstand for a home run. Earlier in the game Zimmerman hit a home run into the left field bleachers. Meyers' hitting was responsible for most of New York's runs. He made a home run, triple, double and single in five times at bat. His triple drove in New York's tying run in the eighth, and his double in the tenth drove in a run and put men on third and second. Fletcher, however, was thrown out by Evers. Score:

Gibbons Is Going Some.

New York, June 11.—Mike Gibbons, the St. Paul welterweight, made a show of Tommy Connors of Scranton, Pa., in their 10-round bout in Brooklyn last night. In only the last two rounds did Gibbons try to land a knockout, being content in the previous eight with standing off and jabbing the Pennsylvanian. In the tenth round, he landed two left jabs that sent Connors staggering. The bell saved Connors.

MIKE GIBBONS DOPED TO FIGHT THE MIDDLES

(By J. P. Garvey.)

Cleveland, Ohio, June 11.—Wouldn't it be somewhat out of the ordinary if, in these scienced days of boxing, a man were to win two titles, each one in a different class? Mike Gibbons is confronted with this situation. He is the first fighter to be placed in the novel role since Terry McGovern was in his zenith—twelve years ago.

Mike doesn't know whether to stick in the welterweight class or to make war on the 158-pound swingers. Just now the St. Paul man is as good as welterweight champion, although he has not officially landed that honor. When things work out, and they ought to soon, Mike will be accorded the glory without a dissenting vote, if his muscles do not grow larger and his bones heavier. That is where the "if" comes in. Ruling out the scale question, there is small doubt that Gibbons would have a most excellent chance of holding two championships at one time, and even now it is a possible proposition.

In the days gone by a few fighters have been the owners of two ring plums at the same time. McGovern claimed three. Fitzsimmons was middle and heavy leader during the same period, but he finally relinquished one in favor of Tommy Ryan, who regarded himself as both welter and middle champion. Then there was Dixon, who gathered both the bantam and featherweight belt.

McGovern, however, was the last to boast the possession of two crowns. It was back in 1900 that he gathered the last one, when he whipped Dixon. The lightweight belt did not go to Terry because of his defeats of Erne and Gans. Not long after he started fighting he was bantam champion.

In the middleweight class there are three men who appear formidable—McGoorty, Klaus and Moha. Gibbons would have nothing much to fear from these fellows if they made 158 pounds ringside for him.

Klaus is a freight car. Moha is a very clever man, but apparently is greatly handicapped on account of his stature. McGoorty is the best of the trio. He looks like a sure champion if his poundage does not increase, and if Gibbons decides to sidstep conflict with larger men. But I think if Mike were to fight McGoorty at 158 pounds, Gibbons would beat him in ten or twenty rounds.

The Westerner need not worry at the disadvantage he would be placed under by fighting middleweights. There would be no disadvantage. Tommy Ryan never weighed over 148 pounds, and he trimmed thirty individuals of greater bulk and height. Gibbons, as a middleweight at this writing could possibly build himself up to 154 pounds. When you take into consideration his natural fighting qualifications he would not be handicapped by four pounds in favor of the party of the second part.

Mike is tall, with heavy shoulders, a good reach and slim legs—ideal proportions for a middleweight champion. He has unlimited stamina, a quick brain, and is a pronounced artist as a boxer. I'd like to see the 158-pound fellow that could get away with him at this time.

Before long it is almost a sure thing that Gibbons will be forced to barter blows with the middleweights. If his own weight remains the same a wager that he is both welter and middle champion within a year, would take over "cover" money. He can make the welter limit of 142 at 3, he says, and he is as good as welterweight king today and tomorrow and next week.

WARDEN WOOD'S LARGE ROUND-UP

Arrests Many at Long Lake and Has Them Fined at Biwabik.

Biwabik, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Salmon put in a busy day yesterday trying cases against several men rounded up by Game Warden Wood Sunday at Long Lake for violating the fishing laws.

The following were fined $100 each, the court later remitting all but $5 and allowing the accused to go free on paying the costs:

Otto Canton, Ed. Canton, Otto Rokko, John Stock, Gus Cushma, Bert Schiner, Nestor Turpin, Ell Maki. They had more than 300 undersized pike in their possession.

Otto Renolnen and Gust Ulula, who had been warned before, paid $10 and costs each. They had fifty-four undersized pike, crappies and pickerel.

Admits Using Net.

John Nison paid $50 and costs. He made affidavit that for over a year he had owned and used a net seventy-five feet long; that he obtained the netting twine from a Chicago house and made the net himself; that his operations were near Embarass. He also swore that he took dynamite from the Biwabik mine, where he was employed in charge of a drilling and blasting crew, and shot it in Wine lake. The statement was witnessed by Game Warden Wood and Chief of Police William O'Hara.

Erick Peterson is charged with dynamiting fish in Long lake. He denies the charge against him and will have a hearing before Judge Salmon today.

PLAINTIFF GETS $529.22 VERDICT

Suit Involving Wages and Counter Claim Is Tried at Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jury in the case of Giovanni Giovachinni vs. the Italian Mercantile company yesterday afternoon in district court returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $529.22. Giovachinni sued to recover $515.37 he claimed as wages. The defense was that the company had refused to settle with him for the reason that he had not satisfactorily accounted for certain money which passed through his hands while in their employ.

Seeks $15,000 Damages.

Today the case of Ella Gerow vs. Anton Passard is being tried before a jury. It is an action for $15,000 damages the plaintiff claims as the result of injury alleged to have been sustained through the negligence of the defendant in not properly maintaining rented premises. By reason of this negligence it is alleged the plaintiff suffered a fall which resulted in a fractured hip, which will permanently disable her. Victor Power is appearing for the defendant and Austin & Austin of Chisholm and F. X. McMahon of Virginia for the plaintiff. The case will probably occupy all of today in trial.

It is probable the trial of the criminal calendar will be taken up immediately at its conclusion with the case of the State vs. Gus Mattila, under indictment for first degree assault, alleged to have been committed upon John Turja at Chisholm during last January.

ITALIAN PICNIC

Will Be Held Next Sunday Between Virginia and Eveleth.

Virginia, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Italian Society of Virginia will hold its annual picnic next Sunday midway between Virginia and Eveleth. Many Italians from other range towns will attend. The local organization will meet the 8:20 Mesaba train on which many of the visitors will come. The Italian band will be out and there will be a parade to the hall on Walnut street and then through the downtown streets on the way to the park. Speeches will be made in Italian and in English.

WILL TAKE UP CLAIMS.

Four Hibbing People to Locate in Far North.

Hibbing, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—William McLeod, John Dugal, Axel Lundeen and John Wagner, all of Hibbing, have just left Edmonton, Alta., for Fort McMurry, the new town on the Athabasca river, which is expected, within the next four years, to become one of the chief cities of the Canadian Northwest. They will take homesteads.

Hundreds of people are going into the country. Fort McMurry will be one of the most important points on a fourth transcontinental railroad to be built from the Hudson bay to the Pacific. The townsite is platted and owned by Bart Hayes, formerly a well known Hibbing resident.

POWER NOT CANDIDATE.

Hibbing Attorney Will Not Oppose C. B. Miller.

Hibbing, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Victor J. Power of Hibbing will not be a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress in opposition to Clarence B. Miller, according to an announcement made by Mr. Power.

Two weeks ago Editor Hannaford of the Virginia Enterprise placed the name of Mr. Power before the people in an editorial in his newspaper and last week it was favorably commented upon by a number of the range newspapers.

"It is pleasant to have one's friends say kind things," said Mr. Power, "but this matter must not be taken seriously. I am not a candidate for the congressional nomination nor for any other political office, and do not have any ambition in that direction. My law practice keeps me fully occupied."

COMMENCEMENT IS NEXT WEEK

Hibbing Pupils Getting Ready for Closing School Exercises.

Hibbing, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Next week will be commencement week in the Hibbing schools. The program for the week will begin with the baccalaureate sermon at the high school auditorium by Rev. T. Stanley Oadams next Sunday evening. The manual training and domestic science exhibit will be given Tuesday evening. The eighth grade graduating exercises will be held on Wednesday evening, when the operetta, "The Pirates of Penzanze," will be given by the eighth grade pupils. The commencement program of the class of 1912 of the Hibbing high school will be held Thursday evening. The address will be by Thomas F. Holgate, dean of Northwestern university. There will be two essays by members of the class.

Those Who Graduate.

Following are the graduates from the high school and receive diplomas: Ernest George Hoskins, Phena S. Bay, William Henry Schirmer, Chester Clyde Aiken, Edna Margaret O'Neil, Charles Anthony Bardesonno, John William Adams, Ethel Mae Geary, Awrey Wilmont Cohoe, William Ernest Hildebrandt, Benjamin Markus, Victor G. Heik, Eleanore Luetjen, Mae Agatha Furlong, Teresa Dorothy Cox, Hilda Victoria Johnson, Fred Samuel Anderson, Hilda S. Friedman, Cecelia Marie Nelson, Wilbur Wing, George A. Niemi, Lilly Strick, Hilma Alvira Berglund.

IS KILLED BY LARGE BOULDER

Sailor Struck By Big Rock at Two Harbors, Dying From Injury.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—After suffering untold agony in Budd hospital from injuries sustained when a large boulder rolled upon his legs as he fell down the embankment on the lake shore in the city park Sunday, George Tomlinson, a sailor employed on the steamer Preston Isle died yesterday following the amputation of both legs.

Tomlinson, was about 20 years old and his home was at Chatham, Ont., where his guardian resides, his father and mother being both dead. It is expected that the remains will be shipped to his old home. The particular part of the lake shore where Tomlinson fell is especially dangerous and it is miraculous that more are not hurt in the same manner. At places the bank drops off thirty feet or more and there is nothing to hinder a person, walking along the bank especially at nights from walking over the edge to almost a certain death below.

AWARDS ROAD CONTRACT.

Town of White Lets Work to Andrew Thomson.

Aurora, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The town board of the town of White has awarded to Andrew Thomson the contract for building four miles of road south of town at $915 per mile.

Thomson will commence work at once and expects to have the road ready for fall use. The board has also awarded the contract for furnishing the corrugated culverts to be used in road work this season to the Hennepin Bridge company of Minneapolis. The best grade of iron culverts will be used.

VIRGINIA CATHOLIC SOCIETY PLANS PICNIC.

Virginia, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—St. Joseph society of the Grand Carniolian Slovenian Catholic union is arranging for a picnic at Ely lake in the near future. This organization is growing and probably will find it essential to erect a building for its own purposes in Virginia.

DULUTH RABBI WILL LECTURE AT CHISHOLM.

Chisholm, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. Rabbi Lefcovitz of Duluth will lecture at Tetzlaff hall next Sunday evening at 8:30. Dr. Lefcovitz is considered one of the best speakers in the Northwest, and will deliver the first lecture of a series of lectures to be given under the auspices of the Hebrew Literary society, recently organized here.

HIBBING MILITIAMEN BACK FROM LAKE CITY.

Hibbing, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. George D. Healy and Lieut. J. L. Lewis have returned from Lake City, where for a week they have been attending the officers' school of the Minnesota state militia, under the command of Maj. Johnson and fourteen regular army officers. All the companies of the Third regiment but one were represented.

Aurora Teams Win.

Aurora, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Both Aurora baseball teams were victorious in Sunday's contests. The Aurora team won from Ely at Ely, 12 to 10, and the Flickertails won from Mesaba, 15 to 1.

The contest at Ely was interesting from the start of the game until the finish. Eli Donculovich, who pitched for Aurora, was in good form and held his opponents safe at all times.

The Flickertails were strengthened by four outside players. The Flickertails is composed of those who are not on the regular team, and it is quite often necessary for them to draw in outside players to complete their line-up.

Doctor Tells How to Shed Bad Complexion

We cannot restore degenerated facial tissue any more than we can restore a lost limb. It is useless to attempt to convert a worn-out complexion into a new one. The rational procedure is to remove the complexion instead—remove the devitalized cuticle. Not by surgical means, however, as the underlying cutis is too thin, too tender, to withstand immediate exposure. Applying ordinary mercolized wax will gradually absorb the offending cuticle. By degrees, a new, youthful skin appears; a skin soft and delicately tinted as a rose petal.

No lady need hesitate to try this. Procure an ounce of mercolized wax of the druggist. Spread on a thin layer before retiring, removing this in the morning with soap and water. In from one to two weeks the complexion is completely transformed.

An approved treatment for wrinkles is provided by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half-pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in the solution brings prompt results.—Dr. Rupert Mackenzie in Popular Medicine.

TWENTY-THREE ORE CARS ARE DITCHED

Great Northern Train Runs Away Down Hill Near Brookston.

Brookston, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A bad smash-up occurred on the Great Northern ore line three miles north of town at 1:30 Monday morning. Extra No. 1972 was hauling a string of ore cars consisting of 125 loads when the train broke in two. This necessitated a trip to Brookston with the bad order car, and the remainder of the train was left on the main line with the air brakes set.

Crashes Into Engine.

The air evidently leaked out and the train started down the grade and ran about a mile when it crashed into the engine, which was returning to pick up the balance of the train. The locomotive was derailed and twenty-three steel ore cars were piled up on the track. The wrecking crew worked all day Monday clearing the track. Luckily no one was injured, though the engine crew had a narrow escape.

TO RAKE STONES FROM THE ROADS

Lake County Automobilists Propose to Properly Clear Highways.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Lake County Automobile club held its first annual banquet last night at Cookes' cafe, every automobile owner and driver in the city being present. After the banquet the table was cleared and Toastmaster Dr. J. D Budd gave a short address covering many things of interest to motorists and facts pertaining to the general welfare of the Automobile club. Others followed with advice and suggestions to reckless driver sand etc. These officers were elected for the ensuing year: Dr. Budd, president; Odric LeClair, secretary; Archie Geroux, treasurer. The Automobile club has been doing great work in Lake county, particularly on the highways. The club's influence with the county board is responsible for much of the extensive road work which is being carried on throughout the county. The club will now undertake to remove from all the principal highways in the county, all stones and other obstacles which are harmful to tires.

Each Member to Work.

Each automobile owner will be assigned a portion of road which will be his duty to rake within ten days. W. G. Small, Joseph Latta and I. Amundson have been appointed to act as a committee to see that the work is done.

Those present were: W. G. Small, Peter LeClair, Silas Irwin, O. J. Tennant, David Therrian, J. H. Lanner, F. Carson, Edward Conliff, Jr., Odric LeClair, William Tracy, W. N. Moulton, Joseph Latta, Ben Fuent, Dr. J. M. Budd, M. Petersen, Aaron Elg, Ole Foss, Archie Geroux, F. E. Evens, George Munford, Iver Amundson, George Farmer, George Alstatt and Fred Gustafson.

Tower Eagle's Picnic.

Tower, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local aerie of Eagles gave an excursion Sunday on Lake Vermilion on the steamer Erma D. Twenty-five Eagles enjoyed a delightful day on the lake to Vermilion dam.

Under the auspices of the Osterberg Steamboat line a large excursion was given Sunday evening and dancing was indulged in at the pavillion at Woodman's point. The two steamers Navy Bell and Olive, towing a large barge took a hundred or more to Woodman's point some several miles up the lake.

Entertains for Virginia Teachers.

Virginia, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. C. T. Ekstrand entertained a company of ladies Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Helen McDonald, supervisor of music in the public schools who will not return to Virginia next year as a teacher.

Another teacher who severs her connection with the schools to become a bride is Miss Irene Halloran of the Johnson school. A social event in honor of Miss Halloran was given Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. J. Erickson, 332 Maple street.

INJURED BY DRAG.

Bowbells, N. D., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry Brown, a farmer residing northwest of this city, may not recover from wounds received when his team, hitched to a drag, ran away. Mr. Brown was between the horses, fixing the harness, when they started. Throwing him down, the drag was drawn over his body, terribly lacerating the flesh in several places.

BEAUTIFUL HAIR AT SMALL COST

A Simple Remedy Beautifies the Hair, Cures Dandruff, Stops Falling Hair.

What a pity it is to see so many people with thin, wispy hair, faded or streaked with gray, and realize that most of these people might have soft, glossy, abundant hair of beautiful color and lustre if they would but use the proper treatment. There is no necessity for gray hair under sixty-five years of age, and there is no excuse for anyone, young or old, having thin, straggling hair, either full of dandruff or heavy and rank smelling with excessive oil.

You can bring back the natural color of your hair in a few days and forever rid yourself of any dandruff and loose hairs, and make your hair grow strong and beautiful by using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. For generations common garden Sage has been used for restoring and preserving the color of the hair; and Sulphur is recognized by Scalp Specialists as being excellent for treatment of hair and scalp troubles.

If you are troubled with dandruff or itching scalp, or if your hair is losing its color or coming out, get a fifty cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist, and notice the improvement in the appearance of your hair after a few days' treatment.

the McNamara case, as charged by the prosecution. Mr. Darrow expressed disappointment at the court's decision. "Under this ruling," he said, "I might be called upon to defend myself in almost any part of the country."

Worked For McNamaras.

Warning witnesses to keep out of the state and notifying prospective jurors known to be unfavorable to the defense in time to evade service, were part of the duties as an "investigator" for the McNamara defense, according to Cooney.

Under direct examination Cooney said he had reported to Darrow that Bert Franklin "talked too much," that Franklin had said to him, "they will never convict S. J. B. while Bain is on the jury." Darrow also is under indictment for bribing Robert F. Bain, the first juror sworn in the trial of James B. McNamara.

The defense made a determined but futile effort to prevent Cooney from testifying to facts other than those directly bearing on the Lockwood case, which Darrow is now being tried. The adverse ruling by Judge Hutton admits any evidence tending to show an alleged corruption of witnesses called in the McNamara case.

Met Darrow's Brother-in-law.

Cooney, who testified that he had been engaged in settlement work in Chicago prior to entering the employment of the McNamara defense, said that early in October he had been sent out of the state to see Bert Hannerstrome, a brother-in-law of Mr. Darrow. He met him, he said, in Salt Lake City, where he told Hannerstrome that Darrow wished him to remain away until the "Dalkelman matter blew over." Deikelman was a witness for the prosecution in the McNamara case and was said to have been spirited away by agents of the McNamara defense.

Coney said he returned to Los Angeles the first week in November, and soon after his return had a conversation with Bert Franklin, in which Franklin had told him about Juror Bain. The witness said that he immediately reported the substance of the conversation to Darrow.

Cooney testified that until Nov. 25, 1911, he had been working under the direction of Mr. Darrow and Mr. Harrington. On that date, he said, he was notified by Mr. Darrow to report to Franklin for "work on the jury," and that he did so.

resentation in the legislative branch of our government.

Urges Reapportionment.

"Section 2, Article IV of the state Constitution provides: 'The representation in both houses shall be apportioned equally throughout the different sections of the state in proportion to the population thereof.'

"The people of this state are clearly entitled to equal representation in the legislature under this constitutional provision, and the immediate consideration by the senate of reapportionment and other progressive legislation now pending is of vastly greater importance to the people than political patronage.

"In organizing the 'senate combine' for the purpose of defeating legislative reapportionment, there is clearly a refusal to perform a duty imposed by the Constitution as well as a repudiation of express pledges made to the people in the platforms of both political parties.

"The action of the senate in regard to reapportionment presents such a clear example of willful disregard of public duty as will meet the severe condemnation of all fair-minded voters of the state."

The Democratic caucus of senators and representatives, which was to have been held last night, was postponed until later in the week.

TAFT KENTUCKIANS GIVEN THE SEATS AT CHICAGO

before the national committee yesterday made it a question this morning as to whether more than the Kentucky contests could be finished today. Unless the Kentucky and Louisiana cases can be cleared up, it is probable the committee will be forced into night sessions to dispose of the many contests before the convention meets, a week from today.

Yesterday's work of the committee added twelve more delegates to the catalogue of the Taft strength on the temporary roll of the convention.

The much discussed Indiana contests were decided in Taft's favor. With the 72 delegates secured in the Southern contests decided last week in the Alabama, Louisiana, Florida and Georgia cases, the day's gain made a total of 84 delegates added to the Taft forces.

Summary of Delegates.

Following is a summary of the delegates as they appeared to be divided when the committee met today:

Instructed for Taft, uncontested, 201. Added by national committee: Last week—Alabama, 16; Arkansas, 16; Florida, 12; Georgia, 28. Yesterday—Indiana, 12. Total for Taft, uncontested, 285.

Instructed for Roosevelt, uncontested, 411.

Instructed for La Follette, no contests, 36.

Instructed for Cummins, no contests, 10.

Uninstructed and uncontested, 166.

Contests still pending, 170.

Total number of delegates, 1,078. Necessary for nomination, 540.

The committee postponed until Wednesday the contest over the six delegates-at-large from Arizona and the two delegates from the Fourth district of California.

Kentucky Contests Up.

The eighteen contested delegates from Kentucky held the right-of-way when the committee began today's work. Four delegates-at-large, and two each from the First, Second, Fourth, Seventh, Eighth, Tenth and Eleventh districts were concerned in the contests which were to be heard during the day's session. The Taft delegation at large was headed by Senator W. O. Bradley.

To present the cases to the national committee the Taft forces had drawn into the arguments W. D. Cochran, E. P. Morrow and R. C. Stall, all of Kentucky. The Roosevelt faction was represented by E. C. O'Rear, former chief justice of the state supreme court; Leslie Coombs and Henry F. Duncan.

Louisiana Men Ready.

It was hoped the cases of the Kentucky delegates could be disposed of by the middle of the afternoon and the Louisiana cases taken up and at least partially disposed of. National Committeeman Pearl Wight of Louisiana was prepared for the presentation of the letter case, in which practically all of the state's delegates are contested.

Charles Nagel, secretary of commerce and labor, and national committeeman for Missouri, was one of the earliest arrivals at the committee's quarters. He said Representative Barthold of St. Louis would continue to hold his proxy.

The Kentucky factions were ready for a lively fight when the committee began the day's work. Judge E. C. O'Rear, head of the Roosevelt delegation at large from the state, had charge of the Roosevelt faction's presentation of the case. While Former Senator Charles Dick and Frederick C. Bryan were part of the aggregation of counsel at the table reserved for the Taft faction, the principal arguments for the Bradley or Taft delegates was made by W. D. Cochran of Maysville, Ky.

Roosevelt Votes Taken.

That a total vote was taken from Col. Roosevelt in the First district aggregating about 620 was contended by Judge O'Rear in his argument.

In the Second district, he said, the Taft forces saw in advance they were outnumbered in the Daviess county convertion and hurried to the hall and elected Taft delegates before anyone else had a chance to come in.

Judge O'Rear said he was opposed to "bolting," but that if they had bolted in the Kentucky districts it would have been of no avail because the conventions were being conducted by the regular party organization.

"Had these county chairmen been long in office?" asked Mr. Devine.

"Yes, but I don't question their honesty now," said Judge O'Rear, "I simply question the frailty of human nature."

Judge O'Rear again stated that the Roosevelt delegates had no credentials to present to the committee.

"I don't think that matters," said Committeeman Kellogg of Minnesota. "We are not bound to seat any delegates if it is shown their seats were obtained by fraud."

Presented Affidavits.

Judge O'Rear had not completed his argument when the allotted half hour expired. The committee extended his time and he offered some affadivits that had not before been given the committee.

Former Senator Dick, the Taft attorney, objected to these on the same ground advanced in the Thirteenth Indiana case yesterday. Ormsby McHarg retorted that the Taft attorneys were not entitled to see the Roosevelt evidence in advance.

No objection was made in the committee, however, and the affidavits bearing on the alleged fraud in the primaries and county conventions were admitted.

Former Senator Scott of West Virginia objected to Judge O'Rear's statement that West Virginia voters had been imported into Boyd county to vote for the Taft organization.

"West Virginia's mountaineers do not and cannot sell their vote for 50 cents."

"What is their price?" asked a member of the committee.

"They have no price," and the committee laughed.

"Woefully Seduced."

"How do you know these alleged non-residents did not vote for the Roosevelt delegates?" he added, turning to Judge O'Rear.

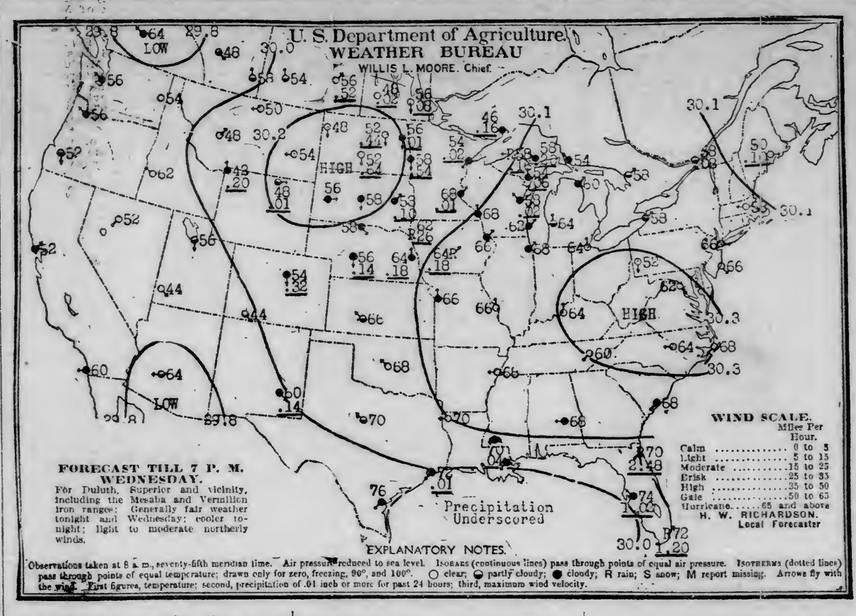

"Most of them had Taft badges on," replied the Kentuckian.

"If they started out for Roosevelt they were woefully seduced before they arrived."

CHARTER COMMISSION WILL HOLD MEETING.

A call for a meeting of the Duluth charter commission, to be held at the city hall on Wednesday evening, has been issued by T. T. Hudson, the chairman. It is probable that at this meeting steps will be taken for the drafting of a new charter for Duluth providing for the commission form of government. The members of the commission are said to be in favor of such a charter. These steps would have been taken long ago, but the commission was waiting for the supreme court to decide whether the commission form of government was constitutional in Minnesota. As the supreme court has answered this question in the affirmative, there is nothing in the way of rapid and effective work for the adoption of the new form of government

NERVOUS MEN

Restored to Health and Vigor!

Longest Established, Most Successful and Reliable Specialist in Diseases of Men. For Over 20 Years in Duluth.

Every normally constituted and healthy man has a natural and abundant endowment of potential energy or reserve nerve power.

Units of nerve-energy are drawn from the blood and stored in the cellular substance of the brain and gangilla for use in the performance of involuntary function and voluntary action.

In a condition of absolute and perfect health, these reservoirs of vital power, or nerve, are well stored, and potential energy is so abundant that the whole physical or mental being is filled and thrilled with the triumphant consciousness of power.

Such a man possesses personal magnetism, and unconsciously inspires those who come into social or business relations with him with a feeling of his easy mastery over almost all conditions. The "American disease" is Neurasthenia, "brain fag," debility. Call it by what name you please, for we do not treat the name, but we do successfully treat the condition, and restore the patient to that health which is essential to his social and commercial success if he is to fill a man's place in the world.

The Napoleons of finance, the captains of industry, the men of affairs are the ones most afflicted. Perfect health, however, is all-essential to the man of lower position, as well as to the one who aspires to the highest. Many a man fails on account of a physical handicap to achieve the ambitions for which his natural mental qualifications fit him. The connection between mind and body is so intimate, and their interdependence so marked, that physical perfection is essential to the greatest achievement.

When we know the patient's true condition by thoroughly examining him, we can tell him exactly if his troubles are curable or not. If you are sick you will be wise to accept every successful business man's motto: "Do it now." There should be no "tomorrow" by a man who is suffering.

The nervo-vital diseases include nervous debility, decline, insomnia, melancholia, and diseases of graver nature which involve the brain and spinal cord and are of a paralytic nature.

The associated pelvic diseases are: Stricture, bladder, prostatic and kidney diseases; varicose veins, hydrocele, rupture (hernia), lithasis (gravel) and diseases of the lower bowel.

We have made the cure of men life study and we have been emin successful. The effect of the t ment is to cure those diseases restore men to the full enjoyi nature's best gifts to the normal physical and mental conditions that characterize health. Our offices are open from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m., at No. 1 West Superior street. All consultations are free.

Suggstions as to the best method of procedure for advancing the welfare of the young people particularly and of the citizens in general, were given by some thirty-five or forty citizens who attended the conference on social center work, called last evening at the library clubroom by the board of public welfare, at which Rev. Robert Yost, chairman, presided.

That the schoolhouses should be opened to the public as social centers; that they should be thoroughly supervised, and that the children and young folks should be given clean, wholesome amusements under careful supervision, were the sentiments the most strongly upheld by the men and women present.

"We can't do enough for our children," said Judge Enslign, in a short informal talk. "Our children need the most careful care and attention, and as they are the foundation of the coming civilization and the coming citizens of this country, they should be the chief care of the present generation. I believe most strongly in social centers. Let the people use the schoolhouses; let them play there, and if they want to dance, let them dance there. Bring the parents and children together in their play, so they can get thoroughly acquainted and chummy."

A discussion of the permitting of dancing in the grade schools throughout the city was a particular feature of the meeting. The general sentiment was in favor of the use of the schools for the dances for the young folks, while it was explained that only a few of the school buildings were at all suitable for dancing in the corridors, and that supervision is difficult in many of the buildings.

Prevention.

Mrs. A. A. Kerr spoke strongly in favor of the opening of the schools for social centers and for their use for dances. "The social center should be a source of prevention as well as entertainment. We all feel the harm and evil of the public dance halls, and I believe that by establishing the social centers and allowing dancing there under careful supervision, we can give a substitute for the public dance hall and rob them of their thunder."

D. E. Stevens of the school board who opposes the dancing in the schools said in defense of his attitude that supervision was difficult and that there was a strong opposition to the dancing in schools among the citizens of Duluth which he thought should be respected.

It was also stated that probably that opposition was only felt by a minority of the citizens that the majority had not expressed their views on the matter. Mrs. Frank DeVoist, Mrs. F. L. Barrows, Dr. Mary McCoy, Miss King of the Bryant school and many others spoke in favor of the plan and the school board members were asked to take the matter up again at a board meeting for reconsideration

Miss Katherine A. King told of the dances held in the Bryant school before the ban was put on by the board where there were "never less than ten and some times thirty or forty parents of the children present and even on the floor dancing."

She told of other work carried on there and interesting accounts of the work done in various schools and by clubs throughout the city were given by Mrs. E. W. Matter who had charge of the folk dancing at the Salter school and E. A. Mooney principal of that school who spoke of other social activities there; by E. E. Hunner, chairman of the committee in charge of the social center at the Glen Avon Presbyterian church; by Miss Anders, industrial secretary of the Y. W. C. A. who told of the boys and girls club conducted in West Duluth by the W. C. T. U.; Mrs. T. L. Chapman who carries on work at the Y. W C A building; Miss Jean Poirier who spoke of the work of the boys clubs in the West end; Mrs. F. L. Barrows who told of work at the Neighborhood House.

There were other discussions which all led to the need for supervision.

Luther Mendenhall of the park board and L. A. Barnes, Capt. Stevens and F. A. Brewer of the school board all spoke expressing the willingness of these bodies to co-operate and explaining their position regarding the financial side of the matter.

Dr. A. W. Ryan spoke of the good work the teachers of the city are already doing and suggested that a raise in their salaries would be consistant with the advancement of the welfare of the city. "Our children," he said, "are the foundation of the city and of the civilization and they should have our best efforts in their development, entertainment and training."

Dr. Yost said that the board had called this meeting to get the expressions and ideas of the men and women of the city on a few of the vital topics. That the board was just trying to get its bearings and would endeavor to select the important tasks and attend to them to the best of its ability. The request for an appropriation of $2,000 for work this year he stated was very modest and would be used to the best advantage.

AT ART EXHIBIT.

Address By Mrs. Olberg Will Feature Day's Program.

The two talks which Mrs. Henrietta Olberg of Minneapolis planned for today were reversed, the talk on "Scandinavian Handicraft and Its Relation to Duluth," which she was to give this evening she gave this afternoon and the talk on "Flax and Its Artistic Possibilities in Minnesota" has been put off until this evening as many men who could not go this afternoon were interested in the talk because of its industrial importance. The fact that Duluth exports more flax than any other city in the world makes the subject of especial interest here.

Clay modeling, by Charles Broschi, the St. Paul sculptor, was the feature of the exhibit yesterday and interested the visitors who wandered through the halls and rooms where the various exhibits are displayed.

The hostesses in charge of the exhibit this afternoon and evening are: Mesdames John F. Killorin, Charles P. Craig, R. M. Sellwood, W. G. LaRue, Fred A. Sermon, A. M. Russell, Edward Inkalls, F. F. Clark, C. A. Duncan, Lane MacGregor, W. W. Carr, Mary Lutes, C. P. O'Donnell, R. H. Redman, Whitney Wall, R. A. Martin, A. E. Walker, Mary T. Sparks, George L. Stillman, Henry Turrish, Guy E. Diehl, F. C. Bowman, Frank Church, John Monaghan, and Misses Grace Sheridan, Jessie Sheridan, Helen Potter, Lillian Gowan and Leona Monaghan. Mrs. H.

GETS SPIRIT MESSAGE FROM ARCHIE BUTT

MME. DE MEISSNER.

The president has received an odd communication from Sophie de Meissner, daughter of the late Admiral Radford. She says it is a message from Archie Butt to his former chief and was received by her from the spirit world after the Titanic had sunk and before the rescued had reached the Carpathia. It told of his sorrow at leaving the president, but said he was not sorry to die and that he was happier in death than he had ever been before. Mme. de Meissner is well known in social Washington. Her late husband was secretary of the Russian legation for many years.

STORER-DE SHIELDS.

Invitations Out to Church Wedding.

Doctor and Mrs. William Sheldon Storer of Lester Park issued invitations today for the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy, to Hoyt Breslin De Shields. The wedding will take place Wednesday, June 26, at high noon at St. John's Episcopal church, Lakeside, Rev. Collier officiating. Miss Storer has chosen as her maid of honor Miss Lois Trott and little Miss Jean MacMillan will be the flower girl.

Mr. De Shields and his bride will reside at 210 Sixty-first avenue east.

EXHIBIT AT SCHOOL.

Manual Arts and Industrial Processes Will Be Shown.

An exhibit of manual arts and industrial processes which will be held tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock at the C. C. Salter school, Sixteenth avenue east and London road, will be of general interest to the public to whom a cordial invitation is extended to visit the school between the hours named.

Elementary manual training work, mechanical drawing and advanced woodwork including house furnishings and useful articles for the home will be included in the manual arts exhibit, which will be displayed on the second floor of the building. The main floor will be given over to mechanical drawings and the exhibition of products from the various leading manufacturing concerns of the city in various stages of development.

Classes in manual training and domestic art will be conducted during the afternoon in their respective rooms on the ground floor and during the afternoon prizes will be awarded by Edward F. Geiger, director of manual training of the public schools, for the best work. The Quayle-Larsen company has offered three prizes.

Anyone interested will be welcome to visit the school and view the exhibit any time tomorrow afternoon.

THE EVENING STORY

ELSIE'S PRINCE

By Violet M. Walker.

The sun was going down in a red, wintry sky; a red glow shone in at two large windows upon Fraulein Reinhold's pupils as seated in little groups about the long room, they occupied themselves in games or reading.

Elsie Whitmore, a dark-eyed slender girl, was seated in a window-recess gazing forlornly across the darkening, wooded valley at the sunset glowing behind towers and tree-tops black against the brilliant sky.

"It is like a picture," Elsie thought. "Oh, it is so pretty, and so are the queer, old-fashioned streets in Waldstadt when we go there! The girls are all nice to me, and everybody is kind, but, if only there were some other Americans girls here, even if she was not a nice girl, or if—if only they'd sent us both, instead of just me!"

Her eyes were wet, but she was trying not to cry, although she felt very homesick and miserable. Life was all so strange here at Waldstadt as yet to Elsie.

"It it not cold at the window, Elsie?"

An arm was put around her, and she looked up into a sweet, rosy face.

"Come and sit with me, we are going to play such a droll game!"

Clothild drew Elsie towards a group of girls near.

"Elsie is coming to play," she said. "If I sit there and she sits here—"

"Clothild!"

The door was noisily opened, and in bursted an excited girl.

"Oh, Erma, how noisy you are!"

"But, Clothild, this is very exciting news! Fraulein Reinhold says that the princess—our princess, who lives in the castle—has arranged for a visit here, she and her nephew; he is staying with her."

"Well, what if the princess has?" asked Clothild. "She visits us every year. Fraulein Reinhold was, for a little while, her daughter's governess."

"Eh, but I only came here this year!" exclaimed Erma. "I think it quite exciting! Girls, put on your embroidered frocks; a bouquet is to be presented by the youngest girl, and there is to be singing—such fun!"

Erma took another girl by the waist and danced with her up the room. There arose an eager buzz of chatter from the girls. Some of them went to the window to gaze at the castle beyond the valley where the princess lived. The sunset red had faded to pale gold and green.

"How romantic that looks!" said Erma. "Isn't the princess's visit much more interesting than lessons and our dull, everyday life?" Elsie sighed a little.

Clothild," she said, "I wish I were excited about your princess; but I would rather see somebody, anybody, from America."

Clothild's arm was around her again; they were a little apart from the rest of the girls.

"Dear Elsie," she whispered, "I have been thinking that you were growing fond of some of us and fond of Waldstadt. We are so happy here!"

"But this is your country, your home," returned Elsie. "Nobody knows till they have gone through it how different things are abroad. I want the sea and home, where my sister is."

"But you have letters from home."

"Letters!" exclaimed Elsie scornfully. "At home we were never parted, we two. But aunt Nellie, who used to teach us, is married. Clothild nobody knows how I long for home, or just to see somebody from home."

"Isn't that castle lovely? Everybody says so!" exclaimed Erma, darting up. "Come and talk about the princess's visit. She lives up there in the castle, Elsie; she has been away to see her sister, and she has come home, and her nephew is with her. I hope there is more snow; then she may drive here in the sielgh Sophie is talking about. Clothild, look is this a pretty curtsey?"

"Hush, Erma, here comes Fraulein Reinhold!"

Fraulein Reinhold came in, smiling kindly at the girls as they gathered about her with expectant faces.

"Ah, my news is old!" she said, with a merry glance at Erma. "You are all in great delight then, it seems? But we have much to arrange before we are honored with the kind visit. Prof. Schmidt is to compose verses and music for us. And where is our baby, Olga? She is to give the princess a bouquet."

Erma brought up small Olga, a shy child with big blue eyes—eyes wide open with something like alarm—and Olga nestled against Elsie to whisper—

"Dear Elsie, if I present a bouquet—oh, please, I want you with me!"

She was very fond of Elsie and Elsie of her. They had been "new girls" together when the term began.

"You want Elsie with you?" said Fraulein Reinhold, with a smile. "The princess loves your American Elsie, and the young prince has recently been there."

"Has he?" said Elsie. "But, Fraulein Reinhold, please let somebody else be with Olga."

Like Olga she was a little afraid of the princess.

"There is everything to arrange about our little festival," said Fraulein Reinhold briskly. "Tomorrow our preparations begin, for next week the princess visits us."

Though Elsie was not so much excited as the other girls by the princess's coming visit, she felt the bustle of preparing for it very amusing. A "Greeting Song" was practiced in the big hall, and the girls chattered about the princess from morning till night. No game was so fascinating. To Elsie it seemed a great fuss about nothing. "It is all so German!" she thought.

But a fuss, even about nothing, varied the dull routine of lessons that she had been used to doing at home.

There was snow every day that week, to Erma's huge delight.

"I want them to come in the sleigh!" she exclaimed.

After the snow the day of the princess' visit dawned brilliant, with sunshine and blue sky—a lovely winter day. Elsie felt very nervous as she was dressing; she was all in pink, her dark hair curling on her shoulders. The girls, gathering in the big hall, were admiring Olga's huge bouquet. Poor Olga was trembling.

"How timid you are," said Erma.

"Ah, but I have Elsie!" said Olga. "And Elsie is so calm."

The girls had not long to wait; all too soon for Olga and Elsie, Prof. Schmidt gave the sign, and all the clear young voices burst out with the "Greeting Song" as the princess came into the hall with Fraulein Reinhold.

Elsie squeezed Olga's cold hand as she led her to meet the princess, who was a small lady muffled in gray furs, looking tiny beside the tall young man who came in with her.

"Olga, curtsey!" cried Elsie in a whisper. Then as she looked up at the princess' nephew, her face crimsoned in delight and surprise, and she gave a little cry of "Mr. Ludwig!"

"My little American friend!"

The prince was as delighted as Elsie at this meeting; he smiled at her radiantly and his air of amiable boredom vanished.

"This is my little friend of last year at Seacote," he told the princess. "Fraulein Rheinhold, Miss Elsie and I met in America. I was 'Mr. Ludwig' in those days, and happy days they were. So you have come to live in my country?"

He glanced about the hall.

"Where is the curly head—is she not coming to speak to me?"

"My sister is in America," said Elsie sadly.

He looked at Elsie with so much sympathy that her eyes brimmed.

"Oh, Mr. Ludwig, it is like home to see you!" she exclaimed. Then a sob rose in her throat and she was crying.

The princess' bouquet dropped to the floor and she took Elsie in her arms, just as a remonstrance might have taken her.

"Have not I been in a foreign country, also?" she said. "Have not I been homesick? But wait! When you come, all of you, to see me, my home is full of American pictures. There is too, 'Mr. Ludwig,' to chatter with you of home."

She kissed Elsie before she walked down the hall with Fraulein Rheinhold, giving a pleasant word to the girls as they curtseyed and complimenting Professor Schmidt upon his 'Greeting Song." In a brief half hour the princess' long expected visit was concluded and she left the hall.

There was a rush in a moment towards Elsie. The girls all wanted to talk to her; questions were showered upon her.

"Where had you met the princess's nephew?"

"When was it Elsie?"

It was more wonderful to them than any fairy tale to hear of this American village by the sea, where the prince was, to Elsie and her sister, their friend Mr. Ludwig, "the man in the chair."

"A man used to push the chair and we used to walk by it and talk to Mr. Ludwig and have such fun?" exclaimed Elsie. "Then when he had gone away we heard that he was a prince. We scarcely thought he was, though. We always thought of him as 'Mr. Ludwig.'"

"How romantic!" cried Erma, with a sigh. "Oh, Elsie, I wish—I wish I were you!"

Erma was not the only girl who said that, when, in a few days, Elsie and Clothild were invited to the castle. The rest of the girls went in a bevy on another occasion, but there came a special note for Elsie and Clothild. And that day Elsie imagined herself at home.

"I was lonely at Seacote until I met my little friends!" declared the prince, who was 'Mr. Ludwig.' "But you are not to be lonely at Waldstadt, nor homesick any longer, little Elsie; you are to love my country as I love yours."

BIG CATHOLIC MEETING.

Federated Catholic Societies of Bismarck Diocese in Session.

Mandan, N. D., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the largest gatherings of Catholics ever held in this state is assembled here today for the first annual meeting of the Federated Catholic Societies of the Bismark Diocese. Every Catholic society in the diocese is represented by several delegates and there also are scores of visitors here from the diocese of Fargo, and some from Montana and South Dakota. Rt. Rev. Mgr. M. Wurst of Wabasha, Minn., will deliver the principal address at the public meeting to be held this afternoon and this will be followed by a closed meeting of the delegates at which state officers will be elected.

A torchlight procession will take place this evening. The convention continues in session all day tomorrow, a grand procession concluding the day.

Has Powerful Chest.

Cooperstown, N. D., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A load weighing over two tons passed over the chest of John B. Howden, and he will live. Though badly crushed, his ribs are not even broken. A terrible blow from one of the horse's hoofs has only left a bad scar on his forehead.

LIEUT. CHARLES WILCOX, Who Will Conduct the Wilcox Baths Again This Year.

Lieut. Charles Wilcox yesterday afternon began to put the Wilcox baths in shape for the summer season. The pond at the foot of Sixty-third avenue west was one of the most popular places in West Duluth last year and promises to be an ideal recreation spot this year for the young people in this end of the city.

Lieut. Wilcox established the baths two years ago and after considerable work solicited enough funds to erect a small shed, which is now being used as the bath house. The water has been enclosed with ropes to a distance of 300 feet from the shore. The greatest depth in the enclosure is four feet.

Lieut. Wilcox is now arranging to install springboards, a toboggan and other open air apparatus at the pond. He is planning to secure sufficient funds from West Duluth business men for the purchase of these articles. During the warm weather there is a daily average of nearly 200 boys at the baths. The beach here is ideal, as hard sand was dumped here two years ago by the government dredge.

In discussing his plans this morning Lieut. Wilcox said: "This pond was the most popular place in West Duluth last summer and is a necessity to the young boys of a large city. This is the only place they have in which they can bathe without any risk or danger of life. If I can get the help of the business men, I am planning to build several spring boards, a toboggan slide and other open air apparatus. The boys need these things and with the addition, the baths will be ideal and as fully equipped as they need be."

GOOD SAMARITAN GETS ONLY CURSES AND HARD LUCK

It is all right to always extend a helping hand, but the Samaritan feat may be overdone, according to the experience yesterday afternoon of Peter Perrault, a driver for Fleischer Bros., painters and paperhangers, 228 Central avenue.

Perrault was driving his horse along Central avenue, when he came to the Ramsey street crossing, where he saw the horse and wagon belonging to the J. E. Foubister Grocery company. Perrault looked about and not seeing the driver, drove his own horse to the drinking fountain and then proceeded to take the Foubister horse to the grocery store, 5619 Raleigh street. His own horse, which is a very high spirited animal, was left standing by the fountain without being hitched to a post.

Perrault had hardly driven a block down Central avenue with the Foubister horse when some one yelled at him to the effect that his own was running away. He looked about and saw that a Grand avenue car had frightened his horse, which was now dashing down Grand avenue. Perrault jumped from the wagon and gave it to a young man standing on the sidewalk. He then ran down the street after his own horse and wagon. After a long chase, Perrault found it. Perrault was worn out when he returned to his store late in the afternoon, but he was a wiser man, he said.

In the meantime the driver of the Foubister wagon came out of a residence, where he had gone to deliver an order for groceries. His horse and wagon were both gone and he began a frantic search about this end of the city. After an hour's hunt he learned that his horse had been taken home by a young man and that the horse was safe in the company's barn.

"A fellow can't take his horse inside with him when he makes a delivery, so what is he to do?" is the query now being made by the driver of the Foubister wagon. "But I guess Perrault has learned his lesson in doing kind deeds," he consluded.

FIRST GAMES IN THE CHURCH BASEBALL LEAGUE.

The West Duluth Interchurch Baseball league opened its season yesterday afternoon. The Presbyterians won from the Merritts by the score of 3 to 5 and the Asbury team defeated the Baptists, 7 to 5. The first game was played on the Forty-sixth avenue west and Oneota street grounds, and the latter on the Fifty-second avenue west grounds. The next games will be played tomorrow afternoon.

WANT AVENUE BOULEVARDED

Plan to Pave and Park Fifty-Ninth Avenue West.

Since the passing of the paving amendment, the plan to pave and park Fifty-ninth avenue west is again being agitated and a campaign in behalf of the movement is now being planned.

The property owners behind the movement are anxious to make a boulevard out of Fifty-ninth avenue west, as originally planned years ago.

The plan to park and pave the avenue was broached two years ago, but was dropped because of the large expense. The present annual installment plan of paying for pavements and street improvements has changed the situation and many of the property owners on the thoroughfare will assist in the campaign to secure a petition signed by every one residing on the street.

The plan at present is to move the curbing back about four feet on each side of the street and provide a roadway on each side of the parkway, which will run through the center of the avenue. In the parkway will be planted trees, flowers and shrubbery. The road will extend down to the water front, from where it has been suggested to continue the boulevard along the water front up to Fairmont park at Seventy-first avenue west. In this way automobiles could drive along Grand avenue to Fifty-ninth avenue west, then turning to the boulevard down to the water front, and finally over to the park. The ride would be one of the best in the city and would afford a pleasing approach to the park.

As the park board is now planning to buy a large tract of land in the vicinity of the park, known as the Fairmont addition, the boulevard extension along the water front is favored by many. The entire water front at this point will be used for the park and in all probability will be the largest park in the city. The many suggestions already made, including a boat house, bathing beach and pavilion at the park, also promise to make the park one of the most beautiful spots in the city.

The property owners on the avenue are anxious to open this park to the public and give them a proper approach from the center of the city and West Duluth. The avenue is one of the widest in the city, having been originally planned for the main business street in West Duluth. The panic of 1893 stopped the original plans and the business street shifted to Central avenue. In the meantime Fifty-ninth avenue has become one of the most thickly populated residence streets in this end of the city.

The boulevard plan will not cost much, said one of the property owners this morning, as the entire street will not be paved. Teh property owners will only pay for the pavement, while the park board will be asked to build the parkway and also supervise it after it is built. "This improvement is something that we need," said one of the property owners this morning. "West Duluth has not a single boulevard street that it can be proud of and very few paved streets in the city. With the boulevard completed and an approach built to the new park a little later on, West Duluth will have something it can well be proud of."

CLEVELAND HOST TO CHARITY BODIES

Several Conventions Are Held at Once in Ohio City.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 11.—Cleveland today became the center of the world which is interested in charities and correction. The national conference on education of backward, truant, delinquent and dependent children and the national conference of Jewish charities, which had been in session since Sunday evening, engaged in their most important discussion.

The National Probation Officers' association and ahe Federated Boys' clubs convened. Hundreds of delegates to the thirty-ninth national convention of charities and corrections arrived for the opening meeting tomorrow night, when Mayor Milton D. Baker of Cleveland and Governor Harmon are scheduled to deliver addresses of welcome.

The convention will be in session until June 19. Among the prominent speakers who will deliver addresses are: H. C. Bowman, chairman of the state board of control of Kansas; Edwin C. Cooley, probation officer of the supreme and county courts of Buffalo, N. Y.; Judge Julian W. Mack, president of the national conference of charities and correction; Cyrus L. Sulzberger of New York; Wilbur C. Phillips of Milwaukee and George D. Chamberlain.

Governor Marshall of Indiana will address the Federated Boys' clubs tonight on "The Boy Problem."

MANY EYES HAVE GAZED

At This Card With Admiration.

During the many rush hours of the day and night while many people stand and others sit in the street cars you will observe hundreds of people gazing at an advertisement which is displayed by two illustrations which have made the writer famous, and thousands wonder with admiration who could say so much and mean so much on such a small card. This card was written by Artemus Ward, who received a greater salary than that of the president of the United States. He wrote "Spotless Town," which has become as familiar to all civilized nations as the alphabet. This card is the property of the Yale, Fancy Launderers & French Dry Cleaners.

SCARLET FEVER HALTS GRADUATION

Serious Epidemic Is Being Fought at Winneconne, Wis.

Neenah, Wis., June 11.—Because of a serious epidemic of scarlet fever, the schools at the village of Winneconne, near here, have been closed. At the high school it was necessary to call off the commencement exercises. Health authorities of the county are at work trying to stop further spread.

CATCHING MANY BASS AROUND CASS LAKE.

Cass Lake, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bass fishing in the Mississippi river connecting Cass and Winnibigoshish lakes could not be better anywhere. Nels Bostad and party spent a few hours there and returned with 137 fine large bass. The water in some places is only four or five feet deep, and with clear bottom, it is easy to see the fish, making it very interesting sport to watch them bite. Numerous parties are making preparations to take in the good fishing there while it lasts.

SOCIALISTS ARE STRONG

May Control Affairs of Minnesota Federation of Labor.

Duluth Will Be Represented at Convention By Twenty-Five Delegates.

Twenty-five men, representing the labor unions of Duluth, will leave Sunday evening for Brainerd, Minn., where the thirtieth annual convention of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor will be held.

There are three convention days, June 17, 18 and 19. This is the first meeting for many years at which North Dakota has not been represented. Heretofore, the territory in North Dakota has been a part of the Minnesota Federation's jurisdiction. Since the last convention, union men of North Dakota have formed a state federation of their own.

It is thought that the biggest fight at the convention will be over the re-election of officers. The Socialists have been becoming stronger each year and this year they hope to get control of the convention and elect their own officers. The non-Socialists are equally as anxious to keep the control where it has been for some years.

E. G. Hall is a candidate for re-election and it seems probable that he will succeed himself. He will have stout opposition, however, for the Socialists have a dark horse candidate which they feel confident of electing.

W. E. McEwen is at present secretary-treasurer. He has held this position for several years. He has not announced himself. He has tried to resign for several years, but union men have insisted that he continue to serve them.

EAST GRAND FORKS ORDINANCE VETOED

Mayor Murphy Knocks Out Act Reducing Saloon Patrol District.

East Grand Forks, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor J. J. O'Leary yesterday vetoed the ordinance by which the council sought to exclude from the saloon patrol district considerable territory. The mayor says that the ordinance is unfair and unjust, and not in accord with the spirit of the city charter that provides for the removal from the patrol district of territory which is more suited to residence purposes than to business and factory purposes.

The ordinance would have removed from the patrols district property lying adjacent to the Red river bridge, the most valuable in the city, because of its close proximity to the dry state of North Dakota.

FIRE FIGHTERS MEET.

North Dakota State Firemen's Association at Williston.

Williston, N. D., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. O. Russell, pdesident of the North Dakota Firemen's association, called the annual convention and tournament to order in this city at 10 o'clock this morning and after the hearty welcome address by Mayor J. W. Jackson, he made his annual address. The president pointed out that the year had shown a great advance over former years in prevention of fire, especially in small towns. He stated that the various local associations had followed out the instructions of the convention a year ago and caused many public addresses to be given on the necessity of education along the line of preventing fires, and that much good had been accomplished by the better relations existing between the volunteer and paid fire departments.

The reports of the secretary and treasurer showed that the association had grown in numbers and finances.

REPUBLICANS NUMEROUS.

No Dearth of Them in Wells County, N. D.

Fessenden, N. D., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—From the assessors' returns in Wells county it is quite evident that a great many registered under the Republican party who would not ordinarily swear by that faith. The total shows there are 2,373 Republicans in the county and but 302 Democrats, while the Socialists number 13, the Independents 6, the Prohibitionists but 4, and the People's party, 1. Nine people refused to state their political preference, and one man aimed to be fair by registering for the "best party."

SUCCEEDS HOLDEN.

North Dakotan New Bemidji Sunday School Missionary.

Bemidji, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—G. A. Malone of Dickinson, N. D., has arrived here to succeed A. L. Holden as Sunday school missionary for the American Sunday School union in this district. Mr. Holden went to Great Falls, Mont., in April, and this district since then has been looked after by S. E. Gregg of Little Fork.

The district is made up of the southern part of Beltrami, Clearwater Northern Hubbard, Cass and part of Itasca counties. Mr. Malone's family will come to Bemidji Aug. 1.

EYE STRAIN IN CHILDHOOD.

Youth's Companion: A woman to whom four healthy boy babies were born, only to die of stomach trouble in their second year, brought with infinite care a fifth boy past the danger period and to his eighth year. Then he began to go to school, but became at once subject to stomach attacks that no kind of tonic or diet could help. Finally his mother suggested that the trouble might be with his eyes, but the local doctor pointed out that he was unusually far sighted and never had any headaches. The mother, knowing something of the subtle relation of the eyes to the rest of the body, took him to an eye specialist in a distant town.

The first day on which he wore glasses he said wonderingly: "Why, print is black, isn't it, mother?"

"Yes, dear; what did you think it was?"

"Why, gray, and sort of mixed like, and now the letters look straight up and down."

The child had a complicated defect known as mixed astigmatism, which made it hard for him to see things near at hand, although his eyes themselves did not feel the strain. When he wore the right glasses the stomach trouble vanished as if by magic.

This is only one illustration of many that might be given of obscure affections directly caused by eye strain. Some of the clearest symptoms may be seen in infancy. For example, when a baby is not sensitive to light and does not blink on coming into the sun light he is near sighted. A child who frowns or keep one eybrow raised or the head on one side or whose eyes look prominent and staring should be examined as soon as possible, not only for his own sake but for the sake of those about him, because children, like grownups, are irritable or peevish or sullen when their eyes do not work properly.

Some very troublesome habits for which children are punished are due to eye strain. These are due to a weakened condition of certain involuntary muscles controlled normally by nervous reflexes that are easily upset by any kind of extra strain.

Continual colds and catarrh are frequently associated with eyes that are even slightly crossed or turned outward. These conditions are almost always due to errors of refraction that are not removable by operation on the muscles.

Dr. Case recently examined 400 boys at the Elmira reformatory, and of these 223 had serious errors of vision. Through the studies made of delinquent and defective children and adults we are beginning to be aware of the relation between serious misconduct and physical defects, especially in the eyes. But we have not yet realized that for every case where such defects result in crime they cause bad temper, depression of spirits and a troop of annoying physical ailments in a hundred others.

THE PALM ROOM
At the SPALDING
MOST DELIGHTFUL AND LUXURIOUS RESTAURANT IN DULUTH.

SMALLEST REPUBLIC IN WORLD.

Christian Herald: The smallest republic in the world, without contradiction, observes a Paris contemporary, is that of Tavolara, a little island situated about seven and one-half miles from Sardinia. It is little more than a mile in length and has a population of fifty-five.

The sovereignty of the island was accorded in 1836 by King Charles Albert to the Bartoleoni family. Up to 1882 Paul I reigned peaceably over his little island kingdom, but at his death the islanders proclaimed a republic. By the constitution of the republic the president is elected for ten years and women exercise the franchise.

PROGRAM FOR CLASS NIGHT

More Than 100 Students Will Graduate From High School.

Commencement Exercises Friday—Program at Cathedral High School.

The 1912 graduates of the Central high school will hold their class night exercises in the auditorium of the Central building Wednesday evening, June 12.

Commencement exercises will be held on Friday evening, June 14. The class this year consists of a few over 100, the number being considered by the school authorities an average class. Even at this late hour many are in doubt as to whether or not they will graduate and this is what has held up both the class night and commencement programs. The grade schools close this week, but each school is holding its own exercises. The class night program was arranged today by Principal Young.

The feature of the class night program this year will be a sketch called: "Coming Events Cast Their Shadows Before." Nearly the entire class will take part. The sketch has been arranged with music, giving all the graduates a chance to appear before the footlights.

The school song "Triumphales" will be sung by the class as an opening number. Robert Mars, president of the graduating class, will deliver the address of welcome.

A song called "Nineteen-Twelve," composed especially for the occasion by A. F. M. Custance and one also by Mr. Custance called "Nineteen-Thirteen," will be sung by the two classes.

Annual Oration.

Julius Nolte, the class orator, will deliver the annual oration on "Child Labor."

Following the oration the class play will take place. Dorothy Gibson is mayor of the Zenith City; Dorothy Jones is secretary of the commission; Marion Ingalls is treasurer; Dorothy Pierce is commissioner of reforms; Mildred Prudden is commissioner of education; Merna Newell will be commissioner of public health; Alta Hallock will be commissioner of grievances, and Helen Benson will be chief of police. No one knows who is to be ex-Alderman Sven Yonson. A chorus consisting of the rest of the members of the class will represent suffragettes, ex-office holders, politicians.

Class night is considered the big night. The commencement exercises are more serious in their nature.

The program follows:

Song—"Triumphales" .....
Address of Welcome .....
Robert Mars.

Cathedral High School.

A class of thirteen will be graduated from the Cathedral high school with appropriate graduating exercises tomorrow night at the Cathedral auditorium.

Rev. Father Moynhan, president of St. Thomas college, St. Paul, will deliver the address of the evening. Rev. Moynhan is an able orator and is considered one of the leading educators in the Northwest.

The valedictory will be delivered by Harry E. Ryan. His subject is "Our Country and Christian Education." Harry Ryan is one of the youngest members of his class. He won a scholarship offered at the beginning of the year by the Cathedral school.

The program consists of orations, music, the presentation of diplomas by Rt. Rev. Bishop James McGolrick and the address to the graduates by Father Moynhan.

LA FOLLETTE MEN HOPEFUL

Houser Looks for Deadlock and Says "Anything May Happen" Then.

Says Southern Contests Have Been Decided on Their Merits.

Chicago, June 11.—Walter L. Houser of Madison, United States Senator R. M. La Follette's campaign manager, arrived in Chicago today to take charge of the La Follette headquarters. He said he expected a deadlock in the convention and that Senator La Follette under no circumstances would make any combination or agreement with any other candidate for the presidential nomination.

"We have come here to fight straight through this national convention as we have fought in the various state primaries," said Mr. Houser. "We are not going to wabble or wiggle a single bit.

"All talk of possible combinations or deals between Senator La Follette and other candidates positively is without foundation.

Looks for Deadlock.

"Because of the close, bitterly contested fight for control between the Taft and Roosevelt forces, I now look for a deadlock in the convention, with the possibility that almost anything may happen. I now think the Taft and Roosevelt leaders have driven each other and themselves into a pocket from which they will find it difficult to extricate themselves.

"I think the cases have been settled on their merits," said Mr. Houser, "so far as there is any merit in those Southern cases. When you get down to the bottom facts in those Southern contests, there is not much merit on either side. But I do think the committee has acted impartially in its deliberations.

"I sincerely hope Col. Roosevelt comes to Chicago at this time. I want him to see how that machine works. He taught President Taft to run it, you know."

ARMY MULES BEAT AUTOS.

First Day's March of Experimental Army Gives Animals Advantage.

Dubuque, Iowa, June 11.—The first day's march of the experimental army, which was meant to determine for one thing the best means of transportation, the mule or automobile, resulted in a victory for the mule. Five mule teams with camp supplies and provisions arrived at the place where the army bivouacked, while half an hour later, the auto trucks were still missing.

Col. Gotty's experimental regiment of over 2,000 seasoned soldiers from Forts Sheiling, Crook, Brady and Sheridan, are across the Mississippi river in Wisconsin for the practice march to Sparta, the national manauver grounds. The march is to be by way of Madison.

As soon as the troops were on Wisconsin soil they were supposed to be in the vicinity of an imaginary enemy. Scouts were sent out and all side roads were carefully guarded.

BURGLAR LEAVES HAT

When Frightened Away From Dwelling at International Falls.

International Falls, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—When Mr. King, an employe of the power company returned to his home early Monday morning he found a burglar, wearing a handkerchief over his face, attempting to gain entrance to the house through the back door. The fellow was busy at the back door and when frightened by the approach of Mr. King took to his heels, leaving behind a Stetson hat which may aid the authorities in identifying him. The Kings are the possessors of some valuable diamonds.

A LAWYER'S SHARP RETORT.

Los Angeles Times: Apropos of the McNamara and Richeson cases, a group of Chicago lawyers were discussing the question of whether a lawyer could conscientiously defend a man whom he knew to be guilty.

"There's a story apropos of that," said Judge Lyman Hall, the visiting English jurist. "A famous criminal lawyer had won a shockingly bad case by eloquence and trickery, and a rival lawyer said to him bitterly: 'Is there any case so low, so foul, so vilely crooked and shameful, that you'd refuse it?'

"'Well, I don't know,' the other answered, with a smile. 'What have you been doing now?'"

SAVING A DESPERATE MAN.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Why did you get engaged to Harry? You swore that you would never, never have anything to do with such a man."

"Yes, dear, I know I did. But—well, I wouldn't have accepted him if he hadn't made such a perfectly dreadful threat."

"Oh! That old stall about rushing out and committing suicide?"

"No, worse than that."

"But any of those threats are bluffs. I suppose he said he'd kill the next man who called on you, eh?"

"No, no! I've heard that before. Dearie, he threatened that if I did not accept him he'd go and propose to you. And I believe he would have done it too—he was perfectly desperate!"

WEST DULUTH WILL GET NEW RAILROAD DEPOT

West Duluth will get a new depot.

It was announced this afternoon in a special dispatch from St. Paul that the railroad and warehouse commission had decided to isuse an order within a day or two, for a new Northern Pacific station and freight depot at West Duluth. The West Duluth people presented a very strong case to the commission, at the hearing conducted here last month. They claimed that the present depot is too small and insanitary, and evidently the commissioners considered their arguments favorably.

American Legation at Havana Predicts End of Oriente Revolt.

Disposition of American Marines in Cuba Announced.

Washington, June 11.—Gen. Ivonet with 700 insurrectos is said to be cornered about twelve miles from Sagua de Tanamo, on the north coast of Oriente. This information was received here through the American legation at Havana. It is believed the negro revolution in Oriente province will be short lived.

Disturbances continue in Santa Clara province, the consular agent at Sagua La Grande reporting the situation serious.

Details of a fight in the city park between whites and blacks on June 9 have been received. Two persons were wounded.

The regular army garrisons have been withdrawn from Caibarien and Remedios, only rural guards remaining. Seditious bands also are reported in this vicinity.

How Marines Are Placed.

The American marine force has been distributed as follows:

Capt. F. L. Bradman with 100 men on the Prairie at Manzanillo; Capt. L. M. Gulick, two junior officers and 100 marines at El Cobre; Capt. E. B. Manwaring, two junior officers and 120 men at El Cuero; Lieut. Col. Lejune, district commander, Capt. H. I. Boarse, Capt. F. H. Delano, two junior officers and 143 marines at Siboney, and vicinity.

Lieut.-Col. L. C. Lucas, district commander, Maj. H. C. Davis, Capt. A. S. Williams, two junior officers, and 50 marines at Guantanamo City; Capt. C. T. Westcott, two junior officers and 100 marines at Bolona; Capt. B. W. Sibley, two junior officers, and 50 marines, at Los Canos; Lieut. Young and 25 marines at Bouqueron; Maj. G. C. Reid and 50 marines at St. Cecelia; First Lieutenant R. H. Davis, two junior officers and 25 marines at Santa Maria; Capt. F. A. Ramsey, two junior officers and 50 marines at Isabel; and Capt. Logan Feland, two junior officers and 100 marines at Soledad.

Purcell to Nominate Burke.

Bismarck, N. D., June 11.—W. E. Purcell of Wahpeton will place the name of John Burke of North Dakota in nomination for president before the Democratic national convention at Baltimore. Large numbers of North Dakota Democrats will make the trip to Baltimore in a special train and boost for their candidate.

PUT AN END TO DUELLING

German Reichstag Asked to Stop the System of "Honor."

Berlin, June 11.—A determined effort is to be made in the present reichstag to put an end once for all to dueling in Germany. Many a brave German officer in the army or highly respected citizen in civil life has died on the so-called "field of honor" because he did not have the moral courage to face the sneers of friends and enemies and be ostracized by his associates if he refused to fight.

Aroused by the death of Lieut. von Heeringen, a nephew of Gen. von Heeringen, minister of war, who was shot and killed recently in a duel with Lieut. von Puttkamer, another scion of nobility, a strong movement has been started to effectively kill out the dueling craze. That has crystallized in a bill to be placed before the reichstag which provides summary dismissal from the army or navy for any officer participating in a duel either as principal or second, and a long term of imprisonment for civilians who engage in this method of "wiping the stain from their honor." Tradition of "honor" which only can be satisfied by sticking a sword into the vitals of the offender, or puncturing him with a pistol bullet, is so strong in German army, navy and university circles that there is some doubt whether such a measure will find sufficient friends in the reichstag to pass it.

Duels Are Grim Affairs.

The German army or navy officer and university student is as "touchy" about his "honor" as is a woman about her "beauty." If German duels were anything like the French affairs, there would be little objection to them. But they are not. The German duel is a grim, deadly tragedy. It is rare that both men walk from the field. One man is usually killed or severely wounded and it is not infrequent that both are dangerously hurt. The principals and seconds engage in the duel with all grim seriousness so characteristic a German trait. Lieut. von Puttkamer shot down his brother officer at fifteen yards after von Herringen had shot him through the hand.

What aroused public opinion and that part of the press not influenced by the military system and traditions was the fact that Gen. von Heeringen, minister of war, defended the duel. "A man who refuses to fight a duel does not belong to the corps of officers," he said before the reichstag. For a moment that declaration took the breath from the reichstag members and then followed such an attack upon the minister, later taken up by the press, that it was believed it would result in von Heeringen's retirement as minister of war.

System Strongly Intrenched.

Later the minister of war modified his statement and said that he had been misunderstood. He admitted that dueling was an "evil," but that the tradition of dueling was so deep in the German army that it "could not be eradicated by force." In response to a resolution by the Social Democrats demanding the immediate dismissal from the army or navy of any officer who engages or assists in a duel, Gen. von Heeringen said that he would do all he could to "restrict" dueling. It is doubtful whether the reichstag will be satisfied with "restriction." The minister of war was of the opinion that duels could not be stopped entirely until more stringent laws were enacted to "protect the honor of officers" and to afford them redress. Just why army and navy officers require special legislation for the protection and redress of their honor Gen. von Heeringen did not explain in detail.

Shuned by his associates ad practically ostracized because he refused to challenge a brother officer who is alleged to have made remarks affecting his honor, Dr. Sambeth, a widely known officer in the medical corps of the army, recently tendered his resignation after the emperor refused to pass upon the question. Dr. Sambeth declined to challenge or fight a duel on the ground that his religion did not permitof his killing a man for "injured honor."

More men are "henpecked" by seemingly adverse circumstances than by their wives. A little advertising may help you to boss your own circumstances.

A Telephone In Your Home For Only $1.34 Per Month

In the course of a month you can easily save more than the cost of a telephone on "trips" downtown and on wear and tear of clothes and shoes.

It is a demonstrated fact that, among the real economies of the day, a BELL telephone is in the very front rank. Don't let another month go by without a telephone in your home.

Now's the time—for we go to press June 15th with the new Telephone Directory. Your name should be in it

$1.34 for a selected ring—two party telephone—(rings only when your number is called.) $2 for single-party line.

English Noblewoman Travels Through England as a Peddler

LADY GROSVENOR.

Along the shady lanes of England these pleasant summer days goes a hawker's cart. A trim woman in a norfolk jacket and a short skirt sits in the driver's place and lets the horse take his lazy way. Now and then she stops and sells a pot or pan to one of the country folk. This is a part of her diversion, for the hawker is Lady Arthur Grosvenor, one of the beauties of English society. Lady Arthur loves the leafy lanes in the early summer and hates the house. Hence her gipsy expedition on which her husband accompanies her. They sleep in their cart and cook their own meals and have altogether what a distinguished American citizen would call "a perfectly corking time."

POLYGLOT RIVER, THE DANUBE.

Journal of Geographers: Where is there another river so international as the Danube? It rises in Baden and flows through Wurtemberg and Bavaria; nearly half its length lies in Austria-Hungary; then it separates the latter country and Servia. At Orsova three nationalities meet—Hungarians, Servians and Rumanians; after that it serves as a boundary between Rumania and Bulgaria; and its mouth lies in Rumanian territory. As one passes from source to mouth, strange sounds greet the ear: first High German dialects, as Alemanic, Suablan and Bavarian; then the language of the proud sons of Arpad, the Magyars; then the Servian and Rumanian and Bulgarian tongues. The management of the river improvement shows the number and variety of the interests. An international commission undertook the deepening of one of the delta channels, and a joint commission of the riparian states removed the dangers of the rapids.

The scenery along the Danube is as varied as the people that dwell on its banks. There are stretches whose beauty rivals that of the picturesque parts of the castled Rhine; then comes the monotony of the wide plain; then it breaks once more through mountain chains and again the scene is wild and beautiful.

There is more of the beautiful blue Danube connected with Austria-Hungary than with any other state; and this river and its tributaries cement the heterogeneous parts of that composite country more naturally and more firmly than laws and treaties can. Far more freight is moved on the Danube than in and out of the Austrian Adriatic ports; so that in spite of the possession of a strip of coast, the monarchy may be called an inland state. Unfortunately for this government, the all-important Danube slips from it by flowing far beyond the borders of the land, yet it has even in politics a directing influence. The eyes of Austrian statesmen are turned eastward. Economically and politically the Danube is of such dominating significance to Austria-Hungary, that it has been suggested that this conglomerate state be called not the dual monarchy but the Danubian monarchy.

The Danube was the scene of Roman colonization, of the fierce inroads of the migration of the Hunns, the Avars, and the Magyars, of the advance of the Crusaders to the East, of that of the Turks toward the West, and more recently of the growth of the house of Hapsburg and of the disintegration of the Ottoman realm. What causes this frequent reference in history to the Danube and its valley? A glance at the map will account for it; stretching from the headwaters of the Rhine, the Rhone, the Elbe, and the Oder to the Black sea, the Danube forms and for ages has formed the connecting link between the Orient and the Occident.

ORIGINAL OF JOE GARGERY.

London Standard: While the Dickens centenary was being celebrated, the death occurred in the village of Chalk, near Gads Hill, of Oscar Mullender, whose personality and occupation were undoubtedly in the mind of the novelist when he described the character of Joe Gargery in his forge in "Great Expectations." Mr. Mullender, who was in his 73rd year, was regarded as the highest Dickensian authority in the neighborhood, for he had the advantage of close personal association with the novelist, who spent many hours with him in the forge while he was at work, and in his grounds at Gads Hill. In the organization of local sports Mr. Mullender at one period took the chief part, together with Charles Dickens, who upon one occasion presented him with a keepsake.

Mr. Mullender was the source of a great deal of information contained in many publications about Dickens' land. He was a very intelligent man and made some features of Dickens' works a special study. The forge, in which he worked for the greater part of his lifetime, has been in the possession of his family for about 130 years.

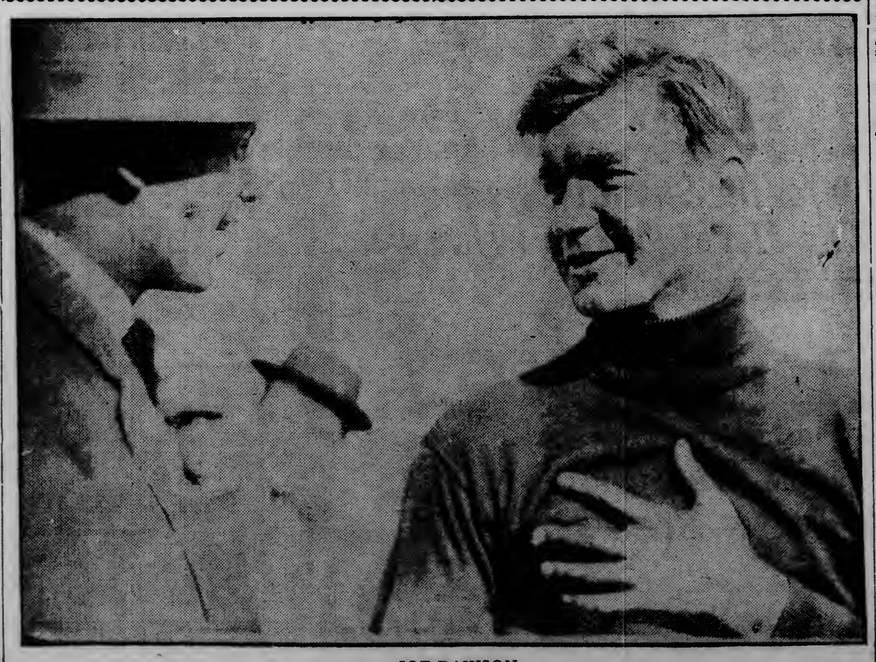

BABY'S HANDS AT NIGHT.

Harper's Bazar: While baby's feet were warm at night because his "nightie" was closed at the bottom with a gathering string, his hands were always cold, for he couldn't be persuaded to keep them under the blankets.

A pair of his stockings were fastened with a shield pin to his nightgown sleeves up by the shoulder to give them the desired length, then pulled on over his hands and arms. This left his hands free, but covered and warm.

Should there be a tendency to the pernicious thumb sucking habit, this protection will effectively break is up, thus "killing" the proverbial "two birds with one stone."

HOUSE CANAL BILL IS FIXED

Senate Committee Modifies Terms as to Railroad-Owned Vessels.

Must Do Trans-Oceanic Trade If They Are to Use Waterway.

Washington, June 11.—The senate committee on interoceanic canals today favorably reported the house bill to open, protect and operate the Panama canal and to govern the canal zone. The bill retains the house provision exempting coastwise vessels from canal tolls, and embodies an amendment strictly regulating railroad-owned vessels.

Terms Are Amended.

The senate amended the house bill to provide that no ship owned, chartered, operated or controlled by a railroad or in which any railroad had any interest whatever through any holding company, stockholders or directors in common or otherwise, should be permitted to enter or pass through the Panama canal if engaged in the coastwise trade between United States ports.

Any ship of American register, however owned or controlled, would be permitted to operate through the canal in trans-oceanic trade up to and from Oriental or European countries, and on its way might do a coastwise trade between ports of the United States and intermediate foreign ports.

This privilege, however, would not be permitted to any ship owned or controlled wholly or partly by any railroad, unless it be in trans-oceanic trade.

The coastwise trade to be allowed such vessels will be strictly to or from trans-oceanic ports and not to ports of Canada, Mexico or Central and South America.

The committee added an additional restriction to protect coastwise traffic by requiring that a railroad-owned ship passing through the canal must have at least 50 per cent of its cargo destined to a trans-ocean port.

Fee Owners Here.

H. M. Lamberton and George Baumgartner of Winona, fee owners of the Chisholm Iron mine at Chisholm, and Albert Sargo of Chicago, representing Misses Alice and Sarah C. Robson of that city, who are also fee owners of the same mining property, were in Duluth yesterday afternoon on their way to inspect the mine. While at Duluth the party was joined by A. M. Chisholm of this city, after whom the mine is named and who discovered and developed it. The Chisholm mine is under lease to the Oliver Iron Mining company. It is one of the large shaft properties of the Mesaba range. It produces ore of the Bessemer grade.

Visitors Form Dakota.

A party of about twenty prominent business and professional men of Grand Forks, members of the Commercial club of that city, will spend Monday and Tuesday in Duluth, during which time they will be the guests of the Duluth Commercial club. The party is coming on the invitation of the public affairs committee of the Duluth Commercial club. The visitors are anxious to see just how the Duluth organization works, and every opportunity will be given them to study the methods of the club.

Vagrancy Charge.

George W. Stanley, who gives his profession as that of bartender, was arrested on the charge of vagrancy. He disclaims the doubtful honor and his hearing is taking place this afternoon.

Sent to Asylum Hospital.

John Erick Johnson, 30 years old, was examined before Judge Gilpin of the probate court yesterday, found to be suffering from a mental breakdown and was committed to the hospital for insane at Fergus Falls. Johnson is laboring under the impression that he is immensely wealthy. He is also said to have a touch of religious mania.

Gets Reformatory Term.

John Debillis, who was tried and found guilty of forgery, second degree, by a jury in district court at this term, was sentenced by the state reformatory at St. Cloud yesterday by Judge Cant. Debillis maintained his innocence when asked what he had to say why sentence should not be passed.

Tourists in City.

Manager J. T. Michaud of the Holland hotel stated today that there are a number of tourists from the West in Duluth at the present time, and the indications are that there will be a large number here during the present month. Today there are a number of sightseers from Iowa, Illinois and Indiana. These people came to Duluth to take the lake trip.

Quiet Day in Court.

The police court was dull this morning, there being very few "drunks" and not many other cases. John Chavis and Grace Brown, both colored, were arrested in a house on St. Croix alley, and each was fined $25 and costs or thirty days.

Fined for Trespass.

Jake Cohen was arrested last night charged with trespassing on property in the rear of the Knudsen company. Cohen and another man were loafing around there evidently looking for something and had a sack to put it in. When an officer approached they ran, but Cohen was caught. He paid $10 and costs.

Vag Gets Limit.

George W. Stanley, arrested this morning on a charge of vagrancy, was arraigned in police court this afternoon. He does not work, it was shown, and it was indicated that his living was obtained from a woman of the under-world. Judge Cutting gave him the heaviest fine for vagrancy that has been given in a long time. It was $75 and costs or sixty days in jail. He went up.

Wholesale House Sues.

The Wright-Clarkson Mercantile company began suit today in district court to enforce the collection of $752.18 against the J. Engelson Fish company. The wholesale firm claims that this amount is due on an unpaid balance.

Hearing Continued.

PROPOSED NEW $100,000 HIGH SCHOOL FOR BUHL, MINNESOTA

—Plans by Anthony Puck.

OBITUARY

F. J. Toland, pioneer business college owner, who established and operated schools at Eau Claire, La Crosse, Monroe, Wausau, Wis., Mason City, and Oelwein, Iowa; Winona, Minn., Sioux Falls, S. D., and Nebraska City, is dead at his fruit farm in Ludington, Mich., aged 59, of a sudden attack of heart failure.

Benjamin R. Bones, aged 71, is dead at his home in Mt. Pleasant, Wis. He was one of the leading agriculturists of the state and for half a century made a careful study of birds, being a recognized authority on the habits and nature of all birds found in Southern Wisconsin. Many of his writings and specimens of birds are in the Smithsonian institution at Washington.

Dr. William H. Kessler, past right eminent grand commander of Knights Templar of Michigan, died at his home in Detroit, June 10. He was stricken with heart trouble while reviewing exhibition drills at the annual conclave last week and never recovered from the attack. Dr. Kessler's death recalled that of Past Grand Commander James Findlater, who died suddenly while attending the annual conclave in Saginaw last year.

Charles E. Hoar, nephew of the late United States Senator Hoar of Massachusetts and known as "the hermit of Simi valley," is dead at Oxnard, Cal. He was 70 years old. A graduate of Harvard, Hoar gave indications of having a brilliant career, but because of disappointment in love he went to the Simi valley, near Oxnard, and lived a lonely life for many years. He owned valuable land. His body will be cremated and the ashes sent to his sisters in Concord, Mass., where he was born.

A program of vaudeville features, addresses and fireworks' displays will be included in the Fourth of July celebration to be held at the East end this year. Those behind the celebration are now completing the features to be introduced during the day.

Probe Insurance Rates.

Five members of the state legislature fire insurance investigating committee, including J. L. Ekern, state commissioner of insurance, arrived in the city yesterday to conduct a two days' investigation of insurance rates in Superior. The session started this morning and will continue through tomorrow afternoon.

Graduation Exercises.

Over 200 students will be graduated from the Superior public schools tomorrow and Thursday. Special graduation exercises will be held at the various schools and the diplomas will be presented by the principal of each school.

SUCH IS GREATNESS.

Saturday Evening Post: Not long ago Governor Woodrow Wilson, whose various activities have had some small mention in the newspapers and other engines of publicity recently, went down to Augusta, Ga.—where he lived when a boy and where his father was a minister for some years—for a day or two of rest.

He told his friends he just wanted to roam around the old town, revisit familiar scenes and do nothing else. In the course of his wanderings he came to the house of a dear old lady who was a pillar in his father's church. Wilson's lost first name is Thomas, and when he was a boy—and, indeed, while he was in college—he was known as Tommie Wilson.

Mr. Wilson called on the dear old lady. She was very glad to see him after he had told her his name and recalled his father's pastorate.

"Why, Tommie," she said, "how you have grown!"

"Yes," assented the governor; "I have grown some."

"Indeed you have! I remember you perfectly when you were a little bit of a boy. And I certainly hope you have prospered."

The dear old lady was genuinely interested.

"Oh, yes; I have done very well," Governor Wilson said.

"I am so glad—so very glad! By the way, Tommie, what are you doing now?"

SUCCESS OF OLYMPIC GAMES TRYOUTS PLEASES BRITISH

London, June 11.—British sportsmen are greatly pleased over the success of the Olympic games tryouts held at Stamford Bridge. This elation was not due so much to the records, which in the main were not startling, but because the games were marked by a large entry and were attended by 10,000 spectators, in striking contrast to the meager entries and attendance of the tryouts which preceded the 1908 Olympiad. Critics declare that there has been a real revival of interest in track and field sports and while they are still hopeless of seeing the Union Jack flying at Stockholm in a majority of the events, they feel that the British team will make a good showing.

In the sprints and middle distances several good records were made, notably the time of Seedhouse in the 400 metres. He covered the distance in 49 1-5 seconds, thereby equaling Hillman's Olympic record. If the Blackheath Harrier can improve his finishing qualities he will be the man the American quarter milers will have to beat at Stockholm.

If John Paul Jones of Cornell does not appear as a member of the American team the English runners may have a chance of breaking the tape in the half and mile runs, as the records made in these events compare favorably with the best American performances over these distances. Mann of the Polytechnic Harriers, took the half and Cottrill of the Hallamshire Harriers was first in the 1,500 metres, the distance closest to the mile.

In the short dashes the university sprinters, who were kept out on account of examinations, were missed, and it is quite likely that Macmillan of Cambridge after a private trial will be selected by the Olympic committee as the mainstay of the British team in the sprints. His ten flat over a wet track in the annual Oxford-Cambridge field day stamps him as a formidable opponent for any sprinter.

In the longer distances no records worthy of note were made. The marathon was run in the excellent time of 2 hours 36 minutes 55 2-5 seconds, but the winner was Corkery, a young Irish-Canadian, and the second man across was C. W. Gitsham, a dusky member of the South African Olympic team.

Any average college team in the United States could have beaten the entries in the field events. The only consolation which the critics can draw from this division is the fact that Baker jumped six feet in the high after tying for first place with a leap of five feet eleven inches, but that was before they heard that six feet was not even good for third place in the recent Pacific coast college conference meet.

The best that Flaxman could do with the hammer was a toss of 134 feet 8½ inches, which is not likely to take better than third place at Stockholm. Quinn of Dublin put the shot 41 feet 10½ inches, but the news received here that Rose recently heaved the iron ball 52 feet indicates that he will have to improve vastly in the short time intervening before the games. Henderson, with a discus throw of 124 feet 3½ inches, made a good impression by his style, and he is looked upon as a sure point winner.

The trials did not develop any new material for the British team, but they simplified the task of the selectors, for with the exception of the university stars kept out by examinations, the best athletes now performing on track and field were numbered among the entries. This is fortunate, for when it is all over the critic will have no opportunity to declare that the judges did not make the best possible selection from the material at hand.

CRITICS FAIL TO FANCY FLYNN

Few Will Concede the Pueblo Fireman Chance With Johnson.

Chicago, June 11.—Although the Flynn-Johnson battle on the face of it looks like a ridiculously easy set-up for the champion, press-agent advices from Las Vegas are endowing the Pueblo fireman with miraculously improved qualities. If Flynn has accomplished the miracles in the way of strength and ringcraft attributed to him, he might have a chance against the champion. Certainly, it will be regarded as a miracle if he wins.

Betting people bar miracles in framing odds, and so Johnson is rated as from four to almost anything you want to one favorite in Chicago, with no takers heard from so far. The only reasonable ground for speculation seems to be the number of rounds Flynn is likely to last.

There is this much in Flynn's favor—he is being coached by the greatest ring master in the world, Tommy Ryan, a maker and breaker of champions. If there is any trick of the fighting trade Tommy doesn't know, it hasn't been exposed. It remains to be be seen how apt a pupil he has in Flynn. But even if Flynn is capable of learning and putting into practice all that Ryan knows, Johnson knows just about as much. He can match craft with craft, strategy with strategy, and overmatches the fireman in weight, reach and punching power.

The heavyweight battle which is to put new life into Las Vegas, N. M., and arouse the jackrabbits of the desert is approximately one month distant. Johnson is running up the mountain sides and performing prodigies of training work. Flynn is not one whit less violent in his demonstrations of physical ability.

Curley's work as a promoter is done. The Las Vegas "angels" are now attending to the work of putting on the battle. Curley is taking it easy. His managerial duties so far as Flynn is concerned have been turned over to Tommy Ryan. Jack is circulating literature and pleasing information throughout the country with an eye to the gate receipts. His success to date has been flattering, for the advance orders for tickets now show that the promoters will clear expenses and seem reasonably sure of the ledger daily growing more pleasing to inspect.

DWARF RAILROADS.

Of the 1,180 railroads in the United States 180 are less than 8 miles long. Of these, only 29 are more thn 7 miles in length, while 25 just reach that distance; 18 are 6 miles long, 40 cover 5 miles, 16 run 4 miles, 25, 3 miles; 19, 2 miles, and eight are a single mile from end to end.

Every part of the country furnishes specimens of these dwarf roads, says the Railroad Man's Magazine. They are found in mining districts and scenic sections; they are the handy helpers around industrial plants and terminal centers; they climb mountains that would be impossible otherwise.

The Johnstown & Stony Creek railroad, which is only a mile long, connects with the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio in Pennsylvania at the two points named in its title. Freight is the specialty of the road, and in the two years of its existence it is said to have made a very satisfactory financial return to its owners.

Ever hear of the Due West railroad? No? Well, it's hardly to be wondered at, seeing that it's scarcely three miles long and stowed in an out-of-the-way corner of South Carolina. Yet it has a unique history of its own. The road runs from the town of Due West to Dowell. Its construction was the outcome of a craving of the inhabitants of Due West for easy transportation to Dowell. So the people of Due West, in the name of their town, issued $11,000 of railroad aid bonds on behalf of the construction of the line, which was opened for traffic in 1908.

The road was a financial success from the start and is comfortably paying its way. It has neither debts nor bonds of its own, in which respect it is almost without parallel in railroad history. The total cost of the construction of the road and its equipment, including its two locomotives, one passenger and one baggage car, is said to have been less than $30,000.

One mile is the length of the Indiana & Northern railroad that connects Myler with South Bend, Ind. It has been in operation since 1891, and is a vestpocket corporation of a flourishing sort, having no funded or other debts.

Small as it is, it is of considerable importance as a belt line, for it is the connecting link between the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, the Grand Trunk Western, the Vandalia, the Michigan Central and the Central Indiana & Southern railroads. All the stock is held by a manufacturing corporation of South Bend. Last year it paid $5,000 in dividends, its net earnings being $7,000.

Mary Lee is the sentimental name of a little freight railroad that runs between East Birmingham and Boyles, Ala., a distance of seven miles. It connects with the Queen and Cresent route, Southern railroad, and the Louisville and Nashville railroad. Mary, according to published balance sheets, is a paying proposition.

Fulton Chain railroad is only two miles in length, but this Lilliputian line has brought enjoyment to thousands of summer vacationists. It runs from Fulton Chain to Old Forge, N. Y., and is operated by the New York Central lines mainly in connection with the hot weather traffic. Last year it carried 53,670 passengers; its net earnings were $6,019, and it had the comfortable little surplus of $13,341 tucked away in its jeans.

The Granite City and East St. Louis Terminal railroad has been paying a 5 per cent dividend for several years. It is a subsidiary road, rented for an indefinite number of years by the St. Louis Merchants' Bridge and Terminal railroad. The tracks are less than two miles in length.

One of the most prosperous of the little fellows is the Lake Champlain and Moriah railroad, that runs from Port Henry to Mineville, N. Y., a distance of between seven and eight miles. In 1910 its net earnings were $51,000, and this year, so it is claimed, that amount will be greatly surpassed. It was opened in 1869, so that it is quite an old timer. It has six locomotives, three passenger cars and 326 ore cars. It is operated almost entirely in connection with the iron mines of Mineville. Last year it moved 626,631 tons of freight. Its surplus is $128,360. Not so bad for a dwarf road.

Public interest in the work of the Tuskegee Institute, Ala., of which Booker T. Washington is founder and president, to a very great extent is explanatory of the present prosperity of the Tuskegee railroad. This road runs from Chehaw, Ala., to the institute, a distance of about six miles. It has only two locomotives, one passenger and one mail and express car, yet in 1910 it earned net $30,773, carried 24,827 passengers and paid a dividend of 14 per cent.

But the little road has had its troubles. It was incorporated in 1860; was reorganized in 1871, after its public sale for debt; chartered in 1902, and opened for traffic about a year later. Between its incorporation and its first operation its history is that of tedious and intricate litigation.

The picturesquely titled Yreka railroad of California links the town of that name with Montague, the distance between the two points being less than eight miles. Its rolling stock consists of two engines, two freight and two passenger cars. The road makes a profit. In 1910 it carried 24,041 passengers, its net earnings were $3,269 and its surplus $555.

The Otis railroad is away up in the Catskill mountains in New York, and is used to carry summer visitors to Otis summit, which is all that its name implies. When vacation time is on this six-mile road and its transportation facilities are pretty well strained. It connects with the Catskill mountain and the Cairo railroads. It has one stationary engine, two passenger and two baggage cars. Last year the net earnings of the little road were $7,061.

Fishermen and sportsmen know of the Adirondack and St. Lawrence railroad running from Hermon to De Kalb Junction, N. Y., a distance of three and a half miles. It is controlled by the St. Lawrence Pyrites company. In spite of the fact that its little right-of-way is pretty well patronied at certain times of the year, it doesn't seem to be very flourishing, according to its published balance sheets. Yet in 1910 it carried 18,416 passengers, keeping busy its two locomotive and two passenger and express cars.

MIDDLE-AGED EMPLOYES.

"Among the men I hire nine out of ten are better workers at 45 years of age than are men of 25 or 30," declared the secretary and manager of a Chicago commercial house to a writer in Business. "The average young man in business is always seeking a 'soft snap' job, and is not content with sticking it out with an employer, through thick and thin, until his services become highly valuable and perhaps indispensable.

"Long experience with employes of all ages has convinced me that men of 45 or even older make better subordinates than younger men. Of course this may not apply in hiring men for some jobs, but as a rule it is a safe policy to pursue.

"Young men holding positions of more or less responsibility in the offices of a concern are more easily tempted to spend money that does not belong to them, especially when they are entrusted with it over night. Take our collectors, for instance, who start out at 7:30 a. m. and are not required to report at the office again until the following morning.

"I could recite several instances of young men who came in the morning after and told me they were short because they had been in bad company the night before and had spent some of the money they collected. The man of 45, particularly a married man of that age, knows that he cannot afford to take such chances, hence he is more honest. We do not require men of that age to furnish bond, because we know from experience that they are as a rule dependable."

Some insects digest their food first and eat it afterward. They are so built as to be able to take only liquid food and they inject a digestive fluid into their prey and thus gradually dissolve it, sucking in the liquid so formed until nothing remains but the dry skin.

MARINE NEWS

NEW RECORD IN LAKE TRADE

Season of 1912 to Date Is Ahead of 1910.

Coal Moving More Freely and Tonnage Is in Demand.

Coal, both hard and soft, is "coming up;" ore is "going down;" and merchandise is going both ways.

There is a rush in all branches of lake trade, everybody is busy, the boats are making trips as fast as they can, and every one is satisfied with the present conditions, believing that the present season will be larger than that of 1910.

As many as forty-five boats have left the local harbor in twelve hours, all of them loaded with various commodities for lower lake ports. It is true that the movement in coal could be heavier, and it will be as soon as it begins to come more freely to the shipping points located down the lakes. The companies have made up for the time lost during the strike and it is expected that by the end of the present month there will be no excuse for boats running light to Duluth.

Even the small gasoline boats which ply the north and south shores, carrying supplies to the fishermen and bringing back fish, have caught the spirit of the 1912 season, evidently, for the fleet has been increased by several larger boats and they shoot in and out of the harbor as often as they can go and come.

Boats in Demand.

At the present time nearly every available boat on the lakes is being used. There are not nearly enough lumber carriers, and wild boats are in demand for ore. Last year at this time a great many of the boats were still tied up, awaiting business. This year all this is changed. The basins have been cleaned out and nearly all boats are working.

That the 1912 season is far ahead of that of last year is proven by the fact that in May this year 3,247 boats passed through the Soo locks, while in May last year there were but 2,267. There were only 2,858 in May, 1910, which was considered one of the best seasons on the lakes.

The registered net tonnage of the boats passing through the locks during May this year, is 7,772,236 as against 4,911,062 in 1911 and 7,231,684 in 1910.

Freight Movement.

The total freight movement of 8,936,692 tons compares with 6,125,-015 last year and 8,528,286 in 1910. The greatest increase in volume of freight was in the eastbound movement, which amounted to 7,021,058 tons as against 4,161,108 in 1911 and 6,769,701 in 1910. The total westbound movement of freight was 1,905,655 tons, falling below the movement of 1,963,-910 last year, but exceeding the record of 1,758,582 in 1910.

The enormous increase in eastbound freight is largely due to the heavier shipments of grain and wheat this season. The grain movement of 11,837,501 bushels compares with 6,194,717 last year and 6,685,748 in 1911, while shipments of wheat were 34,573,511 bushels against 11,717,938 last year and 10,391,326 bushels in 1910. Shipments of iron ore were 5,513,-399 tons, exceeding the record of 3,449,675 last year, but falling below the total of 6,055,601 the year before.

Lumber shipments of 68,250,000 feet last month were exceeded last year, when the total was 77,103,000 feet, and in 1910 with a total of 93,276,000, this part being accounted for, perhaps, by the fact that some of the lumber fleet this season have been handling more remunerative cargoes of other commodities.

The movement of general merchandise aggregating 25,705 tons shows an increase over 2,340 last year and 14,533 in 1910. Flour shipments of 937,080 barrels, also marks a gain over 791,067 in 1911 and 865,375 in 1910.

The movement of freight westbound is largely decreased by the small shipments of hard coal, the total for the month being only 17,848 tons as against 213,879 last year and 287,446 in 1910. This loss is, in part, offset by larger shipments of soft coal amounting to 1,606,243 tons, as against 1,595,856 last year and 1,218,897 the previous year.

Shipments of manufactured iron also increased, the total being 101,068 tons, compared with 57,870 in 1911 and 66,-164 in 1911. The movement of salt, 219,022 barrels, compares with 148,908 last year and 112,467 in 1910. General merchandise shipments show a loss, the total of 147,292 tons comparing with 161,071 in 1911 and 69,424 in 1910.

WANTS SEAMEN'S BILL PASSED

Support of Congressman Miller Asked for Pending Measure.

Miss Jean Poirier, state factory inspector and a local social worker has written to Congressman C. B. Miller urging him to use his influence in securing the passage of the Seamen's bill now pending before the house.

The bill provides among other things that all vessels at sea or on the Great Lakes must carry a percentage of experienced seamen in the deck crew. It is argued that every inefficiently manned ship, whether freight or passenger vessel, is a source of danger, not only to itself and those on board but to every other ship on the same waters. The new law would require that the men who handle the ship, the lookouts, the men at the wheel and the men on deck who care for and handle the lifeboats and fire apparatus, should be trained seamen.

The International Seamen's Union of America is making a hard fight to secure the passage of this bill. The bill also has the indorsement of the American Federation of Labor and that of many state labor federations and city central bodies.

CHICAGO TUGMEN GET AN INJUNCTION.

An interesting condition has arisen in Chicago owing to an injunction issued by a Chicago judge which restrains the executive board of the Licensed Tugmen's Protective association from suspending or expelling the Chicago lodge of tugmen. The court order also restrains the association from attempting to revoke the charter of the Chicago lodge.

The injunction was granted by the Chicago court without hearing on the application of the officers of the Chicago lodge. The members of the Chicago branch are employed by the Great Lakes Towing company and they left their tugs May 1 when agreement could not be reached over wage demands. The men were ordered to return to work by the grand grievance committee of the International association, refused to do so, and the grand officers were about to declare forfeited the charter of the Chicago branch.

The strike of the tugmen was asserted by the grand officers to be in violation of the rules of the association and the contract which exists between the association and the towing company. The officers of the association provided men to operate the tugs and thus fulfilled the contract on the part of the association.

FIREMAN IS KILLED.

Employe of Steamer Albright Loses Life at Dollar Bay.

Dollar Bay, Mich., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Laighton, aged 42, a fireman on the steamer John A. Albright was killed by falling between the dock and boat here Monday, striking his head on boat and fracturing his skull. He was married and resided at Cleveland, Ohio.

Aids to Navigation.

The United States bureau of lighthouses gives notice of a number of recent or prospective changes in aids to navigation.

The type and characteristic of the fog signal at Marquette light station, south shore of Lake Superior, have been changed to a first-class siren, which sounds a blast of four seconds' duration, alternating with silent intervals of twenty-six seconds.

Watson reef south end buoy light, No. 2, a spar will be established in about three and one-fourth fathoms of water in St. Mary's river about June 10, showing a fixed white lantern light, to mark the lower end of the shoals and the east side of the channel inside the reef. Bearings are Black Rock point, 75 deg. true (E. 15-16 N. mag.); Watson's dock, right tangent, 313 deg. true (NW. 3-16 N. mag.); Pipe island light house, 357 deg. true (N. 1-8 E. mag.).

An Sable Point Bell Buoy No. 5A has been established in about three fathoms of water to mark the northeast end of the shoal east from Au Sable point, west shore of Lake Huron. Bearings are: Tawas lighthouse, 234 deg. true (SW. 13-16 W. mag.); Au Sable point, 281 deg. true (WNW. 13-16 W. mag.); Au Sable pierhead lighthouse, 357 deg. true (N. 1-16 W. mag.).

GERMANS GIVEN TIME TO REST UP

New York Program of Entertainment Halts — Disorderly Waiters Bound Over.

New York, June 11.—In order that the visitors might rest up a bit after the activities of yesterday and last night, the program for the entertainment of officers and men of the German cruisers Moltke, Stettin and Bremen was left blank this morning. Parties of German sailors continued their sightseeing informally, but the first official affair of the day was set for 1 o'clock this afternoon. This was an invitation luncheon aboard the Moltke, with Read Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz as host. The remainder of the day's program follows:

3 to 6 p. m.—Reception by invitation aboard the Moltke.

Will Go to Coney Island.

3 p. m.—Five hundred German sailors and 500 American sailors go to Coney Island for afternoon and evening. Naval branch Y. M. C. A. in Brooklyn entertains 100 German sailors.

7:30 p. m.—Dinner to German admiral and invited officers at New York Yacht club by Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Of the more than 100 prisoners taken by the police last night when striking waiters stormed the Waldorf-Astoria, where the Germans were dining, nearly all were held in $500 bail each in the night court. A few were fined from $2 to $5 and released.

WILL INSPECT TRUNK ROAD

Commissioners Will Decide on Repairs Needed to Miller Highway.

The board of county commissioners will tomorrow make its annual inspection of the Miller Trunk road.

This afternoon Commissioners J. W. Cumming, Alex Frazer, John Tischer and Albert Overton left for Eveleth in Mr. Cumming's touring car. At Eveleth, they will join Commissioners McInnis, Ryan and McMahon.

In making the annual inspection of the Miller Trunk road tomorrow, the board members will observe in a general way what is needed in the way of repairs during the ensuing year. The road is said to be in fairly good condition.

Commissioner Cumming today said that the special penal farm committee consisting of Commissioners Tischer, Ryan and himself would next week leave for St. Louis, Cleveland and a number of other cities in order to inspect the correctional farms in operation there with the view of securing ideas which might be incorporated in the proposed penal farm for St. Louis county.

CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION —OF— PARK ADDITION LAND COMPANY.

We, the undersigned, for the purpose of forming a corporation, under and pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 58 of the Revised Laws of Minnesota for 1905, and any amendments thereof, do hereby associate ourselves as a body corporate, and do horeby adopt the following certificate of incorporation:

ARTICLE I.

The name of the corporation shall be PARK ADDITION LAND COMPANY. The general nature of its business shall be to buy, sell, exchange and generally deal in real properties, improved and uninproved, store buildings, dwelling houses, barns, wharves, water rights and privileges; to build, construct, operate, maintain, lease and sell dwelling houses, apartment houses and business blocks of all kinds and descriptions; to plat into town, city or village lots any lands within or in proximity to any town, city or village in the State of Minnesota, and to sell, exchange and generally deal in such lots when platted, according to law; to make and obtain loans upon real estate, improved or unimproved, platted or unplatted, and to supervise, manage and protect such property and loans, and all interests and claims affecting the same; to have the same insured against fire and other casualties; to investigate the credit, financial solvency and sufficiency of borrowers, mortgagors, and sureties upon bonds, mortgages and undertakings; to improve, manage, operate, sell, mortgage, lease or otherwise dispose of any property, real or personal, and take mortgages and assignments of mortgages upon the same. The principal place of transacting the business of this corporation shall be the Village of Chisholm, St. Louis County, Minnesota.

ARTICLE II.

The time for the commencement of this corporation shall be June 18th, 1912, and the period of its duration shall be thirty years.

ARTICLE III.

The names and places of residence of the persons forming this corporation are: James J. Hayes of the Village of Chisholm, St. Louis County, Minnesota; John Pasternaki of the City of Virginia, St. Louis County, Minnesota, and De Witt Southwick of the City of Duluth, St. Louis County, Minnesota.

ARTICLE IV.

The management of this corporation shall be vested in a board of directors, composed of three members. The names and addresses of the first board of directors are: James J. Hayes, Chisholm, Minnesota; John Pasternaki, Virginia, Minnesota, and De Witt Southwick, 4624 Cook street, Duluth, Minnesota. The first officers of this corporation shall be: President, James J. Hayes; vice president, De Witt Southwick; secretary, John Pasternaki, and treasurer, John Pasternaki. All of the above named officers and directors shall hold their respective offices aforesaid until the next annual meeting of the corporation, to be held in the Village of Chisholm, St. Louis County, Minnesota, on Saturday, the 22nd day of June, 1912, at which time and annually thereafter a board of directors shall be elected from and by the stockholders of this corporation. The annual meeting of the corporation shall be held at its principal place of business on the third Saturday in June in each year. Immediately after the election of directors, or as soon thereafter as practicable, the directors shall meet and elect from their number a president and vice president, and from their number or from the stockholders a secretary and a treasurer. Any two offices, except that of president and vice president, may be held by one person. The directors and officers of this corporation shall hold their respective offices until their successors have been duly elected and entered upon the discharge of their duties. The first meeting of the stockholders and of the board of directors shall be held at the office of James J. Hayes, on Second avenue, in Chisholm, St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 22nd day of June, 1912, at 10 and 11 o'clock respectively, A. M.

ARTICLE V.

The amount of the capital stock of this corporation shall be Forty Thousand (40,000) Dollars, which shall be paid in, in money or property, or both, in such manner, at such times, and in such amounts as the board of directors shall order. The capital stock shall be divided into Four Hundred (400) shares of the par value of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars each.

ARTICLE VI.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which this corporation shall at any time be subject shall be the sum of Twenty Thousand ($20,-000.00) Dollars.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, We have hereunto set our hands this first day of June, A. D. 1912.

BULGE IS WIPED OUT

Chicago Leads Off With a Big Wheat Slump Near the Close.

Markets Earlier Were Bullish —July Flaxseed Again Gains.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 11.—Although wheat was bullish on the markets of North America during the greater part of the session today, on account of the government crop report, and it seemed certain that the close would be higher, Chicago let off with a sensational slump near the close, and the other markets all followed to a greater or lesser extent without knowing why. Duluth July wheat closed unchanged, Minneapolis July was ½c off, Chicago July ⅝c off and Winnipeg July ⅛c higher to unchanged. Duluth cash wheat closed 1c over the July price. Oats closed 1⅛c off and rye 3c off. Durum and barley closed unchanged. Flaxseed cut some queer capers. Brokers hardly seemed to know whether to put it up or down. July closed 2c higher and September 1c off.

The government crop report, issued yesterday after the close of the grain markets, had a decidedly bullish effect on the markets this morning. It was expected that the report would show a large decrease in the acreage of spring wheat and considerable lowering in the condition of winter wheat, as it did, but it was not expected that there would be reported a decrease of 1,500,000 bushels in the spring wheat acreage or a lowering of 5.4 points in the condition of winter wheat.

There was a large decrease in the world's visible supply, as reported by Bradstreet.

Duluth July wheat, which closed yesterday at $1.13⅞, opened today at $1.14 bid, and at noon was selling at $1.14⅛. There were higher quotations also from Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

Liverpool wheat closed ¼d lower to ½d higher. The main bullish factors were the American crop report, the good French demand, light continental stocks and the expectation of a large decrease in the European visible supply.

Flax Is Lower.

Duluth flax sagged off again this morning. At noon July was 1c down at $2.27 bid, and September 2c down at $2.06. Trading was light. Offers were small, but the demand was still small. Winnipeg July flax at noon today was 2c higher at $2.08. Buenos Ayres July closed yesterday ¼c up at $1.84, and London June and July closed today ⅝c off at $2.32½. The various markets today did not pull together at all.

MARKET GOSSIP

Dornbusch of London says: "Supplies afloat of good seed remain exceptionally light for the season, and unless India materially increases her shipments the market can only reasonably be expected to keep at a comparatively high level. An element of strength to the present situation is the recent free buying direct by America of La Plata and Indian seed, from which it may be inferred that despite the general complaint there of the poor quality of the Argentine grain it is, nevertheless, wanted."

Crops through the vast region from the Twin Cities to Webster, S. D., are in splendid condition, according to the report of David Williams, vice president of the First National bank of Duluth, who, recently rode through that territory, taking care to make the entire trip by daylight that he might observe the condition of the farms. Mr. Williams says that although corn is a little backward, the other crops have had a record start. He says there is plenty of moisture and all the vegetation looks strong and healthy.

The following dispatch was received from Grand Forks: "Winds, which held sway this month, have done considerable damage to the growing crops in several localities, according to reports which have been received here. On Sunday the wind reached a maximum of thirty-eight miles an hour. The season's record is unusually high. On June 3 for five minutes the wind attained a speed of fifty-six miles an hour."

Houston wires from Kansas City: "Kansas had more than a week of dry windy weather, after the government reports were made and sent out. Rains the past four days have shut off further damage. Kansas is probably five points less today than the government report indicated."

• • •

T. W. Lewis wired from Minneapolis. "The feature of the government report is the reduction in spring wheat acreage of 1,500,000 owed and the falling off in the winter wheat condition of 5.4 points, both of which are larger than the trade expected. The high condition of spring wheat was to be expected as that is usual at this time of the year. Any damage to spring wheat comes from now on, while the report is very bullish."

• • •

Snow comments on the government report as follows: "The government report is evidently based upon reports of traveling agents and therefore gives the Kansas and Nebraska situation up to June 1. The first rain came on May 31 and must have influenced their views toward conservatism. These rains proved actually of no value and the damage increased from June 1 to June 5 very rapidly, so that the present report only shows the minor part of the Kansas and Nebraska loss."

John Inglis says: "As forecasted, the government makes no allowance for loss of acreage since the last report. Nebraska has lost 1,000,000 acres and much that was left through central states in hopes of making something will never be cut. I consider that the final acreage to be cut will fall short about 8,000,000 from the total seeded. This is the largest loss in acreage ever known."

Lyle's night letter from Plainview, Kans: "I visited fields from Ellis to Rooks counties today. These counties have over 400,000 acres. Many fields are yellowed and much damaged, but more are unhurt and promise large yields. The crop is ten days later than around Salina, owing to 1,000 feet of altitude. While the promise of two weeks ago is greatly reduced, the two counties are still good for 3,500,000 bu. There is favorable weather now. Rain was the crops' salvation."

The Updike Commission company reports on Nebraska rains as follows: "Northwestern lines report one inch from Omaha to Long point, including Albion, also, and branches north of Norfolk; also on a line drawn from Lincoln through Beaver Crossing and York, and north of there from ¼ to 1½ inches through that territory. The Burlington reports ¼ to 2¼ inches in the last 24 hours. Farmers say they will raise 5 to 8 bu per acre. They have been claiming a total failure."

A Grand Forks dispatch says: "Chris Fremstad has just returned from a two weeks' trip through Canada. He drove all over the country around Moose Jaw and says the outlook for a crop is splendid. Copious rains have fallen in that part of the country and an occasional field is too wet but on the whole he says it looks fine. He took particular notice of the fields on the way home, from the car window, and says prospects are good all along the line. He went from here to Winnipeg on the Great Northern and on the Canadian Pacific to Moose Jaw."

A dispatch from Grand Forks, N. D., says: "According to reports from different sections of the state the outlook for all grains continues satisfactory. Numerous complaints of damage by the high winds are being received, especially where the soil is light and considerable re-seeding will have to be done. The weather the past week has been showery and cool."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Rush Upward as Result of Government Report.

Chicago, June 11.—Wheat prices rushed upward today as a result of the bullish nature of the government crop report. There was considerable selling on the advance. Rain in Nebraska and the Northwest tended in some degree to offset the decrease in the Washington estimate of the season's yield of winter wheat. Opening quotations were 1⅛c to 2@2⅛c higher. September started at $1.06⅝ to $1.07¼, a gain of $1⅛@1¼c to 2@2⅛c and reacted to $1.05⅞@1.06¼.

Afterward the market settled back still further on account of slackness of cash demand. The close was weak, with July at $1.05⅞, a net decline of a shade.

Corn rose a trifle with wheat. July opened a shade to ⅛@¼c up at 73⅞@74c, touched 73⅝@73¾c, and rallied to 74c.

Rumors that much corn in elevators here had become out of condition led subsequently to an upturn, but the effect wore off. Closing prices were weak at 73⅝c for July, a loss of ⅛@¼c net.

Offerings of oats turned out to be less than expected in view of the government report making the probable crop 12,000,000 bu in excess of previous ideas. July started ¼@⅜c off to a sixteenth advance at 51⅛c to 51½c and held fairly well within those limits.

Provisions eased down a bit. Initial sales ranged from last night's level to 5c below, with September delivery $19.17½ to $19.20 for pork, $11.20 to $11.22½ for lard and $10.70 to $10.75 for ribs.

Cash grain: Wheat—No. 2 red, $1.11@1.12½; No. 3 red, $1.09@1.11; No. 2 hard, $1.11@1.12½; No. 3 hard, $1.08½@1.10½; No. 1 northern, $1.15@1.19; No. 2 northern, $1.14@1.17; No. 3 northern, $1.11@1.16; No. 2 spring, $1.11@1.16; No. 3 spring, $1.09@1.14; No. 4 spring, $1.03@1.13; velvet chaff, $1.05@1.12; durum, $1.01@1.09.

REMARKS — Showers fell over Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska, Northern Kansas, the Dakotas, Manitoba and Eastern Saskatchewan.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

‡—Not included in the district averages. §—Maximum of yesterday, minimum of last night. T—Indicates inappreciable rainfall. *—Maximum for yesterday. †—Minimum for 24 hours, ending 8 a. m., 75th meridian time.

NOTE—The average maximum and minimum temperature are made up at each center from the actual number of reports received, and the average rainfall from the number of stations reporting 0.10 inch or more. The "state of weather" is that prevailing at time of observation.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Opens Strong But Breaks Under Selling Pressure.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 11.—The bullish construction placed on government report caused a strong opening in wheat. This advance brought about a selling pressure and there was a sharp break. July closed ½c lower than yesterday; September ¼c lower and December ⅛c lower. Local elevator stocks of wheat decreased 575,000 bushels for three days.

Carlot wheat receipts follow: Minneapolis today, 75; week ago, 74; year ago, 143. Duluth today, 83; weeks ago, 19; year ago, 39. Winnipeg today, 474; week ago, 228; year ago, 326. Cash wheat was in good demand today and the market was about steady. Bulk of No. 1 northern sold for 2c above the May contract.

Wheat—July opened $1.13½@1.13⅝@1.13¾; high, $1.13¾@1.13⅞; low, $1.12⅛; closed, $1.12⅝. September opened $1.06½@1.06⅝; high, $1.06½; low, $1.04⅝; closed, $1.04¾. December opened $1.06⅝@1.06¾; high, $1.06⅝@1.06¾; low, $1.05⅝; closed, $1.05⅝.

Closing cash—No. 1 hard, $1.14⅝; No. 1 northern, $1.14⅜; to arrive, $1.14⅜; No. 2 northern, $1.12⅝; to arrive, $1.12⅝; No. 3 wheat, $1.10⅜@1.11⅜; No. 3 yellow corn, 72@73c; No. 3 white oats, 51½@52c; No. 2 rye, 83@83½c; bran in 100-lb sacks, $19.50@20.50.

Flour—The flour market was about steady. Some slight improvement was reported in demand, but sales were far from active. Prices unchanged. Shipments, 44,773 bbl. First patents, $5.50@5.75; second patents, $5.20@5.45; first clears, $3.90@4.1[illegible] second clears, $2.80@3.10.

Flax—Receipts, 18 cars; year ago, 2; shipments, 6. Demand for flax only fair. Spot No. 1 sold for 2@4c cents under Duluth July. Closing prices, $2.26@2.27.

Barley—Receipts, [illegible] cars; year ago, 16; shipments, 4. Market dull. Demand slow for light barley offerings. Prices slightly easier. Closing range, 65c@$1.12.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Extensive Selling, Largely Due to Liquidation, Sends Down Prices.

More Than Half Early Losses Recovered in the Final Hour.

New York, June 11.—Further irregularity was indicated at the opening of today's stock market. The leading railway stocks as well as Steel, Amalgamated Copper and American Sugar, all showed fractional declines. The few advances were confined largely to unimportant issues.

The tone developed into weakness, with pressure greatest upon the coal shares and St. Paul, the latter selling at the lowest price in five years. Prominent industrials also were heavy.

Extensive selling of stocks, largely representing liquidation, was witnessed in the early session of today's market. Lehigh Valley and Reading declined 3 and 4 points, respectively; and there were losses of 1 to over 2 points elsewhere in the active list. Can declined over 3 points in connection with rumors that its recent advance would form part of an official inquiry.

Bonds were easy.

Recovery from the low level of the morning was made at midday, but in no case was the rally more than nominal. Dullness followed the early selling, much of which was attributed to out of town sources.

Aside from greater dullness and a further slight stiffening of prices, the market showed no appreciable change with the progress of the afternoon session.

The market closed heavy. More than half the early losses in many of the active issues were recovered in the final hour. This was partly due to covering of short contracts, but the movement lost none of its hesitation.

PROSPECTS GOOD NOW FOR ADJOURNMENT AT END OF PRESENT WEEK

Senate Passes State-Wide Primary Bill With Second Choice.

All Hostile Amendments Voted Down and Final Vote 61 to 1.

Senator Cheadle Given Credit for Important Provision Being Incorporated.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prospects for an adjournment by Saturday were brightened materially by the developments in both branches of the legislature yesterday and today.

Yesterday, before the senate had acted on the state-wide primary bill in so emphatic a manner, there were growing doubts whether the session could end Saturday no matter how ardently everybody hoped it would.

But today the prospects are good—though not yet certain—that an adjournment can be had by Saturday, and that the legislative program that has been forecasted in these reports will be completed by that time in apple pie order.

The program still stands as follows: Ratification of the federal amendment providing for direct election of United States senators has passed both branches, placing Minnesota in the first rank among the states to act on this long wished amendment.

Ratification of the federal amend-

SENATE REFUSES TO LEAVE HIM IN OFFICE

MAJ. GEN. LEONARD WOOD, Chief of Staff of the United States Army.

Washington, June 12.—The senate today, 29 to 28, refused to reconsider its adoption of the conference report on the army appropriation bill, carrying amendments which would legislate Maj. Gen. Woods out of his office as chief of staff of the army.

The elevation of Gen. Wood, in 1903, to the highest administrative office in the military service, placed the immediate command of the entire army under two physicians who had actually and actively practiced edicine, the second one being Maj. Gen. F. C. Ainsworth. Gen. Wood is a graduate of West Point, as well of a college of medicine. While serving at a Western post as assistant surgeon with the rank of lieutenant, Wood met Theodore Roosevelt, then a ranch owner, cowboy and sometime sheriff. They became great friends and after Roosevelt's election to the presidency the former assistant surgeon received rapid promotion in the army, finally becoming ranking officer of all the United States troops.

VISITING GERMAN SAILOR FIRE HERO

Jumps Off Car and Saves Family From Burning Building in New York.

New York, June 12.—Sergeant Richter of the German cruiser Stettin, returning from Brooklyn to his ship with a number of other German sailors early today, sprang from a street car when he saw flames coming from a building, and not only assisted the firemen in checking the blaze, but aided in the rescue of a number of persons.

The fire was in a stable, but it quickly spread to a dwelling house adjoining. Richter took off his outer clothes and groped his way along the smoking flames, carrying out members of the family of John Wagner, who were trapped inside.

This is the last full day of the German warships in New York. Cornelius Vanderbilt's dinner and reception to the officers was not concluded until long after midnight, but Rear Admiral Von Reuber-Paschwitz was up early today preparatory to going aboard C. Ledyard Blair's yacht Diana for a trip to Scarborough-on-the-Hudson, there to be privately entertained by Mr. and Mrs. James Speyer. Other German officers, with a few prominent New Yorkers, completed the guests.

Dinner will be served aboard the Diana this evening, after which the German admiral and about forty officers, will be entertained at "Kommers" under the auspices of the Deutschen Vereinigungen of the city of New York. The visitors will depart tomerrow.

KOREAN PLOT IS LAID BARE

Involves Americans in Murder Conspiracy to Oust Japanese.

One Crime in San Francisco Related to Attack on Seoul Official.

Seoul, Korea, June 12.—The outlines of the conspiracy against Lieut.-Gen. Count Terauchi, governor-general of Korea, are given in an official statement issued today by the procurator-general. He asserts that Baron Yunchiho, the leader of the Korean secret organization since 1905, had the intention of securing the independence of Korea and enlisting the sympathies of the foreign powers against Japan. It was his purpose to await a time when Japan was involved in war to take up arms.

Followed By Assassins.

Following the annexation of Korea by Japan in 1910, Baron Yunchiho determined on the assassination of Count Terauchi, and a number of specially selected conspirators followed the governor general's route on his northern inspection tour in November, 1910. Five railroad stations are named by the procurator general as places selected by the conspirators to carry out the assassination. Owing to the vigilance of the police, however, the

HOUSE GETS RECALL BILL

Congressional Reapportionment Bill Is Referred to House Committee.

Senator Lende's Reply to Governor Eberhart Is Applauded Heartily.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The recall bill made an unexpected appearance in the house this morning and though not on the program of that body the rules were suspended to receive it on motion of its author, Ernest Lundeen of Minneapolis, by a vote of 89 to 13. Mr. Lundeen explained that it is precisely the same as the bill which passed the house 104 to 14 at the regular session, which passed the senate in a different form, which repassed the house and which died in the senate on the last night, when the senate adjourned by mistake.

Several members, who approved the bill opposed taking it up because they said "that it was letting down the bars to a flood of miscellaneous legislation. The bill was referred to the elections committee.

Several New Bills Passed.

The house received several other new bills, mostly outside its program, and passed several. It passed Bob Dunn's bill allowing small cities to spend money on armories, so as to take advantage of the state aid extended in 1911; it passed an amendment to the child labor laws credited to the general legislation committee protecting young girls in cities; it passed a bill allowing St. Paul to vote library building bonds, and it adopted C. H. Warner's resolution asking congressmen from Minnesota to get relief for settlers arcund the upper Mississippi reservoirs.

THREE KILLED AND FIFTY HURT

Excursion Train Is Wrecked By Spreading Rails Near Dalton, Ga.

Dalton, Ga., June 12.—Three persons were killed and more than fifty were hurt when a Western & Atlantic excursion train running from Calhoun, Ga., to Chattanooga, Tenn., was wrecked near here this morning. The dead are:

FIREMAN HOLCOMB.

ARTHUR PITCHER, section employe.

JOSH HAMILTON, negro porter.

The injured are being brought here. The wreck occurred in a cut and was caused by spreading rails. Four cars were overturned, which was responsible for the long list of injured.

FAME OF DULUTH IS SPREAD OVER RANGES FROM ELY TO HIBBING

Strenuous and Profitable Day Is Put in By the Boosters.

Under the Influence of Bright Sunshine, Enthusiasm Becomes Rampant.

Virginia, Eveleth, Aurora, Ely and Tower Give Warm Welcomes.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Virginia, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth boosters, warmed up to their work and anxious to spread the fame of their city, are on their way to the Western Mesaba today. Leaving Virginia on the Great Northern at noon, they will visit Mountain Iron, Iroquois, Buhl, Chisholm, Keewatin, Nashwauk, Calumet, Marble, Holman, Coleraine, Bovey and Hibbing.

Yesterday was a strenuous and a profitable day. Over the Vermilion and the Eastern Mesaba is laid a trail of Duluth souvenirs and memories of enthusiastic, shouting, singing, dancing Duluthians. The people of the towns knew that Duluth was on the map, but they didn't know Duluth business men as they know them now. If anybody thought that Duluth business men are not live ones, they have been disillusioned.

The morning started rather tame. The rain at Two Harbors put a damper on proceedings and the threatening skies that continued through the day until Aurora was reached weren't conducive to a satisfactory display of exuberance. After Mr. O. Sol had consented to lend his aid to the festivities the sentiment changed. All downcast spirits were thrown off and the true Duluth enthusiasm took the upper hand. It held through all the towns after Aurora was reached and it will

OUTBREAK FEARED IN CANTON, CHINA

British Troops Held in Readiness to Return to That City.

Hongkong, June 12.—The contingent of British troops which has been located at Shameen, the foreign settlement in Canton, for many months, returned here on Saturday, but fresh instructions were issued today ordering the officers and men to hold themselves in readiness to return to Canton, owing to the grave unrest in that city. The situation there is so serious that anything is possible at any hour. The financial crisis in Canton also is extremely acute.

FLINN WOULD MAKE APPEAL TO ELECTORS

Proposes "Political Revolution" If Taft Is Nominated in Chicago.

Glasscock of West Virginia Approves Plan of Pennsylvanian.

Dixon Insists Roosevelt Will Be Nominee—Johnson Attacks Committee.

Chicago, June 12.—Recourse to the Roosevelt men who have been selected as presidential electors in different states, is the announced plan of William Flinn of Pittsburg, should the Republican convention nominate President Taft.

The Roosevelt leader made this statement today in a vigorous attack on the national committee in which he declared that such a movement, while it might defeat the Republican nominee for president, would save the party in the big Republican states.

His position was indorsed by Governor W. E. Glasscock of West Virginia, who declared all the West Virginia Republican electors are for Roosevelt and would vote for him in the electoral college regardless of the action of the national convention.

No Need, Says Dixon.

Senator Joseph M. Dixon listened to Mr. Flinn and Governor Glasscock, and said:

"I don't think there will be any need for such action. In my opinion Col. Roosevelt will surely be nominated. The Taft forces will not dare to steal the nomination."

Mr. Flinn and Governor Glasscock declared the state convention in Pennsylvania and West Virginia had not been adjourned, and would be reconvened if necessary, and the electors given positive instructions to vote for Col. Roosevelt if the circumstances warranted.

"We are not going to allow the national committee to destroy the Republican party in Pennsylvania," said Mr. Flinn. "We don't intend to stand idly by and lose ten or fifteen congressmen and the legislature. We propose to protect ourselves at home. Thirty of the thirty-eight presidential electors are for Roosevelt, and if they are elected and the nomination is stolen and given to Taft, those thirty will vote in the electoral college for Col. Roosevelt.

"Political Rebellion Necessary."

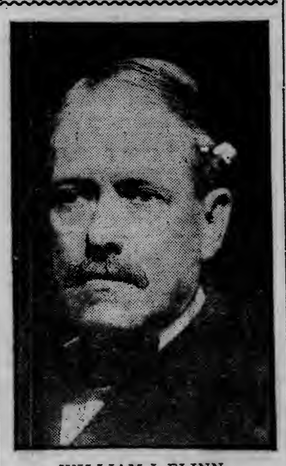

"We don't propose to allow delegates

TAFT SAYS THAT HE WILL VETO BILL THAT CUTS OFF THE COURT OF COMMERCE

ROOSEVELT MEN FROM ARIZONA AND FOURTH CALIFORNIA BARRED

PROPOSES REVOLT IN REPUBLICAN PARTY

WILLIAM J. FLINN, Roosevelt Backer and Successor to Penrose as Party Leader in Pennsylvania.

Republican National Committee Decides Contests for Taft Supporters.

Whole California Delegation May Be Called Into Question.

Only One Contesting Roosevelt Delegate Seated—Fight Over Kentucky.

Chicago, June 12.—The six Arizona Taft delegates-at-large were seated by a viva voce vote by the Republican national committee today. The delegates are: J. L. Hubbell, J. T. Williams, Jr., R. H. Frudenthal, Robert T. Morrison, F. I. Wright and J. C. Adams.

Senator Borah's motion to seat the Roosevelt delegates was defeated after a roll call had been refused.

Following the decision of the Arizona contest, the committee took up consideration of the contest in the Fourth district of California, and after a vigorous fight the Taft delegates were seated by the committee by a vote of 37 to 16. The delegates are E. H. Tryon and Morris Meyersfield, Jr., of San Francisco, replacing Roosevelt Delegates Charles S. Wheeler and Philip Bancroft.

Following decision of the Fourth California contest, the committee took up the contest for the six delegates-at-large from Louisiana.

May Hold Night Sessions.

To dispose of the Arizona and California cases set for today and the Louisiana cases, next on the list of states, the committee set its meeting for 9 o'clock today, with the prospect of an all-day and long night session. Forty-five members of the committee were present.

The California case, in view of the statements made Monday by Former Senator Dick, the Taft contest attorney, promised to bring the title to the whole state delegation into question, owing to an alleged conflict between the California state primary law and the official call of the Republican national committee, issued last December at the meeting held in Washington.

The national committee's call specified that the voters of each congressional district should have the privilege of choosing two delegates to represent them in the Republican national convention. Although the first returns showed that the Taft delegates in the Fourth congressional district were elected over the Roosevelt delegates, the secretary of state acted under the state primary law and gave all delegates to Col. Roosevelt because of his large majority in the state.

Later, however, the secretary of state determined that the boundaries between the Fourth and Fifth districts were not clearly enough defined to make possible an accurate count of the Taft or Roosevelt votes in the Fourth district. This change further complicated the case as it was presented to the committee today.

Roosevelt Man Seated.

One delegate for Col. Roosevelt, the first awarded him since the national committee began hearing contest cases last Friday, and seventeen for President Taft, were the net result of yesterday's session of the committee.

In all 101 delegates have been accorded President Taft since the committee opened its hearings. The one placed in the Roosevelt column was D. C. Edwards from the Eleventh district of Kentucky. The Taft forces on the committee refused by a vote of 33 to 19 to seat both of the Roosevelt delegates whose places were contested, but agreed to split, which gave Roosevelt and Taft each one from the district.

Senator Borah, the most active Roosevelt figure on the committee, protested against the splitting of the Eleventh district delegation. "There is no justification for this action," he said. "If one is given, both should be given." Arthur L. Yorys of Ohio made the motion to seat the divided delegation.

Louisiana Much Divided

In the Louisiana cases, which the committee expected to reach late today, the regularity of the state organization is directly at issue. Three delegations appear from the state at large, one instructed for Roosevelt, and headed by National Committeeman Pearl Wight; and two for Taft, only one of which the national committee recognizes as "regular."

In an attempt to heal the Louisiana split after the last Republican national convention of 1908, the national committee directed a sub-committee to go to the state and try to bring the warring factions together. Members of this committee, which consisted of E. C. Duncan of North Carolina, Ralph Williams of Oregon and

POLICE LOOK FOR LOST BRIDEGROOM

Young Doctor, Who Left Bride Outside Hospital, Has Disappeared.

New York, June 12.—The police today are trying to solve the mysterious disappearance of Dr. Louis R. Morris, a Johns Hopkins graduate, who on Monday last left his bride of four days seated in a motor car and has not been seen since. According to the bride he stepped from the machine on upper Broadway, telling her he had an important operation to perform and for her to return to the hotel.

CUBAN REBELS BEATEN IN FIGHT

Santiago, Cuba, June 12.—A detachment of government troops under Maj. Rosendo Collazo fought a battle today with the insurgents near El Cobre, ten miles to the west of this city. The rebels were defeated, losing ten killed.

The government troops made effective use of their artillery and now are pursuing the fleeing insurgents.

AROUSED BY SENATE'S ACT

President Will Send Vigorous Message With Rejection of Measure.

House Elimination of Funds From Appropriations Upheld By Senate.

Nelson and Clapp Vote With Democrats and Progressive Republicans.

Washington, June 12.—President Taft told friends today he would veto the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, if, when it comes for his signature, it abolishes the commerce court in effect by cutting off the court's appropriation. Both the house and senate have eliminated from the measure provision for the court.

President Taft told callers today he considered the court necessary to prompt and effective enforcement of the interstate commerce act. In speeches he has said that when its limitation were defined by the supreme court, the new tribunal would be approved by the railroads and the people.

The supreme court this week gave several decisions greatly restricting the powers of the commerce court and reversing its action in several important cases where it disagreed with the interstate commerce commission.

The president's friends say he will write a vigorous veto message.

Appropriation Refused.

The legislation out of existence of the commerce court, created only two years ago, and which the supreme court of the United States recently declared had exceeded its powers, finally and definitely was determined upon

SENATE WILL QUIT FOR CONVENTIONS

House Will Recess Only for Democrats—Partisan Bills to Go Over.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—The senate today agreed to a program of three day recesses from June 17 to July 1, covering the period of the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

The house will recess for three days, during the Democratic national convention only, and will continue in session during the rest of the national convention period on a "gentlemen's" understanding that no partisan legislation will be passed. This statement was made today by Representative Underwood of Alabama, Democratic leader.

DROP THEORY OF MANIAC

Investigators of Iowa Eight-Fold Murder Claim It Was Revenge.

Accurate Knowledge of House Shown By Nature of Deed.

Villisca, Iowa., June 12.—M. W. McClaughry, Bertillon expert of the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., who was called here to make records of the bloody finger prints left by the murderer of the Moore family and their guests last Sunday night, is in Omaha in consultation with Chief of Police Donahue.

His plan is to conduct, with the aid of a detail of Omaha detectives, an independent investigation of the affair.

McClaughry is convinced that some one familiar with the Moore family and house committed the murder. He takes little stock in theories which attempt to link the tragedy with similar crimes in Kansas and Colorado.

Knew Family and House.

"The man who did that, knew the family, knew their habits and the arrangements of the house," said McClaughry. "Everything goes to show that he first murdered the two Stillinger girls downstairs, and then went up and killed the Moore family on the second floor. No one not familiar with the house could have done that work without awakening some one, espe-

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OPEN WITH CLASS PLAY

Commencement week at the Duluth Industrial High school began with the senior class play this afternoon. A special matinee performance was given for the students at the school, who are unable to attend the performance this evening.

The three-act comedy "All a Mistake," is the production being presented this year by the senior class. The characters of the play are well portrayed and the stage settings are the best ever prepared at the school. Special scenery was secured by the seniors for their play and their new curtain, which they are leaving as a memorial to the school, was used for the first time this afternoon.

Roy Williams as Captain Skinner was good and his portrayal of the old retired sea captain was well received. The other male characters are all of the comedy type and the members managed to get all the possible humor out of their lines. Among the feminine members of the cast deserving of mention are the Misses Mildred Simons and Edith Pollock.

The play deals with the arrival home of George Richmond, nephew of Captain Skinner. George is married and he is anxious that his uncle should not know of his wife, so he arranges to pass her off as a friend. His uncle is anxious that he marry Nell Huntington, who also enters into the scheme with George to fool the captain.

Things go right for a short while until Richard Hamilton, a friend of the family and a very dear friend of Miss Huntington, arrives. Here the complications begin and after a series of mistakes and humorous incidents, all ends well and George is included in the will of his uncle.

The cast is as follows, the same members appearing in the performance this evening.

Capt. Obadiah Skinner...Roy Williams
George Richmond.....Clifford Stowell
Nellie Richmond (his wife) .....
..... Mildred Simons
Nellie Huntington .....Edith Pollock
Richard Hamilton .....Earl Brooks
Cornelia (Nellie) Skinner.....
..... Florence Salter
Ferdinand Lighthead .....
..... Isador Abrahamson
Nell McIntyre (a servant) .....
..... Edna Spindler

During the evening the school orchestra will furnish the music, opening with the selection, "Swing Low." Miss Katherine Connelly will read the class history and Miss Mabel Isaacson will read the class prophecy. The orchestra will furnish music between acts.

The graduation exercises will be held in the school assembly hall at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. The following graduates will receive diplomas: from Supt. Robert E. Denfeld: Misses Esther Donald, Mabel Isaacson, Mildred Simons, Edna Brigham, Fern Brooks, Edna Spindler, Katherine Connelly, Myrtle Amundsen, Florence Salter, Edith Pollock, Clarissa Quinn, Anna Neubauer, Julia McNulty, and the Messrs. Roy Williams, Clifford Stowell, Isador Abrahamson, John Simpson and Francis Ehr.

During the evening the following program of readings and musical numbers will be rendered:

Song—"Who Is Sylvia?" .....
Class.
Essay—"Girlhood of Lillian Nordica"
Miss Edna Spindler.
Essay—"Civic Pride in Duluth".....
Miss Edith Pollock.
Essay—"Pure Food" .....
Miss Anna Neubauer.
Song—"Softly Now the Drowsy Bird".

DULUTH INDUSTRIAL HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Everything that has been made in the manual training shops during the past year is now on exhibition in the upper hall at the Industrial high school. The exhibition includes a large bookcase, a canoe, several tables, chairs, a bobsled and many smaller articles. The drawings made during the year are also on exhibit.

* * *

The German club enjoyed a picnic to Fairmont park yesterday afternoon. The members spent the afternoon playing games, after which refreshments were served by the girls of the club.

* * *

The sewing classes are conducting their annual exhibit this week. The various dresses and fancy articles made during the year are all on exhibit in the sewing department.

STATION AGENT WILL RESIGN HIS POSITION.

Following the report from St. Paul yesterday to the effect that the state railroad and warehouse commission has decided in favor of a new railroad station for West Duluth, comes the announcement this morning that Warren H. Sweet, station agent at the Northern Pacific station, has resigned and will leave the employ of the railroad the latter part of this month.

The auditor of the company is here from St. Paul going over the books preparatory to the leaving of Mr. Sweet.

The news of the state railroad commission's decision as announced in The Herald last evening is pleasing to the residents of this end of the city. Although the decision was forecasted immediately after the hearing conducted here by the commission, the result was not known until announced at St. Paul yesterday.

The members of the West Duluth Commercial club are enthusiastic over the result of the hearing. The club has been active in the campaign for a new station for two years and it is now planned to hold a celebration at the laying of the corner stone for the new station.

Just what kind of a station will be built or where it will be located is not known, but will probably be constructed directly behind the present building.

The hearing of the West Duluth Commercial club and the railroad was conducted about three weeks ago at the clubrooms by the state railroad commission, Judge Ira B. Mills of St. Paul, chairman of the commission presided, J. J. Frey, chairman of the railroad committee representing the West Duluth Commercial club, was the principal witness in behalf of the organization.

Others who testified at that time were Edward Dormedy, Warren H. Sweet and Emil Zauft. The other members of the railroad committee, of which Mr. Frey is chairman, are Emil Zauft and P. H. Martin.

WANT ROAD TO NEW DULUTH

The New Duluth Commercial club at its regular monthly meeting last evening appointed a committee of fifteen members to appear before the city council Monday evening in support of a resolution to be introduced by Alderman Otto Krueger requesting the city to start work at once on the road between Smithville and New Duluth. Following are the members of the committee: J. T. Johnson, Edward Martell, P. H. Lewis, M. L. Carscadden, Matt Prettner, John Berger, C. W. Middlecoff, A. C. Anderson, U. C. Tower, F. W. Damkruger, Robert Crager, Frank Brandt, George Randall, Peter Knudson, Noble Sampson and M. A. Becklinger.

The meeting last evening was one of the best attended of the year. The members voted to ask the city for a sidewalk between New Duluth and Gary on Commonwealth avenue and another sidewalk from the Northern Pacific station to Commonwealth avenue. The city will also be requested to construct a bridge at Fond du Lac across the river at the foot of One Hundred and Thirty-fifth avenue west. This bridge will connect with the roads to Wrenshall, saving a drive of nearly eighteen miles.

HAS FOUR TICKETS TO CHICAGO'S BIG SHOW.

If there are four good Republicans in Duluth, who can boost and push for their party, L. A. Barnes of the Western State bank, member of the state central committee, is instructed to send their names to the state central committee at St. Paul. Mr. Barnes received word yesterday from J. W. Shedewald of St. Paul, secretary of the committee, requesting him to send the names of four local men to the central office.

The men chosen by Mr. Barnes will be provided with tickets to the national show. As tickets are now selling in Chicago for $100 apiece, the local men chosen to represent Duluth at the convention, will receive a prize worth the trip.

Mr. Barnes announced this morning that he will make his choice within a day or two, so that the men may have time to get to the convention in time.

GAMES IN CHURCH BASEBALL LEAGUE.

The Asbury and Westminster baseball teams will play the regular scheduled game next Monday afternoon at the Sixty-third avenue west grounds. The Merritts and the Baptists will play Tuesday evening at the Fifty-third avenue grounds. The last games scheduled for the week will be played Friday evening, June 21, between the Presbyterians and the Baptists at the Sixty-third avenue grounds and the Merritts and Asbury team at the Forty-sixth avenue grounds.

WILL BECOME PART OF STATE LODGE.

Euclid chapter U. D., Order of Eastern Star, will be officially instituted into the state auxiliary order at a ceremony to be held at the West Duluth Masonic hall next Tuesday evening. The state officers will all be present and following the special services, refreshments will be served by the members of the order.

Revisits Duluth.

Paul A. Mitchell, who was superintendent of the Duluth Transfer Railway company before its consolidation with the Northern Pacific several years ago, is visiting in the city for several days. Mr. Mitchell is now located at St. Paul and he is renewing acquaintances with West Duluth residents during his stay in the city.

Surprised By Friends.

Miss Lena M. Gauthier, 11 South Forty-sixth avenue west, was pleasantly surprised at her home last evening by a number of her West Duluth friends. The evening was spent in music and games, after which refreshments were served to the following guests: Misses Ella Brassard, Ida Fortier, Phoebe Brassard, Martha Onsgard, Genevieve Brassard, Delena Frink, Lada Gauthier and Margaret Brassard, and Messrs. George Frink, Frank McInnis, Ed Frink, Fred Fortier, Ben Frink, B. Bourget, Roman Jublunski and Mesdames Clandior, Brassard and W. Gauthier.

Children's Day.

Children's day will be observed next Sunday at the Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street. The services will be held at 10:30 o'clock and special music is now being prepared for the occasion. A class of ten will be graduated from the primary Sunday school class an dthe baptismal exercises will be conducted by Rev. W. L. Staub, pastor of the church.

Church Social.

The Young People's Society of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Wadena street, entertained at a social in the church parlors last evening. Those who took part were the Misses Inga Schlordahl, Klovstad and Minnie Nelson, Mrs. P. Lund and M. Ness and Arne Bergum.

Takes Lake Trip.

Mrs. Nelson Perry of 2 Thirty-ninth avenue west left yesterday for a three weeks' visit with relatives at Cleveland, Ohio. She went down the lakes on the steamer Fassett with Mrs. John Trudo, who is sailing with her husband, Capt. John Trudo.

TEACHERS LOSE CASE.

Fail in Suit for Damage Against School Board.

Cloquet, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the case of Misses Katherine Hoag and Anna Hambre of Minneapolis against School District No. 1 of Carlton county, which was tried in Judge W. H. Skemp's court yesterday, the jury brought in a verdict last night for the defense.

The girls taught the school in District No. 1 last winter known as the Huot school. At Easter time they were given a week's vacation. They were determined to have two days more, but were told by J. M. Huot, chairman of the district, that they must be back for Monday morning, and that in case they were not, their positions would be filled. The teachers went to Minneapolis and remained away for the week given them and for two days of the second week, neither telegraphing that they would not return at the time stipulated nor furnishing substitutes. Two high school girls from Cloquet were temporarily installed until the vacancy could be filled, and they were dismissed by Mr. Huot, the district claiming breach of contract. The teachers brought a damage suit for $500 each. The jurors who brought in a verdict for the school district were J. D. Peters, William Peters, L. A. Fauley, Andrew Johnson and William Johnson. Attorney Lord of Carlton and Attorney Persinger of Cloquet appeared for the defense and Attorney Searles of Carlton for the plaintiffs.

Deadlock Over Reciprocity.

Washington, June 12.—A deadlock between the houses of congress over the senate's proposal to repeal the Canadian reciprocity law was foreshadowed when the senate today, by a vote of 33 to 27, refused to recede from its amendment to the iron and steel tariff revision bill embodying the repeal provision.

CLOQUET CITIZEN WHO DIED TUESDAY

JOSEPH CLAVEAU,
For Twenty-Eight Years a Well-Known Resident of Cloquet, Whose Funeral Will Be Held There Thursday Morning From the Catholic Church.

TAFT SAYS THAT HE WILL VETO BILL THAT CUTS OFF THE COURT OF COMMERCE

when the senate late Tuesday, by a vote of 36 to 23, defeated an amendment to make provision for maintaining the court in the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill.

Of the votes cast in opposition to the court, 26 were by Democrats and the remaining 10 by Republicans. The Democratic vote in this column was as follows:

Ashurst, Bacon, Bryan, Chamberlain, Chilton, Culberson, Fletcher, Gardner, Gore, Hitchcock, Johnson, Johnston, Martin, Matine, Myers, Overman, Percy, Pomerene, Rayner, Reed, Shively, Simmons, Swanson, Smith, (of Georgia), Tillman and Watson.

Nelson and Clapp Against Court.

The Republican negative vote was cast in the main by Progressives, but Senators Nelson and Heyburn joined the opposition. The Progressive Republicans voting thus were:

Bourne, Bristow, Clapp, Crawford, Cummins, Gronna, La Follette and Poindexter.

The 22 Republicans voting in support of the court were:

Bradley, Burton, Cullom, Dillingham, Du Pont, Gallinger, Jones, Lodge, Lorimer, McCumber, McLean, Oliver, Page, Perkins, Root, Smith (of Michigan), Smoot, Stephenson, Sutherland, Townsend, Warren and Whitmore.

Had Long Discussion.

The discussion occupied most of the day's session of the senate. The court was attacked not only on account of its novel position, but on the charge of extravagance. It also was contended that its existence nullified the work of the interstate commerce commission.

Senators Townsend and Burton defended the court as calculated to expedite business. Mr. Townsend denied emphatically that its decisions favored the railroads, and declared that cases previously requiring five years, now were heard in as many months, and discontinuance of the court would disarrange the cases now docketed.

DROP THEORY OF MANIAC

cially since the Stillinzer girls were sleeping in a strange apartment."

McClaughry is further strongly inclined to believe that the crime was not the work of a maniac, but rather of a scheming, revengeful murderer.

So far as the public is aware, not a single clew has been found as to the identity of the murderer.

It is announced that a reward of $300 has been offered by the state and one of $500 by Montgomery county for the apprehension of the assassin.

Early today residents of the county by hundreds began coming into Villisca to be present at the funeral this afternoon of the victims of the tragedy.

Third Finger-Print Expert.

A third finger-print expert arrived here today. It is said he will take impressions of the finger tips of the dead, the suggestions having been made that some of the prints found in the front parts of the house might have been made by one of the victims. In view of all the known circumstances this theory receives no credence.

It is said an apparently insane man was arrested at Gravity, about fifteen miles south of here, yesterday. Little importance is attached to this, however, as there was nothing except his mental condition to throw suspicion on the man.

KOREAN PLOT IS LAID BARE

plans of the would-be assassins failed.

The procurator general continues that meetings were held by the conspirators and inflammatory speeches were made before the teachers and the pupils of the public schools.

The organization to which the conspirators belong includes a large membership in America and Russia.

The total number of those arrested in connection with the conspiracy is 122, of whom nineteen are students, twenty teachers and pastors and the remainder merchants, farmers, etc.

Involves American Murder.

According to the procurator general, the assassinations of Durham White Stevens, who was killed in San Francisco in 1908, when he held the appointment of foreign adviser to the Korean government, and Prince Ito, the former governor general of Korea, who was killed in 1909, and the attempt on the premier's life are all traceable to the same organization.

Baron Yunchiho was formerly minister of education and is one of the best known English-speaking Koreans. Yak Ki Tak, a well known Korean newspaper man, is also named in connection with the conspiracy. He is a well known anti-Japanese agitator.

FLINN WOULD MAKE APPEAL TO ELECTORS

from the Southern states and the insular possessions to dictate a presidential nominaton to the great Republican states. The time has come when political rebellion is necessary for self-protection of the Republican states.

"Under this plan no bolt will be necessary. It would result, perhaps, in losing a Republican president, but would win locally. No other civilized country would tolerate such practices as are being held in the national committee.

"I have talked with Roosevelt men in Pennsylvania, and they agree with me that it is necessary, if Taft is nominated, to carry the fight to the electoral college."

"In our state the entire list of presidential electors is for Col. Roosevelt, and will vote for him," said Governor Glasscock. "There is no law to prevent it. The people vote for the electors, and not for the president. If the nomination is stolen for President Taft, you can say that West Virginia's electoral vote will be for Theodore Roosevelt. I agree with Mr. Flynn, and we will follow the same course. I have looked up the law and there is no doubt that this action is well within it."

Stubbs Is Confident.

Governor Stubbs of Kansas returned to the Roosevelt headquarters today from a conference with Col. Roosevelt, and again declared his belief that the Republican convention will place Roosevelt at the head of the ticket.

"I cannot believe," said Governor Stubbs, "that 540 delegates can be found who will dishonor and disgrace themselves by refusing to give him the nomination."

While he was talking, a twenty-foot oil painting depicting Col. Roosevelt in rough rider costume, with his foot on a lion's head, was being hung in the Roosevelt committee rooms.

The Kansas governor added to the uncertainty over the coming of Col Roosevelt by saying "He has no plans for coming, but he may come."

Cummins Watching Roosevelt.

John McVickar and C. A. Rawson of Des Moines, and J. L. Stevens of Boone, Iowa, were active at the Cummins headquarters, where it was announced that Senator Cummins would not come to the convention unless Col. Roosevelt does.

D. R. Atherton of Washington, secretary of the national Republican league, arrived and began preparations for the biennial convention of the league next Tuesday.

Governor H. W. Johnson of California arrived today and went at once to the Coliseum, to take part in the hearing of the California contested delegation.

Leaders in both the Roosevelt and Taft contests vigorously denied the "compromise candidate" rumors which have been circulating in the hotel lobbies. Governor Stubbs and Senator Borah declared there was no likelihood of a compromise, and insisted that it was a fight to a finish.

L. C. Laylin, Taft leader in Ohio, Governor W. C. Forbes of the Philippine Islands, and H. B. McCoy, national committeeman from Manila, arrived today and went to the Taft headquarters. George W. Perkins also returned from the East.

Johnson Attacks Committee.

Governor Johnson said he had been invited by Francis J. Heney to appear before the committee while the proceedings were on. In reply to the invitation he declared he had sent a note into the committee room giving Mr. Heney his reasons for refusing to enter. Governor Johnson gave out his statement to Mr. Heney as follows:

"I decline to appear before the committee. I will not submit to a trial the title of property before the thief that steals it. I consider it would be an insult to the people of California for me to appear before a committee which obsequiously receives Calhoun or Hogue, or even listens to a contest by Patrick Calhoun designed to override a majority of 77,000 California Republicans and which has prejudged the contest.

"This so-called contest in the Fourth district is purely mythical. There were no contests in California. Neither were there any delegates selected from any districts. All California's delegates are delegates-at-large. If this committee can put two of our delegates on trial, I don't see what prevents them from putting all of them on trial."

"Is Roosevelt Coming?"

Positive information as to whether Col. Roosevelt would come to Chicago to look after his own interests before the work of deciding the contested delegations is finished by the Republican national committee, was sought today both by his own workers and those favoring President Taft.

The success of the Roosevelt workers yesterday in gaining one contested seat, gave rise to a report that the former president would come, while many of his own workers claimed to have been assured that he would not be here.

Other Roosevelt workers declared they were certain that he would be here by Friday night. On that night a mass meeting will be held by the Roosevelt followers, and many maintained that the candidate would be the principal orator. At this meeting strong protests are promised against action of the national committee in seating some of the Taft delegates in the contests.

Quiz the Uninstructed.

Managers were busy on both sides among the uninstructed delegates today, in an attempt to learn just where they will stand on the opening ballot in the convention. Both Roosevelt and Taft adherents put forth their best argument to these delegates in an effort to line them up with their respective candidates. There is a belief that many of the delegates of this class are still willing to be convinced as to how they should vote and, both sides are making determined efforts to win them.

Attention turned today also to the building of the platform among the president's friends. William Barnes, Jr., of New York, who arrived yesterday, said he would try to obtain favorable action in the resolutions committee on planks based on the Rochester platform. Mr. Barnes distributed several copies of the Rochester platform among the delegates.

Congressional Reapportionment.

Representative Lundeen of Minneapolis offered a congressional reapportionment bill, which was referred to committee.

Northern Minnesota districts are provided as follows:

Eighth—St. Louis, Lake, Cook, Carlton, Altkin and Pine counties.

Ninth — Beltrami, Hubbard, Cass, Itasca, Koochiching, Crow Wing, Wadena, Todd, Morrison, Stearns and Benton.

Tenth—Becker, Clay, Clearwater, Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Ottertail, Polk, Red Lake, Pennington, Roseau and Wilkin counties.

The new district consists of part of Hennepin county, with Wright, Anoka, Sherburne, Isanti, Kanabec, Mille Lacs and Chisago counties.

Gross Earnings Bill Delayed.

Though Senator Moonan warned the senate that in the hurry to end the session delay might easily mean defeat, the senate this morning laid the railroad gross earnings tax bill over until tomorrow to investigate a constitutional amendment raised by Senators Cheadle, Boyle, Putnam, Sageng and others. The point involved relates to the provision of the 1911 law, which the Rines-Warner bill amends only by increasing the tax rate from 4 to 5 per cent, applying the tax to railroad earnings from other than operating sources. The question raised was whether this is double taxation.

Lende Replies to Eberhart.

Senator Lende, author of the resolution calling on the governor for his recess appointments, which brought forth yesterday's tart message from Governor Eberhart, made a dignified reply this morning which the senate applauded heartily. He pointed out that the resolution which made the governor angry had merely been introduced, not acted upon, and said that though the introduction was his personal act, the governor "saw fit to attack every member of this body indiscriminately, and in an unwarranted uncalled for and undignified manner, in a message such as should not emanate from one occupying the high office of governor. The message is so indiscreet and undignified that I refuse to assume a similar attitude by making a reply to it, either personally or in behalf of the senate."

That the senate will be a barrier to the miscellaneous legislation going through the house was made evident this morning when the committee on reception of bills refused even to consider the bill that passed the house recently repealing the 1911 law requiring two lights on vehicles of all descriptions.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

Secretary William Hayward of New York, prepared to go into the Louisiana case in the committee today and testify as to the compromise made in the state last February.

Two Taft Bodies.

It is claimed that the factions were brought together then and signed an agreement under which Victor Loisel became state chairman. The Loisel faction sent the recognized Taft delegation while Pearl Wight, heading the Roosevelt delegation, claims equal regularity for his delegates.

There are two sets of delegates at large from Arizona, one for Taft and the other for Roosevelt, the latter the contesting faction. In the state convention, after the Taft men had organized, the Roosevelt followers held a convention in the same hall and elected a delegation. The contestants deny the right of the Taft leaders to fix a temporary roll call.

Claim Power Was Exceeded.

Just before the committee met it was declared that the claim of the Roosevelt delegation from Louisiana, headed by Committeeman Pearl Wight, would be that the sub-committee of the Republican National committee exceeded its authority when it went to Louisiana and consolidated the former warring factions.

The Wight delegation was elected under one of the old regular committees. Mr. Wight was prepared to assert that the national committee's delegation which went to Louisiana in February, went there for the purpose of getting early conventions and shutting out the possibility of a Roosevelt delegation.

Arizona Case First.

The first contest of the day was that of Arizona's six delegates-at-large. For the Taft delegates-at-large appeared Samuel J. Elder, a Boston attorney and former classmate of President Taft; Robert F. Morrison, an attorney from Prescott, Ariz., and James T. Williams, Jr., of Tucson, one of the delegates-at-large. At the Roosevelt table Ormsby McHarg was joined by George E. Record of New Jersey and Dwight B. Heard of Phoenix, of the Roosevelt delegation.

Just after this case was called, the regular program was interrupted by an unexpected protest against the split decision late yesterday in the Eleventh Kentucky district case.

Senator Dick, the Taft contest manager, asked for confirmation of the report that one Roosevelt and one Taft delegate had been seated.

Appeal Eleventh Kentucky.

"How can we appeal from this decision?" asked Senator Dick.

"I want to protest that the decision was irregular," interrupted Mr. McHarg, contest manager for Col. Roosevelt.

Both attorneys made it clear they would carry the Eleventh Kentucky case higher. Chairman Rosewater said the case could be taken to the national convention.

Senator Dick said he "did not want the decision passed without notice of appeal," as the Taft forces thought they were entitled to both of the Eleventh district delegates. Mr. McHarg asserted the decision dividing the vote was "against precedents established four years ago."

"I fail to see how, under a given set of circumstances, the committee could seat one and reject the other of the Roosevelt delegates," he declared.

Stopped by Penrose.

Senator Penrose demanded that the Arizona case be taken up and the Kentucky discussion was stopped.

Samuel J. Elder opened the arguments for the Taft forces. He said that as no primary law was in effect when the Arizona state committee called the state convention to be held June 3, doubt existed as to how the delegates should be selected. The state committee decided to leave the selection of delegates to the county committees.

"Only one contest was presented when the state committee met two days before the convention," said Mr. Elder. "At the convention at Tucson all the contestants received tickets. Chairman J. L. Hubbell stated that everyone claiming to be a delegate could be heard, when someone protested against the reading of a roll call made up by the committee.

"The man who objected to the roll call was a Roosevelt man who was not recognized as a delegate on the temporary roll. Then, apparently by a preconceived plan, the Roosevelt men rushed for the platform, and there ensued much disorder."

Elder declared the Roosevelt forces then left the regular convention, which then organized "peacefully," with 65 of the 98 votes that had been recognized on the "temporary roll' previously prepared by the state executive committee.

Robert E. Morrison, who was one of the Taft delegates to the convention, declared that the state executive committee, two days before the convention, gave everyone an opportunity to be heard and only one contest was presented.

Mr. Morrison declared that on June 3 the convention at Tucson was opened by State Chairman J. C. Hubbel, the temporary roll adopted, and nominations called for, when Former Governor Joseph H. Kibby, whose name was not on the temporary roll, arose and said: "We won't recognize the adoption of this roll."

"Football Organization."

The Roosevelt men, Morrison declared, then rushed to the front and some of them mounted the platform.

Morrison said he believed there was a "fully developed football organization" among the Roosevelt men, who proceeded to run a convention on one side of the stage, while the Taft convention was going on at the other. For twenty minutes, he said, it was impossible to hear anything. The Roosevelt men then left the hall.

The part played by Former Governor Kibby was fully explained by Dwight B. Heard of Phoenix, who defended the Roosevelt delegation.

"We claim we had a clear majority of the legal delegates in that hall," he said. "When the convention met, Governor Kibby took the floor and protested on our behalf against the adoption of a temporary roll, which we did not believe legal. From that time on there were two conventions, and the question is, which was the legal one."

Why Contests Were Withheld.

He said the Roosevelt men had not presented their contests to the state executive committee because they knew they would have been thrown out.

"If you say a body of men, calling themselves the state executive committee, can determine upon the legality of contesting delegates," said Mr. Heard, "you are establishing a self-perpetuating oligarchy that absolutely can dominate political affairs."

DIABETES

Treatment That Costs Nothing If It Fails to Benefit.

Diabetes has long been considered an incurable disease, and the only hope held out to patients has been to prolong their years by abstemious living. A newly discovered plant in Mexico called Diabetol herb has been found to be a specific in the treatment of diabetes, quickly reducing the specific gravity and sugar, restoring the weight and building up the system.

The treatment is very inexpensive; $1.00 worth of the herb will last two weeks and will remove the worst symptoms in the most aggravated cases. Call at our store and see the proofs and get a free booklet of diet lists, showing the proper foods for diabetes. Boyce Drug Store.

SCALES MAY BE SEIZED

Amendment to Ordinance Gives Inspector Greater Powers Than Before.

May Be Introduced in Evidence When Delinquent Merchant Is Tried.

Under an amendment to the ordinance governing the inspection of weights and measures, passed by the city council last Monday night, deficient scales or measures may now be seized immediately upon the deficiency being detected by the inspector. This was not the case heretofore, so that the new amendment gives the city sealer of weights and measures much greater power than before.

The ordinance which was introduced by Alderman Charles Hector looked innocent enough, but when it was looked into it was found that there was a lot under its surface. No fight was made on it for evidently no attention was paid to it by merchants and others.

In the past when a deficient scale was found and an arrest made because of it, the sealer could not take the scale, and by the time it was produced in court it could be readjusted and made correct. Then it was a question of veracity between the sealer and the delinquent.

Not so hereafter, however. When the deficiency is found the scale may be confiscated and produced in court as it was found by the sealer. It therefore behooves those using scales to see that they are correct all the time.

BIG EXCURSION FROM HOUGHTON

Steamer Roosevelt Will Bring Big Crowd Up on Sunday Night.

A large excursion of Copper country people is due to arrive here Sunday and remain over Monday in the city. The excursionists will come up on the big steamer Theodore Roosevelt, leaving Houghton in the morning. A round trip fare of $3 has been made and it is expected that the rate and the trip will attract a very large crowd.

The excursion is to be given under the auspices of the Club D'Haberville of Lake Linden and they will bring along the famous Red Jacket band. Special trains will run to Houghton from all the surrounding country and it is expected that that section of the peninsula will be well represented geographically.

ATTEMPTED TO END HIS LIFE

Former Duluth Telegraph Operator Took Poison in Great Falls.

James Steele, a former Duluth Western Union telegraph operator, lies in a precarious condition at a Great Falls, Mont., hospital, as the result of an attempt at suicide.

Steele appeared at the door of a Great Falls residence and asked for a drink of water. Before he could be stopped he had emptied a handful of morphine tablets into the water and swallowed it. He also tried to put a revolver bullet through his head at the same time. The revolver was wrested from him and he was taken to a hospital.

Steele but recently went to Great Falls from Helena, Mont. He is said to have been accompanied by a woman. People acquainted with him at Great Falls say that he has been acting queerly for some days.

The older telegraph operators here remember Steele. They state that he left here about eight years ago and worked for some time in St. Paul.

Steele is about 35 years old.

IN POLICE COURT

The grist ground out by the police court this morning consisted of nine drunks, all of whom pleaded guilty.

The chief feature of the proceedings was in the case of Charles Greves, Jr., who was up for drunkenness. This is not his first offense by a good many times, and his father, Charles Greves, Sr., of West Duluth, asked to be heard. The elder Greves is an old man and quite feeble. He told Judge Cutting that his son is drinking almost constantly Mr. Greves said that the young man comes home late in a drunken condition and that the family is always afraid that he may set the house on fire while under the influence of liquor.

Judge Cutting asked the young man what he had to say for himself. Greves, Jr., promised to reform, but the court reminded him that these promises have been frequent, and doubted if this one would be carried out. He accordingly sent the young man up on the hill for ten days to think things over. He first gave a sentence of fifteen days, but chopped off five days later.

M. A. Murphy admitted that he was drunk last night. Capt. Fiskett said in behalf of the prisoner that he is not accustomed to sprees and that he has a good wife and family. The court asked the reason of the celebration and Murphy said that he had pleurisy so badly that he took the drinks in an effort to relieve himself. The court wanted to know whether he felt better or worse.

"I feel worse now," said the prisoner with the accent on "now."

The court gave him a suspended sentence.

Thomas Barrett, George Logan, Gust Peterson, Emil Carlson, Lauritz Larson and Orland Carlson were each sent up for three days. John A. Johnson was given ten days, as this was his second offense.

GUIDED BY THE GARY DINNERS

New York, June 12.—As a regular attendant at the "Gary dinners," which have had so much prominence in the alleged domination of the steel industry, William P. Worth was questioned by the government in its suit to dissolve the United States Steel corporation regarding the nature of the "dinners." The witness is president of Worth Brothers, independent manufacturers of steel and iron, of Coatesville, Pa. He described the result of the opinions expressed at the Gary dinners as a "guide." The witness admitted that the "guide" appeared to be personified by E. H. Gary, the head of the steel corporation.

At a Gary dinner in February 1909, the witness said, Judge Gary thought it might be better to reduce prices. "Judge Gary said he did not want his hands tied. After that there was no guide," said Worth.

"And after that meeting you cut loose from the 'guide?'"

"Yes," answered the witness.

Laid Down No Rule.

Counsel for the Steel corporation brought out from Mr. Worth that Judge Gary never attempted to lay down a rule for the rest of the manufacturers. The witness said Judge Gary always gave the other men advice, counselling publicity.

"Was Judge Gary's policy always followed?" asked Jacob M. Dickinson, for the government.

"He never said anything about prices," declared the witness. "He would sometimes say that it was time to make a concession."

Another witness of the day, Charles S. Trench, member of a firm of metal brokers and formerly head of the Norristown Tin Plate company, testified that after the formation of the American Tin Plate company, the $46,000,000 subsidiary of the alleged steel trust, it was a common experience among independents that they could not buy black plate, as they had previously.

SAFEST SOAP FOR THE SKIN

Poslam Soap—different from and superior to all ordinary soaps for toilet and bath—is the latest product of the Emergency Laboratories, proprietors of Poslam, the famous skin remedy.

HINDOO OCCULTISM PROVED TO BE A VERY "SIMPLE FAKE"

An exhibition of thought transference that strongly reminds one of the feats that were performed a short time ago by a mind reader at a local theater is now taking place in Duluth.

The attention of one of the newspaper scribes was called to it yesterday afternoon by a local furrier. "There is a party of Hindoos in the city," said the furrier, "who are performing remarkable feats of mind-reading. One of them will tell over the wire what card you have in your hand. They are here telling fortunes, but are advertising their business by means of this feat of thought transference. Now, just take a card from this pack."

The scribe drew the seven of clubs. "Now," said the furrier, "call up Grand 1377 and ask for Mr. Crow." The scribe did so. "This is Crow," said a voice at the other end of the phone. "What card have I?" "Seven of clubs," came the prompt answer.

"You see," continued the furrier, "Those Hindoos have taken American names just for their business in this country. They speak very good English. I wonder whether they know anything about the joker. You might try. In order that they may not recognize your voice, call up Melrose 1030 and ask for Mr. Jones."

The scribe did as suggested, drawing the joker from the pack. Again the answer was correct.

In the evening he happened to receive a business card advertising a local cigar store. On the back of the card was printed a list of fifty-three names, and opposite each name stood the name of one of the cards of the deck. Opposite "seven of clubs" was the name "Crow" and opposite "joker" was the name "Jones."

That actress was a real bona fide mind reader. She actually reported another person's thoughts over the telephone, without being told what those thoughts were. This very fact made it easier to work the cigar store man's unique little scheme.

FAME OF DULUTH IS SPREAD OVER RANGES FROM ELY TO HIBBING

hold through the remainder of the trip, unless the weather man should conspire with competitors of Duluth to break up the parades and attempt to keep the excursionists under cover. They really cannot be kept under cover, but no body of men can constantly withstand bad weather and keep up their spirits.

However, the bad weather has gone and everybody is hoping that it has gone for good.

Welcomed at Virginia.

"It's just like celebrating the Fourth of July," said one woman on the street last night, and that was about it, only more so. The Duluth boosters took over Virginia, made it their own, and the Virginians were glad to give it to them. Mayor M. A. Murphy was at the train with a hearty welcome and he turned the town over to the visitors. President Lester of the Commercial club joined the mayor in the welcome and a big delegation of business men accompanied them to the train.

There hasn't been such a night in Virginia in a long time. The Duluthians were thoroughly alive when they struck here. The found the crowd in a receptive mood. One would think to see the crowd that every man, woman and child was on Chestnut street to receive the Duluthians. The parade, which was headed by Frank Gravel and the band, as usual, was made spectacular by the liberal use of red fire. It passed along Chestnut street to Central avenue, down Central avenue to Spruce street, over Spruce street to Cleveland avenue and then back to Chestnut street.

At the corner of Chestnut street and Cleveland avenue the band was halted and the Virginians were given a view of the "snake dance" in all its glory. Souvenirs were distributed and the Duluthians mixed up with the crowd in a go-as-you-please carnival manner. At the corner of Chestnut street and Central avenue the scene was repeated and then the band and the song birds repaired to the Fay opera house and gave a concert through open windows. The crowd was too large to get into the hall, so the whole thing was given over to the visitors and the crowd stood on the street and enjoyed the music. The Third Regiment band, headed by Charles Helmer for this trip, is greatly appreciated wherever it goes, but it was never more so than at Virginia.

Virginians Hospitable.

The Virginians received their Duluth visitors like the hospitable people they are. Everybody joined in the gaiety Everybody was liberal with the applause for the band, the song birds and the fun makers. It was a great night for everybody and everybody enjoyed it. The glare of the red lights, the bright blue of the caps and pennants and the unchecked voices of the visitors gave color and sound to a carnival scene. Duluthians know that the Duluth business men are alive, and they appreciate the cordial business friendship that prompted the trip to the range and the long stay in this city.

The train did not get away from Virginia until nearly noon today, so the Duluthians had plenty of time to visit the people personally. The business men got around town today calling on the merchants, renewing old friendships and making new ones. Virginia has a progressive crowd of business men and they are good friends of Duluth houses.

Others, who are in the general boosting class, took advantage of the opportunity to see Virginia, a city that has made wonderful strides in the last few years. They viewed the schools, the courthouse and the numerous other buildings that grace the city. They were charmed with the air of progressiveness about the city They commented on the public improvements made in the last few years and every comment was favorable. One would have to use a strong microscope to pick any flaws in Virginia. It is up and coming all the time. In fact it is going—leading the procession to greatness and there are few cities in the United States of the same size that can boast of its metropolitan air and excellence of public improvements. Many of the Duluthians had not been here in years and those facts were impressed on them.

Enthusiasm at Eveleth.

The enthusiasm that had been working up all day broke into a climax at Eveleth. Only an hour was allotted to the town, and the party had to crowd much into it to get off everything they had in mind. The parade was a complete success. The people lined both sides of the street and threw out words of commendation. Led by the band the party then marched to the Eveleth high school, one of the finest high school buildings to be found anywhere.

A display of manual training and domestic science work in the corridor of the high school was greatly admired by the visitors. The work in furniture and cabinet making, woodturning, sewing and fancy work was unusually fine. Principal Boardman, Manual Training Director Harry Lyons and Domestic Science Teachers Siebert and Pinnock were on hand and took pleasure in explaining the exhibits to the visitors.

The class play was on last night and many of the students had gathered when the boosters arrived at the school. Harry Earnshaw found a piano in the corridor of the school and promptly had the song birds organized and going at top speed. Songbooks were distributed to the students and they joined in with a will. The whole repertoire was gone over, and the Eveleth high school will never again hear such a strong burst of near-melody. It was immense.

The band left the high school and went to the street corners, where serenades and "snake dances" were held until Frank Berry was nearly frantic over the loss of time. Eveleth certainly made a hit with the excursionists. They would like to have remained there longer, but that was impossible. Virginia people were kept waiting as it was.

Sun Shines at Aurora.

The weather yesterday was damp and dreary until the excursion train arrived at Aurora, where the first view of a warm, glorious sun was had. Up to that time, the skies had been dark and menacing. The only rain encountered was at Two Harbors, where it rained hard for a time, but the rain let up before the train pulled out. The threats in the sky continued, however, and somewhat dampened the ardor of both visitors and townspeople.

Despite that fact, the first day of the excursion was a complete success. Parades were held in every town, and the visitors were enthusiastically welcomed, en masse and also individually by the patrons of the wholesale houses, whose representatives made it a point to call.

The Third regiment band, as always, made a big hit with everybody. The novelties distributed by the excursionists held the children enthralled, and sometimes set them fighting for possession in the scrabbles. It might be remarked in passing that the young ladies were not at all averse to accepting thimbles, sachet powder, mirrors, pencils and other advertising novelties.

Great quantities of "Duluth Your Natural Market," books and copies of Proctor Knott's speech were distributed. Duluth is well advertised in the trail of the trade excursionists.

The Two Harbors Commercial club had a reception committee out, headed by Dr. Budd, and they were all on hand to apologize for the rain and invite the Duluthians to call again. From Two Harbors, the run of three hours to Ely gave the excursionists time to gather their forces, get dinner and talk things over.

At Ely forty-five minutes was profitably spent in a parade and in a scattering around town to meet the merchants. The same course was followed at Tower, with one diversion. Led by F. X. Gravel an dthe band, the excursionists marched to the McKinley monument, the first erected in the United States to the martyred president, and while the Duluthians stood with heads uncovered, the band played "Nearer, My God, to Thee." It was a touching and impressive diversion from the round of fun-making and business.

Great Future for Vermilion.

The Vermilion towns are up and going. They not only see a great future ahead for the Vermilion range, but the present is better than any present has been for some years and it creates a feeling of optimism that is expressed in new buildings and a generally more alive expression to the towns than has been the case for some time. The Vermilion range mining operations, and especially the new properties, on which the evidences of operation are visible from the train, were the subject of interest and inquiry among the excursionists. Many of them had not been on the Vermilion for some years and they took advantage of being on the ground, to learn.

The summer resort business is now an important item to Tower and Ely and the preparations for it are visible in the stores and hotels. The Tower people say that Vermilion lake is becoming more popular every year, but they are far from the end of their string in advertising the unequaled features of one of the most beautiful lakes in the world.

From the time the sun broke through the clouds at Aurora and made its presence known by a heat that has not been felt in Duluth this year, the excursionists were more visibly imbued with that intangible element known as "pep." At Biwabik, the first "snake-dance" of the day was held. For the uninitiated, it might be said that the "snake dance" consists of a series of unsystematic contortions indulged in while certain live members of the party circle around, with the band in the center. To make the dance successful Harry Earnshaw, Ralph Brown, Jack MacGregor, G. L. Douglas, Harry Carl, Dan Mahoney and Charlie MacLennan must be in it and the band must play some classical air such as "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Oh, You Beautiful Doll" or "Everybody's Doing It." Given the right conditions and the "snake dance" makes a profound impression. The "snake dance" was a regular feature of the trips last year, but it is hard to engineer when the rain is falling or spirits droop with the barometer.

Only fifteen minutes each at Biwabik and Aurora, but the requirements of a schedule that demanded the arrival of the train at Virginia at 8 o'clock last night prevented any more time being given to those towns. Only ten minutes was given to Gilbert and five minutes to McKinley, so that an hour might be spent in Eveleth before the trip to Virginia for the night.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE TRADE EXCURSION

Frank X. Gravel is wearing a different badge this year, for he's a grocery man instead of a dry goods man, but while his line has changed, Frank is the same. He'll never grow old. He has the same enthusiasm, the same broad smile, the same Duluth spirit that he had when the first train on the first trip struck Moose Lake a year ago. With a big pennant he leads the band and gets his full share of attention. He is known and liked wherever he goes, and he's liked more when the manner in which he conducts the parades of the excursionists is seen by the people of the towns visited. Everybody looks to Frank as the generator of enthusiasm in the party, and he is on the job every minute.

• • •

The Great Northern railroad, which furnished the equipment and the service, is laying itself out to give the excursionists the best it has. The excursionists are living high on the dining car service. The menu cards are beautifully lithographed souvenirs and the excursionists are sending them home to the folks.

• • •

The Great Northern, besides furnishing souvenir menu cards, also got out an attractive lithographed copy of the itinerary of the trip and the personnel of the party. It was illustrated with Duluth scenes in colors and is a souvenir to be cherished.

• • •

As was the case last year, the trip is serving a triple purpose. It is getting Duluth business men in touch with the ranges, is getting the ranges in touch with Duluth business men and is getting Duluth business men in touch with each other. The last is not the least important feature. Men meeting daily for years in a business way and at their clubs at lunch time will not become nearly so well acquainted as they will in three days spent together on a train. The cares of business are thrown off, business dignity is discarded and the party of business men become as big boys, out for a good time in a sane way and boosting for their home city. Between stations, they rub elbows, talk over matters other than business and in one day, men who had only a speaking acquaintance for years are calling each other by their first names. The trade excursions are the best thing conceivable for arousing a civic spirit among business men and getting them working together for the good of their city.

• • •

The song-books, which are the work of Norton Mattocks and Harry Earnshaw, are valuable aids to fun-making. The songs are arranged by number. The number is called off, everybody can find the song immediately and everybody is supposed to join in, although everybody doesn't. At that, the number of singers is large enough to make a satisfactory noise and in impromptu chorus singing, noise is an important element.

• • •

As usual the railroads are well represented on the trip. There are sixteen railroad men on board. They have few calls to make and thus have little to do but boost. That they do in an effective manner.

• • •

The Duluth pennants and canes are in demand as usual. Many of the party were able to resist the earnest pleas of the girls along the route yesterday, but it's a safe bet that there will not be many pennants among the party when they return to Duluth. The girls just dote on them—the pennants are meant, but take it any way you like.

• • •

H. V. Eva is about the busiest man on board. The major does more than his share of the boosting and in addition he must look after innumerable details in the office of the train. When anything is wanted, there are cries for the major. The members of the wholesalers' committee make matters as easy as possible for him, but as the executive of the club, people look to him. He has his troubles.

• • •

Frank Berry had some trouble keeping the train up to schedule yesterday, and it was late in arriving at Virginia. It wasn't the fault of the operating department of the Iron Range. Here and there the excursionists were particularly charmed by some town—or its inhabitants, and insisted on staying more than the allotted time. It took vigorous work on the part of Frank Gravel, Maj. Eva and others to herd them into the cars and get them on their way.

• • •

One might not think it to look at him, but Jack MacGregor is some dancer. He is such a persistent dancer that he had to change his shoes the first day out. He'll need the services of a squad of chiropodists after he gets back to Duluth, if he keeps it up. It would never do to enter him into a Marathon two-step. He'd wear his feet off.

• • •

F. A. Patrick is one of the best boosters in the party. Mr. Patrick isn't lithe and lissome, as everybody who knows him will understand, but he's right up in front in every procession and does his part to make people realize that Duluth is on the map.

• • •

The train crew is all fitted out with Duluth caps so as to harmonize with the color scheme. One or two members of the crew were let out on account of a shortage of caps and they were some peeved. Provision will be made for the whole crew on the next trip.

• • •

The party enjoyed pike for dinner last night. There was some dispute as to whether the fish was furnished by Frank Church or the Duluth & Iron Range railroad. Not entering into the merits of the dispute, it was great fish and everybody enjoyed it.

• • •

Norton Mattocks is the official distributor of literature. As soon as the parade breaks up at every town, Norton is off with his big bundle of "Duluth Your Natural Gateway" books and distributes them among the crowd. If anybody doesn't get a book, it isn't Norton's fault. By looking at the back of the book, one will find that it was written and arranged by Norton Mattocks. There's a Reason!

• • •

Charlie MacLennan is again the official custodian of the Duluth pins. Charlie insists on pinning them on everybody. For some reason, the girls are served first. If any pins remain Charlie is willing to pass them around among the men.

• • •

Many of the songs are new this year and the last year song birds aren't on to them, but they are getting there. When the old songs are called out, though, only the new members of the party lag. The trips last year were good training.

New and Simple Way to Rub Out Wrinkles

Women have found a new use for the Chinese ice-pencil of grandmother's day, and now instead of being employed only for chaps and cold sores they are used to erase wrinkles. The pencil is rubbed the long way of the furrow, then the skin gently massaged. This gradually absorbs the fatty membrane on each side of the wrinkle, and the tissues under the crease are so energized that they resume their correct proportions.

On account of its slight astringency the Chinese ice-pencil will correct flabbiness. Massaging with one soon reduces loose muscles and tissues to their natural condition, and the skin takes on a youthful smoothness and velvety softness. Using a Chinese ice-pencil rids the skin of impurities and keeps it rich and beautiful. Even if druggists do charge 50c for a Chinese ice-pencil, you will not regret the investment.

New Way to Make Apple Dumplings

Served With Hard Sauce or Cream and Sugar

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

Here is a new way to make apple dumplings that will surely please every housewife, for it is not necessary to have whole apples, and the juice cannot run out and burn as with apple dumplings where the apple is placed in the center and the dough turned up around it. The biscuit part forms a crispy shell that holds the apples and juice.

31

K C Apple Dumplings

One and one-half cups sifted flour; ½ teaspoonful salt; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; ¼ cup shortening; about ½ cup milk; apples.

Fill the cups of a buttered muffin pan with pared and sliced apples, sprinkle with salt and turn two or three tablespoonfuls of water into each cup. Sift together, three times, the flour, salt and baking powder; work in the shortening, and mix to a soft dough with the milk. Drop the dough from a spoon with the apples in the cups, giving it a smooth exterior. Let bake about twenty-five minutes. Invert the pan on a large serving-dish. Put a spoonful of hard sauce above the apple in each dumpling and finish with a grating of nutmeg.

This is only one of the many new, delicious and appetising recipes contained in the K C Cook's Book, which may be obtained free by sending the colored certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the JAQUES MFG. Co., Chicago. Be sure to get the 25-cent size—smaller cans do not contain Cook's Book certificates

IT is just as important to your comfort in summer to keep the heat out of your house as it is to keep the rain out. Don't think because you have already provided adequate protection against the elements on the outside, that your roof is serving its full purpose in sheltering you from the heat, unless the cracks and crevices of under side are properly plugged up.

Consider the underside—and line it with—

LINOFELT

The quarter-inch flax fibres of Linofelt used like building paper on the under side of your roof, or laid upon the floor of an unfinished attic, will keep the heat in during the winter and keep the house cool and comfortable in summer by keeping the heat out.

Linofelt resists the passage of heat or cold more effectively than any other known substance—and if proof is wanted, call up our local agent today and let him demostrate its value to you.

Write for your copy of Linofelt booklet and learn just how the use of heat-and-cold insulation will cut down your fuel bill and keep every room of your home at an even temperature every month in the year.

Mrs. Powell Almost Dead

Dry Ridge, Ky.—"I could hardly walk across the room," says Mrs. Lydia Powell, of Dry Ridge, "before I tried Cardui. I was so poorly, I was almost dead. Now, I can walk four miles and do my work with much more ease. I praise Cardui for my wonderful cure." Cardui is successful in benefiting sick women, because it is composed of ingredients, that act specificially on the womanly constitution, relieving headache, backache, irregularity, misery and distress. Only a good medicine could show such continual increase in popularity as Cardui has, for the past 50 years. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic.

Yesterday was alumni day and it was given over to reunions of societies, fraternities, the annual meeting of the University Alumni society and the president's reception.

PRESIDENT McVEY.

McVey Going Abroad.

President McVey will leave in a few days for Europe, to spend the summer studying European educational methods for the North Dakota educational commission, of which he is a member. The commission was created by the last legislature for the purpose of securing inforation on advanced educational methods applicable to institutions of higher learning.

CLAIMS BROTHER WAS INCOMPETENT

Thief River Falls Woman Starts Will Contest at Eau Claire, Wis.

Eau Claire, Wis., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Claiming that James Powell was not in his right mind when he made his will which has been filed here for probate, Mrs. Mary Hill of Thief River Falls, Minn., who claims to be a sister of the deceased, has instituted a contest of the document.

She alleges that undue influence was used upon the late Thomas Powell in the making of his last will and testament, and that he was not competent to make a will at the time his will was drawn up and signed, which was a month or more before his death.

Mrs. Hill was not one of the beneficiaries of the will. The estate is valued at between $80,000 and $90,000, and about $40,000 of it was left to a number of nephews and nieces, and the bulk was left to be divided equally between two nephews, Clinton P. Moses and John Meyers, both of whom live south of the city.

The hearing of the contest was set for July 18.

RICHARDS' BODY HAS BEEN FOUND

Ashland, Wis., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of George Richards was found in Bass lake, near Topside this morning and a searching party is dragging the lake for the body of Herman Karzewski. Both men left Ashland Sunday morning for a fishing trip and their overturned boat was found the next day. Both leave families in Ashland.

H. Nelson, Grace Fisher, Jean Foster, Charlotte Douglas, Marie Spaulding, Willa Loomis, Sophia Tice, Gladys Campbell, Ruth Turnell, Hazel Clarkson, Georgia L. Lathrop, Dora Grimm and Elmer E. Miller, the latter to be employed as director of the manual training department for the period of three years. All recommendations were approved by the board and contracts entered into with the above named persons.

Supt. J. V. Brennan was re-elected superintendent of the public schools.

THIEF RIVER MEETING.

Lutheran Free Church Is in Session There.

Thief River Falls, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Lutheran Free church is holding its annual convention here. This body is composed of one clerical and two lay delegates from each congregation of this church in the United States.

The business of the gathering is to recognize, as full-fledged ministers, those who have completed their term in the various theological institutions of the denomination, to receive reports from the various congregations, and to discuss and formulate plans for greater efficiency in the work of the church.

Last Sunday the county Sunday school conention met in the Presbyterian church. State Secretary Locker gave a very interesting and inspiring account of Sunday school work throughout the state.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Presiuent, Jonn Christianson; secretary, Miss Mattie Poston; president of teachers' training class work, Miss Selma Erickson; president of elementary department, Mrs. M. Bishop.

MANY WATER TESTS.

Made By North Dakota State Laboratories.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Over 7,000 tests and examinations of various kinds have been made during the past year at the North Dakota public health laboratory, located at the state university, and the two branch laboratories at Minot and Bismarck, according to the annual report of Dr. Gustave P. Ruediger, director in charge. Water analyses heads the list with 2,047 tests and sputum examinations for tuberculosis comes next with 1,062 tests. Thirteen people suffering with rabies presented themselves for treatment. The report shows that rabies has been prevalent this year in the southern and southeastern part of the state. The laboratory staff kept close watch of the spread of the disease among the lower animals and sent out numerous circulars and newspaper articles giving information regarding the disease and how to treat it.

BIG RYE CROPS.

Promised to Farmers in Red River Valley.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Winter rye will be one of the heavy crops in the Red river valley this year, the farmers on the North Dakota side of the river having planted a very large acreage of that grain. It is in splendid shape at the present time, well headed out, the stand being heavy, and with two or three weeks of good weather, the binders will be in the fields.

By July 15 it is expected that practically all of the winter rye will have been thrashed, and the farmers will then be able to plow their land, getting all the benefits that are gained by summer fallowing.

DISCUSSION HEATED

Over Possible Union With Norwegian Lutheran Free Church.

Fargo, N. D., June 12.—Rt. Rev. T. H. Dahl, president of the national conference of the United Norwegian Lutheran church, read a cablegram yesterday from King Haakon of Norway, thanking the 10,000 Norsemen gathered at The Hague Bauta unveiling Monday, for their greetings sent him by cable.

A heated discussion took place yesterday over the advances this conference should make in an effort to reach a better understanding or form a union with the Norwegian Lutheran Free church, a national body.

A committee of five will be appointed to endeavor to reach a better understanding with the Norwegian Free church. The membership will be different from that of the committee already elected to negotiate for organic union with the synod of the Norwegian Lutheran church.

REFEREE APPOINTED

To Take Testimony in Montevideo Disbarment Case.

St. Paul, Minn., June 12.—C. D. Bensel of Montevideo, through his attorney, pleaded not guilty before the supreme court yesterday to charges on which disbarment proceedings have been brought. C. H. Sherwood of Wilmar was appointed referee to take testimony on July 3, and the case will come up for argument on July 11.

Bensel is charged with making slanderous statements in complaints drawn up against three Montevideo women, growing out of a dispute among the Ladies of the Maccabees.

MELLIN'S FOOD

The first year of baby's life is the most important, for it is the foundation-time. Health, strength, vigorous mentality—all are then being developed and nourished. The baby's diet, therefore, is a most important factor. Mellin's Food fulfills every requirement, and has for half a century proved to be the simplest and most successful method of modifying milk.

FRIENDS ASKING ABOUT BERCHTOLD

Chief of Police Troyer today received a telegram from Prof. Berchtold of Corvalis, Ore., father of O. W. Berchtold of Chicago, whose hat and note were found on the north pier of the canal on Monday night, asking the particulars of the case. Yesterday afternoon the chief received a similar telegram from Miss Mabel Jefferson of Kirkpatrick, Ind., whom, the note indicated, was the fiancee of Berchtold. Each asked if the published dispatches of the case were correct and wanted particulars. The chief had anticipated these inquiries by sending particulars to each address given in the note yesterday morning.

Nothing further has been learned of the missing man and the chief is in a quandry as to the solution of the case.

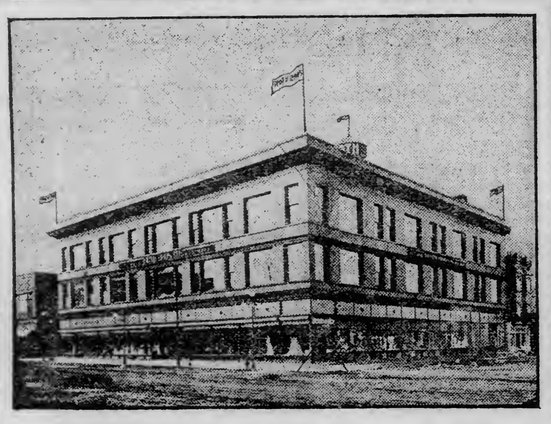

"The only conclusion I can arrive at is that either Berchtold really jumped into the canal or that he is seeking this method of dropping out of sight and severing all former connections—provided of course that Berchtold himself placed the hat where it was found and really wrote the note," said the chief.

It is believed that if the man jumped or fell into the canal that his body will never be found, and unless Berchtold is heard from the mystery will likely remain a mystery. Nobody in Duluth seems to have known him.

Moonlight Excursion.

Duluthians will have the opportunity of taking a moonlight ride on the largest excursion boat on the upper lakes next Sunday evening.

The big passenger steamer Theodore Roosevelt will be in Duluth Sunday, and Sunday evening there will be a moonlight excursion on the lake. The big boat has accommodation for 3,000 passengers. She will leave the wharf at the foot of Seventh avenue west at 8 o'clock.

Why should you trade with us when you have good stores and large stores in Duluth? There are several reasons, but we'll give but one this time. Were your stores twice as large and were there twice as many of them, there would still be a reason why a hundred thousand dollars' worth of our merchandise each year should go into the homes of your city. We show some lines of goods that are not represented by any of your stores, but the majority of our lines are represented in your city by your best stores. The difference is this, here you find them displayed side by side under one roof, while in your city they are scattered among all your stores. And it is these particular lines that are represented in your city that we wish to talk about this time. The fact that your best stores handle this same merchandise eliminates any question as to the character of the merchandise we propose to sell to you. Style and quality being fixed, it is simply now a question of price, and as to price it is an easy matter for you to judge, and when you have judged you have answered the question. The reason is in the price. Come over and see for yourself.

MARINE

WAS VETERAN OF THE LAKES

Capt. J. J. H. Brown, Pioneer Vessel Owner, Dies at Buffalo.

Well Known in Duluth—Inquiry for Fall Tonnage.

Local vessel men were notified this morning of the death at Buffalo, N. Y., of Capt. J. J. H. Borwn, one of the largest vessel owners on the Great Lakes, former president of the Lake Carriers' association, and former president of the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce.

Capt. Brown was 75 years of age at the time of his death yesterday. The cause of death is unknown.

For years Capt. Brown has been most prominent in marine circles. Having sailed in his younger years, he knew the shipping business from the bottom up.

During the past few years Capt. Brown has operated a shipping brokerage and vessel insurance business at Buffalo. He was agent for the Tomlinson line of boats at the other end of the lakes and owned stock in a number of the boat lines, besides owning almost outright the steamers Tomlinson, J. J. H. Brown and other smaller boats. G. A. Tomlinson left late yesterday for Buffalo, where he will attend the funeral.

Capt. Brown was well known among Duluth marine men and they heard of his death today with sincere regret. He was considered an authority on most matters pretaining to the shipping business. He frequently visited at Duluth.

Under his management the Lake Carriers' association was raised to its present degree of efficiency.

For years he has been known as one of the foremost of Buffalo business men and has held positions of trust and confidence.

He started with nothing but perseverance and amassed a fortune of great magnitude. In his younger days, he sailed vessels to Duluth and watched this city grow from a village to a thriving city. He was always confident of this city's ultimate growth and owned considerable property here.

Inquiry for Fall Tonnage.

The first real inquiry for grain tonnage for fall loading was made yesterday when a broker canvassed the market for tonnage to take winter cargoes at the Head of the Lakes for Buffalo ot 2½ cents. No chartering was done, as managers will not consider the proposition at this time.

Coal shippers are so far behind in their shipments vesselmen look forward to a good demand for the last trip and storage cargoes in that trade. Most managers have contracted to carry as much ore as their boats can move during the entire season and could not now place their boats for storage grain with absolute certainty that they would be able to take the cargoes.

In view of there being a large demand in the fall ore and coal trades the vessel owners feel it would not be wise to contract for fall grain at any price tentatively offered so far. They also think they can read the grain shippers' idea of what the finish will be and can see a move to anticipate the rates that will be paid when the grain is ready. This is pure speculation on the part of the owners, but it would tend to discourage them against taking grain, even if there were no other reasons.

BOY BLAMES ACCOMPLICE

Larry Wilkus, the St. Paul youth who snatched a purse from Mrs. M. B. Glockle, 523 West Sixth street in broad daylight last week and who was caught after a chase by the woman and the police, blames his 16-year-old partner in crime for the act.

Larry was up before Judge Dancer of the district court this morning and pleaded guilty. Notwithstanding the fact that the youthful prisoner fixed the responsibility of his act on a boy two years his junior, the court sent Larry to the reformatory, although he dequested a parole.

Wilkus was reluctant about telling about his former arrests in St. Paul, where he is said to be a familiar figure in the juvenile court. On two occasions he is credited with having stolen a bicycle and he was also called to account for taking some money and watches which did not belong to him.

Larry left it to the assistant county attorney to tell of his St. Paul record. Regarding himself, he stated that he had a widowed mother and a large number of brothers and sisters to support and wanted a chance to make good.

Judge Dancer told the prisoner that in view of his past record that a reform school sentence was the best thing that could happen to him and might straighten him up.

John Faschingbauer, the 16-year-old boy who was implicated with Wilkus, was released by the juvenile court and allowed to return to St. Paul with his mother last week. Wilkus told Judge Dancer this morning that John was to blame for it all, that he drank and that he knew how to play "poker."

Wilkus said that they came up here last week on a vacation trip and that being hard pressed for money thought that they would snatch a purse. The robbery took place in the morning about 11 o'clock. Wilkus was cool and deliberate at the time and to evade the officers stepped into the Milwaukee road office on the corner of Fourth avenue and Superior street.

PLANT ACRE AS AN EXPERIMENT

Tomorrow morning the American Homecroft society will begin planting on the experiment acre at Woodland.

The day will be devoted to the planting of various crops, such as potatoes, corn, beets, onions, carrots, squash, cucumbers, etc. Every one interested in this work is invited to go out and watch the work while in progress. Not only the planting itself should prove of interest to the amateur gardener, but he will get many valuable hints regarding the preparation of new soil for various crops. Take the Woodland car to Winona street and walk four blocks west.

CHARGE MAY BE MORE SERIOUS

George W. Stanley, who was sent to the rockpile yesterday for a term of sixty days on the charge of vagrancy, is said to be in line for more trouble about the time he finishes the term he is now serving. It has been asserted that at times he has acted as procurer for some of the disreputable houses here and elsewhere. This matter is now being investigated and it may turn out that a very serious charge will be preferred against him.

The police are searching his record carefully. Stanley yesterday admitted in police court that he has received money at different times from one of the women of the underworld.

IS KILLED BY FALLING ROCK

Virginia, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rudo Kranovich, a miner, was instantly killed here this morning in a cave-in at the Alpena mine. Kranovich was caught under several tons of falling rock and earth and probably died instantly. His body was recovered and the funeral will be held tomorrow. Kranovich was unmarried and lived in an Austrian boarding house on the north side.

ROYAL RECEPTION AT VIRGINIA

Virginia, Minn., June 12.—(By a staff correspondent.)—The Duluth Boosters were royally entertained here by the Virginia club last evening. The Duluth visitors have been heartily welcomed all along the line, but the Virginia people outdid themselves last evening. The Duluth party was welcomed with open arms, and nothing was left undone that would add to the comfort and pleasures of the Zenith City men.

CLOQUET MAN IS FATALLY BURNED

Cloquet, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Henry Schomber arrived here this morning from International Falls. Schomber was burned by steam from a boiler explosion last week and died from the effects Monday night. He formerly lived in Cloquet, and the remains will be interred here, probably on Thursday, though no definite arrangements have been made this morning. His wife was Miss Jarvis, and the remains were taken to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jarvis.

The deceased was a prominent member of the Cloquet Odd Fellows, and they will be in charge of the funeral.

Old Citizen Buried.

Funeral services were held at the Swedish Lutheran church this afternoon for Peter Johnson, who died Sunday night at his home on Carlton avenue. The deceased had been ill with cancer for a long time. He was one of the old residents of Cloquet and was well known in the city. A wife and eight children survive him. Two daughters, Mrs. Skooglund and Mrs. Sundeen, live in Barnum; Mrs. Victor Sundeen and Miss Amanda Johnson live in Cloquet. The sons are Sam, junior partner of the firm of Anderson & Johnson of Cloquet; John, Oscar and Carl.

Seoul to Honor Dr. Eliot.

Seoul, Korea, June 12.—Charles W. Eliot, president-emeritus of Harvard university, and Mrs. Eliot purpose remaining for one day here on their way to Japan. Elaborate receptions in their honor have been arranged by Lieut. Gen. Terauchi, the governor general, and others.

WHAT OTHER FOLKS SAY.

Speaking of Duluth's "talking points," it is interesting to notice that Duluth people are not the only ones who are taking notice of them. In another column The Herald today reproduces an editorial from the Commercial West, published in Minneapolis, which gives some striking views of "Duluth, A Manufacturing City." If you believe in Duluth, read it by all means and have your faith confirmed. If you don't believe in Duluth, don't fail to read it and you will feel the sproutings of a new-born faith.

According to the Commercial West, Duluth's whole future is not bound up in the rapidly developing steel plant, though this will help, both directly and indirectly. As the Commercial West writer says, "If the Head of the Lakes is a good location for a big steel plant, it is good enough for hundreds of smaller factories, is not bad reasoning," and this kind of reasoning is certain to bring other interests to the city.

But another important point brought out in the article referred to is that the clearing away of vast areas of timber from the region about the Head of the Lakes is laying those areas open to cultivation, and the thing they are best adapted to is cultivation in small tracts. To quote once more from the Commercial West:

"Small farming means a denser population than the prairie districts have, and therefore such a region will have from four to six times more purchasing power than any like area on the prairies."

It all works together to prove one thing—that Duluth is a mighty good place to tie to.

What Has He to Say?

Now President Taft himself is accused of having recalled a judicial decision by pardoning Mr. Jones of the land fraud cases, when successive courts had decided that the Jones conviction was all right. Well?

PURE MILK FOR BABIES.

Health Commissioner Fahey is entitled to a vote of thanks from the babies of Duluth for his effort to insure that they shall have pure milk and proper treatment during the perilous summer months. His suggestion to the council that welfare stations be established in the city is in line with what is acknowledged to be the latest advance in municipal work for infants' health. It is not an untried theory that Dr. Fahey has presented to the council, but a line of action that already has been tried out elsewhere and found to be good.

Dr. Fahey's proposition, briefly stated, is that places be established in West Duluth and the West End during July and August, at which mothers of infants may secure fresh milk at low cost, and also receive instruction from trained women in how to care for the little ones. He has estimated that the expense of the work would aggregate $825 for the two months, every cost of the plan, including supplies and nurses' salaries, to be met from that sum.

In spite of the fact that Duluth's climate removes much of the difficulty that is met with in other cities in the care of babies during the summer, there is great field for such work as that of the welfare stations. They would assuredly prove a boon to more than one mother, both by providing her with a source for securing the needed milk supply at reasonable cost, and by giving instruction in how to look after the tiny bits of humanity.

If the city has funds which can be spared to take up this work, there can be no question of the value of the investment. Let the establishment of the welfare stations be accompanied by a thorough and consistent effort at sanitation and cleanliness, and Duluth's infant mortality rate for the summer of 1912 should show a material decrease.

Great Exposure.

Evidently it's no snap to live in Kodiak, Alaska.

STICK TO IT, UNCLE.

When the International Conference on Wireless Telegraphy opened in London early this month the American delegates unfolded before those from European countries a list of provisions that the United States government had drawn up and instructed them to propose and fight for. There were half a dozen or more propositions in the list, including several technical matters of whose value or practicability only an expert could judge.

But there were two terms in the agreement proposed by the Americans that can be understood by even the least informed, and particularly by anybody who read carefully the accounts of the Titanic disaster and the testimony that has been given in the inquiries into that affair. These are that "distress signals, weather observations and storm warnings take precedence over all commercial and private messages" and that "the various radio systems must be forced to co-operate in sending distress, storm and weather messages."

It would seem that no possible objection could be found to these two regulations, and yet dispatches from London say that they are being opposed by "certain wireless interests." It is enough to try the patience of humanity that such objections should be made. When the world has hardly recovered from the horror of a sea tragedy that could, at least to some extent, have been lessened by the enforcement of the very regulations proposed, why should any "interests," wireless or otherwise, seek to continue the old regime under which the recipient of the calls for distress not only was not under absolute obligations to answer them himself, but could not be compelled to answer for his negligence if he failed to pass them on to somebody else who would respond?

And what private or commercial message could be more vital than a call for help in time of danger, or a warning of approaching storm or other peril?

"The Americans," read the dispatch, "are prepared to make a strong fight" for the addition of these rules to the international agreement. Good for the Americans! They have something to fight for that is worth while, and they have Uncle Sam back of them. They will do well to exercise their preparedness to the utmost to get these requirements adopted, and Uncle Sam should not hesitate a moment to back them up in their fight.

Or What Odds You Please.

Ten to one the members of the court of commerce consider themselves fully qualified to discuss the principle of the recall of the judiciary.

WORK YET TO BE DONE.

It is pleasant to think of the care and expense devoted in this country to the welfare and education of children. It is nice and comfortable and all that to know that great work has been done to insure to members of the rising generation something of a start in life that shall make them better able to make a living and be of benefit to the country through a knowledge of the things that go to make up good citizenship.

But every once in a while somebody pops out a few defiant statistics that jar that feeling of satisfaction and complacency and make us wonder just where we have got to in the work. Statistics are uncomfortable things anyway, and when they are applied to such subjects as this they are apt to be more or less startling in their effect.

Just now it is the National Child Labor committee that is furnishing the jar, and it does this in the Child Labor Bulletin, a new quarterly review, issued today. And here are some of the figures the committee hands out:

There are more than 6,000,000 illiterates in the United States.

One in seven of all children in the country, between the ages of 10 and 14 years, is not in school; there are 1,000,000 under the age of 16 years who are employed in the various industries of the country, and another 1,000,000 also under that age are employed in agriculture, only a part of whom are assisting their parents on the farm.

But the Bulletin is not all gloom. It tells us, for instance, that since 1904 thirty-nine states have passed child labor laws, and "the fourteenth birthday is now the lowest limit for work for children in the Northern states, with the single exception of New Hampshire, and in four Southern states: Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana and Virginia."

Determined effort to insure the kind of citizens that are the fruit of home training is shown in four states, according to the Bulletin, which tells us that Ohio, Oklahoma, Illinois and Michigan have made provision to take something from the burden of the widowed mother by giving her, not as the dole of a private charity, but as her absolute right, an allowance out of public finances on condition that she stay in her home and keep her children at home and in school. The practice is defended ably by Jean Gordon of New Orleans, who argues that "certainly the mother does as much for the country in rearing her children as the veterans did in killing her sons."

Other instances of advanced legislation for the benefit of the children are given in the Bulletin, and in fact one is compelled to recognize the work already done in their behalf. But the thing that stands out most boldly and painfully of all is the immense amount that has yet to be accomplished; the prejudice and greed yet to be overcome, to insure that there shall not be in the next generation of adults millions who shall have cause to curse the states and the nation that left them to be brought up as little better than slaves and brutes.

Judging From Results.

Let's hope the members of the Republican national committee are getting some fun out of their meetings. Otherwise there really doesn't seem to have been any excuse for holding them.

TAXES, PRICES AND THE PEOPLE.

Canada is proving herself to be a real helpful little neighbor in spite of her refusal to accept reciprocity with us. The other day The Herald pointed out a striking lesson in how the tariff operates, a lesson drawn from conditions obtaining in the Dominion and showing clearly the stifling effect of high duties on domestic trade, particularly when those duties serve as a protection for interests that already control a domestic market.

Now the government at Ottawa has furnished the United States with another splendid lesson in tariff operation, and incidentally knocks the eternal spots out of the claim that the tariff is not in fact a tax on the consumers. And it has done so by the very simple expedient of cutting exactly in two the Canadian tariff on cement that was keeping the people of Western Canada from getting as much of that article as they needed, at reasonable prices. The Ottawa action was taken confessedly because the combined operations of the Canadian tariff and the Canadian cement trust had brought about a condition that was injuring the Canadian people.

Canada's action is of interest to us on this side the international boundary principally for the things it proves. These are that a high tariff on the products of monopoly or virtual monopoly stifles trade instead of stimulating it, and that it is in fact a tax that is borne wholly by the consumers of the article taxed. These principles are nothing new. They have been talked and thought in this country for years, but have been repeatedly denied by speakers and writers who sought to maintain the delusion that high protection is a benefit to the country. Now the people of the United States are given a clear example of how the tariff works, and one that is seen in a perspective that permits a clear vision of every detail. What is more, the Canadian government, just now in the hands of the party that favors high tariffs, is freely confessing the truth of the points just made, by its reduction of the rates on the needed article.

Canada's lesson to the United States is timely. With that in mind, it will take something more than simple campaign eloquence and an already waning devotion to party nomenclature to lead the American people into another trap under the high-sounding name of "protection."

It is said the New York taxicab companies make a profit of 45 per cent. Next thing we know they'll be trying to gasoline their stock.

It will be hard to believe that President Taft really regards his prospects as desperate until he calls on Ballinger to go to Chicago to help him out.

Those volcanic eruptions up in Alaska indicate that that's the location of the other end of those wires that recently have been installed at Sagamore Hill.

There is a disposition to refuse any more money to mount the critters Roosevelt has shot. Perhaps it rises from fear that he will try to get the Chicago convention for the Smithsonian institution.

A New York man who figures that he has $250 coming to him from an estate is trying to find where it is. There are times when even curiosity seems pardonable.

DULUTH, A MANUFCTURING CITY

With the Steel Plant as a Powerful Leader, Other Manufacturing Enterprises Will Be Drawn to the Head of the Lakes.

Minneapolis Commercial West: People of Minnesota have always had an abiding faith in the ultimate greatness of Duluth, and loyal Minnesotans are proud of that city. Business jealousies have arisen in the Twin Cities, it is true, for certain lines of trade have felt Duluth's competition, but there is probably not a business man in St. Paul or Minneapolis but that hopes and believes that Duluth will become one of the great cities of the West. Yet the conditions that shape Duluth's destiny are so different from those that are building up any other city in the country that many persons have gone wrong in their estimates of the city's possibilities. For example, Duluth—and its little sister across the bay—were at one time going to become the greatest flour milling center of the country. Why? Because these cities were at the head of the lakes and the great wheat fields of North Dakota began some 200 miles to the west. Theoretically this combination placed Duluth-Superior in an impregnable position as a great milling center. But the greatness of Duluth was not to be founded on the milling industry. Duluth, it is true, owes its existence to geographic position; for without the lakes there would be no city where Duluth now stands. And because of its position as a distributing and shipping point, a center of some importance was bound to develop. Yet as a shipping and distributing point alone, Duluth would never be a great city. And there is the ore of Northern Minnesota. Indirectly—that is, aside from manufacturing—it has been a valuable asset to Duluth, but much of it has, during the last twenty-five years, escaped Duluth altogether via Two Harbors, and much more, in recent years, via the Great Northern's docks at Allouez at the end of the bay. The lumber interests at Duluth are immense. The coal docks and the ore docks, the grain elevators and the flour and package freight warehouses are on a scale that suggests to the traveler a great seaport; and yet these combined industries have not given to Duluth the commercial activity that St. Paul has had without any of them—Minneapolis has a grain trade, as has Duluth.

But with the denser settling up of Northern Minnesota and North Dakota in the last ten years and consequent development of its wholesale trade, Duluth has gone ahead in an encouraging way, though checked by the short crops of 1910 and 1911. While not in an agricultural region, Duluth's prosperity is largely dependent upon agriculture, both in shipping grain and in selling merchandise and the products of its own factories and shops.

In the last twenty-five or thirty years most of the predictions regarding Duluth's future have been wrong, that is, as to what would make Duluth a great city. Furthermore, they have been wrong as to time. Seeing and realizing the importance of the natural resources adjacent to Duluth, and the city's geographical position, the more rapid growth than has take place seemed probable. But the full development of Duluth was destined—though no one realized it twenty-five years ago—to follow the development of the Northwest rather than to precede it, as all the cities attempted to do, or to keep pace with it, as have St. Paul and Minneapolis. And for the same reasons that have held Duluth back, that city will continue to expand and increase in greatness long after the Twin Cities have come to a standstill period or stage of slow growth.

At the present time Duluth is just beginning to see what the future holds for it—to see the future almost as clearly as one now sees into the city's past. It must be apparent now to any thinking man that Duluth's course could not have been shaped very differently. It has been controlled, in the main, by economic conditions; and its future will just as surely be governed by them. It hardly sems necessary to say that this editorial was suggested by the announcement last week, by E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation, that "we have just decided to go on with the contemplated work at Duluth by finishing blast furnaces, open hearth furnaces, wire mill, etc., at an additional cost of about $6,000,000, making in all about $10,000,000 invested in the improvements." It is expected that the steel plant will be completed within a year and a half. Yet Duluth will not be under particular obligations to—nor under the wing of—the United States Steel corporation. That corporation is not building a plant at the Head of the Lakes because of the benefits that may come to Duluth-Superior or to Minnesota. It is building purely as a business proposition—because of the ore in Northern Minnesota and because development of the Northwest has reached a stage that suggests a profitable business for its Duluth plant. Furthermore, development of the Northwest—due to the energy and foresight and confidence of the railroad builders and the best interests of the Northwest—has reached a point where a steel plant at Duluth becomes a logical outgrowth. The Steel corporation simply took advantage of the situation first; yet the entire Northwest should feel very friendly toward the United States Steel corporation and always—unless reasons for contrary treatment should arise—endeavor to treat it with the utmost fairness and without any shadow of the prejudice that too often is shown toward great corporations. Yet at the same time it is just as well to remember that unless the ore were in Northern Minnesota and unless there were a developed field for steel products in the Northwest—a field in the development of which the Steel corporation had no part—the steel plant at Duluth would never have been started. But this is a digression.

We have said that it is now possible to see into the future as relating to Duluth's progress. It is. Besides the larger trade resulting from the employment of several thousand hands in the steel works, the city's wholesale trade will expand, for business will be attracted to the city as a result of its steel business throughout the Northwest. Then, too, various other manufacturing enterprises will be drawn to the Head of the Lakes with the same certainty that a powerful leader always has a big following. If the Head of the Lakes is a good location for a big steel plant, it is good enough for hundreds of smaller factories, is not bad reasoning.

But Duluth has still another undeveloped resource, and an important one in connection with the big plant of the Steel corporation. That is, the cut-over lands both on the Wisconsin and the Minnesota side. These lands—not all of them, but in the aggregate, many thousands of acres—are rich and particularly suitable for small farming. Forty acres carefully cultivated will yield more dollars than 160 acres of prairie land sown to grain. With an increasing market for farm products at the Head of the Lakes, small farming in the adjoining territory will become a very important industry. Already it is attracting more attention than ever before, partly for the reason that large areas of tracts of land have been kept off the market until all the timber was cut. Small farming means a denser population than the praiprie districts have, and therefore such a region will have from four to six times more purchasing power than any like area on the prairies. Duluth-Superior will, in the long run, therefore, profit by not being in an agricultural district—in the common acceptance of that term.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

SUGGESTION IS MOST PRACTICAL

To the Editor of The Herald:

That suggestion made by Mr. Bradley in The Herald several weeks ago that Duluthians provide themselves with rubber stamps saying "It's Cool in Duluth" should not be allowed to drop. Duluthians who travel much ought to get these rubber stamps and when they register at a hotel in another city, stamp this in place of their address. I was in the newspaper business long enough to know that a hotel reporter, even in as big a city as New York, would grasp that idea, and it would be good for any place from half a column to a column, especially during the hot days of midsummer. Duluth can get columns and columns of free newspaper advertising in this way, that it could not buy at any price. Yours,

A FORMER REPORTER.

Duluth, June 12.

The Yankees at Olympia.

The hammer throw had been announced, the bugles had been blown; the heavy hammers flew and bunced by mighty giants thrown. "Who wins it?" cried the eager throng. "Who captures this event?" And the Irish entries came along retiring on their tent. "A foreigner has beaten us," they answered with a groan; "a foreigner—United States—a fellow named Malone." A dozen men were crouched to start, and the starter fired the gun; and as a bow projects a dart, the men were off to run. "Who wins it?" cried the eager crowd. "Who captures this event?" and the German sprinted, sad and bowed, retired upon their tent. "A foreigner has conquered us," they said, and wineed a bit, "a foreigner—United States—his name is Otto Schmidt." The hurdle race was duly called and the starter fired the shot; and some there were overhauled, and some there were not. "Who wins it?" cried the multitude. "Who wins the last event?" and the Frenchmen beaten and subdued, retired upon their tent. "A foreigner outhurdled us," they said with little heart; "a foreigner—United States—a man named Bonaparte." The running jump was on the card, and men went high aloft; and some men hit the island hard, and others hit it soft. "Who wins it?" cried the eager mass. "Who captures this event?" And the Swedish jumpers sadly passed, retiring on their tent. "A foreigner has won," they said, "some fellow from Wisconsin—he yump like sixty, and his name, his name ban Yonny Yonson."

A Junior's Soliloquy.

(With apologies to "My Rosary.")

The hours I spend with thee, my book
Are like a big nightmare to me;
I read each page again, again,
My history, my history;
Each hour a sigh,
Each sigh a prayer
That I might never have it o'er,
I read each page unto the end
And then I fall asleep once more.

Oh, histories that fret and burn,
Oh, vain struggle to do our best!
I read each page and strive at last to learn
To pass the test, the test, to pass the test.

Arkansas Peach Crop.

Little Rock Dispatch to New York World: The peach crop in Arkansas promises to be the largest in the history of the state. The principal yield comes from Howard, Sevier, Polk, Franklin, Johnson, Benton, Crawford and Washington counties. In some places the yield promises to be so large that it is feared that the railroad will not be able to handle all of it promptly.

Johnson county alone, it is estimated, will yield 400,000 bushels of Elbertas, beside 20,000 bushels of other varieties, making 100,000 car loads.

According to a Sevier county man "the Elberta peach crop in Sevier county will be about the most enormous commercial event that ever happened in Southern Arkansas."

The Highland orchard, the largest in the world, will yield about 2,000 car loads; the independent growers around De Queen will have about 200 car loads; the Horatio growers expect fifty to one hundred and the Lockesburg growers about fifty.

The Highland orchard, in Howard and Pike counties, comprises 4,000 acres, set solidly in Elberta peaches.

Second only to the Highland is that of the Arkansar Orchard Planting company, six miles west of Murfreesboro, in Pike county, comprising 2,000 acres. During the 1911 season it shipped over 200 car loads at a net profit of $250,000. The same land seven years ago was a drug on the market at $7 an acre.

T. R. on a Wolf Hunt.

"Wolf Coursing," by Theodore Roosevelt: Up the long slope I did not dare press my horse, and Abernathy must have been a mile ahead of me when he struck the divide, while where the others were I had no idea, except that they were behind me. When I reached the divide I was afraid I might have missed Abernathy, but to my delight he was still in sight, far ahead. As we began to go down hill I let the horse fairly race; for by Abernathy's motions I could tell that he was close to the wolf and that it was no longer running in a straight line, so there was a chance of my overtaking them. In a couple of miles I was close enough to see what was going on. But the greyhound was left with Abernathy.

The wolf was obviously tired and Abernathy, with the aid of his perfectly trained horse, was helping the greyhound catch it. Twice he headed it and this enabled me to gain rapidly. They had reached a small unwooded creek by the time I was within fifty yards; the little wolf tried to break back to the left; Abernathy headed it off and rode almost over it, and it gave a wicked snap at his feet, cutting the boot. Then he wheeled and came toward it; again it galloped back, and just as it crossed the creek the greyhound made a rush, pinned it by the hind leg and threw it. There was a scuffle, then a yell from the greyhound as the wolf bit it. At the bite the hound let go and jumped back a few feet, and at the same moment Abernathy, who had ridden his horse right on them as they struggled, leaped off and sprang on top of the wolf. He held the reins of the horse with one hand and thrust the other, with a rapidity and precision even greater than the wolf's snap, into the wolf's mouth, jamming his hand down crosswise between the jaws, seizing the lower jaw and bending it down so that the wolf could not bite him. He had a stout glove on his hand, but this would have been of no avail whatever had he not seized the animal just as he did; that is, behind the canines, while his hands pressed the lips against the teeth; with his knees he kept the wolf from using its forepaws to break the hold, until it gave up struggling. When he leaped on the wolf it was entirely free, the dog having jumped away. It was as remarkable a feat of the kind as I have ever seen.

The Professor's Theory.

Washington Herald: "Do girls do as well in college as boys?"

"As well or better."

"Indeed? And how do you account for that?"

"Well, they have more opportunities to study, for one thing. A girl doesn't have to put in a lot of time coloring a meerschaum pipe."

Currie of Duluth, and W. C. Sargent and G. F. Chester of Lakeside.

THE EXTRA SESSION.

Perhaps.

Rochester Post and Record: There's one thing that will have a strong tendency to make the extra session of the legislature a short one, and that is that the members have drawn their pay for this year, and probably have spent it, and will have to dig up for hotel bills and other expenses. Every day of the session will add to an expense account they will want to make as small as possible.

Time Brings Changes.

Morris Sun: Governor Eberhart exerted his influence against the passage of a state wide primary law at the last session of the legislature. Now he feels that he needs it badly in order to be re-elected, and he is going to make the state pay thousands of dollars in order to bring it about.

Wants Second Choice.

Bemidji Pioneer: The people of Minnesota want a direct primary law and the outlook for the passing of one at the extra session of the legislature is good. But the law must be one that will not allow a mere plurality to nominate. Under such a law, one man, not the choice of a good percentage of the people, could be nominated provided the opposition was scattered among several other candidates. A law should be passed which would provide for a first and second choice so that in case one man did not receive 40 or 50 per cent of the votes cast for first choice, the second choice ballots could be counted and the total vote of first and second taken to nominate.

Will They?

St. Paul Dispatch: Now watch all the legislators who wasted the people's time and money at the regular session try to square themselves at the extra session.

Extraordinary Condition.

Fergus Falls Journal: The "extraordinary condition" which has now arisen to justify the calling of a special session is the danger that Eberhart might be defeated by the other candidates combining against him in the state convention. They cannot combine against him in the primary, so the state will pay the costs of an extra session in order to secure a primary election law.

The Wrong Time.

Red Wing Republican: The governor realized that it was necessary to do something desperate to square himself with the people and nothing more desperate could have been thought of at the present time than to call an extra session of the legislature a year and a half after the previous legislature adjourned and only six months before the next session. It is one of the most ridiculous moves ever made by a chief executive in this state. There has been one time during the administration of Governor Eberhart when it was his bounden duty to have convened the legislature in extra session and that was immediately after the adjournment of the last session. Governor Eberhart had outlined a program which he expected carried out and he made a statement then that unless the legislature passed a fair reapportionment bill at the regular session he would call a special session immediately following.

The legislature did not complete its legislative program and the governor did not have backbone enough to stand by his word and reconvene the legislature. To call an extra session at this time when a new, and let us hope a better, legislature is about to be elected and to meet in six months, after he has been frightened by the Republican state convention, is absolutely ridiculous.

If anything is to be done at the wrong time and in a childish way you may safely trust it to the governor.

Reason for the Call.

Middle River Pioneer: General newspaper comment on the extra session proposition is that it was called by the governor more in his own political interest than from any public spirit. We terest than from any public spirit. We apprehend though that the passage of a primary law is not going to be so easily disposed of as the governor thinks, and when passed it may not give him a cinch on the nomination. There are already mutterings of disapproval of the ordinary primary law which permits a minority of a party to nominate, and there will be those in the legislature who will make a hard fight for a second choice provision to prevent it and make the nominee receive a majority vote.

Farmer Ben Miffed.

Farmer Ben, in Austin Transcript: Well, Eberhart's crazy-notion extra session opened yesterday and if he thinks he's makin' political capital out of puttin' the state to the useless expense of $50,000 to $100,000 he'd better take the comfort out of it now for it's a bad one for him and helps to nail down his coffin lid. The state nominatin' convention for July 2 is recalled as well as the county conventions for June 28. The whole situation is up in the air. There was no need for the extra session as the state central committee could have given us a chance to vote our preference for governor at the appointed June primaries. The legislature later is no fool and ain't goin' to enact a direct primary nominatin' law for Eberhart's benefit lettin' him in on a small minority vote on account of a divided opposition. The second choice will prevail in defeatin' him. The wise way would be for all the progressives to combine on one candydate.

Snakes After the Floods.

New Orleans Times-Democrat: Poisonous snakes, driven to higher land by the high water in Lake Pontchartrain, have been playing havoc with fishermen, two of whom were bitten so severely yesterday that they had to be sent to the Charity hospital.

James Nary, 19 years old, a resident of Bucktown, occupies a cot in ward 66 as a result of being bitten on the great toe by a "lemontail" snake he encountered near West end shortly before daybreak while hunting bullfrogs. John Gallaty of Milneburg, the other snake victim, is not so seriously affected, although bitten in the same place by a "cottonmouth" snake.

"The 'cottonmouth' and the 'lemontail' are the only two snakes fishermen fear," said Nary at the hospital. "Moccasins and the other poisonous snakes amount to nothing. I catch moccasins in my hand and twist their heads off. It is the 'cottonmouths' and the 'lemontails' that bother us."

WALKING IN JUNE WEATHER.

Indianapolis News: It needs not the romance of imagination or youth to lighten the feet of the walker. April was wet and its winds blustry; May, to be sure, was the greening month, the growing month, the month prophetic of hope for summer; but give to the walker the early days in June, when leaves are yet light and grasses soft.

I meant to do my work today—
But a brown bird sang in the apple tree,
And a butterfly flitted across the field,
And all the leaves were calling me.
And the wind went sighing over the land,
Tossing the grasses to and fro,
And a rainbow held out its shining hand—
So what could I do but laugh and go?

Thus wrote LeGalliene with a rare touch of sympathy. We all should go, and we all would go, if we would only open our eyes and unseal our ears. Therein lies a recompense for living in a city from which the open fields are easy of access. The walker does not need to be a sentimentalist to follow the wind and the rainbow. He needs only to forget himself and that is what constitutes the perfect unity of nature in June—the forgetfulness of self. The 'voices of spring" have ever served to arouse a hope that needs little encouragement to expand into understanding. The Bible abounds in such imagery drawn from Egypt and the cedard hills of Lebanon and the misilt shores of Galilee. The psalmist records that "the heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth His handiwork." The woods and the fields, the hills and the seas form settings of prophecy.

In June each walker finds bypaths he never knew before. The winter effaces old footprints and snows covered the ruts; later summer will hide with grass and undergrowth most of what winter left. But in June these little trails are plain and each incites in the walker a desire to see what lies beyond Some may lead up over the hill, some down into ravines. Not unlike, yet more spiritually perceptive, was the understanding of Paul, who saw that "the glory of the celestial is one and the glory of the terrestrial is another Isaiah looked beyond the vale when he wrote "the grass withereth, the flower fadeth; but the word of our God shall stand forever." But understanding this the psalmist exclaimed: "Therefore will not we fear though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea." There are other things to be gained from a walk in June than physical strength. Seeing this might we not remember the exhortation of old. "Oh that men would praise the Lord for His goodness and for His wonderful works to the children of men!"

Thomas Hardy's Women.

Quiller-Couch in London Leader: I remember George Meredith's telling me earnestly that the serious artist in these days has perforce to be a knight to help woman; that hers is the cause, just now, for the man who is worth anything. Now, to be the worthy champion of a cause, you must first understand it; by which I mean, you must face its perplexities and trust to clear thinking to get you through them to what is essential. (For the other way—that of sentimentalising the business—is as false as it is damnably easy.)

So in his previous books Mr. Hardy had drawn women with many graces and many faults; he had shown how woman can be vain, variable, inconstant, sometimes treacherous, sometimes earth to a man seeking the stars, sometimes a mere light-of-love: and through these studies, as its dross and obscurities fall away, he gets to the pure metal of the problem. Fancy Bay, Bathsheba and their successors have served their purpose. They fall back into shadow and a clear classical figure emerges—"Tess of the D'Urbervilles: a Pure Woman."

Mr. Hardy tells us now that the subtitle was added, at the last moment, after he had read the final proofs. But that the after-thought came suddenly does not mean that it came without long, unconscious preparation. Genius is usually wiser than it knows. "It was disputed more than anything else in the book"—yes, thank Heaven! But it was hailed by those worthy to hail. "Melius fuerat non scribere"—a hundred time, no! "But there it stands"—yes, and will stand. Such a woman was Tess: to such a fate her feet were drawn down.

There things happen, as no sentimentalist can deny; and while they happen it is well that they should be narrated for our ruth, and the thought of it be intolerable until the thing itself be made impossible.

Intellectual Living.

Philip Gilbert Hamerton: The essence of intellectual living does not reside in extent of science or in perfection of expression, but in a constant preference for higher thoughts over lower thoughts. Here is the secret of that fascination which belongs to intellectual pursuits, that they reveal to us a little more, and yet a little more of the eternal order of the universe, establishing us so firmly in what is known, that we acquire an unshakable confidence in the laws which govern what is not, and never can be known.

"The Bishop's Finger."

London Daily News: When Bishop Welldon ventured to protest some time ago against the title of a public-house, which was called the Church Inn, a clergyman told him that he knew of a public-house called "The Bishop's Finger."

Theodore Shonts Urges Return to Individualism of the Forefathers.

Denounces Paternalistic Tendencies in Address to Drake Students.

Des Moines, Iowa, June 12.—Declaring that the spirit of unrest abroad is world-wide and that "the weakening of home ties and the loss of church influence have been accompanied the world over by increasing discontent, lessening of individual effort and a growth of paternalism," Theodore P. Shonts of New York today urged that the people of America get back to the "individualism of our forefathers." Mr. Shonts delivered the annual commencement address before a class of more than 200 at Drake university this forenoon.

Mr. Shonts' theme was "The Development of Individualism, the Duty of the Schools." After reciting the manner in which industrial development in the last hundred years had weakened home ties, he said the American people had become a community of "cliff dwellers in large cities; dwellers in cliffs inaccessible to the neighbor, where the individual is apt to regulate his conduct from the standard of selfish desires and not from the standard of public opinion."

Growth of Paternalism.

Discussing the growth of paternalism, Dr. Shonts said:

"In one breath the laws themselves are denounced, and in the next new laws are demanded seeking the intervention and support of the government in all of the ordinary affairs of life. The cry is for universal governmental activity. Whether it be called socialism, collectivism, communism, municipal operation or government ownership, the result is the same."

After noting some of the tendencies of what he termed "this ever-growing movement," particularly citing the individual outbreaks against established order, he said:

"We must get back, and the schools must get back to fundamentals; to the old-fashioned notion that respect for properly constituted authority is the one safeguard for the individual and the state.

Perpetuation of Weaklings.

"The schools must help us arrest further progress toward a form of government which has benevolence for its aim, but which can only result in the perpetuation of weaklings, the dependent and the disorderly, at the expense of the strong, the law-abiding and the self-reliant.

"Our forefathers sought for freedom from a despotic monarchy, and their descendents must not replace it with the tyranny of the meddlesome state. Development of individual initiative and responsibility will prevent this."

PROSPECTS GOOD NOW FOR ADJOURNMENT AT END OF PRESENT WEEK

ment providing for an income tax, has passed both branches.

Increase of the railroad gross earnings tax from 4 per cent to 5 per cent has passed the house and the prospects were good this morning that by the time these words are printed it will also have passed the senate.

State-wide primary with second choice provision passed the senate yesterday afternoon, and is now before the house.

Corrupt practices act has been acted upon by neither house as yet, but will take little time, and will pass both bodies soon.

Reapportionment Will Not Pass.

Reapportionment is the only thing left that can consume much time, and it is not likely that it will delay the session long. It is a certainty that it will not pass the senate, and that it will be promptly disposed of there even if the house passes it. It is not a certainty that it will even pass the house, for these reasons:

First, because of the conviction of house members that it will not pass the senate anyway.

Second, because of the realization that even if it should pass the house and go before the senate, in view of the fact that the pending bill does not affect the coming election, as it is not to be effective until May 1, 1913, there is nothing to fight for now which will not be gained at the regular session of 1913, when the most outspoken opponents of reapportionment have promised to support a reapportionment bill.

Third, because of the fear of house members that if they pass a reapportionment bill it will delay adjournment without accomplishing anything.

Fourth, because of the fear of Northern Minnesota members that if a vote is taken on reapportionment in the house, and the measure is beaten, it will hurt the cause of reapportionment in the regular session of 1913.

The situation on reapportionment in the house is about this:

Those opposed to reapportionment haven't enough votes to beat it.

Those directly interested in reapportionment haven't enough votes to pass it.

Between these two elements is a third element, holding the balance of power, on which the issue depends. This element consists of members from districts like those in the lower part of the Sixth congressional district, which will not be changed materially if at all by reapportionment, some in the Seventh district who are similarly situated, and those from Southern Minnesota who relaize the justice of reapportionment and are in favor of it—when it is worth while working for it.

This element wants to go home, knows that there is no hope for reapportionment at this session fears that action on it will delay adjournment and therefore it may vote against it.

In the meantime, the reapportionment bill is now before the house committee, which will act on it this afternoon or tomorrow.

Second Choice Opponents.

The case with which the state-wide primary bill with second choice attachment passed the senate yesterday afternoon is going to help a good deal in the house, where rather a menacing opposition to the second choice feature has been developing.

In the first place, it will be hard for the house members, who face an election in a few months to vote against a bill, or any essential feature of it, which passed the senate by so impressive a majority.

In the second place, it has been made pretty clear in the past few days that the opposition to the second choice comes from two elements—if it is really accurate to call them two instead of one. One element is composed of the supporters of Governor Eberhart, who have been moving heaven and earth, while the governor's spokesmen have been openly declaring that the governor is for any kind of state-wide primary at all, to beat the second choice provision.

The second element are those who represent interests which would naturally be expected to favor a state-wide primary law that would permit the nomination of candidates by a minority of the party votes.

The general recognition of the sources of most of the opposition to the second choice feature, together with the senate's overwhelming ratification of the bill, makes the position of those who will oppose this feature in the house extremely uncomfortable, if not entirely untenable.

Senate Passes Primary Bill.

The Haycraft-Knapp state-wide primary bill, with practically no essential changes, passed the senate yesterday afternoon after about five hours' debate on amendments, by a vote of 61 to 1, with one member absent. Senator L. O. Cooke of Wabasha, who voted against the bill, said that the state-wide primary, especially with the second choice provision, is the worst piece of political jobbery ever foisted on the state. The absentee was Senator J. M. Handlan of St. Paul.

The most interesting amendment that was adopted was that reported in The Herald last evening, providing for the non-partisan nomination and election of judges of all kinds, including probate judges, of county superintendents of schools and of city officers in cities of the first class—Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis. For this latter provision credit is due Senator H. W. Cheadle of Duluth, with incidental recognition of Senator Ole O. Sageng of Otter Tail county, who offered the amendment. Senator G. H. Sullivan of Stillwater proposed the non-partisan judiciary feature. Senator Sageng offered an amendment to the Sullivan amendment, which was adopted, taking in county superintendents and city officers in first class cities. Opposition having arisen, Senator Sageng offered to withdraw that part of his amendment affecting first class cities.

Senator Cheadle of Duluth objected to its being withdrawn, and succeeded in having it kept in the pending amendment, which was adopted by a large vote.

Pugh's Position.

The objection of Senator T. M. Pugh of Duluth, reported yesterday, was intended to apply to the nonpartisan city election and to the second choice feature, and not to the state-wide primary as a whole. Senator Pugh voted against these amendments and the second choice feature, but voted for the bill.

All hostile amendments were voted down in the senate yesterday afternoon. Aside from the nonpartisan features, the only amendments accepted were those proposed by Senator Haycraft, the author of the bill with Representative Cleon T. Knapp of Chisholm, taking care of a ticklish point in the application of the second choice provision, and by Senator Dwinnell of Minneapolis, excepting from the operation of the second choice provision city and county officers in Minneapolis and Hennepin counties, where voting machines are used.

The ticklish point referred to covers cases where more than one place is to be filled for the same office, as where two or three supreme justices are to be nominated, or where two or more house members are to be elected in the same district. Without some amendment, it was practically impossible to apply the second choice provision because it would be past the intelligence of almost any canvassing board to know where to credit second choice votes. Senator Haycraft's amendments, adopted 38 to 23—which figures furnish a much nearer estimate of the strength of the second choice principle than the final vote on the bill—provide that in all such cases the places to be filled shall be classified by numbers, and all candidates for such places shall be required to file for specific classes. For instance, if there are three house members to be elected at large, there will be three classes, numbered 1, 2 and 3. Each candidate must file in one of these classes. He cannot become a candidate in all. The effect, so far as voting is concerned, is as though the legislative district were divided. Then the second choice provision will apply just as though the district had but one place to fill.

Senator Moonan objected that this plan would deny the voter his full rights. His first choice might include two or more running in the same class, but he could vote only for one in each class. Senator Haycraft pointed out that this would not interfere with the voter's right any more than it would if the legislature, as it has a perfect right to do, should subdivide the territory concerned into geographical districts, and compel candidates to run in each of these districts.

Though the amendment is admittedly short of bringing about the ideal, it seemed the best way out of the complication, and it was adopted. In Wisconsin, where the system has been borrowed from, conditions are different because each house member has a district of his own, and there is no such situation as, for instance, in Otter Tail county, where there are four house members to be elected at large.

Interesting Amendment.

Senator Moonan of Waseca proposed an interesting amendment under which 10 per cent of the voters in any legislative district might propose, to be passed upon at the election, any public question, the object being to instruct the senators and representatives of that district how to vote on that question. This amendment was lost, 25 to 33.

Senator Moonan then proposed another amendment, which will some time be a part of the Minnesota primary law, allowing the initiation of candidacies for nomination by petition, as well as by the personal initiative of those seeking office. It has been pointed out that one defect of the present primary law is that the candidate must declare his candidacy, and that there is no way to draft a candidate who would hesitate to put himself in the position of seeking an office. Senator Moonan pointed out that better men can be secured in this way than by the present way, but his amendment was lost, 22 to 36.

The same fate befell an amendment proposed by Senator Benson which would allow nominations on 40 per cent of the first choice voters instead of requiring a majority. This, Senator Benson figured, would reduce the requirement of the elimination feature, which is preserved in the bill as it passed the senate; but it was beaten, 25 to 37.

The hardest fight, and the crucial fight of the day, was made on Senator Clague's amendment which would substitute for the elimination feature a provision that if no candidate received a first choice majority, first and second choices should be added together and the nomination given to the man having the highest total. Senator Sageng, as usual clearheaded, pointed out that second choice votes should be counted only when the first choice of those who voted them is eliminated. Senator Haycraft, who made a brilliant fight for the committee bill, also pointed out that by the Clague plan a voter's second choice would simply cross off his first choice vote. The amendment was lost, 13 to 39.

Senator Fosseen had a fantastic amendment which would give second choice votes only half value, and this was beaten, 13 to 44.

The bill was then passed, 61 to 1.

Now Before the House.

Following this action by the senate, the house elections committee made its bill square with the senate bill except as to the Hennepin county changes, which will be considered on the floor of the house, and voted to report it out as a committee bill. Representative Knapp of Chisholm opposed and defeated propositions for delay, and the action of the committee was nearly unanimous, only one or two members voting against the motion.

* * *

The senate yesterday afternoon received the favorable report of the committee on reception of bills on the gross earnings bill, and on motion of Chairman Fosseen made it a special order for this noon. Senator Moonan offered an amendment, to be considered today, providing that instead of proposing an increase, the legislature ask the people for a grant of power to increase the tax rate anywhere up to 7 per cent.

Senator Cheadle of Duluth also gave notice that he would offer an amendment requiring railroads to pay local assessments.

As both amendments involve separate constitutional questions, the feeling was, before the matter was taken up in the senate this noon, that both would be voted down and the bill passed as it came from the house.

DAINTY LUNCHEON.

Mrs. McMartin Hostess for Miss Prudden.

Miss Elsie Prudden, who will be one of this month's brides, was the guest of honor at a charming luncheon this afternoon at which Mrs. Robert McMartin of Lakeside was hostess. A color scheme of pink and white daintily carried out with sweet peas made a prettily appointed table, at which covers were laid for twelve. As the day was the birthday anniversary of the honor guest, she was presented with a pretty basket full of gifts after the luncheon by tiny little Miss Catherine Mary McMartin. The guests were:

Mesdames—
Arthur Hanford, Robert Bruce
Robert Johnson, Liggett,
Fred Waldron, William Arper.

Misses—
Prudden, Mildred Prudden,
Louana Phelps, Bessie Burgo,
Pansy Wirth, Bertha Hanford.

PLEASING CONCERT.

Excellent Program Given at Miss Berg's Testimonial.

That Miss Frances Berg is an unusually gifted pianiste was the opinion of every member of an appreciative audience which attended the testimonial concert given for her last evening at the Y. W. C. A by local musicians, under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Morton Dvorashak, under whom Miss Berg has received all of her training.

She played her numbers with an understanding and ability surprising in one so young. Her technique was adequate to the demands made by a difficult program, there was a rounding out of the phrasing and evident understanding of the use of the pedal apparent in her playing. She played with a delicacy and understanding of the demands of the numbers which were varied and long. Every number was played without notes and she was especially commended on that point also.

Opening with Schumann's "Fashingsschwank," a most difficult number, she played with an assurance of a much older artist and seemed perfectly at home all through every group.

The rest of the program was artistically rendered by well known artists, making a most enjoyable concert of the whole.

Miss Cartherine Morton sang two dainty songs delightfully and with a pretty poise. She responded to an insistent demand for an encore with a third effective little number.

George Suffel sang "Where'er You Walk" and "Invictus" magnificently, his full, rich voice being delightfully brought out in the two numbers, and he was forced to respond with an encore.

John Longtin of Superior was heard by most of the audience for the first time, and his fine, clear, well rounded tenor voice was a delightful surprise. He sang with ease and naturalness and gave an encore number which was enjoyed equally as much as "Oh, So Pure," his first song.

Miss Florence Hyland, soprano, sang two of Cadman's Indian love songs, which were two of the best numbers on the program. Her voice was displayed to good advantage in both of her songs and an artistic rendition made them particularly appealing.

Miss Wally Heymar, as usual, appealed to the hearts of her audience with her violin numbers. She played as only an unusually gifted artist could play and interpreted her numbers with a true artist's ability. To still a perfect storm of applause she responded with Schumann's "Traumerei."

Mrs. Dwershak played the accompaniments with sympathetic understanding and professional finish, and on the whole she should be complimented for an artistic concert, every number of which was thoroughly enjoyed.

Kansas Woman Helpless

Lawrence, Kas.—Mr. J. F. Stone, of this city, says, "My wife suffered for ten years from womanly troubles, during two years of which she was totally helpless. She was examined by many physicians, some of whom gave her up to die. Finally she began to take Cardui, and since then has greatly improved in health. The tonic, strengthening, and restorative effects of Cardui, the woman's tonic, on the womanly constitution, are the most valuable qualities of this popular medicine. Cardui acts specifically on the womanly constitution. Half a century of success proves that Cardui will do all that is claimed for it. Try it for your trouble.

AT ART EXHIBIT.

Mrs. Lenore Hamblin Will Discuss City Planning.

Mrs. Lenore Hamblin of St. Paul will give a lecture this evening at the free art exhibit at the courthouse on "City Planning" which promises to be one of the most interesting talks of the series arranged for the week. She will illustrate her talk with drawings, drafts and architects' plans and will tell how cities can be laid out scientifically and will also speak of how cities have been successfully made over.

She will also speak of parks and playgrounds and members of the Playground association would find her talk especially filled with helpful suggestions.

Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock Bishop James McGolrick will lecture on "American Art" and Friday at 8 p. m., Allen Albert of the Minneapolis Tribune will speak on the pictures of the State Art association.

Mrs. Olberg of the Minneapolis Handicraft guild gave two lectures yesterday which interested the crowds which visited the exhibit.

Her talk on "Flax and Its Artistic Possibilities in Minnesota," which she gave last evening was especially interesting. She exhibited several specimens of fine linen, coarser linen and rugs made of the coarest, all of the fiber of the short stemmed flax.

"Flax," she said, "is raised chiefly for the seed in Minnesota and the fiber is thrown away. About 8,000,000 tons of flax fiber, which might easily have had a high commercial value, was thrown away last year through the shortsightedness of Minnesota agriculturalists. In Europe flax is raised for the fiber and is not cut till the stalks are two feet or more high. When flax is grown for the seed, it is cut when the stems are but a foot tall and farmers always have supposed that these short stalks were worthless for fiber and have thrown them away. A recently invented machine uses the short foot-long stems for the making of linen which will be the means of making a tremendous saving.

"Minnesota is the native home of the flax and should be the greatest producing center for it in the country. Linen making is one of the most important and best paying industries and all that we need to make Minnesota foremost in this industry is the backing of a few capitalists for a year or so."

Mrs. Olberg's talk on Scandinavian art and handicraft, which she gave in the afternoon, was also full of interest. She showed several designs and specimens of the handiwork of the women of Sweden, Norway and Denmark.

CLOQUET WEDDING.

Matt Mulrooney and Miss Toland Are Married.

Cloquet, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Mary Toland, daughter of Hugh Toland of this city, and Matt Mulrooney of Cloquet were married this morning at high mass at the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart, Rev. Father Lemmer officiating. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Ella Brown of Minneapolis, and the bridegroom by Paul Leonard of Cloquet. Both ladies were charmingly dressed, the bride in cream colored meteor silk with veil and lilies of the valley wreath, and her maid in a handsome white gown. The bride's bouquet was of cream roses and her maid's flowers were pink roses. A wedding breakfast was served after the ceremony at the home of the bride's father on Third street, to the relatives in Cloquet, William Toland and wife of Duluth, Robert Brown of Minneapolis and a few intimate friends of the young people. Mr. and Mrs. Mulrooney left on the noon train for a wedding trip East, after which they will be at home in Cloquet.

THE EVENING STORY

FADED ROSES

By Thomas Moulton.

As Marjorie Lester set out for the railway station, her heart was singing and she was thrilling with a great happiness. Eighteen years had passed since she said "Good-bye!" to Jack Winstanley. He had spent those years in South Africa and now he was coming back to her. He had asked her to go and meet the boat at the landing stage.

When she had watched the mighty liner move slowly away from the dockside with Jack aboard she was just eighteen. And now she was thirty-six. Her mirror told her she was no longer young. Her face was like a faded rose—touched with the pain of long and lonely waiting.

As the train thundered along, every instant bringing her neare to the man she had waited for, she t.id to think why she had never realized until now how time had changed her and him.

The crowd at the landing stage was rapidly dispersing. The people who had arrived by the great liner, and those who had come to meet them, were hurrying away in laughing, joyous parties, content with the great gladness of the moment. Only two people remained—a man and a woman.

The man was standing alone, apparently expecting someone who had not arrived to meet him. His hair was turning gray about the temples, and his sun-tanned face was thin and haggard. Now and then he glanced curiously at the waiting woman, and eventually approached her with a hesitation that was evident in every movement.

"I wonder if I can be of any service to you?" the traveller inquired, raising his travelling-cap awkwardly. "It may be that you and I are in a similar difficulty."

"You are very kind," she replied, trying to conceal her shyness and distress, "I came to meet a friend who doesn't seem to have arrived. Do you—"

She hesitated. She was about to ask him if Mr. John Winstanley had been among the passengers. But she was very shy—too shy even to mention her lover's name to a stranger.

"We seem to be equally unfortunate; I also was expecting to see a friend who evidently hasn't come."

At that instant a feeling of dizziness came over Marjorie. She staggered slightly, and the man led her towards a trunk that was near at hand.

"You are very kind," Marjorie said; "you see it has been—it has been rather a surprise."

"Yes. I can imagine that your disappointment has been great. Where do you wish to go? If you'll tell me, I'll find out all about the train."

"I must go back to Cleveland, I suppose," she said hopelessly.

"Cleveland?" he repeated. "That is lucky, isn't it? I am going to Cleveland myself. Will you let me call a cab?"

Without another word she allowed him to hail a vehicle at the end of the landing stage and assist her into it. It rumbled to the station and she scarcely glanced at the man opposite. Suddenly Marjorie leaned back in the corner of the compartment, white to the lips. She heard him say something about a flask, and hastily roused herself.

"I am quite well now," she murmured.

"Do you think I can help you in any way?" he asked as he watched the color slowly returning to her face. "Perhaps your friend arrived after all. If you will give me the name—"

"It doesn't matter, thank you!" she replied a little stiffly. "Besides—"

"But it does matter," he said. "I might have known him."

"Suppose it isn't a—a 'him'?"

"Ah, but I know it is!" he said, gently. "I ought perhaps to tell you about a man I know, who was on the boat. You will pardon me, I hope, if I seem too familiar; but this man was coming home after a long absence in South Africa. He was engaged to be married to a woman he had left in America many years ago. He loved the girl so dearly that nothing in the world could change his love. As we neared home he had his misgivings, because he had changed so much in appearance that he was afraid she might not recognize him. He was also afraid that those outward changes would make a difference in her love for him."

"Not to a woman's," said Marjorie, softly. "It is only men who imagine such things."

"But some men don't imagine them. —the men who love with the love that lasts."

He stirred suddenly and two thin brown hands had closed over hers. The gray head bent forward until the pale, dry lips touched her forehead.

"Marjorie!" he cried. "Marjorie, my dear love, don't you recognize me?"

He put his arms around her and kissed her on the lips. For a second she tried to resist; then she clung to him, sobbing.

"So you knew me all the time?" he asked at length, reproachfully.

"No, Jack," she replied, softly. "Only for the last few minutes. And when I thought you had not recognized me I imagined it was because I had changed so greatly. You see, Jack, I have grown old."

He laughed, boyishly, but there was a tinge of sadness in the laugh.

"And I was thinking just the same thing, Marjorie. See what an old mummy I have become! But you are mistaken; you can't have altered much, for I recognized you the instant I saw you on the landing-stage." The fib came easily. "No," he added, "you are the same old Marjorie, the same old sweetheart!"

His eyes shone and his voice was very soft; and then it was that Marjorie wondered why she had not recognized his voice at the first word he spoke on the landing-stage.

ATTACK BY ROOSEVELT

National Committee Scored for Its Decision on Indiana Delegates.

Big Mass Meeting Is Planned in Chicago By His Friends.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 12.—With an attack on his opponents in the Republican national committee and on President Taft, Col. Roosevelt has again protested against the course of affairs at Chicago. In a statement issued at Sagamore Hill, he said Mr. Taft assumes "that the presidency is to be treated as a gift within the bestowal of the politicians, in defiance of the duly expressed wish of the people."

"Such conduct," Col. Roosevelt writes, "comes dangerously near biting treason to the whole spirit of our institutions, to the whole spirit of democratic free government."

The former president lays especial stress on the action of the committee in seating the Taft delegates from the Thirteenth district of Indiana, notwithstanding the fact, he said, that the Roosevelt men were clearly in the majority in the convention which was called to elect these delegates.

"Theft and Fraud."

Col. Roosevelt's statement says, in part:

"The question at Chicago becomes clearer with every vote of the national committee. It is simply whether the people have the right to nominate whoever they wish for the highest office in their gift, or whether, by deliberate theft and fraud, certain machine leaders, acting in the interests of special privileges, are to be permitted to deprive the people of this right. By an overwhelming majority, where they have had the opportunity to express their wishes at the primaries, the plain people, the rank and file of the Republican party, have repudiated Mr. Taft.

Crane and Murphy.

"Massachusetts has just defeated Mr. Crane as a delegate to the Chicago convention. But Mr. Crane is in Chicago acting under the orders of Mr. Barnes in the steam roller tactics.

"Franklin Murphy has just been defeated in New Jersey as a candidate for delegate and all twenty-six New Jersey delegates are for me. But Mr. Murphy is on the committee in Chicago, taking part in the effort to pack the convention against the choice of the Republicans in his own state.

"Mr. Penrose has just been defeated for delegate in Pennsylvania, but he is a Taft leader on the national committee. Mr. Mulvane of Kansas has just been defeated for national committeeman in Kansas, Mr. William Allen White taking his place. But Mr. Mulvane is on the national committee acting for Mr. Penrose.

"The Taft people were overwhelmingly beaten in Kansas and Pennsylvania, yet Messrs. Mulvane and Penrose, the two Taft lieutenants, are foremost in the effort to thwart the will of the people who have just defeated them.

"Who Are the Regulars?"

"These men prattle about 'regularity'. Who are the regulars? The great majority of the Republican rank and file who have just overwhelmingly repudiated the bosses, or the bosses who have just been overwhelmingly repudiated by the rank and file? The national committeemen like Penrose, Mulvane, Murphy and company have no claim to speak for the Republican party, have no claim to consider themselves regular. They have just been repudiated by the Republican party. They have no wish for Republican success."

After reviewing at some length the results in several states where primary elections were held, the statement continues:

"Mr. Taft has been repudiated by the people, and he now appeals to his representatives in the national committee, half of whom have themselves also been repudiated, and asks them to force his nomination on the rank and file of the Republican party who have declared that they do not wish him.

Bosses and People.

"Mr. Taft, at one period of the campaign, said I was unjust to him because I said that the bosses were for him and the people against him. Events have proved that I was right. The people were against Mr. Taft in his own state of Ohio. They were against him in New Jersey, in Maryland, in Maine and in Vermont. They were against him overwhelmingly in Pennsylvania and Illinois, in Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, South Dakota, North Dakota, Wisconsin, Washington, Oregon and California.

"The people are against him. Who are in his favor? Who are trying to secure his nomination at Chicago? Mr. Barnes of New York; Mr. Crane of Massachusetts, who has been beaten as delegate in Massachusetts; Mr. Franklin Murphy of New Jersey, who was defeated as a delegate in that state; Mr. Mulvane, who has been repudiated in Kansas; Mr. Penrose, who has been repudiated in Pennsylvania; Mr. McKinley, who has been repudiated in Illinois; Mr. Guggenheim, of Colorado.

"How do these bosses hope to nominate Taft? What they did in the Thirteenth Indiana district supplies the answer. I have said—and the acts of my supporters have made good my words—that I do not wish one delegate slated for me if there is a reasonable doubt in his case.

The Thirteenth Indiana.

"In the Thirteenth Indiana district, the convention which assembled to elect two delegates to Chicago, contained a clear and uncontested majority of Roosevelt men. But the chairman, a Taft man, refused a roll call, and declared the Taft delegates elected on a viva voce vote, whereupon the majority of the convention elected two Roosevelt delegates. Affidavits of all the members of the majority were laid before the committee, showing that a clear majority of the members of the connection by their own sworn statements, had voted for Roosevelt, and three other affidavits of members were submitted showing that these three men had voted neither for Roosevelt nor for Taft; so that the proof was absolute that its Taft delegates had obtained only a minority of the convention. Yet the national committee seated the two men, the fraudulency to whose claims had thus been shown."

Mass Meeting Friday.

Chicago, Ill., June 12.—Roosevelt leaders have announced details of a mass meeting for Friday, which will be staged at Chicago's largest theater, as a spectacular preliminary to the opening of the Renublican national convention next Tuesday. Congressman William Kent of California, who made the announcement of the proposed demonstration, said that the principal addresses at the meeting would be delivered by Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, and Attorney Francis J. Heney of San Francisco. It is also probable that Governor Johnson of California and Governor Stubbs of Kansas will speak.

Developments indicate that the fight between the Taft and Roosevelt forces in the sessions of the national committee for contested seats is almost equalled by the "gumshoe" campaign being made for delegates listed in the uninstructed column. Although many of the uninstructed delegates already have been pledged by state leaders to either Taft or Roosevelt, campaign managers privately have expressed ability to secure a block of fifty or more for their candidate. In case the decision by the national committee in the contest cases send Taft and Roosevelt into the convention on practically on even basis, the uninstructed men may determine the final outcome of the fight, it is argued.

R. R. McCormick of Chicago has been named by William Flinn of Pittsburg as chairman of the committee, which will meet and direct the activities of Roosevelt delegates before and during the national convention. Mr. McCormick will name his own list of assistants, who will number about 100.

Startling Secrets of The World's Most Famous Self-Made Beauty

Valeska Suratt, the Most Captivating Actress on the American Stage, to Unriddle Her Magic Art of Self-Made Loveliness to the Readers of The Herald.

Miss Valeska Suratt

In the Witchery of Her Self-Made Beauty

We transmit below the first little message from Valeska Suratt to our readers:

My Dear Friends:—It is somewhat embarrassing to speak of myself, for my friends persist in calling me beautiful. It is delicious, indeed, to be called beautiful, but it is even more inspiring to feel that one's own efforts have brought it all about. To tell now these secrets of mine is not of my own choosing. But I have been importuned by so many of my friends to shed a ray of light upon the little corner of my dressing-room where it has all happened, that I have submitted to their desires.

First, I want to say, that the customary rules of beauty so often advised, of bathing, exercises, calisthenics, eating, sleeping and mode of living will have very little weight. Such rules as they are so often given, are burdensome, rarely effective and tiresome. What I have achieved has been rather in spite of any such strict rules. My methods have been simple and usually even more effective than I had ever hoped for. These methods will be so simple and inexpensive, (and I can assure you so surprising) that the well-to-do woman or the working girl can achieve the beauty that it brings. All I can do to make my less fortunate sisters obtain what every woman ought to have, I will do, and thank The Herald for giving me the opportunity. Next Wednesday I will begin the revelations that you will surely enjoy.

Valeska Suratt

VALESKA, the thrilling, the bewitching, wonderful Valeska, before whom thousands have abandoned themselves to the caressing joy of an ecstatic half hour to listen to her and look upon her bubbling beauty, is to have a personal, heart to hearty beauty-chat with our readers in these columns every Wednesday.

The Herald has scored a great triumph in securing from Valeska Suratt herself what she has never before chosen to reveal; for a self-made beauty is Valeska, with a superb charm all of her own industrious making, by means that are new, refreshingly wonderful, deliciously effective. And the gem that has resulted from these is Valeska, as you see her, and as you will never forget her.

Valeska Suratt is the new flower on the American stage, not the dolled, kinky wig variety of powder and rouge, which the round moon of the spot-light deceives into a resemblance of beauty, but like a marbled Venus in life, whose features faultless in line and texture can stand the scorching criticism of the sun. It is a maddening beauty, yet not born, but made.

With the lure of Broadway in her veins, that national pathway of wasted hopes, she became a histronic climber to the top of the world's stage in a fraction of the time in which the ordinary star takes to make the dizzy trip. The emotional ecstacy of her acting carried her hearers into palpitating frenzy and her name was made—Valeska of "The Whooping Cough," and "The Red Rose." She has the reputation of being the most expensively gowned woman on the American stage, but whether it is the elegance of her raiment, or the twenty-carat diamond solitaire that is the Suratt pride, the diamond ring which is the gift of Duke Boris of Russia, or the string of diamonds that encircles the left ankle, or the bewildering Suratt hats that may magnetize the eye, the beauty of her face and form will be the most lingering of all your impressions.

Miss Suratt is known today as the greatest exponent of the art of self-made beauty. No one rivals her; no one equals her. Endowed with but ordinary charms in her younger years, she, with almost miraculous ingenuity set about in her own peculiar way to endow herself with the bloom and radiance which the ordinary "beauty rules" had denied her.

Today, thousands go, if not to enjoy her acting, then to gaze upon her loveliness.

The secrets of Miss Suratt are to be laid bare in the columns of The Herald, and to appear every Wednesday. There is no question but that these revelations will create a sensation, as the privileged few who have seen the first of these articles of Miss Suratt know but too well.

These articles are not to be the ordinary beauty lectures, which are now so common, no theoretical essays on how to live, what to eat, how long to sleep, how to exercise, how often to bathe, etc., but real, simple, substantial instructions. The secrets themselves will be in black and white.

These beauty talks will be truly Valeskian, told only as Valeska herself can tell them. She has graciously agreed to retain nothing, but to tell every one of her secrets, and every Wednesday in these columns, will be revealed her magic art of beauty-making.

Miss Valeska Suratt

Next Wednesday will begin this incomparable series. No woman can afford to be without it. It means the end of the ceaseless search for beauty that so many women have failed to find. Every woman, putting Miss Suratt's simple methods into practice can achieve what she has believed never could happen to her. It will be readily seen after you have read these chats that any woman however bereft of personal charms may surely acquire them by a mere determination to do as instructed.

* * *

The experience and success of Miss Suratt, glorious as it is, demonstrates conclusively what most women have never before realized, that contour, complexion and texture of the skin may be so treated as to become incomparably beautiful in spite of the previous lack of beautiful lines, natural grace and charm.

The haggard, worn look, the dull-looking eyes, the faulty poise of the facial muscles, the spotty complexion, the lack of form of bust, neck and shoulders may give way to a radiant fullness, and to the charm of skin texture that people call queenly and beautiful.

There are many things upon which beauty seekers have their doubts; they are in the dark as to what to do and how to do them, details about themselves that people who know never advise them upon. For this reason, Miss Suratt has agreed to see that all personal letters of inquiry addressed to her will be answered in these columns when possible, and when space forbids, then by mail. All letters of inquiry should be addressed to Miss Valeska Suratt personally, care of The Herald.

* * *

Let nothing escape you that will appear in this extraordinary series of beauty secrets that is to begin next Wednesday, for you will be able to see in all she says how it directly applies to you. Don't miss next Wednesday's Herald. If you do not already receive The Herald at your home, have the newsdealer save one for you.

PENITENTIARY TWINE PLANT STARTS SEPT. 15.

Madison, Wis., June 12.—The binder twine plant at the state prison at Waupun will be ready for operation Sept. 15. Ralph E. Smith, president of the state board of control, said that the equipment for the machine shop and the necessary material are being placed in position. It is asserted that the construction of the twine plant and the knowledge that it is to be operated here resulted in cheaper twine than had heretofore been offered.

IMMENSE ORE DEPOSITS ARE BEING SHOWN UP.

That the deposit of iron ore, recently discovered in sections 25, 63-12, and 30, 63-12, on the Vermilion range, is far vaster than was at first supposed is plainly indicated by recent developments.

The ground in section 25, owned by the Silverman estate, is being developed by L. M. Fargo of the Wells-Fargo Express company, and his mining and business assccciates of Chicago. On that property at a depth of 252 feet a drift was run 90 feet to the north, through paintrock and soapstone, and then struck the ore body. From that point the drift was continued in two branches, one going 44 feet to the northwest and the other 40 feet to the northeast, both being in ore all the way. The ore is high-grade Bessemer. It assays about 67 per cent metallic iron.

The ground in section 30 is being developed by G. A. St. Clair and Alfred Merritt. Here a steam shovel is being worked and ore has been stripped for a distance of 90 feet toward section 25. Diamond drills have proven the existence of iron ore all the way to the line of section 25.

The shaft on the property in section 25 is but a short distance from the section line. There is a distance of 3,300 feet, however, between the two shafts. This indicates that there must be a tremendous body of ore in the section 30 property.

TERM WILL EXPIRE SOON

Last Meeting of the Present Charter Commission Is Called.

Will Probably Leave Framing of Commission Plan Charter to Successors.

This evening the charter commission will hold a regular meeting at the city hall, and among other things will proceed to clean up the business before it, as its term of office will expire July 14. It will then be up to the judges of the district court to appoint a commission to succeed the present one. In view of the short time they still have to serve, it is believed unlikely that the members of the commission will initiate any new work, but will merely clear decks for the benefit of their successors.

However, it is quite likely that the matter of a change in the charter, permitting of the establishment of a commission form of government will come up for discussion. A year ago a committee was appointed to frame a charter based on the commission plan, but when the legality of the act permitting it was attacked in court, this committee quit work and since then nothing has been done. The present commission will likely leave the arduous labor of framing such a charter for the men who will succeed the present body. The way is now clear for the adoption of the commission plan, as the state supreme court has declared it constitutional.

The present charter commission consists of T. T. Hudson, Charles R. Haines, M. B. Cullum, H. H. Phelps, T. W. Hugo, Thomas Olafson, E. A. Silberstein, W. E. McEwen, J. H. Crowley, C. A. Congdon, John G. Williams, Scott A. Foster, C. F. Macdonald and Bert Fesler.

SIXTY AVIATORS ENTER FOR EVENTS AT CHICAGO.

Chicago, June 12.—Sixty American and foreign aviators have wired and written to Chicago reserving hangar space at the Cicero flying field of the Aero Club of Illinois in anticipation of the aviation activity in and around Chicago this fall. On the list are three of the thirteen entrants in the Gordon-Bennett international trophy race, which will be run Sept. 9.

Another event which is bringing the aviators here is the fact that the American grand circuit of 1,800 miles around the central part of the United States will start and finish in Chicago. This will begin Sept 16.

Superfluous Hair

DeMiracle

Removes It Quickly With Certainty and Absolute Safety.

This perfected method for removing superfluous hair is the cleanliest and most convenient to use. It is decidedly the surest, safest, quickest and most inexpensive depilatory known. It is acknowledged the world over by eminent authorities as the only absolutely non-poisonous preparation that dissolves hair, thereby taking the vitality out of it, consequently retarding and preventing an increased growth.

Remember, real danger and disfigurement lurk in the use of so-called superfluous hair "cures." The real harm does not always manifest itself with the first few applications, but the injury is plainly noticeable after frequent and continued use. Furthermore, after each removal, the hair grows out again more rapidly, coarser and stiffer than before, and eventually it will become so coarse that no preparation will be strong enough to remove it without ruining the skin.

No stronger argument can be advanced that DeMiracle is the only satisfactory and reliable superfluous hair remover ever offered the public than the fact that it has stood the test of time. It was the largest selling depilatory ten years ago, and more of it has been sold each year since than the combined sales of the nostrums. The mere fact that fake-dangerous preparations are short-lived, should alone be sufficient warning to avoid the use of any depilatory but that of proven merit.

Don't be deceived or deluded by alluring and impossible claims of imposters. Tell any one of them that DeMiracle Chemical Company will forfeit Five Thousand Dollars if it can be proven that their so-called superfluous hair "cures" ever eradicated one single growth of superfluous hair.

All reliable dealers sell and recommend DeMiracle, knowing it to be the best and safest depilatory. Some unprincipled ones will tell you they cannot procure it so that they may more easily influence you to purchase their own or possibly some other dangerous, worthless substitute under another label for a few cents more profit. To protect you from just such imposition, if your dealer will not supply you, mail us $1.00 and we will send you, all charges paid, in plain, sealed wrapper, a $1.00 bottle of DeMiracle, and we will make you a present of a full-size jar of DeMiracle Cream. If you care to, give us the name of the dealer who tries to sell you a "just as good" imitation or substitute.

Remember, DeMiracle is the only depilatory that has ever been indorsed by reputable physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, medical journals, prominent magazines and newspapers. And, mind you, every one is genuine; if they were not, we could be compelled by law to discotinue publishing them.

Write for free booklet, which will be mailed, sealed in plain envelope. DeMiracle Chemical Company, Dept. 3E, Park Ave., 129th and 130th Streets, New York. You can always procure DeMiracle without argument in Duluth from I. Freimuth.

"GETTING AROUND" THE ASSESSOR

Some Methods Followed By Duluthians to Avoid Payment of a Personal Property Tax.

"I guess that city assessors and their assistants have about as good an opportunity to study human nature in the raw as any class of men you can find," mused J. A. Scott, the retiring city assessor, this morning.

He was talking of the curious people one meets at times and of the excuses and explanations which they will put up in defense of their pocketbooks.

"You may find the shortest way to a man's heart by the stomach route, but I can tell you that you will find the shortest way to his head and tongue through his pocketbook, and don't ever forget it. My, the stories some people tell to hold on a few cents from the city! The stories that some of the men who work each spring on the personal property assessment bring in are laughable, but mostly crude, for there are only a few brilliant souls who can tell a clever lie on the spur of the moment. Most of them flounder or tell a good one in an unconvincing manner. Usually it is easy to detect the flaw in the armor.

"One of our assessors this spring had a funny experience with a Scotsman. Of course, I cannot give actual names in telling these things, you understand. This Scot was visited by the assessor and asked to be shown the valuables in the house. The Scot demurred, but the assessor insisted. 'Naw,' said the Scot, 'ye canna come that on me. Assess my furniture! Make me pay taxes on it! They didna do that in Scotland and I will na stand for it here.' And the r's sounded like the roll of a drum. This Scot could not be convinced until he had consulted Simon Clark or some other Scotsman whom he would trust and he would not let the assessor into the house until then.

Assessor and Collector.

"There are a great many times where an assessor finds a piano or a sewing machine in a house and when he starts to list it is met with the assertion taat it has been left there by Mrs. So-and-So, who moved away and left it until she would know where they were going to settle definitely. That is a common happening when assessing. Not long ago a certain woman of the West end was caught in a manner that embarrased both her and the assessor after giving this kind of an excuse. She had scarcely uttered the words when a man entered the room, having been innocently admitted by the woman's little daughter. He excused himself when the saw the assessor present, but said that he was merely there to collect the monthly installment on the piano. She paid it, and the assessor listed the piano and got out without further humiliating the woman by waiting for explanations.

"And speaking of pianos and sewing machines: One day this spring an assessor gained admittance to a house up in the hill district. He noticed a fine new sewing machine, possessing all of the latest fixings—indeed a first-class machine and one that would cost a top notch price. The woman of the house, noticing the assessor look at the machine and begin to use his pencil, told him that he could not assess it for the machine and the parlor furniture were mortgaged. She was highly indignant when she found that such a condition made no difference and told the assessor just about what she thought of the laws. In fact for the moment she was quite anarchistic.

Not at Home.

"There is one woman in the city—her location makes no difference—who seemed to know when an assessor showed up at her door, and on those occasions no amount of ringing or rapping could make her attend. She became notorious in the assessor's office for this trait. It seemed that seeing in the newspapers that the personal property assessments were about to be made, she would be on her guard, and when strange men came in the neighborhood, she would ask neighbors upon whom they called, who they were. When she had the assessor spotted, that settled it—there was nothing doing. One assessor last year took a round about way of appraising her stuff. Chance helped him too. He noticed an advertisement in The Herald's 'Rooms for Rent' column, asking those desirous of obtaining a room to call at a certain number. He knew it was at least somewhere near her house, and on looking it up in the directory, found that it was the home of the lady mentioned.

'So he wrote her telling her that he would be up the following evening to see the room. He called all right and was most graciously received. He looked over the room, got a glimpse at the others upstairs and told her that he could not decide until he would see his partner who would room with him. On reaching the lower floor again he said that he was thirsty and asked for a drink of water. The lady ushered him into the living room and brought the water to her 'prospective roomer.' While she was getting the water he had a fine chance to size up the situation, and on leaving said she would hear from him again. She did—in the form of a notice to pay her taxes. I understand that she thinks the assessor's department in general is made up of a lot of ungentlemanly boors.

"Time and time again we have found a sewing machine or some other taxable stuff hidden by rubbish piled over it, and were told that the room was used for storage more than for anything else. Some times these ruses have worked, but they have been worked so often that our assessors usually dig under the refuse to see what it hides.

"This spring a certain man who happened to be home when the assessor called was asked the value of his watch. He said that it was not his for he had taken it from another man merely as security for a loan of $10 for thirty days. When this report came under my notice I remembered to have heard the man say to a number of us some weeks before, displaying a handsome gold watch, that he had traded his old watch for it, and chuckle over the feeling that he had got the best of the trade. So the watch was entered on the list and he did not kick when he paid.

"You would be surprised how often our assessors are able to get a correct line on what taxable property people possess through the spite of neighbors. It is not at all infrequent that after an assessor has left one house and entered the next, the woman in the latter house will want to know what her neighbor admitted, and she will tell us where the neighbor has been holding out. This kind of women often tell us what to look out for in many houses before we visit them, and armed with this information the rest is easy.

"You get a good hater—man or woman—and they make life one grand sweet song for the assessor, while in the neighborhood which their tongues cover.

"Oh this assessing job, while not a pleasant one, has its cheerful moments."

REDS FOLLOW WHITES' PLAN

Indian Tribes Organizing Into Brotherhood to Swing Legislation.

Eighty Thousand Will Be Enrolled From Sixty or Seventy Tribes.

W. H. Lyons, a member of the Mississippi band of the Chippewa Indian tribe, is in the city on his way from Washington, D. C., to his home in Ball Club in the northern part of the state. Mr. Lyons while here discussed the new movement which the Indian tribes of the nation are taking. That is the formation of the Brotherhood of North American Indians, the object being to secure greater concentration in the work which the Indians have to do to secure their rights from the national government.

Ever since the white man began to crowd the Indian back the redman's efforts to hold his own have been practically individual or at most each movement has been backed by a mere handful of his race, while the opposition odds were overwhelming. Recently, says Mr. Lyons, some of the more advanced members of the Indian race have learned that the methods of the white man to gain what he wants are made through co-operation. Even in the face of it being a stupendous task, says Mr. Lyons, with the various tribes scattered all over the country, these Indians decided to organize the Brotherhood of North American Indians.

Through this method, he points out, when a tribe requires assistance in securing favorable legislation or rights from the department of Indian affairs or any other department, it will have the aid of the brotherhood hand this it is expected will wield a powerful influence in the national capital, where the headquarters of the brotherhood will be established. The present president is Robert C. Adams, a Delaware half-breed, who lives in Washington. Between sixty and seventy tribes, consisting of about 80,000 Indians, are expected to be enrolled very soon. Mr. Lyons is one of the organizers and will endeavor to get all of the Chippewa Indians interested.

Mr. Lyons' mission to Washington was in behalf of the Chippewa nation, endeavoring to secure for a number of them a full quota of land, which they believe belongs to them. When the Chippewa Indians were offered land on the White Earth reservation fifteen years ago those who agreed to move there and settle on the land were given 160 acres each, while those who would not so agree were given only 80 acres each. The latter feel that they should have a full 160 acres and are now endeavoring to get the national government to cede to them the extra eighty acres from the forest reserve in the northern part of the state.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

Activities of Other Municipalities, Which Might or Might Not Be Copied in Duluth.

IN SOUTH BEND, Ind., an ordinance against public flirting has just been passed. Both men and women come under its strict provisions, and a heavy penalty is provided for those who violate it. The maximum fine is $100, and to this may be added a jail sentence of thirty days. The new ordinance, which passed the city council with only one dissenting vote, is aimed at the male flirt and woman street walker. However, a woman may be held for flirting the same as a man, and is liable to an equally heavy fine. Loafing about any public place or building constitutes an offense, if indulged in by either men or women, and the violator is liable to arrest and imprisonment.

Just now the police of Duluth are making a vigorous campaign against these pests. Street walkers are being gathered in ruthlessly, and while few of them find their way into court a good many are being given an unmistakable invitation to seek other climes, in disobedience of which they will be given free board in the county jail for a time. Male mashers have been under constant surveillence and are summarily dealt with when found. Duluth has a "move on" ordinance which gets the same results as the flirting ordinance.

BOYS' DEPARTMENT CABINET HOLDS LAST MEETING OF YEAR

The boys' department cabinet met last evening at the home of the president, Rex St. Clair. The following members were present: Julius Nolte, Charles Little, Ledru Bevis, Caldwell Harris, Russell Duncan, Warren Moore, Edward Scriven, Douglas Walker, William Eklund, N. D. McLeod.

The meeting was the formal closing of the 1912 cabinet year.

A committee was appointed to nominate the members for the coming season's work. Nine of last year's men will graduate and will attend university this year. The first week in September, the new cabinet will meet with as many of the alumni as are in the city and the work for the year will be planned.

The outing committee reported that the summer work was well planned. Activities will be conducted all summer with special swimming periods, weekly outings, short camps, two big camps; Camp Whiteside at Zenith island for one week, July 30 to Aug. 5, and Camp Miller for two weeks, Aug. 19 to 31.

Secretary McLeod will leave tonight for the secretary's conference at Silver Bay, N. Y. William Eklund and Henry Hallenbeck will have charge of the boys' building and Earl Brookes, president of the West Duluth boys' club, will look after the work there for the next few days.

Saturday the weekly outing will be a fishing party. Boys' department members will meet at the boys' building at 9:30. They will meet the West Duluth club at Lester park bridge at 10 o'clock. Each boy will bring his lunch and fishing tackle. Next Saturday the trip will be a bicycle trip to Pike lake.

DEMOCRATIC CONTESTS WILL BE ENDED QUICKLY.

Baltimore, Md., June 12.—The contests to be decided by the Democratic national committee the day before the Baltimore convention are expected to be settled withir a few hours. National Committeeman Daniels of North Carolina, said the few contests were simple in character.

"As the national committee meets at noon on June 24," said Mr. Daniels, "there will not be any time for extended argument. The contests hinge largely on questions of regularity of election, and have not the same bearing on the question of presidential candidates as in the cases at the Chicago convention."

A boom for United States Senator Raynor of Maryland for permanent chairman of the convention has been started by the Maryland delegation.

May Save Wood Yet.

Washington, June 12.—A movement to have the senate reconsider its adoption of the army appropriation bill conference report which would legislate Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood out of office as chief of staff of the army, has begun, and gives promise of success.

O'BRIENITES GET THEIRS

Superior Takes Final Game From White Sox By 8 to 0 Score.

Rhoades Held the Wrecking Crew in a Hand of Iron.

It may have been a coincidence, an accident, a loving gift from fate, or merely the turning of the worm, but yesterday Superior won a baseball game. If you were not there you may doubt the verity of this statement—but it is true, and what is more, the wranglers from the village won by the score of 8 to 0.

The introduction to the details can be made short and bitterly sweet. We sent Faust to the mound and the youngster was treated something like the individual of similar name in a play that had a character with horns and red tights and a malignant expression as the central character. Do you get us, Steve? For Superior it was a case of improved Rhoades. We garnered five hits and they were as scattered as the Taft vote in North Dakota.

There was some of the osseous, bone if you please, mixed in with the play of the locals, but the result was never in serious doubt, and the ivory incidents of the matinee merely served to enliven the proceedings.

Taylor had his team changed around, also Jack Dunleavy, the former major star and St. Paul player, in center field. Jack failed to scintillate, but maybe he isn't acclimated. Leber's clutch of a liner was one of the bright particular features of the contest.

A single by Persh, two sacrifices, one that went safe and a double by Dunn gave the villagers two in the first round. A pass to Black, his pilfered sack and a single by Persh gave score number three in the second round. Three came in the third through a single by Francis, a sacrifice by Chief Roy, a single by Dunn, a pass to Dunleavy, a double steal by the two last named, and Black's roaring triple to deep center.

There was a rest from this disastrous round until the seventh inning. Then the hostilities were renewed. Taylor took the place of Briggs, banished for spirited repartee with a man named Brennan, who is paid to umpire, doubled to show that a manager has his uses, and was later on scored when Francis went clear to third on a sizzling hit to the outfield. The last was garnered in the ninth, an error by Sours, a single, another error by Popham and a sacrifice fly furnishing the routing of the score.

In passing it might be mentioned as a genuine regret that it is a pity and shame that Will Sommer was not on deck to witness the victory of his team. Victories have been so seldom this season, and the kicks of Will have been so profuse and his language so picturesque, also his excuses so versatile, not to mention volatile, that it is really a crime that he cannot be on hand when his pets occasionally win.

The boys left us last night for the land of the Flickertail. The lead of the Sox is substantial and they are expected to return in the lead. Aside from this, there is not much more to say. Bill Cole, Garry and some of the rest will have to amuse themselves the best they know how and try hard to keep out of mischief until the return of the travelers.

PITCHING DUEL AT THE FORKS

Dakotas Win Air-Tight Game From Peggers—Score 1 to 0.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 12.—It was a pitchers' battle yesterday between Snooks of the Flickertails and McQuarry of Winnipeg, and the Grand Forks heaver won out, though the result was brought about by two wild heaves by the Peggers. For eight innings there was no sign of a score, then the erratic heaves were brought into the picture of perfect baseball, and the locals came over with the only score of the battle. But three hits were gathered by each side, the pitching being the best that has been seen here the present season.

ATHLETES IN LAST WORKOUT

Public Gets Final Look at America's Representatives to Olympic Games.

New York, June 12.—Nearly a hundred Olympic athletes will be seen in thirteen events at American league park here late this afternoon in the last hard workout they will have before June 23, when they will reach Antwerp en route to Stockholm. The funds derived from admission fees today will be divided with the Newsboys' Home club.

Manager Halpin of the Olympic team announced this morning that the games this afternoon would not be merely an exhibition, but as a final workout before departing, a real test of skill and endurance. He added that a number of men on the "supplementary list" were anxious to outpoint the regulars and no predicted some very close competitions.

Ira Davenport and Menaul, star quarter miler and all around performers respectively, left Chicago yesterday afternoon after receiving a telegram from Commissioner James E. Sullivan that their presence in the meet this afternoon is absolutely necessary to their making the trip to Stockholm. Only in a very few instances where college students are tied up with examinations, have excuses for asence from New York city today been accepted by the committee.

Marc S. Wright, the world's record holder in the pole vault, George Horine, the wonderful jumper from the Pacific coast; Sam Bellah, Gerhardt, Donahue, Courtney, Drew and other stars, who have lately flashed into prominence, will be on hand.

CONFLICTING REPORTS ON NUMBER OF PARTRIDGES.

Two reports are current regarding the abundance of partridges this year. One story is to the effect that the rainy spring has been very bad for the hatching and raising of young birds, a large percentage of the eggs failing to hatch and a great number of the young birds failing to live after being hatched. On the other hand it is reported that there will be an average number of partridges this year.

It may be that both reports are substantially true. Last spring the season was exceptionally favorable for the raising of partridges and in the fall there were more partridges in Northern Minnesota than there had been known to be at any time for ten years. Perhaps the abundance of partridges last fall will result in about as many being in the woods the coming fall, though the wetness of the weather may have prevented any considerable increase.

JACK CURLEY BELIEVES FIGHT WILL DRAW WELL

Las Vegas, June 12.—"I was royally received and can truthfully state that the fight followers on the coast are taking the Flynn-Johnson contest seriously," said Jack Curley on his return to the camp after a trip west. "Jim has his share of wellwishers and I confidently expect that California and Washington will send a delegation of at least 3,000 to Las Vegas for the Fourth of July scrap."

Frisco Firm to Take Pictures.

Curley disposed of the rights for taking motion pictures of the match while in San Francisco. The S. & A. firm of that city inserted the successful bid and was awarded the contract which so many Chicago and New York firms were dickering for.

The arena is coming down by freight from Kansas City and the work of installing it probably will be commenced this week. In its present shape it has a seating capacity of 17,150. Nine out of every ten Las Vegas folks declare that O'Malley and Curley will be forced to raise the capacity at least 5,000, but a bona fide crowd of 17,000 will completely satisfy the men behind the contest as that will mean a "house" of upwards of $250,000.

Will Work Hard.

"I intend going the limit from now on," said "Lil Artha," "and I am sure I didn't do any harm by missing two days. I am in far better condition at this stage of the route then I was in Reno when getting ready for Mr. Jeffries. While I weighed 233 pounds when I arrived here, I am now down to almost 220 pounds and haven't got over five pounds to take off. So why work too hard? Mr. Flynn and Mr. Curley will find out in less than a month's time that 'Lil Artha' is the same old invincible warrior. I sure do feel sorry for Mr. Flynn. He has got an awful lacing coming to him and, you know I have already whipped him once. They tell me he has improved a lot. I'm glad to know that as I hate to win too easily, for the public is entitled to get its money's worth when it travels across the country to see a big fight."

JENNINGS MAY LEAVE TIGERS

Rumor Says Present Season Is Hughey's Last With Detroit.

Philadelphia, June 12.—Rumors that will not down indicate this is Hughey Jennings' last season in Detroit. At the time of the strike of the players of that team in this city, Navin was told by some of his fellow owners to get rid of his manager or he would get in bad with the controlling faction of the American league. It is said that the Detroit owner at first was loyal to the able leader, but the opinion of his club mates set him to thinking and as a result Hughey himself did not relish the reflections that were made upon him at the time. It is also known that he immediately got into touch with the owners of the Boston Nationals and that a proposition was made to him tentatively to accept the management of that team with a financial interest in it for 1913.

During the stay of the Pittsburg team in this city the Pirates admitted that there had been an undercurrent of feeling among the National league men, that it was a splendid opportunity for them to avail themselves of Jennings' services, for he is reported to have told some of his closest friends that this is positively his last year in the Johnson circuit.

A well-known attorney of Scranton, George Howell, who knows best what Jennings' feelings in this matter are, said to Judge Davis of this city, a well-known admirer of the Tigers' chieftain, that there was but little doubt but Hughey had decided to shake the dust of the American league from his feet. The owners of the Boston Nationals may be responsible for some of the talk that is going the rounds, too, for it is well known that the controlling interest of that team is very close to Manager McGraw of the Giants, and that between them it is possible that the deal may have been concocted and consummated, so far as the public knows, for, of course, nothing definite would be given out as yet, for it would do no one any particular good at this time.

However, no matter what the denials are, it may be taken with a good bit of authority that the proposition to change from the five-figure salary as Detroit's manager to the post of manager and part owner of the Boston club has already been made to Jennings, and that if he has not already accepted it he will think over a long while before he rejects it.

MEMORIAL PLAY COMES SATURDAY

Tom Morris Event Will Be Played at Northland Links.

Some time during the present week the team of eight players that will represent the Northland Country club in the Tom Morris Memorial team cup play of the Western Golf association play, will be selected. Members of the club who are likely to be chosen for the team are hard at work on the links this week, and the best stick handlers of the club will be in shape when the team is made up.

The Tom Morris Memorial play is an annual event that is played on the links of the various clubs composing the Western Golf association. The playing is done on the home links of each club, the score being counted from par. For instance, par to the first hole on the local links is four strokes. If a player made the hole in three strokes he would be ahead of par—likewise, if he made the hole in five strokes he would be down.

The scores of the various teams are forwarded to the Western Golf association committee, and the cup awarded to the club making the lowest score to par.

It is expected that the Northland club will make a good showing the present season. Some of the crack players of the local club are in very good condition at the present time. It is believed that R. T. Goodell, M. B. Cullum, E. P. Alexander, W. W. Walker and R. S. Patrick will be among the players selected for the team.

ATHLETES WILL RECEIVE COLORS

New York, June 12.—The American flag, which heralded the final victory of the United States in the 1908 Olympic games at London, will be presented to the great delegation of athletes from all sections of the country who will show their speed and skill today at the meet to be held at American league park.

Slightly dimmed from four years reposing in the strong room of the Amateur Athletic union, but with the prestige of having waved over the great stadium of London when Uncle Sam cleaned up the point column four years ago, the trophy will be presented to Commissioner James E. Sullivan by Gustavus E. Kirby, president of the Amateur Athletic union. It will be the formal signification that the whole country is back of the 100 athletes who will sail on Friday for Stockholm. This flag the team will carry in all the processions and parades of the foreign trip.

Mayor Gaynor, who will make the presentation, has asked that the flag be used as the emblem of Finland, the special steamer on which the American team will sail. It will wave over the Yankee athletic expedition from the time the boat clears from New York until the last event is run off on July 17 at Stockholm. The steamer will anchor off Stockholm and the team and the American visitors will live on board during the games.

An invitation has been extended to Rear Admiral von Reuber-Paschwitz to attend the meet at American league park tomorrow. He is interested in outdoor sports, and it is expected that he will accompany Mayor Gaynor.

WATUSSI COULD DEFEAT HORINE

If a Watussi should come to this country there would be much sorrow for George L. Horine, world's champion high jumper, formerly of Stanford university, but now of the Olympic Club of San Francisco.

What's a Watussi? Among other things he is a negro of German East Africa whose athletic achievements outshine anything yet done by Horine and other champions of the civilized world.

In the April number of the National Geographic magazine is an article by Adolphus Frederick, duke of Mecklenburg, entitled "A Land of Giants and Pygmies," in which some interesting facts concerning the prowess of the Watussi, inhabiting German East Africa, are given.

The world's record for a running high jump was 6 feet 5⅝ inches until Horine recently set a new mark at 6 feet 7 inches. But a Watussi athlete would clear this height without the least difficulty. According to the duke of Mecklenburg he would not consider himself in a real contest until the rod were placed nearly two feet higher. In reference to the athletes of the Watussi the duke of Mecklenburg writes as follows of his experience while visiting this tall and well made people of almost ideal physique, who range in height from 5 feet 11½ inches to 7 feet 2½ inches:

"The following days were devoted to sports and athletic exercises, of which the high jumping of the young Watussi was a most remarkable feature.

"A line which could be raised or lowered at will was stretched between two slender trees standing on an incline. The athletes had to run up to this and jump from a small termite heap a foot in height. Despite the unfavorable conditions exhibitions were given which would place all European efforts in the shade. The best jumpers—slender, but splendid figures, with an almost Indian profile—attained the incredible height of 2.50 meters (8 feet 5 inches) and young boys made the relatively no less wonderful performance of 1.50 to 1.60 meters (5 feet)."

The termite heap from which the Watussi jump is a spongy ant mound and is but a handicap to the jumping, according to Mecklenburg. The figures given by the German explorer indicate that the Watussi have not only a shade on Horine in color, but several shades in jumping.

Faus See Fast Fight.

Atlanta, Ga., June 12.—Tommy O'Keefe of Philadelphia, won the decision over Tommy Devlin, Philadelphia, in a fierce 10-round bout here last night. O'Keefe knocked Devlin down five times in the sixth and seventh rounds, but Devlin came back strong and had the better of the last three rounds. In the tenth both fell over the ropes to the floor.

One Catcher for Two Teams.

Yazoo City, Miss., June 12.—One catcher was behind the bat for both teams for sixteen innnings in the Cotton States league game between Columbus and Yazoo City here yesterday. In the second inning of the first game the Columbus catcher was hurt and there was no one to take his place. The Yazoo City catcher volunteered to keep the game going and it was so agreed by all in authority. Yazoo City won both games.

Lieut. Hazelhurst and Aviator Welch Are Instantly Killed.

Wright Biplane Collapses While Going Nearly Mile a Minute.

College Park, Md., June 12.—Lieut Leighton Hazelhurst, Seventeenth infantry, U. S. A., of Macon, Ga., and A. L. Welch of Washington, D. C., were killed here at 6:13 o'clock last night when a new army aeroplane of the Wright type in which they were flying fell to the ground at the army aviation school, and was wrecked.

Lieutenant Hazelhurst and Welch had just started on their trip when the machine suddenly crashed to the ground. Death to both was instantaneous. The machine was wrecked.

Welch was flying the machine and Lieut. Hazelhurst was with him as a passenger. They had ascended a distance of about 200 feet, when they dipped to come down and go up again. When about 20 feet from the ground and going at a tremendous speed, estimated to have been between 50 and 60 miles an hour, the machine collapsed and dashed to the earth. Apparently the weight of the engine and the two aviators caused the collapse.

A. L. WELCH,
Wright Aviator.

Board of Inquiry Named.

Capt. C. De F. Chandler and seven other army officers witnessed the crash. Capt. Chandler immediately appointed the following witnesses a board of inquiry: Capt. Paul W. Brek, Lieut. Graham, Capt. Hennessy, Lieut. R. C. Kirtland and Lieut. T. Dew Milling. Lieut. W. Sherman and Lieut. B. D. Foulois were the other witnesses.

The machine in which the two men fell to their death was brought to the army aviation field three weeks ago by Orville Wright. Welch came with him from Dayton, Ohio, and intended spending the season here as a teacher for the Wright company. Fifteen flights had been made in the machine without accident. Both Lieut. Hazelhurst and Welch had separately made successful trips in the machine earlier in the afternoon.

Welch, whose home was here, had been for three years in the employ of the Wright brothers and was said by Orville Wright to be one of their best teachers.

Crazed by Titanic Disaster.

Little Falls, Minn., June 12.—Rubert Kahlhamer of Granite was examined by a board of physicians Monday morning and committed by Judge of Probate Shaw to the detention hospital at Fergus Falls. He is a victim of religious mania, brought on by the Titanic disaster.

S.S.S. THE CURE FOR SCROFULA

The usual symptoms of Scrofula are enlarged glands of the neck, sores and ulcers on the body, skin affections, catarrhal troubles, weak eyes, and general poor health. The inherited poison, transmitted through the blood, pollutes and weakens this fluid, and in place of its nutritive qualities fills the circulation with scrofulous matter, which saps the vitality of the entire system. Thousands of children, born with a scrofulous taint, have spent their childhood in constant physical suffering, and grown to manhood or womanhood handicapped by ill health and stunted growth, and perhaps later some disease of the bones or joints developed. S. S. S., given in their early life, would have prevented this. It would have cleansed and purified the blood of the taint, nourished and stengthened their systems, and assisted each to grow into strong, healthful manhood or womanhood. S. S. S. is the very best remedy for Scrofula. It goes down to the bottom of the trouble, and cleanses the circulation of all scrofulous matter. It supplies the weak, diseased blood with strength and health-building qualities, and under the purifying effects of this great remedy all symptoms of Scrofula pass away. S. S. S. contains no minerals in any form, and is an absolutely safe treatment for children, even infants, or persons of any age. Literature about Scrofula and any medical advice free. ON THE IRON RANGES

EVELETH WILL HAVE BIG TIME

Old-Time July 4 Celebration Being Planned in Range City.

Eveleth, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—An old time celebration was planned for Eveleth at a mass meeting of citizens held in the city hall last night.

Charles McNamara, who has served for several years in the capacity of president of the day, was re-elected to that position. Alderman D. A. Springer was chosen vice president; W. J. Davey was again elected secretary and treasurer, and B. C. Prout appointed to assist him.

Committee on Arrangements.

The committee on arrangements is composed of John Glede, D. P. McIntyre, M. C. Cooper, T. J. Trengove, William Murray, Alderman J. J. Brince and R. M. Dungan. This committee will meet soon and appoint sub-committees to take care of the sports, illuminations, speaker, music, advertising, etc.

FEAR SWANSON LOST HIS LIFE

Section Hand Starts to Cross Ouxside Lake and Disappears.

Hibbing, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gus Swanson, a Great Northern section hand stationed at Pengilly, in the Swan lake country, in Itasca county, is believed to have been drowned in Ouxside lake last week, according to word just received here.

Swanson was last seen when he left the home of a "shacker" living on the lake shore to row across in his friend's boat to the section house. He had walked around the lake to visit the "shacker," and as Swanson did not put in an appearance at the section house his friends fear he was drowned. The Itasca county authorities have been notified and the lake is being dragged.

EVELETH CLASS GIVES EXERCISES

High School Auditorium Thronged With People Who Enjoy Affair.

Eveleth, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The class day exercises were given before a large and appreciative audience at the high school auditorium last night. The will, prophesy and history were all well received and they were quite humorous. The class play, "Bardell vs. Pickwick," was well given and certainly merited the ovation given at its conclusion. The class of 1912 has proved itself worthy of the distinction accorded it of being "the best class that ever attended the Eveleth high school."

TO TAKE OVER ROAD.

Reports Again Current Backus-Brooks Has M. & I.

Deer River, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Reports are again current that the Backus-Brooks company of International Falls will take over the Minneapolis & Rainy River railroad the middle of July and by fall Deer River will have a direct line to the Falls and the Twin Cities. The International Falls road have their engineers at work and they are now within eight miles of the M. & R. tracks and are working this way to connect with the M. & R. road as soon as possible. The Itasca people have about finished their operations in this section and now that their timber is all out, they have no further use for the road.

The Backus-Brooks company have millions of timber north of Big Fork and by the purchasing of the M. & R. gives them direct connections with the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific. The farmers from the north will now be able to market their products at one freight rate instead of two, as is necessary at the present time.

THREATENS MINERS IS VERY EXPENSIVE

Riste Maranovich, Trouble-maker at Leetonia, Is Fined $105.25.

Hibbing, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Riste Maranovich was fined $105.25 by Judge Brady for disorderly conduct at the Leetonia mine. Maranovich is one of the force of miners who struck several days ago because the company refused to allow intoxicants on the location. Saturday all the men returned to work, but Monday afternoon there was trouble and the men again walked out. According to the Oliver police, Maranovich was attempting to intimidate miners who were going to work yesterday afternoon and picked up a stone at the roadside and threatened several men. About that time the Oliver police put in an appearance and he was arrested.

Men All Back at Work.

Yesterday morning all the miners returned to work at the Leetonia underground for the second time and the company officials stated no further trouble is anticipated. They have received no formal statement from the men as to their grievance, but insist that the regulations with regard to the barring of intoxicants from the location will be maintained at all hazards.

WILL BE ABLE TO MINE IN SELLERS

Hibbing Anxious That Property Be Vacated So Work Can Be Resumed.

Hibbing, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—About 1,500 signatures have been attached to petitions which will be presented to the council Friday night asking for the vacation of the streets and alleys lying east of the westerly boundary line of the southeast quarter of northwest quarter of section 6, township 20, part of the original townsite. A counter petition has also been circulated and will be presented but it is predicted that the petition of the Lake Superior Consolidated Iron Mines for the vacation of the streets will be granted.

All of the property in the territory where the vacation of the streets and alleys is asked is owned by the mining company. The triangular space is of particular value as it is the key to the transportation outlet of the Sellers mine. The terms of the recent injunction are such that the company cannot safely operate there without being in contempt of the order of the court.

Want to Work Sellers.

In the meantime it is desired to work the Sellers mine. The vacation of the territory desired will admit of work being resumed at once. It is reported that a large force of men will be started at the latter part of this week or the first of next if the petition is granted by the council.

Hibbing people believe that nothing is to be gained by interposing further obstacles to the operation of the Sellers mine. Its opening will mean that a large force of men will be employed there and the payrolls of the country tributary to the city correspondingly increased.

EPWORTH LEAGUE SHOWING GROWTH

According to Reports of Duluth District Meet at Eveleth.

Virginia, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—About forty delegates are attending the Duluth district Epworth League convention here today in the M. E. church. The final session will be held this evening. Officers will be elected this afternoon and place of next meeting selected. The reports presented show that the Epworth league in the range towns is increasing rapidly in membership and doing effective and efficient work as an auxiliary to the general church work. The delegates were welcomed by W. H. Garland yesterday afternoon and the local chapter gave a reception for the visitors last evening.

WILL NOT FIGHT AWARD.

Boston Bitulithic Company Will Not Enjoin Hibbing.

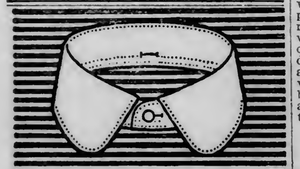

Hibbing, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bitulithic company of Boston, one of the unsuccessful bidders for the paving contract let here, does not contemplate an injunction suit against Hibbing. Reports to the contrary are without foundation, according to information conveyed to several business men by F. E. Gutter of Boston, representing the bitulithic company, who spent some time here in the interests of his concern previous to the late paving award.

"You can tell Mayor Weirick, who is out of town, that reports of an injunction proceeding by the bitulithic people is not to be taken seriously," said Mr. Gutter. "No such action is contemplated."

Coons & Butler, the successful bidders, have also received similar information from a reliable source and are preparing to begin work this week.

VIRGINIA PROGRESSIVES PLANNING ON BANQUET.

Virginia, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Progressive league will have a citizens' banquet soon at the Roller rink the women preparing a dinner to be served by young ladies. A committee was appointed to make the preliminary arrangements. There will be several local speakers and probably one from Duluth.

SAXONIA—Put this collar on today and have real collar comfort.

"Saxonia" is designed on special lines—the best looking collar ever made that gives anything like the same comfort. It is cut low, of course—and it has ample space for the tie to show.

You will make "Saxonia" your standby—like thousands of other men have done, once they tried this style. Made in extra long sizes.

AURORA WILL HAVE BIG CELEBRATION

Old-Time Observance of Fourth Planned in Range Village.

Aurora, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of citizens held last night at the village hall plans were formuated for an old-time celebration of the Fourth.

The following committees were appointed to have charge of the affairs:

Finance—Dr. R. P. Pearsall, L. Beckstrom, John Brozich, Capt. T. J. Nicholas, B. Christianson, Art Talboys and Matt Alto.

Music and entertainment—F. V. Anderson, E. H. Yarick and F. C. Witte.

Committee on sports—Capt. J. J. Hudson, W. J. Rashleigh, August Knuti, Dr. Edward Darrow, Charles T. Murphy, August Tillmans and Smalley Sandberg.

Printing—E. H. Yarick, Erick Koskey and Dave Hyman.

Decorations and floats:—Dr. Edward Darrow, John Brozich, John Luoma, Gust Mattson and Eli Donculovich.

Judge Louis Tillmans was elected marshal of the day.

HIBBING TEACHER PAYS SMALL FINE

Shied Brush at Boy Who Was Causing Trouble in School Room.

Hibbing, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. D. La Victor, 216 Railroad street, yesterday swore out a warrant for the arrest of Prof. Solar, instructor in manual training, on a charge of assault. The warrant was secured by the representation of La Victor's 15-year-old son, who alleges that yesterday morning, during class, he was struck by a brush thrown by Solar. The boy sustained a slight abrasion above the right eye. Prof. Solar was before Judge Brady yesterday afternoon and paid a fine. He has been with the Hibbing schools for two years and is popular with his fellow teachers and the people of the city as well, and regrets the incident as much as anybody.

Corporal Punishment Tabooed.

Supt. Blair of the schools does not believe in corporal punishment, and while there are no hard and fast rules laid for its abolishment, it is indicated to the teaching staff of the local schools that the method is regarded as ineffective and generally to be avoided.

Solar explained to Judge Brady that he had not intended to hurt the boy, and had merely pitched the brush in an underhanded way to attract the attention of young La Victor and others who were disobeying certain rules of class room discipline.

WELL POSTED

A California Doctor With 40 Years Experience.

"In my 40 years' experience as a teacher and practitioner along hygienic lines," says a Los Angeles physician, "I have never found a food to compare with Grape-Nuts for the benefit of the general health of all classes of people.

"I have recommended Grape-Nuts for a number of years to patients with the greatest success and every year's experience makes me more enthusiastic regarding its use.

"I make it a rule to always recommend Grape-Nuts, and Postum in place of coffee, when giving my patients instructions as to diet for I know both Grape-Nuts and Postum can be digested by anyone.

"As for myself, when engaged in much mental work my diet twice a day consists of Grape-Nuts and rich cream. I find it just the thing to build up gray matter and keep the brain in good working order.

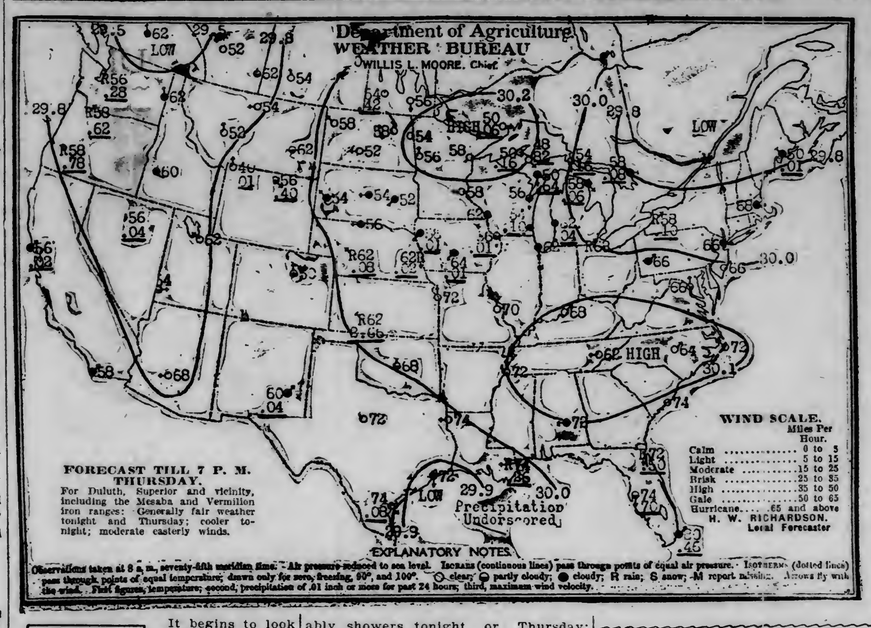

"In addition to its wonderful effects as a brain and nerve food Grape-Nuts always keeps the digestive organs in perfect, healthy tone. I carry it with me when I travel, otherwise I am almost certain to have trouble with my stomach." Name given by mail by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Strong endorsements like the above from physicians all over the country have stamped Grape-Nuts the most scientific food in the world. "There's a reason."

Official Map of the Weather

FAIR

It begins to look as if the time to talk about Duluth's wonderful summer climate had come again. Yesterday was delightful, and this morning another ideal day broke. The weather man expects it to continue. The sun rose this morning at 4:12 o'clock and will set at 8:03, making fifteen hours and fifty-two minutes of sunlight.

A year ago today it was cold and cloudy.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours showers fell over the Lake region, upper Mississippi valley, Nebraska, Kansas, New Mexico, Wyoming, Nevada, Pacific and Gulf states. Heavy rains fell over portions of Kansas. Hot weather prevailed in north-central Texas and Arizona. In St. Louis and Douglas counties the weather will likely be mostly fair during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, June 12.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and Thursday; slightly cooler in extreme east portion tonight.

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; cooler in north portion tonight.

Minnesota—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; cooler in northeast portion tonight.

Iowa—Unsettled weather with showers tonight or Thursday.

North Dakota—Mostly cloudy tonight and Thursday.

South Dakota—Unsettled with probably showers tonight or Thursday; warmer tonight.

Montana—Mostly cloudy with showers in west portion tonight or Thursday.

SUICIDE SHOCK TO TWO HARBORS

Dr. Goodspeed and Wife Had Been Separated Two Years.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Unable to effect a reconciliation with her husband, with whom she had not lived for the last two years, Mrs. Caroline Goodspeed, 24 years old, and wife of Dr. E. S. Goodspeed of this city, took her life Monday night in the Roosevelt apartments, St. Paul, by inhaling gas. Previous to the reparation the couple made their home on Fourth avenue and were apparently happy until about two years ago, when Mrs. Goodspeed went to St. Paul, where she has remained ever since. Mrs. Goodspeed was very popular here and the news of her act has come as a great shock to her many friends. Dr. Goodspeed left here yesterday for St. Paul.

Woman Left Letters.

St. Paul, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Carolyn Goodspeed, wife of a Two Harbors dentist, who took her life in the Roosevelt apartments here Monday night, left a farewell letter to her husband, evidently written while she was inhaling gas.

In the course of the document she says: "It takes this gas so long. I have had it turned on for about an hour and I am afraid someone will smell it. I like it. It's like taking ether or chloroform."

After writing three more pages, Mrs. Goodspeed again referred to the gas.

"I am feeling better now than when I turned it on. If I could only sleep. I am going to lie down now and try."

After writing there lines she evidently dropped off to sleep.

Dr. Goodspeed came here yesterday to claim his wife's body.

Neighbors of Mrs. Goodspeed say that she acted as if she was lonely. Dr. Goodspeed was in St. Paul last Sunday and the residents in the flats think there was a quarrel between husband and wife.

TOWER BRIEFS.

Tower, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Vermilion Lumber company has laid off its night shift.

The Commercial club will hold an adjourned meeting tonight at the Vermilion hotel to plan for the entertainment of the Country club, which meets here in August.

The Lake Vermilion Outing club will assemble here Thursday for their annual outing at Gold Island in Lake Vermilion.

Two Harbors Child Buried.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Vinson, the 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carey of Fifth avenue, died yesterday after a four days' illness of scarlet fever. The funeral was held at 11 a. m. today from the residence, Rev. J. F. McLeod officiating.

NEWLY ELECTED COULD NOT ACT

Three New Virginia Aldermen Held Back By a Technicality.

Virginia, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because the resolution passed by the council declaring Messrs. Lundstrom, Harvey and Ketola, elected at the recall election of May 28, had not been officially published they were not able to take their seats at the council meeting scheduled for last night, so the meeting that was to have been held was called off. By next meeting time the proceedings will have been published and the new members legally qualified to act.

MINISTERS WILL MEET IN VIRGINIA MONTHLY.

Virginia, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Range Ministerial association has selected Virginia as its permanent meeting place and the members will gather here every month. The new officers of the association are: Rev. R. W. Wilcox of Virginia, president; Rev. J. I. Fadum of Virginia, vice president; J. W. Helmuth of Hibbing, secretary; Rev. W. Schenck of Aurora, treasurer.

To Enlarge Virginia Hotel.

Virginia, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth Brewing & Malting company which owns the New England hotel will have it enlarged and remodeled. It now has forty-five rooms and the capacity will be doubled. A fourth story will be added and an addition at the rear, 40x50, four stories high, built.

IRON RANGE PARKING GROUND AROUND DEPOT.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Iron Range railroad has commenced parking the vacant ground south of the depot and general offices and north of the lower yards. This is a continuation of the work which was done last year on the ground on the north and west side of the depot. The undertaking is a large one as there is considerable filling to be done and it will be some time before it will be completed. W. A. Clark of Duluth, and chief engineer for the company is engineering the work.

Mushroom Corns, Quick Cure and All Kinds Sore Feet

The following is absolutely the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments, the painful mushroom corn included. "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly; the feet feel so good you could sing for joy. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. It is not a patent medicine but is an ethical preparation.

GOOD HEALTH LONG LIFE

Principles Are Discovered By Medical Scientists.

Electricity the New Curative Medium, Does Wonders In Chronic Diseases.

Dr. Lorand, a celebrated French scientist, claims to have discovered the cause of premature old age. Degeneration of the ductless glands of the body are responsible for the mischief. He says in part:

"Man is as old as his arteries." However, it is only half a truth, for arteries, veins, and the heart itself are dependent on what the medical world calls the "ductless glands." The liver, the thyroid, the suprarenal gland above the kidneys, the pitrutary body in the brain, a little tiny gland, and the prostate at the neck of the bladder. All goes well when these are in perfect working order.

Electricity and ozone is a constituent of the air which satisfies the hungry blood cells. It is more strengthening to the system than it is purifying. So is the air purified in a thunderstorm, and our red blood cells are filled with an abundancy of ozone. Could we but live in rich ozonic air, disease would be an unknown thing, provided we would otherwise live according to the laws of nature. Medical science has searched for years and finally invented an ozone producing machine which is to be found in the office of the Electro Medical Doctors at No. 26 W. Superior St., Duluth. This apparatus is wonderful. Anaemic women, poor in blood and broken down, have received new life; cases of poison and old standing infections have disappeared while treated with ozonic substance.

This system of treatment will put new life into a body which is exhausted and debilitated. It will prepare any person for a battle for success by charging the nerves with the fire of vigorous energy and youthful vigor. Our system of treatment will turn back the hands of time for old people by renewing the vigor of youth in their veins. One old man of seventy-four says he feels as young as he did at forty after using the Electro Medical treatment for only two months.

The history of some of our world's greatest financiers shows some striking illustrations of the fruits of strenuous enterprise. It shows that most of the people who are now dominating the business world began life as the sons of poor parents without any better start than millions of others had and will have. There are only a few of our rich men who were born rich. Wealth and prominence have come with the expenditure of great energy, and any man who can and will hustle has a good chance to become twice as rich as Rockefeller, if that is his ambition. It matters not whether he lives in Minneapolis or Timbuctoo.

Young people who find they are wanting in self-confidence, who shrink from meeting people because they fear they will not make a good impression, will find by the study of themselves that the trouble is only lack of nerve force. Build up your nervous energy by our methods and the nerve force and self-confidence will come back.

The system of the Electro Medical Doctors has proven to cure diseases as Diabetes and Bright's Disease, like in the case of Mr. Wilmar Swanson at 4424 Halifax St., Duluth, and Mr. A. D. Larson of Winnipeg. It has successfully healed people who suffered from poison and weakness, like Miss Anna Edna Grennier of Chisholm; also Cancers and Tumors, like that of Mrs. Mary Smith, residing at Lakewood. There are nearly one hundred people at the head of the lakes who were cured of diseases of all descriptions. All persons who have failed to get a cure elsewhere should not fail to consult the Electro Medical Doctors, at No. 26 W. Superior St. Electro Medicine will bring back to the sick and broken down, Health, Vitality and Strength.

VETERANS WILL GATHER

Minnesota Survivors of War With Spain Will Meet in Duluth.

Campfire on the Lake Shore Feature of the Encampment.

Arrangements have been completed for the eighth annual encampment of the Department of Minnesota, United Spanish-American War veterans, which will be held in Duluth, June 20 to 23.

The program and details were worked out yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the joint committee from the John G. McEwen and the Maj. A. M. Diggles camps.

The annual encampment is expected to bring to the city a number of prominent visitors, among whom are: Col. E. M. Van Duzee, Fourteenth Minnesota volunteers; Judge John H. Fineout and Judge Hugo Hanft of St. Paul; Past Department Commanders George Miller and Hugo V. Koch of St. Paul.

A degree team from the Worth Bagley camp, No. 2, St. Paul, will attend the encampment and will take a very prominent part in the ceremonies. Mrs. Harry Brandt of St. Paul, past president of the Ladies' auxiliary, will also attend.

Between 400 and 500 members of Spanish-American war camps and the Mystic Military Order of the Serpent, an auxiliary order, are expected to attend the sessions. The railroads will give a reduction in fare to Duluth from any point in Minnesota and will put in effect a two-cent rate.

The visitors are expected to arrive Thursday evening, June 20. A reception committee from the local camps will meet them at the trains.

The principal business sessions of the encampment will be held Friday, June 21, and Saturday. The meetings will be held at Memorial hall, courthouse. The ladies' auxiliary, which will meet at the same time, will hold its sessions in the parlors of the Holland hotel.

At the meeting at Memorial hall, 9:30 o'clock Friday morning, Mayor J. A. McCuen is expected to deliver an address of welcome. It will be responded to by Carl K. Reckner, St. Paul, department commander, and Hugo V. Koch and Joseph B. Gibson, past department commanders.

At 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon the Duluth Commercial club will entertain the visiting veterans at a boat ride around the harbor. They will be taken around the horn and up the river.

Banquet for Visitors.

At 6 o'clock on Friday evening, a banquet will be served at Memorial hall by the ladies of John G. McEwen camp auxiliary. At 8:30 o'clock the annual business session of the Mystic Military Order of the Serpent will be held. The order is a secret fraternity and is said to have an elaborate ritualistic service.

On Saturday morning at 8:30 the members of the order will meet at the Holland hotel and take an automobile trip around the city on a sight seeing tour. At 10:30 o'clock they will return to Memorial hall, elect officers and wind up their business session.

One of the features of the encampment will be a big campfire, which will be held on Oatka beach Saturday evening. It is understood that the affair will be something rather out of the ordinary and will last through the night.

In the early evening the Order of the Serpent will give a parade. The line of march will be from the courthouse to the aerial bridge, Lake avenue south. Here members will board Park Point cars for Oatka.

Governor Eberhart will be a guest of honor on this occasion and will attend the big campfire. Visitors' cards for the boat club will be furnished on request for those of the visitors who wish to visit the boat club.

The joint committee, which is in charge of the arrangements, is as follows: J. B. Gibson, chairman; W. C. Kimball, vice chairman; C. V. McCoy, secretary and treasurer; C. C. Teare, Walter Butchard, D. D Kreidler, G. J. Sherman, W. S. McCormick, J. E. MacGregor, C. E. French, F. M. Schutte and M. S. Mead.

Maj. A. M. Diggles camp's delegates to the encampment have been chosen. They are: Fred M. Schutte, C. V. McCoy, L. S. Larsen, D. C. W. Musser, M. J. Murray, James L. McPhee and D. D. Kreidler

Missing Girl Comes Home.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 12.—Apparently regretting her hasty flight from her home in this city, after she had written a note to her mother declaring that "they couldn't find her, and that she wouldn't come home if they did," Miss Elizabeth Marshall, 17 years old, has returned home from Fargo. She does not explain her actions.

DEMOCRATS PLAN ON NEW PARTY OFFICER.

Baltimore, Md., June 12.—Plans are being formulated by members of the Democratic national committee to create a new office, to be known as chairman of the campaign committee. This new officer, who will work with the national chairman, may or may not be a member of the national committee, and his selection will be made by the presidential candidate after a conference with the new national committee members. The national chairman will continue in general charge of the campaign.

LA FOLLETTE IS BACK AT NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Washington, June 12.—After an absence of six weeks, devoted to his presidential campaign, Senator La Follette returned to Washington yesterday. He was cordially greeted by his colleagues in the senate chamber, and told them his health was much improved.

"I am as hard as a pine knot," he said.

While he had not reached an unalterable decision, he said, he did not expect to attend the Chicago convention.

Milady's Toilet Tablet

By Mme. D'MILLE

"Dull and lifeless hair makes a woman look older than she should. Dry shampooing makes the hair bright, fluffy and clean—full of life and lustre. Put four ounces of powdered orris root in a fruit jar and mix it well with an original package of therox. Sprinkle a teaspoonful of the mixture on the head once a week and brush it out thoroughly. Therox makes hair grow when everything else fails.

"The natural beauty of a person's face is marred by thin and straggly eyebrows and lashes. Rubbing gently with plain pyroxin will induce them to grow long, thick and silky. The eyebrows should be brushed daily to train them to grow into an arch.

"Instead of powder and paint, use a simple complexion lotion made at home by dissolving an original package of mayatone in a half pint of witch hazel. Gently rub over the face in the morning and all day your skin will be as clear, soft and satiny as a baby's—with no dark or muddy discolorations.

"Delatone is equal to the electric needle for the removal of superfluous hair. Is positively painless, and not nearly so expensive. Just mix a little delatone with water; cover the wild hairs with this paste; let it remain two minutes; then wash the skin, and the hairs will be gone."

NEWS OF THE WEST END

SWEDISH AMERICANS OF NORTHERN MINNESOTA WILL CELEBRATE MIDSUMMER'S DAY IN DULUTH

All the arrangements for the second annual Midsummer's day festival to be held June 24 at Lincoln park, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, were completed yesterday at the meeting of the Swedish-American National league of Duluth, held at the Bachelors' hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street.

Governor Adolph O. Eberhart of Minnesota will be the principal speaker of the day. Congressman C. A. Lindberg of Little Falls, Minn.; Dr. C. O. Hertzman of Ashland, Wis.; Mayor J. A. McCuen, Dr. J. J. Eklund, Rev. Edwin Stromberg and Rev. W. E. Hartmann will also address the crowds during the day. The various committees made their complete reports last evening and the list of speakers was announced for the first time. The arrangements have also been completed and the work has been assigned to the various committees.

The festival will begin at 1 o'clock Monday, June 24, when a parade will start from the Armory, Second avenue east and First street. The parade will be headed by the police of Duluth and will be followed by fifty automobiles, especially decorated with American and Swedish flags. Several bands will play during the march from the Armory to the park, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. It is estimated that at least 2,000 people will take part in the parade.

The park will be decorated with American and Swedish colors and in the evening the grounds will be illuminated by means of thousands of small incandescent lights. Immediately after the parade a program of addresses and music will be rendered. Andrew Horngren, president of the Swedish-American National league, will give the opening address of welcome and Governor Eberhart will then be introduced as the principal speaker of the day. Addresses will also be given during the afternoon by Dr. C. O. Hertzman, Mayor McCuen, Rev. Edwin Stromberg and Rev. W. E. Hermann. The Svea Glee club and the Orpheus Singing society will render several selections during the afternoon program.

Field Meet.

Following the afternoon program a field meet will be held with a special list of prizes awarded the winners in the various events. In the evening another program will be given. An orchestra has been engaged to render the special music of the evening. Addresses will be made by Congressman Lindberg and Dr. Eklund. The singing societies will also take part in the program. One of the features of the evening will be the comedy Swedish playlet, "The Sweet Family of Linnea," to be presented by the Linnea society. Games and refreshments will conclude the entertainment and celebration for the day.

If the weather is favorable fully 20,000 people will attend the festival and entertainment. Last year the attendance was estimated as being about 15,000. The Swedish-American National league is composed of six lodges of Duluth, each of which is represented by a special committee of the lodge. The six societies represent a membership of 2,500. The societies and their representative committees are as follows:

Order of Vasa—A. T. Lind, Andrew Horngren, George Johnson, Peter Olson, Otto Gofuert.

S. H. & B. F.—Louis Levin, Gust Anderson, Ed Olson, Charles Bostrom, C. J. Carlson.

Svithiod—John Berglund, Adolph Hellgren, Oscar Carlson, John Granquist, Rudolph Nordquist.

Svea Glee club—George Anderson, John Wallin, Ivar Holmberg, Carl Pearson, Helmer Ogren.

Orpheus Singing society—C. W. Lindstrom, A. Melander, A. B. Velander, E. A. Lund, Alfred Anderson.

I. O. G. T.—C. G. Carlson, Victor Thor, Walfred Olson, Charles Erickson, Ernest Larson.

The officers of the league for this year, are: Andrew Horngren, president; Louis Levin, vice president; George Johnson, secretary, and A. T. Lind, treasurer. The following committees, recently appointed by the members, are now completing the arrangements for the celebration June 24:

Publicity—Helmer Ogren, A. E. Lund and George Johnson.

Hall—A. L. Lind, Charles Bostrom and Louis Levin.

Speakers—Otto Gofuert, Louis Levin and Helmer Ogren.

Refreshments—J. Wallin, Alfred Anderson, A. Olson, A. T. Lind, Edward Olson, Rudolph Nordlund and Oscar Carlson.

Program—Otto Gofuert, Gust Anderson, John Berglund, Ivar Holmberg, C. W. Lindstrom and C. J. Carlson.

Floor—Louis Levin, Peter Olson, Adolph Hellgren, Helmer Ogren, Albert Melander and Victor Thor.

Parade—Carl Pearson, A. Melander, Charles Erikson, Andrew Harngren and Charles Bostrom.

Decoration—Charles Bostrom, chairman; and the other members of the league.

Origin of Day.

George Johnson, secretary of the league, has written the following letter to The Herald, in which he tells of the origin of Midsummer's day and its many features both here and abroad:

"Midsummer day, June 24. These words mean joy and gladness to the Swedish people. No holiday, no Christmas, is more thoroughly celebrated in Sweden. This custom of celebrating June 24 as a holiday is as old as the country itself. Even the savages who lived in Sweden long before Christ had a feast on this day. In the northern part there begins with midsummer, and in some parts sooner, a summer-day which lasts for week. In Stockhol, located about the middle of the country, the sun rises at 2 o'clock in the morning and sets at 10:30 in the evening. There is no difficulty to sit and read a book or a newspaper at midnight. Everything stands in bloom, flowers, fruit trees, etc., and they spread the most healthful odor.

"Is it then any wonder that the people in this country who have seen and been there have a feeling in their hearts and wish to celebrate?

"In Sweden, on June 24, everybody celebrates, young and old alike. In the cities they have all kinds of amusements, but the country celebrates the day more extensively. The city people travel out to some noted place in the country and enjoy themselves.

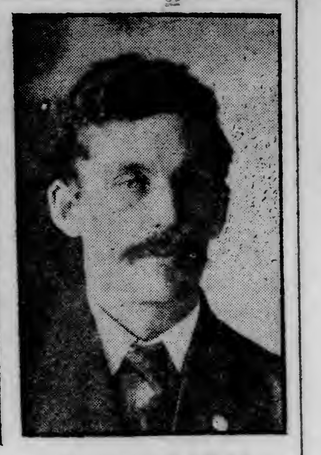

"The Swedes who have come to this country have a soft spot in their hearts for this day and in many places where Swedes are more congregated they remember this day with a picnic, churches and societies alike. In Duluth they have done so for years, but it was last year that the different Swedish organizations planned to work together for a larger celebration and give everybody a chance to come along and enjoy themselves. For that reason the Swedish-American National League of Duluth was organized, with representatives from six different lodges, comprising a membership of over 2,500. This festival turned out to be such a splendid success and proved that the people in general approved of it, that it was decided to perfect the organization and have a festival each year. Although the weather turned out to be anything but good, fully 5,000 were present at Lincoln park. This year the organization promises to surpass last year. Different committees have been laying plans for weeks to make this celebration the best ever held in Duluth."

GOVERNOR A. O. EBERHART, Principal Speaker at the Midsummer's Day Festival, June 24.

CONGRESSMAN C. A. LINDBERG Of Little Falls, One of the Speakers at Lincoln Park.

ANDREW HORNGREN, President of the Swedish-American National League of Duluth.

LOUIS LEVIN, Vice President of the Orders.

GEORGE JOHNSON, Secretary of the League.

A. T. LIND, Treasurer.

PROGRAM IS ANNOUNCED

Head Consul Talbot and Governor Coming for Woodmen Dedication.

Head Consul A. R. Talbot of Omaha, Neb., will take part in the dedication exercises for the new Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street, to be held Thursday afternoon and evening, June 27. Gov. A. O. Eberhart, a member of the Mankato camp of the Woodmen, will also take part in the exercises during the day.

The above report was announced at the meeting of the executive committee held at the hall last evening. A monster parade will be held in the afternoon, in which all the visiting Woodmen lodges will take part. The members will all wear their uniforms and fully 3,000 members of the order are expected to participate in this feature of the program.

The principal program will be held in the evening, beginning at 8 o'clock. Charles E. Dice will be master of ceremonies and the program for the evening will be as follows:

$3.50 Recipe Free, For Weak Men

Send Name and Address Today—You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Healthy.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his health, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest-acting combination ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting restorative, upbuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 4671 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS MEET.

The Graded Elementary Union of Sunday School Workers held its regular meeting last evening at the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street. Mrs. F. H. Rogers lead the discussion on "How to Teach Missions."

The program opened with the singing of "America" by the audience. Devotional services were held under the direction of Frank Glover. Miss Millie Olson rendered a vocal solo. A short business session was held during which the secretary made his report and the adoption of a constitution was taken up.

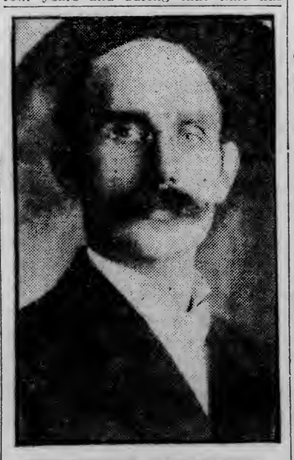

The Sunday School Workers' union was recently organized. Mrs. W. S. Eaton is president, Mrs. J. B. Haynes, vice president East end district; Mrs. A. G. Schulz, central district; Miss Myrtle Craig, West end; Mrs. L. A. Merritt, West Duluth, and Mrs. M. A. Sherwin, secretary-treasurer.

PASTOR WILL LEAVE DULUTH

Rev. Edwin Stromberg, pastor of the First Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, will preach his last sermon Sunday evening, June 23. He will leave the following Tuesday for Lowell, Mass., where he will have charge of a Swedish Methodist church.

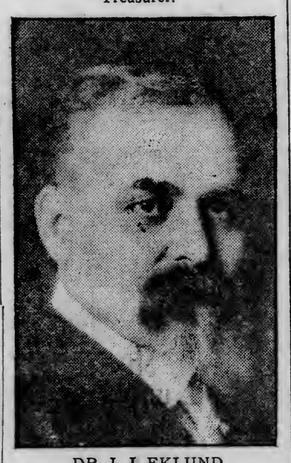

Rev. Mr. Stromberg has been in charge of the local parish for the past four years and during that time has made an enviable record among the pastors of this city. He is very popular among the residents of the West end and has always taken an active part in the various organizations and societies in this end of the city.

Rev. and Mrs. Stromberg and their three children will spend several days at Lindstrom, Minn., as the guests of Rev. Fred Stromberg, brother of the local pastor. They will also visit friends at Minneapolis and Chicago en route to Lowell. The members of the church are now planning on a farewell reception in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Stromberg before their departure from the city.

ELECT DELEGATES TO W. C. T. U. CONVENTIONS.

The Scandinavian Women's Christian Temperance union yesterday afternoon elected delegates to the district and state conventions of the W. C. T. U. at the regular meeting of the order held at the home of Mrs. N. N. Erickson, 228 Louis street.

The delegates chosen to the district convention, which will be held in West Duluth on June 29, are Mrs. P. Morterud, Mrs. P. Stromgren and Mrs. C. Linden. Mesdames Carlson and Linden were elected delegates to the state convention, which will meet at St. Paul next month. Mrs. Linden led the discussion during the afternoon on "Mother and the Home." Short talks were given by the Mesdames Swaney Nelson, C. O. Hagberg and Mrs. E. Gustafson. An informal reception was given the latter part of the afternoon in honor of Mrs. Gustafson, who will leave next week for a three months' visit in the West. She was presented with a handsome handbag, inlaid with gold initials.

Church Concert.

The congregation of the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, gave a social and entertainment in the church parlors last evening. The proceeds will be used for the building fund. The following program was rendered, after which refreshments were served by the ladies of the church: Song, audience; scripture reading and prayer, Frank Fristedt; music, orchestra; song, choir; welcome address, Rev. S. A. Nelson; solo, O. G. Olson; address, Rev. G. Lundquist of Superior; song, choir; declaration, Christ Johnson; solo, Mrs. Gideon Nylander; song, choir.

Donnie Funeral.

The funeral of Makime Donnie, 40 years old, 2807 West Third street, who was drowned Sunday noon in an accident at the Mullery-McDonald mill, was held at 9 o'clock this morning from the St. Jean Baptists Catholic church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. Interment was in Calvary cemetery.

West End Briefs.

Lawrence P. Drohan of 109 North Sixteenth avenue west will return tomorrow from St. John's college, where he has been attending school for the past year.

Miss Velva Clark of 1811 West First street will leave Saturday morning for a short visit at her home at Minong, Wis.

The Luther League of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, accompanied by the choir, met last evening at the home of William Engwalls at Hermantown.

St. Luke's Guild of St. Peter's Episcopal church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Laughton, 2516 West Second street.

Rev. C. G. Olson of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, will conduct a prayer meting in the church this evening.

A. M. Smith of Minneapolis was a business visitor in the West end yesterday afternoon.

Wallace E. Brown of Rockford, Ill., was a business visitor in the West end yesterday.

The Bryant Alumni association held its annual banquet last evening in the school hall, Vernon and Third street. The thirty-five graduates were the guests of honor at the banquet.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Boston Opera Company.

"The Follies of June 9."

On account of the reception accorded the many song numbers of this week's production, "The Follies of June 9," the management of the Boston Lyric Musical Comedy company will allow theatergoers of Duluth to select the song hits they wish to have featured from week to week during the summer musical season.

This plan of introducing just what song hits and late opera or popular airs the public desires, promises to interest a number of music lovers in this city. As the productions of "The Follies" from week to week are similar to the reviews of the American Roof Garden produced every summer by Florenz Ziegfeld, a song number may be introduced at any place in the production.

One of the features to be introduced every week beginning with "The Follies of June 16" next week is a series of grand opera selections by the principals of the company. Lyceum theatergoers may also announce their preference as to their popular opera selection and those receiving the most requests will be featured by the principals. This week an imitation is given of Caruso and several of his co-stars in one of the Italian tenor's famous opera numbers. An imitation of Melba is also given by Tom Burns, which is one of the hits of the production.

A special priced matinee was given this afternoon and the production will continue for the remainder of the week, with another popular priced matinee Saturday.

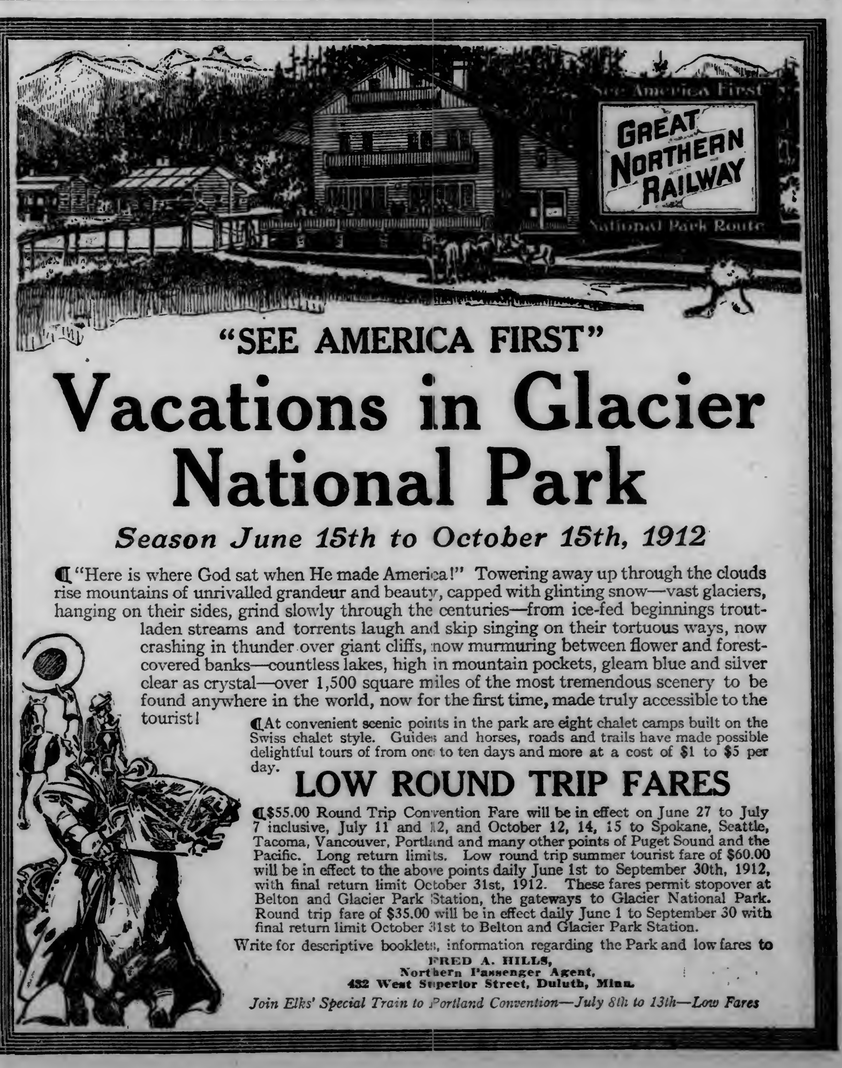

Dissolution of Partnership.

You are hereby notified that the partnership of Meudenhall & Hoopes, composed of Luther Mendenhall and Townsend W. Hoopes, doing business at Duluth, Minnesota, in real estate, loans and insurance, will be dissolved and discontinued by mutual consent on July 1, 1912.

The affairs of the partnership will be settled by Mr. Mendenhall. Mr. Hoopes will continue business in the same line.

TWO FREED FROM MARRIAGE BONDS

Judge Ensign this morning granted a decree of divorce to Ervin T. Martin, aged 30, from Violit Martin, 20, on the grounds of adultery.

The Martins were married at Escanaba, Mich., on March 30, 1908. The plaintiff named his brother, Robert T. Martin and Bert D. Temple as corespondents and claimed that his wife was now living with Temple as man and wife.

The court granted Martin the custody of their only child, Olive, a daughter, aged 3. Mrs. Martin put in no appearance at the trial.

BLAMES ALL ON BROTHER

William Switzer Tells Long Story in Defense of Conduct.

How home life in his household had been one long sweet story of peace and affection until one day in March when a certain black sheep in his father's family invaded his domicile, stole his wife's affections and came out of a gun play a free man while he himself was obliged to go to jail—this and other events leading up to his arrest for pulling a gun on his wife were eloquently recited to Judge Dancer this morning by William Switzer who pleaded guilty in district court to a charge of assault, second degree. Sentence was deferred.

Switzer forgot to tell the court, however, about his recent escapade at Ashland, where he created a sensation by pretending suicide after writing a handful of farewell letters to his wife, Ida Switzer, who had left him to come to Duluth to live with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson of Garfield avenue. It was shortly after this affair that Switzer came to Duluth, walked into his father-in-law's place of abode and brandished a gun in his wife's face. His better half fainted, Switzer took to his heels and hied himself to the Wisconsin side of the bay. He was caught on Connors' Point and brought back to Duluth by the police.

Switzer did most of the talking when up before the court this morning. His remarks were directed for the most part against his brother, Frank Switzer, whom he characterized as a "bad man," and his father-in-law. He said that he had carried a gun with him all the time, fearing that his brother would carry out a threat to shoot, and Johnson, his father-in-law would put into effect a threat to kill. This is how he explained why he had a gun in his hand when he visited his wife last week, Thursday.

Blames Brother.

Switzer laid all of the trouble he has been in to his brother Frank. It was evident from his story that there was no feeling between them akin to that between Daman and Pythias.

Switzer said that he and his wife were living peacefully in Ashland until March 4, when his brother, Frank, came to their home. Frank had just returned from the woods, Switzer said, and was flush with money and bad whiskey.

At first William showed hospitality to his wayward brother, but when Frank showed a disposition to take advantage of his absence and teach his wife to drink beer and whisky, William thought that it was time to "draw the line," he said.

William told Frank so and the latter appeared surprised at the breach of brotherly love. Later surprise turned to anger and a scene followed in which knives were brought into play. Fortunately no one was hurt.

In the fracas, however, knives were luckily laid aside and other missles were resorted to. Frank found a lamp handy and let it fly at Will. It exploded and set the house afire. Will had presence of minde enough left to put the fire out and save the house. In the meantime officers rushel in and arrested him. His wife turned against him and took the part of the brother, he told the judge.

Here the thread of the story breaks. The judge was informed by Switzer, however, that Mrs. Sweitzer "listened to neighbors and outsiders" and upon their advice left him to go back to her parents and the haunts of her happy childhood.

As to the brother, who he says is a dangerous man to be at large, Switzer told the court that he thought that he had changed his name and had left the country.

The judge not being advised as to the wife's story deferred passing sentence until she could appear in court. The case will probably be disposed of sometime this week.

MERCHANTS HOLD MEETING

G. Roy Hall talked on "Building a City" and C. H. McIntosh spoke on "Retail Advertising" at the meeting of the Duluth Retail Merchants' association held last evening at the St. Louis hotel.

The meeting was largely attended, J. J. Moe presiding. The papers were both interesting and created an informal discussion.

DELEGATE TO ENCAMPMENT

M. W. Bates is attending the Minnesota state encampment of G. A. R. men, which is being held at Minneapolis today.

Commander-in-chief Henry M. Trimble of Princeton, Ill., is in attendance at the Minnesota meeting. Interest centers on the election of a state commander and it is probable that W. P. Roberts of Minneapolis will get the honor.

There are 160 G. A. R. posts in the state and each one of them is allowed one delegate to the encampment for each fifty members. So far as is known Mr Bates is the only one to go from Duluth.

BURNQUIST FOR SECOND PLACE

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative J. A. A. Burnquist of St. Paul this morning announced that if a fair primary bill is passed he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor. As Mr. Burnquist is from St. Paul, this is held by many to shut out both E. T. Young and S. G. Iverson as candidates for governor, unless they wish to run the handicap of a multiplicity of candidates from St. Paul. Possible governorship candidates are many. During the past twenty-four hours, R. C. Dunn, E. T. Young, S. G. Iverson and W. S. Douglas, all potential governorship candidates, have been to see I. A. Caswell, leader of the successful Roosevelt fight, to get his support. It is understood that he has refused to commit himself to any of them.

Miss Larsen Will Not Let You Buy a Bon Ton Corset Unless You Should Have One!

It is surely a great privilege to be fitted with corsets by such an expert as Miss Larsen. She is such a genius in corset fitting that Duluth women should certainly be glad of her visit.

She is so jealous of the reputation of the Bon Ton Corset that she will not allow you to buy a Bon Ton unless she is sure that it will give you better satisfaction than any other corset you could buy.

To those desiring a lower priced corset, she especially recommends the Adjusto and Royal Worcester Corsets as being most satisfactory in their class.

You are invited to meet Miss Larsen and talk over your corset problems with her. She will be pleased to show you just why Bon Ton Corsets have become such favorites with the French dressmakers, who insist that the corset is the foundation of the dress.

And if she fits you—you'll have a figure to delight your dressmaker.

Lovely Lingerie Dresses in Great Variety at $5.00 to $18.50

This is really the most charming lot of summer dresses we have ever gathered. There are mulls, tissues, voiles, marquisettes, dimities, linens and fancy wash fabrics in various excellent models, with Dutch or high neck, long or short sleeves. Variously trimmed with dainty shadow laces and tuckings, with touches of embroidery and ribbon. Embroidered belt, panel or three-piece skirts.

See the Dresses at $6.50

Prices range $5.00, $6.50, $7.50, $8.50, $10.00, $12.50 and up to $18.50. There are sizes from 14 to 46. The showing at $6.50, $8.50 and $10.00 includes models of rare distinction.

These Cream Serge Suits Specially Priced at $25.00

Handsome wide wale Lewis Serges. A beautiful speckless cream with semi-French fitted jacket, having a nifty tailored collar and long revers. Lined with handsome peau de cygne and superbly tailored throughout. Skirts have envelope front panel with set-in kick pleats at sides and back. Two models similar to those shown above specially priced at $25.00. $25

Here Are the Popular Tub Silks for Warm Weather

Woven striped tub silks in the 36-inch widths. Neat, refined patterns, pretty colorings. Make charming little tub frocks for ladies or misses. Are also especially effective and practical for those little shirt waists. Here are designs that are unusual, and in extra good qualities. $1.00 and $1.25 a yard. $1.00 $1.25

Buy White Shanghai for Underwear

This is a natural woven silk, made on the old fashioned looms in China. It is made of a natural silk which accounts for it being very soft, and of course not having any finish or loading in it, will launder perfectly. We highly recommend this for underwear, slips, waists and dresses. Especially effective when made up with the heavy laces. 24 inches wide, $1.00 a yard. $1.00

Here Is the New Shanghai Duck

We show this in white, light blue and pink. The finish and texture of the cloth makes it especially adapted for slips and dress purposes. Will launder perfectly, and you are sure of getting the most satisfactory wear out of it. This is a season of wash silks. We believe you will appreciate this number. 27 and 32 inches wide—$1.00 and $1.25 a yard. $1.00 $1.25

Other New Additions to the Lot of Bordered Foulards on Sale at $1.25 the Yard

We have taken additional pieces from our regular $2.00 and $2.50 qualities and put them in the lot for quick clearance. You perhaps have noticed some of them on display in one of our east arcade windows. These are the standard showerproof foulards of the best quality in choice designs. You require very little trimmings in making up this class of silks, and you know how practical and comfortable a foulard silk is. If you have silks to buy this season, here's a bargain you cannot afford to miss. 42 and 44-inch widths at $1.25 a yard. $1.25 $1.25

ONE KILLED IN AUTO WRECK.

Two Others Are Hurt in Accident at Binghampton, N. Y.

Binghampton, N. Y., June 12.—Lewis H. Morgan, vice president of a wholesale dry goods house here, was killed and H. P. Weller, copy reader on the Binghampton Press, was badly hurt last evening when an automobile carrying a party of five crashed into an iron bridge at a sharp turn in the road.

In the car was Harry Lumley, recently deposed pilot of the local baseball team, who suffered a severe scalp wound. Morgan was caught between the iron work of the bridge and the car, and his skull crushed. Weller was doubled up in the tonneau and both legs were broken. He will recover.

The dead man's cousin, George A. Morgan, was driving the car.

KANSAS CITY PASSENGERS THROW SMOKERS OFF CAR.

Kansas City, Mo., June 12.—Irate passengers took a hand in the controversy over smoking on the street cars here yesterday and several men who defied the "no smoking" rule, thus delaying traffic, were roughly handled.

When a woman, in a hurry to get to the depot, pleaded with two men to stop smoking on a car, the men laughed at her. Other passengers threw the smokers into the street.

Several hundred persons gathered around another car in which three men were smoking. The crowd assumed such a threatening attitude that the management ordered the car to a side track.

In a three-cornered fight a smoker, a newsboy and a postoffice clerk were arrested.

Henricksen's —Leading Jewelers

THIS IS THE BRIDE'S JEWELRY STORE

The social calendar is filled with announcements of weddings and "at homes" and the "showers," parties and other social functions attendant upon these June weddings.

THE GIFTS FOR THE BRIDE

Aside from the associations connected with the giving of wedding presents—and through them, the givers—are unconsciously classed and catalogued according to quality—not that the costliest gifts are most highly prized, but rather that those gifts which are of known high quality, each the best of its kind and class—endear themselves to the heart of the bride, and we know of nothing that stands for so much in quality as to have this—

The Henricksen Trade Mark

on the box or package containing your gift.

This mark is never put on cheap and inferior grade jewelry. We have loads of medium and low priced jewelry, silverware, cut glass and art goods.

Highly appropriate for wedding gifts, and if you care for the more expensive things in these lines our stocks afford you the choicest selections. And REMEMBER. This is a "strictly one-price" store, all prices marked in plain figures and everything has the Henricksen stamp of quality.

BUSINESS IMPROVING

Politics Not Interfering With Return of Prosperity, Says B. P. Neff.

Bentley P. Neff and Mrs. Neff returned today from a four weeks' trip in the East. New York, Jersey City, Atlantic City, Washington, Toronto and other cities were visited during the trip. During the entire trip the weather was ideal, being the first favorable weather that there has been in the East during the present season.

"You can get any kind of political opinion that you want in the East," said Mr. Neff. "Politics is the chief subject of consideration at the present time. But, mind you, politics is not interfering with business in any way. The orders for fall trade are very heavy—in fact, clear ahead of last year and the indications are that the business for the fall months will be the heaviest for years.

"Right now business is showing a decided increase in all lines. People in New York and the other Eastern cities we visited are all optimistic; you can't tell them that the business of the present time is not the best that we have had in the past four or five years."

B. P. NEFF.

Mr. and Mrs. Neff and a party of their friends motored down from New York city to Sea Girt on the Atlantic, covering a long distance by the beautiful coast route. "The roads are simply perfect," said Mr. Neff. "They are smooth as a table. Practically all of the roads are macadamized and the constant travel of the automobiles has made them perfect. All of the roads in the state of New Jersey are constructed by the state. Only recently $5,000,000 was appropriated for the construction of roads.

"If we had roads like those of New Jersey in this state, or if we had such a highway between Duluth and the Twin Cities, we would see a wonderful increase in travel. Down there they think nothing of a trip of several hundred miles.

"Travel in an automobile is as near perfect as the imagination can convey. There are little inns dotting the course down the coast, and the delightful weather and the breeze sweeping in from the coast, made the trip one that will not be very soon forgotten."

NOTICE, L. O. O. M.

All members of Duluth Lodge, No. 505, Loyal Order of Moose, are requested to meet at the Moose hall, Thursday morning at 7 a. m., sharp, to attend the funeral at the home of our late brother, Henry La Crosse.

OBITUARY

Frederic Passy, the French economist and peace apostle, died in Paris, June 12, in his 91st year.

FREDERIC PASSY.

Lottie Gilson, a well known vaudeville singer is dead in New York. Miss Gilson was a reigning favorite in the Tony Pastor, Koster and Bial and Imperial Music halls epoch of some fifteen years ago.

Robert H. Moore, aged 67 years, a pioneer Iowa newspaper man, died in Ottumwa, Iowa, June 11, following an operation. Mr. Moore went to Fairfield, Iowa, when a child. He operated a boy's newspaper there as his first venture. Later he went to Ottumwa and began the publication of the Ottumwa Democrat. At the time of his death he was publisher of the Saturday Herald, a weekly society paper.

John Goss, resident of Anoka, Minn., for fifty years, died at his home in Anoka, June 11. He was president of the State Bank of Anoka and identified with many enterprises in that part of the state.

PAVING AND SEWER BIDS ARE CALLED FOR.

The board of public works is now advertising for bids for several items of public improvement and will open the bids on June 21. The bids to be received are for paving Twenty-first avenue west, Central avenue, Ramsey street and Fourth alley between Twenty-first and Twenty-second avenues east; and for sewers in Fifth street between Forty-second and Forty-third avenues west, and in Eighth street between Tenth and Eleventh avenues east.

Bids on almost every variety of paving are expected. It will then be up to the board and the council to figure out what kind of paving is wanted.

Breaks Both Arms.

The breaking of both arms and the severe bruising of her body constituted the injuries received by Mrs. W. W. Johnson when she fell down a flight of steps at the Oatka branch of the Duluth Boat club yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Johnson is matron of the clubhouse. She was hurried to St. Mary's hospital, where the broken bones were set. She was not rendered unconscious by the fall, and while suffering great pain, is getting along well.

Bishop Will Lecture.

Bishop McGolrick will deliver a lecture tomorrow evening at the art exhibit in the courthouse on "American Art." This was the lecture that was to have been given at the opening of the exhibit and was postponed. Like all the other events during the art exhibit, it will be free, and any one interested is invited. The hostesses in charge tomorrow will be Mrs. J. C. H. Engle and Mrs. H. E. Mitchell.

Central Hillside Club.

A special meeting of the Central Hillside Improvement club will be held this evening at the Franklin school to give Seventh street property owners an opportunity to sign the grading petition. About eighty signatures have been added. The committee is desirous of having a number more than are required. A resolution will be presented asking the common council to order in a culvert on Ninth street between Fifth and Sixth avenue, to be paid for out of the storm sewer fund. This improvement is necessary as at present it is impossible for the hillside fire department to take care of the property west of Sixth avenue east.

Lilja Funeral.

The funeral of Herman Lilja will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the undertaking rooms of C. J. Stewart on Third avenue west. Interment will be in the London road cemetery.

Convention of Dentists.

A large delegation of Duluth dentists will be in attendance at the annual meeting of the Minnesota State Dental association, which is to take place at St. Paul on June 14 and 15. It is said that more dentists will be present at this session than at any other since the association was organized.

Mrs. Jones will spend the summer in Cleveland and Mr. Coolbaugh will return to his home in Cloquet.

MINNESOTAN IS AMONG WEST POINT GRADUATES.

West Point, N. Y., June 12.—Bright skies favored the 111th commencement at the United States military academy today. The exercises presented an innovation, since they were held under the battle monument on Trophy point. Heretofore the commencement program has been carried out in front of the library.

Following an address by Col. George W. Goethals, chairman of the Panama canal commission, Maj. Gen. Thomas H. Barry, superintendent of the academy, addressed the class and delivered the diplomas. Heretofore the secretary of war delivered the diplomas, but he was unable to attend.

The first five graduates will be assigned to the engineer corps. These are Charles S. Bennion, Utah; R. C. Kuldell, Pennsylvania; R. C. Crawford, Pennsylvania; E. G. Paules, Washington, D. C., and B. G. Cheynowith, Minnesota.

The last cadet on the list was Ulloa, the Costa Rican. He was warmly congratulated by Gen. Barry. The graduates and furlough classes left this afternoon for their respective homes.

LILLIAN RUSSELL MARRIES AGAIN

Becomes Bride of A. P. Moore, Pittsburg Publisher and Roosevelt Leader.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 12.—Lillian Russell, the actress, was married here today to Alexander P. Moore, editor of the Pittsburg Leader. Only relatives and intimate friends of the couple attended.

Mrs. Moore, who is here with a theatrical company, will leave at midnight for the East, and about the same time Mr. Moore will start for Chicago to attend the Republican national convention. He is one of the Roosevelt leaders in Pennsylvania.

LILLIAN RUSSELL MOORE.

This is the bride's fourth matrimonial venture. Her previous husbands were Harry Braham, a musical director; Edward Soloman, and John Chatterton, who sang professionally as Signor Perugini. She divorced them all, the last one in 1908. Lillian Russell was born in Iowa in 1861.

BANK IS INSOLVENT.

Suspended Winnebago, Minn., Concern Will Liquidate.

St. Paul, Minn., June 12.—The State Bank of Commerce of Winnebago, which was closed May 1 by order of Kelsey S. Chase, superintendent of banks, has been found in such condition that it has been placed in liquidation.

"I have ascertained that the bank is not solvent," says Mr. Chase. "Our efforts to dispose of the business have so far not been successful. The direct liabilities of the bank in deposits which we have been able to locate so far are $28,536. There may be other direct liabilities which we have not found. The assets are substantially as they are at the present time, and the "cash on hand" includes: Notes, $223,307; overdrafts, $3,876; office equipment, $1,941; real estate, $5,394; cash on hand, $20,997; rental, $255,517. It is not possible at this time to determine the value of the notes, as it is claimed by the makers of some of them that they have paid them."

BREWER IS SUICIDE AT MOTHER'S GRAVE.

Chicago, June 12.—Otto L. Tosetti, vice president of a brewing company, committed suicide today on his mother's grave in Oakwood cemetery. Mr. Tosetti shot himself. The deed was done shortly before noon.

Mr. Tosetti was 39 years old and unmarried. The shot was heard by two workmen, who ran to him. The bullet penetrated his brain and caused instant death.

Grief over the recent death of a relative is believed to have been responsible.

LEGAL NOTICES.

CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION —OF— PARK ADDITION LAND COMPANY.

We, the undersigned, for the purpose of forming a corporation, under and pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 58 of the Revised Laws of Minnesota for 1905, and any amendments thereof, do hereby associate ourselves as a body corporate, and do hereby adopt the following certificate of incorporation:

ARTICLE I.

The name of the corporation shall be PARK ADDITION LAND COMPANY. The general nature of its business shall be to buy, sell, exchange and generally deal in real properties, improved and unimproved, store buildings, dwelling houses, barns, wharves, water rights and privileges; to build, construct, operate, maintain, lease and sell dwelling houses, apartment houses and business blocks of all kinds and descriptions; to plat into town, city or village lots any lands within or in proximity to any town, city or village in the State of Minnesota, and to sell, exchange and generally deal in such lots when platted, according to law; to make and obtain loans upon real estate, improved or unimproved, platted or unplatted, and to supervise, manage and protect such property and loans, and all interests and claims affecting the same; to have the same insured against fire and other casualties; to investigate the credit, financial solvency and sufficiency of borrowers, mortgagors, and sureties upon bonds, mortgages and undertakings; to improve, manage, operate, sell, mortgage, lease or otherwise dispose of any property, real or personal, and take mortgages and assignments of mortgages upon the same. The principal place of transacting the business of this corporation shall be the Village of Chisholm, St. Louis County, Minnesota.

ARTICLE II.

The time for the commencement of this corporation shall be June 18th, 1912, and the period of its duration shall be thirty years.

ARTICLE III.

The names and places of residence of the persons forming this corporation are: James J. Hayes of the Village of Chisholm, St. Louis County, Minnesota; John Pasternaki of the City of Virginia, St. Louis County, Minnesota, and De Witt Southwick of the City of Duluth, St. Louis County, Minnesota.

ARTICLE IV.

The management of this corporation shall be vested in a board of directors, composed of three members. The names and addresses of the first board of directors are: James J. Hayes, Chisholm, Minnesota; John Pasternaki, Virginia, Minnesota, and De Witt Southwick, 4624 Cook street, Duluth, Minnesota. The first officers of this corporation shall be: President, James J. Hayes; vice president, De Witt Southwick; secretary, John Pasternaki, and treasurer, John Pasternaki. All of the above named officers and directors shall hold their respective offices aforesaid until the next annual meeting of the corporation, to be held in the Village of Chisholm, St. Louis County, Minnesota, on Saturday, the 22nd day of June, 1912, at which time and annually thereafter a board of directors shall be elected from and by the stockholders of this corporation. The annual meeting of the corporation shall be held at its principal place of business on the third Saturday in June in each year. Immediately after the election of directors, or as soon thereafter as practicable, the directors shall meet and elect from their number a president and vice president, and from their number or from the stockholders a secretary and a treasurer. Any two offices, except that of president and vice president, may be held by one person. The directors and officers of this corporation shall hold their respective offices until their successors have been duly elected and entered upon the discharge of their duties. The first meeting of the stockholders and of the board of directors shall be held at the office of James J. Hayes, on Second avenue, in Chisholm, St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 22nd day of June, 1912, at 10 and 11 o'clock respectively, A. M.

ARTICLE V.

The amount of the capital stock of this corporation shall be Forty Thousand (40,000) Dollars, which shall be paid in, in money or property, or both, in such manner, at such times, and in such amounts as the board of directors shall order. The capital stock shall be divided into Four Hundred (400) shares of the par value of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars each.

ARTICLE VI.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which this corporation shall at any time be subject shall be the sum of Twenty Thousand ($20,000.00) Dollars.

STEADY DAY FOR WHEAT

Leading American Cereal Fluctuated Indecisively During Session.

Flaxseed Market Is Dull—General Tendency Is Bullish.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 12.—Wheat made a variety of kinds of closes on the North American markets tiday. Duluth July closed ⅜c lower. Minneapolis July was unchanged. Chicago July was ⅝c to ½c higher and Winnipeg July closed ¼c to ⅝c higher. The visible factors operating on the markets were for the most part bearish, but late in the session Chicago led off with a bulge and other markets followed to a greater or less extent. Duluth cash wheat closed 1c over July. Oats closed ⅝c higher and rye 2c higher. Durum and barley were unchanged. Duluth July flax closed unchanged, but September was 1c higher.

Continued reports of favorable weather in the Southwest, removing all possible doubt of the complete breaking of the drouth in Kansas and Nebraska, caused wheat to sag on the markets of the United States this morning. American primary receipts, smaller than those of a year ago, had some tendency to check the decline. But the good weather reports from the Southwest received more attention than any other factor. The government forecast prophesied cloudy and rainy weather for both Kansas and Nebraska within the coming twenty-four hours.

Duluth July wheat, which closed yesterday at $1.13⅜ asked, opened today at the same figure asked, but at noon was quoted at $1.12⅞ asked. Minneapolis July also showed a decline. Chicago and Winnipeg July at noon were slightly higher.

Wheat on the Liverpool market closed today ⅝d to ¾d lower. This was due in the main to profit-taking, caused by recent gains. The decline was checked to some extent by means of light supplies and a strong demand in France and by the expectation of moderate shipments from Argentina.

Duluth Flax Market Dull.

There was little doing on the Duluth flaxseed market this morning. July was for a time bullish and on the whole held its own during the morning. At noon it was unchanged at $2.30. September at noon was 1 cent higher at $2.08. There was little flaxseed offered and the demand was not particularly aggressive at prevailing prices, though the tendency was generally rather upward than downward. Winnipeg July at noon was unchanged at $2.12 bid. Buenos Ayres July closed yesterday ¾c lower at $1.83¼. London Calcutta June and July today closed ⅝c lower at $2.31¾.

There is one feature of the market that is very remarkable to the casual observer. The receipts of flaxseed on the Duluth market have been vastly greater since Sept. 1, 1911, than they were during the corresponding period of the previous crop year, because the Northwestern flax crop was so much greater. The total of flaxseed receipts on the Duluth market since Sept 1, 1911, comes to 7,541,584 bu., against a total of 3,273,908 bu. for the corresponding period of the previous crop year. Yet the price has lately been about as high as it was a year ago. The explanation is the bullish situation abroad. The crop of India is not by any means so large as expected nor anywhere near the size of the crop of the year before. The Argentine flaxseed crop, though larger than it was the year before, has been of very poor quality, and some crushers express the opinion that its total oil yield will prove actually less. The European demand for linseed oil is brisk and that of the United States has also been waking up. Purchases that have long been deferred by reason of adverse commercial conditions and high priced flaxseed and linseed oil can be put off no longer. The situation the world over is bullish in spite of the larger American and Canadian yields.

Charles H. Thornton, who operates on the grain exchanges of both Duluth and Winnipeg, today expressed the opinion that the movement of Canadian grain through Duluth would not prove to be the great and permanent feature that many people seemed to expect it to be.

"There are several reasons for my opinion," said Mr. Thornton. "In the first place it should be remembered that last fall the movement of the Canadian grain was very late. The Western Canadian grain did not begin to move in any very large volume until after the middle of October. Under normal conditions the grain should be going to the markets about the middle of September. For that reason a great deal that under usual conditions would have gone by water before navigation closed had to be sent to Duluth.

"Another reason is that the season of navigation is likely to be lengthened, so that grain can be shipped from Fort William and Port Arthur later in the fall than is now done.

"Another is the fact that arrangements are being made to have a larger number of boats wintering at Port Arthur and Fort William than ever before, and these boats will hold a vast amount of grain.

"The fourth and perhaps the most potent reason of all is the fact that the Canadian grain shippers are going to have more adequate facilities for their own all-rail shipments to the East. The Canadian Pacific is building an elevator at Winnipeg to take care of 2,000,000 bushels of grain. This railroad has been making arrangements with the Soo for all-rail shipments from Winnipeg via Duluth to the East. This will mean that a great deal of grain that might have to be stored at Duluth, if it were not for this arrangement, will go right through to the East. Moreover the Grand Trunk Pacific is vastly increasing its elevator capacity at Port William and Port Arthur. With a double track running from Winnipeg to the East, one route being by Duluth and the other by Port Arthur, the Canadian shipments by rail to the East will easily amount to 300 cars a day. 150 cars a day by each route."

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Moves in Narrow Range With Slight Advance.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 12.—Wheat was in narrow range today. Trading was small in volume and prices registered a slight advance. An easier undertone was apparent. July closed at the same figure as yesterday; September ⅝c higher and December ½c higher. Local elevator stocks decreased 725,000 bu for four days. Carlot wheat receipts:

Minneapolis today, 75; week ago, 65; year ago, 197. Duluth today, 62; week ago, 68; year ago, 45. Winnipeg today, 272; week ago, 215; year ago, 152.

Cash wheat was in good demand today and the market held about steady. Mills were active buyers of light offerings. No. 1 northern sold for 2c above the July contract.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,461 tons. Demand continued slow and market dull. Prices unchanged.

Wheat—July opened, 1.12@1.12¼; high, $1.12⅝; low, $1.11⅝@1.11⅞; closed, $1.12⅛; September opened, $1.04⅞; high, $1.05⅜; low, $1.04⅝; closed, $1.05⅜; December opened, $1.05⅜; high, $1.05⅞; low, $1.05¼; closed, $1.05⅝.

Closing cash: No. 1 hard, $1.14⅝; No. 1 northern, $1.14⅜; to arrive, $1.14⅛; No. 2 northern, $1.12⅝; to arrive, $1.12⅜; No. 3 wheat, $1.10⅝@1.11⅛; No. 3 yellow corn, 71@72c; No. 3 white oats, 51½@52c; No. 2 rye, 83@83½c.

Bran in 100-pound sacks, $19.50@20.50.

Flour—The flour market was quoted steady but dull. Demand was very low and not as good as yesterday. Prices unchanged. Shipments, 42,454 barrels. First patents, $5.50@5.75; second patents, $5.20@5.45; first clears, $3.90@4.15; second clears, $2.80@3.10.

Flax—Receipts, 14 cars, year ago, 6; shipments, 6. There was a fair demand for flax today. No. 1 seed sold for 2@3c below the Duluth July. Closing prices, $2.27@2.28.

Barley—Receipts, 10 cars, year ago, 1; shipments, 8. Barley dull and a trifle easier. Demand slow on light offerings. Prices quoted unchanged to 2c lower than yesterday. Closing range, 65c@$1.10.

New York Grain.

New York, June 12.—Close: Wheat—July, $1.14½; September, $1.10¾.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, June 12.—Reports of fast approaching exhaustion of supplies in France had a tendency today to harden the wheat market here. So also did a large decrease in stocks in Minneapolis. The opening varied from ⅛c lower to ¼c advance. September started at $1.05 to $1.05¼, ranging from ¼c off to ⅛c up, touched $1.04⅞@1.05 and then rose to $1.05⅜.

Heavy rains in South Dakota and assertions that crop damage in Kansas had been grossly exaggerated brought about a temporary setback. The close, nevertheless, was firm at $1.05⅝@1.05¾ for July, a net advance of ½@⅝c.

Cool weather made corn firm. July opened ¼c down to ¼c higher, at 73⅜c to 73⅝c and ascended to 73⅞c. Prospects of a falling off in receipts after this week led to a further gain. The close was firm, ⅜@⅝c net higher at 74¼@74⅝c, July.

In the oats crowd covering by shorts turned the market upward. July started ¼@⅜c to ½@⅝c lower, at 49⅜c to 50c, but quickly mounted to 50⅝c.

A larger run of hogs at Western points eased provisions. Initial sales were at last night's level to 5c below, with September delivery $19.10 for pork, $11.10 to $11.12½ for lard and $10.65 for ribs.

Cash grain: Wheat—No. 2 red, $1.10@1.12½; No. 3 red, $1.07@1.10½; No. 2 hard, $1.09@1.11¼; No. 3 hard, $1.06@ about the middle of October. Under normal conditions the grain should be going to the markets about the middle of September. REMARKS—Showers fell over Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas. Heavy rains occurred over portions of the latter state.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

‡—Not included in the district averages.
§—Maximum of yesterday, minimum of last night.
T—Indicates inappreciable rainfall. *—Maximum for yesterday. †—Minimum for 24 hours, ending 8 a. m., 75th meridian time.

NOTE—The average maximum and minimum temperature are made up at each center from the actual number of reports received, and the average rainfall from the number of stations reporting 0.10 inch or more. The "state of weather" is that prevailing at time of observation.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Prices Rise and Fall Within the Most Circumscribed Limits.

Complete Stagnation Overtakes the Market in the Final Hour.

New York, June 12.—Dullness and irregularity were the dominant features of the opening stock market Gains and losses were fractional except in a few unimportant instances.

No change from the inactivity and irregularity of the opening was shown in the first hour. A few stocks of minor speculative importance made gains, but the standard shares were inclined to heaviness.

Prices of leading stocks rose and fell within the most circumscribed limits during today's early session on the exchange. Trading was less than one-quarter of that in the corresponding period yesterday and many semi-active issues were without quotations up to noon.

Bonds were irregular.

The market closed steady. Complete stagnation overtook the market in the last hour with no material price changes save in Colorado Fuel, which lost all its advance.

NEW GROSS EARNINGS BILL FOR A STRAIGHT INCREASE IN THE RATE

Will Be Promptly Passed By Both House and Senate.

No Possibility That Duluth's Taxing Powers Will Be Affected.

Senate Names Committee to Confer With House on Adjournment.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although an opinion by Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith, rendered this morning, holds constitutional the Rines-Warner bill increasing the railroad gross earnings tax from 4 to 5 per cent, the senate judiciary committee today decided that, in view of the amount involved in the 25 per cent increase proposed in the tax rate, it will be safer to drop the attempt to reach railroad earnings from other than operating sources. A new bill, simply making a straight increase of 25 per cent in the tax rate, will be introduced in the house this afternoon, therefore, by Representatives Rines and Warner, and passed under suspension of the rules. The senate will pass it tomorrow.

The senate committee did not take the position of disagreeing with the attorney general's office, but it did take the position that there can be no possible question about the constitutionality of the straight increase, and,

TO SUCCEED NIXON IN THE U. S. SENATE

GEORGE WINGFIELD.

Reno, Nev., June 13.—Governor Oddie has appointed George Wingfield United States senator to succeed the late Senator Nixon.

Mr. Wingfield is one of the "Bonanza Kings" of Nevada and was a partner of the late Senator Nixon in the opening of some rich mining properties in that state. Their fortunes both sprung from a $300 grub stake supplied to Wingfield by Nixon when the two were total strangers and Nixon, an ex-telegraph operator, was working in a small bank at Winnemucca, Nev. Some years later Wingfield almost single-handed ended a strike in the Nevada mines by displaying a wicked revolver and ordering the trouble-makers out of the region.

RECALL MAY GET THROUGH

Provision Applying It to Judges Stricken Out By Committee.

No "Woodchuck" Concealed in the Gross Earnings Tax Bill.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although the recall bill is not on the house program, it stands a pretty fair chance of getting into the list of the achievements of the present session.

It received another push along the way yesterday afternoon when the house committee on elections unanimously recommended it to pass, and decided to report it favorably to the house today.

First, however, the provision making it applicable to judges was stricken out, on motion of G. W. Brown of Glencoe, by a vote of 12 to 10. This action does not reflect the sentiment of the committee on the judicial recall. It is rather an echo of the curious history of this bill at the regular session. Probably most of those who voted to strike this provision out of the bill favor the judicial recall, but

WOULD REPEAL THE SEVEN-SENATOR LAW

Southern Minnesota Member Introduces Bill in the House.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house was startled this morning when a move to repeal the seven-senators law of the 1911 session was made by a member from the extreme southern part of the state, Representative F. J. C. Christie of Austin, who supported the bill at the regular session. The bill was received and referred to the reapportionment committee. It contains the following preamble:

"Whereas, the American ideal of government is a government of, by and for the people, which means people on a basis of political equality without discrimination between sections or between city and country; and whereas, the so-called seven-senators bill is a grave infraction of that ideal, the chief effects of which are certain to be an arraying of country against city and sections against section, for which there should be no place in a state which can best realize its tremendous potentialities of greatness only by harmonious co-operation for the common good and to a common end, therefore, be it enacted," etc.

CHINESE FAMINE REPORTED BROKEN

New York, June 13.—The Chinese famine relief committee announced today through its secretary that cabled word had been received from China, indicating that there is no further need of help from this country at this time for the relief of famine sufferers. The committee has therefore ceased its efforts in this connection and will close its accounts.

The total amount of the funds forwarded to China through all sources, says the statement, was $324,515, of which sum more than $122,000 passed through the hands of the New York committee.

LORIMER TO BE EXPELLED

Now Absolutely Beaten But He Clings to a Forlorn Hope.

Nelson's Charge That Cuban Revolts Are Fomented in United States.

(By Willis J. Abbot.)

Washington, June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The determiantion of the United States senate to fix July 6 as the date for taking a vote on the Lorimer case puts a complete quietus upon all reports as to early adjournment of this congress. Much of the time prior to that date will be taken up with debate on the Lorimer case, while one or perhaps two recesses of three days each will be taken to permit senators to attend the Chicago and the Baltimore conventions. Scarcely anybody in Washington believes now that there will be an adjournment before the last of July.

A very heavy responsibility rests on Senator Lorimer. Not merely has he forced two long sessions, at heavy expense to the country by his pertinacity

INSULTS WOMAN AND SHOOTS MEN

Italian, Knocked Down for Offense, Uses Gun—Hunted By Posse.

Appolo, Pa., June 13.—Sheriff T. J. Shaner and a large posse are scouring the hills of Armstrong county today in search of an Italian who, after he had insulted a woman at a nickelodlum here last night, followed her into the street.

William Burkett, who witnessed the incident, knocked the man down, and as the Italian lay on the ground he opened fire, fatally wounding Frank Barber, a bystander, and seriously injuring Burkett and Nelson Weinell.

PIPE LINE COMPANIES ARE COMMON CARRIERS

Washington, June 13.—The interstate commerce commission held today that pipe line companies transporting between the states are common carriers, with the obligations of such, and ordered thirteen of the largest oil pipe lines to file schedules of rates and otherwise comply with the provisions of the interstate commerce act.

Duluth Needs the Ranges and the Ranges Need Duluth.

This Is the Sentiment Expressed at Hibbing's Big Gathering.

Good Feeling Established at Chisholm—Welcomed at Other Towns.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Hibbing, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The morning of the third and last day of the Duluth boosters' trip was given over to Hibbing, but at noon the special train started over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern tracks for the last lap of the three days' journey. Stops of from five to ten minutes will be made at Iron Junction, Forbes, Zim, Kelsey, Payne, Alborn, Culver, Burnett, Saginaw, Munger and Adolph and a half hour will be given to Proctor. The train will arrive in Duluth shortly before 5 o'clock this evening.

The trip has been a fruitful and an interesting one. The boosters are tired out, but they are still boosting. Looking back over the two days they have spent on the road, they can see where incalculable good has been done for Duluth. It is not only in the cementing and establishing of trade relations that the trip has had results, but in the creation of a more cordial feeling toward Duluth on the part of the range towns.

Though not literally true, Duluth has often been accused of holding itself aloof from the ranges. A feeling has existed that Duluth as the largest city in Northeastern Minnesota looked to the ranges for its trade and its friendship as a matter of course without putting forth any effort to obtain or hold either. This trip has dispelled that feeling, which was held by more people than the casual observer would think. The trip proves that Duluth expects nothing, as a matter of course. It is willing and anxious to be judged on merit. It has the goods, and it wants the range as well as more remote territory to know it. Many of the trade excursionists are frequent visitors to the ranges. Others have not been here in years. All entertain the same cordial feeling toward the range towns and they have shown it in an effective manner. The ranges have received the Duluthians with open arms and have played the part of proud neighbors of a growing city.

Dark Horse Talk Growing as Factional Fight Gets More Bitter.

Big Mass Meeting Planned for Friday May Be Postponed.

Chicago, June 13.—New charges of attempted bribery in the battle for delegates were made today by Senator Dixon, campaign manager for Col. Roosevelt.

He charged that a member of the Republican national committee had been offered a United States marshalship if he would vote for Taft on the contests now under consideration.

"I am prepared to name the man if necessary," said Senator Dixon, "I sent word to the committeeman that any federal appointment made in the nature of a bribe for Taft votes would be held up in the senate.'

Defies Taft Managers.

Senator Dixon dared the Taft managers to be specific and give the name of the Roosevelt leader who is reported to have offered a bribe to a delegate in Alabama and the name of the man who received the money.

It was reported that the Taft managers have under consideration the introduction of a resolution in the convention requiring all delegates to vote according to the instructions given by their states until released by the candidate.

Taft leaders, after a canvass of the situation, declared they expected to control the credentials committee by a vote of 32 to 21.

IRISH WOMEN SMASH WINDOWS

Suffragettes in Dublin Imitate Tactics of Their English Sisters.

Dublin, June 13.—A campaign of window smashing was opened today by the Irish suffragettes, who tried to emulate the deeds of their English sisters, but came into vigorous conflict with the authorities. After the women had made an energetic attack on most of the public buildings, several of them were arrested.

The women, before the police arrived, shattered forty-two windows of the customs house, the postoffice, the land commissioner's office and the police and military barracks.

REUNITED AFTER SCORE OF YEARS

Brothers From Superior, Wis., Montana and Boston Meet in Washington.

(From The Herald Washington Bureau.)

Washington, D. C., June 13.—William Dooan of Superior, Wis., introduced himself to his two brothers, whom he had not seen nor heard of in twenty-two years, in the lobby of the National hotel here yesterday morning. The brothers are A. J. Doonan of Boston and M. Doonan, a ranchman of Montana.

The Boston and Montana brothers has been corresponding, but the Wisconsin brother had not been heard from after he left his home in Boston.

The Boston and Montana brothers agreed to meet each other in Washington and attend the unveiling of the Columbus statue. They met in the lobby of the National hotel and were talking when a stranger sauntered up and sat down nearby. After listening to them a moment he discovered that he had found his brothers. He introduced himself to them, and participated in their reminiscences.

HIGHER RATE ON FLAX SUSPENDED

Commerce Commission Forbids Making Advance Before Sept. 28.

Washington, June 13.—Advances averaging approximately 10 per cent in freight rates on flax seed from St. Paul, Minneapolis and Missouri river transfer points to Chicago and destinations in the South and Southwest, today were suspended by the interstate commerce commission from July 8 until Sept. 28, pending an investigation.

CUBA AFRAID OF PEACEMAKERS

Will Not Approve If United States Sends Mediator to the Island.

Havana, June 13.—Secretary of the Interior Bru informed the Associated Press today that the proposition to send Maj.-Gen. Leonard Wood or Brig.-Gen. Enoch S. Crowder on a mission to Cuba would be regarded with disfavor by the government if they came with authority to arrange terms of settlement betwen the Cuban government and the insurgents.

The Cuban government fears that if a mission from the United States were to have authority to arrange a settlement it might involve recognition of some of the demands of the negroes. The only concession the Cuban government is willing to make is the allowance of a few days' grace to the rebels in which to surrender.

SERIOUS RIOTING AT PERTH AMBOY

Two Policemen and Three Rioters Hurt in Fight at Smelter Plant.

Perth Amboy, N. J., June 13.—Mounted patrolmen and sheriff's deputies today ordered all saloons closed in the vicinity of the plant of the American Smelting & Refining company here, where serious strike riots occurred last night in which two policemen were injured by stones and three rioters wounded by bullets.

FLOODS THREATEN SUGAR GROWERS

Desperate Fight to Check Water Is Made in Louisiana.

New Orleans, La., June 13.—A desperate fight is being waged in La Fourche and adjoining parishes to keep the flood waters of Hymelia crevasse from inundating several valuable sugar plantations, the flooding of which will increase the property loss by thousands.

Several plantation owners have given up the contest as hopeless and are moving what property they can. Livestock by the thousands, isolated in La Fourche parish, is almost certain to die of starvation. Steamers with sandbags and supplies are en route to the La Fourche section.

Hordes of rabbits can be seen on every exposed knoll. Muskrats, the enemies of the levee builder, have been forced from their burrows, and trees and bushes are alive with rattlesnakes and other reptiles.

DEMOCRATS GO TO BALTIMORE

Candidates' Headquarters Will Be Opened There This Week.

Baltimore, Md., June 13.—Informal meetings of Democratic national committeemen with National Chairman Mack within the next week are expected to outline the plan of convention proceedings which will be formally adopted by the arrangements committee that meets June 20 to select the temporary officers of the Democratic convention.

Chairman Mack is due to arrive here this afternoon to open headquarters of the national committee and confer with several national committeemen.

Reports that Chairman Mack would retire as head of the national committee are not credited by national committeemen. They say Chairman Mack's retirement is a question which lies mainly between the presidential candidate and Mr. Mack.

Headquarters for Governor Wilson and Speaker Champ Clark are expected to be opened here within a day or two.

Baltimore waits on Chicago, say the national committeemen of the Democratic party now in the city. There is little disposition, the leaders declare, to begin political activities here until the Republican national convention shall have evidenced what it intends doing.

NEW GRANDSTAND PLAY BY GOVERNOR PROBABLE

Talk of Another Extra Session, If Reapportionment Is Defeated.

Friends Urging It Is Great Opportunity for Political Coup.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Friends of Governor Eberhart are urging him to immediately call another extra session of the legislature, in the event that it adjourns without passing a legislative reapportionment bill—and at the present time there does not appear to be any chance that such a measure will get through. The governor's advisers on this point are saying that this is a great opportunity for him to show the people of Northern Minnesota that he is earnest and sincere in the demand that they be given just and equal representation with the southern sections—in fact, that it is a chance of a lifetime to make a political coup that might ensure his renomination.

Whether the governor will take this advice is uncertain. He is not saying a word for publication, but intimates privately that he may consider the idea.

SCHOOL TEACHER TO SUPPORT SELF

Dr. McCarthy of Madison Makes Prediction as to Rural Work.

Madison, Wis., June 13.—The most efficient rural school of the future will be surrounded by a small farm of from ten to fifteen acres, with a school teacher who will partly support himself upon this land. This is the opinion of Dr. Charles McCarthy, legislative librarian who is in close touch with the investigation of the rural schools of Wisconsin now being conducted by the public affairs board.

SIX MISSISSIPPI CONTESTS DECIDED FOR TAFT FORCES

Roosevelt Four Delegates-at Large From Missouri Are Seated.

Effort to Get Heney Out of Republican Committee Fails.

Chicago, June 13.—The four Roosevelt delegates-at-large from Missouri were seated unanimously by the national committee. The motion was made by Senator Penrose. The delegates seated by agreement of the Roosevelt double delegation of eight were: Governor Hadley, Jesse A. Tolerton, Walter S. Dickey, Hughes McIndoe. The balance of the Roosevelt delegation were seated as alternates. They were: John D. McNeeley, Frederick Essen, A. A. Speer and John W. Tippen.

Chicago, June 13.—Contests in six Mississippi districts — the Second, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh and Eighth—were decided in favor of the Taft delegates at the forenoon session of the Republican national committee today.

While ostensibly this action added twelve votes to the Taft column, one of the delegates declared entitled to a seat—P. W. Howard of the Eighth district—appeared on both the Taft and Roosevelt delegations under conflicting instructions.

Questioned by committee members with a view to determining in which camp Mr. Howard could be counted failed to bring from him a definite statement, but it was asserted by his

DAN CUPID IS NEGLECTING HIS DUTIES THIS YEAR

In Duluth, the love bug is still hibernating.

Or at least it would appear that way from the June marriage license record to date at the court house.

June, with its atmosphere of moonlight and perfume-laden breezes, is not scoring as heavy as usual as a big wedding month.

Either Dan Cupid has not been on his best behavior or the cool moonlight nights have been too cool for the love bug to come out of his winter quarters.

At noon today, thirty-five matrimonial permits had been issued since June 1, four of them this morning.

For the same period in 1911, forty-two licenses were issued, or seven more than during 1912.

To date this year since June 1, the average has been less than three weddings a day. Last year the average per day was four. The total number issued in June 1911 was 124.

IN POLICE COURT

Four men held for drunkenness in the city jail this morning received one of the pleasantest surprises of their lives about 10:30 o'clock. They were Dan Harrington, Mike Lupushinski, John Maher and Tour McCarty. They had already been arraigned before Judge Cutting in police court and each had pleaded guilty. They were sentenced to the county jail for three days each and were taken back to the city lockup to await transportation up the hill. Judge Cutting decided before the commitments were made out that as it was the first offense of each he would suspend sentence. Accordingly, when an officer went up to get them from the jail they arose expecting to go to the rockpile. The officer opened the door and told them to "dig." They did not understand, but when he explained, smiles like four cuts of watermelon appeared and they got out without a word.

* * *

Jennie Schwantz, an old offender, was again in for drunkenness. Usually she is very fluent on such occasions, but today in court she had nothing to say and took her sentence of five days in jail like a stoic.

* * *

Another old offender who was in the dock this morning was Mike Mullen. Mike made a plea to the court as usual, but the court regarded his story as threadbare from much use. He said that he has a job and that he would quit drinking. It was too familiar, however and the judge said: "Seven dollars or five days, Mike." It was five days.

* * *

Joe Febrie was given a suspended sentence. He was charged with starting a fire within the prohibited limits of the city.

HOUSE SEES FIGHT ON OUSTING OF GEN. WOOD.

Washington, June 13.—When the house today took up the conference report on the army appropriation bill, which the senate already had approved, Representative Prince of Illinois led a vigorous fight upon it, particularly upon the amendment which would legislate Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood out of office as chief of staff of the army.

Miss Larsen Corrects Corset Troubles

We wish Miss Larsen of New York could stay a whole month with us—but she can only give us a week in her coast-to-coast trip.

So unless you are perfectly satisfied with the corset you are wearing—unless you think your figure could not be improved by some other corset—come and consult Miss Larsen this week. She is an expert of experts—and knows how to bring out the best for your figure.

Do Your Corsets Ever "Ride Up" When You Sit Down?

Then no matter how fleshy your hips and limbs, you haven't the right corset.

For instance, there is a new feature in some of the latest models in Bon Ton Corsets—a cleverly fastened elastic gore designed to overcome just such troubles, and it does it effectively. One of these models is shown alongside!

There are also models for the slight person whose deficiencies are corrected by special models.

And the pleasing feature of these fine Bon Ton Corsets is in the fact that they set snugly through the back and under the arm, giving ample diaphragm room, rendering deep breathing natural and easy, a feature which will be especially appreciated by singers. They also largely eliminate back aches, which less scientifically designed corsets might aggravate. The close fitting top and bust line eliminates unsightly top ridges and saves garments from the wear and tear of common complaint.

Some women with large hips, waist and abdomen find ordinary corsets highly unsatisfactory.

To these women the Adjusto Corsets have claim for consideration. There is absolutely no bulging after months of wear. They remain as flat over the abdomen as in the beginning. They bring the exuberance of flesh into carefully molded lines. They cost only $3.00, and are more desirable for some figures than many of the $10.00 and $15.00 models of other makes.

Come and Talk With Miss Larsen

You will not be urged to buy. If you wish she will give you a corset prescription free to be fllled when next you want a corset.

AGED WIDOW ASKS JUSTICE

Says She Was Wrongfully Induced to Sign Away Home.

What influence was brought to bear on a widowed mother, tottering with her infirmities, as she signed away her property rights to a strong and robust step-son in the back room of a downtown saloon in February, 1910, will be one of the deciding factors in a lawsuit involving a dispute over the title of a West Duluth house and lot, which is now being tried before Judge Dibell in district court.

The bone of contention is the title to a house and 25-foot frontage on Sixty-third avenue west near the Bay View Heights incline railroad.

The step-mother, Mrs. Barbara Hartman, claims that the property is hers and that it was only by misrepresentation, fraud and deceit that it slipped through her hands into the possession of Peter Hartman, an unfaithful step-son. She has intervened an objection in the proceedings which Hartman has instituted to have the property registered under a Torrens title.

Barbara Hartman is in the winter of life. Over 80 years of age, widowed, deaf, and shaking with her infirmities, she testified with difficulty even through an interpreter this morning at the trial of the case.

The aged woman's story is that she reposed trust in her step-son and that he betrayed that trust. She says that she is unable to read and write English and has little understanding of business affairs.

Prior to Feb. 3, 1910, she claims that Peter came to her and told her that she was in danger of losing her property through an out-standing tax title. He informed her, she said, that he could settle and compromise the tax title and save the property.

All that it was necessary for her to do, she was given to understand, was simply to sign a paper acknowledging receipt of the money advanced and a promise to repay it as soon as she was able.

Believing in the honesty of her step-son, she said, she willingly signed the papers, she going with him to a downtown saloon, where the business was transacted in a rear room.

At that time she said that she felt grateful for his kindness in helping her to save her property and thanked him many times for the interest he took in her welfare. It was not until several months later she says that she discovered that the property stood on record in the name of her step-son, and that she had signed away a deed to her home.

Mrs. Hartman testified that she received no consideration at the time that the papers were signed and that no money passed between them.

The case will probably be submitted to Judge Dibell this afternoon.

PUBLICITY FOR DULUTH

The publicity committee of the Commercial club is due to hold a meeting tomorrow. One of the most important matters that is to come before the committee, is the matter of advertising literature for Duluth, posters, stickers, and other matter that will focus the eye of the travelor on Duluth and its manifold charms.

If plans that have been maturing are disposed of before the committee, it is probable that the campaign of sending out literature will be begun immediately. Printed matter descriptive of Duluth will be sent to all parts of the country. The summer climate, Duluth's advantages as a resident city during the heat of June, July and August, its accommodations, and also some matter regarding the industrial situation here, will be dwelt upon.

SEES CHANCE OF DEFEAT

Charter Commissioner Points Out Dangers That Threaten Commission Plan.

Would a proposition to adopt a commission form of government for Duluth carry if it were submitted to the voters? H. H. Phelps sees danger ahead and tells why.

That was one question which the charter commission talked about informally both during and after the meeting of last evening. It is known that among certain people in the city—chiefly among the working men, it was asserted last night—there is a feeling of opposition, for members of a certain political organization have been spreading the propaganda that a commission form of government is not as close to the people as the ward or aldermanic system.

On the other hand, it was stated last night, the business men are anxious for a commission form for the reason that it is a better business organization for the city, and that when the voters realize that city officers are to handle a business corporation of a great many million dollars, a better business organization will be brought about.

"But there is another phase of the question," said H. H. Phelps of the commission, when interviewed about it today. "This idea of electing commissioners at large without regard to locality may seem all right, and probably is all right, but I want to tell you that you are not going to be able to make the people of the West end and West Duluth believe it. I am on the sub-committee which has been appointed to collect data, with a view to framing a charter on the commission form plan, and we have talked over this phase of the question exhaustively and have made some investigation.

"I believe every member of the committee is convinced that such a plan to choose commissioners would result in the defeat of the commission form idea when submitted to the people. We have been told, of course, that other cities do it, but Duluth is a different city from the rest. It is twenty miles long, and people at one end seldom see people from the other end. Its sections have respective interests as diversified as it has miles, and no general commission is going to satisfy.

"We of the sub-committee believe that the city should be divided up into five sections and a commissioner elected from each section. In that way each part of the city will feel that it is represented. It might be well to divide the city into three sections, electing a commissioner from each of these, and then choose two at large. But the general commissioner plan, I believe, will be doomed to defeat as surely as it is submitted."

SWAIN TOO IMPETUOUS

Tipped Over Lamp and Burned Home of Object of Affections.

The story of how a villager, who had unlawful designs on the wife of a country postmaster, in attempting to put them into effect tipped over a kerosene lamp and burned down the post-office, is involved in a lawsuit which was yesterday tried before and submitted to Judge Cant.

The case is a Carlton county action but the attorneys are local men. Louis Larson is suing D. C. and Henry F. Behrens asking the court to set aside the deeds of all property which D. C. Behrens has transferred to his brother Henry F. Behrens since a judgment amounting to $2,500 is pending against D. C. Behrens.

The $2,500 judgment against D. C. Behrens is an outgrowth of an affair which took place two years ago this summer at Wright, a Carlton county village, where the principals in the lawsuit reside.

It was on a summer's night D. C. Behrens happened to visit the Wright postoffice at a time when Mrs. Louis Larson, wife of the postmaster, was alone.

Whether it was an accident or not that Behrens just happened in at that time and was siezed with a desire to take advantage of Larson's absence, was a matter which a jury decided and found against Behrens for a money judgment for assault.

In the melee at the postoffice that night, Behrens tipped over a lighted lamp while attempting to teach the unwilling Mrs. Larson to dance the bunny hug. The kerosene caught fire and the postoffice and contents not being fireproof went up in smoke.

Louis Larson, husband of the woman who claimed to have been insulted secured a judgment against Behrens for the malicious destruction of property and his wife secured a judgment for assault.

In the suit which is now under advisement by Judge Cant, Larson claims that Behrens transferred his property consisting of several pieces of acreage in Carlton county and elsewhere, to his brother Henry F. Behrens and to the Newell Mercantile company in which he is interested.

W. H. Gurnee is attorney for the plaintiff in the action and Baldwin & Baldwin are defending.

HOUSE REFUSES TO MOUNT ROOSEVELT'S TROPHIES.

Washington, June 13.—The house has refused to appropriate an additional sum for the preparation and mounting of skins collected by Col. Roosevelt on his African hunting trip. Former Speaker Cannon sought to have the $250,000 appropriation for that purpose increased to $325,000. This was defeated and a request for $300,000 also was lost. Minority Leader Mann accused the Democrats of disclosing an "animosity" toward the former president that should not be entertained.

MILWAUKEE BUILDING GUTTED BY FLAMES.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 13.—Fire this afternoon gutted a building covering 172 to 176 Third street, occupied by two phonograph concerns, a tea store, clothing company and a book bindery. The loss is estimated at $100,000, partly covered by insurance. For a time it was thought a whole block would be destroyed.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED CONFINED TO HIS HOME FOR WEEKS.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was the only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out that all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He told me to go to the Progressive Medical Association at No. 1 West Superior street. He had been cured himself by them and he knew they were square and knew men's diseases better than any other doctor in Duluth. They applied their Dissolving Method and at first my progress was somewhat slow, and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment." E. H. C.

MARINE NEWS

GREAT NORTHERN ROAD IS BREAKING RECORDS

Ore Shipments to Date 1,029,896 Tons Ahaad of 1911.

Will Probably Ship 13,000,000 Tons—1,000 New Cars Coming.

The Great Northern docks at Allouez have received 3,156,383 tons of ore this season. The figures are up to 7 o'clock this morning.

The total receipts up to the same date and the same hour one year ago were 2,126,487, an increase of 1,029,896 tons.

In 1910, 8,437,261 tons were handled, in 1911, 9,773,061, and it is expected that in 1912 there will be some 13,000,000 tons of ore handled from these docks.

So great has been the rush that even with its splendid equipment and more than enough cars to handle ore in ordinary years, there has been some congestion this year at the docks.

The Great Northern Railroad company some time ago, seeing that the year was to be the biggest in history, sent a rush order to an Eastern manufacturer for 1,000 new cars. They are due to be delivered on July 1. After that time the road expects to give quick service to as many boats as can be crowded under the docks daily.

At the beginning of the season the officials of the road were not very optimistic over the outlook. The steel corporation was able to tell about what it would do, but the independents hung back. The outlook was not the rosiest and the railroad company delayed ordering extra equipment.

A part of the congestion at Allouez has also been due to the fact that there have been several different grades of ore on the dock at one time with orders for more of a certain kind than was on hand.

Even with the unexpected rush the docks are away ahead of other years in the amount of ore handled up to this time. The rush is the greatest in the history of the industry and that the year's shipments will exceed 13,000,000 tons is predicted by marine men quite freely.

Other years the rush has been more pronounced at the beginning and the end of the season. This season looks like a continual rush from beginning to end.

New Welding Device.

Capt. Leonard of Cleveland, Ohio, superintendent of construction for the Great Lakes Towing company, is in the city today, having come up on the Tionesta yesterday.

Capt. Leonard is here for the purpose of superintending the installation of a new welding device in the shops of the local branch at the foot of Seventh avenue west.

Heretofore boilers have been patched when they have needed repairs. Hereafter instead of patching, the pieces will be welded together, making them, according to Capt. Leonard, as strong as ever.

The machine weighs some 3,000 pounds and the heat is generated by electric power. It has been in use at Cleveland and other lower lake ports for some time. The system is absolutely new in Duluth, however.

Workmen were setting up the machine this morning. It will be ready for use within a few days and machinists from Cleveland are here to demonstrate it to local workmen.

Grain Trade Quiet.

There is but little doing in grain, the rate remaining steady at 1½ cents. Coal is coming up slowly as yet, but it is expected that by the end of the month the much needed commodity will be moving almost as rapidly as the ore.

The demand for lumber and the great amount of it being shipped, has surprised many. The little boats are getting in a good many quick trips. The rate is steady at $2.50 to Lake Erie ports.

MINNESOTA DELEGATION.

Kellogg Calls Meeting at Chicago Next Monday Night.

St. Paul, Minn., June 13.—F. B. Kellogg, national committeeman, has issued a call for the meeting of the Minnesota delegation to the Republican national convention in club room No. 8, Auditorium Annex, in Chicago at 8:30 p. m. next Monday. At this time the selection of I. A. Caswell as national committeeman, made at the Minneapolis convention, doubtless will be confirmed and the committee will caucus on the members who will serve on the convention committees on credentials and resolutions. There has been little discussion as to the selections for these places.

The Minnesota delegation plans to leave Sunday evening. Some of the delegates will go in advance, but the bulk of them will leave in a special over the Omaha road.

DIVORCE IS DENIED HER

Judge Dibell Withholds Decree From Briefly Courted Wife.

Twice has Thelma Soderlund Wyers, aged 22, a love-at-first-sight bride come into the courts for a divorce and twice has she been turned down.

And the briefly courted wife will continue to be turned down until she learns the sanctity of an oath and quits getting caught telling stories on the witness stand. Judge Dibell so intimated yesterday.

She was disappointed yesterday when the judge refused to give her a divorce. Her attorney, John Heitman, also grew somewhat caustic in his remarks to the court. But his honor smiled, said a few things about swearing falsely and perjury, and continued the case.

The divorce decree is sought on the grounds of desertion and non-support. Mrs. Wyers testified to both these points and was corroborated by other witnesses. The court had no dispute with her on the material issues and yesterday even told her that she was entitled to the divorce. He held back for other reasons.

The young woman, however, had no particular version of what she did during her brief courtship prior to her marriage to Thomas Albert Wyers. Last week she told the judge two different stories and yesterday the testimony of the girl's mother differed from her's as to the length of time the young wife had known her husband.

Mrs. Soderlund, mother of the plaintiff, took the stand and when cross-examined by Judge Dibell through an interpreter, said that the girl had spoken of getting married six months prior to her wedding day, that she had mentioned the name of Wyers and had stated that he was a lake engineer and a good looking man. The mother, however, had only seen him the day before the wedding.

Judge Dibell called the plaintiff on the stand and asked her what she had to say about this, in view of the fact that she had testified on a former occasion, that she had only known her husband but twenty-four hours before she became his wife.

Mother Mistaken.

Mrs. Wyers insisted that her mother must be mistaken. When pressed for the reason, she was ready with a story of how six months prior to her marriage a fortune teller had read her life and had predicted that she was going to marry a handsome lake marine engineer, whose description tallied to the description of Wyers.

Judge Dibell went into details on his examination of the witness. Mrs. Wyers testified that the fortune teller did not inform her of the name of the man she was going to marry and that her mother was surely mistaken about that.

Attorney Heitman arose and argued with the court that it was not a material issue in the case as to how long plaintiff and defendant had known each other. He said:

"I presume that there are only two people in this world who actually know just how long the acquaintance of this woman and her husband was before they were married. One of them is Mrs. Wyers and the other Wyers.

"If the court wishes, I might go out and hunt up this defendant, who has chosen not to appear in defense of this divorce action and bring him into court on a subpoena. He might be able to inform the court."

Judge Dibell told Mr. Heitman that he might follow out his own suggestions and that in the meantime he would continue the case.

According to the story which the girl tells of her courtship and married life, she had known Thomas Albert Wyers only twenty-four hours before they were married. She declared that he was a man of an engaging appearance and that she was captivated by his winning ways.

They first met, she says, on the afternoon of Sept. 9, 1910. That evening, they were out for a stroll and did not return until late. The girl says that Wyers proposed to her that night and that she accepted. The next day they went to Superior, secured a license and got married.

Thelma was working in a laundry at that time and was living with her mother on West Sixth street at the West end. She informed her mother that she was married, said good bye to her laundry job and went with Wyers to live in furnished rooms, which they had secured on Lake avenue.

Got Another Bride.

All went well for about five months, she says, when Wyers, the winsome and winning, went to Wisconsin in order to find work. At Manitowoc, he duplicated his Duluth doings by annexing another bride on a brief acquaintance. Wyers won a wager in connection with his second marriage.

Wyers, the unfaithful, did not loiter in Manitowoc long. Shortly after the wedding, accompanied by his wife No. 2, he went to Michigan. He went to Traverse City, where he was arrested when the Duluth wife found that her handsome Harry was playing a double game. The charges brought against Wyers were bigamy, but they were never pressed although the Duluth bride made a trip to Michigan.

Having learned the truthfulness of the old adage about all is not gold that glitters, Mrs. Wyers went back to work. She is living with her mother.

In the meantime, her attorney John Heitman, is in a quandary.

Ingerson Heads Iowa Liquor Men.

Dubuque, Iowa, June 13.—Cedar Rapids was chosen for the 1913 convention of the Iowa Liquor Dealers' association at the closing session here. M. Ingerson of Clinton was elected president, H. P. TAFT PARDONS INDIAN WHO TOOK HIS SQUAW WHISKY.

Washington, June 13.—Maxine Matt, a Montana Indian, brought some whisky onto his reservation because his squaw, who was ill, had to have it, although he knew that it was a violation of the federal laws. President Taft believes Maxine's fidelity to his wife far overshadowed his transgression, and has unconditionally pardoned him.

EASTERN STAR LODGE WILL RECEIVE CHARTER.

The first anniversary of the organization of Euclid chapter, U. D., Order of the Eastern Star, will be celebrated Tuesday afternoon and evening at the West Duluth Masonic hall. The chapter will be given its charter at the same time. Several state officers of the order will take part in the festivities during the day.

The charter of the lodge will be handed over at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and at 6:30 o'clock refreshments will be served, following which the main business session will be held.

Among the grand officers who have already announced their intention of taking part in the festivities are: Mrs. Marilla Stone of Rush City, Minn., worthy grand matron; Dr. C. H. Nerbovig of Mankato, worthy grand patron; Mrs. Mary C. Taylor of Minneapolis, grand secretary, and Mrs. Martha M. Emery of Minneapolis, grand chaplain.

SCHOOL BANKS WILL BE OPEN DURING VACATION.

In order that the school children of West Duluth may save their pennies during the summer months, arrangements have been completed so that the schools will all be open one day a week, when the deposits may be made. The children of the Ely and Longfellow schools will make their deposits at the former school every Thursday morning. The Fairmont and Irving school children will make their deposits every week at the latter school.

Are Placed on Parole.

If they will behave for the next three months and keep away from the saloon, Louis Sandstrom and William Arbor will not be compelled to pay the fine of $50 and costs, the sentence given them yesterday afternoon by Justice J. J. Moran. The two men were arrested on a charge of drunkenness and after being sentenced, were allowed to go on parole for three months.

HAT MYSTERY IS IN STATU QUO.

The management of the Miller hotel, 224 West Superior street, yesterday afternoon received a telegram from Miss Mabel Jefferson of Kirkpatrick, Ind., fiancee of the supposed suicide, O. W. Berchtold, asking about Berchtold and Frank Penrose, and saying that a letter from the former stated that the two were going out rowing. The letter was evidently written on a letterhead of the hotel, but the management knows nothing about either of the men mentioned.

Nothing further has been learned in connection with the hat mystery, and the police are more and more inclined to believe that there has been no suicide; but that if Berchtold wrote the note and left the letter, his object was to sever connections and get away.

RESUMES WORK ON ST. PAUL BENCH

Judge Page Morris of the local federal court, left today for St. Paul, where he will take up the work of the federal court term in that city.

The women of St. Paul are glad to have Judge Morris back. Judge Smith McPherson has been handling the work for Judge Morris, who was busy in court at Omaha, Neb.

Judge McPherson made himself unpopular with the women of the Saintly City by giving Matthew McNabb of Chicago a sentence of only three months in jail and a fine of $1,000 after he had been proven guilty on a white slave charge.

The women protested against the decision of the judge and even went so far as to petition Judge Walter H. Sanborn, presiding judge to transfer Judge McPherson. It was the Federation of Women's Clubs of Minnesota which took this action. The petition had nothing to do with the present transfer however, it is stated.

A large crowd attended the commencement exercises at the Stowe school, New Duluth, this afternoon. The program was as follows: Song, "Commencement Day," chorus; oration, "Manhood," Roy Brand; essay, "The Old Trading Post," Emma Erickson; recitation, "Three Bells," Dina Dahl; song, "Happy School Days Now Are Ended," chorus flag drill, fifth and sixth grades; essay, "Clara Barton," Margaret McEachin; essay, "Legend of Spirit Island," Carl Dahl; recitation, "The Ride of Jennie McNeal," Helen Krueger; shepherdess drill, third and fourth grades; recitation, "The Leak in the Dyke," Emma Fisher; essay, "The Interstate Bridge," Lena Moe; cantata, "The Bees," primary grades; parting class song, eighth grade; presentation of diplomas.

The other schools held similar exercises in honor of the graduates, whose parents and friends attended in large numbers.

HOMECROFTERS WILL GATHER

The National Homecroft society, which has established its headquarters in Duluth, will conduct its second meeting at the regular session of the West Duluth Commercial club tomorrow evening. Several prominent speakers have been secured for the evening by the officers of the society.

Those who will speak during the evening are: Mrs. R. P. Boyington, "Dinners From Home Gardens, Both Summer and Winter"; Dr. O. A. Oredson, "The Garden Work of the West End Commercial Club"; C. E. Roe, "The Economic Value of the Home Garden," and S. A. Foster, "The Relationof the Child to the Garden." Mrs. Boyington spoke at the first meeting of the society two weeks ago. Dr. Oredson is the father of the homecroft movement in the West end and is at the head of the prize garden plan for the children of that end of the city.

Mr. Roe is at the head of the Homecroft society and is conducting the work of the organization at the present time. Mr. Foster, principal of the Irving school, started the home garden plan in West Duluth last fall and

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH

Could Hardly Eat. Gradually Grew Worse. Relieved by Peruna.

Mr. A. M. Ikerd.

Mr. A. M. Ikerd, Box 31, West Burlington, Iowa, writes:

"I had catarrh of the stomach and small intestines for a number of years. I went to a number of doctors and got no relief, and finally one of my doctors sent me to Chicago, and I met the same fate. They said they could do nothing for me; said I had cancer of the stomach and there was no cure. I almost thought the same, for my breath was offensive and I could not eat anything without great misery, and I gradually grew worse.

"Finally I concluded to try Peruna, and I found relief and a cure for that dreadful disease, catarrh. I took five bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin, and I now feel like a new man. There is nothing better than Peruna, and I keep a bottle of it in my house all the time."

Postal Inspector Views Proposed Aitkin County Rural Routes.

Aitkin, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Inspector Smith of the postal department has been looking over the territory tributary to Aitkin with a view to establishing some rural delivery routes and will probably come to some definite conclusion in the matter within a few days. The Glen and Attica district is one proposed route he has been investigating. In the past the rural mail service has been handled by rural mail offices served by star route carriers who also dropped mail into boxes the same as regular rural route carriers. A number of these offices have been discontinued and this stops the box service as well as the convenience of the small office.

One of the first requirements for maintaining rural delivery is good roads, passable under such weather conditions as are liable to be encountered.

FIRST CLASS TO GRADUATE

Thirteen Young Men Given Diplomas at Cathedral High School.

Class Orators Are Heard in Four Interesting Addresses.

The Catholic Cathedral high school last night graduated its first class, consisting of thirteen young men who have taken a four years' course at the institution. The exercises were held at the school auditorium, which was packed with friends and relatives of the class members.

A program of addresses by the class orators was given during the evening. The high school orchestra, glee club, Miss Ethel Molitor, pianist, and Edward J. Dillon, violinist, also furnished numbers during the evening. All selections were well received.

The stage and auditorium were decorated with the class colors, purple and gold. The same colors have also been chosen by the school. At the close of the exercises Bishop McGolrick presented the diplomas after making a few remarks. An appropriate address given by Rev. H. Moynahan, D. D., president of St. Thomas college of St. Paul, preceded this ceremony.

Those who received diplomas were Harry E. Ryan, Albert R. Scanlon, Edward J. Dillon, F. Archie McDowell, James A. Patt and George A. Wagner. scientific department; Emil A. Ruf, Edward F. Casey, William J. Daugherty, Michael C. Ahern, John J. Hock and Joseph L. Gruesen, commercial department.

The members of the class who took part on the commencement program by giving orations were: F. Archie McDowell, Edward J. Dillon, Albert R. Scanlon and Harry E. Ryan.

F. Archie McDowell's subject was "The Dream of a World of Peace." He urged that America should be the first of the great nations to set the example of disarmament. There is more glory in peace than in war, he declared.

"Lights and Shades of Modern Society" was Edward J. Dillon's topic. "Aristocracy scorns the needy and hates the working people, or regards them as mere puppets," he said. He declared that the women of the country should maintain high moral ideals. This, he said, would forever establish the permanency of the nation.

Albert R. Scanlon treated the subject, "Rights and Responsibilities of Labor," in a creditable manner, arguing that trade unions were dangerous and that the church should infuse into these organizations the principles of Christian charity.

"Our Country and Christian Education" was the subject of the address given by Harry E. Ryan. It was his contention that the men of the present day have degenerated morally from the standard set by the founders of the American nation and that Americans have too much science at school and irreligion at home.

"The teachers in the public schools," declared the speaker; "teach the names of the stars that dot the heavens and then stop, never teaching a thing about the Divine Creator of all these worlds. A godless teacher makes a godless pupil."

ROYAL RECEPTION IS GIVEN THE BOOSTERS ON WESTERN MESABA

a cloud obscured the sky at any time. At times the heat was uncomfortable to the marchers and dancers, but Duluth people have had so little warm weather this year that the excursionists welcomed it—discomfort and all.

Starting from Virginia in the morning the trip over the Western Mesaba was as a triumphal march, ending with a big demonstration and a most cordial welcome in Hibbing last night. At every town the visitors were cordially greeted. Everybody in the party was in high spirits and they communicated their spirits to the towns. The routine of the trip was broken by a visit to the washing plant at Coleraine, so the excursionists mixed a little instructive sight seeing with the business and pleasure of the day's schedule.

The song birds got in some effective work at Mountain Iron early in the morning. They had been joined at Virginia by G. F. Earnshaw, who proved a valuable acquisition. During the short stay at Mountain Iron the schoolhouse was invaded and the song birds went over nearly their entire repertoire. They were enthusiastically applauded and incidentally were very well satisfied with their own work.

A parade was held at Buhl, and the fifteen minutes allotted to the town gave time for little more than that.

Reception at Hibbing.

Duluth needs the ranges; the ranges need Duluth.

That was the keynote of the greetings exchanged between Duluth and Hibbing business men at the reception tendered the trade excursionists here last night. It was voiced by Rev. T. Stanley Oadams and Dr. Thomas for the Hibbing Commercial club, by E. G. Roble for the Range Credit association, by Judge Martin Hughes for the Hibbing citizens generally, and by F. A. Patrick, W. A. McGonagle, F. X. Gravel and Harry A. Earnshaw for the Duluthians. The most cordial feeling between Hibbing and Duluth was evidenced in the intercourse between the business men of the two towns. Hibbing was genuinely glad to entertain the Duluth visitors and the Duluthians were genuinely glad to be in Hibbing. The white dove of harmony was the bird of the evening and it was a busy bird accepting the many references made to it.

The Duluthians were given a right royal reception in Hibbing. A crowd was at the station to meet them. E. G. Robie, secretary of the Range Credit association, headed a committee of about twenty from that body. The Commercial club of Hibbing and the city council was also represented on the reception committee and the visitors were assured that the chief of police had been locked up in his own jail and the town was theirs to keep as long as they liked.

The red fire parade was just as spectacular and just as successful as was the parade at Virginia the night before. The streets were lined with Hibbing people, young and old, male and female, big and little. Despite the hard program of the day, the Duluthians were at their best. They burned red fire and burned enthusiasm at the same time. They gave Hibbing people a view of what a bunch of real boosters are when they are working at boosting.

After parading around the streets, the excursionists were led to the armory on the top floor of Hibbing's beautiful city hall.

Big Auditorium Crowded.

Smokes were furnished by the Credit association and the Commercial club. E. G. Roble was chairman of the meeting and Rev. T. S. Oadams, Herman Kohrt and W. L. Galloway had places on the stage. The big auditorium was crowded to the doors and everybody joined heartily in the proceedings. Frank Gravel, drum-major, had his band on hand to dispense a line of music of an excellence very seldom heard in Hibbing.

Rev. T. Stanley Oadams made the first speech of the evening. He was at his best and had the crowd in good humor in a few minutes. "You gentlemen are traveling for one house and I for another," said Mr. Oadams. "You can't do without my house when you come to pass in your checks, and I can't do without your houses while I am getting you ready to pass in your checks."

Mr. Oadams said that he was once a traveling man for a commercial house, but he changed his line and is now with a different house, but is still traveling. He paid a glowing tribute to Duluth, as the "true star-eyed goddess—a young woman in all her pristine beauty—swaying the scepter of commercial greatness in Northern Minnesota."

Mr. Oadams spoke of the principle of interdependence as having supplanted the principle of individual independence which formerly existed. Harmony should prevail among business men in all towns, he said, and between the business men of different towns in the same territory.

Dr. Thomas, president of the Commercial club, heartily welcomed the visitors. He said that Duluth is the head of the business structure in this section of the country, but that the ranges are the back-bone and if anything should happen to the back-bone the head would feel the effect. The people of the ranges are deeply interested in the welfare of Duluth, he said. He said one reason all trade in adjacent territory had not gone to Duluth is that Duluth businessmen have neglected the cultivation of friendly relations with the business men in adjacent territory. He said that the present trip is an indication of Duluth's awakening to the necessity of cultivating its neighbors.

Plea For County Fair.

Dr. Thomas made a plea for the support of Duluth for the St. Louis county fair. The fair was a struggling institution for a time but has now come to a point where it deserves the support of every man in the county. If Duluth would turn in and help, he said, the fair could be made the best of its kind in the United States.

Dr. Thomas was followed by Judge Martin Hughes, who was given an enthusiastic reception by Duluthians and Hibbing people alike when he stepped upon the platform. Absolute harmony should prevail between Duluth and the ranges, Judge Hughes said. With an empire within the county, the people of different parts of the county might be strangers unless they went around and became acquainted with each other. He commended the Duluthians on the spirit which prompted the visit to the range. Judge Hughes also made a plea for the county fair.

"When the fair started it was little more than a speed program," said the judge, "but now the agricultural feature is the principal part of the fair. I myself was surprised last year. I never saw such potatoes before in my life. All kinds of garden vegetables were shown, and there was even third crop alfalfa. No man who saw those exhibits can fail to believe that we have at our doors one of the richest agricultural sections in the United States. We should not be importing food products from outside. We ought to keep that money at home.

"A few years ago if anybody told us that we could raise even a disturbance in this section, we would have believed there was something the matter with his head. Now if they tell us we can't raise anything and everything, we believe there is something wrong with them."

Only good roads are needed for the agricultural development of the country now, Judge Hughes said.

Speech by F. A. Patrick.

F. A. Patrick made a cordial and appropriate speech on behalf of the Duluth visitors. Mr. Patrick pointed out that all great cities started as trading posts, as did Duluth. Next comes the establishment of lines of communication and Duluth's traffic problems are now being straightened out. Fourteen lines of railroads converge from the city and touch a vast territory. Now Duluth is at the beginning of a period of industrial development. Small manufacturing businesses are being rapidly built up. Every dollar invested in Duluth will benefit the range and the range should take pride in Duluth's development, he said. Mr. Patrick also assured the Hibbing people that Duluth was interested in the St. Louis county fair and would be represented at the next fair.

W. A. McGonagle was enthusiastically greeted when he was called upon to speak. Mr. McGonagle was not a member of the excursion party. He just happened along and he was warmly received by the travelers. Mr. McGonagle, as usual, said something worth while.

Mr. McGonagle congratulated Hibbing on the rich store of iron ore in the ground in the vicinity of the city. It means prosperity not only to the present population, but to the generations to come, he said, and means great growth for Hibbing in the future.

Mr. McGonagle referred to the building of the steel plant at Duluth as an important development for the ranges, through the manufacture of steel products right at the door of the ore producing country.

"All the steel plants in the United States are now working at full capacity. Prices have gone up, all of which means continued prosperity for Hibbing and other range towns," he said.

Mr. McGonagle pointed out that the reason Duluth business men had not made trade excursions before last year was that they were so busy building up their business establishments that they did not have time to get out. They have now laid the foundation, he said, and are going out to build the superstructure.

Mr. McGonagle made a hit when he referred to "our" county fair. He said he did not consider it a Hibbing institution, but one in which the whole county is interested, and at which Duluth will be well represented this year. He also referred to the Northern Minnesota Development association meeting at International Falls next week and asked Hibbing to send a good delegation.

Speaking for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, Mr. McGonagle said that they have always tried to treat everybody fairly. The railroad president or manager and the manager of wholesale and retail businesses in the future, he said, will be less a manager of physical properties than a go-between with the people on one side and the corporation on the other. The time is coming when he who serves the people best will be serving his employers best, he said.

Duluth's Business Territory.

Mr. McGonagle made wide claims for Duluth business territory. He said it is bounded on the west by the west coast of the Philippines, on the east by Labrador, on the south by the southern boundary of Porto Rico and on the north by the North Pole. "Everything I have not mentioned may go to the Twin Cities," he said.

Mr. McGonagle assured the people of Hibbing that their real friends live in Duluth and said that he is assured that in comparatively few years around the Head of the Lakes will be centered one of the greatest cities on the continent.

F. X. Gravel made a short speech, in which he pointed out the advantages of trading in Duluth. He said Duluth doesn't ask anything but judgment on merit. If Duluth houses cannot show merchants just as good goods, with just as good prices, and just as good service as any other trading center, Duluth doesn't ask consideration, he said. Mr. Gravel made a plea for the traveling man. The man who sells goods on the road is the best friend of the merchant, he said. The traveling man can do more good boosting for a town than any other individual. He gets around, he has ideas and he is a man for the merchant to cultivate, not turn down. Mr. Gravel spoke in his usual happy vein and was enthusiastically applauded.

Harry A. Earnshaw also made a short talk, in which he predicted a great future for Duluth, expressed his pleasure over the reception received in Hibbing and paid a high compliment to the school system of this city.

G. F. Earnshaw set the house wild with a fine rendition of "My Hero," accompanied by the band. Mr. Earnshaw has a rich, strong tenor voice, and he used it to good advantage in the selection from "The Chocolate Soldier." He was accompanied in the chorus by the song birds.

After the formal program, everybody mixed on a friendly basis, and the gathering was wholly enjoyable for all who attended.

Chisholm's Attitude.

A regrettable incident occurred at Chisholm. It was regretted more by Chisholm business men than by the visitors, for on Chisholm the stigma of inhospitality of some of its citizens falls. The trade excursionists were met at the station by a squad of boys distributing dodgers reading:

"Why does Duluth visit Chisholm today on her own volition when she refused to come at the invitation of Chisholm May 28 to the County club convention?

"What does Duluth want of Chisholm today?

"Chisholm wants nothing of Duluth."

Almost to a man Chisholm business men denied concurrence in the sentiment expressed in the dodger. President J. J. Hayes of the Commercial club declared that the dodger was unauthorized, and that the Duluthians had seen copies of it before he had. The insult was traced to two men with a fancied grievance on account of the non-attendance of Duluth business men at the County club meeting. They had not taken the trouble to investigate the Duluth side of the County club affair. The gratuitous insult offered a party of well-intentioned visitors was not the expression of the sentiment of Chisholm. Chisholm welcomed the visitors with open arms.

The dodgers were so childish, and so obviously the work of a few, that the trade excursionists paid little attention to them. They were not narrow-minded enough to vary their program. In fact, they made a special effort. Everybody was in line in the parade. The band played on the street corners and serenaded the newspaper offices. The Duluthians endeavored to show Chisholm business men that they realized that the work of a few men should not be taken to express the sentiments of all Chisholm. No frosty atmosphere was found in the town. The man primarily responsible for the dodger was sought out and the matter explained to him. Even he was wearing a Duluth button when the train started again.

The Facts Explained.

The truth about the County club meeting was explained to Chisholm business men by the visitors. They pointed out that no more than six or eight ever attend a County club meeting from Duluth. There was no intimation that Chisholm wanted a special effort made at attendance until about two days before the meeting, when personal invitations were sent to several individuals. There was no invitation issued to the Commercial club. The day before the meeting, the secretary of the Chisholm Commercial club sent a long letter to the Duluth newspapers expressing the hope that a crowd would come from Duluth. The publication of the substance of the telegram was the first intimation Duluth business men had that Chisholm expected a crowd.

The present trip was in contemplation at the time. Efforts were made to get up a crowd on the day before the meeting, but the notice was too short, and as nearly all those approached expected to make the present trip, they did not feel like giving the time to come for the County club meeting.

Chisholm's end of the affair was wretchedly handled. If the invitation had been extended through the Duluth Commercial club a week before the County club meeting, a crowd might have been organized to make the trip. Two days is not enough notice to give business men to have them leave their business and make a trip that will take them out of the city for over twenty-four hours.

Good Feeling Prevails.

Except for the dodger, the visit to Chisholm was most successful. Many of the visitors had not seen the town since before the fire and they were enthusiastic over it. Chisholm is not only one of the prettiest, but one of the liveliest towns on the range. Its public improvements are up to the minute, its business blocks are imposing and its streets are well maintained. The business men greeted the visitors cordially and offered apologies for the men they termed the "soreheads." Everything was fixed up before the visitors left and good feeling prevails on both sides.

The excursionists didn't get farther than the stations at Keewatin and Calumet, but the band gave station platform concerts to the assembled crowds. At Nashwauk, a parade was held and the band gave a short concert on one of the principal corners. Marble had to be passed up on account of the distance of the town from the station.

At the Washing Plant.

A feature of the trip was the visit to Coleraine and Bovey and the incidental visit to the big washing plant of the Oliver Iron Mining company. The excursionists left the train at Coleraine and paraded to the high bridge, where the Oliver Iron Mining company had two flat cars waiting to convey them to the washing plant. At the washing plant, General Superintendent M. H. Godfrey and his assistant, Leroy Salsich, with Supt. William Nichols of the washing plant, and officials, explained the workings of the plant and conducted the visitors around.

Unfortunately, the plant was not in operation, as it is shut down from 5 to 7 p. m. as well as from 5 to 7 a. m. The excursionists were able, however, to get a good idea of the immensity of the plant and the great work it is doing, in making the Canisteo ores marketable. The plant formerly operated on three 8-hour shifts, but on account of the output running too heavy, the time of operation has been reduced to two shifts of ten hours each. Between 350 and 400 cars of about forty-seven tons of 2,240 pounds each are being turned out daily.

After visiting the washing plant, the excursionists were taken back to the bridge for a parade through Bovey. Between Coleraine, Bovey and the washing plant, they spent two profitable hours.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE TRADE EXCURSION

Many of the excursionists visited the Virginia & Rainy Lake company's mill at Virginia yesterday morning. The mill is wonderful in the eyes of everybody, but to those who had not seen it in some years it was especially so. Others visitors went out to the Norman pit, to the new park and other points of interest. There is much to be seen in Virginia in a short time.

• • •

E. L. Barrett of Stone-Ordean-Wells company was at Buhl with his car. He drove W. K. Gills and Jack MacGregor from Buhl to Chisholm and they had a pleasant trip. From Chisholm they drove to Kelly Lake, Harry Earnshaw also being one of the party. They trailed a road hog, who thought he had a fast car, all the way and had to eat his dust. They were a sorry looking lot when they joined the train again. The wash rooms were in demand.

• • •

G. F. Earnshaw of F. A. Patrick & Co., joined the party at Virginia and remained. Mr. Earnshaw has all the excursionists gasping for breath when it comes to singing. He delighted the members of the party and others who heard him. G. F. and Harry, not relatives, are the leading spirits among the song birds.

• • •

The band is working hard and is getting a hand everywhere. Ragtime is being specialized in, as the most suitable music for lively marching, but when the boys settle down to a higher clases of music, the townspeople, wherever they may be, open their ears and stand at attention.

• • •

R. A. Bishop of the Chicago & Great Western railroad developed a sore foot yesterday and was limping around minus one shoe. Otherwise the members of the party were in fit condition from head to foot.

• • •

J. M. Rooney, trainmaster of the Great Northern at Superior, joined the train at Iroquois yesterday morning and accompanied it on the trip through to Hibbing last night.

• • •

The suppy of advertising matter is holding out well, although the excursionists have been lavish in their distribution. One of the most lavish distributers is F. G. Hanson, representing a Duluth candy house. He has distributed candy all over both ranges and has some left.

• • •

The Duluth pennants have not held out very well and many in the parade at Hibbing last night were shy their pennants. The pennants are attractive and are in great demand. Despite orders to keep them to the end of the trip, the excursionists fail for pleas from gentle lips.

• • •

The lack of knowledge of the ranges among Duluthians is surprising. Many of the travelers will gain a great deal by this trip. Knowledge of a territory so directly tributary to Duluth is being specialized in, as the most suitable music for lively marching, but when the boys settle down to a higher clases of music, the townspeople, wherever they may be, open their ears and stand at attention.

• • •

Representatives of Duluth houses "making" the ranges are delighted with the trade excursion. The feeling toward Duluth has been cordial heretofore, but it is more so now, and the Duluth traveling salesmen will find their way easier.

• • •

The train was nearly up to schedule all day yesterday. A special effort was made by everybody to keep up to schedule so that nobody would be kept waiting. Difficulty is often encountered in getting the crowd out of an attractive town, but the herders did their work well.

• • •

The weather yesterday was almost too warm for comfort, especially for the Duluthians who are not accustomed to it. After a parade at Buhl yesterday morning, the shedding of vests began, and in a few minutes nearly everybody was vestless.

• • •

George W. Welles has an ambition ever to be the first man off of the train at stations. If anybody has beaten him to it yet, the occasion is not of record. GEORGE D. McCARTHY.

DULUTH TELEPHONE COMPANY

Woman's Realm

An interesting exhibit of work done at the manual training department of the Salter school under the direction of F. J. Gottwold, manual training supervisor, by boys from the Salter, Jefferson and Endion schools, was held yesterday afternoon and today at the Salter building and was visited by a large crowd of men, women and school children.

Prizes offered by the Quayle-Larson company were awarded yesterday by Edward F. Gieger, director of manual training in the high school, and D. Hutchkraft of the industrial high school in West Duluth.

Henning Peterson of the Jefferson school won first prize, a manual training bench for a library table finely made; Fred Stolz won second prize, a set of bench tools for a Morris chair, which is comfortable and well put together; third prize went to Louis Longton of the Salter school for a lady's writing desk. His prize consisted of a set of five tools.

Honorable mention was awarded to Phillip Mars for a Roman chair; second honorable mention to Holland Keiswetter for a magazine stand, and third honorable mention to Gilbert Frederickson, also for a magazine stand.

Other objects which were worthy of note were a chandelier lamp by Richard Beerhalter; a mission stand by Martin Larson; shoe blacking stand by John Comstock; taborette, by Earl Patterson; foot stool, Walter Green; hall tree and foot stool, Raeborn Powell; waste basket, Harold Carlson; taborette, and porch swing, Skule Krudford; waste basket, Walter Camlyn; foot stool, Monroe Turnquist; magazine stand, Bryon Chevier; medicine cabinet, William Sunland; hall tree, Reuben Grant; taborette and magazine stand, John Dahl; taborette, Emanuel Cook; plant stand, James Anderson; birdhouse, Carl Erickson; bird house and plant stand, William Dinkel; foot stool and book rack, John McCormick; plant stand and corner shelf, Reuben Rosson; corner shelf and sleeve board, Fred Anderson; necktie rack and taborette, Drue McGlindley; magazine rack, Ned Johnson; foot stool and magazine rack, Ned McNulty; shoe blacking box, Horton Johnson; shoe blacking box, Herbert McKay; pedestal, George Nelson; porch box, Roy Anderson; piano bench, Andrew Lee; mission lamp, Elmer Nixon; umbrella stand, Stanley Troyer; foot stool and hall tree, Arthur Carlson; book trough, Edward Knudson; blacking stand, Robert Walsh; magazine stand, Harris Jones; foot rest, Lawrence Berry.

An industrial exhibit of various manufactures was also of interest.

CITY PLANNING.

Interesting Address at Art Exhibit—Bishop Will Speak.

Advice on city planning based on years of study and investigation was given yesterday by Mrs. Leonora Hamblin of St. Paul in her two talks yesterday afternoon and evening at the free art exhibit at the court house.

Mrs. Hamblin has spent several days here investigating the needs of the city.

"The First things for Duluth to do," she said, "are to get back its water front and to make diagonal streets which will be not only more beautiful, but provide easier grades for the hills. The time to do these things is now, before the property gets more valuable. Chicago, Washington, New York and now St. Paul and Minneapolis have seen that they must replan their cities, and they are doing it. Duluth will come to it, but the later it begins the more the changes will cost. When a street or a section becomes hopeless, that is the time to condemn it and replan it for the property will then cost less."

Mrs. Hamblin is a strong believer in the value of women's work in civic affairs and she believes that the best cannot be accomplished until women have a hand in the ruling of the cities.

She told of the widening of streets, the cutting of new thoroughfores and other replanning in Minneapolis and St. Paul and showed how the same principles could be applied to Duluth. She favored the new law against buildings more than 125 feet high, which Boston and other cities have passed and the regulations as to the building line and especially the law "which makes slums impossible, that at least 25 per cent of the ground shall not be built upon."

Bishop McGolrick, president of the Duluth Art society, will give an address this evening on "American Art" at 8 o'clock in the grand jury room of the courthouse for today's feature of the exhibit.

He will outline the growth of art in America along with the kindred crafts, and give a survey of living artists which will include many of those who have paintings in this exhibit.

A special invitation is extended to the charter members of the association and the early workers for the cause here as well as to the Superior friends of art.

Mrs. H. E. Mitchell and Mrs. J. C. H. Engel were the hostesses in charge for today and their assistants are:

GERMANY'S PRINCESS SAID TO BE BETROTHED

PRINCESS VICTORIA LOUISE.

The latest report concerning Princess Victoria Louise of Germany is that she is to reunite the Hohenzollerns and Guelphs by marrying Prince Ernest Augustus of Cumberland. She is the kaiser's only daughter and was born Sept. 13, 1892. At various times she has been reported engaged to various princes in Europe and also that she was in love with a German officer.

CLASS NIGHT EXERCISES.

Seniors at Central High School Give Enjoyable Program.

The snappy musical sketch, "Coming Events Cast Their Shadows Before," featured the class night program given last evening at the Central high school assembly hall by the members of the 1912 graduating class.

The school song, "Triumphales," sung by the class as the opening number was followed by an address of welcome by President Robert Mars of the seniors. Julius Nolte, class orator, delivered a carefully prepared and forcefully rendered oration on "Child Labor," which was well received by the audience.

The official sale of the "Zenith," the annual publication of the senior class, was announced by Roger Powell, business manager, and during the intermission the ushers and members of the board distributed volumes of the edition to the audience and took orders for the book.

Clever Operetta.

The clever little operetta, "Coming Events," by A. F. M. Custance, foretelling commission government and woman's suffrage, was specially arranged for the occasion and the sketch was featured by a number of catchy songs, in which original words were adapted to popular airs by Mr. Custance. Among the most effective were: "O You Beautiful Mayor," sung to the illustrious and respected mayor, Miss Dorothy Gibson, by the feminine commissioners. During the report of the commissioner of education, Miss Mildren Prudden, the officials, aided by the well-trained voices of the suffragette chorus, sang, "We're Going to Do Without It," and "The Horrid Men."

The song "Dear Little Chief of Police," followed the presentation to Miss Helen Benson of a formidable looking billy tied with a red ribbon. This role was cleverly carried out.

Gaylord Halvorson as the ex-alderman, Sven Yonson, and spokesman of a band of militant "suffragetters," made one of the hits of the evening with his bombastic outburst of Scandinavianized English eloquence and realistic facial expression in the plea for men's rights.

The characters as they were called on were: Mayor of Zenith City, Dorothy Gibson; secretary of commission, Dorothy Jones; treasurer of commission, Marion Ingalls; commissioner of education, Mildred Prudden; commissioner of reforms, Dorothy Pierce; commissioner of grievances, Alta Hallock; commissioner of public health, Merna Newell; chief of police, Helen Benson; ex-Alderman Sven Yonson, Gaylord Halvorson; chorus of suffragettes, ex-aldermen, etc.

With the junior-senior ball this evening at the ballroom of the Masonic temple, which is the big event of the year, and the commencement exercises tomorrow evening, the school year for the high school will close.

GRADE GRADUATES.

Exercises Held in Public Schools Throughout City.

Eighth grade graduating exercises in the public schools throughout the city attracted parents and friends to the various school buildings this afternoon. Amy Pierce of Minneapolis won the Biblical prize, and the Zabriskie science prizes went to Katherine W. Barnes of Norristown, Pa., and Belle D. Reed of East Orange, N. J.

THE EVENING STORY

A STAR TURN

By H. L. F.

Love for Mamie Garrish had been the one great passion in George Camp's life. He was a queer little city clerk, unimaginative and uninspired, and he clung to it desperately as the one touch of romance in his drab, colorless existence.

And it was, of course, quite a hopeless passion, for Marie Gerrish was far, far above him. Years before, when she had been a waitress at the cheap City restaurant to which Camp had resorted for his frugal lunch, they had been on terms of equality, even of friendship. He had had hopes at that time.

But then she had gone on the music hall stage, and had made a hit from the first. She had progressed steadily until she had almost attained the delirious pleasure of mixing, as one of themselves, with the foremost lights in her profession. The really great and golden ones of vaudeville and musical comedy, I mean: the gifted and favored mortals who lunch with millionaires and pose in their bathing costumes for picture postcards.

George Camp used to haunt the gallery of the halls at which Mamie Gerrish so far unbent as to appear, and would applaud frantically before and after her turn. She had forgotten him, of course—that was only natural—but still he longed for her with a dumb, hopeless passion which gave everything and expected nothing.

There came a day when the evening papers announced the dreadful news in scare headlines. "Well-Known Music Hall Artist in the Dock."

Mamie Gerrish had appeared at the police station, charged with stealing a pair of opera glasses from the office of a theatrical agent, and had been remanded for a week on bail.

George Camp's poor, half-starved little heart almost stopped beating when he read the news. Without asking permission, he left the office and hurried to Mamie's flat, eager to proffer his sympathy and assistance. He found Miss Gerrish quite unperturbed, smoking a cigarette and laughing away the question of the theft.

"Rot—all twaddle," she said elegantly, looking amused at the absurd, insignificant little man who stammered forth his offers of help, his assurance of undying regard, so eagerly. "I never touched the beastly opera glasses; the case will be dismissed next week, of course."

Before he left, however, she had accepted Camp's offer of help. He had faced her boldly, and insisted that she must have skilled legal advice.

George Camp did no go to his office next day or the day after that. He was rushing about on Mamie's business and he had no time to think of anything else. On the third day he received a letter from the firm with whom he had been for years, curtly intimating that as he had absented himself without leave for two days, his services were no longer required. Camp threw the letter carelessly upon the fire.

He obtained the surrender value on his life policy he pawned his small stock of valuables, he borrowed from his friends, and just succeeded in obtaining the amount necessary for the defense. Camp had lost his job, he had practically ruined himself, but if Mamie could be saved, nothing else mattered.

And, after all, his trouble was unnecessary. When the case came on, the prosecutor—a dark, hook nosed, rather greasy gentleman, who gave the name of Mr. Hector McLoughlin—went into the witness box and admitted that he had made a mistake. The opera glasses, which were the subject of the charge, had since been found, and he offered his humble apologies to Miss Gerrish. The magistrate endorsed the apologies and dismissed the case; Miss Gerrish left the dock and drove off in a blaze the triumph in a taxi cab after having good naturedly posed to seventeen different photographers.

Camp hurried to Mamie's flat to offer his congratulations, and found her enjoying an intimate conversation with the prosecutor.

"Ah, Mr. Camp," she said, with a smile of gratitude to the little man, "let me present you to my agent and future husband, Mr. Hector McLoughlin."

"Pleased to meet you," said Mr. McLoughlin.

"It was Mr. McLoughlin's own idea," said Miss Gerrish. "Wasn't it a top hole advertisement for me?" She caught a glimpse of the little clerk's face, and faltered momentarily; there was such a world of tragedy in his attitude of dumb despair. Could this absurd little man——? No, it was too ridiculous. Still, perhaps—he deserved some recompense for the trouble he had taken. "I'm marrying Mr. McLoughlin on Thursday, and I shall hope to see you at the church, Mr. Camp," she said generously.

Lilja Funeral.

The funeral of Herman V. Lilja, who died Sunday at the home of his mother, Mrs. August Lilja, 16 East Tenth street, of typhoid fever, took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the undertaking rooms of C. J. Stewart. He was 26 years old and was born in Calumet, Mich., but was brought to Duluth by his parents twenty-four years ago and has resided here ever since. He was a member of Company C. Third regiment,

HERMAN V. LILJA.

Up to the time of his illness for five years the young man had been in the employ of S. H. Knox & Co. as stockroom manager.

REPUBLICAN BATTERY IS FROM MINNESOTA.

(From The Herald Washington Bureau.)

Washington, June 13.—Representatives Clarence B. Miller of Duluth and Sydney Anderson of Winona will be the battery for the Republican baseball team which is to battle with a team of Democrats at the local baseball park Saturday afternoon.

Both the Minnesota members are taking advantage of the lull in legislative business and are spending their time practicing for the great game. Incidentally the two Minnesota members are applying soothing lotions to their arms each night, but they declare they will be in condition when the umpires call them into action.

Miller says he has speed that exceeds Walter Johnson's, and a fadeaway ball that is better than Mathewson's. Anderson declares that no Democrat will dare to try to steal second on him, as he has the throw to the keystone sack down fine.

STILL DATA GATHERING

Committee on New Charter Continued By Charter Commission.

J. H. Crowley Suggests Two Important Changes in New Document.

The meeting of the charter commission, held last evening in the council chamber in the city hall, was a very short one, and practically nothing was done except to continue the committee appointed a year ago to gather data looking toward the construction of a new charter based on the commission form of government idea. Commissioner J. H. Crowley presented two communications, in one of which he advocated that when a new charter is formed a traffic and industrial commission be formed and be placed in charge of a manager to be chosen under the civil service system. In the other communication he advocated the establishment of a sinking fund for the water department.

When the meeting was opened, Chairman T. T. Hudson announced that the life of the present charter commission ends with July 14 at which time it will be necessary for the judges of district court to appoint a new commission. He therefore deemed it inadvisable to attempt any work between now and then. Regarding the plan for the adoption of a commission form of government, he reminded the members that a committee was appointed some time ago to gather data. Commissioner Cullum then moved that this committee be continued with instructions to report to the new commission. This motion carried. The committee consists of H. H. Phelps, J. G. Williams, C. A. Congdon, Bert Fesler and T. T. Hudson.

Wants Public's View.

Commissioner H. H. Phelps said that he believed that if it were possible, some steps should be taken to ascertain the sentiment of the people toward such a plan of government. He found the business men in general, he said, in favor of the commission form, but understood that there is some opposition. In view of the fact that the construction of a charter under such a plan will be an arduous task Mr. Phelps said he believed that some indication should be sought as to whether or not the work would be in vain.

Commissioner Strong said that he finds that a good many look upon the commission form of government as "the rich man's plan" and that it would not be the best thing for the small man.

Commissioner W. E. McEwen said that in labor circles there is a decided difference in opinion, so much so, and so far from the usual political or sectional lines that the attitude of the majority of laboring men is hard to determine.

Commissioner Crowley then presented his communications, which were referred to the committee named to collect data for a new charter. The following is the communication concerning the traffic department:

"The undersigned commission is of the opinion that to make the new city charter (government by commission) effective, a department of traffic and industrial commission should be incorporated in our city charter. A traffic manager to fill both offices should be selected on merit only, subject to the civil service rules of our city charter, term of office for manager and staff permanent, with removal only for cause, and to be under the orders of the duly elected commissioners of the city.

"To support this department a tax levy of fully one-half mill on the dollar on all real estate values of the city should be made. Heretofore this expense has been met by a small percentage of our citizens and it is no more than just that all future expenses of this nature should be met by the community at large, as all alike are equally benefitted.

"While the tax levy of one-half mill may seem large there are many battles to be fought before we come into our own; rail and water rate discriminations to be watched and corrected and much money spent in securing small factories (the large ones will come in self protection). In conclusion, this department being under city control, every citizen having claims of any nature whatsoever against the transportation companies will feel at liberty to explain and present their claims and have them properly adjusted."

Sinking Fund Needed.

Following is the communication regarding a sinking fund for the water department:

"Inviting your attention to the surplus earnings of the department of water, of the Duluth Gas & Water company, you will note that a surplus of $94,285.15 was earned for the fiscal year. Approximately $24,000 of this amount was received from a tax levy created some years ago for the purposes of cheapening water to the consumer.

"As this tax is no longer required for the purpose for which it was created, I would respectfully suggest to the honorable commission that a sinking fund be created for the department named, and that this tax levy and any of the surplus earnings that in the judgment of the water and light commissioners can be spared from year to year, be placed in the sinking fund."

NEW GRANDSTAND PLAY BY GOVERNOR PROBABLE

it looks, however, more like the framing up of another "grandstand play," such as he made just before adjournment of the last regular session of the legislature. Then the governor said that, if reapportionment was not granted by the senate, he would call an extra session at once. He made a similar statement at th Brainerd convention of the Northern Minnesota Development association. But he failed to carry out either threat or promise. It is possible that he may in a day or two make another talk along the same line, but it will only be another play for political effect and will amount to nothing.

Judgment as to the effect of the extra session on the political fortunes of Governor Eberhart, who called it, can best be made by those not so close to the theater of action, and even by these it will be soundest when it is made after the session is over.

But from the viewpoint of the special session in operation, there is practically unanimous sentiment that as a candidate for renomination and election Governor Adolph O. Eberhart has been made a joke.

His special message and the manner of its coming and its reception by the senate settled that, if any settling were needed.

Several days ago Senator Lende of Yellow Medicine county offered a resolution calling upon the governor to report the appointments he has made that are subject to the confirmation of the senate, and that have been made since the adjournment of the regular session.

Due to Nash Appointment.

This was no political by-play. It was an attempt to exert the senate's right to pass on these appointments, as the Constitution requires. It had peculiar force because of the appointment of J. E. Nash as surveyor-general of logs and lumber at Minneapolis—an Ed Smith appointment.

Mr. Nash's appointment was sent to the senate, and opposition arose. The appointment was withdrawn, and no appointment was made while the session lasted. As soon as the session was over Nash's appointment was made. It was this piece of trickery that has aroused the senate.

Senator Lende's resolution was put over by a notice of debate given by Senator G. H. Sullivan of Stillwater, who is considered a spokesman for the administration. No action has yet been taken on it by the senate. It represented the action of a single senator.

Taking it as a personal affront, Governor Eberhart determined to reply to it. Thinking of reapportionment as a handy vehicle, after expressing his resentment at the Lende resolution, the governor roasted the senate for its attitude toward reapportionment. While it is true that the senate is as determined in its opposition to reapportionment as it was a year ago, if not more so, reapportionment is not now before the senate; and it is generally regarded as ridiculous that the governor should take the action of a single senator as a cue for a broadside attack on the senate as a whole for its attitude toward a matter that is not yet before it.

If Governor Eberhart had wished to make a grandstand play on reapportionment, there have been plenty of chances to do so, not only at this session but at and following the regular session; and he has availed himself of none of them.

But to hook his play for position on reapportionment up with his personal pique, because a senator proposed that the senate exert its right to pass upon his appointments, made it a joke.

No wonder the senate laughed uproariously when his message was read.

Presidential Primaries.

Presidential preference primaries, proposed by Representative Ernest Lundeen of Minneapolis, author of a presidential primary bill that failed at the regular session, was put over to the regular session of 1913 or that of 1915 when the house elections committee yesterday afternoon refused to consider his bill.

* * *

The sub-committee of the house reapportionment committee met yesterday afternoon to hear proposed changes in the Congdon bill. All changes that were proposed were voted down except those which did not increase representation in any section, and which did not alter the general arrangement of the bill.

The prospects for the reapportionment bill to pass the house, though as yet none too rosy for reasons heretofore explained, have improved apparently, in the past few days.

RECALL MAY GET THROUGH

the action was taken in order that the senate, which voted against including judges at the regular session, may have no excuse for defeating the bill.

At the last session this bill passed both houses, but failed to become a law by a combination of circumstances as curious as any that ever happened in a session of the Minnesota legislature. The house passed it, by an overwhelming vote, in a form which made its provisions applicable to judges. The senate passed it, excluding judges from its provisions. Each house passed a different bill. The house, on the last night, was willing to recede from its position as to judges, in order to get a bill through. A conference committee was about to report to the senate an agreement to that effect when one of the numerous motions to adjourn was declared carried. Really, it was not carried. A majority voted against adjournment. But an assistant secretary of the senate, now dead, made a mistake in the count, and the senate stood adjourned, with the recall bill in the air, by a mistake. This ended the regular session.

Senate's Attitude Doubtful.

Representative Ernest Lundeen of Minneapolis introduced the bill into the house yesterday, and though it was outside the house program, it was received by an overwhelming majority. Probably it will pass by a majority even larger. What the senate will do with it is a question, but in view of the senate's action last year in defeating the bill by mistake, it will be hard for it to reject it.

In moving the amendment in committee yesterday afternoon striking out the provision including judges, Representative Brown said that the judicial recall would produce a crop of inferior, spineless judges with their ears constantly to the ground. This was not the argument that made his motion prevail, however; it was the argument that the senate already is on record against the judicial recall, and that if the house really wants a recall bill it should drop the judicial recall for the present.

Representative Nolan of Minneapolis wanted to cut the maximum requirement of the percentage of the voters necessary to institute the recall from 33 1-3 per cent to 25 per cent. It was pointed out that as the bill stands, the legislature can by law make the percentage anything from 1 per cent up to 33 1-3 per cent and his amendment was defeated.

The bill proposes a Constitutional amendment, and if it is adopted by the legislature must be ratified by the people in November if it is to become effective.

The Cheadle Amendment.

If the fears of those who held up the railroad gross earnings tax in the senate for a day are well founded, Duluth may thank Senator H. W. Cheadle and the attorney general's office for saving it the taxes from railroad property not used for railroad purposes, valued at about $500,000.

It all hinges on the proposal of the 1911 law, to extend the gross earnings tax to railroad receipts from other than operating sources. The fear was either that this would be held unconstitutional as constituting double taxation ,or that the taxes now received from the property from which the railroads receive their earnings other than from operating sources would be knocked out. This would mean that the revenue Duluth is now receiving from this large amount of railroad real estate would be lost—if the fears referred to are justified.

When the senate judiciary committee took up the matter yesterday afternoon, Senator Cheadle offered an amendment specifically exempting from the operation of the bill real estate not used for railroad purposes, and providing that this property should still be taxed for local purposes. This amendment, together with the main point as to the constitutionality of the plan to tax earnings other than those from strictly railroad business, was put up to Attorney General Smith for his opinion.

The Cheadle amendment was drawn by Assistant Attorney General W. J. Stevenson of Duluth.

The story that there is a "woodchuck" in the bill is absurd. Absolutely no question of the legality or desirability of the increase in the railroad gross earnings tax from 4 per cent to 5 per cent has been involved in the controversy in either branch of the legislature—except when the railroad attorneys addressed the house committee.

The senate held a short session yesterday afternoon to consider the corrupt practices bills that are pending, but took no important action on them. The house committee on elections met last night to consider the amended corrupt practices act approved by the sub-committee.

* * *

There is practically no probability of congressional reapportionment at this session. Representative Lundeen's bill providing for it was referred to the elections committee, and this committee yesterday afternoon voted that it be referred to the reapportionment committee, which has its hands full with legislative apportionment.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

ADAMS OF DUBUQUE IS OPPOSED BY LABOR MEN.

Muscatine, Ia., June 13.—Resolutions condemning John T. Adams of Dubuque, aspirant for honors as Republican national committeeman from Iowa, as an enemy of organized labor, have been adopted at the convention of the Iowa Federation of Labor. The exertion of labor influence against his candidacy was demanded. The proposed plan of raising $100,000 to be used in support of Iowa unions during strikes was referred to a committee. A strong plea for greater co-operation between local unions of the state was made by State Labor Commissioner Vandurin.

Home Treatment For Hair

How to Regain Original Color and Silky Fluff Without Using Harmful Drugs.

People with gray, faded or streaky hair should never resort to dyes or "shaders" as they are more or less injurious. Faded blonde hair is easily restored to its former golden hue and rich gloss after washing a few times in arbane tea, made by putting one ounce arbane in a pint boiling water.

Brunettes will find that gray hair will assume its natural color after combing several nights with a comb moistened in barsicum. To make the tea, steep a small, original package barsicum in one pint water. Faded auburn or Titian hair will take on its original beautiful shade and rich lustre after a few washings with an infusion of cambia. No fear need be entertained because this treatment is quite harmless, and costs little.

GERMAN WARSHIPS READY TO LEAVE NEW YORK.

New York, June 13.—After having been anchored in the Hudson since Sunday, the German cruisers Moltke, Stettin and Bremen will steam out of the harbor late this afternoon, the Moltke and Stettin bound for Kiel. The Bremen will remain for awhile longer in American waters.

LORIMER TO BE EXPELLED

in clinging to his place, but he has sacrificed many friends who in their effort to save him have gone down into defeat themselves. Today he is absolutely beaten, as certain of expulsion from the senate as any certainty can be. But with dogged insistence, despite the appeals and advice of his friends he clings to a forlorn hope and falls back upon the time worn defense that he will never retire under fire. That the man is breaking under the strain there can be no doubt. How his serious illness in Chicago was I have no means of knowing, but I met and talked with him before the senate office building the other day and noted a physical lassitude and a lack of mental vigor which had never been apparent before. He announces his purpose to close the debate by speaking in his own behalf. Today he is not fit physically or nervously to make such a defense of himself as he did in the last session. Perhaps three weeks of rest may put him in shape, but to sit in the senate day after day listening to attacks upon the honesty of his election and his title to his seat can hardly be called rest.

Nelson's Cuban Resolution.

In the interims between the Lorimer debate there is likely to be some interesting discussion concerning Senator Nelson's resolution of inquiry as to the reasons why the United States is now about to intervene in Cuba. Senator Nelson charges very frankly in his resolution that these Cuban insurrections which arise at almost regular intervals are not merely financed, but fomented in the United States. There is a good deal of reason for his theory. It is perfectly evident that the American owners of the big sugar plantations in Cuba, and practically most of those plantations are owned by Americans, would find great profit in the annexation of Cuba to this country. In such event their sugar would come in duty free and would compete on even terms with the best sugar of Michigan, Colorado and Western states and the cane sugar of Louisiana. What more certain way of forcing annexation than to create such a state of revolution and riot in the island that the United States under its treaty obligation would be compelled to intervene to restore order? And such intervention would inevitably lead to ultimate annexation.

It is notable that in the present disorders in Cuba the insurrectionists belong to the lowest class in the islands. They are referred to even in the official dispatches as the negroes. Nevertheless they seemed to be amply supplied with arms and with necessary funds, the latter increased by their raids on the plantations of white employers. Somebody, however, is furnishing the arms and ammunition. Even when the better element of Cubans was in revolt against Spain arms and ammunition had to be smuggled in from the United States, and it is a well known fact that the expenses of such operations were not borne by the Cubans themselves, but by certain big international firms which had a financial interest in destroying Spanish deomination in Cuba. The Nelson suggestion in view of past history, is at least plausible. It comes to the senate at a bad time, when political attention is riveted on the two national conventions. Nevertheless it will probably lead to a vigorous debate and a searching investigation. It is fair to note that nothing in the Nelson resolution, nor anything in the facts preceding it, indicate that President Taft has been in any way a party to this plot, if plot there be. The general feeling among senators is that he has been singularly forbearing before ordering the landing of even a single battalion of marines on the Cuban coast.

On to Baltimore.

The Democrats have been outgeneraled in the campaign for publicity, as they usually are in the campaign for votes. Amidst the clamor arising in Chicago the fact that all the headquarters of Democratic candidates until now located in Washington, were moved on Monday of this week to Baltimore, will probably pass unnoticed. Four of these have been established in the Democratic convention city—namely those of Champ Clark, Woodrow Wilson, Judson Harmon and Oscar Underwood. The headquarters of the national committee also were opened Monday and the authorities there are grappling with the question of how to meet the demand for more than 100,000 tickets with a hall which seats 14,000 people. The nearer the convention day approaches the greater is the apprehension on the part of these either responsible or interested that Baltimore will not be able to handle it as the conventions have been handled of late. This is not wholly due to lack of facilities in the city itself. Baltimore is larger than Denver, but its location next to the great centers of population means that there will come to the convention three or four times as many Democrats as visited Denver. All will clamor for tickets, all want hotel rooms and about half will go away without either.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Boston Opera Company.

"The Follies."

It was announced yesterday that beginning next week the opening performance of "The Follies of June 16" will be given Sunday afternoon. The popular prices for the season will be in force for the regular Sunday matinee.

The Boston Lyric Musical company is rapidly growing in popularity. The various song numbers of this week's attraction, "The Follies of June 9," have been well received. Similar song hits of the East will be featured next week, chief among which are: "Henry, O. Henry," "The Bookyman Moon," "The Barnyard Rag," and "Everybody's Two Step." "The Barnyard Rag" dance was the hit of the Ziegfeld Follies during their season.

The plan to allow Duluth theatergoers to select their own musical favorites among both the popular and opera hits has already met with favor. Several song suggestions have been received and the songs receiving the greatest number of votes will be featured in the attraction a week after next. "The Follies of June 23."

"The Follies of June 9" will continue for the remainder of the week, with a popular priced matinee Saturday.

UNITED NORWEGIANS END FARGO MEETING.

Fargo, N. D., June 13.—The national convention of the United Norwegian Lutheran church which has been in session here for the past week, closed at midnight last night. San Francisco, St. Paul, Fargo and Grand Forks, are candidates for the next convention, the selection of which will be made by the officers of the organization. Two new members were elected to the board of trustees, R. Roe of Stanley, Wis., and E. Olson of Minneapolis. Prof. R. Bogstead of Minneapolis was re-elected.

F. W. K. Boeckman, bishop of the diocese of Trondhjem, and representative of the state church of Norway, delivered his farewell address to the convention yesterday. Sixty-five thousand dollars was appropriated by the convention for home missions and more than this amount will, it is expected, be appropriated for foreign missions.

THOSE CALIFORNIA CASES.

Probably the decision of the Republican national committee on the contests from the Fourth California district made more friends for the cause of Theodore Roosevelt in the struggle for delegates to the national convention than any other incident in the present campaign. Practically all the contests previously settled were from Southern states, and the general attitude toward the Republican votes from those states is that might makes right, and whoever can boast the most office-holders is entitled to the majority.

But in the California cases it is a different proposition. The committee's action appears in the light of an attempt on the part of a purely political organization to put its own rules and regulations above the statute law of a sovereign state, and with such doings as that the people at large have little sympathy.

Briefly stated, the dispute arose over the following conditions: The Republican national committee in its call for the election of delegates to Chicago, notified the various states that delegates were to be elected from each congressional district and from the state at large. Under the California primary law, all delegates were elected as from the state at large, though they were nominated and voted upon in the districts in which they live. The Taft men in the Fourth district received a majority of the votes in that district, but inasmuch as the state law provided that all delegates must represent the state, and as the state went overwhelmingly for Col. Roosevelt, it was claimed that the Roosevelt delegates from the Fourth district were the proper ones to represent California in the convention.

This view the national committee refused to accept, holding that though the Fourth district men were chosen as part of a delegation at large that must vote for Roosevelt's nomination or repudiate the preference expressed at the polls, the Taft delegates are the ones who should be seated, and that they are to vote for the president for renomination.

Trimmed to its basic principles, the decision of the committee looks very much indeed like an attempt to supplant state law with political say-so. It would have been far more politic for the committee, so strongly organized for Taft, to have yielded the point in this California case. Particularly since Director McKinley and President Taft express such absolute confidence in having enough votes assured already in the convention to make certain of the president's renomination.

Lucky Man.

How fortunate for Mr. Lorimer that congress is in session! It would grieve him to the very heart to see such remarkably continuous decisions on one side of the delegate contests.

THE COMMERCE COURT.

It is not surprising that President Taft should be extremely disappointed at the treatment the court of commerce has received at the hands of congress. The new court represented an amendment to our national judicial system that the president believed would remove one of the most flagrant defects in that system—delay in determination of important questions. To President Taft personally it meant even more than that, for it was practically all that was left to mark his administration as in any way progressive or as having accomplished some particular thing for the good of the nation at large.

If the court of commerce is done away with, the Taft administration record will be the gloomiest in many years, if not in the history of the country. First came the tariff commission, hailed with promises of relief from the oppression of over-burdening duties; and the tariff commission today is all but discredited in the public mind, and certainly gets but scant courtesy from congress.

Then came reciprocity, whose glories were wasted by the refusal of Canadians to accept the terms offered.

Arbitration was the next great movement sought by the president, and it died a ghastly death under the senatorial vivisectors.

Even conservation, which got such terrific momentum in the previous administration, suffered so severely by an unfortunate choice of men to carry the work forward, and by the even more markedly unfortunate determination of the president to keep the work in the hands where he had placed it, that the Taft period of our government is regarded as a time of retardation of that movement rather than of advancement.

In the case of the commerce court, the situation is peculiar. President Taft can carry out his threat to veto the bill which fails to provide funds for the continuation of the court, but what will he gain by that beyond forcible expression of his disapproval of congress' stand on the question? He cannot force an appropriation to maintain the tribunal, while congress, by passing the bill by a two-thirds vote, can make it effective in spite of the president. It would seem that unless he can find some way to persuade the senate and house to his way of thinking, so that on reconsideration they will provide the funds for the court, President Taft would do better to allow the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation measure to become operative automatically, without his signature, than to exercise again the veto power which already has cost him some support in tariff matters.

As for the commerce court itself, it is rather too bad that it should be thus cut off. Excellent reasons were advanced for its formation. It was to expedite litigation in commercial matters, and at the same time insure that such litigation should always be brought before a tribunal whose members were making a careful and continued study of the laws relating to commerce, and who therefore should prove exceptionally qualified to consider such questions. But the members of the commerce court were not content to perform simply the duties provided for them by the act that created the court. They went outside that province, and made their name a byword throughout the country. They endeavored, consciously or unconsciously, to usurp the powers given to the interstate commerce commission, though that body had won the confidence of all classes. The result was a severe arraignment of the conduct of the commerce judges by the supreme court itself, and a ruling that told the commerce court in very plain terms just what its functions are and, in short, "where to get off at."

With its powers and limitations thus plainly defined, the commerce court might readily develop into all that was hoped for it. At any rate, it would seem worth while to try out the system under these restrictions. But if its members are determined to continue in their practice of over-riding the power and judgment of the interstate commerce commission, then the sooner the commerce court is abolished or starved out, the better it will be for the business interests of the country.

Justice of Fate.

It's a good thing Teddy is getting all this done to him at Chicago instead of Taft. Imagine the present president trying to fit his vocabulary to the occasion.

WILL ENFORCE HONESTY.

In spite of the pitifulness of its implied comment on human nature, there is virtue in the amendment passed by the council to the ordinance governing the inspection of weights and measures, giving inspectors the right to confiscate faulty instruments immediately upon discovery. It is not strange that no fight was made against the adoption of the amendment. An honest dealer will use all means in his power, and welcome any assistance he can get, in keeping his scales and measures in proper shape. And a dishonest dealer would hardly care to advertise his shame by objecting to a measure intended to trip him up in his dishonesty.

Under the amended ordinance it will not only be possible for inspectors to stop the use of faulty scales and measures, but they will be in a position to prove the guilt of those whom they detect in the graceful art of cheating the public.

It is to be hoped that few victims will be found under the ordinance, however strictly the inspectors may enforce the regulations. But experience has proved that the ordinance is necessary, and since this is the case, it is better to make sure that the enforced honesty is the real thing. The new provision will injure nobody who means and tries to do right, and it will be of material assistance in locating and punishing the rogues.

Another Straw In the Wind.

Nick Longworth has been having a bit of a chat with papa-in-law, and political prophets will connect the incident with the old song "Sweet Alice, Ben Bolt"—with the accent on the bolt.

OUGHT TO PLEASE THE COLONEL.

Hurrah, hurrooh! Likewise joyfulness and hilarity. Let the people lift up their voices in gladsome shouts and the hills echo back the festive glee of the happy occasion. For at last we have come into a campaign that has put the kibosh on molly-coddleism and honey-fugling and is developing those good, old, straight-forward expressions of opinion that for seven long years received the glowing praise of the first gentleman of the land.

And it is not the perfervid utterances of the overheated campaign orator that are giving us the verbal gems. No, indeed. They are handed out in cold type, after having been painfully written, edited, put in type, proof-read and made up in the forms. Harper's Weekly is the benefactor, and here is a sample of the benefaction:

> Roosevelt today is as great a menace to our country as slavery was half a century ago. Why attempt to blink the terrifying fact? Better far to face it, not as Republicans, not as Democrats, but as Americans, as patriots. Mark these words! Roosevelt's election to the presidency would spell revolution within ten years. And by revolution we do not mean mere political overturning of a system of government. We mean actual warfare by force of arms upon the rule of a despot. We mean bloodshed and carnage. Class arrayed against class in a mighty struggle for supremacy, vastly more destructive than our war of section against section.

Yip, Yip, Yi! Rip 'em up! Tear 'em! Sic 'em, Towser! That's the way our grand-daddies used to hand it out, and apparently the country has not yet sunk so deeply into the slush of innocuous desuetude that it is unable to produce at least one man who is willing to call a spade a steamshovel if he takes the notion.

What Do You Know About That?

In the South African Union the parcels post is open to gold, diamonds, minerals, wood, ostrich feathers, saddlery, boots and shoes, confectionery, fruit, plants, seeds and eatables and drinkables. Nice country for an express monopoly to gouge the people in. Yes?

ILLITERACY IN MINNESOTA.

Some interesting statistics on the state of education in Minnesota are gleaned from the census statistics of 1900 and 1910. They show, perhaps, more than anything else, the extent to which education is keeping pace with the growth of the state's population. The statistics as here quoted were compiled with a view to forming a report on the voting capacity of the state, and so apply only to males twenty-one years old and over.

In 1900, according to this report, there were 506,794 men in the state, and of this number 20,856 were classed as illiterate. By 1910, with an increase in this class of population of 135,875, the number of illiterates had increased only 2,798.

In 1900 the number of native whites with native parents was 104,577, with 737 illiterates. Ten years later the number of this class had increased about 31,000, with a decrease of 5 in the illiterates.

In 1900 the number of native whites with foreign parents was 137,054 with 1,766 illiterates; ten years later there had been an increase in this class of about 65,000 with a decrease of 9 among the illiterates.

In 1900 the foreign whites numbered 260,753, with 16,720 illiterates; ten years later with an increase of about 37,000 in this class there had been an increase of 3,227 among the illiterates of the class.

Apparently Minnesota's greatest educational problem lies among her immigrants of the laboring class. That the people she is attracting by the opening of her farming districts are of higher educational standing cannot be disputed. Many of the immigrants of the last dozen years have come to the state only after having attained their majority and they make but poor showing in such a tabulation as this. There is a problem there, that the state must solve if it is to keep its standing high in the national records of education.

D'Annunzio says he is working with a "new syntax" by means of which he will "fix his feelings and expressions in all their intensity and all their value" through the "hitherto undiscovered relation between words and phrases." Now where in blazes did he get that idea? The White House, or Oyster Bay?

SOME MEN AND THINGS

By SAVOYARD.

Sometimes politics has its embarrassments, and statesmen are repudiated for the followers they have enlisted. Mr. Speaker Champ Clark has his William R. Hearst. Mr. Leader Underwood has his Thomas E. Watson. Governor Harmon has his Joseph W. Bailey. Mr. Clark is proud of the support of Mr. Hearst, and has reduced it to writing that he is profoundly grateful to that gentleman for the aid of his scurrilous newspapers. One report is that if Clark is named to head the ticket Hearst is to have second place, which is as much as to say that Mr. Clark is a very reckless as well as a very brave man. Another report hath it that in the event Mr. Clark shall be inaugurated president in 1913 Mr. Hearst is to head his cabinet as secretary of state, which recalls the old classic interrogatory: "Where the priest is a monkey, what must the laity be?" If Hearst is to be secretary of state, I'd like to see the secretary of commerce and labor in that cabinet, just for curosity.

Now, Underwood is not proud of Tom Watson. You can safely bet on that. Underwood is not only a capable leader, but Oscar Underwood is a high-minded man, incapable of a meanness. Then what must he think of the miserable subterfuge of Tom Watson when that unscrupulous demagogue circulated the report in Georgia before the primary that Woodrow Wilson had sent an expression of sympathy to Brooker T. Washington when that negro educator was in trouble with one Ullrich in New York? We all know what Underwood thinks about that. His disgust with it is precisely as that of every other honorable gentleman in Georgia and elsewhere.

It may be that Harmon is proud of Bailey, but he would have been stronger in the running had he repudiated the Texas statesman as Woodrow Wilson repudiated the Wall Street magnate, Tom Ryan.

Some time ago I referred to the bill of Mr. Webb of North Carolina, which is designed to prohibit the transportation in interstate commerce of alcoholic liquors into "dry" communities. Mr. Webb's bill was introduced in January, 1912, but a bill of the same import was introduced in the extra session of the Sixty-second congress more than a year ago by Wyatt Aiken of South Carolina, who is the pioneer of the movement in congress. Mr. Aiken is a young man, a capable legislator and bears an honored and historic name. His bill sleeps the sleep that knows no waking because a discussion of and a vote upon it would embarrass the Hon. Champ Clark's campaign for the Democratic nomination for president. The charge is repeatedly made and never denied that the liquor trade will contribute liberally to Clark's campaign fund.

There were meetings—primaries, the newspapers call them—in the District of Columbia a few days ago to select delegates to the Baltimore convention. This town is different from other towns. We have millionaires here who are fugitives from taxation in the states. They locate here because half the taxation levied for the support of the District of Columbia is paid by the people at large, millions and millions of whom never saw the capital of the United States. Of course, this being a community of tax-eaters, Washington is full of folks who want favors at the hands of congress, and the speaker is always a popular as well as a powerful man in this town.

It is not strange, then, that Clark swept the primaries. The story is that anybody with a white skin could vote. Certain it is that I, a citizen of Kentucky, was repeatedly urged to vote. It was an exciting eection, and the victorious ticket was that put up by a whisky firm, wholesale and retail. It was given a certificate of regularity from the Champ Clark headquarters and authorized to use the picture of the speaker on its ballot. But there was another Champ Clark ticket and an "uninstructed" ticket. All three claimed to be elected in this beer-keg primary, and, perhaps, the only contest at Baltimore will be over the deegation from the District of Columbia.

People here who believe his election to the senate was a bargain and sale are beginning to admire William Lorimer. When "Paradise Lost" was read to Lord Thurlow, his lordship was delighted with a particular passage in which Satan hurled defiance, and exclaimed, "A d—d fine fellow! I hope he'l win!" And the audacity, the tenacity and the resolution of the Chicago boss causes people who abhor his methods to entertain toward him a feeling akin to sympathy.

The newly discovered evidence presented in the second investigation was not entirely barren of result. It convinced Senator Jones of Washington that Lorimer is innocent, though in the last congress Senator Jones voted him guilty, and that same testimony convinced Senator Curtis of Kansas that Lorimer is guilty, though Curtis voted him innocent in last congress. It is as apparent this congress as last that the lumber trust will stand by the Chicago boss to the bitter end.

It is rather cruel treatment Lorimer is handing out to some of the senators who stood by him in the sixty-first congress. They want him to resign in order that they may be spared the embarrassment of again voting on the case; but then his resignation would be positive treason toward those of the committee who have reported him innocent this congress, for resignation means guilt. It is flight and Lorimer is not the man to run away from any situation. When Oakes Ames was ready to testify before the committee raised to investigate whether he had bribed congress in the Credit-Mobilier affair he was besought to despose that he had merely loaned the stock to the men found with the goods and there was a song made about it by some wag, the refrain of which was: "Call it a loan, Oakes, call it a loan."

And Lorimer is now besieged by just as anxious a set beseeching, "Send in your resignation, Lorimer, resign Lorimer!"

The Chicago boss is a mystery. If he had civic virtue to match his personal as distinguished from his political conduct he would be an ornament to the senate. He is a dutiful son, a kind husband, a loving parent, a respected neighbor. He has none of the vices—does not drink or chew or smoke or swear. He lives at home and is the idol of his family. By diligence, by perseverance, by absolute integrity in matters of meum et tuum he rose from bootblack in the street to senator in congress. He never gave a promise to which he was not loyal. He is a pillar of the church and thousands of good men love him, trust him and will heed no evil report of him.

That is Lorimer the man. But Lorimer the politician is of a very different kidney. You can size him up when I say he is the Republican boss of Chicago. What a pity!

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

BETTER CAR SERVICE FOR LAKESIDE WANTED.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Why is it that the residents at Lakeside must continually suffer because of a primitive street car system? Is it fair to a citizen to continually treat him as a farmer in a suburb, instead of a resident of a large city?

I have just moved to Lakeside and use the street cars twice every day. My former home was at Minneapolis, and it is the splendid car service there that caused me to take the stand I am taking. It is a shame for a large city like Duluth to be treated in this way. Must its residents keep on suffering from an old-fashioned, primitive, country street car system, or will the residents ever get together and demand a respectable street car service? Why it is that nothing has ever been done before this, I do not know. I cannot imagine how the people here have managed to get along the way they have for the past ten years.

I think it would be a good idea for the residents at Lakeside to drop the many plans of increasing the number of cars, and begin to work at once for a "better car service." This change is an absolute necessity and the sooner accomplished, the better. Here are some of the changes, that, if effected by the Duluth Street Railway company, will result in a "better car service for Lakeside":

First—Motormen must not wait for passengers to run two or three blocks to the car. If a man is not at the gate ready to get on the car, go right ahead. In the first place the motormen should not be looking all about them to see if there are any more passengers. The company is making a good living without them, and besides there are more cars.

Second—The conductors should give the transfers immediately after the passenger pays his fare. In this way the large crowds that assemble at a transfer corner waiting for transfers will be done away with. About ten minutes is wasted on every car trip in this way.

Third—Every passenger must be ready to get off the car when the gate opens. If anyone is not at the gate, the conductor should ring the bell and go ahead. This wait for some fool passenger to get through telling a story is a nuisance and should be done away with at once. A few of these lessons will be enough to make a passenger realize that there are seventy-five other passengers on the car besides him. A bell should be rung one block ahead and the passenger should immediately get up and prepare to get off the car.

Fourth—And a little more appreciation of the residents at Lakeside by the street car company. Let the company run its cars on time and assist us out here to help make Duluth a live, blood-flowing city, instead of keeping it a small suburban-surrounded village.

Wake up, you officials of the road, and try to give us a ten-minute service during the day, and a five or seven-minute service during the busy hours. It is up to the officials of the road to do something, as 45 minutes to get to the center of the city from Lester park is a disgrace. Look what time the Selby-Lake and Interurban cars of Minneapolis and St. Paul make in their runs between the two cities. Put some life and snap in the car system and build it up to a "better service" instead of a larger one. It can be done.

Thanking you for this space, I am
Very truly yours,
LAKESIDER.

SECOND CHOICE PROVISION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In the explanation by The Herald's legislative correspondent of the second choice feature of the direct primary, it was said one objection was made to such a primary in that the second choices of the first and second candidates were not considered. It hardly seems fair to me to take the votes that were cast for second choice candidates and credit them to the higher men, as first choices.

An alternative plan suggested itself to me which is modeled along the lines of scoring in intercollegiate athletic events. For instance, in any given event, the college running first receives a credit of five points, the one running second a credit of three points, and the one running third a credit of one point. Under this system of scoring it can happe that a team winning a minority of first places may win the meet through their ability to capture enough second and third places. In such a meet, the rest of the "firsts" would have to be split between the several teams.

Applying this scheme to your direct primary we woud have as many choices as there are candidates. The ballot box could look something like this:

CHOICE.

A	3	Vote for each candidate giving preference by figures as follows: First choice, 1; second choice, 2; third choice, 3; fourth choice, 4; etc.
B	1
C	2
D	4

The table which the election judges and clerks would make up would be something like this:

Candidate.	1st Choice	2nd Choice	3rd Choice	4th Choice
A	30,000	15,000	5,000	30,000
B	25,000	30,000	15,000	10,000
C	20,000	25,000	30,000	5,000
D	5,000	10,000	30,000	35,000

Then by following our intercollegiate meet analogy we would multiply the above choices as follows:

All first choices to be multiplied by four.

All second choices to be multiplied by three.

All third choices to be multiplied by two.

All fourth choices to be multiplied by one.

Then the candidate having the greatest number of units would be declared the nominee. Following this through and multiplying the above table we obtain.

A —	120,000-	45,000-	10,000-	30,000—205,000 units
B —	100,000-	90,000-	30,000-	10,000—230,000 units
C —	80,000-	75,000-	60,000-	5,000—220,000 units
D —	20,000-	30,000-	60,000-	35,000—145,000 units

In the above case, B would be the nominee and the vote of every voter would be given the exact weight that it should have. If one claims that such a process is unfair, he must claim that all amateur athletic scoring is unfair. When politics becomes as clean and fair and honest as amateur sport, the bosses will have to work something else besides the people for a living.

It may be argued that the average voter will not take time to mark his preferences all the way down the line. This, of course, might happen, in which case the weighting of his choices could only be carried as far as he had expressed preference. But carrying the analogy to your intercollegiate meet again, a certain runner might have finished third and won the meet for his college if he hadn't dropped out on the third or fourth lap. Yours truly,

W. R. VAN SLYKE.

NO PROVISION FOR SUPERVISION

To the Editor of The Herald:

In regard to playgrounds, there are many vacant lots which might be used by getting permission from the owners or agents, some of whom, perhaps, would not object. Some of these lots are covered with grass and trees and could be used as playgrounds for little girls an hour or two in fair weather. Other lots are level and more barren, where boys could play marbles, quoits, duck-on-the-rock, and other games in summer time. The parents could often get permission by asking it for the children to use such lots.

F. Woodruf, who has been visiting his brother, C. B. Woodruff, goes to Chicago this evening.

Samuel Babb of Remington, Ind., is in the city visiting his daughter, Miss Alma Babb of the Duluth postoffice.

THE EXTRA SESSION.

New Knowledge.

Thief River Falls News-Press: The following is a quotation from a letter written by Governor Eberhart less than six weeks before the Minneapolis convention; "This question has been before the people in one form or another ever since the adjournment of the last regular session, and it is a matter of common knowledge that the sentiment is overwhelmingly against such an extra session. This I know of my own knowledge to be a fact." How does the governor reconcile this statement with the one he made in his proclamation for a special session? Is it possible that sentiment of the people has changed, or can it be that the governor's "own knowledge" came from the people via the Hamm route?

Reapportionment Needed.

Madison Independent-Press: The legislature of Minnesota is in session and unless it fairly accomplishes the work for which the governor has called that body together the governor should immediately issue a call for a second special session. Failure to reapportion the state at this time would be a far more rank injustice to the people of the state than was the failure to do so at the regular session and the members of the legislature—both houses—who oppose such action are not acting wisely. Further than this they are not acting fairly. Senator Dale of this district has never been opposed to redistricting and is not at this time.

Au Outbreak.

Buffalo Journal: The first extra session of the legislature, called in 1862, was due to the outbreak of the Indians. The present extra session may properly go down in history as having been due to the same cause, from the standpoint of the administration.

Somebody's Out of Votes.

Appleton Press: A citizen wants to know what in the world Eberhart has called an extra session of the legislature for. It can't be possible that the legislators are out of fountain pens so soon.

Late Economy.

Albert Lea Tribune: The members of the legislature are getting economical. They are shying at supplies which had been ordered for them by the secretary of state, and declare there is no use spending so much of the people's money. Too bad they did not think of this during the regular session. But maybe it would be a good thing to have the sessions just before election time, then the members might be good.

A Dare.

Luverne Journal: It is said that Governor Eberhart and his gang are trying to figure out some way to defeat a second choice provision in the forthcoming state wide primary law. The governor apparently didn't know just what he had set off when he exploded what his few remaining admirers are tickled to call the extra session bomb. But let them go ahead and slon bomb. But let them go ahead and beat it if they dare—let Governor Adolph veto the second choice provision if he has the sand. Such an act would now only make his defeat all the more certain. The progressive, who will become governor, Jan. 1, will be a man who will fight for such a law when the legislature convenes next winter and he may be pretty sure the people will give him a legislature that will be favorable to the best primary law that can be procured.

Looks for Little.

Breckenridge Telegram: A reapportionment bill should be passed by the legislature but it is too much to expect that the state senators have changed their spots. They would much rather retain their office for another two years than give Northern Minnesota the representation to which they are entitled.

Duty Shirked.

Warren Sheaf: The senate has already gone on record as opposed to reapportionment at this session, thereby shirking a plain duty imposed upon the legislature by the Constitution. The main reason for taking this stand is no doubt that by redistricting the state, the senators would legislate themselves out of office. That is a short-sighted view to take and savors of narrow, cheap politics. Meanwhile the northern part of the state must suffer by reason of inequality of representation.

Means Much to Duluth.

Cuyuna Range Miner: A decision rendered by the United States supreme court, in the Shreveport, La., case, against the Southern railroad for the granting of rates through Texas, by means of which Dallas, Tex., was benefited at the expense of other points, was heard with interest by members of the Duluth commission as having a bearing on the Duluth rate case. The rates through Texas were made at the behest of the state commission, its rebehest of the state commission, its rebehest being to give jobbers in Dallas an enormous advantage in freight rates over those located at points outside of the state. The effect of the Shreveport decision, therefore, is that no matter what a state commission may undertake to do, the interstate commerce commission deems itself competent to remove any discrimination that may result from compliance with state made orders. In other words, if a carrier, serving shippers in different states, elects to obey the orders of a state commission that result in reducing its earnings below what is just and reasonable in that territory, it may expect the federal commission to issue orders directing it, so long as it gives such rates to interstate commerce, to do so, as well as that moving from one state to another.

A similar decision, or a confirmation of the vital points of the Shreveport rate case, in the Duluth rate controversy, would ultimately have the effect of making the city at the Head of the Lakes a manufacturing and jobbing point equal to any city in the Great Northwest.

The Same.

Ayer—About the same as elsewhere.

BURIAL OF A BAND HERO.

London Mail: Wallace Hartley, the leader of the Titanic's band, which played "Nearer, my God, to Thee," as the ship sank, was brought home to Colne, Lancashire. Here on the side of the beautiful valley they buried the body, which was found days after floating in the sea. The burying was worthy of the death he died.

It was as a hero that he was borne shoulder high, with bands of music, through streets massed thick with people. It was as a hero that he was lowered into the last earthly place with trumpets sounding over him "The last post," and the hillside across the river answered.

Of the homecoming itself few saw much. In the dark, early morning hours a closed vehicle grimly sulted to the night toiled slowly up the twisting hillsides of Northeast Lancashire after making the long journey by road from Liverpool. Watchful policemen saw it and shone their lanterns upon it. But a word with the driver and they stood at attention and touched their helmets.

The vehicle put down its burden at a little chapel low down in the hillside township of Colne. Here as a boy Wallace Hartley had sung in the choir. Here his father, his mother, and sisters had worshipped. Here they came together to take their last look at him.

The church was filled with people. Old schoolfellows of Wallace Hartley's, relatives, friends filled every seat. Overhead alongside the organ and helping its music were musicians—violinists, 'cellists, and the rest of the Colne orchestra, comrades with whom he once had played, the ablest violinist of them all, it is said. Near them was the choir of men and girls, mill girls, many of them, and each dressed in comely white and black. Their sweet voices and the organ and the orchestra filled this tiny horse-shoe chapel. First came the strains of the noblest of hymn tunes, the one sung to "O God, our help in ages past," and then a new setting of "Lead Kindly Light."

Then came Sullivan's hymn, now surely immortal, "Nearer, my God, to Thee." Many could not sing it. Those sweet girl voices, fresh, simple, reverent, gave one all encouragement to sing, yet many could not respond. Their minds went away, perhaps to mid-Atlantic, to breathless, heart-broken "goodbys," to silence and deathly suspense, broken only by music filtering slight and distant through the companionways and half-open ports —the music of this simple, child-like tune, "Nearer, my God, to Thee."

The street outside the chapel was thronged with people. A mile and a half up the hill the cemetery lies away from the chapel, but not a spot on the roadside was vacant. Where the railway crosses the road people had climbed the steep banks and covered them. The wall of the railway bridge was fringed with heads. There were men, women and children from miles around. The trains and tramway cars had poured folk into Colne. Most of them were black, but many were in working clothes, straight from the mills—women weavers in their drab shawls, men in their blue and brown overalls, miners with faces black.

The funeral cortege was half a mile long. Aldermen, councilors, ambulance men, police, boys' brigades and others had a place. There were seven bands, and there might have been fifty-seven, for almost every band of Lancashire and Yorkshire asked to be allowed to come. Away up the hill and past the spot where the Wallace Hartley memorial stone is to be placed the procession slowly made its way, and every workman's hat was lifted reverently as it passed; every child was still.

The solemn burial service, read in a manly voice, just reached those standing some little distance from the graveside. Then the playing of the bands swelled through the valley to the singing again of "Nearer, my God, to Thee."

Then "The Last Post" was sounded. A dozen boy scouts blew it, and they blew it finely. The notes went rolling through the valley and came floating back lingeringly, as if loath to cease.

A Laughing Song.

When the green woods laugh with the voice of joy,
And the dimpling stream runs laughing by;
When the air does laugh with our merry wit,
And the green hills laugh with the noise of it;

When the meadows laugh with lively green,
And the grasshopper laughs in the merry scene;
When Mary, and Susan, and Emily,
With their sweet round mouths sing, "Ha, ha, he!"

When the painted birds laugh in the shade,
Where our table with cherries and nuts is spread;
Come live, and be merry, and join with me
To sing the sweet chorus of "Ha, ha, he!"

NEWS OF THE WEST END

GARDEN FOR EVERYBODY

Use of Vacant Lots Offered to West End Residents.

West End Promises to Become One of City's Beauty Spots.

For the benefit of any one interested in gardening and homecroft work the West End Commercial club will furnish lots free of charge and prepare them for seeding at the expense of the National Homecroft society, which has established its headquarters in Duluth.

The new feature of the gardening work for the West end was announced yesterday afternoon by Dr. O. A. Oredson, chairman of the garden committee and father of the homecroft movement in this end of the city. Since the organization of the Homecroft society in Duluth, the members have co-operated with the West End Commercial club. Vacant lots havo been secured in the West end and these will be plowed and prepared for seeding free of charge for any one desiring to have a garden this summer.

The new feature of the homecroft movement promises to interest a large number of garden enthusiasts, who have no room at their own homes for a garden. In this way many flat and tenement dwellers will be benefited by the change. The committee representing the West End Commercial club in this garden and homecroft compaign consists of Dr. Oredson, chairman, L. A. Simonson and John Wahl. The members of the committee will also assist any one in planting their vegetables and flowers.

That the homecroft movement is taking hold of the West end residents more than any other section of the city is the belief of Dr. Oredson. "The results of this work will be most gratifying and will exceed our hopes," said Dr. Oredson. "Many residents have taken up the garden plan and the West end promises to become the most beautiful part of the city. I am more than pleased with the work already accomplished and with the assistance of the school children, who have also entered into the garden plan, believe that the residents here will be more than surprised with the results this fall. The prizes will be awarded to the school children the first part of September.

"With the opening of the garden campaign, residents began to clean their yards and alleys preparatory to the work. In this way the lots and unsightly spots have nearly all been cleaned and the West end really presents a more beautiful picture than ever before in its history."

ALL IN FAVOR OF IMPROVING AVENUE.

Nearly every property owner on Twenty-seventh avenue west is in favor of paving the avenue at once, and at a meeting held last evening at the polling place, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street, a petition was started and signed by every one present.

The petition circulated last evening provides for the grading and resurfacing of Twenty-seventh avenue west from Michigan street to Seventh street. A roadway twenty-four feet wide, with a crushed rock pavement, cement gutters, curbing and sidewalks is included in the petition. The space between the sidewalk and curb will be parked, and it is planned to plant trees and shrubbery all along the avenue.

CHORUS WILL GO TO SANGERFEST

Normanna Members Are Planning on Trip to Fargo.

The Normanna Male chorus will send all of its members to the annual sangerfest of the Norwegian Singers of America to be held at Fargo, N. D., July 1. The members are now preparing for the sangerfest and a number of entertainments will be given to swell the expense fund within the next few weeks.

The Normanna Male chorus is one of the largest singing organizations in the Northwest and is considered a strong factor in Norwegian musical circles in this part of the country. Gustav Flaaten will have direct charge of the chorus, the following members of which will attend the sangerfest at Fargo: Messrs. George Thrana, A. H. Christdahl, H. Krigstad, F. Thorsen, E. Stone, H. Sodahl, J. H. Solem, Rufus Solem, L. Solem, John Simonson, George Salverson, B. Sande, J. Jensholm, O. Santair, Michael Rockman, A. Rusic, J. Rathe, B. Hammer, O. Hammer, O. Hanson, H. Haugan, H. Noryle, L. Nagle, O. Oss, J. Olkstad, G. Olson, A Olson, O. W. Johnson, J. Jonnasen, J. Jonathan, H. Jentoff, S. Jentoff, H. Hjillman, H. Lorentson, F. Larson, L. Hermann, H. Holm, F. Haug, Dr. H. Hovde, A. Christopherson and A. Berg.

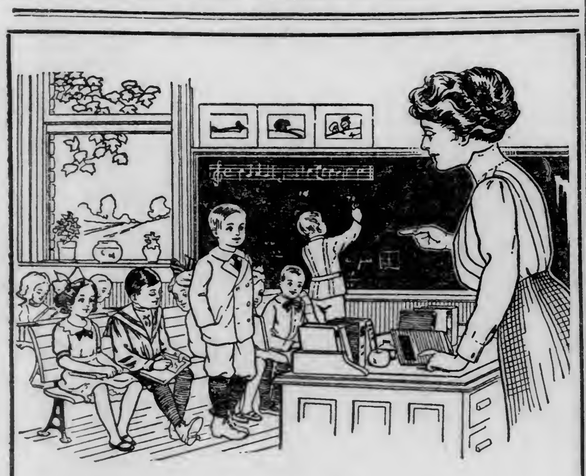

The first of the benefit entertainment will be given June 22 at the Foresters' hall, Fourth avenue west and First street. A special program with several vocal numbers is now being arranged.

WILL INITIATE CLASS OF TEN NEW MEMBERS.

An initiation of a class of ten members, followed by a card party and a special program of musical numbers and recitations, will be included in the program at the regular meeting of the Duluth Assembly lodge, No. 595. Equitable Fraternal union, at the lodge rooms in the new Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street. Among those who will take part in the program are Mrs. N. B. Morrison, Carroll Brown, Mrs. A. L. Murray, Ernie Gooslin and the choir of St. Peter's Episcopal church.

INDORSE CANDIDATES FOR SCHOOL BOARD.

The Men's Welfare League of the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and First street, at its meeting last evening indorsed Capt. D. E. Stevens for re-election to the school board. The league also went on record as favoring L. A. Larson and Peter Ringsrud as candidates for election to the board.

GRADUATION EXERCISES

West End Schools Give Diplomas to 180 Pupils.

Commencement Day Programs Given in the Various Buildings.

Exactly 180 pupils were graduated from the West end schools at the special commencement exercises held at each school this afternoon.

Of this number forty-five were graduated from the Lincoln school; Madison, sixteen; Monroe, twenty; Adams, thirty-five; Bryant, thirty; Emerson, cleven, and Ensign, twenty-three. Special programs were rendered by the pupils preceding the presentation of diplomas by the principals. Many of the graduates' parents attended the exercises and the schools all presented a festive appearance with the class and school decorations.

At the Adams school the following program was rendered during the afternoon:

Processional—"To the Tap of the Drum" ..... Class.
Song—"Come, Fairies, Trip It on the Grass ..... Class.
Dialogue—Opening addresses of the day ..... Messrs. Herbert Gilmore, Clarence Tentoft and Arnold Anderson.
Reading—"A Timely Visit" ..... Elizabeth Clare.
Reading—"Labor Day" ..... Esther Akerman.
Song—"Hark! Hark! the Lark".... Class.
Recitation—"Terry" ..... Tennie Winer.
Play—"Castles in the Air," arranged from "Little Women" ..... Margaret Hagget, Agnes Matheson, Vera Coning, Lillian Ronge, Clarence Thomas.
Recitation—"The Cow and the Bishop" ..... Muriel Nelson.
Oration—"The Ship of State" ..... William Helam.
"The Musical Asters" ..... Lucy Dye, Elsie Vollman, Elinora Wagner, Ruth Wedholm, Lucile Wenisch, Florence Nordstrom.
Song—"Anvil Chorus" ..... Class.
Recitation—"The painter of Seville" Lucile Wenisch.
Exercise—"In Toyland" ..... Elizabeth Clare and Class.
Class pictures and prophecy, drawn and exhibited by Harry Schederick; written and read by Elsie Vollman.

Recitation—"The Fountain Pen".... Esther Johnson.
Chorus—Commencement song ..... School.

Bryant School.

The graduates of the Bryant school presented a class play as their program for the afternoon. The young pupils played their characters admirably and were well received by the large audience, their parents and friends. The play, "A Sweet Girl Graduate," is a college comedy and the cast of characters was as follows:

Miss Maude De Smythe, the sweet girl ..... Inez Haugsrud
Mr. De Smythe, her father..... Emanuel Westberg
Mrs. Jennie De Smythe, her mother.. ..... Ella Babrielson
Miss Valeria Reynolds, her best friend ..... Mabel Frestedt
Jack Hamilton, her beau..... Ernest Sundholm
Miss Rantum, her elocution teacher.. ..... Myrl Churchill
Professor Grindem.....Milton Anderson
Miss Matilda Hoppenhoer, her aunt. ..... Dora Mitchell
Madame Sateene, the dressmaker..... Leona Rosek
Mr. Bulbus, the florist..Alvin Wellberg
Katherine, the maid..Julia Gabrielson

Every graduate of the Monroe school took part in the class play, "The Finer Shades of Honor," at the class exercises this afternoon. Following is the cast of charatcers in the play, giving also the graduates of the class:

Dr. Andrews.....Oscar Olson
Miss Curtis.....Esther Saaf
Faith Garden.....Elsie Strandberg
Margaret Noble.....Edith Mork
Ann Todd.....Ruth Saaf
Polly Parker.....Florence Lundberg
Marian Carter.....Amanda Wilson
Endora Jenks.....Ruth Carlson
Bessie Towne.....Hazel Finke
Donald Thorne.....Clarence Miller
Dick Larkin.....Ferguson Alexander
Arthur Minor.....Eric Peterson
Jack Hutchinson.....Dewey Lutz
Peter Nixon.....Wilfred Anderson
Billy Camp.....Herbert Rodberg
Ed Freer.....Alfred Nelson
Harry Smith.....Earl Schlitz
Charles Murdoch.....Clinton Ridgewell

HILLSIDE CLUB WILL HOLD MEETING.

The proposed street car line extension to Hermantown and Proctor will be finally reported on at the regular monthly meeting of the West End Hillside Improvement club tomorrow evening. The meeting will be held at the Ensign school, Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street.

At the last regular meeting of the club the members of the club voted to work for a street car extension from the end of the Piedmont avenue line to Hermantown and Proctor.

The following committee will make its first report on the proposed re-establishing of the former grade on Twenty-third avenue west: J. A. Rivers, Henry Truelson and Christ Nelson. The residents claim that the grade has been washed out since it was established six years ago. This condition is dangerous to the houses on the avenue, because of the large amount of water which now runs into the yards and lots instead of running into the sewers.

A final report on a drinking fountain at Piedmont avenue and the boulavard will also be made at the meeting tomorrow. The following committee has appeared before the council and made the request in behalf of the club: E. Erickson, Ole P. Kinn and Henry Truelson. The elimination of stagnant pools in this vicinity and the result of the recent investigations will be announced by the following committee: A. P. Philson, E. Erickson and O. P. Kinn. The committee has appeared before the council and the health department and the decisions of these two bodies will be reported at the meeting tomorrow.

Other subjects to be taken up are sewer extensions, better lighting for the hillside district, and the paving of Twenty-seventh avenue west. Property owners on the aenue have been re-owners on the avenue have been re-row and take part in the discussion.

Mrs. Paulin Dies.

Mrs. Hanna Paulin, 45 years old, wife of Paul Paulin, 2101 West Seventh street, died at her home yesterday afternoon after a two years' illness from consumption. She is survived by her husband and two children, Erhard and Florence. The body has been taken to the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms, where the funeral arrangements will be made some time this afternoon.

West End Briefs.

Miss Eva Adams of 2314 West Second street is reported ill at her home.

Miss Ella Goldstrom and Miss Winifred Gustafson of 2308 West First street left yesterday for Minneapolis, where they will visit relatives for several weeks.

Rev. Edwin Stromberg of the First Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, will conduct the regular prayer meeting this evening.

Rev. Milton Fish of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, will preach this evneing at the regular prayer meeting of the church.

The Dorcas circle of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, will hold an entertainment in the church parlors tomorrow evening.

Dr. O. A. Oredson of 2032 West Superior street returned yesterday from Waterville, Minn., where he was called suddenly last week on account of the illness of his mother. Mrs. Oredson is reported as being out of danger.

Herman J. Anderson of West Third street left yesterday for a month's visit with relatives at Indiana.

Mrs. D. J. Lewis of 2417 West Seventh street who was operated on Monday for appendicitis, is recovering.

INSPECT MILLER TRUNK ROAD

Part Within City Limits Is in the Worst Condition.

With the exception of that portion which runs through the city limits of Duluth, the Miller trunk road was found to be in good condition by the board of county commissioners which yesterday made an inspection tour of the highway in Commissioner Cumming's automobile.

All of the commisssioners except Chairman McInnis were in the party which made the inspection. The Duluth commissioners left for Eveleth Tuesday afternoon, where they joined the county board members who reside on the range. Yesterday morning the commissioners drove over the highway from Eveleth to Duluth.

Commissioner Cumming says that it will take some work to put the road in first-class condition especially with regard to the Duluth end of the highway. The county board at its next meeting will probably order the work done.

BROWN HEADS IOWA G. A. R.

Next State Encampment Is to Be Held in Des Moines.

Mason City, Ia., June 13.—J. D. Brown of Leon was elected commander and Des Moines awarded the next encampment by the Iowa encampment G. A. R.

Judge Trimble, national commander, in the principal address of the day, predicted that there would be encampments for the next fifteen or twenty years. He said that fully 20 per cent of the veterans were still living, their ages averaging 71 years.

Other officers elected were: Vice commander J. H. Stevens, Mason City; junior vice commander, G. M. Bronson, New Hartford; chaplain Fred Harris, Indianola; medical director J. H. Hutchins, Hampton; department council, William Blades, Dubuque; R. L. Chase, Des Moines; T. F. B. Hudson, Hampton; J. Petty, Perry; F. J. C. Beeler, Cedar Rapids.

MANY NEW SETTLERS IN NORTHERN MINNESOTA.

That the number of people seeking settlement on Northern Minnesota lands is greater than ever this year and increasing rapidly, was the assertion of W. R. McKenzie, secretary of the Northern Minnesota Development association, yesterday while he was in the city. Mr. McKenzie was on his way to Clear Brook on the Soo line to attend a good roads meeting.

He declared that a greater number than ever are filing in the land offices at Crookston and Cass Lake and that the demand for cut-over lands is on the increase. This year, he says will show an encouraging increase in the amount of land under cultivation and this will grow year by year.

KENNEDY HEAD OF IOWA FARM SCHOOL EXTENSION.

Ames, Ia., June 13.—The state board of education has appointed Prof. W. J. Kennedy superintendent of the agricultural extension department of Iowa state college. Mr. Kennedy, who has been head of the animal husbandry department for eleven years, will succeed P. G. Holden, who recently resigned.

TAKES HAAS BACK TO MINNEAPOLIS.

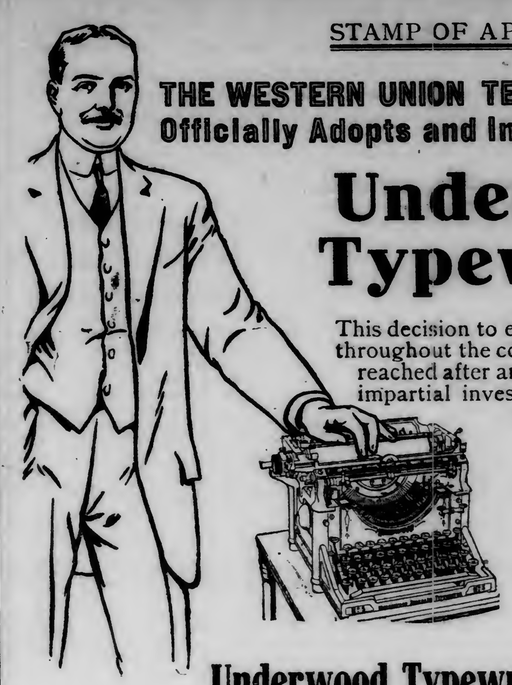

Fred Ohman of the Minneapolis police department arrived last evening and today took back to Minneapolis with him Frank Haas, who was arrested here a few days ago for the Mill City authorities. Mr. Ohman says that Haas, who gives his occupation as that of a bridge carpenter, passed a number of worthless checks on merchants and others in Minneapolis a short time ago, getting about $200 in all. He got $70 from one man.

All of the checks were drawn on the German-American bank, and Haas had never had a cent on deposit in that bank in his life, it is claimed.

There's little room in this great world of ours for the "fat" woman. She's a hindrance to herself in street cars, flats, elevators. Warm days she's just miserable. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea makes fat people cool and happy; fills them with life and energy. Just try it. Lion Drug Store.

'ARE BOLTING,' TEDDY SAYS

Colonel Charges Taft Members of Committee With Betraying Party.

Crisis Near at Chicago, With Dark Horse Talk Increasing.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 13.—"They are bolting from the Republican party at this moment," said Col. Roosevelt last night of supporters of President Taft on the Republican national committee.

The former president was aroused to a fighting mood by the news which reached him over his private wires from Chicago. He denounced with all the emphasis he could command the action of the national committee in deciding the contests for seats in the national convention from Kentucky, Arizona and California. He declared that the thirty-seven Taft supporters on the national committee "have shown their profound and abiding disloyalty to the party which in theory they represent, and which in practice they have betrayed."

Near Crisis at Chicago.

Chicago, June 13.—Apparent irreconcilability of the differences between the Taft and Roosevelt leaders in the Republican party, borne on a rising tide of charges of bribery, theft and other accusations, threaten to precipitate decisive developments before the opening of the national convention next Tuesday.

The chares of corruption were made in an open statement given to the press by Director McKinley of the Taft bureau, which directly accuses the Roosevelt managers of an effort to capture the convention.

Prominent men on both sides admit the situation has become so acute that almost anything might happen in the next few days. Among possibilities discussed in conference rooms, hotel corridors and party headquarters were two that continued to come up again and again.

Flinn Stopped Bolt Talk.

The first of these was the possibility of a bolt by the Roosevelt forces, and the organization of a "progressive" party if President Taft is to be nominated. The bolt talk was ever present during the day, and once in a meeting of Roosevelt leaders rose to a point where William Flinn of Pittsburg, who is presiding, refused to let it go further.

The second possibility, and this seemed to hold the center of the stage last night, was that of a compromise on a third candidate. A number of the leaders declared that now it was positively beyond question to expect either the Taft or Roosevelt people to abide by the nomination of the other's candidate.

The third candidate talk included Cummins and La Follette, and then went on to the much debated "dark horse" possibility. A dozen names were mentioned in the latter connection, but there was no unanimity of opinion among leaders in this regard.

McKinley's Statement.

Early in the evening Director McKinley issued a lengthy statement which, after claiming that Mr. Taft would be nominated on the first ballot, charged that the Roosevelt forces were planning "more desperate measures to prevent the inevitable," and added:

"That a well defined effort is on foot to buy the presidential nomination for Theodore Roosevelt is beyond question."

The statement then charges that a plan is on foot to influence the local police force with a view to packing the convention hall with non-ticket holders, and to "perpetrate in the hall a system of intimidation and terrorization which might easily culminate in a full fledged riot."

"A plain campaign lie" was Mr. Dixon's retort to the McKinley statement, and he refused to discuss it further.

CHINA MAY TURN FROM POWERS FOR LOAN.

Pekin, June 13.—Premier Tang Shao Yi has informed the financial group representing the powers that he requires 90,000,000 taels ($63,000,000) during the month of June. If he does not obtain this, he says, he will consider himself free to borrow elsewhere. The assembly has rejected the scheme for the issue of irredeemable notes, and has approved the issue of national bonds at 5½ per cent, repayable within a decade. The total issue will amount to $100,000,000.

ON THE IRON RANGES

EVELETH DEPOT BEING MOVED

Other Improvements Being Made By Missabe About Its Terminal.

Eveleth, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Missabe railroad has a big crew of men improving the local station. The depot is being moved toward the street eight feet. This will make room for the broadening the train platform, a change which was badly needed. The platform will also be lowered to the level of the rails, thereby eliminating the danger of accidents from falling down between the platform and the train. The platform on the opposite side of the depot will be in line with the street. This also will make a decided improvement.

May Fill Excavations.

There is a report in circulation that this work is soon to be followed by the filling in of the big cave between the depot and the business center by the Oliver Iron Mining company. This will restore the street to its full width and make it possible to have a walk running from Grant avenue to the depot along the north side of Monroe street. The cave-in in its present condition is the great blot on the appearance of an otherwise beautiful city, and any news that the mining company intends to correct the condition will be hailed with delight.

PLAINTIFF DROPS SUIT FOR DAMAGES

Mrs. Gerow's Action for $15,000 Stops Suddenly.

Hibbing, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case of Mrs. Ella Gerow vs. Anton Passard, an action for personal injury damages in the sum of $15,000, was dismissed in district court yesterday afternoon upon motion of the plaintiff's attorney, Victor Power. The motion came while the plaintiff was on the stand testifying in her own behalf. It is said that if the plaintiff's attorney had not moved to dismiss, the attorneys for the defense would have done so at the first opportunity. The case may be brought again, but it is not probable that it will be retried at this term of the district court. The trial of the criminal calendar was taken up this morning.

The graduates from the Eighth grade were: Johlmer Corbett, Rudolph Cloon, Willie Cloon, Edith Johnson, Ina Lund, Henry Rokkla, Attie Sjorstrom, Russel Trythall, Ruth Vogan, Dorothy Williams.

After the program the class rooms were thrown open and visitors inspected the work of the children. Light refreshments were served by the girls and boys of the domestic science classes. Promotion exercises were held this morning at 10 o'clock.

Motherhood

The highest point of woman's happiness is reached only through motherhood, in the clasping of her child within her arms. Yet the mother-to-be is often fearful of nature's ordeal and shrinks from the suffering incident to its consummation. But for nature's ills and discomforts nature provides remedies, and in Mother's Friend is to be found a medicine of great value to every expectant mother. It is an emulsion for external application, composed of ingredients which act with beneficial and soothing effect on those portions of the system involved. It is intended to prepare the system for the crisis, and thus relieve, in great part, the suffering through which the mother usually passes. The regular use of Mother's Friend will repay any mother in the comfort it affords before, and the helpful restoration to health and strength it brings about after baby comes. Mother's Friend is for sale at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

MILL CITY MAN TAKEN ON RANGE

Frank Rutz Is Arrested in Hibbing on Desertion Charge.

Hibbing, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Rutz, who for some time past has made this city his home and has been employed at odd jobs, was arrested yesterday by the local police for the Minneapolis Humane society. He was turned over to a special officer last evening to be returned to that city, where he faces a charge of desertion and non-support preferred by his wife on behalf of herself and a family of nine children.

GOES TO DETROIT.

Hibbing High School Instructor Gets Good Assignment.

Hibbing, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. F. I. Solar, for the past two years in charge of the manual training department of the Hibbing schools, has been engaged by the board of education of Detroit, Mich., to teach manual training in three of the largest schools of that city. Mr. Solar had been engaged to teach the subject at Mountain Iron, but the board released him upon his request to accept the Detroit place which carries a much better salary. He has been one of the most efficient instructors in the manual training department the schools of this city have ever had and the fact he is to leave this city is regretted.

ABSENT-MINDED RECTOR.

Hibbing Man of Cloth Leaves Daughter in Store and Forgets.

Hibbing, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Frank Durant, rector of Christ Episcopal church, this city, who next Sunday will conduct services in St. Paul's church, Duluth, and who is one of Hibbing's most popular citizens, is somewhat absent-minded. Rev. Mr. Durant is at present serving on the jury at the term of the range district court here. Yesterday morning he came downtown with his little daughter and went into a store to do some shopping, and then reported at the courtroom. When he returned home at noon, Mrs. Durant asked him where the little girl was. Mr. Durant had quite forgotten she accompanied him downtown. The little girl had strayed from his side at the store and had been cared for by the sales force at the store during the morning.

BUHL PLANT POPULAR.

Municipal Heating Plant Is Being Liberally Patronized.

Buhl, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The municipal heating plant is becoming so popular that there are increasing demands for the services and many more concerns have asked for pipe connections with the central plant.

Manual Training Instructor Ole Forsberg of the high school has resigned and announces he will not return having made engagements elsewhere to the general regret of the school patrons.

FOUR RURAL SCHOOLS

Will Be Built This Summer North of Virginia.

Virginia, Minn. June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The county board of education has authorized the construction this summer of four wooden school buildings one room each in the farming district north of Virginia, as follows:

School No. 15 ten miles north of Virginia; No. 26, seven miles northwest; No. 28, at Cusson; No. 30, seven and one-half miles southwest of Gheen. These schools will be ready for use next fall.

BIWABIK SCHOOL HEAD TEACHING AT NORMAL.

Biwabik, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. J. E. Lunn of the Biwabik school faculty has gone to Duluth as one of the instructors in the normal summer school.

Teams and men are plowing and grading the side streets in preparation for the paving which will be laid as rapidly as the preliminary work can be done.

HIBBING MACCABEES TO CELEBRATE FRIDAY.

Hibbing, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing Hive, Ladies of the Maccabees, will hold its twentieth anniversary ball at the Armory Friday, June 21. It will be one of the most elaborate events ever given by any fraternal organization in Hibbing and an active committee is already busy on the arrangements. It is composed of the Mesdames S. O. Geiser, M. Gleason, M. Cupples, D. McCauley and Louis Micka. Kleffman's orchestra will furnish the music.

Hibbing Boniface to Retire.

Hibbing, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—George H. Williams, who for the past year has conducted the Central hotel here, announces that he will retire from business June 23. He has no plans for the future, but for the present he and Mrs. Williams will enjoy a rest and later re-enter business at some town on the range.

Settle Township Accounts.

Nashwauk, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Members of the township of Nashwauk board went to Grand Rapids Wednesday, where they were met by the Greenway township board and a meeting held for the purpose of settling up an account due the Nashwauk township ever since Greenway township petitioned and secured part of the Nashwauk township district. The amount of litigation is approximately $4,000.

CLEANLINESS IS LEAGUE'S OBJECT

Two Harbors Women's Organization Working for Sanitary Conditions.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Civic league recently organized by the women of the various church clubs and societies to encourage public cleanliness, has drawn up a petition to the city council asking for their co-operation in the work which they are about to begin, and requesting them to pass an ordinance which should incorporate the following ideas: That those who do not burn their garbage be obliged to purchase garbage cans to be sold by the city at cost; garbage be removed from the city once a week during the months of July, August and September; covered boxes for the deposit of waste and refuse be purchased and placed on the street corners where there is the most traffic; the entire city be divided into four districts with two women inspectors for each district whose duty it will be to act as assistants to the board of health.

The Civic league is the first women's organization in Two Harbors that has ever taken such an interest in the public welfare and health of the community and it is expected that their efforts will make conditions more sanitary.

Fly Catching Contest.

Among the important steps which the league has already planned is the fly catching contest which will start June 24. There will be eight cash prizes given to the children who present the most flies when the contest is over. The prizes range from $1 to $5 and will be contributed by the different women's organizations. The officers of the club are Miss Borreson, president; Mrs. Nelsenius, vice president, and Mrs. W. Lorne Fowler, secretary and treasurer.

VIRGINIANS INTERESTED

In Announcement of Engagement of Mayor's Sisters.

Virginia, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local people are interested in the engagements announced at Woodstock, Ont., of Miss Bessie Murphy of Woodstock and M. Fitzhenry of Toronto Can., and Miss Margaret Murphy and J. Stanton of Oshawa, Can. The brides-to-be are daughters of Eugene Murphy, former assistant superintendent of the Canadian Pacific railway at Woodstock, and are sisters of Mrs. Byron Fuller and J. W. D. T and Mayor M. A. Murphy of Virginia. The weddings will take place this summer at "Rosedale," the family home at Woodstock.

WORKING LILY MINE.

Minnesota Mining Company Working Property Near Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota Mining & Development company which has taken over the Lily mine, located between Virginia and Mariska, from the Lily Mining company is operating the property and it is expected 25,000 tons will be mined this season. The company will stockpile its output until a sale of ore has been made. H. G. Fisk, president and manager of the company, is in charge of the operations. The property is owned by Duluth, Superior and Virginia capital.

ELY FIRE CHIEF WEDS.

Marries Ely Woman in Duluth; Couple Taking Boat Trip.

Ely, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cards have been received by the many friends of I. G. Cox and Miss Mary Western, announcing their marriage in Duluth yesterday afternoon. Both are well-known and popular young people of Ely. Mr. Cox is proprietor of the Exchange hotel and chief of the Ely fire department. The marriage ceremony was read by Rev. E. F. Stidd of this city, who was in Duluth. The young couple left on the Tionesta for a lake trip to Detroit. After visiting Eastern cities, they will return and make their home here.

LEFT TO COMMITTEES

To Report on Proposed Two Harbors Charter Amendments.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city charter commission, held a meeting to consider certain amendments to the city charter in accordance with a resolution passed by the city council, requesting the commission to prepare for submission to a vote amendments to the charter which shall embody the following provisions: For a special improvement fund to be provided and maintained by a tax levy on all real property of the city for defraying expenses of street improvements out of the street improvement fund; for dispensing with publication of council proceedings; for the election by the voters of the city clerk and the city attorney, instead of the council appointing them as heretofore; to provide for maintenance of coal and wood yard and for city engaging in sale of various fuels and such other commodities as are necessary for the benefit of the community, and such other provisions as to the charter commission shall seem proper.

Want City Coal Plant.

The council is very anxious to have the latter amendment adopted as the aldermen wish to go into the coal business this coming fall. A municipal coal yard was started here last year but owing to certain technicalities in the charter they were forced to drop it. The charter commission did not arrive at any definite conclusion on the amendments and it was decided to appoint a committee for each proposition. By so doing the commission expect to arrive at a conclusion much sooner than they would if the whole body acted on them. The various committees will meet in the near future.

Hibbing vs. Virginia.

Hibbing, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local high school baseball nine will play the Virginia high nine at Virginia Saturday. Many local fans will go to the game.

"HAIR THAT GIVES FATHER TIME THE LAUGH"

We are just about as old as we LOOK

People judge us, by the way we LOOK. The man or woman with grey hair is beginning to get in the "Old Timer's Class." This Twentieth Century does NOT want GREY hairs—it wants the energy of Youth. The big things are being done by the YOUNGER generation.

There's a sort of "Has Been" look about those "Grey Hairs." There is always one to criticise and smile scornfully.

Official Map of the Weather

FORECAST TILL 7 P. M. FRIDAY.

For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges: Showers tonight and Friday; not much change in temperature; moderate easterly winds.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

Observations taken at 8 a. m., seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. ISOBARS (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. ISOTHERMS (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 90°, and 100°. ○ clear; ◒ partly cloudy; ● cloudy; R rain; S snow; M report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. First figures, temperature; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

RAIN

"It is cool in Duluth." There was no question about that last evening, and most of the outdoor sleepers had to go in for more blankets before morning. The weather man looks for the cool weather to continue with the possibility of showers.

A year ago today it was cold and threatening.

The sun rose this morning at 4:12 and will set at 8:04 making fifteen hours and fifty-two minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Barometric depressions centered over Alberta and off the Maine coast caused showers in Pacific states, Rocky Mountains, Missouri valley states, the Southwest, Eastern Texas, Louisiana, Florida, the Ohio and St. Lawrence valleys and New England during the last twenty-four hours. Heavy rains fell over portions of Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa. Rather warm weather prevailed Wednesday over most of the Southern states. Indications favor showery and moderately cool weather at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, June 13.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

Wisconsin—Unsettled weather tonight and Friday, with showers; not much change in temperature.

Upper Michigan—Rain tonight and Friday, slightly warmer tonight.

Minnesota—Unsettled weather tonight and Friday, with showers; warmer in southeast portion tonight.

Iowa—Unsettled weather with showers tonight or Friday; warmer in east portion tonight.

North Dakota—Showers tonight; Friday probably cloudy.

South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Friday, preceded by unsettled in east portion tonight; cooler Friday.

Montana—Cloudy tonight with showers in west portion; Friday generally fair; cooler tonight.

SIX MISSISSIPPI CONTESTS DECIDED FOR TAFT FORCES

attorneys that he would heed the Roosevelt instructions.

Missouri Cases Taken Up.

With the Mississippi cases disposed of, the national committee took up the Missouri contests involving fourteen seats in the convention.

Governor Hadley's Roosevelt delegates at large are challenged by the Taft supporters, and Taft delegations from the First, Third, Fifth, Seventh and Fourteenth districts oppose the "regular" delegations instructed for Roosevelt. The case of the delegation-at-large was called first. Demands for roll calls on the Mississippi contests, made by Roosevelt members of the committee, were ignored.

The contest in the second district of Mississippi was the first called, and at the suggestion of Committeeman Penrose, attorneys for both sides agreed to consolidate the Second, Fourth, Sixth and Seventh Mississippi districts, and argument on these cases collectively was made.

In yesterday's sessions the committee decided in favor of the Taft supporters all contests from Arizona, California and Louisiana. There still remained 100 contests at noon today.

Race Prejudice Raised.

At the outset today Dean E. Ryman, attorney for the Roosevelt contestants, said it would be shown that no conventions were held in those districts at which Taft delegates regularly were elected.

Mr. Ryman declared the white voters in the districts refused to allow negro voters to participate in any conventions.

"As showing that prejudice against negro voters, it need be said only that in one year in Lincoln county alone 155 men were indicted for participating in lynchings," said Mr. Ryman. "The Roosevelt Republicans decided to give the negroes a chance and we came here with delegates regularly elected on this basis."

Refused to Consider.

W. E. Mollison, a negro attorney, asked the committee to take such action either to prevent the negro delegates being elected or to accept them when they are elected. He asked the committee to reopen the contests of the Mississippi delegates-at-large, decided yesterday in favor of the Taft contestants. The committee, however, took no action on the suggestion.

For the Taft forces, W. J. Latham, also a negro attorney, declared he had affidavits denying that no notice was given of conventions to elect delegates from the Second, Fourth, Sixth and Seventh districts. He denied that the Taft adherenets had opposed negro voters or had declined to have negroes participate in the conventions.

On a viva voce vote the committee decided to seat the eight Taft delegates from the districts under consideration. A chorus of "noes" came from the Roosevelt side.

Tried to Oust Henry.

The Fifth Mississippi district contest case next was called. The bitter feeling toward Francis J. Heney of San Francisco again broke out. Mr. Heney but owing to certain technicalities in the charter they were forced to drop it. The charter commission did not arrive at any definite conclusion on the amendments and it was decided to appoint a committee for each proposition. By so doing the commission expect to arrive at a conclusion much sooner than they would if the whole body acted on them. The various committees will meet in the near future.

For the Taft forces, W. J. Latham, also a negro attorney, declared he had affidavits denying that no notice was given of conventions to elect delegates from the Second, Fourth, Sixth and Seventh districts. He denied that the Taft adherenets had opposed negro voters or had declined to have negroes participate in the conventions.

On a viva voce vote the committee decided to seat the eight Taft delegates from the districts under consideration. A chorus of "noes" came from the Roosevelt side.

Tried to Oust Henry.

The Fifth Mississippi district contest case next was called. The bitter feeling toward Francis J. Heney of San Francisco again broke out. Mr. Heney had come in on the proxy of Thomas Thorson of South Dakota, which he had held in previous sessions of the committee.

Committeeman W. S. Sturgess of Arizona made a formal motion that Mr. Heney's proxy be refused and Mr. Heney excluded. The motion received little support.

Mr. Sturgess said the records showed Heney had run for prosecuting attorney on the Democratic ticket in San Francisco.

Mr. Heney denied the charge. He said he had refused the Democratic nomination, had run on an independent ticket and had been defeated by the "money of Patrick Calhoun."

Committeeman Chubb of Florida said he wanted to hear more about Abe Ruef, and on his motion the proposal to exclude Mr. Heney was tabled.

In the Fifth Mississippi district the Taft delegates were the contestants. The Taft attorneys announced they would rest their case on affidavits and records purporting to show their delegates were regularly elected.

A. D. Hill of Boston appeared for the Roosevelt delegates.

Roosevelt Men Expected.

"The negro voters, and many other Roosevelt supporters, deliberately were ejected from the convention which the Taft forces called," he said. "The Roosevelt men thereupon went across the street and held another convention, which was regular in every respect."

Mr. Hill appealed to the committee to split the delegation from this district, giving Roosevelt and Taft one delegate each. He declared "the Republican party in the South really does not exist, and if one of these delegations was irregular they both were.

"Everyone knows these conventions are a farce, representing as they do a mere handful of white voters and a few postmasters," declared Mr. Hill.

During the discussion Mr. Heney had another interchange with several members of the committee.

Replying to a criticism of his method of examining one of the contestants, Mr. Haney called across the room to one of his critics:

"I would like to get you on the witness stand."

Roll Call Refused.

The two Taft delegates from the Fifth Mississippi district were seated without a roll call, Roosevelt adherents voting in the negative. A request for a roll call was refused.

Try Skin Absorption Instead of Cosmetics

(From The Woman Militant).

The constant use of rouge and powder invites a coarsened, roughened condition of the skin, eruptions, enlarged pores and wrinkles. If you've learned this from experience, suppose you quit cosmetics and try what I recommend.

Ask your druggist for an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax and begin using this tonight. Apply like cold cream, washing it off in the morning. Keep this up for a week or two. The wax will literally absorb the coarse, colorless or blemished top skin, but so gradually as not to discommode you at all. Just as gradually the clear, velvety, naturally-tinted underskin comes to the surface. And mercolized wax becomes your everlasting friend.

For those wrinkles and large pores, make a face bath by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half-pint witch hazel. This has remarkable astringent and tonic properties, and beneficial results come quickly.

NEW GROSS EARNINGS BILL FOR A STRAIGHT INCREASE IN THE RATE

therefore, the proposition of the 1911 law to tax the incomes from express stocks and other securities owned by the railroads, which may be questioned, would better be abandoned.

The so-called woodchuck alleged to have been discovered in the house bill is a mare's nest. There was no possibility that the bill, even if passed unamended, would take away from Duluth or other communities the right to tax railroad property not used for railroad purposes. According to the attorney general's opinion, while this might be the possible effect of the law, the result would be, if any, not to take these taxes away from the communities, but to make the law unconstitutional. The Cheadle amendment, taking care of this point, would have been adopted, as it was approved by the senate committee and the attorney general, if the whole attempt to reach these outside earnings had not been dropped.

Representatives Rines and Warner will also offer a resolution directing the state tax commission to see that all real estate owned by railroads but not used for railroad purposes is put on the tax rolls, covering the back years during which it was exempted.

Move for Adjournment.

Informally an attempt was made by senators to get the house members to agree to an adjournment Saturday by shutting out reapportionment and the recall bill. The senators were willing to pass the Dunn armory bill, the St. Paul library bond bill, the amendment to the child labor law and the gross earnings bill, if the house would drop all other measures outside of the state-wide primary and corrupt practices. The house probably will not agree to this program.

The senate this morning, on motion of Senator Cheadle, appointed a committee consisting of himself and Senator Hanson and Dale to confer with a similar house committee about adjourning. No conference can be had until the house appoints such a committee, and it is the sentiment of house leaders that no such action should be taken until the house is a little clearer about the fate of the measures pending before it. The chance of an adjournment Saturday was much slimmer today.

The Primary Bill.

The house this morning considered the state-wide primary bill in committee of the whole, receiving and discussing amendments, which will not be acted upon until the bill is taken up at a special order tomorrow.

* * *

The senate had up as a special order the bill by Senator W. W. Dunn of St. Paul, providing for a single election to take the places of the primary and general elections, at which the candidates receiving the highest votes would be elected to office. Filing as party candidates is permitted. While many members believe that something like this will happen some day, the bill is not expected to pass.

* * *

The senate adopted a resolution by Senator Gunn of Grand Rapids, asking Minnesota congressmen to have the regulations governing the upper Mississippi reservoirs changed for the benefit of settlers. The resolution is the sams as the Warner resolution, which has passed the house.

* * *

The recall bill, when received this morning by the house, was ordered printed and placed on general orders Representative Lundeen's attempt to pass it immediately not receiving favor.

Only a Makeshift.

Representatives O'Neill and C. H. Warner introduced a makeshift reapportionment bill, giving Northern Minnesota four more senators and three more representatives by increasing the size of both houses accordingly. All the increased membership goes to the two districts the authors represent, none to St. Louis county.

William J. Bryan addressed a joint session this afternoon, being introduced by Representative Albert Pfaender of New Ulm, Democratic floor leader of the house.

DIXON CLAIMS TAFT MEN BRIBED MEMBER OF PARTY COMMITTEE

convention who arrived today talked of the advisability of a dark horse candidate for president in the hope of bringing party harmony and success. The leaders, while hoping some solution of the problem may be brought forward at the eleventh hour, apparently feel that the lines between the Taft and Roosevelt forces have been so sharply drawn and such high feeling aroused that there is little hope now of a compromise.

Taft supporters apparently were more confident of success than ever after yesterday's victory in the contests before the national committee, and freely reiterated their predictions of the renomination of the president on the first ballot. Roosevelt managers, on the other hand, declared their candidate would have the necessary 540 votes to secure the nomination on the first ballot.

Predict Futile First Ballot.

The followers of Senator Cummins of Iowa and Senator La Follette of Wisconsin are expressing the opinion there will be no choice on the first ballot.

Senator Elihu Root of New York, the choice of the Taft leaders for temporary chairman of the convention, is expected to arrive from Washington this afternoon. It is expected that immediately upon his arrival he will go into conference with Congressman McKinley, head of the Taft bureau, to devise plans for the temporary organization of the convention.

There was less talk today of opposition to Senator Root's selection as temporary chairman. The Roosevelt men apparently have not agreed on a candidate for the position, but declare they will have one when the time comes.

Several conferences of Taft leaders were held during the morning at which tentative plans for the organization of the convention committees were considered.

Former Senator Charles Dick of Ohio was brougha forward as a candidate for chairman of the important committee on credentials, while Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana still is mentioned as a likely candidate for chairman of the committee on resolutions.

May Postpone Mass Meeting.

The postponement of the Roosevelt mass meeting called by Congressman William Kent of California and Medill McCormick of Chicago, until Monday evening, was discussed by politicians today and several reasons assigned for the change in the plans. One reason suggested was that the promoters desired to hold off until the last minute in the hope that Col. Roosevelt may decide to come to Chicago and be the principal speaker.

Another story was that it was deemed advisable to delay the rally until after the national committee finishes the hearing of contests.

PROTEST FROM DULUTHIANS

National Committee Receives Letter Signed By 100 Roosevelt Supporters.

Roosevelt supporters in Duluth to the number of about 100 have sent a protest to the Republican national committee at Chicago, against the alleged unfair methods used in seating Taft delegates.

The protest which is signed by prominent Roosevelt supporters of the city follows:

The Republicans of Minnesota will not tolerate the theft of delegates which means assassination of the party by the methods now threatened by the national committee. The nominee of the party must be backed by clean methods of the national committee, otherwise cannot be recognized as nominee of Republican party."

Three Duluthians will be present at the national convention Tuesday. O. J. Larson, one of the delegates at large, left last evening for Chicago. W. A. Eaton, one of the two district delegates, will leave Sunday. John Saari is also expected to attend as a spectator. The other district delegate is W. H. LePlant of Anoka, who will probably join the Minneapolis delegates. The three alternates, A. B. Colburn of International Falls, Charles Morse of Cromwell and H. B. Webb of Sandstone are also expected to attend.

HATFIELD-McCOY FEUD IS ENDED

Long and Bloody State Border Strife Finally Comes to an End.

Bluefield, W. Va., June 13.—That the Hatfield-McCoy feud, one of the oldest and bloodiest in the history of the West Virginia-Kentucky border, has ended for all time, was indicated today when Dr. H. J. Hatfield, cousin of "Devil Anse" Hatfield, leader of the Hatfield clan, received a telegram from J. McCoy, leader of the McCoy faction, indorsing his candidacy for governor of West Virginia. The telegram was dated at Princeton, W. Va., and read:

"Greetings to Dr. Hatfield from a McCoy. Congratulations. That you may win in November is my desire."

Dr. Hatfield was nominated for governor at the Republican primaries last week.

Young Girl Attacked.

Wymore, Neb., June 13.—The 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Delaney was found last night in the weeds not far from her home in an unconscious condition. She had been criminally assaulted and her condition is regarded as critical. A suspect who was arrested was roughly handled by a crowd and narrowly escaped lynching. He asserted his innocence.

Will of John Megins Is Filed in the Probate Court.

John Megins, a former Duluthian, who died in California May 1, left an estate of $107,500 according to his will which was filed yesterday with the clerk of the probate court. Considerable of the property included in the estate is situated in this county. Among other holdings he owned the Bon Ton restaurant building and the Chamberlain & Taylor block on Superior street. The major portion of the estate, it is understood will go to the widow.

The estate of Joseph S. Morrow yesterday paid an inheritance tax of $2,499.94 to the estate. In this estate Joseph Sellwood, grandfather, was the sole heir named in the will and will receive the entire estate which will amount to about $57,000.

WOUNDS YOUNG WIFE AND KILLS HIMSELF.

Perry, Iowa, June 13.—Angered because of the refusal of his young wife to return to him, R. A. Perry, aged 24, shot her, inflicting fatal injuries, and then turned the gun on himself, sending a bullet through his heart and dying instantly. The woman cannot live.

HOBSON WANTS TO GO TO THE SENATE.

Troy, Ala., June 13.—Richmond Pearson Hobson, representative from the Sixth Alabama district, in an interview here has announced that he will oppose Joseph F. Johnston for re-election to the United States senate in the primaries of 1914. Senator Johnston's term expires in March, 1915.

Capt. Hobson said he aimed to "purge the government of men who serve sinister liquor interests, and depend for their success upon debauching the people's morals." He declares himself a propagandist of the direct primary system.

WOULD INDICT FORMER ELGIN BANK CASHIER.

Chicago, June 13.—Subpoenas for D. E. Wood, president; M. C. Getzelman, vice president; and five other officials of the Elgin National bank have been issued to command their presence before the federal grand jury with a view to the indictment of Louis N. Seaman, former cashier of the institution, who has been arrested in Los Angeles, Cal., charged with embezzlement and misapplication of funds. M. C. Jocelyn, assistant cashier of the bank, already has been questioned by the federal authorities.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: JUNE 16.

Matt. xi., Christ's Witness to John the Baptist.

CONNECTION.

The last days of the noble and intrepid forerunner were full of gloom. That he should have given his best to the cause of the coming Messiah and have spent the last year of his life in a dungeon, to have his head cut off by the man who ought to have befriended him is one of the perplexities of providence. This story of his doubts reveals him in his real humanness, as our own brother. It was probably the summer of the year A. D. 25, or in the autumn, not long after the Sermon on the Mount was preached. John had been in prison about a year.

LESSON.

I.

What Jesus Said to John's Disciples—2-6.

"Now when John heard in the prison the works of the Christ, he sent by his disciples and said unto him, Art thou He that cometh, or look we for another? And Jesus answered and said unto them, Go and tell John the things which ye hear and see: the blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, and the dead are raised up, and the poor have good tidings preached to them. And blessed is he, whosoever shall find no occasion of stumbling in Me."

1. DOUBT.—Recall the confident way in which John first preached the coming Messiah and identified Him when he saw Him; now contrast the doubts that haunted his depressed mind in prison. Could he have been mistaken, he now asked himself. Let us not be harsh with him. There are two reasons that explain his state of mind. He had been accustomed to the open and an active life and now he had been a whole year in prison. He could not help feeling that his work was a failure. Besides, Jesus had not done what John expected and said He would do. He said the Messiah would use the "axe" in cutting down the evil tree and the "fan" in winnowing the wheat from the chaff.

He was to be a Messiah of judgment. But, as far as John could see, Jesus had not done that way. He was gentle and winsome and tolerant. He had not only not punished His enemies, but had not protected His friends, so it seemed. John was more than mystified, he thought perhaps he had been mistaken. Perhaps, after all, Jesus was not the actual Messiah but only another forerunner, like himself. He did not doubt His goodness nor His connection with the Messiah, but, for the reasons given, and perhaps for others, he feared he might be mistaken in his first view.

2. DECISION.—John did the right thing. He didn't stop hating and opposing wrong. He was as earnest and as uncompromising as ever against all wrong, whether committed by Herod or any one else. He didn't throw himself back on his doubts and make that an excuse for evading his hard conditions. He didn't nurse his doubts. He sent straight to Jesus to know the truth, knowing he would get the right answer. And he got it.

3. SATISFACTION.—Jesus sent him back the answer that John needed, not a straight yes, but He sent back the two faithful men, whom John had deputed to ask the question, filled with the vivid sense of the fact that Jesus was doing the work which none but the Messiah could do. Jesus let those two men see His constructive work and they told John He was the Christ. That was the wisest way to answer the question.

II.

What He Said to His Own Disciples. 7-15.

"And as these went their way, Jesus began to say unto the multitudes concerning John, What went ye out into the wilderness to behold? a reed shaken with the wind? But what went ye out to see? a man clothed in soft raiment? Behold, they that wear soft raiment are in kings' houses. But wherefore went ye out? to see a prophet? Yea, I say unto you, and much more than a prophet. This is he, of whom it is written,

Behold, I send my messenger before thy face,
Who shall prepare thy way before thee.

Verily I say unto you, Among them that are born of women there hath not arisen a greater than John the Baptist: yet he that is but little in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he. And from the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and men of violence take it by force. For all the prophets and the law prophesied until John. And if ye are willing to receive it, this is Elijah, that is to come."

1. PRAISE.—How confident was Jesus when He sent those two men back. He knew that John would think it all over and see the meaning of it. Jesus needs never to set Himself right; it is we who have to be set right about Him and the best way is when He lets us see what He is doing.

Most men praise great men to their faces and say otherwise at their backs. Jesus did the opposite. What John needed was not praise but light. Christ's disciples needed to know the great character of the Forerunner and the Master told them. Here are some of the points in his character—a masterful personality, as when he drew the people out into the wilderness to see him and hear his message; firmness, not like a reed shaken by the wind of popular thought, but more like "an iron pillar;" self-command and not self-indulgence, like those who live in palaces.

As to the office of John, he was first of all a prophet, a man who spoke a message from God; he was more than a prophet of the ordinary type. He was the subject of prophecy himself, a man who had his message direct from Jehovah. He was the Forerunner of the Messiah and that put him in a class by himself. In all the ages preceding Christ no man was greater, for no one ever had such a mission. The office and the man suited. He was all the greater because he made it possible for the least one, after the coming of Christ, to be on a higher level than he himself was. He was gigantic in the twilight; the rest of us stand in the full daylight.

John stood on the summit, the dividing line between the prophets and the established kingdom, where the eager people came, by terrible determination, to have a part in the kingdom. He was like Elijah in his message and his call to repentance, fulfilling the prophecy that another Elijah should come. His greatness was in his nearness to Christ.

JUDGMENT.—If John was another Elijah it was time for them all to face the judgment that was to come on all their actions and thoughts.

III.

A Heedless Generation. 16-19.

"He that hath ears to hear, let him hear. But whereunto shall I liken this generation? It is like unto children sitting in the marketplaces who call unto their fellows and say, We piped unto you, and ye did not dance; we wailed, and ye did not mourn. For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, He hath a demon. The Son of man came eating and drinking, and they say, Behold, a gluttonous man and a winebibber, a friend of publicans and sinners! And wisdom is justified by her works."

His rebuke of the generation that had failed to appreciate John was severe. They were like children playing picnic and funeral. Some would play the instruments and the others would dance, but the dancers would balk and the players would pout; while, at the funeral, those who wailed in their distressing tones complained that the others didn't beat their breasts and answer in kind. By their fruits we know the wise. Their fruits are their children.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

It would have been treachery if, believing himself deceived and neglected, he had made this an excuse for renouncing his testimony and so obtaining release from prison. Never is religious doubt so dangerous as when it is made an excuse for giving the reins to the flesh. He who, though perplexed in faith, remains pure in deeds will ultimately fight his way through doubt and come safely out on the other side.—Stalker.

He fought his doubts and gathered strength;
He would not make his judgment blind;
He faced the spectres of the mind
And laid them: thus he came at length

To find a nobler faith his own;
And power was with him in the night
Which makes the darkness and the light
And dwells not in the light alone.
—Tennyson.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1.—Why should one prepare himself for physical activity as long as he lives?

2.—What is the way to keep from discouragement?

3.—What is the only wise way of treating our doubts and discouragements?

4.—What is the best form of greatness?

5.—Why do men turn away from Christ, in spite of His trueness to life?

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

Activities of Other Municipalities, Which Might or Might Not Be Copied in Duluth.

TOM L. McFADDEN, recently appointed chief of police of Bellingham, Wash., and formerly a football star of Stanford university, declares that he will introduce training table methods into the care of prisoners and adopt field discipline in handling members of the force. With these innovations in mind, Mr. McFadden has petitioned the council for an appropriation for bathtubs and other modern equipment. He insists also that a sum be added to the police officers' pay in order to enable them to dress neatly.

While no training table methods are in vogue in Duluth or St. Louis county, equally efficient it is thought is the system to which this old-fashioned county holds. So far as meals are concerned, those in the county jail are far from starved; in fact, it is said, they are so good that many a man who has once enjoyed the sheriff's hospitality, upon being released hurries forth to commit some misdemeanor so that he will get back into his usual cell before somebody else is assigned to it. And as to training, while the local system might not agree with the views of the more advanced thought in athletics, it has been found that the breaking of "big ones into little ones"- has proven quite effective and has sent forth its operators better in muscle and wind than when they first entered the toil.

The penal farm, for which Duluth is working, might adopt the training table methods.

WOMEN, AVOID OPERATIONS

Many Unsuccessful — And Worse Suffering Often Follows. Mrs. Rock's Case A Warning.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will show how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when often it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it." — Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has restored the health of thousands of suffering women. Why don't you try it?

FIXING APPROACH TO BOULEVARD

Attempt Made to Fill Chuck Holes With Gravel at East End.

The board of public works is seeking gravel with which to fill the ruts in the extreme eastern approach to Rogers boulevard. The official approach is up Fifteenth avenue east, but few of the sightseeing auto drivers take it. They take their passengers out through the residence district and go up Twenty-fourth avenue east to Woodland avenue and then take a cut-off which has been loaned by Richardson & Day, to Nineteenth avenue and then up to the boulevard.

The present move by the board has been caused by the repeated complaints heard from drivers of these sight-seeing cars. The drivers declare that this approach is most distressing with the deep ruts and chuck oles with which it is honeycombed. They declare that it has been this way for years and tourists often remark on the extreme jolting and bumping they receive in getting to the boulevard, which they all want to enjoy.

The board members say that they have a hard time getting gravel but they are now on a still hunt for it, and soon the stretch of road complained of will be fixed up. However, the cut-off, not being public property, cannot be fixed. The park board will keep it as well leveled off as possible, but is handicapped by a lack of funds.

ANOTHER BLOW AT TRADE COURT

Senate Votes to Abolish It and Leave Its Judges Without Jobs.

Washington, June 13.—The law creating the commerce court would be specifically repealed, its five judges dropped from government rolls and the total circuit judges thus reduced from 34 to 28, under an amendment to the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill adopted by the senate. The amendment was proposed by Senator Smith of Georgia. Both houses had acted in accord in omitting any appropriation for the court.

This last amendment, adopted after a sharp fight, must now go to conference with the house, and if agreed to there, will be in the bill when it goes to the president, who must either approve or veto the bill as a whole. Congress, of course, could pass it over a veto by a two-thirds vote. It is said the house will accept this last senate amendment without much opposition.

Opposed By Sutherland.

The proposal was supported by Senators Smith of Georgia, Overman, Bacon, Clapp and Cummins, and was opposed by Senator Sutherland, who said that under the Constitution a federal judge could not be legally ousted from office except for misbehavior.

Supporters of the amendment contended that the judges go with the court, urging there could be no vested right in office. Senators declared the action was most important politically, as it suggested a means of removing judges by other methods than resignation or impeachment.

Senator Cummins, a Progressive leader and a presidential candidate, found in it a substitute for the suggested recall of judges. He expressed the opinion that congress was capable of so legislating as to remove the occupants of the judicial office for offenses less than crimes without resorting to the harsh methods of impeachment. He expressed opposition to the judicial recall.

Before the amendment came to a vote the chair ruled it out of order. The senate overruled his presiding officer by a vote of 29 to 22, and then passed the bill by a viva voce vote.

Returned From Florida.

Bemidji, Minn., June 13.—Kirby Titus has returned from Florida. Mr. Titus went to Florida about a year ago to make his home on some extensively advertised land. He says that the Florida land deal is a fraud and that the land will not raise even a bare living. Mr. Titus has been in poor health the past year and says he is glad to get back to the pines of Northern Minnesota.

SHIVELY CHOSEN TO NOMINATE MARSHALL.

Washington, June 13.—Senator Shively has been chosen to put Governor Marshall of Indiana in nomination as Democratic caddate for president at the Baltimore convention.

CEMENT RATES STAND EXCEPT TO OKLAHOMA.

Washington, June 13.—The interstate commerce commission has declined to disturb existing freight rates on cement in the middle west, "except as to Oklahoma, where certain reductions are made to place Oklahoma on a substantial parity with other cement rates in this general territory."

Certain cement mills in Kansas complained to the commission that their rates on cement to Kansas City and destinations in Missouri, Nebraska, Colorado, South Dakota, Montana, Oklahoma and Texas were unreasonable and discriminatory. With the exception of the Oklahoma rates, the tariffs were permitted to stand.

"Usin' TIZ, Gramma?"

"Yes, Harold, It Makes Grandma's Feet Feel Just Like Yours, Free from Tiredness, Aches and Corns!"

Send for FREE Trial Package of TIZ Today.

"Your papa and mamma, your grandpa and your grandma all use TIZ, Harold. And you'll use it, too, when you get to be a man. Then your feet will never hurt, or get tired. That's why we all use TIZ."

Most of us get old, feet first. The bunions get stale, more wearisome and painful. Corns get harder and more stubborn as the feet become more tender. At a time when old people need their feet most they can use them less—unless they use TIZ.

If you have never used TIZ before, your first use of it will bring back some of your girlhood days. TIZ will make your feet feel young, strong and vigorous. They'll never be tender, never chafe or ache, never get blistered or swollen and your corns, bunions and callouses will be no more. Nothing will do it or can do it like TIZ. Don't experiment with other things; other people have done that for you and they are all now using TIZ. Don't accept any substitutes.

TIZ acts on a new principle—draws out all the poisonous exudations that make foot troubles.

TIZ, 25 cents a box, sold everywhere, and recommended by all drug stores, department and general stores. Write today to Walter Luther Dodge & Co., 1223 South Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill., for a free trial package of TIZ by return mail, and enjoy the real foot relief you never felt before.

STATE FIREMEN ELECT.

Thief River Falls Gets Next Meeting of State Association.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 13.—The fortieth annual convention of the Minnesota State Fire Department association ended here yesterday. Officers were elected as follows: President, Ira C. Richardson, Thief River Falls; first vice president, H. M. Serlee, Fairmont; second vice president, J. M. Collins, Pine City. The first two officers were advanced in position, but a fight, including several hours of deadlock, resulted in the election of Collins, owing to the fact that the home of the president carries with it the convention the following year. Andrew Myler, St. Paul, was re-elected secretary, and A. E. Raymond, Minneapolis, treasurer.

Thief River Falls will entertain the 1913 meeting.

WISCONSIN G. A. R. ENDS ANTIGO MEETING.

Antigo, Wis., June 13.—The Wisconsin department, G. A. R., closed its annual encampment here last night with a camp fire. The following officers were elected:

Commander, George W. Sprat, Sheboygan Falls; vice commander, W. S. Carr, Antigo; junior vice commander, William Handyside, Ripon; medical director, Dr. H. R. Bird, Madison; chaplain, Rev. W. R. Brown, Waupaca.

The following officers were elected by the Woman's Relief corps:

President, Mrs. L. E. Maloney, Fond du Lac; senior vice president, Mrs. Belle Rogers, Antigo; junior vice president, Mrs. Kate N. Walker, Oshkosh.

SAY HUDSON BRIDGE MENACES NAVIGATION.

St. Paul, Minn., June 13.—Asserting that the new wagon bridge being built across the St. Croix river at Hudson, Wis., will obstruct navigation, ex-Governor R. S. Van Sant, part owner of the steamer Morning Star and Capt. W. A. Blair have wired the secretary of war, that unless the work is stopped by the order of the department, they will start injunction proceedings in the federal courts.

Capt. Blair says the engineers have built a pier in the middle of the channel that will preclude passage when the river is low.

KEG PARTY IS COSTLY

Polk County Couple Who Served Liquor at May 17 Affair, Fined.

Pay $241.12 Into County Treasury for Serving Drinks at Dance.

Crookston, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—It cost Simon Eliason, master of the punch bowl, and Mrs. Lars Otness, "queen" of the 17th of May party at the Otness farm, two and one-half miles east of Lengby, $120.56 each for running a dance to celebrate Norway's independence at which liquor was served.

They escaped a jail sentence because it was their first offense, although they had been warned by County Attorney Hagen to hold no more such parties following two similar ones held earlier in the spring. Their plan was to charge 75 cents for dance tickets, and 25 cents for supper tickets. A white ribbon which was pinned to the holder of the two tickets was an open sesame to the wet refreshment parlor below where a keg of beer was on tap and where Eliason presided at the pink alcohol tea bowl.

Indicted by Grand Jury.

The two were indicted by the grand jury. Last evening they appeared before Judge Watts in district court and entered pleas of guilty, paid a total of $241.12 into the county treasury for all the fun they had and departed for their homes. Four other liquor cases are to be disposed of next Monday unless guilty pleas are entered in the meantime.

INDIAN SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

Annual Closing Exercises of Fort Totten School June 21-25.

Devils Lake, N. D., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The closing exercises at the Fort Totten Indian school will open Friday, June 21, and continue until Tuesday, June 25. Commencement day will be Monday and diplomas will be presented to the graduates by Miss Hoadley, superintendent of schools in Benson county.

Friday afternoon the Grey Nuns department will have their closing day program. Saturday morning the annual program of field sports and track events will take place. In the afternoon there will be a baseball game and in the evening a concert by the Indian band and lawn social.

Sunday evening a dress parade of all students will precede the delivery of the baccalaureate address by Prof. Conrad Tharaldsen of the Mayville state normal school. Monday afternoon the competitive drills take place and in the evening the class play, "The Irish Linen Peddler," will be presented.

"WHITE-CAPPING" CASE IS REVIVED

Woman Who Figured in Cumberland, Wis., Affair Arrested By Government.

Cumberland, Wis., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—United States Marshal Rock J. Flint was here yesterday and arrested Mrs. John Pawling, living on a farm west of this city, charged with sending defamatory letters through the mail. Mrs. Pawling's daughter, who claimed to have received the letters, made the complaint. The Pawling family were in the limelight about eight years ago, when "Whitecaps" took John Pawling from his home and tarred and feathered him, claiming he and the woman were not married.

BIG LAWLER BLOW-UP.

Yeggs Wrecked Aitkin County Building and Safe.

Aitkin, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Haugen, who is investigating the blowing of the safe in the Farmers' Co-operative store at Lawler recently, found that the charge was so heavy that the safe was blown clear out of the building and the stock and the building were almost totally ruined by the explosion. There was $175 in the safe in currency, but it is doubtful if the robbers got any of it as it must have been blown to fragments.

WOMEN'S CLUBS PROTEST.

Object to Federal Judge's Punishment of "White Slaver."

St. Paul, Minn., June 13.—The sentence of three months in prison and a fine of $1,000 imposed on Matthew McNabb by Federal Judge Smith McPherson on a white slavery charge has aroused a storm of protest from the Federation of Women's clubs and other kindred organizations, who declare rank prejudice was shown.

McNabb was charged with taking a young girl from Champagne, Ill., to St. Paul and living with her in a hotel under the guise that she was his daughter. McNabb pleaded guilty in the United States court here last week to violating the federal law against white slave traffic.

Members of the charities and corrections committee of the Minnesota Federation of Women's clubs made a strong protest, demanding to know from the presiding judge whether there were any mitigating circumstances why the prisoner should not have been given the maximum sentence of ten years instead of the three months and fine which were imposed.

Members of the committee say that they could obtain no satisfaction from the judge and they therefore make a formal petition to President Taft that he see to it that appointed judges be in sympathy with the law enacted for the control of the white slave traffic.

They also appeal to Judge Sanborn of the United States court of appeals, by whom the assignment of judges of the United States district court is made, to remove Judge McPherson from this district.

SOCIALIST MAYOR FOR A FOURTH CELEBRATION

MAYOR H. L. LARSON.

Crookston, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting called by Mayor H. L. Larson, Crookston's Socialist executive, held last evening, it was decided that Crookston would celebrate the Fourth of July in good old fashioned style. Mayor Larson and others present believe the boys and girls should not be subjected to the danger of losing their patriotism for lack of Fourth of July eloquence and the usual races and sports that appeal to Young America. A committee of ten was named to take charge and elaborate plans will be announced, following a meeting of the committee this evening.

IS CHOSEN DEAN OF LAW COLLEGE

University of Chicago Professor Comes to North Dakota University.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—During the University of North Dakota commencement exercises here yesterday President McVey of the university announced the appointment of one new member to the faculty, Professor Robert Lee Henry, Jr., of the University of Chicago to be dean of the college of law. Professor Henry LeDaum is made professor of romantic languages and literatures and head of the department, and Professor William G. Bek, professor of German, is made head of that department. Samuel J. Rhodes has been appointed assistant professor of electrical engineering for three years. Raymond R. Hitchcock was named assistant professor of mathematics for three years.

Fellowships were awarded Terrence T. Quirk of Brighton English, and Edgar Gustafson of Hannaford in geology; George A. Davin, teaching fellow in sociology and history; F. B. Darrow of Cavalier, industrial fellow; Gilbert H. Kosulich, teaching fellow in English.

Scholarships Awarded.

Scholarships were awarded Miss Mabel Olson in biology and Miss Allie Dickson of Langdon in English and history.

Dean Joseph Kennedy of the school of education was granted a year's leave of absence and Dr. A. J. Ladd was appointed acting dean in his place, while J. W. Todd of Columbia university has been appointed instructor in psychology, taking up Dean Kennedy's work.

Dean M. A. Brannon of the college of liberal arts will return next year after a year's leave of absence.

George Shafer received the Merrifield prize of $30 in the annual oratorical contest and Clyde Duffy $20 for second; William Dudley and Howard Huston, the Stockwell prizes of $10 and $5 for the best orations in the freshmen contest; Howard Huston won the main declamation contest; Miss Annabel Batten won the Gansl scholarship cup for highest scholarship for four year's work.

TO ELECTROCUTE GERMS.

Baraga, Mich., Man's Method of Purifying Water.

Baraga, Mich., June 13.—John J. Neault, a member of the Baraga High school who has done considerable experimenting with electricity, has been assured by a good authority that his latest electrical apparatus for purifying water is practical and will kill all germ life at practically little cost.

His apparatus consists of two tanks, one of which receives the water as it is siphoned from the other. The siphon is a glass tube, and the water is treated with electricity as it passes through this tube. The ends of the tube are fitted with metal electrodes, which are fed with an alternating current of about 2,000 volts, the water being the medium for conveying the current from one electrode to the other. Mr. Neault says his method of purifying the water does not leave the flat taste caused by boiling.

Menominee Man's New Yacht.

Menominee, Mich., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Glanda, the yacht recently purchased by J. W. Wells, has arrived here and is declared to be one of the finest craft ever seen in Green Bay. It was constructed at a cost of $35,000 by George Lawley & Son, in 1903, for C. Lembcke, New York millionaire.

The Glanda has accommodation for sixteen passengers and a crew of five.

OKLAHOMAN TO PREACH.

Rev. Mr. Wright to Address Valley City, N. D., Students.

Valley City, N. D., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—More than 100 students will receive diplomas next Thursday morning when the seventeenth annual commencement will be held at the state normal school here. This number will be increased to 160 before the close of the 1912 for the reason that several will gain the necessary credits during the summer school term or before the end of the fall term in December. Many of the graduates have already secured positions for next year.

Rev. W. J. Wright of Entri, Okla., will preach the baccalaureate sermon next Sunday evening. The junior class play, "Tom Pinch," will be given Tuesday evening. Wednesday the field day contests and conservatory concert take place and Friday the class day program will be given.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Calumet—Arrangements have been made for a charity baseball game to be played in the C. & H. park Saturday afternoon, June 22. The contesting teams will be picked nines from the miners working on the Amygdaloid and Conglomerate lodes of the C. & H.

Houghton — Seventy-two persons, members of the Copper Country College of Mines club and others interested in mining, sat down to the dinner given at the Houghton club in honor of J. Parke Channing, the eminent mining authority, and eighty-six afterwards heard Mr. Channing's interesting lecture on the Miami properties, illustrated with stereopticon slides.

Lake Linden—Twenty-four young men and women received diplomas Tuesday for having completed their high school course, the largest number of graduates from the Lake Linden public school since 1904, when twenty-nine graduated. The class address was given by Professor F. L. Keeler of Lansing, and his subject was, "The Determining Factor."

Hancock—Firmin DeMars, aged 87 years, died Tuesday morning at his home on Diamond street, East Houghton. The deceased was a Civil war veteran and served with the rest of the old pioneers of Houghton county. He is survived by a widow and four sons—Frank, Joe and Edward of Houghton and Louis of Chassell.

Houghton—Miss Stella Johnson, a graduate of the Houghton high school with the class of 1912 has gone to Boston to be governess in the home of William McGrath, former superintendent of the local Stone-Webber properties.

Ishpeming—William P. Thomas of Detroit and Miss Lotta Whitford, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Whitford, were married Monday evening at the Methodist church parsonage, Rev. J. G. Haller performing the ceremony.

Marquette—The people of Marquette will not have to boil their ice, says Health Officer Jones. There has been some fear expressed that the ice cut in the lake may contain typhoid germs, but Dr. Janes says that typhoid germs imprisoned in the ice will die in three months.

Ishpeming—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Hines, an old resident, who died Tuesday, aged 95, will be held June 13. Mrs. Hines is survived by three daughters, Mrs. John Jones, Mrs. Robert Monteith and Miss Mary Hines, all of this city.

Calumet—Herbert M. George, city editor of the Calumet News, and Miss Agnes L. Murray, daughter of Mrs. Jessie Murray, Blue Jacket, were wedded Tuesday morning by Rev. Daniel Stalker of the Calumet Presbyterian church, the marriage taking place at the Murray home.

CALUMET The BAKING POWDER

That Makes the Baking Better

Failures are almost impossible with Calumet.

We know that it will give you better results.

We know that the baking will be purer—more wholesome.

We know that it will be more evenly raised.

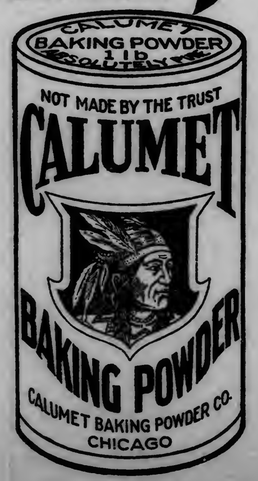

And we know that Calumet is more economical, both in its use and cost.

We know these things because we have put the quality into it—we have seen it tried out in every way. It is used now in millions of homes and its sales are growing daily. It is the modern baking powder.

Have you tried it?

Calumet is highest in quality—moderate in price.

Received Highest Award—World's Pure Food Exposition.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Prairie du Chien—The Catholic Knights of Wisconsin will hold their biennial state convention in this city on July 30, 31 and Aug. 1. There are about 300 delegates, including the state officers, and in addition the wives and families of some of the delegates, together with visitors, will be here during the three days' session.

Neenah—The family of H. J. Becker, residing north of here, is sorely afflicted. A week ago a son, 17 years of age died. Monday the mother passed away and a few hours later a 10-months-old daughter died. The mother and babe will be buried in the same casket Carl, the oldest surviving child, and Willis, aged 3, have contracted scarlet fever and their lives are despaired of.

Ashland—Judge Wickham of Eau Claire held court Tuesday for Judge Risord. He refused the application of W. G. French and 1,400 signers for a grand jury on the grounds that it is a matter Judge Risjord should decide.

Beloit—Papers in a suit for $50,000 for alleged libel in behalf of Wallace Ingalls, a former assemblyman, against the Beloit Daily News were served Tuesday.

Oconomowoc—William Austin, aged 25 years, was badly injured here while attempting to board a fast moving freight train. He slipped and fell under the wheels. His right leg was badly crushed below the knee, necessitating its amputation. Austin is married and lives in Janesville.

Madison—That the local boards of health should be taken out of politics and that the tenure of office should be lengthened was the tenor of a speech delivered Wednesday by Dr. E. Hayes of Eau Claire, a member of the state board of health.

Eau Claire—Miss Frances Leinkugel and Paul Liebau, both of this city, were married Wednesday afternoon by the Rev. H. J. Untraut. Miss Ella Liebau, sister of the groom was bridesmaid, and Matt Leinkugel, brother of the bride, was best man.

Green Bay—A mad dog is causing great excitement in the village of Shawano. It bit Mary Bibelhausen, Edward Kuester and Fred Blettscher and they have been sent to Madison to take the Pasteur treatment. Several other persons narrowly escaped being bitten. The dog has not yet been killed.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Bemidji—Herman Bergh, a brother of Prof. Otto I. Bergh, has been named by the university as local manager for Bemidji for university week. Mr. Bergh graduated from the academic department this month and has been with the university tours in the southern part of the state for two weeks.

St. Cloud—About 650 students have registered at the normal for the summer term. The majority of the students that have enrolled are teachers that wish to better prepare themselves for their work. A number of them have graduated at the normal or other schools of the same grade.

International Falls—Bradford L. Sumner and Miss Julia Field of Gemmell were married Tuesday morning, Rev. Lindgren officiating. Mr. Bradford is a business man of Gemmell and his bride one of that village's most popular young ladies.

Mankato—About 425 students have enrolled at the Mankato normal school for the summer term, and it is expected that more will enroll before the end of the week. This attendance is about the same as that of last summer.

Aitkin—John P. Dotbler, son of Frank Dotzler, was operated on at a Minneapolis hospital Monday and came through with encouraging symptoms. He has had several attacks of appendicitis.

Deerwood—The Soo is now running three ore trains a day, totalling over 100 cars, from the Kennedy mine and the Armour No. 1 and Armour No. 2 mines.

Little Falls—Leo Urbanski was bound over to the grand jury Monday by Justice Gaudet on a charge of selling liquor to a minor. Urbanski is the third saloonkeeper to be bound over for violating the liquor laws in the last few months. Urbanski was arrested the latter part of last week for selling liquor to John Robbins.

Moorhead—Word has been received by President Weld from Prof. S. W. Hockett of the normal who is at present at Rock Hill, S. C., to the effect that Mr. Hockett has accepted the position as professor of geology and chemistry in the Winthrop State Teachers' college at Rock Hill.

St. Cloud—The applications for the saloon licenses in this city are coming in rapidly and it is expected that before the time expires there will be the full number of thirty-four filed with the city clerk.

Moorhead—At the special election to decide upon the grant of three franchises for power, gas and street railway, to the H. M. Bylesby company, of Chicago, voters favored the franchise grant at the polls by a four to one majority.

New Ulm—The commencement exercises of Dr. Martin Luther college of this city were held at the college chapel at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, when a class of fifteen young people, including two young ladies, completed their studies at that institution.

The Norwegian Lutheran church here was struck by lightning Monday night and burned to the ground in about thirty minutes. More buildings would have been burned except for the effective work by the fire company and the fact that considerable rain fell. The church was uninsured, and was a total loss.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Medina, N. D.—The work train that has been located at this place this spring has left for Driscoll, where additional work will be done on the N. P. roadbed.

Bismarck, N. D.—Fort Lincoln's baseball team defeated the Mandan nine on the latter's grounds Sunday afternoon by the decisive score of 11 to 5.

Mandan, N. D.—Arson Bartlett of this city, Grand High Priest of the Royal Arch Masons, has caused to be published a small six-page folder in memory of the late David E. Morgan, one time grand high priest of the Masons.

BRUCE'S COLUMN

COMMENT AND DIVERS DISCUSSION OF THE MERRY WORLD OF SPORT.

THE passing of Hugh E. Keough (By Hek) from the field of journalism takes from the list of sporting writers the greatest paragrapher of his time and perhaps the most brilliant of all writers in the field of sports. Some of the stuff that has come from the pen of the dead man was brilliant and took rank with the best current literature. His stuff was whimsical, satirical and blessed with a kindly fancy that won him a large list of readers. Some of Hek's stuff was deep and the humor subtle, and therefore the "roughneck" class sometimes found him rather puzzling; but withal he was the daddy of his profession, and in his going the sporting readers of the West are losing the ablest writer of several generations.

ARRANGEMENTS are being made at the present time to take care of a large delegation that intend to go to Winnipeg for the purpose of witnessing the Northwestern International rowing regatta. Cheap rates have been secured for the event, and with the growing certainty that Duluth is to have one of the best eights in the history of the club, if not the very best crew that has ever been turned out here, it is believed that a large crowd will take the trip to Winnipeg, the metropolis of the North, a city that holds much interest for all Duluthians. A big excursion is to be held at Winnipeg at the time of the regatta, so that with the cheap rates in effect and the attraction of the biggest sporting event of the Northwest, the prospects are that a large delegation will be on hand from Duluth.

AFTER the game of Tuesday Kid Taylor let Briggs, the elephantine shortstop, go. The kid has announced to the fans on the other side of the bay that he will have a pennant-winning team before the season is old enough to cut its wisdom teeth. If one were to go back over the files and count the number of players, or alleged players that have been used on the Superior team since the opening of the season, the cause of the poor showing of the team could be easily ascertained. Of course, in a sort of way, it is chiefly the business of the fans across the way, but when the bone head writer of sports comes out and blames every defeat on the sloping shoulders of the umpires it is time that someone told the truth. Of course this guy is encouraged in this view of the situation by W. J. Sommers, who has proved himself as poor a loser as he was a winner. This Sommer violated all salary considerations and all rules of the league in capturing the pennant last season, and now he is doing the baby act because his collections of alleged baseball players have been soundly licked. This is merely to give you a slant at some of the stuff that has been written on the other side of the bay—but then it is hardly probable that you read it—that is one of the best features of the situation.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙ ⊙

IN THE National league the race seems to have resolved itself into a chase on the part of the Cubs after the flying Giants. Before the season started there were those who expressed serious doubt of the Chicago team being able to keep in the first division. With any kind of a pitching staff it might be that the Peerless leader would have his team right in the race with the flying Giants. There are a lot of smart ball players on the team that plays on the West side, Chicago, when at home, and though the old machine is not what it was in the golden days of the past, it is still capable of holding its own with some of the other teams in the older league. It might be remarked that the Philadelphia Americans are gaining. If Plank comes back with the effectiveness he possessed during the strenuous days of last seaon, some of those who bet against the Athletics are going to have some bad nights—that is if they played it heavy.

Grand Forks Takes Opening Game of Series By Score of 5 to 4.

Game Progresses Into Dusk of Evening and Is Called Early.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 13.—The Deacons defeated the league leaders here last evening by the score of 5 to 4. The game was prolonged until darkness made playing impossible, and in the gathering dusk the visitors gathered some runs that were not allowed. Bell hit for all the bases in the park with two on the paths, giving the victory to the Flickertails after the visitors had registered three runs on misplays and had earned one by persistent pelting of the spheroid.

BRENNAN CHASED BY ANGRY FANS

Police Protect Umpire After Superior Defeats Winnipeg in Close Game.

Winnipeg, Man., June 13.—Superior won from the Peggers yesterday by the score of 2 to 1, local fans claiming that it was the rank work of Umpire Brennan that gave the victory to the visitors. Irate fans swarmed out of the bleachers and stands and made for the arbiter, it requiring strenuous and prompt work upon the part of the police to save the indicator holder from rough handling.

In the seventh round Brennan called a hit that looked foul to the majority of the spectators, a fair ball. This put Peasely in bad and errors following the decision permitted the visitors to score two runs and cop the game. Umpire McGloom agreed that the hit was foul, but Brennan couldn't see it that way. The ire of the fans was further worked up when McMurdo was banished from the field for disputing a decision.

The game was protested by Manager Brown.

Dillon Beats Sullivan.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 13.—Jack Dillon of Indianapolis had a shade the better of Jack (Twin) Sullivan of Boston in a ten round bout here.

Ralph Calloway, a negro boxer of Los Angeles, collapsed in the dressing room after a preliminary bout and was taken to a hospital.

He was still unconscious at midnight.

PIRATES PROVE BETTER DUCKS THAN BROOKLYN.

Brooklyn, June 13.—The game yesterday was played in the rain, Pittsburg winning, 7 to 3. The visitors clinched their victory by making two singles, two doubles and a triple for four runs after two were out in the seventh. Two of Brooklyn's runs came in the ninth, when with Cutshaw on second, Wheat lifted the ball over the right field fence for a home run. The score:

REDS DEFEAT PHILLIES BY DECISIVE SCORE.

Philadelphia, June 13.—Cincinnati mixed up hits with passes by Alexander and Chalmers and easily won the game from Philadelphia, 8 to 0. Manager Dooln's right hand was injured by a foul tip off Sugg's bat in the third inning, and he was forced to leave the game. Score:

MARQUARD'S THIRTEENTH STRAIGHT VICTORY.

New York, June 13.—New York defeated Chicago again, 3 to 2. In spite of the fact that the visitors were without the services of Zimmerman and Tinker, who have been suspended for three days by President Lynch, Chicago played a strong game, and was in the lead until the eighth. In the first half of that inning Richie collided forcibly with Meyers at the plate. He was unable to resume, and Brown, who went into the box for Chicago, was batted for two runs. The game was officially recorded as Marquard's thirteenth straight victory. New York was behind when Shaffer batted for Marquard, but when Crandall went in the locals had forged to the front. The visitors made their two runs on Miller's double and Archer's home rune. Score:

SCANDAL LOOSE IN TURF CIRCLES

London, June 13.—What promises to be the worst scandal on the British turf in ten years became known yesterday, when a sporting weekly, the Looking Glass, announced that Sweeper II, the American colt which started favorite in the Derby, was doped before the race.

Sweeper II was heavily backed by Americans, including J. P. Morgan, who is said to have lost $60,000. Wall Street men are said to have cabled several hundred thousand dollars to London.

Danny Maher Dismissed.

A significant fact in connection with the story is that H. B. Duryea today dismissed Danny Maher, who rode Sweeper II, and engaged Frankie O'Neill, another American boy, to pilot Sweeper II in the remainder of his stake engagements. It will be remembered in the story of the race that a note was sounded indicating that something was wrong with the showing of the Duryea colt. An investigation shows that in the opinion of a large number of racing men, Sweeper II was doped.

Bookmakers Suspected.

The trainer is unable to account for the miserable showing of the colt. It is suspected that two or three bookmakers who stood to lose fortunes on a Sweeper II victory know more about the "doping" than they would care to say.

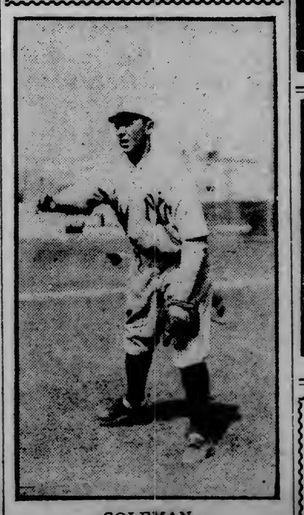

It was certain that when Sweeper II left his stable for the big race he had never looked fitter. When he returned to his stall after the Derby the colt was listless and feeble.

BALLINGER FOR STATE CONTROL OF LANDS.

Seattle, Wash., June 13.—Richard A. Ballinger, former secretary of the interior ,addressed the power transmission section of the National Electric Light association yesterday, advocating the administration of the public lands by the states in which they are situated, and opposing the leasing system as tending to promote improper and wasteful development.

"Alaska," said Mr. Ballinger, in the course of his address, "is a prize nugget, but our own government will not let us have an opportunity to touch it. I have been accused of having tried to steal all the coal in Alaska. Not a pound of coal has passed from control of the federal government under patent, and the records will show that I had as much to do with preserving it as any one."

DULUTH EIGHT LOOKS LIKE WINNING CREW

Ten Eyck Has Brought His Charges to a Stage Where Class Begins to Show.

(BY BRUCE.)

It begins to look as if we're going to have a crew that is destined to cut a lot of ice at the big rowing regatta, which is to be held at the Northwestern Canadian metropolis on July 26 and 27.

Jimmy Ten Eyck is having his first real opportunity at turning out a crew that will class with the oarsmen of the other clubs—St. Paul, Winnipeg, Kenora, Port Arthur and Fort William. Last season was his first here, and he found the men literally crippled with faulty habits and a stroke that would have made Eve laugh after Adam got through raving over the apple accident.

This season there has been a distinct disappointment over the quantity of the material, and yet Ten Eyck has gone unfalteringly ahead, and where two weeks ago there was a distinct haze of gloom over the training quarters, there is now the belief that the eight will be the best that has ever been turned out by the club.

In the first place, the men started in on the machines early in the year, getting down to the muscle disciplining in February. Then came the runs on the road, and then, oh, shivering winds and freezing blasts, the work on the water while the particles of ice yet cling to the shore line with tenacious spirit and utter disregard for the passing of spring.

The result has been the conditioning of the men earlier than has been the case with crews of the past. So here is the middle of June and Jimmy has one month, yes, a little over a month, to round out the rough places, to put on the finishing varnish and to develop speed.

In years before we were apt to find that the crews were just beginning to get together along somewhere during the first two weeks of July. The finish never came, as a rule, though there was a faint hope that the men would get together somewhere along before the time came to leave for the regatta.

Threfore, though the material this season has not been any too plentiful, it begins to look as if the eight that rows up to the stake boats in the Red river will have at least a thorough training, will have endurance and power, and will row itself out in an effort to prevent Winnipeg from repeating the win of last year, or St. Paul from gathering some lost laurels.

Good Discipline.

Discipline has been the watchword the present season. One man was banished from the eight for the simple reason that he found it convenient to take an occasional day off. Several others were told that they were out for rowing, and that however valuable their services were, there was such a a thing as getting along without them, should they decide that rowing was merely a pleasant recreation.

The fellows in the first eight at the present time are therefore men who have their minds solely on the goal of victory. They are out for work and for the success of the crew before individual success. That is the true spirit, the spirit that football coaches, rowing instructors and generals outside of the Latin republics strive to attain.

With Thorburn, Lathrup, Kent, Quimby, Thompson, Grant, Glass and Beschenbossel in the boat there is no reason in the world why the crafty Ten Eyck, who knows his little rowing book, can't make the boys shove the nose of the long shell over the line ahead of the other two eights.

Winnipeg came down here last season with eight men who did not compare with our boys in physical proportions, and yet—well, what's the use of harping on the old story. But, after all, there is so much in the training, the application of power, the spirit, the racing instinct. Those are qualities that our crews have pathetically lacked in the past, and they are qualities that the coach is apparently instilling in his charges at the present time.

From now on the rate of progress should be rapid and consistent, and when the crew strikes its stride there are those who believe that it will be classy enough to make some of the critics in the striped blazers, those Canadian cousins with pipes and bank rolls, sit up and thumb over the bills once or twice.

GRAIN DEALERS SUSPICIOUS.

Illinois Men Limit Membership in National Association.

Peoria, Ill., June 13.—The Illinois Grain Dealers' association, holding its nineteenth annual convention, disposed of the question of continuing its affiliation with the National Grain Dealers' association by deciding to maintain its membership for one year only. Opposition to continued membership grows out of the belief that the national body is controlled by the receiving interests.

The convention adopted a resolution against the charging of interest on drafts for grain sold on shippers' track or consigned, as practiced in the Chicago market. The Chicago board of trade made a protest by telegram.

Resolutions demanding that railroads furnish elevator facilities in Chicago, and in protest against the Baltimore system of grading of steamer grain, also were adopted.

COULON EXPLAINS FIGHT TACTICS

Says He Had to Proceed Carefully or Lose His Guarantee.

New York, June 13.—Johnny Coulon of Chicago, the bantamweight champion, who knocked out Frankie Hayes of St. Louis, in the fourth round at New Haven, Conn., protested here against the claim adopted in New Haven that the bout was a "fake."

Coulon said: "The news that I was nearly drowned at Staten Island on Monday had reached the New Haven fans, leading them to think that I wouldn't be in condition to fight. There was only about $250 in the house and I had been guaranteed $1,000 win, lose or draw. The guarantee had a clause attached whereby I forfeited the $1,000 if I was disqualified, so I fought carefully in order not to give them the slightest chance to call a foul.

"The fight was fast, but Referee Fitzgerald cautioned me unnecessarily several times, so I was doubly careful. When he quit the ring in the third, declaring the bout a 'frame-up,' the chief of police, who was at the ringside, promptly ordered the fight to go on and made the announcer referee. Knowing then that I would get a square deal, I rushed in and scored a knockout. And I got the money."

RAIN HINDERS THE ATHLETES

American Contenders for Olympic Honors Compete in Meet at New York.

New York, June 13.—Nearly every athlete on the team which will represent the United States in the Olympic contests at Stockholm competed yesterday at American league park in the track and field competitions for the benefit of the national Olympic fund. Shortly before the games began a heavy rain deluged the grounds, precluding record performances.

Craig of Detroit won the 70-meter dash in 8 1-5 seconds, with Gerhardt of San Francisco second. Gissingen, New York; Davenport, Chicago, and Meredith of Mercersburg, Pa., was the order of finish in the 600 meters run. Kiviat of the Irish-American team took first honors in the 1,200-meter race, with McClure of Oregon second, in 3 minutes 8 2-5 seconds. Courtney of Seattle won the 300-meter event in 38 1-5 seconds. J. P. Nicholson, University of Missouri, was best over the high hurdles in the 70-meter event, with Eller of this city second and Kelley of Los Angeles third. The finish of the 3,500-meter race was a stirring one, Tewanima of Carlisle Indian school winning by four yards from George V. Bonhag, who was the same distance ahead of Berna of Cornell, these three being the only ones who covered the full course.

In the field events Ralph Rose of San Francisco was best at the shot putting, doing 91 feet 10 inches with both hands. Horine finished third with 6 feet 3 inches in the running high jump, which Thorpe of Carlisle won with a clean jump of 6 feet 5 inches, and Richards of Utah cleared 6 feet 4 inches for second place. Allen of Los Angeles won the broad jump with 22 feet 2 inches, one inch better than his clubmate, Donahue, with Nicholson of Missouri third. Duncan's best throw with the discus was 142 feet 11¼ inches, and Champion McGrath sent the hammer 180 feet 4½ inches.

The Adams brothers, Platt and Benjamin, of the New York Athletic club tied for first place in the standing high jump at 5 feet 2 inches, and both declared that they had made arrangements to go with the team. They announced this at the conclusion of the games, and the fact that they will compete in the jumps at the Olympiad was a surprise and a pleasure to the committee, who figured on them as sure point winners.

COLLEGE TEAMS MEET AT NEW YORK

Yale and Princeton Have Each Won a Game—To Settle Supremacy.

New York, June 13.—Each having won a game from the other at home, Yale and Princeton will settle the baseball supremacy on neutral grounds here today. Princeton has won twenty-one out of twenty-seven games played this season, while Yale has won sixteen out of twenty-four. Neither can lay claim to the intercollegiate baseball championship, however, for some of the smaller colleges have produced remarkable teams this year. Williams, Brown and Amherst have all scored victories over the members of the so-called "big eight." Williams has really made the best showing.

The fact that the Yale-Princeton contest is only a matter of the championship between the two universities, however, does not lessen the interest which New York always shows whenever the Tiger and Bulidog come here to settle scores. The game will be played at American league park. Crowds poured in from New Haven and Princeton on early trains today to augment the local alumni, and it was expected that the baseball park would be crowded.

Lear, who has won most of the games for the Tigers this year, is to pitch. It was not announced who would pitch for Yale.

Better Than His Brother.

St. Paul, Minn., June 13.—Another Gibbons is about ripe for picking in the pugilistic garden. Tommy, younger brother of the world's welter-weight champion, who has been training for nearly a year, is developing rapidly and beginning with the September invasion of the East, Manager Eddie Reddy of the welterweight Gibbons will arrange to introduce Tommy into New York fighting circles. Although several pounds heavier and inches taller than his titled brother, Tommy Gibbons is as fast, if not speedier than Mike, and a slugger the younger member of the Gibbons family has it all over the sensational welterweight. Tommy is 18 years old.

Commission Decides Cases.

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 13.—Two American association cases brought to the attention of the national baseball commission were decided yesterday. The Milwaukee club of the American association will have to pay the Chicago Nationals $500 for the amount of the first installment on the purchase of player McIntyre. Milwaukee returned McIntyre to Chicago, claiming he was not in good condition.

In the case of C. W. Moore, who was sold to Los Angeles by Louisville, the commission held that the player's refusal to promptly report to Louisville relieves the two clubs of responsibility for his salary from May 25 to May 27 inclusive.

SITUATION IS BEARISH

Continued Good Weather Reports North and South Lower Wheat.

Flaxseed Trading Is Dull on Duluth Market—Demand Is Slack.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 13.—Wheat slowly sagged on the markets of this country today, on accounts of good weather reports from all sections, though some parts of the Southwest declared that the rains came too late to do them any good. Duluth July wheat closed ¾c to ⅞c lower and there were likewise declines at Minneapolis and Chicago. At Winnipeg, however, there was a slight gain, the demand from Liverpool being fairly strong. Duluth cash wheat closed 1c higher than July. Durum closed ¼c off and oats ⅜c off. Rye and barley closed unchanged. Duluth July flaxseed closed ½c off and September was unchanged.

Weakness characterized the wheat markets of America during the entire morning. There was scarcely a ray of hope for the bulls from any quarter. The weather reports from both the winter and spring wheat sections of the country were very favorable. The American primary receipts showed some falling off from what they were a year ago, but the difference was not so large as it has been lately.

Whatever encouragement the bulls did receive was in the reports from foreign countries. Wheat on the Liverpool market today closed ⅝@⅞d higher. On that market there was a better demand for Australian cargoes. Private reports indicated lighter Argentine shipments. There was less pressure on the market by holders of Indian wheat. News from Paris was very strong.

Duluth July wheat, which closed yesterday at $1.13, opened today at $1.12⅞ bid, and at noon was quoted at $1.12 bid. There was a still greater decline at Chicago. Minneapolis wheat was also lower. Winnipeg was somewhat higher, that market being influenced by its close connection with Liverpool.

Duluth Flour Trade Dull.

While there was very little doing in flaxseed trading on the Duluth market this morning the reports from Winnipeg indicated a very active session there, with many sales. It was plain that a great deal of buying was going on there that normally belongs to the Duluth market. Duluth has little flaxseed and the best grades are especially scarce. Yet July seed at Duluth showed a decline of a cent at noon today and October was also off a cent. Duluth July at noon was quoted at $2.29, being just 17 cents higher than the seed at Winnipeg. It was evidently the extreme slackness of demand that caused the Duluth price to sag. Winnipeg July at noon today was unchanged at $2.12 asked. The big margin between Duluth and Winnipeg flaxseed has been completely wiped out by the transfer of the buying demand to the latter market. Buenos Ayers July flaxseed closed last night unchanged to $1.83¼ and London July closed unchanged today at $2.31⅝.

Foreign closing tables: Liverpool—wheat, ⅜ to ⅝d higher; corn, ⅛d higher to ¼d lower; Paris, wheat, 2 to 3¾c higher; flour, ½ to 2½c higher; Berlin, wheat, ¾c lower; Antwerp, wheat unchanged; Budapest, wheat ⅝c higher.

Canadian bonded grain receipts: Wheat, 6 cars; oats, 1 car; total, 7 cars.

A wire from Kansas City says: "George Flack, who has been with O. K. Hale during the last three days, says that Kansas will probably have a wheat crop of 85,000,000 bu. and that the harvest will begin near Hutchinson next Wednesday."

B. W. Snow has the following from Logan county, Kansas: "We have had about two inches of rain, but it was too late to do a bit of good. Wheat and oats crops are a complete failure."

St. Louis wires: "Wheat cutting is reported at Sypeston, Mo. The quality is fine and it is estimated that the state will have about three-fourths of a crop."

The St. Paul road reported good rains last night along its lines in Minnesota, and North and South Dakota.

Bartlett-Frazier wired from Chicago: "Our September oats look like an active purchase, particularly in view of the fact that a great many complaints are coming from the territory east of the river regarding the lateness of the crop and the necessity of rain. With the probability of fairly high prices for corn next fall, oats around 41 cents is not high, and should anything happen to cut down the present prices they could easily sell at 50c."

Clearances: Wheat, 197,000 bu; flour, 4,000 bbl; corn, 400 bu; oats, 30 bu; wheat and flour equal 201,000 bu.

When the bullish government crop report was issued a few days ago, four buyers in all parts of the country seemed to despair of getting flour at a lower price at any time before the coming of the next wheat harvest, and not being able to wait that long, they began to send in large orders for flour. The recent developments on the wheat market, however, have changed the situation. It has begun to look like a weak situation. The Southwest continues to get plenty of rain, and reports from the spring wheat country are still optimistic. This has given the flour buyers renewed hope of lower prices and they have resumed their bearish attitude. The result is that flour sales have taken a big drop.

Minneapolis indemnities: July puts, $1.11⅛@1.11¼ bid; calls, $1.12 bid.

American primaries: Wheat, receipts today, 308,000 bu.; year ago, 349,000 bu.; shipments today, 199,000 bu.; year ago, 262,000 bu.; corn, receipts today, 966,000 bu.; year ago, 659,000 bu.; shipments today, 991,000 bu.; year ago, 630,000 bu.

Duluth car inspection: No. 1 northern, 6; No. 2 northern, 11; No. 3, 4; No. 4, 1; no grade, 4; durum, 3; total wheat, 29; last year, 34; flax, 8; last year, 1; oats, 4; last year, 3; corn, 2; last year, 7; total of all grains, 42; total of all grains, 26.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Leiter Day Finds Buyers Cautious in the Wheat Pit.

Chicago, June 13.—Wheat traders today remembered that this was the anniversary of the Leiter failure, and seemed disposed to avoid the buying side of the market. General rains west of the Mississippi formed a more definite cause for depression in prices. Reports that harvesters had begun work in Missouri also acted as an influence against the bulls. The opening was ½c lower to a shade advance. September started at $1.05¼ to 1.05⅜, a decline of ¼@⅜c to ⅝@½c, touched $1.05½ and fell back to $1.05⅜.

Prices suffered a further setback in consequence of word that new wheat from Oklahoma was moving to St. Louis. Besides, Minneapolis reported flour mills shutting down. The close was unsettled at $1.05⅛@1.05¼ for September, a net loss of ½c.

Complaints of cut worms in the Northwest had a bullish effect on corn. July opened 1-16c up at 74⅜c and rose to 74½c.

A reaction followed on account of the wheat weakness, but the market again rallied. The close was steady with July ⅛@¼c net higher at 74⅛c.

Oats showed strength in sympathy with corn. July started unchanged to ⅛c higher at 50⅝c to 50¾c and hardened to 50⅞@50⅞c.

Provisions became easier all around owing to the fact that support was poor. Initial sales ranged from 5c to 12½c down, with September delivery $19.12½ for pork, $11.17½ for lard and $10.67 for ribs.

Cotton Market.

New York, June 13.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 1 to 5 points. Leading trade interests again were buyers of the old crop positions, however, and the market ruled steady, shortly after the call on this support and renewed covering, which was attributed to the influence of a strong old crop situation and the Eastern belt forecast for unsettled weather with showers in Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

The prices during the middle of the morning were about net unchanged.

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 11.80; middling gulf, 12.05. Sales, 39 bales.

Futures closed steady; closing bids—June, 11.28; July, 11.38; August, 11.44; September, 11.48; October, 11.56; November, 11.60; December, 11.66; January, 11.63; February, 11.67; March, 11.76; May, 11.81.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, June 13.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: The market is gradually assuming summer proportions, and the heavy clearance which has featured the spring market for several months is not in evidence. As usual, extra quality matched pairs of drafters, delivery horses, and farm mares find ready takers. Mules are in better favor than earlier in the spring. Receipts light, although heavy shipments are due to arrive during the next few days. Values as follow:

Drafters, extra	$190@250
Drafters, choice	120@190
Drafters, common to good	90@115
Farm mares and horses, extra	145@180

UNDERTONE QUITE FIRM

New York, June 13.—Dealings were light and changes fractional though generally upward at the opening of today's stock market. Reading, Union Pacific, Steel, Amalgamated and Colorado Fuel advanced slightly, with nominal declines in Atchison and American Sugar.

Increasing strength was shown in the first hour, with gains of a point or more in the anthracite shares, Union Pacific and Canadian Pacific, but trading continued merely nominal.

Today's early stock market was in most essentials a repetition of the preceding day. Trading was scarcely more active, but the undertone was decidedly firm. This applied especially to the leaders, Reading, Lehigh Valley, Union Pacific and a few issues in that class all making gains but with little effect on the rest of the list.

Bonds were steady.

Trading lost none of its dullness during the noon hour, the only features being in the special class. Such stocks as American Tobacco, Tennessee and Chino Copper and Morgan issues all made material gains.

The market closed steady. Dealings in minor specialties absorbed most of the limited business of the final hour. Guggenheim Exploration signalized its admission to the stock exchange by rising 3½ points.

DULL DAY FOR COPPER STOCKS

The closes of copper stocks were mixed today, some showing gains and others losses, while the majority had no changes worth considering. Calumet & Arizona gained almost a dollar and gains were also made by Hancock, Amalgamated and Red Warrior. Butte & Superior lost more than $1. Butte-Alex Scott closed slightly off. There was very little trading, the general dullness prevailing not only in coppers, but stocks in general. The general stock market of New York was very dull, though the closes were firm. The London copper metal market showed little change. Spot closed 1s 3d lower and futures closed unchanged.

A note of warning that the present high price of copper may result in curtailing the consumption, and thus do the producing companies more harm than good was sounded by Thomas F. Cole of Duluth in a recent interview at Calumet. Mr. Cole said copper should not sell in excess of 16½c a pound. He also said that the time was near at hand when it would be necessary to develop the low-grade rock of the Lake Superior district and also low-grade ore in various Western mining districts.

UNCLE SAM NEEDS MEN

To give the man who has to work all day a chance to visit the local office and join Uncle Sam's navy, the government has ordered Quartermaster J. A. LePage, in charge of the local office, to keep the recruiting place open at least two evening each week.

The new rule goes into effect on July 1 and will continue indefinitely. The government has found that a great number of men who would enlist if given the opportunity, have no time to investigate the possibilies of navy life during the day. This has been proven by experimenting with other offices.

Enlistments have come slowly all over the country for the past six months and in an effort to increase the number that the new rule is made.

J. A. LePage, in charge of the local office in the Federal building, will leave the service early in July, his second term expiring the first week of the new month.

TWO LOSE LIVES IN MILL CITY FIRE

Minneapolis, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two persons lost their lives and six others were overcome by smoke here early today when fire destroyed a duplex house, entailing a loss of $10,000. The dead are:

AUGUST SWANSON, a Civil war veteran, aged 70.

CHRISTINE SWANSON, his wife, aged 65, who jumped from a third story window.

Firemen of the state in attendance at the state fire department convention, returning from the firemen's annual ball, turned out and assisted the Minneapolis department, and their action is credited with saving several lives.

Mrs. Swanson is believed to have given her life to save her husband. Tenants say they heard her shout to him and run around in the room dense with smoke. The aged man died in bed, but his wife managed to reach the window and leaped. Crowds below shouted to her not to jump.

FLAGS WILL BE DISPLAYED

Tomorrow will be flag day, and the mayor has issued a proclamation ordering the display of Old Glory on all municipal buildings, and requesting business men and residents to do the same.

The origin of flag day is credited to the American Flag association with headquarters in New York. This organization was effected by a number of patriotic citizens of the East, among them being statesmen and warriors of note. Among the present vice presidents are President Taft, Admiral Dewey and Lieut.-Gen. Nelson A. Miles, retired. This will be the fifteenth official flag day.

The Stars and Stripes was adopted as the official national emblem 135 years ago tomorrow, congress taking this action on June 14, 1777. For this reason that date is set aside each year as flag day.

Doubtless the display of the flag will be general all over the city tomorrow and the pupils in the city schools will observe it with exercises appropriate to the occasion. Tomorrow also will be the last day of school, and flag day is regarded as a fitting close.

William Jennings Bryan will dedicate a flagpole in the evening for the boys of the First M. E. church.

WILL ASK BANKERS TO VISIT DULUTH

The next annual meeting of the Minnesota State Bankers' association may be held in Duluth.

Bankers from all parts of the state will be in session at the agricultural college at St. Paul Friday and Saturday of this week.

W. G. Hegardt of the American Exchange bank of this city and president of the local clearing house, will invite the association to hold the next meeting in Duluth.

Among the others in attendance at the meeting are W. W. Wells of the First National bank and H. S. McGregor of the City National bank.

VISITORS FROM SOUTH AMERICA

G. Chalmers of Brazil, a wealthy resident of that country, and A. G. N. Chalmers and T. W. P. Chalmers, his sons and F. Wilson, are registered at the Spalding today. The four men are traveling in the United States for pleasure and have not decided at the present time where they will go from here.

It is their intention to spend several days in Duluth.

"We are merely traveling to see something of the United States," said Mr. G. Chalmers. "We have nothing much to say. South America is prospering and becoming greater in trade importance. I believe the relations between the United States and South America are becoming closer as the time passes by, and I would not be in the last surprised to find some day that this country is one of the big dealers with South America."

Mr. G. Chalmers is from England and his brother from Germany. This is the first family trip for a number of years and the members of the family are enjoying it immensely.

PLAN PLANKS FOR PLATFORMS

Cleveland, O., June 13.—The substance of a report containing recommended social and industrial conditions, which will be submitted to both national parties for incorporation in their platforms, was made public at today's session of the thirty-ninth National Conference of Charities and Corrections.

The report, written by Owen R. Lovejoy of New York as a result of three years of investigation by a committee of social workers, formally will be submitted to the conference tonight. In part it recommends an eight hour day; abolition of night work for women and children; minimizing of night work for men; publication by employers of wages they pay; prohibition of the manufacture of poisons dangerous to workers when harmless substitutes are possible; no child under 16 to work; insurance against unem or give away any narcotic drug in any quantity, except upon written prescription of a physician or dentist or veterinarian licensed under the laws of the state of Minnesota.

Sec. 2. For the purposes of this ordinance the following drugs, compounds and preparations shall be deemed narcotic drugs, namely: Cocaine, alpha or beta eucaine, stovain, heroin, opium, morphine, chloral hydrate, alypin, or any salt, compound or derivative of, or any preparation containing any of the aforesaid substances, or any substance under any other name, giving a chemical reaction corresponding to that of any of the aforesaid substances or of any of their salts, compounds or derivatives.

Sec. 3. No prescription for a narcotic drug shall be written or filled unless it is dated and signed by the prescriber and specifies the person for whom, or the owner of the animal and the kind of animal for which it is intended, and none shall be filled unless it is an original prescription. No such prescription shall be filled, except in the quantity specified by the prescriber and none shall be filled more than once.

Sec. 4. Every pharmacist who sells, barters, or gives away any narcotic drug shall file the original of every prescription that he fills for such drugs, numbering and filing such prescriptions consecutively, according to the time when they are filed. If any pharmacist shall have a consecutive numbering and filing system for all prescriptions those for narcotic drugs may be filed and numbered along with the other prescriptions. All prescriptions for narcotic drugs shall be preserved by pharmacists for at least three years from the date of the prescriptions and shall be open to the inspection of any health inspector or police officer of the city of Duluth, or of the coroner of St. Louis county.

Sec. 5. No pharmacist shall give a copy of a prescription for a narcotic drug to any person.

Sec. 6. No pharmacist shall fill a prescription for a narcotic drug without plainly labeling the bottle, package or box containing the drug prescribed, with his own name and address, or, in case of a partnership or corporation, with the name and address of the partnership or corporation, and also with the name of the prescriber, the directions for taking the drug, and the name of the person for whom or the owner of the animal for which the drug was prescribed.

Sec. 7. No physician shall prescribe any narcotic drug for any person, except for the treatment of disease, injury or deformity, or as a part of a course of cure for the habitual use of a narcotic drug. No dentist shall prescribe a narcotic drug for any person not under his treatment and unless the prescription is given in the regular practice of his profession. No veterinarian shall prescribe any narcotic drug for any human being, or for any animal unless he shall be affirmatively satisfied that the drug will be used for the animal and not for the purpose of evading the provisions of this ordinance.

Sec. 8. It shall be unlawful for any person to have in his possession a narcotic drug, unless he may be able to prove affirmatively that such drug has been prescribed for him according to the provisions of this ordinance or that he is the owner of an animal for which such drug has been prescribed according to the provisions of this ordinance or that he is acting as the agent for a person for whom, or for the owner of an animal for which such drug has been prescribed in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance. The fact of possession of any narcotic drug, except as provided above, shall be prima facie evidence of a violation of this ordinance on the part of the possessor. Nothing in this section shall apply to the possession of narcotic drugs by pharmacists, licensed physicians, dentists, or veterinarians; or by the hospitals, sanitariums or nurses which or who have permits from the health commissioner of Duluth to keep such drugs. Such permits may be revoked by the health commissioner at any time for cause and shall in no case be valid for more than a year from the date of issue.

Sec. 9. Nothing in this ordinance shall apply to the sale at wholesale by wholesale druggists or pharmaceutical manufacturers doing business in the city of Duluth, to retail druggists, hospitals, or sanitariums or to physicians, dentists or veterinarians licensed under the laws of the state of Minnesota. Nothing in this ordinance shall apply to the sale by pharmacists licensed under the laws of the state of Minnesota, of any mixture, compound or preparation containing four grains of opium, one-half grain of morphine or heroin, or two grains of codeine, or forty grains of chloral hydrate, or a less amount of any of these substances, in one fluid ounce, or in case of a dry preparation, in one avoirdupois ounce. The provisions of this ordinance shall not apply to powder of ipecac or opium or to liniments, ointments and other preparations sold exclusively for external application and containing any of the narcotics named in section 2, except cocaine, or any of its salts or derivatives, when the box, package, or bottle containing such drugs is plainly labeled "For external use only." Nothing in this ordinance shall apply to the sale by licensed pharmacists or veterinarians of compounds prepared in good faith exclusively for use for horses when such pharmacists or veterinarians shall be affirmatively satisfied that the purchaser is not obtaining such a compound for the purpose of evading the provisions of this ordinance.

Sec. 10. Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) or by imprisonment not exceeding eighty-five days.

Sec. 11. This ordinance shall take effect upon its passage and publication.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CONDEMNATION—

Notice is hereby given that there is now pending before the common council of the city of Duluth, a resolution declaring the necessity of and directing the condemnation of certain tracts or parcels of land for the purpose of public parks and parkways.

The property to be condemned is as follows, to-wit:

1. Fractional block eight (8) in Murray & Howe's addition, according to the recorded plat.

2. All that unplatted tract of land that lies between Fortieth avenue west and the center line of Forty-first avenue west prolonged northwesterly to Eighth street; and between said Eighth street and the center line of Seventh street, extended from said Murray & Howe's addition southwesterly to Hall's addition; all said land being in the southeast quarter (SE¼) of section six (6), township forty-nine (49), range fourteen (14).

3. All that part of blocks thirty-three (33), thirty-five (35), thirty-six (36), thirty-seven (37), thirty-eight (38) and thirty-nine (39), in Oneota Park, according to the recorded plat thereof, that lies within one hundred (100) feet of the south line of said Oneota Park.

4. The following described lots, blocks and parts thereof in the Mineral addition, according to the recorded plat thereof, to-wit: The whole of lots fourteen (14), fifteen (15), sixteen (16), seventeen (17), eighteen (18), and nineteen (19), and that part of lots twenty (20), twenty-one (21), twenty-two (22), twenty-three (23), twenty-four (24), twenty-five (25) and twenty-six (26), that lies north and east of a line drawn from the northeast corner of said lot nineteen (19), to the southeast corner of said lot twenty-six (26), all in block one (1), of said addition; lots one (1), two (2), three (3), four (4), five (5), six (6), seven (7), eight (8), twenty-five (25), twenty-six (26), twenty-seven (27), twenty-eight (28), twenty-nine (29), thirty (30), thirty-one (31) and thirty-two (32), in block two (2) in said Mineral addition; lots one (1), two (2), three (3) and four (4) in block five (5), and the whole of block six (6), in said addition; lots one (1), two (2), three (3), four (4), five (5), six (6), seven (7), eight (8), nine (9), ten (10), twenty-three (23), twenty-four (24), twenty-five (25), twenty-six (26), twenty-seven (27), twenty-eight (28), twenty-nine (29), thirty (30), thirty-one (31), and thirty-two (32) in block seven (7); and lots twenty-six (26), twenty-seven (27), twenty-eight (28), twenty-nine (29), thirty (30), thirty-one (31) and thirty-two (32), in block eleven (11); all in said addition.

5. All that part of the northeast quarter of the southwest qqarter (NE¼ of SW¼) of section one (1), town forty-nine (49) north of range fifteen (15) west, that is bounded by the following described lines, to-wit: Commencing at the northeast corner of lot fourteen (14) block one (1), Mineral addition to Duluth; thence west along the south line of Fifth street in said Mineral addition three hundred and forty-one (341) feet, more or less, to the northwest corner of lot eight (8), block two (2), in said Mineral addition; thence northwesterly, at an angle of fifty-seven degrees twenty-eight minutes thirty seconds to the right, a distance of seven hundred and twenty (720) feet to a point; thence to the right at an angle of twenty-three degrees thirty-seven minutes a distance of one hundred and eighty-eight (188) feet to a point; thence to the right at an angle of seventy-four degrees six minutes a distance of two hundred and ten (210) feet to a point; thence to the right at an angle of twenty-seven degrees fifty-four minutes thirty seconds a distance of one hundred and eighty-one (181) feet to a point; thence in a straight line to the place of beginning.

Said resolution will be considered by the common council at a regular meeting thereof to be held in the council chamber in the city hall, Duluth, Minn., on Monday, July 1, 1912, at 8 o'clock p. m., at which time and place parties interested in such condemnation proceedings will be heard.

C. S. PALMER, City Clerk.

Mount Royal Division

We call your attention to that Royal part of Duluth lying on Woodland car line at a point where it crosses Seventh street. The property consisted of twenty acres before platting and now consists of twenty parcels. It is our aim to sell it to, say, twenty congenial purchasers. From different pieces one can view both Knife Island and Spirit Lake.

Prices range from $2,000 to $6,000, according to size and location. Come and talk it over. Reason dictates that it is prime property.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

ALL HOPE VANISHES OF FINISHING EXTRA SESSION THIS WEEK

Disgusted Members of Legislature Prepare to Leave for Good.

Situation on the State-Wide Primary Bill Is Critical.

Gross Earnings and Allied Bills Passed By Both Houses.

St. Paul, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The gross earnings bill, increasing the tax to 5 per cent, and the two allied bills, which were passed by the house this morning, were quickly signed and engrossed and sent to the senate, which passed them at once under suspension of the rules.

The Modern Woodmen of America bill, designed to prevent an increase of rates in Minnesota, was passed by the house.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—All hope of finishing the extra session this week has vanished, and the prospects of any results beyond those that can be secured by tomorrow are none too bright. The gross earnings bill, which passed the house this morning, will be passed by the senate tomorrow, but there is no chance that either the state-wide primary bill, the corrupt practices act or reapportionment can be finished by tomorrow night.

In the meantime, a large number of senators and representatives are preparing to leave tomorrow night for good, whether work is over or not. This tendency is more pronounced in the senate, which has been hoping for a Saturday adjournment and is disgusted because it cannot be had. Sen-

TAFT SAYS HE WILL BE NAMED

Claims Nomination on First Ballot, With Votes to Spare.

Washington, June 14.—"There will be no third candidate. All the information I have is that I will be nominated on the first ballot, with votes to spare."

That was President Taft's answer today to a visitor who asked his position in regard to a compromise candidate at the Republican national convention.

WILL HOLD TO BOTH RULES

No Change From Unit or Two-Thirds Vote Expected at Baltimore.

Mack Says He Would Have Known of Any Such Proposal.

Baltimore, Md., June 14.—Democratic national committeemen gathering here expressed the opinion today that no moves would be made to abrogate either the unit rule or the rule that provides that a two-thirds vote shall be necessary to nominate a candidate.

"No intimation has come to me," said National Chairman Mack today, "that any move would be made to do away with the unit and two-thirds rules, and as those are questions which would have to come first before the national committee, it is likely I would know about it. The two rules undoubtedly will continue in force during the coming convention."

While no definite time has been determined upon for the presentation of contests, it was learned today that only a few minutes would be allowed each side for argument. The national committee expect to finish up all the contests within an hour or two.

Chairman Mack, Secretary Urey Woodson, together with several national committeemen, were busy during the day looking over the applications for appointments for minor officers of the convention and attending to the many small minor details incident to the coming Democratic convention.

Leader Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall, with his personal advisers, are expected here next Friday, and the big bands of Tammany braves will take the train conventionward the following Monday.

Harmon marching clubs from Ohio, including a glee club of 100 voices and a mounted Farmers' club from Ross county, are due to arrive during next week.

AN EXCESS OF CAUTION

Action of Legislature on the Gross Earnings Tax Provisions.

Plan to Tax All Railroad Receipts Not Wholly Abandoned.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The action of the legislature in receding from its action of 1911 in attempting to extend the railroad gross earnings tax to reach railroads receipts or earnings from other than operating sources is perhaps due to an excess of caution, but on the whole probably it is as well that it has been taken.

It does not defeat the increase in the gross earnings tax rate from 4 to 5 per cent, and this after all is the important thing. It is the thing for which an extra session should have been called last winter, even though it failed to receive recognition in the governor's proclamation calling the extra session or in his message to the legislature when it convened. It would be a joke, in the face of all the circumstances, to adjourn this extra session without proposing for ratification

WOMEN FIGURE IN TWO GUN SCRAPES

One Escapes Five Shots Fired at Her—Another Shoots Her Husband.

Chicago, June 14.—Thomas M. Payne, an electrician, who was jilted a week ago by Miss Bernice Douthitt, crawled through an open window of her bedroom last night and after shooting five bullets at her sent a sixth into his right side. None of the missiles struck Miss Douthitt. Payne will recover.

The crime followed by a few hours the publication of details of a shooting that accompanied an attempt by William A. Miller to enter through a window the bedroom of his divorced wife. Miller received a fatal wound from a revolver fired by the ex-wife. She like Miss Douthitt escaped unhurt.

Mrs. Miller told the police her former husband had entered and was choking her when she shot him. In a conscious moment, Miller admitted entering the house, but said he had not attacked her. Bruises on the woman's arm and neck, appeared to the police to substantiate her story, but she was taken into custody.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER AT HIS SUMMER HOME.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 14.—Accompanied by Mrs. Rockefeller and her sister, Mrs. Lucy Spelman, John D. Rockefeller arrived here early today from Pocantico Hills, N. Y., to spend the summer at his Cleveland home, Forest Hill. Mr. Rockefeller appeared in good health, heavier in fact, than in many years. He refused to discuss the presidential campaign.

Widow's Only Son Killed.

Browns Valley, Minn., June 14.—Robert Malueg, 16-year-old son of Mrs. Minnie Malueg of this place, was thrown from a motorcycle Tuesday afternoon and received internal injuries from which he died Wednesday night. He was the only son of a widowed mother and would have graduated from the high school next year.

DEMOCRACY'S PRINCIPLES

Bryan Addresses Legislature on the Two Theories of Government.

Majority of States Should Be Able to Change Constitution.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Before a packed house chamber and galleries, with both branches of the legislature in attendance, William Jennings Bryan yesterday afternoon gave a ringing talk on the fundamental elements of democracy. The chamber was profusely decorated with palms, flowers and flags, and the audience heard the Commoner throughout with respectful attention and with liberal and hearty applause, rising to its feet to greet him when he entered and again at the close of his talk.

Representative Albert Pfaender, leader of the house Democrats, was called to the chair by Speaker Dunn, and after Congressman Frank M. Nye of Minneapolis had made a brief address, Mr. Pfaender introduced the

UNION MEN MAY PUNISH CHIEFS

Plan to Oust Officials Who Tried to Force General Press Strike.

New Orleans, La., June 14:—An effort is to be made to oust the chiefs of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' union of North America, for trying to force a general strike to back up the fight at Chicago at the twenty-fifth annual convention at Rogersville, Tenn., June 17, according to members of the New York delegation, who arrived here last night by steamer from New York.

ROB POSTOFFICE AND RAILROAD

Burglars Get Money, Stamps, Tickets and Handcar.

Steubenville, Ohio, June 14.—Robbers early today raided the mining town of Parlett, in the western part of the county, blew the safe in the postoffice and stole $300 in cash and $200 in postage stamps, robbed the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad ticket office of railroad tickets, and escaped on a handcar stolen from the railroad.

Sheriff James Murray left here with a posse and is scouring the country in search of the thieves.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN IN DULUTH; DECLINES TO DISCUSS POLITICS

Will Attend the Republican National Convention as a Reporter.

Says the Democratic Gathering at Baltimore Will Be Love Feast.

Great Commoner Is Guest of Old-Time Friends in City.

"My ostensible reason for going to Chicago is to report the convention. Really, you know, I want to be on the ground to enter a protest in person if the convention attempts to settle on me as a compromise candidate between Roosevelt and Taft."

William Jennings Bryan, who arrived in Duluth this morning, declined to talk politics except in a humorous vein. He did make some political comments, but except for the statement that he believes the work of the Baltimore convention will be made easy after the Republican nominee is known, his statements were not serious.

"I like a fight," he said. "So I want to be in at the Chicago convention. The Baltimore meeting will be a love feast, so any fireworks I want to see this year will be produced at Chicago, and I am going to be there."

"Upon whose brow will be the crown of laurel be placed at the Baltimore love feast?" the interviewer ventured with an inner hope that Mr. Bryan would be surprised into a prediction. Mr. Bryan is too old a hand at being interviewed to be surprised, cajoled or clubbed into making a statement he

RECALL CLERK IN DARROW'S TRIAL

Man Who Helped in McNamara Case Again on the Stand.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 14.—George O. Monroe, clerk in Judge Bordwell's court, where the McNamara trial was held, and the first witness in the Clarence Darrow trial for jury bribing, was recalled to the stand just before adjournment yesterday, and it was expected that the prosecution would endeavor today to show by his records that the McNamara trial was in progress for several days after the date upon which the defense contended an agreement had been made by attorneys for the defense for pleas of guilty by the McNamara brothers.

ROOSEVELT DECIDES TO GO TO CHICAGO AT ONCE TO LEAD FIGHT

HAS TALK WITH DIXON OVER WIRE

Makes Announcement in New York and Prepares to Start.

"Dark Horse" Talk in Windy City Is Getting More Insistent.

La Follette Delegates May Hold Balance of Power in Convention.

New York, June 14.—Theodore Roosevelt announced shortly after noon today that he had decided to go to Chicago personally to lead his fight for the nomination. He will leave New York at 5:30 this afternoon over the New York Central. He announced his decision immediately after a long distance telephone conversation with his manager, Senator Dixon.

Like Fight of 1860.

Chicago, June 14.—Delegates to the Republican national convention, in anticipation of the coming to Chicago of Col. Roosevelt and a history-making episode in American politics, today went back to the first nomination of Abraham Lincoln in 1860 in efforts to find a parallel for the fight being waged here.

Roosevelt men, kept at a high pitch by frequent conferences and mass meetings in which their leaders attacked the actions of the national committee with bitterness, pointed to the death of the old Whig party as their theory of what may happen in Chicago next week.

Taft leaders, declaring that the action of the national committee in seating the Roosevelt delegates from Missouri was indicative of its fairness, laughed at the predictions of Col. Roosevelt's followers and the continued talk of a bolt.

Say Taft Has Lost.

The Roosevelt managers today announced that if all the remaining contests before the national committee are decided in favor of President Taft, he will lack fourteen votes of the number necessary to nominate. These figures and others compiled at both Taft and Roosevelt headquarters brought the situation down to a point where discussion of a deadlock and a possible "dark horse" candidate loomed large.

Col. Roosevelt's leaders further de-

FLAG DAY

"Long may it wave o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

MORE TAFT DELEGATES ARE SEATED BY THE COMMITTEE

Oklahoma, South Carolina and Tennessee Contests Heard.

Hard Fight Is Promised Over Rival Texas Delegations.

Chicago, June 14.—Nearly two hours of acrimonious argument at the forenoon session of the Republican national committee today had as its net result the transfer of two delegates from a single Oklahoma district, the Third, from the "contested" to the Taft column.

The issue hinged upon the regularity of rival conventions held at Tulsa, the Roosevelt delegates appearing as contestants. No roll call was taken, the decision being by viva voce vote.

Following this action the committee quickly disposed of the First South Carolina district case, in which the "regular" and contesting delegations both were composed of Taft supporters. The contestants were seated.

Turned to Tennessee.

First Tennessee district then was taken up and the Sells faction of Taft delegates seated. No Roosevelt contest was involved.

The Second Tennessee district contest over two delegates ended in both being credited to Taft.

The committee was called to order at 9:20 a. m. with thirty members present. It immediately began consideration of the contest in the Third district of Oklahoma.

A. A. Davidson, appearing for the Roosevelt contestants, said the question as to which set of delegates should be seated hinged on the legality of two conventions held at Tulsa on the same day.

With a majority of delegates declared for Roosevelt, he said, the convention was held according to the call. Sixteen of the nineteen counties were represented by 361 delegates, declared Mr. Davidson.

"The Taft faction hasn't even a technicality to stand upon," he said.

BATTLE WITH 1,000 RIOTERS

Deputy Sheriffs at Perth Amboy Kill One and Wound Three.

Peculiar Strike May Result in Calling Out National Guard.

Perth Amboy, N. J., June 14.—A thousand striking laborers stormed the plant of the American Smelting & Refining company here early today and were fired on by deputy sheriffs. One striker was killed and three others were wounded. With the first volley the strikers fell back.

Exhausted after the rioting, the nearly 4,000 striking laborers of five of the largest factories made no second concerted effort at disorder, but the situation was still considered so serious by Sheriff Bollschweiller that he continued his conference with the employers to determine the advisability of preventing further outbreaks during the day.

The rattle of revolver shots sent over the heads of rioters as they stormed the plants, hurling stones, kept residents of the city awake most of the night. Brig. Gen. D. J. Collins, in command of the national guard of New Jersey, still was on the scene.

The strike is a peculiar one, involving as it does no particular craft, but being made up variously of laborers of the American Smelting & Refining company, section hands from the Northwestern division of the Lehigh Valley railroad, men, women and girl employes of the Perth Amboy Tobacco company, laborers of the Barber Asphalt company and other minor plants.

IT'S A WONDERFUL

SALE OF SUITS

we are having tomorrow—it demonstrates the great value-giving power of this store—it means to you the finest of clothes at prices you would ordinarily pay for garments of much lower grades, both quality of fabric and tailoring.

THE FOLLOWING WILL GIVE SOME IDEA OF THE OFFERINGS:

$22.50 SUITS
$20.00 SUITS
$18.00 SUITS

$13.95

These are some of the most fashionable and most desirable Suits that have been in our cases this season—Suits from one of our best makers who, owing to the continued cold and wet weather this Spring, was unable to sell as readily as he had expected. To close them out, all in one lot, he offered them to us at a big reduction from the prices he had asked us for the same suits earlier in the season, and you will notice that we offer them to you at a like reduction. You can't realize what splendid suits they are until you see them, and when you do you will surely appreciate the saving.

BLUE SERGE SUITS, $13.95, $15, $17.50 up to $25

GAYNOR TALKS ABOUT RELIGION

Gives Methodists Some Advice About Piety, Biliousness and Politics.

New York, June 14.—"Every man who thinks he is a Christian," said Mayor Gaynor last night in addressing a church gathering, "but who is not one, thinks that the other man, the man in authority, is a great scamp because he does not do it all in a week. His vanity is father to that. He is more bilious than pious, that sort of man."

The occasion of the mayor's talk was the reception to Rev. and Mrs. Luther B. Wilson. Bishop Wilson was recently appointed resident Methodist Episcopal bishop of New York.

"Be a Christian," advised the mayor, "and don't be uncharitable and mean, either on election day or any other day, especially on election day. Don't be a miserable, hide-bound partisan. Don't go around boasting that your grandfather and your father always voted the Democratic ticket or the Republican ticket, and that you have done the same, and that you will never do anything else. He has a howling wilderness in his head—the man who talks like that."

BOILERMAKERS DOUBLE TAX FOR "WAR FUND."

Little Rock, Ark., June 14.—The International Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders, holding its biennial convention here, doubled its per-capita tax, requiring each member to produce one dollar each month instead of 50 cents as his contribution to the "war fund" of the union. No other changes were ordered.

UNKNOWN MAN DIES IN HOSPITAL

A man named Anderson—but whether his first name is James or Andrew is not known—died last night at St. Mary's hospital of spinal meningitis after an illness of several days. He was stopping at the Liberty hotel, 623 West Superior street, when he was taken sick. He was found unconscious in the hotel several days ago and never regained consciousness.

Nothing is known about the man and the only reason it is supposed that his name is Anderson is because of that name being found in a note book which was found on him. Both names, James and Andrew, are given. The body is at Flood & Horgan's undertaking rooms and an effort will be made to find out something about the man before the remains are interred.

EXCURSION WAS SUCCESS

Everybody Delighted With Results of Boosting Trip to the Ranges.

Final Parade Given in Duluth and The Herald Is Serenaded.

Tired, but delighted with the results of their trip, the Duluth trade excursionists returned to the city about 5 o'clock last evening.

They were not too tired to do a little final boosting in their own city. Headed by Frank Gravel and the Third Regiment band, they formed in line at the union station and marched to Superior street, then to Third avenue west, up to First street and west to the office of The Herald, where a serenade was given. The party then dispersed for a needed rest.

The three days' trip over the ranges was a great success. Cordial relations between Duluth and the range towns were established and cemented. A trail of advertising matter was scattered along the route. The people of the range towns were shown that Duluth business men are alive, and that they are as anxious to cultivate adjacent territory as remote districts.

The party was made up of about 100 business men, every one a booster for Duluth. The cares of business were thrown off for the three days, dignity was forgotten and everybody turned in to inject all the life and spirit possible into the party. The band was a great aid to the success of the trip. It was received with acclaim in every town visited.

The train left Hibbing at noon yesterday for the final run of the trip. Stops of from five to ten minutes were made at Iron Junction, Forbes, Zim, Kelsey, Payne, Alborn, Culver, Burnett, Saginaw, Munger and Adolph. At each station the band got out, played lively airs, and the crowd sang, danced and made merry. Good crowds were out at every station and they enjoyed the entertainment.

At Proctor, the last stop, the schedule allotted thirty minutes, which was time for a parade around the town. While waiting at the station for another train to pass, the song birds and dancers were exceedingly busy, despite the fact that weariness might have been expected to be on them after the three days of strenuous work.

Good Farms Near Hibbing.

The visit to Hibbing was greatly enjoyed. Yesterday morning the excursionists devoted their time to calling on the business men and seeing the town. Hibbing people were lavish in their entertainment. Automobiles were placed at the disposal of the visitors and they were taken around to the mines and the adjacent farming country.

Hibbing is proud of its prospects as a farming center. The mines are, of course, the principal attraction, but Hibbing doesn't believe in having all its eggs in one receptacle, and is doing good work in encouraging the development of the surrounding farming country. Some beautiful farms are developed right on the edge of Hibbing, and Hibbing people say that in the country more remote, but directly tributary, the development is a revelation.

Good roads are the foundation of agricultural development and Hibbing appreciates that fact. The village, the township, the mining companies and individuals are co-operating in building the finest roads in the country around Hibbing. The material taken from the stripping operations makes excellent roads, as the people who rode around the city yesterday learned.

One result of the visit to Hibbing will be greater interest in the St. Louis county fair on the part of Duluth people. Duluthians have not paid proper attention to the fair, but the importance of it as a St. Louis county institution was impressed on the visitors by Hibbing people, and Duluth will be well represented at the fair this year. Steps are already being taken toward organizing a party to take a special train to Hibbing while the fair is in progress.

Plans for Next Trip.

As soon as the first trade excursion of the year drew to a close, plans were started for the next excursion, which will go to International Falls and other border towns, and to Crookston and other places on the Great Northern. On the train yesterday about sixty people were signed up to make the trip, and the members of the wholesalers' committee of the Commercial club are satisfied that fully 100 people will be enlisted. The excursion will be held in July.

The three trips already taken have established the value of the trade excursions, not only as business-getters but as general advertisers for Duluth. Many of the people who have taken all three trips have no direct business interest in them, but go along to aid in the general boosting of the city. The excursionists have at no time forgotten to impress on the communities visited the importance of Duluth as a summer resort, and a vacation place.

Friendly relations with its neighbors are necessary to any city and the trade excursions are intended to establish them where they do not exist and to strengthen them where they do exist. As W. A. McGonagle expressed it at Hibbing, Duluth business men have been busy laying the foundation and have had little time to cultivate their neighbors, but now the foundation is laid and the trade excursions are important factors in building the superstructure of friendly relations with trade territory.

The excursion which ended yesterday was admirably handled by the railroads, and the travelers voted their thanks to every railroad man concerned. The train, which was furnished by the Great Northern railroad, was beautiful and complete in equipment. The dining car service was excellent. President House of the Duluth & Iron Range was on the train while it was on that road, and W. A. McGonagle, president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, joined the party at Hibbing. J. W. Kreitter, superintendent of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, made the whole trip. J. M. Rooney, trainmaster of the Great Northern at Superior, joined the train at Virginia and accompanied it for the remainder of the time.

H. CLAY PIERCE'S STEAM YACHT TAKEN BY SHERIFF.

New York, June 14.—The sheriff of Kings county yesterday afternoon seized H. Clay Pierce's steam yacht Yacona, at anchor in the Erie basin, to satisfy a judgment of $171,000 obtained against him last February by Alice T. Rycroft. Mr. Pierce's lawyers immediately applied to the supreme court for a stay of execution, forbidding the sheriff to dispose of the yacht at auction. This was granted.

Mrs. Rycroft obtained her judgment against Pierce by default in a suit involving securities placed in his care by her.

DEAF AND DUMB CHILD TRAVELS ALONE.

Chippewa Falls, June 14.—Persons who were at the Omaha depot when the Duluth limited arrived from the south Wednesday morning witnessed a pitiful and unusual sight. A 12-year-old girl, deaf, dumb and feeble-minded was set off the train and occupied a seat in the depot. She was crying, and none of those present were able to learn anything about her—who she was, or how she happened to come there without a guardian. There was no one there to meet her and Officer Pagankopf had her taken to the Ottawa house. Shortly afterward Dr. Wilmarth called and took her out to the home. The little miss had two piects of baggage bearing tags from the deaf and dumb school at Delavan directing her to Chippewa Falls and it seems that Dr. Wilmarth expected her to arrive on a later train.

VANCOUVER WOMAN FOLLOWS HUSBAND AND HIS "AFFINITY" HALF WAY ACROSS CONTINENT

NORA BERUTTI.

MRS. SAM MIGLIO.

JOHN BERUTTI.

A mother's yearning for her little Nora, her 6-year-old daughter, has kept Mrs. John Berutti of Vancouver, Wash., on the road for twenty-nine days, chasing a fleeing husband and his alleged "affinity," who have the child with them.

The chase has covered a large part of the Western United States, and the end is not yet, for the police have taken up the scent. Mrs. Berutti is in Duluth at present, but will leave for Vancouver tomorrow.

Mrs. Berutti chased them from Vancouver to San Francisco and from there to Duluth, but they got out of the city a few hours before she arrived here last Saturday. Berutti had been held here on advices from San Francisco, but secured his release and vanished.

Mrs. Berutti, who has her other two children with her, wanted to secure her little girl, and that is all she is after. She does not care about having her husband and the woman with him arrested. Mrs. Berutti said today that her husband has tried to get a divorce from her but cannot, as he has no grounds, and she will not apply for a divorce from him.

The woman with him, she says, is Mrs. Sam Miglio, whose husband is living in Vancouver. This is her third elopement, Mrs. Berutti says. Mrs. Miglio is Berutti's first cousin. It is believed that Berutti and the woman and child are somewhere in North Dakota. Information as to their whereabouts can be sent to Mrs. Berutti at Vancouver or to Chief Troyer of the Duluth police department.

FLAG DAY IS OBSERVED

The 135th anniversary of the adoption of the American flag is being observed in Duluth today.

One of the interesting ceremonies of the day will be the dedication of a flag pole and flag at the First M. E. church, Third avenue west and Third street. The funds for the pole and flag were raised by the members of the boys' class of the Sunday school. William J. Bryan, who is to speak at the church tonight, will assist in the exercises.

Duluth lodge, B. P. O. E., will hold the usual Flag day exercises at the lodge building on First street at 8 o'clock this evening.

IN POLICE COURT

In police court this morning, Judge Windom presiding, four strippings named Anton Fink, George Dorvall, Frank Prusak and Dan Brophy, were charged with trespass, having been found during the night sleeping at the rear of Cook's saloon on Michigan street.

Judge Windom inquired closely into the case, and the police said that Brophy is trying his best to make a tramp out of himself; that he refuses to do anything to support his mother, and even goes so far as to take money from his younger brother who carries a paper route. Brophy is a big, husky lad, and the judge told him some facts that seemed to sting. He then imposed a fine of $10 and costs or ten days in jail, but suspended sentence for thirty days. He gave the boys a good lecture, and it is quite likely that they understand that another appearance in police court will mean rather harsh treatment.

Louis Dubrl, charged with being drunk, was sent up for ten days as this was his second offense. Four others got three days each on the charge of drunkenness.

* * *

Maud Imblau, housekeeper at 414 Lake avenue south, was charged with drunkenness. She admitted getting drunk in Superior yesterday, but said that a "fresh policeman" arrested her when she was on the Lake avenue viaduct on her way home. She declared that she could walk all right. She was given a suspended sentence.

KEPT OPEN TOO LATE.

Culprit Testifies Against Saloon Keeper Hagen, Whom He Robbed.

Gilbert Hagen was arrested yesterday afternoon charged with having kept his saloon at 103½ East Superior street open too late on the night of June 6. His hearing is on this afternoon.

The complaint was filed as a result of testimony given by Marks Dunlop, who was arrested a short time ago with breaking into the saloon and stealing money and other things therefrom on the night of June 6.

He testified in district court that Hagen got him drunk on that night and that they were in the saloon until midnight, it being open all of that time. He claimed that if he had not been drunk he would not have broken into the place.

SMALLPOX AT AITKIN.

Several Homes Quarantined—Cases Considered Mild.

Aitkin, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The epidemic of smallpox that has been existing in Aitkin for the past four weeks is increasing rapidly, although all cases thus far have been in a mild form. The homes of Edward Rogers, Art McDonnell, O. S. Hartman, William Sickner and Mr. Browning have been quarantined this week.

STEEL MILLS ARE RUSHED

Big Demand for Products, Says Iron Trade Review Editor.

Thinks Duluth Plant Will Be Finished in Eighteen Months.

H. C. Estep, associate editor of the Iron Trade Review and also associate editor of Power Boating, is in the city today. Mr. Estep is here in the interests of his papers and has been making a thorough inspection of the Marquette iron ranges, the Missabe and Vermilion ranges and also the Duluth steel plant. His trip has been made for the purpose of securing material for a series of articles that are planned for the Iron Trade Review.

"Progress on the Duluth steel plant is going right along," said Mr. Estep today. "You might ask why work is not being rushed. If the work was pushed to the utmost the plant might possibly be completed within a year. At the rate of progress that is being made at the present time the big plant is due for completion within a year and a half.

"Right at the present time the steel mills of the United States have more orders than they can fill. The Illinois Steel company broke its record in May, turning out 275,000 tons of finished material. This amounted to something like $7,000,000. This was running clear by the normal capacity of the plant, and gives an idea of the demand for finished steel products throughout the country.

"However the demand for steel products at the present time has little bearing on the construction of the Duluth plant. The steel market is subject to fluctuations, so that by the time the Duluth plant is completed it might be that the steel mills of the country would be literally begging for orders.

"From the information gathered on my present trip, I believe that there will be something like 43,000,000 tons of ore go out of the Lake Superior territory the present season. This will be something like 11,000,000 tons more than was taken out last season. Conditions on the various iron ranges have already begun to show the influence of this increased output of ore tonnage."

In discussing the various power boat meets that are held on the Mississippi river, Mr. Estep remarked that he failed to understand why one of the biggest motor boat meetings in the entire West had not been held in St. Louis bay. He pointed out that the course here had every advantage over the course at Peoria, Davenport or Dubuque, and that the enthusiasm at these cities was something to wonder at.

"The business men of Dubuque raised something like $15,000 in a few days," said Mr. Estep. "The papers down there stated that over 40,000 people were drawn to Dubuque to witness the races. I was there and am of the opinion that there were fully 25,000 people drawn in from the surrounding country.

"Such a meet here should be one of the most successful and one of the most spectacular ever held in the West. It would bring thousands of people to Duluth and would give the people here their first real glimpse of the fast boats. I am of the opinion that if Duluth would go after this meet that the city could make it one of the most successful ever held anywhere in the West."

THINKS HE IS MILLIONAIRE

D. S. McDonald Presents Check Calling for Ten Million.

Also Says He Has Just Sold Mine for Fourteen Million.

Two paying tellers at the First National bank were dazed for a moment and then startled into unwonted activity this morning when a quiet looking man passed in through their windows, a check calling for payment of $10,000,000. The first teller he accosted referred him to the next window, and that teller, after giving a few gasps for air, asked the man to wait until he could get the sum out of the vault.

The presenter of the check is D. S. McDonald, a lumber scaler, and the check, which was the counter variety, was ostensibly signed by William O'Brien, the well known lumberman of Duluth. McDonald explained that he sold a large tract of timber to Mr. O'Brien yesterday and the check he held was in payment of it. The bank authorities called up police headquarters and McDonald was taken away to the city jail. He will be taken before Probate Judge Gilpin for examination today, for he is clearly insane on the matter of money and big deals at least. He was perfectly sober.

McDonald has large ideas about money and about his possessions. He is not of the violent type, but is quiet in his manner. He is about 45 years of age, of medium height, slight of build, and the spectacles which he wears give him a studious appearance. He says he has been working for W. A. Kennedy, surveyor general of logs and lumber, scaling timber and that he rooms at the St. James hotel.

At police headquarters there was found on him besides the check a note promising to pay to the American Exchange bank the sum of $10,000,000, but no time is mentioned for payment. When interviewed in the lockup, McDonald expressed annoyance at being kept in jail and wanted to know what for. An officer told him that the bank people evidently wanted to know for sure that the transfer of lumber had taken place.

"That's none of their —— business; I had the check, hadn't I?" McDonald exclaimed impatiently.

McDonald told the officers also that he has plenty of money. He said that a short time ago a man who had a claim on the Cuyuna range on which there were good outcroppings of ore, offered to sell it for $1,000,000.

"I took an option on it," said McDonald in a very businesslike tone. "A few days ago I met Paddy Hines in the lobby of the St. Louis hotel and he asked me how much I wanted for it. I told him I would sell for $14,000,000. He took me up and paid me the money."

He said that the tract of land which he believes he sold to Mr. O'Brien is up on the range and has on it a large amount of white pine. He said that he did not own the land, having purchased only the timber.

W. A. Kennedy, for whom he says he worked, is out of the city today, so the statement could not be confirmed. At the St. James hotel it was said today that McDonald is not a drinking man and always appeared to be perfectly rational. He called there this morning to see if there were any letters for him, as he has been up on the range several days, and the clerk says that nothing unusual appeared to be the matter with him.

IRON WORKERS WANT A RAISE

Ask Increase of $4.50 Per Day With Overtime on Sundays.

Members of local No. 32, Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' union, have served notice on all contractors in Duluth and Superior that they desire a raise in their wages from $4 to $4.50 per day.

They also ask time and a half for overtime and double time for work on Sundays and legal holidays. They have not threatened to strike. They are simply asking in a friendly way an increase in salary.

They claim that the cost of living has increased greatly since the present wage scale went into effect and they also claim that their work is dangerous and that they deserve larger pay for taking the chances that they do.

Several of the contractors have already agreed to pay the increase in salary, it is said.

Structural iron workers never work during rainy weather as jumping about on slippery steel beams is extremely dangerous. There was therefore no work going on today.

Several buildings are being erected in Duluth by structural iron workers, one on West First street and another at Fifth avenue west and Superior street.

It's apt to "stay lost" unless you advertise for it.

CLOQUET TO MAKE FARMERS WELCOME

Special Feature of Farmers Day During University Week.

Cloquet, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the Commercial club last night it was decided to make a very special feature of farmers' day, Friday, June 21, in connection with university week, and the following committee of prominent men were appointed to see that people from all parts of Carlton county were notified of the day's program and made welcome to the city for that occasion: Fred Vibert, Ole Kolseth, A. Kaiti, C. B. McDonald, Louis Schiedermayer, August Johnson, J. T. Richter, Joseph Loisel, Dan McGilvary and John Provost.

Thomas Barton of Minneapolis appeared before the club with a proposition for opening a trunk factory in Cloquet The matter was talked over and there was a general sentiment in favor of it. An effort will be made to establish a company and Alex Summerfield, F. T. Persinger and E. S. Schlebe will take hold of the matter and endeavor to push it through.

It was decided to have a Fourth of July celebration and a committee was appointed whose personnel guarantees a lively program: Dr. Alex Barclay, F. T. Persinger, R. J. Hayes, Wendel Davis and Percy Smith.

CLOQUET MAN IS DROWNED IN RIVER

Repairing Paper Mill Dam With Brother Both Going Over Dam.

Cloquet, Minn., June 14.—Special to The Herald.)—Chris Swan was drowned yesterday at the Northwest Paper company's mill. Chris Swan and his brother, Andrew Swan, were repairing the dam and had built a staging back of it. This gave way and both went into the water and over the dam. Andrew got out, but his brother struck the rocks and was dashed to death, the body being picked up a few hours later.

The deceased was about 30 years old. He moved from Scanlon to Cloquet a few months ago, and within the year has lost both wife and child.

RED RIVER VALLEY CROPS BENEFITED

General Rain Throughout That Section Proves Great Help.

Crookston, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A general rain, covering Polk, Norman, Clay, Marshall, Kitson, Red Lake, Pennington and Mahnoman counties fell during all yesterday and most of the night, the finest rain the valley has had this season, which is worth millions of dollars to the growing crops. While all grain looked fine, the ground was getting dry and the spring plowing needed a steady soaking rain, such as fell.

Flax, barley and oats are all looking fine. Corn is just coming up nicely, and the care taken in seed selection and testing is bearing grand fruit. The corn is vigorous and the corn crop is most promising. The wild hay crop is backward owing to the light rainfall during May, but timothy stands well, and this rain will bring the wild hay on rapidly, though cutting will be a little later than usual.

STATE BANKERS ARE AT ST. PAUL

Bonynge of Monetary Commission Will Address Convention.

St. Paul, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota Bankers' association opened its twenty-third annual convention this morning at the state agricultural college, St. Anthony Park, this city.

J. W. Wheeler of St. Paul, Robert W. Bonynge of Denver, Colo., member of the national monetary commission; Dean A. F. Woods of the Minnesota Agricultural college, and C. G. Schultz, superintendent of public instruction of Minnesota, are down for addresses following the opening exercises and reports by officers.

The convention will continue two days.

MOTORED IN MUD.

Crookston Machines Have Tough Time to Fargo.

Crookston, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The second run of local motorists to Moorhead and Fargo yesterday was a very damp affair. Thirty cars started, five turned back at Shelley when it started to rain hard, and the balance plowed through the mud, reaching Moorhead at 1:30 in the afternoon. The cars were left there, the people returning by rail this morning, and a spoiled automobile tour was never taken in better spirit as the rain was most welcome. No accidents occurred barring the ditching of the press car, but no one was injured. This same car went into the ditch on the first run, and the driver, J. P. Dotson, will hereafter be given a circus badge as it is believed he puts the stunt on as an amusement feature. The crowd will return to Moorhead and Fargo Sunday and make the run home, if the roads dry up in time.

CHARGED WITH PASSING A WORTHLESS CHECK.

L. O. Hooper was arraigned in police court this morning charged by J. A. Hickey of the St. Louis hotel with passing a check for $68, drawn on the Bank of Hamilton of Winnipeg, Man., when he had no funds in that bank. Hooper asked that his hearing be continued until next Wednesday and this was done, the time being set for 10 o'clock in the morning. Bail was fixed at $500.

Hooper has been in the city some time. He claims to have been living in Vancouver, B. C. It is said of him that he owns a share in a Canadian estate, but has been living beyond his income.

"MONOPOLY" LOST JOBS

Steel Corporation Beaten By Independents in Getting Contracts.

Government Suit Brings Out Evidence as to Competitive Business.

New York, June 14.—Testimony in effect that bridge companies which are independent of the United States Steel corporation have been able to obtain bridge and other structural contracts in open competition with the American Bridge company, a United States Steel subsidiary, was given during the continued hearing of the government's suit to dissolve the Steel corporation.

"Something very serious is the matter with our monopoly," was the ironical comment of David Reed, of counsel for the Steel corporation, when he had listened to this testimony, which includes the naming of a number of independent companies which had been successful in getting contracts.

The witness responsible for this testimony was J. V. W. Reynders, who for six years has been vice president of the Pennsylvania Steel company, an independent, and had charge of the bridge department of that company for fifteen years.

Per Cent of Production.

In reply to a question as to what per cent of the whole production was put out by the independent concerns connected with the rolling mills after the American was formed, Mr. Reynders replied that the independents with rolling mill affiliations turned out 10 per cent, the American Bridge company firms 43 per cent, and independents without rolling mills connections, the rest.

Under the questioning by R. V. Lindabury, counsel for the United States Steel corporation, the witness declared that independent bridge companies had been successful in getting contracts in competition with the American Bridge company. One contract secured by an independent, he said, was for constructing the Panama canal locks.

He corroborated a statement made by Mr. Lindabury that the tonnage produced by the independents had about doubled since the information of the American Bridge company. Those independents which have rolling mill connections, he added, experience no difficulty in getting needed supplies. He gave further testimony that independent companies whose names he had recited were prosperous and developing.

At Low Figures.

Regarding competition between his company, the independent Pennsylvania steel and the American Bridge company, Mr. Reynders said conditions under which the Pennsylvania was awarded contracts were sometimes such that the work was taken at "ridiculously low figures." He said that often it was expedient to take contracts under these conditions, however, in order that the company might met overhead charges.

Government counsel announced today that the hearing looking to the dissolution of the United States Steel corporation which was to have been resumed here today, had been adjourned by consent until further notice. It was added that the taking of testimony would probably be resumed on Monday next.

ST. PAUL ELOPERS ARRIVE IN DULUTH

Mr. and Mrs. William McLaughlin Secretly Married in Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. William McLaughlin of St. Paul, who are guests at the Holland hotel, were secretly married in Minneapolis on Wednesday, and their disappearance from their homes in St. Paul caused quite a flurry among their friends. Mr. McLaughlin says that the reason they slipped away quietly was that they feared that the bride's mother, Mrs. W. A. Scott of St. Paul, would have objected to the marriage. Now they find that she not only sanctioned the affair but is bitterly disappointed that she was not present when the ceremony took place.

Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin will spend several days here. Mr. McLaughlin is a son of Attorney P. J. McLaughlin of St. Paul.

ELECTRIC LIGHT MEN ADJOURN

Ryerson of Duluth Elected Chairman of Power Transmission Section.

Seattle, Wash., June 14.—The convention of the National Electric Light association closed yesterday with the election of the following officers:

President, Frank H. Talt, Dayton, Ohio; vice president, Joseph D. McCall, Philadelphia; second vice president, H. H. Scott, New York; treasurer, W. W. Freeman, Brooklyn, N. Y. Charles A. Stone of Boston and R. S. Orr, Pittsburg, were made members of the executive committee. The secretary is appointive, and it is probable that T. Commerford Martin of New York will be named again.

The power transmission section elected the following sectional officers: Chairman, W. H. Ryerson, Duluth, Minn.; first vice chairman, David B. Rushmore, Schenectady; second vice chairman, Paul Lincoln, Pittsburg; secretary, Farley Osgood, Newark, N. J. F. B. H. Paine of Buffalo, N. Y., and P. G. Gossler, New York, were elected to the executive committee.

C. M. Duffy of Milwaukee, who read a paper on public utilities, was awarded the Henry L. Doherty gold medal for the best paper at the convention.

Dissolution of Partnership.

You are hereby notified that the partnership of Mendenhall & Hoopes, composed of Luther Mendenhall and Townsend W. Hoopes, doing business at Duluth, Minnesota, in real estate, loans and insurance, will be dissolved and discontinued by mutual consent on July 1, 1912.

The affairs of the partnership will be settled by Mr. Mendenhall. Mr. Hoopes will continue business in the same line.

Thanking you for past favors, we are
LUTHER MENDENHALL,
TOWNSEND W. HOOPES.

HOT TIME ON ARMY BILL

House Adopts Conference Report Ousting Gen. Wood After Warm Debate.

Mark Hanna and Senator Warren Mentioned in Uncomplimentary Terms.

Washington, D. C., June 14.—Startling charges of an intrigue against Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, begun by the late Senator Marcus A. Hanna and kept alive by his friends, were only a part of a series of sensations which attended the adoption by the house yesterday of the army appropriation bill conference report.

Reference to Senator Warren of Wyoming, whose son-in-law, Brig. Gen. Pershing, would be one of the first officers in line for appointment to Gen. Wood's office if President Taft signs the bill, which carries an amendment to depose the chief of staff; allusions to Maj. Gen. Charles F. Humphrey as the agent of the powder trust, and to Senator Du Pont's connection with the powder business, furnished other incidents in what was perhaps as stormy an afternoon as the house has seen in many a day.

Adopts Anti-Wood Report.

In spite of a fight led by Representatives Prince, Cooper and Martin, the house adopted the report, which had been approved by its conference committee and accepted by the senate, and if President Taft signs the bill, as it is said he will, Gen. Wood will be removed from his office on March 4, 1913, and the retention or disposal of many army posts which the war department has characterized as useless, will be left to a commission.

Representative Prince began the fight against the report by characterizing it as "an insult to the army, the house and the country," and in the debate which followed Representative Cooper said: "I know of no officer who has been so malignantly misrepresented as Gen. Wood. I was told on the very best authority that when Wood was in charge of affairs in Cuba, a certain senator asked him what he proposed to do about Maj. Rathbone, director of posts in Cuba, then involved in the postal frauds.

Threatened By Senator.

"'Senator,' responded Wood. 'I propose to prosecute him.'

"'Do that, Wood,' replied the senator, 'and I will see to it that you never rise higher than captain in the service.'"

"Since that time," continued Mr. Cooper, "that senator and his powerful friends have hounded him."

The interchange which followed brought in the name of Senator Hanna.

Representative Martin of Colorado followed with an attack upon one of the senate conferees and pointed out that among the army posts, which the war department proposed to abolish, but which would now be left to the disposal of a commission, was Fort D. A. Russell, near Cheyenne, Wyo. He also made reference to Brig. Gen. Pershing and his rapid rise in the army.

Attacked Senator Warren.

The general is a son-in-law of Senator Warren of Wyoming, chairman of the senate committee on appropriations, former chairman of the senate military affairs committee, and one of the conferees on the bill.

"Undoubtedly there are gentlemen whose condition would be improved if Gen. Wood were legislated out of office," shouted Mr. Martin. "Men in the army who are sons-in-law of legislators and who have been allowed to jump 700 numbers over the heads of other officers to a brigadier generalship, would have a better chance of promotion if a man of Gen. Wood's type were disqualified."

He referred to Gen. Wood as "the best man in the American army today."

In the names of the commission of retired officers, which would dispose of the posts, was that of Gen. Humphrey, and Mr. Martin demanded to know if the general had advised the house conferees. Chairman Hay of the military affairs committee admitted it was so.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

Activities of Other Municipalities, Which Might or Might Not Be Copied in Duluth.

IN PHILADELPHIA, advocates of the municipal control of shade trees, heretofore regarded as entirely a private prerogative of the home owner, want some action in compliance with the mandatory act of the legislature of May 31, 1907, which provides for the creation of a shade tree commission in all the cities of the state. A meeting was held in the mayor's office on Feb. 23, when various civic organizations urged upon the mayor the sending to councils of a message requesting an appropriation for the care of shade trees and for the planting of others. Mayor Reyburn avoided appointing a commission, but instead, the control of shade trees was delegated by an ordinance of July last to the park commission.

Several times there have been movements of this kind on foot in Duluth—not in the state—but, so far, the control of shade trees in the city by an official body is limited. That body is the park commission, and it has control of shade trees as of everything else in the public parks, and on a few of the streets. However, the number of streets where this control extends are but few in number, and the shade tree question is left to the residence owners with the hope that they will attend to this important matter in order to beautify their holdings and make the city streets and their respective communities more beautiful. This hope has not been held in vain, for the streets of Duluth are becoming less like those of a frontier town, and more like a New England community in this respect.

The park board has planted a great many new trees this spring in parks and along the streets assigned to it.

HONOR MEDALS ARE AWARDED CATHEDRAL HIGH SCHOOL BOYS

Honor medals have been awarded students of the Cathedral high school in connection with graduation exercises this week.

Harry E. Ryan of the graduating class has won the McGolrick medal for Christian doctrine, the contest for which was open to the entire student body. The medal will be presented by Bishop McGolrick. Clarus J. Graves took second honors.

Ryan also won the Fahey medal for the best general scholarship in the senior scientific class, second honors going to Albert Scanlon.

Emil A. Ruf will be awarded the Dacey medal for best work in the commercial class. Edward F. Casey takes second.

The Knights of Columbus medal for best essay on a subject of public interest and open to the entire school was won by Clarus J. Graves. Harry E. Ryan is second.

The Ball medal for best showing in impromptu speaking was won by Harry E. Ryan. Clarus J. Graves will be awarded second place.

The Ancient Order of Hibernian medal for best oration, contest being open to junior and senior classes was won by Albert Scanlon, second place going to Vincent Fitzgerald.

Students receiving honorable mention for work, having attained an average of 90 per cent or better, are John J. Sullivan, Joseph Dillon, George S. Walker, Leslie Sutton, and William J. Fitzgerald of the senior class; Clarus Graves and Vincent J. Fitzgerald of the junior class; Rachael Graves and Paul Corcoran of the sophomore class; Thomas J. Quinn, Vincent K. McKinnon, Joseph Oswald, George T. Murray and Thomas M. Turney of the freshmen class.

BELGIAN ENGINEERS SPEND A FEW HOURS IN DULUTH

A party of eleven prominent Belgian engineers and officials spent a few hours in Duluth yesterday afternoon. They made a careful inspection of the Duluth aerial bridge, looked over the docks in the harbor and took an automobile drive over the boulevard. They were guests of J. H. Darling, assistant government engineer, who invited the party also to take a tour of the harbor, but the invitation was regretfully declined on account of lack of time.

The party consisted of Belgian delegates to the recent navigation congress at Philadelphia. It had been planned to bring a much larger number of the delegates to Duluth, but many who had intended to be at Duluth to inspect the bridge with those who were on hand at the appointed time, became separated from the main party, and were scattered among the lower lake ports, including Chicago.

The delegates are making a tour of the United States, studying what this country has to show in the way of achievements along the line of engineering. The visitors at Duluth left yesterday afternoon for St. Paul, and this morning started from that city for Yellowstone Park.

The visiting party at Duluth included Fr. De Winter, chief engineer and director of the port of Antwerp and professor of the Royal Academy of Fine Arts; Franz Zanen and Henri Vander Vin, chief engineers of roads and bridges of Belgium; Leon Descans, chief engineer of roads and bridges of Antwerp; Edward de Benkelsar, chief director of the ports of Belgium; Auguste Medaets, government bridge contractor of Belgium; A. Albrecht, president of the Antwerp city council, who was accompanied by Mrs. Albrecht; and four assistant engineers.

Mr. De Winter remarked that during the Philadelphia convention, it was found that engineers from all parts of the country, from New York to Texas, and from Texas to San Francisco, were familiar with the details of construction of Duluth's famous aerial bridge.

Mr. Vander Vin declared that tht view from one of the heights of Duluth surpassed anything that could be seen in Switzerland. He did not understand how there could be so many people in the Eastern part of the country who had scarcely ever heard of Duluth.

TAFT TRAVELING FUND ATTACKED

Some Bitter Comments on His Western Trip Are Made in the House.

Washington, June 14.—Charging that President Taft had misused the $25,000 traveling expense fund voted yearly by congress, Chairman Fitzgerald of the house appropriations committee bitterly attacked the president during consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill. He declared the president, on his recent western trip, had mulcted the accompanying newspaper and secret service men, in spite of protests, to bolster his depleted funds.

"It is deplorable," he said, "to have to state these facts to this house and to the country."

Mr. Fitzgerald declared, however, that he would vote for the item, which eventually was adopted 78 to 55. He said facetiously that he believed it would "pay the Democratic party and the country if the president traveled the year round." He then referred directly to the president's Western trip.

Charged Newspaper Men.

"What happened in order to enable him to make this trip?" he demanded. "The cost of a special train to be utilized by the president in this trip was figured out in advance. The prorata cost of each person was figured out and every newspaper man who accompanied that train was requested to pay $1,500 for his expenses. Out of the fund for the suppression of counterfeiting and the protection of the president of the United States, $4,500 was taken to defray the expenses upon the train of three employes of the secret service after the protest of the acting chief of the secret srvice that to do so would create a deficiency in that appropriation."

Former Speaker Cannon, Representative Gillett of Massachusetts and Representative Shirley of Kentucky argued in favor of the item. They held that it was necessary that the president see the country and that the country see the president.

Representative Page of North Carolina, Democrat, who offered the amendment striking out the appropriation, declared the money was being voted in order to enable gaatherings at country fairs to select as "exhibit A" the president of the United States.

QUESTION RECALL OF TRADE COURT

Department of Justice Officials Claim Congress Cannot Drop Judges.

Washington, June 14.—The right of congress to "recall" the judges of the commerce court by legislating to reduce the number of circuit judges by five as contemplated by the senate, presents a fine question of law which may reach the supreme court of the United States, according to officials of the department of justice. A high official of the department declares that congress cannot legislate the five judges out of office, in view of the constitutional provision that federal judges should hold office during good behavior.

In establishing the commerce court, congress increased the number of circuit judges by five and stipulated that that number should periodically be assigned to the commerce court. The right of congress to abolish the court is not questioned, but many officials strongly hold to the view that these five circuit judges, once appointed, cannot be deposed unless the circuit court of appeals, where they serve in addition to their duties on the commerce court, are abandoned.

The line, however, is sharply drawn, many lawyers in congress claiming that these judges were created for the commerce court, and that in abolishing their functions there, the judges likewise are deposed.

Officials of the department of justice point out that in case congress succeeds in abolishing the commerce court, the judges then may continue their duties as circuit judges and sue for their salaries through the court of claims and if necessary appeal to the supreme court, where the intricate problem would be determined.

MODEST MILLIONAIRE

Would Not Disturb Woman Lunatic in His Bathroom.

White Plains, N. Y., June 14.—Too modest to disturb a lady while she was taking her bath, John Miles, millionaire milliner, with an establishment in Fifth avenue, New York city, waited until he could get Dr. William L. Russell, superintendent of Bloomingdale asylum, on a telephone before he would attempt to dislodge from his home Agnes Clowes, an escaped lunatic.

The woman was discovered in the house by Richard Flynn, the Miles chauffeur. Flynn returned from the village shortly after midnight and he says the arrangement of the chairs and the fact that water was trickling from the kitchen tap led him to think that some one was in the place.

He investigated from cellar to garret, but found no one, although he did not enter a hole opening from the main cellar which had been left after repairs to some of the water pipes.

It was in this place that Miss Clowes evidently hid, for in the morning Flynn says he found her shoes, stockings and other wearing apparel near the kitchen door. He then found that the woman was in the bathroom taking a bath. He went for Mr. Miles and they suspected the intruder was Miss Clowes, although none of them would brave the lady's wrath by entering the bathroom or demanding that she come out.

Finally attendants broke in the door, forced the woman to dress and took her back to the asylum.

SNAKE THROWS MAN AND BITES HIM FOUR TIMES.

Pottsville, Pa., June 14.—William Southam of New Ringgold is in a serious condition after a thrilling battle with a blacksnake eleven feet long. Southam has four deep bites on his left arm.

Southam chased a chicken into the tall grass and as he leaned over to pick it up the snake, evidently after the chicken too, sprang at him. The snake coiled around his body and threw him to the ground. He rolled over and over, trying to keep the fangs away from his arms and face.

After a desperate struggle he freed his arms and finally managed to work himself out of the snake's coils.

S.S.S. HEALS SORES AND ULCERS

S. S. S. heals Sores and Ulcers in the very simplest way. It just goes right down into the blood and removes the cause, and the place is bound to heal because the impurities and morbid matters which have been the means of keeping the ulcer open are no longer absorbed from the blood. External applications of salves, lotions, plasters, etc., can never produce a cure because they do not reach the source of the trouble. At best they can only allay pain or reduce inflammation; such treatment is working on symptoms and not reaching the cause. Every nutritive corpuscle in the blood is weakened or infected, they cannot nourish the fibrous tissue around the place, but instead they constantly discharge into the flesh around the sore a quantity of impure, germ-laden matter which gradually eats into the surrounding healthy tissue and causes the ulcer to enlarge. Since impure blood is responsible for Sores and Ulcers, a medicine that can purify the blood is the only hope of a cure. S. S. S. has long been recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers, possessing the qualities necessary to remove every impurity from the blood. While curing the sore or ulcer S. S. S. brings about a healthy condition of the flesh by supplying it with rich, healthy blood, and thus makes the cure permanent and lasting. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free to all who write.

SENSATIONS PROMISED

Mission Leaders Break Silence Regarding the Persecutions in Korea.

Tell of Continuance of Torture of Converts By Japanese.

New York, June 14.—The missionary authorities in this country have at last broken their long silence concerning the persecutions of Korean Christians by the Japanese government. This they have done by making public the correspondence betwen the missionaries in Korea and the Japanese; also the correspondence between the Presbyterian mission board of New York city and the Japanese embassy in Washington. The board itself has not got to the point of leading in an aggressive fight against the Japanese government's course, although it seems to have despaired of securing a remedy for the extraordinary evils by an appeal to official sources. Now that the facts have come out, however, with the vise of the mission board most interested, the laymen and the ministers of the country will doubtless see to it that the Christian sentiment of the world is aroused in this matter, even as it was aroused concerning the Congo atrocities.

Many persons have expressed skepticism concerning the statements of Japan's treatment of the Korean Christians. It is known that Korea is loked upon as the most successful mission field of modern times. The growth of Christianity there has been swift and romantic, and seemingly thorough. A new method of missions, involving the self-support of the native churches, has been successfully adopted there, and the missionaries have frequently been spoken of by travelers and government officials as a peculiarly able body of men. With the exception of two or three men in Seoul, the reason for whose pro-Japanese proclivities is understood in informed circles, the sentiment of all the missionaries is a unit concerning the charges of persecution against the Christians. Some of the missionaries have sent word in cipher to this country that conditions are getting worse and that they consider themselves in personal danger. Now that the case becomes an authenticated transmission of the charges to the public, through a representative committee of missionaries, endorsed by the Presbyterian board in New York, the charges fall with fullest weight upon the Japanese administration in Korea.

Indictment of Japan.

In a formal complaint made to Governor General Terauchi by a committee of five missionaries, Samuel A. Moffatt, Norman C. Whittemore, O. R. Avison, George S. McCune and C. E. Sharp, it is charged that great numbers of Koreans have been in jail for months without trial, with credible evidence of the torture of these, and that almost the entire number of arrests have been confined to the leaders in Christian churches.

The missionaries say that many of the men arrested, who have been permitted to hold no communication with their families, and who themselves to this day do not know the reason for their arrest, are men of known character and integrity, for whose loyalty the missionaries themselves vouch.

The report among the Koreans is that it must be a sin to be educated and behave one's self, for while the spread of saloons and houses of prostitution is being actively furthered among the Koreans by the Japanese officials and all kinds of criminals are allowed to go unmolested, the most upright men in many communities in North Central Korea are being thrown into prison without warning, trial or appeal. The population has been thrown into a panic by the report that the government means to prove that 100,000 persons were engaged in the alleged plot to assassinate the governor general—a plot concerning which no details have been given out.

Anti-Christian Movement.

If the situation were one of mere internal disturbance or insurrection, the churches in America, no matter how closely affiliated they are with the Koreans, would have no right to complain. But since it appears that a systematic effort is being made to exterminate the Christian leadership of Korea, and that by medieval methods, the laymen in America who have a big financial stake in the Korean missions, as well as a fraternal interest, are rising up to ask questions. It is reported from Korea that all the officials of one Presbyterian church in North Korea were arrested. New officials were elected, and straightway they too were thrown in jail. A third set of leaders inducted into office, and these in turn were carried off to jail for no other reason, apparently, than that they were officials of a Christian church.

The most conspicuous Christian in the country, a man well known all over America, a graduate of Vanderbilt university, and a distinguished speaker at international missionary gatherings, the Hon. Yun Chi Ho, a former cabinet officer has been cast into prison on charges that are not made public. He is a prominent representative of the Southern Methodist church, and the Methodist board at Nashville is handling the matter in its own way looking to the release of Yun Chi Ho.

Inwardness of the Move.

Reports from Korea state that the natives are the more panic-stricken by the persecutions—the missionaries are a unit in fixing the number of Koreans in jail at 6,000—because they cannot be sure of any definite reason for it. They know positively that there is nothing in the charge of conspiracy; therefore, they are hunting for some cause. One common saying is that "Japan wants the country and not the people." Another is that "Japan wants to kill the church." Missionaries have advanced the theory that the gendarmerie are eager to vindicate the need for their presence in the country. The fact that Korea is still under military rule is also given as an explanation for the failure to observe judicial processes and for the high-handed action which is creating criticism even in Japan itself.

There really is a subtler reason than any of these. In the first place, the Christian church has so educated and developed the Koreans that the best Koreans today are the Christians. They are the ones whose Korean identity will be hardest to eliminate. So long as the Christian church persists in Korea there probably will be a body of men who cherish their Korean patriotism. Now, in North Korea, Japan is constructing an elaborate system of military roads and railways. She is making ready for the conflict with Russia that is inevitable, for Japan knows full well that Russia means to come down again and try to avenge her recent defeat. In this contingency, it is highly important that there should not be in North Korea, the probable battle-ground of the war, a body of disaffected people, who might lend aid to the Russians. To eliminate this possibility, Japan is attempting to extirpate the Christian schools and churches. This would explain why the persecutions are so much more severe in the north of Korea than in the south.

Definition of Torture.

Since the first outbreak of protest against the hanging up of Koreans by their thumbs and the burning of them to extort confessions, after the ancient Oriental method, the authorities have promulgated a new definition of torture which says that torture is any treatment that breaks the skin or leaves a mark upon the body. Obviously, there are hundreds of ways whereby a man can be subjected to excruciating agony without his skin being broken, and the stories still continue of the Japanese type of third degree being applied to prisoners in order to extort confessions from them.

As always in the history of such proceedings, the confessions sought have sometimes been secured. One Korean, it is said, testified that missionaries had armed the Koreans with weapons to attack the Japanese. Of course, this statement was worse than useless, for the Japanese have never pretended that the missionaries have been active participants in any seditious movements that might be under way. Nevertheless, the Japanese have annoyed the Americans, even to the point of violating their treaty rights, for in several instances the houses of the missionaries have been entered and their belongings searched in the hope of finding incriminating evidence.

Christian Sentiment.

Now the appeal is being taken by the friends of the missionaries and of Korea in this country, to the court of public sentiment. The foreign mission board itself goes no further than to make public the correspondence which indicts Japan. It also gives out the answer of Governor General Terauchi, which shows that he takes for granted the guilt of those untried suspects, and in which he simply disdains all the careful statements of this body of responsible American missionaries. The mission boards and other careful persons point out that they are not making war upon Japan; they want to believe that the government at Tokio is not responsible for the proceedings in Korea. They think that when the outraged sentiment of the world rises to protest against the inhuman treatment of innocent men on account of their religious beliefs, that the Japanese government itself, which has always stood for tolerance, will put an end to the practices of the military administration in Korea.

Describe the situation as you may, the fact remains that an issue has been joined between the Christian sentiment of America and Europe against governmental action in Korea. The outcome will be watched with keenest interest by all intelligent people, for it is clear that either Japan must prove that the charges are unfounded, or else she must go to extremer measures and drive out the missionaries and the missions. The Korean missionaries themselves say that they would not mind if Japan should drive them away, provided only she would cease to persecute their innocent converts.

JAPANESE PUT UP FINE JOB ON ORDER OF ELKS.

New York, June 14.—Within a radius of ten miles of New York there are approximately 25,000 members of the Order of Elks, who are wondering if their latest purchase of fraternity jewelry consisting of genuine elk teeth, as it has been discovered that the country has been flooded recently with imitations made by skillful Japanese workmen. These bogus teeth have been sold to jewelers who were unable to detect the differenc between the genuine and the fakes.

It has been estimated that thousands of Elks purchased as genuine these clever substitutes, mounted in watch charms and other articles of jewelry. As a result, the big New York jewelers, acting in conjunction with the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, have started a campaign to put a stop to the sale of the worthless charms.

A simple test which has been hit upon that will solve the difficulty is by placing your watch charm in a bath of muriatic acid and heating it for three or four minutes. If the tooth is the real thing, it will not be affected. If it is an imitation it will bleach slightly, and when removed from the acid it will feel as if coated with mucilage.

The imitation teeth sold for $1 to $1.50 each, while the genuine are worth $5 to $25.

PENNSYLVANIA DEMOCRATS HAVE NEW MAN FOR GOVERNOR

Scranton, Pa., June 14. — Joseph O'Brien, who gained such fame in his first plunge into state politics at the Allentown convention that he became the unanimous choice of reorganizers for chairman of the Harrisburg convention, is being put forward by the local leaders as the man for the next Democratic nomination for governor. He has held no office except that of district attorney and then ran only when a petition containing 4,000 names of the leading citizen of the county, irrespective of party, was presented to him.

He introduced sweeping reforms in the conduct of the office and was re-elected by a large majority. After finishing the work he had undertaken, he resigned the office to the assitsant district attorney and returned to his law practice.

Northeastern Pennsylvania hasn't had a gubernatorial candidate since Hoyt's time, although Fermer Lieutenant Governor Louis A. Watres and other leading Republicans have tried often and energetically for the nomination.

DOCTOR BLAMES FALSE HAIR FOR MANY DISEASES.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 14.—Health Officer Friedrich's idea of wasting time is to talk health, hygiene and sanitation to the modern woman, who insists on primping up with false hair, switches, rats and such beauty helps. "If you would be germ proof discard the false fixings," is Friedrich's advice.

The modern woman, according to Friedrich, shouts her lungs out calling for better sanitary conditions. "It is sanitation in the home, sanitation at the shops, stores and even in church," said Friedrich "but all this sanitation is cast aside for one strand of false hair."

The hair, according to Friedrich, is more dangerous than most of the things which the modern woman deplores as unsanitary. "In some states they are gathering data to show the number of contagious disease cases which can be traced directly to false hair," he said. "It will be interesting to read these figures when the investigations are completed."

Friedrich would abolish false hair wearing for two reasons: First, because it is unclean, and, second, because it is disgusting—to his mind.

LOUISIANA MELONS HERE

A New Arrival on the Duluth Market—Cantaloupes From California.

Green Peas Coming From Indiana and Cauliflowers From Missouri.

The advance of the spring season has been bringing quite a number of new products from Southern gardens upon the produce markets of Duluth. Fruits and vegetables are increasing in number, and though there are some increases in price from time to time, the general tendency of the cost to the consumer is clearly downward.

Watermelons are here from Louisiana. The wholesale price is 35 cents apiece. Of course the price is very high, but watermelons, like most other fruits, will undoubtedly cheapen as the summer approaches.

Cantaloupes are coming from California, the initial wholesale price being $5.50 per crate.

Cauliflowers are here from Missouri, and are bringing a wholesale price of $2 a bushel. Green peas from Indiana have been placed on the market at $2.50 a bushel wholesale.

All of the new fruits and vegetables are of fine quality, but are still too expensive to be within the reach of families of average means.

Strawberries are higher than a week ago. The Missouri berries, which a week ago were on the Duluth market at $2.50 for a twenty-four crate, are now no longer to be had. Their place has been taken by Western berries, largely from the Seattle district, which are bringing $3.50 for a crate of the same size. It is a little too early for the Wisconsin berries to be arriving, but when they do come, they will probably be cheaper than any strawberries that have yet been on the Duluth market this season.

Pineapples are higher. Those that were on the Duluth market last week were the Cubans, which were selling at $2.75 a crate. The Cuban crop has been exhausted, and Duluth is now receiving the Florida pineapples. These are much better in quality and are more expensive, bringing $3.15 a crate.

Oranges are advancing. The crop of California navels will soon be exhausted. Next month the California valencias will arrive. These are finer oranges than the navels and will bring a higher price. At wholesale at Duluth they will command about $4.25 to $4.50 a crate.

Apples are becoming scarce. Those who still have them in store keep adding the expense of keeping them to the price. Fancy Ben Davis apples, which a week ago were bringing $4.75 a barrel are now selling at $5 a barrel. Willow Twigs have risen from $5.75 to $7 a barrel. It is probable that the time is not far off when apples will be entirely gone.

Something has boosted the price of the Roseland cabbage. A week ago the wholesale price was $3.25 a crate, but now it is $3.75.

Many of the green vegetables have been cheapening with the approach of summer. Minnesota radishes since a week ago have dropped from 25 to 30 cents a dozen bunches; Minnesota rhubarb from 90 to 75 cents for a 50-pound box, Florida new potatoes from $2.10 to $2 a bushel; Texas Bermuda onions from $1.60 to $1.50 a bushel crate and Crystal Wax onions from $1.75 to $1.60 a bushel crate.

Irish potatoes still hold their remarkably high price of $1.10 a bushel.

Butter has been very steady. The best creamery in prints brings the same wholesale price it did a week ago, 28 cents. The Eastern demand for butter is very keen and that keeps up the price, in spite of good rains and fine pasture lands.

Cheese, which has been very high all spring, by reason of the low stocks left at the close of winter, has been making some very noticeable declines. Twin cheese has dropped from 17½ to 15 cents a pound. Block Swiss from 23 to 22 cents and brick from 17 to 15½ cents. Large quantities are now being turned out by cheese factories in all parts of the country and stored for next winter's consumption.

Although the stock of frozen chickens is practically sold and consumed, fresh supplies from the country have been coming in at such a rate as to cause the price to ease off, despite the fact that there is no more stored stock. Fresh dressed spring chickens, which a week ago were bringing 17 and 18 cents, now command 16 cents. Live hens and spring chickens have dropped from 16 to 15 cents a pound.

Prices of meats and lard are the same as they were a week ago.

NEW HOMESTEAD LAW RECEIVED

Only Three Years' Residence Now Required on the Land.

A copy of the new homestead law has been received in Duluth, but the local land office has not been given any definite instructions regarding it.

The chief difference between the old and the new law is that in the new law it is prescribed just how many improvements shall be added each year, while under the old law the improvements were not definitely outlined. The time has also been reduced from five to three years.

It is now required that the entryman cultivate one-sixteenth of his entire area, beginning the second year of the entry. Not less than one-third shall be under cultivation at the beginning of the third year.

No certificates will now be given until three years from the date of the entry. The entryman is now granted five months leave of absence each year from his land, after he has established residence upon it.

If the entryman dies before he has lived on the land three years, his heirs must prove that he lived up to all the requirements under the law after filing. They are relieved from further residence upon the land.

If for sickness or other unavoidable cause the entryman cannot establish residence upon the land, the commissioner of the general land office may in his discretion allow the settler twelve months from date of filing in which to establish residence.

The new law was approved June 6, 1912.

Girls Give Grafts for Boy.

Walla Walla, Wash., June 7.—Fifteen schoolmates of Lester Hanson, burned in a fire recently, contributed strips of skin to replace that burned off. Five girls were among the contributors. One of them started to whistle "The Mocking Bird" while the operation was going on, but the whistle ended in a shriek.

WHO WILL PAY FOR GRADING?

Matter of Improving New Duluth Road in Abeyance.

Property Owners Want General Fund to Pay the Bill.

Mayor J. A. McCuen said today that he will, within the next few days, take steps toward having the road from Seventy-first avenue west to New Duluth graded at once. The matter has been hanging fire for some time, and this delay, in connection with the problems of briges, fills, etc., along the route has kept the street railway company from beginning the work of extending its line to New Duluth from its present terminus at Seventy-first avenue.

One thing which has had most to do with the delay of grading the road, the mayor says, is the peculiar attitude of property owners along the route. They ask that the road be graded, but are unwilling to be assessed for the improvement. They express the belief that the expense should be met by the general fund of the city and not be taxed against the property benefited. They claim, it is said, that the prospect of having their property used for residences or any other use is quite remote and they fail to see where they will derive a benefit for a long time.

On the other hand, the mayor and other city officers can see an increased value on the real estate bordering the graded road, and especially after the street railway will be running along there. The mayor said today that it can be a matter of only a short time until such property will be in demand for improvement and as the property and not the city as a whole will receive the direct benefit he cannot see why the usual procedure of taxing up the road improvement to the adjacent property should be passed over in this case.

All street improvements within the confines of the city are taxed up to the adjoining property, and the mayor says it will be done in this case. Some definite action will be taken very soon, he declares.

LIMIT ON CIVIL SERVICE KILLED

Senate Substitutes Provision for Efficiency Examinations.

Washington, June 14.—The senate has rejected a house provision in the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill to limit the tenure of office under civil service appointment in the District of Columbia to five years. After defeating another plan to fix a ten-year tenure, the bill was amended to provide for a system of examinations to maintain efficiency in office.

CALIFORNIANS SCORE NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

Gallup, N. M., June 14.—Declaring the seating of two Taft delegates from the Fourth California district by the Republican national committee was a deliberate assault upon the whole system of direct political primaries, members of the California state delegation en route to the Republican national convention at Chicago gave further vent to their indignation by adopting resolutions calling upon the delegates of other states to join them in a national protest.

The issue, the resolutions aver, is simply whether the party shall be ruled by its members or by fifty-three hold-over members of the national committee, a large number of whom have already been repudiated by the states which they profess to represent.

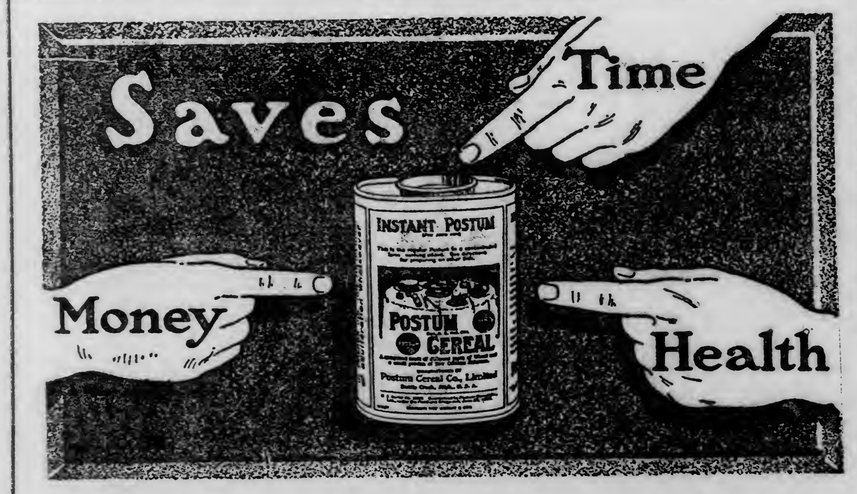

WILL BECOME FAMOUS FOR ITS GOLD ORES.

Miles H. McGuire, president of the Koochiching-Vermilion company in Northern Minnesota, is in the city.

Mr. McGuire has just returned from the Vermilion range, where he has been looking over the company's property near Tower. In speaking of the gold discovery recently made by this company near Northome, Mr. McGuire says the diamond drill is still at work on their property there and will continue to prove up the tonnage of this gold bearing formation. Mr. McGuire is confident that Northern Minnesota will become as famous in gold mining within a few years as it is in iron at the present time.

Parboiled Man Lived Years.

Pottsville, Pa., June 14.—Injuries of unique character, sustained by Z. T. Becker twenty years ago, brought his death after great suffering. He was seated by a steam radiator, when it exploded, and Becker's flesh in many parts of his body was reduced to a parboiled condition. Wonderful will power has kept him alive all these years.

the newest food drink is made by stirring a teaspoonful (direct from tin) in hot water, then adding sugar and cream to taste.

No boiling necessary.

Instant Postum saves money, time and trouble. It tastes like those delicious, mild Javas that one used to buy when Java coffee really came from Java, and it costs less.

A 100-cup tin of Instant Postum costs 50c at grocers—½c per cup.
(Smaller tin 30c).
Regular Postum, Lge. Pkg. (must be boiled 15 min.) 25c.
Coffee averages about double that cost.

WHILE FAMILY BURIES CHILD, BURGLARS WORK.

San Francisco, Cal., June 14.—The meanest burglary on record was reported lately to the park police station. It happened at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Stelling while the family was attending the funeral of a child, one of the family.

When the undertaker returned to the house after the funeral for the purpose of taking back some of his paraphernalia he found the house had been entered, the burglars having climbed up the stand pipe and broken a window on the upper story to effect an entrance.

A diamond ring and several less valuable articles were taken.

DRIVES A MOTOR CAR AT 100.

H. L. Grey of Kansas Believed to Be Oldest Motorist.

Wichita, Kan., June 14. — Kansas claims to have the oldest actual driver of a motor car. He is H. L. Grey of Wichita. Mr. Grey is just past 100 years and drives his car regularly about town and out into the country.

Mr. Grey has spent his life as a horse dealer and trainer of drivers and saddlers. Last week he bought a motor car and began taking lessons in driving his own car. Now he is to be seen every day buzzing about the streets with the little car and enjoying himself hugely. He said the other day he had more fun driving a motor car than in driving his own horses.

"SEE AMERICA FIRST"

Vacations in Glacier National Park

Season June 15th to October 15th, 1912

¶ "Here is where God sat when He made America!" Towering away up through the clouds rise mountains of unrivalled grandeur and beauty, capped with glinting snow—vast glaciers, hanging on their sides, grind slowly through the centuries—from ice-fed beginnings trout-laden streams and torrents laugh and skip singing on their tortuous ways, now crashing in thunder over giant cliffs, now murmuring between flower and forest-covered banks—countless lakes, high in mountain pockets, gleam blue and silver clear as crystal—over 1,500 square miles of the most tremendous scenery to be found anywhere in the world, now for the first time, made truly accessible to the tourist!

¶ At convenient scenic points in the park are eight chalet camps built on the Swiss chalet style. Guides and horses, roads and trails have made possible delightful tours of from one to ten days and more at a cost of $1 to $5 per day.

FOR UNIFORM DIVORCE LAW

National Federation of Women's Clubs to Make the Demand.

Subject to Be Main Topic at the California Convention.

San Francisco, Cal., June 14.—The national Federation of Women's Clubs, which will meet here during the third week of June, will undertake a vigorous campaign for a national marriage and divorce law. Backed by the power of the federation's 800,000 members, some of them voters, the club-women will go before the law-making bodies and press the passage of the law. If they should succeed, it would be a tremendous triumph for women. Men have been trying to have such a law passed for years, and as far as they got is to secure the reference of the subject to the commissioners on uniform state laws appointed by the state governors in convention.

Club women who have gone over the ground carefully say that they believe the interest awakened the country over will spur the legislatures of the different states to take action in regulating marriage as well as divorce. They declare that the need of a uniform law is apparent.

Mrs. Philip N. Moore, president of the national federation, said recently in presenting the subject, that before getting a divorce most persons had to lay bare many secrets to the judge, whereas in contracting marriage men and women were at liberty to walk to the altar without telling anybody anything about their health, morals, habits of life, or financial standing.

Demands for Remedy.

The reason, she said, that the executive board of the national federation had come out in the open and passed a resolution favoring a uniform divorce law was the number of communications received by the board from club women all over the United States, asking whether something could not be done to remedy the divorce evils in this, that, and another state.

Then, in order to round up the state federation of women's clubs and get them to consider the matter thoroughly and to spread the propaganda among all the women's clubs connected with each state organization, the resolution was submitted to the executive committee of every state federation.

This has been going on for nearly two years and it is the result of this matured deliberation that will be presented by the delegates from women's clubs in every state and territory of this country at the June biennial.

Prominent in the debates of the question will be New York delegates, who for some years have been active in promoting this issue. New York club women are a little proud of the fact that some of them have consistently qualified as workers in a movement as important, perhaps, as any yet indorsed by club women. A recent talk with some of the leaders shows that a regularly planned campaign has been in progress for some time to help along the movement. It also shows that New York women have led in enthusiasm.

Discussed for Years.

"There hasn't been a great deal of noise made, but the thing has been talked up and looked at from many points of view for perhaps three years," declared Mrs. Clarence Burns.

"More than three years ago, when I was chairman of the child labor committee, Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker asked me to take her place temporarily as chairman of their legislative committee, and I remeber that on one occasion I recommended we have a uniform divorce law and that club women work for it.

"Probably the suggestion had been made before, but up to that time women's clubs had not discussed to any extent the advisability of a uniform marriage and divorce law, nor except in a few cases had they shown any particular desire for the establishment of such a law.

"You can imagine, therefore, the change it is to have 800,000 women back of such a movement—800,000 women ready to start out to get something done to have a law of this kind made a federal law finally. Why, their influence can't be overestimated. Dr. Wiley, you know, gives to the National Federation of Women most of the credit for the pure-food bill.

Each State Must Act.

"As the question stands today, there are all sorts of ramifications. Of course, while a uniform divorce or marriage law will have to be a federal law eventually, at first it will have to be acted upon by the states individually. As it is now, in one state a man having been divorced may not marry again. Yet he can be married in some other state. Complications of all sorts in regard to property, some of them affecting the children's interests and creating social complications, have been the result, and have become so insistently prejudicial to home life that women all over the country have asked to have something done."

"What, in your opinion, would be the best uniform divorce law?" Mrs. Burns was asked.

"That which agrees with the strictest law now enforced in any of the states. In that case, of course, Nevada and some other states would have to make a tremendous change in their system of granting divorces.

"The main thing club women are working for in connection with the uniform marriage and divorce law is the protection of children, and leaving out all other planks we are concentrating on the importance of having candidates for matrimony show a physician's certificate as to fitness. As the marriage law stands now epileptics and the insane even may pair off without protest from anyone."

RENO COLONY ROMANCE

Comes to End When Death of Physician Prevents Wedding.

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 14.—The body of Frank L. Ramos, a well-known Brooklyn physician and formerly an English army surgeon, is on its way home from Sacramento, Cal., and accompanying it is a member of the Reno divorce colony to whom the physician was to have been married next week.

Dr. Ramos got his divorce in Reno four months ago and was waiting for his bride-to-be, who was only freed by the Nevada courts last April.

Dr. Ramos fell in love with her while he was establishing a residence in Reno to procure the divorce from his first wife.

The divorcee Dr. Ramos was to have married is Mrs. Maude Andrews of Ontario. She got her decree in April on charges of non-support, but the illness of Dr. Ramos frustrated the plans for an immediate marriage.

She has since been his faithful nurse, watching at his bedside constantly until he succumbed to acute pneumonia.

RETAILERS UP IN ARMS

Canadian Dealers Blaming the Manufacturers for Short-weight Packages.

Claim This Is Largely Responsible for High Cost of Living.

Toronto, Ont., June 14.—The organized retailers in this section of the country have a way of their own of explaining the lofty cost of living. They blame the manufacturers, whom they accuse of selling shortweight packages, whereby the consumer pays for something that isn't there, but which is contained in other short-weight packages sold to other suffering consumers, and so on. The retailers of Toronto, those more especially who are engaged in the grocery trade, are perfectly sincere in making this complaint, and are so convinced that shortweight packages are actually being sold every day in the cities and towns of Ontario that they purpose going to the government and demanding legislation to prevent the abuse from continuing. It is claimed that unless the retailer happens to detect the difference in weight, there is no protection for the consumer. It is proposed that the government appoint a number of inspectors who shall divide the factories up among them and begin a system of careful inspection so that no shortweight packages will be allowed to reach the market.

The government will also be asked to correct a number of other so-called abuses which, the retailers say, go toward putting up and keeping up the cost of living. They say that householders are being fooled by the retailing of goods by manufacturers and the selling of inferior goods from door to door at prices slightly under those charged for the best grades in the retail stores. The goods peddled, say the retailers, are of second or even third rate quality and are accordingly far from being bargains, so that both the consumer and the retailers are the losers, the former in getting poor stuff under the guise of a bargain, and the retailer in having legitimate trade taken away from him. Another complaint is made against the sale of eatables on the premium plan, and still another against the existence of the co-operative store. The retailers, of course, are out to protect themselves, but they promise to make out a case to show that their cause and the interest of the consumer are one. Some of the troubles of the grocers are also being experienced and discussed by the retail dry goods men. Other sections of the retailers' association may yet be heard from.

One Who Met the Ax.

A recent meeting between the neck of Robert Holmes and the official ax is giving politicians and officeholders in Toronto and nearby towns, much food for thought. Political friends of Mr. Holmes assert that it was a mean thing to do and stamps the federal government as a collection of cold-blooded individuals. Those, however, who are not among the political friends of Mr. Holmes, go about wreathed in smiles, and they make cryptic observations on the subject of poetic justice. Behind these smiles and the observations aforesaid, there lies a bit of history.

Robert Holmes used to be a Liberal member for the Ontario riding of West Huron in the Dominion parliament. He was known there as Bob Holmes, a man who stuck with unfailing regularity to the narrow path and didn't care who knew it. There is a legend that he was personally responsible for the first or second abolition of the commons bar, that he went down to the oasis preceded by the sergeant-at-arms, and caused a drouth from which many statesmen suffered untold hardships. However, and be that as it may, Holmes was beaten in the election of 1904 and became eligible for an office of emolument under the crown. There had been, up to that year, a more or less well observed rule in favor of the appointment of local men to available jobs. Toronto was then, as now, very Tory. They brought down Robert Holmes from Clinton, in Huron, and gave him an office in the Toronto custom house. He was appointed a preventive officer and given the duties and salary of acting surveyor. He was still in this office when the change of government happened. Now he is no longer acting surveyor. The official explanation is that he never qualified for the position as required by law, whereas one J. R. McCaffrey, chief clerk of the custom house, had.

The happiness noted among the friends of Mr. McCaffrey and other good Conservatives is in proportion to the wail that went up when Mr. Holmes arrived from the village of Clinton. Great uneasiness prevails among other Liberal appointees who, like Mr. Holmes, did not, as it is alleged, qualify by examination for the offices bestowed upon them. It is said that the ax may swing again.

Workmen's Compensation Act.

Sir William R. Meredith, who is gathering material for a new workmen's compensation act, under a commission from the Ontario government, has received a list of recommendations from the larger bodies. First of all, the labor-men want the new act to benefit all workmen, whether employed by industrial concerns or by administrative bodies. They want the act to provide compensation for all injuries arising out of employment, including injuries due to special occupations. They want the whole cost of the compensation to fall upon the employers and they suggest that in case of death, those dependent upon the employe shall be the beneficiaries. They ask that there be no such thing as negligence on the part of the workmen or their followers. As part of the compensation plan, they favor the system of state insurance, with three commissioners, under a provincial department of insurence. This would involve the compulsory insurance of employers by a tax levied upon each industry, based upon the yearly wage roll, and division of this tax by lowering wages, etc., to be regarded and treated as a misdemanor, as in the state of Washington. The basis of payment found in the British law is favored by the labor-men for the coming Ontario law, with such increases as will meet the extra cost of labor in this county. Sir William Meredith will hear more representations before making his report to the government.

Dealing in Furs.

The Ontario government, although few people know it, is a fur-trading organization. That is not its main source of revenue, but it is one of the sources. Up in Algonquin park, the big provisional park and forest and game reserve there are all sorts of fur-bearing animals known to this part of the world. They are, for the most part allowed to increase and multiply undisturbed. Now and then, however, the government allows the capture of a few beaver, otter, etc., and the skins are sold for the general benefit of the province. One of these sales has just taken place bringing in the sum of $5,554.05. There were beaver, mink, marten, muskrat, otter and ermine skins, not to mention a quantity of sactoreum, a beaver secretion used in the preporation of perfumes and medicines. The province has also sold some live beaver to zoological societies in New York, Philadelphia and London.

Open Air School.

Toronto has for the first time a school in the open air. It is in reality a class and it is intended chiefly to benefit children who are physically delicate. The school will be conducted for three months at a cost to the city of $1,000. That does not include the use of the grounds, transportation and food. The use of Victoria park, a beautiful lakeshore property, has been given free by the owner, and food and milk have been guaranteed by a Toronto newspaper. Fifty or sixty children will be put on a scientific diet, including morning lunch, dinner, afternoon lunch and tea.

Few callings are more highly esteemed than that of the trained nurse. Miss Ellen Emerson, the granddaughter of Ralph Waldo Emerson, is a nurse in the Massachusetts general hospital at Boston.

YOU CAN HAVE STRONG NERVES

If You Will Make the Effort—in This, As In Other Things, Nature Helps Those Who Help Themselves.

Nervousness is unnecessary in a vast majority of cases.

If you are a nervous sufferer and are willing to help yourself there is no reason to become discouraged.

Good, pure blood, fresh air, nourishing food and a fair observance of the laws of health are all that you need to restore the strength and health of your nerves. Live up to these conditions and the nerves, brain, stomach, kidneys, heart and liver will keep in perfect working order. It is not new nerve tissue that is needed, but plenty of nourishment. Anything that you can do to build up your general health will strengthen your nerves. You will find Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People the greatest help. Free from any harmful or habit-forming drug, they start to work at once cleansing and enriching the blood, strengthening the stomach and carrying nourishment to every nerve, tissue and tiny cell throughout the body. Why not choose health now by giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a thorough trial?

Mrs. L. C. Jenks, whose address is Box 49, R. F. D. No. 2, Banks, Ore., is enthusiastic in her praise of this remedy. She says: "I was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People of nervous trouble brought on by overwork and worry. For several years I had been sick and was completely discouraged. I had severe headaches and such a pressure on the brain that I couldn't sleep and I thought it would make me insane. My appetite failed and my food did not digest properly. I had a very bad cough at one time and would often have to go to bed for three or four days.

"I doctored with several physicians and although they helped me at times, I grew gradually worse. I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and began to get better after I had taken them only a short time. I took several boxes of the pills and never felt so well in my life as I do now. My husband is also a great believer in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as he finds that they give prompt relief in bilious attacks. We recommend Dr. Williams Pink Pills to all who suffer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People have cured nervous debility or neurasthenia, nervous headaches, nervous dyspepsia, sciatica, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance and have given lasting benefit in partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia. Write for the free booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System." It gives an interesting explanation of the treatment of nervous troubles with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and gives a number of actual cases which were cured by the pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

NO matter what its size, how constructed or where located—you can make your house a home (warm in winter and cool in summer), by having the walls and attic floor lined with Linofelt.

To make a house a home, an abode of affection, peace and rest, to make it a congenial abiding place, requires absolute protection against the elements; and, to make it genuinely comfortable it is important that the walls or ceiling of the structure be properly sheathed with Linofelt.

Linofelt is the only substance that will keep every room uniformly comfortable—the only substance that will successfully keep the heat in, when the outside temperature hovers around the zero mark; and keep the heat out when a 90-degree-in-the-shade temperature outside forces everybody to seek a cool retreat.

LINOFELT

used in the walls of your house like building paper will not only save 40 % of your coal bill every winter but it will also keep it cool and inviting in summer. In other words, it will make your house a home in every sense of the word—every month in the year.

The ¼-inch flax fibres of Linofelt positively resist the passage of heat and cold more effectively than any other known substance; more effectively in fact than 38 separate thicknesses of building paper, even if it were possible or practicable to make use of that many thicknesses in ordinary construction work.

When you build or remodel your home this summer, remember what Linofelt will contribute to your own and your family's comfort; remember the saving in coal bills it will insure—then call up our local agent and discuss the matter with him.

Or, better still, send for your copy of the Linofelt booklet of facts and proofs now while you think of it. Post yourself regarding the uses and cost of Linofelt, and let us help you make your house a real home—in comfort, satisfaction and fuel economy—before cold weather sets in.

OPPOSE ANY RAISE IN LIMIT

See-Eye League Must Get Under the $1,400 Mark.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 14.—Grand Forks will oppose any increase in the salary limit for the Central International league if the proposition of making such increase is submitted to the clubs. The local organization is well satisfied with the plan originally mapped out, that of maintaining a salary limit of $1,400 with twelve men, including the playing manager, eligible. Superior, too, it is understood, will oppose any increase in the limit. Both Duluth and Winnipeg, it is understood, favor the advance.

Tomorrow is the date fixed by the league constitution for the cuts to the limit in the number of men. Both Grand Forks and Duluth teams, now in Grand Forks, will be obliged to drop several men at that time, but just who will go has not been given out by either Darby O'Brien of the Duluth club or Frank Lohr of the Grand Forks club.

Even this week O'Brien has taken on two men, Sam Briggs, formerly with Superior, and Stark, a pitcher coming from Cleveland, joining him in Grand Forks yesterday. Sam Meniece, the right-fielder who was out of the game several days on account of an injury, will probably be back in the field today.

Grand Forks, at the present time, has fourteen men on the payroll, including five pitchers, four fielders, a change-off catcher and the regular infield. This number includes Playing Manager Lohr, who expects, within a short time, to go back into the game, being required to play under the league laws. Just who will go is uncertain.

Both O'Brien and Lohr, it is understood, have a chance to place several men, in that manner being able to get them back later on if necessary. Duluthians who go under the pruning process probably will be placed in the Minny league, while there are several semi-profesh teams in North Dakota that are anxious to get some men from Grand Forks just now.

There has been a great deal of discussion in Grand Forks over the game of Wednesday when the locals defeated Duluth, 5 to 4. It is generally recognized that the play of the locals, resulting in the final calling of the game before the end of the inning, thus preventing Duluth from counting the seven tallies that were chased across the plate in the first half of the inning, was in conformity with the "win the game" idea. Umpire Hall's failure to take a firm hold of the situation was really responsible for the trouble. From the viewpoint of the players it was merely a trick of the game.

Darby O'Brien has entered a protest, basing his claim for having the game thrown out on the plea that the umpire didn't call the game, and that he should have compelled the locals to "play the game."

The protest brings the matter before the league board of directors, which is constituted of representatives from each of the four clubs in the league.

Rain prevented the game yesterday, but the series will be resumed this evening, with possibilities of a double header Saturday.

GOLDEN FLOOD MAY BE PROBLEM

Altogether Too Much Subscribed for the Titanic's Survivors.

London, June 14.—As generally happens in this country, not too little, but too much money has been subscribed by the public for the relief of the sufferers by the Titanic disaster. The lord mayor's fund now amounts to more than $1,300,000, which is a lot more than is needed, but still subscriptions keep pouring in, and it has just been announced that the big surplus that is likely to remain after all the victims of the recent disaster have been helped will be placed in the hands of the public trustee, and will be available in future emergencies of the same kind.

This will mean still another addition to the colossal sum of money which is lying, ownerless, in this country. In the vaults of the Bank of England alone is over $5,000,000, whose owners are unknown and which is doing nobody any good. This represents unclaimed dividends on debtors' estates, trustees in bankruptcy having been compelled some years ago to pay into the bank such sums as had been in their hands for six months. A wonderful stream of gold forthwith began to trickle into the coffers of the old Lady of Threadneedle street and, ultimately, amounted to the sum mentioned above.

What the cash in the hands of ordinary trustees in the country amounts to can only be guessed at, but it must be a staggering figure. Solicitors alone hold an enormous amount for which they cannot find owners. Coroners, magistrates and police court missionaries also are in possession of money to which nobody lays claim. A typical example is furnished by a recent pathetic case which was reported in the newspapers. Donations for the relief of its heroine—a woman—were sent from all parts of the country to the magistrate before whom her case had come, the total amount thus forwarded—much of it anonymously—being more than $400. After $115 had been paid to the woman, she died, leaving no known relatives and the balance is still held by the magistrate.

It is the almost invariable rule for big public relief funds—like the Titanic one—in this country to be oversubscribed and, as a result, huge surpluses are still in the hands of trustees, who don't know what to do with them. For the relief of sufferers through the disaster at Hartley colliery in 1862, for instance, over $436,000 was subscribed. This was so much in excess of requirements that $100,000 was at once set aside for the benefit of those who should be bereaved by other accidents in coal mines. Since then, all claims on the funds have been met, but when the last report was made, there still was an unwanted balance of $120,000.

Another fund, much oversubscribed was that in connection with the disaster at the Oaks Pit near Barnsley in 1866, the surplus now in the hands of the trustees amounting to $110,000. There was, again, more than enough money for sufferers by the Llanerch colliery explosion in 1890, and for the women and children of the men killed at Abercorn. A few years ago, the trustees of the two funds had nearly $250,000 more than they wanted.

Sometimes money remains in the hands of trustees long after all the people for whom it was subscribed are dead. A case of this kind was the Newbury Explosion Relief fund, the final balance of which is $350. It seems surprising that such surpluses exist, and the reason of it is, that, as a rule, the amount subscribed is capitalized and invested only paid for the relief of the widows and orphans. The subscribers generally have no idea of this, but it is so, nevertheless.

DR. SHAW TO GRADUATES.

Editor Addresses 606 Members of Minnesota U 1912 Class.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 14.—Dr. Albert Shaw, editor of the Review of Reviews, delivered the commencement address at the University of Minnesota yesterday. He made a strong plea for the adoption of the new educational ideals to the higher institutions of learning, with emphasis upon the need of turning all universities into full inocramles, and upon the need of paying increased attention to the making of good business men, farmers, statesmen and workers on all the lines of endeavor out of college students.

It was the fortieth annual commencement of the university and the first under the presidency of George E. Vincent. The class numbered about 600.

WANTS DAMAGES FOR FLOODING OF PROPERTY.

Claiming that the natural drain of adjoining lots had been diverted so as to cause a flooding of his property, William McEachen has brought suit in district court against Joseph Oreckowsky to recover $2,000 damages.

The McEachen property consists of a house and lot on the northeast corner of Lake avenue and Fifth street. The property abutting to the north is owned by Oreckovsky.

McEachen claims that the buildings erected by Oreckovsky interfered with the natural drainage of the land and caused the cellar of the McEachen home to be flooded, the cement walls to be damaged and converted a portion of his lot into a mud hole.

UNCLE SAM, NOT MORGAN

Money That Helped Wall Street in 1907 Furnished By Government.

Denial of Popular Belief Made at Money Trust Hearing.

New York, June 14.—Evidence intended to show that the $25,000,000 which J. P. Morgan has been generally credited with placing upon the New York stock exchange during the panic of 1907, was really supplied by the treasury of the United States, was introduced at the hearing of the Pujo committee of the house of representatives that is investigating the so-called money trust.

Samuel Untermeyer council for the committee, obtained from George B. Cortelyou, secretary of the treasury under the Roosevelt administration, the assertion that he "understood" that the money loaned by the government to the banks at that time was to be used on the stock exchange.

Deposited Nearly $29,000,000.

From the New York subtreasury, the attorney secured a statement showing that on the day, Oct. 24, on which Mr. Morgan told E. H. Thomas, president of the exchange, to announce the $25,000,000 loan to the exchange loan brokers, the government had deposited with the banks nearly $29,000,000.

From Charles Steel, a partner of J. P. Morgan, he obtained a statement showing that fourteen banks had "agreed to loan" the stock exchange on that day.

The total amount "agreed to" was $23,550,000, but the amount actually loaned, according to the statement, was $18,945,000. All these banks, the sub-treasury statement showed, had previously received deposits of government money.

Total Deposits $42,000,000.

The statement from the sub-treasury was obtained after Mr. Untermeyer had failed to procure from Mr. Cortelyou the names of the banks in which he deposited government funds which the witness testified amounted to about $42,000,000 during the panic. Mr. Cortelyou could not recall specifically what banks received money.

Mr. Untermeyer was trying to bring out that some of the so-called Morgan banks received deposits. The list furnished by Mr. Steele included the First National, the National City, the Hanover National, the National Bank of Commerce and several others which Mr. Untermeyer noted as having Morgan affiliations.

Read Comparisons.

The attorney read into the record from the two lists comparisons showing that on Oct. 24 the First National had received $9,250,000 in government deposits, had "agreed to loan" on the stock exchange $4,000,000, and had actually loaned $2,630,000. He made similar comparisons for other banks. Mr. Cortelyou said that he had not been aware that the banks "under Mr. Morgan's guidance had loaned money on the stock exchange in proportion to the amounts deposited by the government," but Mr. Steele testified that Morgan brokers had been sent to the exchange to announce that money was available and to say at what banks loans could be secured. Mr. Morgan, Mr. Cortelyou conceded, "was the leader of the movement."

After hearing the testimony of witnesses in regard to the practices of the New York stock exchange which Mr. Untermeyer characterized as "contrary to the law of the land," the hearing was adjourned sine die.

Chairman Pujo announced that future hearings will be held in Washington.

DEMOCRACY'S PRINCIPLES

legislature's guest in a short, neat, witty and eloquent speech.

Mr. Bryan said in part:

"My attitude here is almost presumptuous. I hold no official position and have held one only during a brief period. I not only come handicapped by this lack of official experience, but by defeat on three different occasions when I have offered my services. I therefore appreciate most highly the honor you have conferred, especially as a majority of your membership is so unfortunate as not to belong to my party. Speaking in Pennsylvania lately, where they have most cordially received me—between elections—I said that I could explain their cordial welcome only by illustrating it with the story of a large man who had a small wife who used to beat him. Asked why he permitted it, he said that it was because it seemed to give her pleasure and it didn't hurt him. Perhaps that's why the Republicans of the Minnesota legislature let me speak to them; or perhaps it is because it is they are so distracted among themselves that they welcome any relief.

"I am in a more favorable position than ever before to talk to them, because there are so many Republicans who like me so much better than some of their own.

"I feel disqualified to make a strong Democratic speech because my feeble invectives pass unnoticed in the presence of others more fiery.

"First, let me say a word on fundamental things. Our nation represents popular government. It is the world's leader in matters of government. It is not true that we have nothing to learn or that we have no defects to remedy. But we have more to lend than to borrow. Yet we shall not promise the greatest advance unless we are openminded and ready to receive instruction from any source.

Democrats and Aristocrats.

"There are two theories of government, just as there are two viewpoints—the democratic and the aristocratic. The only line that can be drawn was drawn by Thomas Jefferson—the line that separates those who are at heart democrats and those who are at heart aristocrats. This is fundamental. Democratic sentiment is much larger than the Democratic party, and I find that consoling, because the Democratic party could not monopolize the democratic spirit, with the party at its present size, without subjecting the country to great danger.

"I have an infallible way to determine whether a man is a democrat or an aristocrat. I tell him the story of Lazarus and Dives, and of how Lazarus ate the crumbs that fell from the table of Dives. If he is a democrat, he says how bad it is that there should be so many who must live by the crumbs that fall from the tables of the more fortunate, and he wants to go right to work to change it. If he is an aristocrat, he will say how lucky it was for Lazarus that there was a Dives to get crumbs from.

"The aristocrat, in official position, believes that he was elected to think for the people. The democrat believes the people should think for themselves, and that he should do their will when he knows it. Aristocrats can be conscientious, and often are. They really think, sometimes, that the people would fare very badly if they didn't have aristocratic representatives to save them from themselves. But I would rather trust the virtue of the people than the virtue of any man selected by the people. That is the theory that is growing in this country and in the world. The right of self-government cost much more than money. It cost the blood of the bravest and best of men. A man who betrays it is far worse than the man who embezzles money. I wouldn't have representatives of the people vote against their consciences; but I would have them remember that the people, too, have consciences. If they cannot conscientiously vote as the people want, then they should be conscientious enough to resign. They should not let conscience hibernate during the campaign and blossom out after election.

Right to Govern Themselves.

"The laws should assure to the people their right to govern themselves and to decide their own public questions. Constitutions should be easier to amend and the Federal constitution is the worst offender of them all in this respect. There is no reason why thirteen states should stop progress. It is no better for a minority to preserve a wrong than for a majority to procure a wrong. I hope the day will come when the people can amend the constitution when changed conditions make change desirable. A majority of the states and a majority of the people should be able to change the constitution and it would have been this way if the fathers of the republic had the confidence in the people that we have now. You should provide that your constitution shall be amended in the easiest possible way. You can dam a stream, but you cannot always keep the water back, no matter how high you build your dam. The higher the dam the greater the pressure, and the greater the devastation when it gives away.

"I congratulate you on getting a high place on the roll of honor in being second among the states to ratify the constitutional amendment providing for the popular election of United States senators, and on the ratification of the income tax. I believe the change will make the United States senate what it was meant to be—the highest legislative body in the world. A United States senatorship will be a reward for fidelity to the people's service."

Mr. Bryan spoke in favor of the state-wide primary and the initiative, referendum and recall. "I believe in the second choice, also," he said, "but not because of any personal experience I have had." (Laughter.)

He advocated, however, adding first and second choices together if no candidate gets a first choice majority, and did not mention the elimination plan which is before the legislature. He favored the closed primary, and said that a party nominee should be selected by the members of his party always.

Initiative More Important.

On the initiative and referendum, he said that the former was much more important. "One advantage of the initiative is that when you have it you don't need it. When you can get along without the legislature you can get along better with it. In other states where they have lobbyists (laughter) the initiative and referendum drive them out of business. Is it not worth while to drive the lobbyist from his place and power, and to make government truly representative? Somebody may ask if the people have a right to make mistakes. Of course they have. They have suffered enough, however, from the mistakes of others. I would be the last to declare that the people cannot make mistakes. (Laughter). But I'd rather be defeated all my life in a democracy than be king by unanimous consent in a monarchy. The people are less likely to make mistakes than those who make money out of making mistakes in public business. You can trust the sense of justice in the heart of the average man. I would rather trust the judgment of the people on any question than trust them to select somebody else to decide that question for them. I believe in anything that brings government closer to the people and makes it more responsive to their will. In passing on these questions, give the benefit of the doubt to the people, and don't be afraid of low ratios. The people can be trusted.

"The recall is less important than the initiative and the referendum, but the time will come when every elected official will be subject to recall, including judges. A judge who would be swerved from his duty by fear of the recall is not fit for the bench. If the recall of judges does nothing else, it will sift out the cowards and leave us the strong. Safeguard it all you please, but do not say that any public official shall be secure against the people's will."

In closing Mr. Bryan spoke again of his defeats for the presidency. "They can deprive me of a place in the hall of fame, but they cannot deprive me of such place in history as I may earn. The question is not what the world does for me, but what I do for the world; and if I can contribute in any way toward handing down better government, I shall be well repaid for all that I have ever done or ever shall do."

AN EXCESS OF CAUTION

by the people this increase in the railroad tax rate.

The fact that the legislature abandons the 1911 attempt to extend the operations of the gross earnings tax so as to reach all railroad receipts does not mean that it will be forgotten. If the gross earnings tax system is not abandoned at the regular session, and the taxation of railroads restored to the ad valorem basis, the plan to tax all railroad receipts will undoubtedly be taken up as a separate proposition.

Constitutionality Upheld.

The legislature knows that the straight taxation of railroad "earnings" as distinguished from railroad receipts from express company stock and other securities is of unquestioned constitutionality, because the supreme court of the United States has passed upon it. The purpose of the legislature is to increase this rate, and it is only because the authors of the house bill, one of whom, Mr. Rines, was one of the authors of the 1911 law, thought it best to reach the desired result by a simple change in the 1911 law making the tax rate 5 per cent instead of 4 per cent, that the mix-up occurred which delayed the passage of the bill several days and made it necessary for the house to act again after it had passed the original bill.

Many of the members are in doubt whether they are doing the right thing in sacrificing the taxes on the large railroad receipts from other than operating sources, but on the whole the amount involved in the increase from 4 per cent to 5 is so much larger than the other, that it may turn out that the action is wise.

The fear that the passage of the bill in its original form would lose to Duluth and other cities the taxes they now get from railroad real estate not used for railroad purposes was entirely unfounded. There was no possible construction of the measure that could have accomplished this result.

If the bill had had that effect, which was an academic question with opinion divided upon it, the result would have been not to take this taxable property away from Duluth and the other communities in which it was situated, but to render unconstitutional the attempt to tax railroad receipts from other than operating sources. Whether this would have made unconstitutional the separate proposal to increase the tax rate from 4 per cent to 5 is another academic question on which opinion is also divided. Assistant Attorney General James, in his formal opinion given to the house, said that unquestionably the two questions would have been divided. The taxation of earnings—or receipts—from other than operating sources might be held unconstitutional while the increase from 4 per cent to 5 would be sustained.

Would Have Met Situation.

Even if there had been this danger, the Cheadle amendment, which specifically excepted from the operation of the measure local real estate not used for railroad purposes, would have met the situation.

And even granting, by a wide stretch of the probabilities, all that was claimed by those who professed to have found a woodchuck in the Rines-Warner bill which would lose the taxes on local real estate not used for railroad purposes, and granting that the enactment of the original bill would have lost these local taxes, still the state at large would have been far ahead of the game. And it should be remembered that under the formal opinion of the attorney general's office, signed by Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith, there was no possibility that this could happen.

The taxes received for state, county and local purposes on railroad real estate in Duluth which is taxable because it is not used for railroad purposes, are about $15,000 a year. There is much such property elsewhere, but a very liberal estimate is $50,000 a year for the whole of it.

To protect the increase from 4 per cent to 5 per cent—not to protect local taxes because they never have been threatened at all—the state is sacrificing the chance to tax the entire earnings of Minnesota railroads from other than operating sources.

In the case of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern alone, this amounts to more than $15,000,000 a year. At a tax rate of 5 per cent, this would be $750,000 a year.

This is what the state loses by abandoning—temporarily, it is to be hoped—the attempt to tax earnings not now reached by the gross earnings tax.

But the increase from 4 per cent to 5 per cent means an increase of $1,000,000 a year in the state's revenues. So perhaps it is as well that the legislature has determined to stand by what it knows to be constitutional, and merely to increase the rate.

And the Rines-Warner resolution, which follows the gross earnings tax bill and which calls on the tax commission to see that all railroad property not used for railroad purposes gets on the tax rolls not only for this and subsequent years but for the years during which it has escaped taxation, is certainly one valuable outcome of the controversy.

And the decision of the legislature to content itself with a straight increase in the rate of 25 per cent does away any possible opposition on constitutional grounds. All they can do is to claim that it is taxing them too much, and in view of the well known facts about that, the probability that they will make any such claim is exceedingly remote.

Employers' Liability.

Senator A. J. Rockne of Zumbrota, chairman of the senate committee appointed at the regular session to investigate the question of employers' liability and working men's compensation, yesterday afternoon announced that the committee will meet at the capitol the first Monday in August for a session of three or four days. The other members of the committee are Senators Boyle of Eveleth, Fosseen of Minneapolis, Schaller of Hastings and G. H. Sullivan of Stillwater.

Because of the confusion following the reception of W. J. Bryan, and the fact that many house members had guests with them, so that it was impossible to keep enough of them together to do any legislative business, it was impossible to get a meeting of the house reapportionment committee yesterday afternoon. The general reapportionment measure, as well as the makeshift bill proposed by Representatives Warner and O'Neill and the Christie bill repealing the seven-senators law, therefore, could not be considered.

The Christie bill, by the way, created a sensation in the house. The seven-senators bill originated in the southern part of the state, and Mr. Christie is from a county in the southern tier. There had been some expectation that a Twin City member might propose the repeal of this law, but none whatever that such a move would come from Southern Minnesota. Mr. Christie's action is rather cheering to those who believe in equal representation, who know that the seven-senators law was merely a device to defeat or delay reapportionment, and who have been tempted to believe that everybody in Southern Minnesota is determined to give Northern Minnesota and popular government the worst of it.

Sessions in both branches yesterday afternoon were perfunctory. The house couldn't recover from the confusion of the Bryan meeting, and the senate put in a little time, without accomplishing anything, on the Murray corrupt practices law.

• • •

The house yesterday afternoon received the corrupt practices act from the elections committee, and placed it on general orders. It will be taken up as soon as the state-wide primary bill is disposed of.

OLD GLORY'S BIRTHDAY.

Today is Old Glory's birthday. The flag that was adopted 135 years ago to symbolize to the world at large the principle of freedom for the people of a nation should be displayed today in every home and on every public building. It is a day set apart for the flag itself. We display it on other occasions, such as Memorial Day, the Fourth of July and whenever there is occasion for marking some event of a patriotic character, but this is the one time when the honor is paid to the flag itself.

This year's anniversary is peculiarly fitting of celebration for it marks the completion of the national banner. The original thirteen stars that beamed from the blue field have gradually been multiplied until today the number is forty-eight, and there is little likelihood that it will be changed again, at least for many years to come. The last two territories have been added to the Union as sovereign commonwealths.

Today is the day of all days in the year to tell the children the story of the flag. To teach them the significance of the stars and of the stripes. To help them understand that the national emblem stands for their country; that men have given their lives to keep it from being violated by alien force, and that it stands the world over for freedom from despotism and tyranny and for protection to every man, woman and child whose home is beneath its folds. They should be shown how the series of changes that have been made in the arrangement and number of the stars have marked the nation's growth and development. And they should have impressed upon their minds the fact that the Star Spangled Banner is their flag.

It is not an idle lesson. Patriotism, like any other creed, is exceedingly difficult of comprehension or development when it must be directed toward some more or less abstract idea. For the child to be told to honor certain portions of the globe as they are defined by lines drawn on a map or chart amounts to little. If it is asked to recognize allegiance to what seems to the growing mind but little more than a mass of earth and stone, which it is told to regard as "my country," the thought and purpose are lost.

But teach the child that the flag stands for the nation, for the home, for the things it sees and realizes and enjoys, and there is something that it can understand and appreciate. And for the older ones the significance of the flag and of the day can perhaps be voiced no more fittingly than in the words of Joseph Rodman Drake:

When Freedom from her mountain-height
Unfurled her standard to the air,
She tore the azure robe of night,
And set the stars of glory there.
She mingled with its gorgeous dyes
The milky baldric of the skies,
And striped its pure, celestial white
With streakings of the morning light.

Flag of the free heart's hope and home!
By angel hands to valor given!
Thy stars have lit the welkin dome,
And all thy hues were born in heaven.
Forever float that standard sheet!
Where breathes the foe but falls before us,
With Freedom's soil beneath our feet
And Freedom's banner streaming o'er us?

Strictly on Water.

The lack of a steam roller at the Prohibition meetings may indicate only the absence of anything to furnish the motive power.

THE BOOSTERS ARE BACK.

The Boosters are back from their three-day tour of the iron range towns, and they report that they had a "bully good time." They report more than that, too, for in the enthusiasm with which they speak of their trip there is evident a belief that they did a good deal more than have a good time. In short, that their time was well spent.

There is no reason why more of these excursions should not be had from time to time, and there is no apparent reason why there should not be return engagements. There is a relation of interdependence between Duluth and the range towns that ought to help bring about close and friendly relations between the people. It is easier to transact business with a man if you know him by name, and cultivation of personal acquaintance is one of the main objects of the Boosters' excursions.

The Boosters are doing good work. May they travel often and prosper. And may the fruits of their travels be closer relations, better understanding, and better feeling all around between Duluth and the people whom the Boosters visit.

A Man of the Hour.

With all this railing at rivals going on in Chicago one can't get away from a hope that some Abe Lincoln will come along and split the rails.

WORK WELL BEGUN.

The work of the present charter commission is practically concluded, but the members have directed the committee that has been gathering data for the preparation of a commission plan of government to be submitted to the people of Duluth, to continue that work and be prepared to report to the new commission when it is appointed. Thus the work already started by the old body will not be allowed to drop in the brief interim, and the benefit of its investigations will pass on to the new men.

Duluth needs the commission form of government. Not as much, perhaps, as some other cities have needed it, for there has been no notorious mismanagement of the city's affairs. But Duluth needs the commission form because it is a growing city, with big and increasing responsibilities, and the best that can be had is none too good.

It needs commission government because commission government means businesslike government, and city government is essentially a business proposition.

It needs commission government because that is the only kind of city government in which the people themselves can keep intimately in touch with municipal affairs and maintain nearly direct control of the conduct of officers and employes of the municipality.

But while the principle is always the same, there are many forms of commission government for cities, and the adoption of a commission charter is a matter for careful comparison of these different forms and of the way the various divisions of labor under that plan have worked out in different places. Therefore the preparatory work of the charter commission's committee in gathering and arranging data on the operation of that form of government in the hundred and sixty-odd cities that already are operating under the plan is of the greatest value in getting ready a commission charter to be presented to the people of Duluth for their consideration.

The members of the charter commission that is about to go out of official service have done well with the plan as far as they have been able to follow the work out. With the recent approval of the state supreme court on the adoption of the commission plan by Minnesota cities, the only serious obstacle to getting the question and a charter before the people has been removed. The work so well begun by the old charter commission should be taken up promptly by the new body, when it is named, and carried to completion as rapidly as is consistent with thoroughness.

How Could They?

Some of the New England cities are celebrating their 200th anniversaries. No wonder they can't exactly comprehend the spirit of the West.

TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE.

We of America take pride in the fact that the highest honors of the land are possible of attainment by the humblest of her sons. We enjoy pointing out that nine of our presidents were farmer boys; that one was the son of a village constable, and that two came from the homes of clergymen. We like to refer to the great wealth that has been secured by men who started life in menial positions, and we seek to prove by their examples that this is the land of opportunity.

We forget, in our admiration of these living proofs of the value of our form of government, the humble lesson that one of our own great writers has sought to teach us. We should read oftener the story of "The Great Stone Face," and try to remember that its teaching is not a simple philosophy to be admired in moments of altruistic sentiment, but an eternal principle, that remains true whether the time be that of restful relaxation, of social or commercial strife or of political imbroglio. We should remember that the likeness of the Great Stone Face was found, not in the great soldier, or the powerful ruler, or the grasping "Gathergold," but in the features of the man who had lived all his life close to the hearts of his neighbors; who made their welfare his concern, and whose value to their lives went unrecognized until they beheld him in the one particular light that would make him stand out in his true relation to them and to the face in the rock.

The man whom the king "delighteth to honor" often is but the creature of a peculiar turn of character or of events that brings him to the royal notice. He who rises into sudden favor with the multitude may do so through the fortunes of war or the deceptive circumstances of peace. A man may be worthy of all the favors royalty has the power to bestow, and yet not come even within the shadow of the throne where his deserving might be noticed. A man may have the virtue, the courage, the strength of character and the devotion to his fellowmen that should command recognition, and yet, through the faultiness of human nature, fail of that honor to which he is entitled both by nature and by personal achievement. Men are wont to regard the victor as the embodiment of good and the vanquished as an evil creature that has met with a just and heaven-ordained retribution.

With all our pride in the opportunities that America offers her people for personal advancement and the accumulation of wealth, we overlook, sometimes, the opportunity for personal development. Duluth has as her guest today one of the most remarkable characters of which our national history can boast. Though working for a score or more of years side by side with elements that have stained many a reputation, he has kept himself so immune from the pitch of political life that scarcely a spot has besmirched even the outer hem of his garments. With a strength of character at which even his opponents have marveled, he has risen to a leadership unique in political history. With a discernment that has puzzled both his followers and his rivals, he has forecasted stages of development in our national life and governmental conceptions, years in advance of his fellows. With a courage that has refused to be put down, he has told truths as he has seen them, and refused to yield a single point to placate the too-much-worshiped god of popular favor.

As politicians generally consider such matters, William Jennings Bryan has made but little success of his political life. True, he has attained remarkable influence. True, many of his policies that were scorned even a dozen years ago have come to be accepted as proper and even to a certain degree necessary rules to be adopted in our government. True, it is believed by some that his leadership is not yet at an end. And yet he has failed signally to win that recognition which is the usual measure of political success.

But by superiority to repeated political defeat, and by a steadily growing influence that has defied circumstances which would in most cases have meant certain and hopeless retirement from public life, Mr. Bryan has proved himself one of the greatest men of all time. In spite of the temptations of public, and particularly of political, life he has kept himself unsullied, and today his integrity is unquestioned. In his broad sympathy, his kindly manner, his firm faith, lie elements that have given him a powerful hold on the American people. Those who hear him speak tonight will listen to the words of a man who has won the right to be heard and to have his words considered, a man whose claim to greatness is not that he once held a high office, but that he developed and maintained a high character, a man whose mere example is making on the American people an impression that time cannot destroy.

Census reports say there are 3,000,000 goats in the United States. Does that number include Taft's?

Teddy has come out bluntly in favor of votes for women. So it was Alice that put Nick up to call on him, after all.

Russian papers report that the czar has become "well bronzed by the sun" during his outing in the Crimea. Well, that does sound a little more distinguished than "freckled."

Through the cutting in two of the Canadian cement tariff, the city of Winnipeg will save $8,700 this year on its public construction work. That's almost 2 cents for every man, woman and child in the province of Manitoba. Whom does the tariff hit?

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

REPLIES TO VERITAS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I understand by the reply from Mr. Veritas in your Open Court last evening that I did not make myself understood. The church and state have been divided—but not by law—but by the violation of law. The word of God makes both belong to Him. (See King James, Protestant Bible Psa. xxiv:1 and Acts xx:28, also Douay's Version of the Catholic Bible, Psalm xxiii:1 and Acts xx:28.) I have both these books in my caboose with me and they are certainly just the article to get a man straight and keep him so. Very plainly they say that God the Father is going to send His Son Jesus Christ back to this earth to put the devil out of business. Then they will not be divided. Not only has he divided our Lord's church and state, but the Lord's people as well. Hear them say: "I am a Catholic," "I am a Baptist."

He speaks of religion. Everybody, both in and out of the church, has religion, but not all of them have salvation. Men and women get so very low down in sin sometimes that they lose their reputation and character, but they never lose their religion, as the devil will always see to that. There is but one kind of religion in this old world that is worth standing room, and I find that in both my Bibles, Jas. i:27 and Micah vi:8. But our friend makes one mistake sure enough in his letter of yesterday when he said many children did not believe in Christianity at all. I have yet the first child to see who does not believe in real Christianity, which means Christ's likeness, and it is as natural for a child to believe in God and His Son as it is for the sun to shine. Some of us can remember our faith and confidence in Him before our lives were poisoned by sin. My last word is: It is never right to do wrong, or never wrong to do right. What a blessed privilege to introduce Jesus Christ to those who don't know him.

Believe me always yours for humanity.

MORE RESPECT FOR MONEYED CLASSES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I wish to thank you for your valuable service in publishing my letters. My former proposition has been highly appreciated by a large number who thoroughly understand the conditions of our people. Now in order to make this subject more imprtsive I furthermore wish to urge on the readers of your valuable paper the importance of prompt and practical service. It is impossible for us to live on public opinion alone. Every good proposition should be turned to some good account. Public opinion without work is not worth a straw. Let us pull together. To help each other. Unfortunately, there has been in the past too much envy and prejudice in existence. Now for us to get what we want, to improve the conditions of the laboring classes, each and all must be more loyal to those who are in the position to do good. We are not all born to be rich or millionaires. Therefore we who are less fortunate should certainly learn to respect those who are born to be rich, and not only rich but benefactors. Let us show ourselves worthy of the good the rich can do. In this way we should become more prosperous. Now let our opinion be turned to some practical service for the good of Duluth. It is impossible for us to get outside support for any proposition unless we ourselves do the first part.

To increase Duluth population the best possible inducements must be produced to bring the people here. We want to see every house and flat in Duluth occupied. And more so, that the demand for residences will far exceed the supply in order to create a building boom. This can be accomplished easily by increasing the number of factories. And to get the factories we must be more respectful to our moneyed people who are in the position in every way to make our city prosperous. Let us think and speak of our city and people as being the best on earth and you will certainly be benefited thereby. Let each and all help each other. Yours respectfully,

JOHN JEWELL.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION IN PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your open court column I noticed a second article from Veritas, suggestive of J. M. Berwick's inability to answer satisfactorily his questions. Evidently Mr. Berwick drifted from the point at issue, when he attacks the saloon keeper. As a patron of the liquor traffic permit a word of comment. Preachers frequently attack our legitimate business both in pulpit and press, but they cannot accuse the saloon keeper of infringing on the religious sensibilities of our fellow man. Any American citizen endowed with ordinary intelligence would know that it is a violation of the state Constitution for preachers of any definite creed to be dedicating school buildings, invocating commencement exercises and offering benediction. See amendment to state Constitution, Nov. 6, 1877.

The Rev. Carl G. Olson, pastor of the Bethany Swedish church, in addressing the United Temperance society a day or two ago, said in the course of his address: "The public schools are free from religion." Undoubtedly all preachers know this. But in other state aided institutions besides the public schools the same practice is carried on. Presbyterian, Methodist, Unitarian, Episcopal and Congregational preachers come to these institutions in rotation, deliver very eloquent prayers, and what is the result? The students begin to think all religions are alike and invariably measure their efficacy by the least significant, so that the rest is an easy step to free thought and atheism. I know one university where there is Bible reading and prayer every morning and one of the faculty is an avowed atheist. It is not an unusual thing to hear in some state institutions professors and teachers pray at chapel exercises and when they go to the class room teach principles subversive of all revealed religion. Perhaps this is only my imagination as a patron of the liquor traffic, but the contents are worthy of consideration.

AGREES WITH MR. FARRINGTON.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I read with interest Mr. Farrington's interview in Tuesday's edition of The Herald concerning the small boy and the destruction of bird life and heartily agree with the writer on most points. Mr. Farrington refers to the fact that the number of birds that are killed by the small boy each year is but a drop in the bucket when compared with the destruction of birds for the millinery trade. In one of the June magazines is an article which bears Mr. Farrington out on this point. I quote from it as follows:

"Plumage hunters and eggers were busy plying their trade wherever water birds were known to collect in numbers, and in consequence several interesting species were rapidly nearing extinction. Ten thousand terns were known to have been shot in a single season on Cobb's Island, Virginia. The ten thousand pairs of wings collected went to the millinery houses of New York and ten thousand baby birds were left to perish for want of parental care. In the same way, during the seven years preceding 1911 twenty colonies of gulls and terns along the coast of the Carolinas were utterly wiped out of existence. From the lakes of the Rocky mountains and the Pacific coast thousands of grebes' breasts were torn from nesting birds every summer, and shipped East to adorn the hats of fashionable women while the infant grebes were left to call and creep among the tule until the breath of death should end their cries."

Yours truly
"FEATHERS."

INDORSES LAKESIDER'S PLEA FOR BETTER CAR SERVICE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I read with great interest Lakesider's letter in The Herald this evening. I also am a former resident of Minneapolis and fully understand the meaning Lakesider wishes to convey. The street car system is here, but it must be improved and bettered to suit the conditions and growth of this end of the city.

The sentiments voiced by Lakesider are exactly in accord with mine and any one living in this car-neglected section of the city will readily agree with him. It hardly seems possible that the residents here have been living under these conditions without complaining. Something must be done and it is up to Lakeside itself to do it. Any one that uses the street car knows that there are many delays which are wholly unnecessary and that if a little life and action was put into the service, the car system would be ideal.

The Duluth Street Railway company is giving us the best made street cars in the country. They are large, roomy, clean and wholesome. But they lack one thing, and that is conductors and motormen who are anxious to get the passengers to their destination on time. During the busiest hours, it should not take 45 minutes to get to the center of the city, and as such is the case, then more cars should be put in service or a live system established to meet the condition.

A Lakeside car can get down town ten minutes earlier than it does now by following Lakesider's suggestions. The motormen should not stop for late passengers, the conductors should give transfers immediately after the fare is paid to stop the delay at transfer points, conductors should not wait for passengers to take their time in getting off the cars.

Lastly I would suggest that the motormen could run their cars at a fast speed between Thirty-ninth and Twenty-fourth avenues east, instead of just crawling along. At least five minutes can be saved in this way, as very few passengers ever get on the cars between these two thoroughfares.

I would like to hear from other Lakesiders and also suggest that some concerted action be planned at once. We need a "better service for Lakeside" at once. Yours very truly,
A FORMER MINNEAPOLITAN.

Duluth, June 14.

A Congressional Litany.

Once you're elected, you are expected
To walk on a heavenly plane;
You must give money and never act "funny,"
And keep all your motives from stain.
You must work wonders, but never make blunders,
And always show up with gay smiles;
You must build bridges, then tunnel the ridges,
And water the desert for miles!

People are mulish—and isn't it foolish
When votes have been cornered by me?
Ballots are counted, and now I am mounted
And work as the greatest king bee!
Labored campaigning is dreadfully straining
Among all the knights of the hoe.
Songs and fair women! This Washington's swimmin'!
I'm due a vacation or so.

Once I'm elected, just as I expected,
I grab my own brand of bright smiles,
Burn all my bridges, and touch only ridges
In hitting high places for miles;
And I waste money, and often I'm funny,
Conversing in ludicrous vein;
Then I work wonders—immense moral blunders—
I hope I make everything plain?
—James Hay, Jr., in Judge.

Dont' Get Cross-Eyed.

Brooklyn Times: A dispatch from Denver, Colo., credits William J. Bryan with a somewhat unexpected epigram. He met Judge Benjamin B. Lindsey, the famous judge of the juvenile court, recently, and the judge, with characteristic courtesy, remarked: "I have been a follower of you and Mr. Roosevelt for many, many years." Mr. Bryan, probably nettled at having his name coupled with one whom he has so often accused of stealing his policies, replied: "Well, you had better not follow any longer. You might get cross-eyed. We are going in opposite directions."

One cannot blame Mr. Bryan for natural resentment at the way some of his "issues" have been infringed, but his evident impatience, if the story is true, with half-baked reformers who want to follow all the new "isms" is really wholesome.

A Moroccan Solomon.

London Globe: Moulay Hafid's grandfather, we learn from a Paris contemporary, left this world with the renown of a just man. His legal enactments are still remembered, for he had a way of impressing upon his subjects the distinction of "meum" and "tuum." One law dating from 1870 was to the effect that anyone who should touch the goods of another should be beheaded. One of his subjects presented himself before the sultan, saying: "Your majesty is always obeyed. A traveler at my inn departed, leaving behind him a sack of nuts, and no one has dared to approach them." "How do you know," demanded Mohammed, "that the sack contained nuts?" "Your majesty," replied the subject, "I just touched the sack with my foot." "Ah," replied the just man among the just, the Solomon of his age, "be it so. In view of your intention I will spare your life." Then turning to the grand vizier, he said: "Only take off one of his feet."

The Japanese Beggar.

Toyko Mainichi: Directly a policeman of one station descries a beggar he kicks him away, no matter whither, and another policeman of another station catches hold of the fellow and throws him out of his area, and so on, with the consequence that beggars after wandering from one ward to another and back again ultimately settle down in the regions of the least resistance—namely, the suburbs.

The latest happenings prove that suburbs are fast becoming the center of mendicity and criminality. The Mainichi therefore begs the authorities "to adopt a positive instead of patchwork policy," advocating an exhaustive study of the problem.

Another plan is that the teachers of primary schools be called upon to impress upon the emotional youngsters the utter despicability of beggars, so that the younger generation may consider beggars as those deserving to be kicked out for their laziness or to be maintained by public charity, rather than as poor fellows meriting individual assistance.

Wilbur Wright's Place.

London Times: Without originating any single feature of startling noveity, he succeeded in combining them as none have done before him, into a practical flying machine, which has since been mechanically improved, but not essentially altered in type. That is the triumph of a blend of qualities, moral no less than intellectual, which permanently secure for Wilbur Wright a foremost place in the history of aeronautics.

Invariable.

Topeka Capital: The rule in politics is that the side that owns the steam roller uses it.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1892.

•••Chairman Charles S. Benson of the Sixth district Republican congression committee has selected July 20 as the date of the convention, which will be held in Duluth. Judge Searle of St. Cloud and "Zeke" Kendall of Duluth are the only candidates in the field for the nomination as congressional candidate.

•••Senator Davis and Capt. J. W. Miller went before the appropriations committee at Washington yesterday and obtained a promise of legislation so that the building of a life-saving station at Duluth will be secured this year.

•••Prof. L. D. Ventura of Chicago is proposing to establish a summer school of languages in Duluth for six weeks.

•••A most remarkable phenomenon occurred on Lake Superior yesterday morning, being no less than three separate tidal waves or recedings of the water, each showing a rise and fall of exactly two feet as near as the measurements taken would indicate. The course of the water in going out was from nearly west southwest to east northeast, and the return, or flow, in exactly the reverse order. During all the time that the movement in and out occupied there was no wind and the water was calm on the surface. There were numerous fishermen in their small boats and some of them report that a portion of the broken crib of the breakwater showed six or eight inches above the surface of the water.

•••The Epworth League of the First Methodist church held its semi-annual meeting last night, when the following officers were elected: President, Thomas C. Kelly; first vice president, Miss Edith Scoville; second vice president, Miss Mamie Shannon; third vice president, Miss Iona Geggis; fourth vice president, G. Fred Stevens; secretary, Burton Dunlop; treasurer, Lee Nelson.

•••Miss Lucie M. Cullyford entertained a party of friends at the Brighton last evening. The guests were Mesdames Bangs, McCordic and Weston and Misses Markell, Gott, Collins and Smith and Messrs. McCordic, Jones, Crosby, Silvey, Crothers, Ware, Viele, French and Dr. Weston.

•••Judge Russell R. Pealer of Three Rivers, Mich., who has been here visiting his brother William O. Pealer, left this afternoon for Minneapolis.

•••T. O. Hobe has returned from New York, accompanied by his father, who has come over from the old country.

THE GOVERNORSHIP.

Not Fitted for the Role.

Luverne Journal: Rumor saith that the governor is going to take a big stick in his hand and pound the legislature until it does something during the special session. Adolph is already many kinds of a joke, but as a "big stick" artist he should surely command a six months run in any show house in America.

No Harmony in It.

Albert Lea Tribune: Governor Eberhart told the members of the music convention, in session at St. Paul, that there was nothing like music for driving away the blues and resting the mind. From the rumblings which one hears over the state the governor will need a good deal of music during the next few months.

One Omission.

Buffalo Journal: Like Taft, Governor Eberhart has decided to defend himself. He is out with a statement accusing ambitious politicians, presumably including Sam Gordon, with having obstructed desired legislation to further their personal ambitions by discrediting the administration. We do not remember that the governor was noticeably prominent in urging reform legislation at the last session. He had the government income tax amendment in his office all through the session and did not send it up to be ratified or rejected by the legislature.

Good Guess.

Holt Northern Light: Governor Eberhart is out with a vicious attack on Sam Y. Gordon, and charges that Sam is responsible for the defeat of reapportionment and other beneficial legislative measures at the last session of the legislature. Evidently Adolph considers Sam as his most dangerous opponent, and in this we are of the opinion he has guessed right for once.

Will They See It?

Aurora News: Some time ago Governor Eberhart emphatically stated that he would stand for renomination on his record. It now seems that he realizes that if his record is to count he must get busy and explain to the people just what that record is—as he wants them to see it.

The Difference.

Pine River Sentinel: What the country press is saying about Governor Eberhart these days don't seem to indicate that he is very popular with the masses. There is difference in giving the people what they want when they want it, and doing something in the way of political trickery to further his personal political position.

Doomed to Retirement.

Buhl Advertiser: Adolphus Eberhart, the slave of special privilege, is like his prototype, Taft, doomed to retirement to private life, the judges of both being the people.

Good Intentions.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Governor Eberhart demands credit for his honesty and good intentions. We have heard tell of the road to a very warm place being paved with good intentions, and Governor Eberhart's good intentions have appeared to be mostly of that class. His honesty, perhaps, is good as far as it goes, but his repudiation of his promise to the Northern Minnesota Development association, to immediately call an extra session of the legislature if reapportionment failed, even lends a doubt to that. Truly, the governor gains more when he keeps his mouth shut, for he has the peculiar habit of placing his pedal extremity within the apperture when he opens it.

Swat the Fly.

Here's a fly! Here's a fly!
Let us swat him, you and I.
Swat him quick, swat him quick,
With a club or with a brick.
When he crawls on meat and bread,
Or on poor grandpa's bald head,
He leaves germs, little worms,
An', Oh my, how fast they spread.

Swat him quick before he goes;
You don't know how fast he grows.
One lone fly before he dies
Might breed a hundred million flies.
Swat him quick, swat him quick,
With a club or with a brick.
Where you swat him I care not,
Only swat him, swat him, swat.
—J. McKinnon.

Scholarship and Heredity.

Springfield Republican: A German educator has been making a statistical study of the relation between heredity and school marks, and from 354 cases in which he was able to get full school records, through three generations, he concludes that the connection is very close. When both parents were good scholars, 76 per cent of their offspring came up to their standard. When only one parent was good, the proportion drops to 59 per cent, while of the children whose parents were both inferior only 38 per cent turned out well. Among pupils with equal parental records those with the cleverer grandparents did best. It is suggestive that reading and writing are much more a matter of heredity than arithmetic or grammar. Does literary genius run more in families than mathematical genius or exceptional scholarship in philology?

Wilson Most Available.

Philadelphia Record: Some of the Democratic aspirants for the presidential nomination are admirably qualified for the highest office in the land and in the world, but the fact that very considerable portions of the Democratic party regard them with marked disfavor seriously impairs their availability. We have no disposition to compromise on principle, and we strongly reprobate the rising of the issues of 1896 by anyone, Bryanite or Cleveland Democrat. We regret that Mr. Bryan has attacked Governor Harmon and Congressman Underwood. But, keeping in mind present and prospective issues, it is the part of common sense and statesmanship, as well as party policy, to seek a man who is not only true to the historic principles of the Democratic party, but who is at the same time acceptable to the whole party.

No other candidate, therefore, is so available as Governor Wilson. There are Democrats who would perfer Mr. Bryan himself. But his nomination would afford occasion to his Republican opponent to revive dead issues and there is no prestige or augury for victory in the name of a man who has been three times defeated. Speaker Clark has more delegates now than any other aspirant, but the wing of the party that has always been opposed to the man from Nebraska is also opposed to the Missourian. We have the utmost admiration for Mr. Underwood, but there are doubtful states in the North which a Southern candidate would not be likely to carry. Governor Harmon is one of the fittest men in the country, but if Mr. Bryan's followers are opposed to him his availability is impaired materially.

We can imagine no reason why any Democrat, North, South, East or west, whether he supported Bryan or Palmer in 1896, whether he voted for Parker in 1904 or avoided the polls, should object to the governor of New Jersey. There is no question of his Democracy; there is no doubt about his fitness and he is neither a Populist nor reactionary. The more the Democrats think about him between now and June 25, the more clearly they will see that he is the strongest Democrat in the field, and in the event of Mr. Roosevelt's nomination would win the close Republican states.

A Bureau of Matrimony.

New York World: Following the route marked out by the advocates of eugenics, scientific mating, sane marriage and similar innovations, but hastening to get to the head of the procession, comes a Boston physician proposing the establishment of a "Marriage Aid Bureau" at Washington as a part of our national governmental machinery. The duties of the bureau would be, of course, to investigate, supervise and regulate everything pertaining to courtship and marriage.

This is not unexpected. An eagerness for governmental control is one of the most characteristic features of American sociological monomania. We find it developing in the simplest as well as in the most complex movements for innovation, reformation or mere mutation. Whereas, in the bureaucratic, government-ridden countries of the Old World, reformers are seeking relief in revolution or in anarchy, we in our freedom seem bent on transmitting to our children no freedom except that of exemption from parental control.

Mrs. Pankhurst Scores.

London Daily News: At one point of the proceedings, when a police inspector was giving evidence, Mrs. Pankhurst found an opportunity to score rather neatly.

The officer had some difficulty in finding some entries in a police book.

"The system of recording entries is inconvenient, isn't it?" asked Mrs. Pankhurst, dryly.

"Oh, no," said the inspector.

"Well, it has proved so today," she retorted. "I think everybody will agree that a better system is required, and perhaps we shall get one when women get the vote." (Laughter.)

Mr. Bodkin (to the witness)—Will you report that to the commissioner? (Renewed laughter.)

Publish the Pension Roll.

Congregationalist: Congress has now passed and the president has signed a bill for a service pension founded on age, which it is estimated will add some $35,000,000 a year to the expense of the service. We doubt whether in any but a presidential year congress would have passed or the president signed this measure. Two consequences, at least, should follow, now that the sacrifice to political expediency has been paid, both of which we earnestly desire. One is the cessation of the flood of private pension bills which every congress has dealt with. It is time that a general law should meet all cases. The other is the publication of the pension roll. That roll should be in every sense a roll of honor. Every letter we have seen defending the increases claims that for it. But we would like to be able to know who these honored heroes are in our own towns and villages. We can see many reasons for this publicity and not one valid reason against it.

George Washington's House.

Washington Letter to the Boston Advertiser: While George Washington never lived in the present capital of the United States, as is well known, he owned real estate in the city, and still preserved and looking most substantial is the building he erected on North Capitol street, a block away from the capitol. It is now used as a hotel. It is a five-story brick structure and in its day must have impressed visitors to the city. It is still in a fine state of preservation and the neighborhood is a good one.

Still it is destined to disappear, as congress has authorized the acquisition of the neighborhood to extend the capitol grounds, effecting thereby a wide opening between the capitol grounds and the monumental union station. So the house, the construction of which Washington personally superintended, will at no distant day be demolished, but there are those in Washington who would save what can be saved of it, and a movement has been started to utilize the bricks in the building in the form of an appropriate memorial.

Wants the Air.

Her weight in gold she's worth,
With little she'll be satisfied—
She doesn't want the earth.

The Svea Glee club and the Orpheus Singing society will also take part in the festivities.

FEVER DUE TO FOUL WATER

Stagnant Pool Causing Epidemic of Typhoid in West End.

Health of Children Playing in Vicinity Is Endangered.

Four cases of typhoid fever in the West end are said to have been caused by the stagnant pool between Twenty-second and Twenty-third avenues west on the lower side of Second street. The typhoid victims all live in the vicinity of the pool and residents in this part of the city are now planning on some concerted action against this condition.

The pool in question is in a large hole and the sewer is above the level of the water. It is therefore impossible to drain off the water. Charles Carlson, a milkman, is the owner of the lot and he recently lost a suit against the property owners adjacent to his lot. Carlson claimed at the time that two new buildings on First street shut off the sewer connections and that the water in the hole cannot drain off as a result.

Carlson also sued the city claiming that the sewer was far too high for his lot and that it is impossible to drain the water off the place. He also claimed that all the tenants in his two houses at one end of the lot have moved and that it is now impossible to rent the buildings at all. The water practically surrounds the building and has become stagnant. The air about the pool has become foul and many of the residents are complaining of the condition.

Carlson lost in his suit against the city and the Scandinavian Bakery and A. Wiberg, who own the two buildings on First street, directly behind the pool. The residents are at a loss as to who should bear the blame for this condition, and are planning to bring the matter before the health department. One of the residents living within a half a block of the pool said yesterday afternoon that it was dangerous to the health of any person to go near the pool.

In discussing the pool another of the nearby residents said that the death of Mr. Lingstrom several weeks ago was probably caused by this pool, as he contracted typhoid fever, later dying from the disease. Two other cases are now reported across the street from the pool, while Miss Eva Adams at 2314 West Third street is also suffering from the disease. Many children play about the pool and several boys have built a small raft, which they use to row about in. The water is about five feet deep.

The residents are anxious to have this water drained out at once and either a sewer built to the bottom of the lot, or the hole filled in to the level of the present street sewer. "We don't care what is done," said one of the residents yesterday, "but something must be done. This condition is a disgrace. The children insist on playing about the water and it is no wonder they are taken sick in this way. It is up to the health department to order something done at once for the health and safety of the residents in this end of the city."

Palin Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. C. J. Palin, 41 years old, 2131 West Seventh street, who died Wednesday afternoon after an illness of several years, will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon from the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the church, will officiate, and interment will be at Forest Hill cemetery.

FAREWELL CONCERT BY MISS SJOSELIUS.

Before returning to Europe to take up her studies in music, Miss Alice Sjoselius of 1014 West First street, will give a farewell concert next Monday evening at the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. Miss Sjoselius will be assisted by Miss Faith Helen Rogers of Superior.

Miss Sjoselius has just recovered from the severe illness that compelled her to give up her studies in Germany last winter and return to Duluth to regain her health. She returned the other day from a three weeks' rest at one of the resorts on the Pacific coast. After her concert Monday evening Miss Sjoselius will sing at Hibbing and Virginia, leaving for New York the latter part of next week.

The program for the concert, which will afford Dulutnians the last opportunity to hear Miss Sjoselius for several years, is as follows:

"My Heart Ever Faithful".....Bach
"Where'er You Walk".....Handel
Alice Sjoselius.

Etude Op. 25, No. 3.....Chopin
Magic Fire Music from "Die Valkyrie".....Wagner-Brassin Faith Helen Rogers.

Alice Sjoselius.

PAVING REPORTS WILL BE SUBMITTED.

The West End Commercial club will hold its regular meeting this evening at the club rooms, Twenty-first avenue west and First street. The paving committees will make their reports.

At the meeting of the club two weeks ago committees were appointed to interview the property owners on every street and avenue in the West end for the purpose of learning the sentiment of the owners on the proposed paving of the street. The club is planning to launch a general paving campaign to cover the entire West end and it is for this reason that the committees were appointed two weeks ago.

If the property owners are willing to pave the streets, the club will then circulate petitions and the matter will be brought before the council. The committees were to have reported at the meeting last Friday, but the special homecroft meeting held in the place of the regular meeting, compelled the members of the club to postpone the paving reports.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IS BEING REPAIRED.

Repairs and improvements to the extent of $400 are being made to the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street. The exterior of the building is being repainted, while several minor repairs are being made in the interior of the structure.

The members of the Servo Adult Bible class and the Boys' club are cleaning up the large lots around the church and a tennis court and volley ball court are being made in the rear of the building. The members of the two organizations will play a series of outdoor games during the summer months, and the location behind the church is an ideal one for this purpose.

West End Briefs.

Elmer Nordberg of Eau Claire, Wis., was a business visitor in the West end yesterday afternoon.

Miss Irene Dahlquist of 1914 West Sixth street will return tomorrow from St. Paul, where she has been visiting relatives for the past week.

The St. Luke's Guild of St. Peter's Episcopal church was entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Laughton, 2516 West Second street.

Mr. and Mrs. James Carish of Fort Frances, Ont., left yesterday for a month's visit to the Twin Cities, after spending the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Debray, 2015 West Fourth street.

Miss Annabelle Durick of 1812 West Third street left last evening for Chicago, where she will spend the summer with relatives.

Misses Agnes and Jennie Miller of 2016 West Second street left last evening for Milwaukee, where they will visit relatives for two weeks.

Peter Despaurie of 2401 West Third street returned yesterday from Cadillac, Mich., where he was called last week on account of the serious illness of his sister.

Woman's Realm

"Duluth should have an art gallery of its own," said Bishop McGolrick, last evening in his talk on "American Art" at the free art exhibit before a crowd which completely filled the grand jury room.

"I am hoping that the next thing which is done for this city will be the giving of a suitable place for an art gallery, and I shall work earnestly for this end. If public spirited men of this city want to do something really worth while for Duluth, they could do nothing better than to give a hall which could be used for an art hall and nothing would be of a bigger educational value.

"I for one," he said, "have several fine paintings done by good artists which I would much rather have in a gallery where they could be enjoyed by every one than to have them in my house, and I am sure there are many fine works of art which citizens would be glad to place in an art gallery if we had one."

American art and art appreciation were brought up in a most interesting manner by Bishop McGolrick and credit to C. C. Rosenkranz of this city and David Ericson for their work was made a special point of the talk.

An analysis of Mr. Rosenkranz' picture, "The Poplars," was closed with warm praise for this artist. "I have told you the good points in this work," said Bishop McGolrick, "and I want to say that this man is one of the coming great artists and the day is not far off when you will be proud to say that you own a piece of work done by C. C. Rosenkranz."

David Ericson also was praised for his work by the speaker, and a mild rebuke was voiced against those who go abroad for paintings when they can find better and more artistic works in America.

On State Exhibit.

Allen Albert, associate publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune, will give a talk this evening on "Pictures at the State Art Exhibition," at 8 o'clock which will be open to the public. He has made a study of Minnesota and American art and his talk should prove attractive.

During the exhibit groups of hostesses have been in charge each day and badges designating the hostesses were given out. The committee in charge of this work wish to return these badges to the general committee and would like to have them all returned by the end of the week.

Hostesses for tomorrow afternoon and evening at the Art Exhibit will be Mrs. Bernard Silberstein, Mrs. W. E. Richardson, Mrs. F. R. Kennedy, Mrs. Joseph B. Cotton, Mrs. A. Halstead, Mrs. D. C. Rood, Mrs. A. V. Kelley, Mrs. A. C. Gillett, Mrs. H. F. Nolte, Mrs. W. H. Cole, Mrs. H. H. Hanford, Mrs. J. E. Goodman, Mrs. A. M. Gow, Mrs. W. C. Sargent, Mrs. James E. Rockwell, Mrs. R. M. Jones, Mrs. August Fitger and Mrs. P. E. Blanche.

The exhibit will be closed Sunday evening.

VILLA CLOSES.

Graduates at Catholic School Receive Diplomas.

Twelve graduates at the Villa Sancta Scholastica received diplames this afternoon at the formal commencement exercises held at the school at 3 o'clock.

"Two Ghosts in White," a boarding school play in two scenes, a part of which was composed by the young women in the grammar department, formed the main part of the class night exercises last evening. "The Charm of Diana" was given by Miss Mary Cyr; a reading, "Bounding the United States," by Miss Claire Tubbs; "The Last Will and Testament," by Miss Agnes McPherson, and the reading, "The Little Scholar," by Miss Helen Maleski.

The cast of "Two Ghosts in White" was as follows: Miss Prasix, principal of the school, Miss Edna New; Miss Curnup, matron of the school, Miss Jean von Witzleben; Mrs. Gushover, mother of one of the pupils, Miss Mabelle O'Connell; Annie, a pupil, Miss Whittier; Julia, another pupil, Miss Josephine McHugh; Nancy, the maid, Miss Teresa Fitzpatrick; the two ghosts, Miss Helen Maleski and Miss Agnes McPherson.

The grade closing yesterday afternoon included a number of readings, choruses, piano selections and a May pole drill.

NOT A POLITICIAN.

Mrs. Frank B. Kellogg Leaves Politics to Husband.

Mrs. Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul, wife of one of Minnesota's best known corporation lawyers and a delegate to the national convention, is at the Blackstone hotel, Chicago, with her husband.

"I am merely the wife of an attorney," said Mrs. Kellogg to a Chicago reporter. "My trip here is to witness the convention and to be with my husband. I know nothing of politics, and as we do not have suffrage in Minnesota, I don't know whether I should care to vote or not. But I fancy political matters in the home are about as other matters. It is better for husband and wife to have interests not too closely allied, because I imagine too much politics or anything else would quickly undermine home and happiness.

"I don't mean that couples should not be in sympathy with each other, but that such things outside the home as politics are better confined to the head of the house. I'm not naturally a politician and I am very glad to leave that part to my husband's discretion. I think few politicians' wives are really ever very strong in their convictions. They usually voice their husbands' sentiments."

COLLEGE DRAMATICS.

University of Minnesota Club Coming to Duluth.

Another evidence of President Vincent's desire to take the university to the people will be afforded Monday, June 24, when the University of Minnesota Dramatic club will be seen in Duluth in "The Merchant of Venice."

Never before has the club been seen here and the suggestion of President Vincent that the state in general should become acquainted with what the university activities are, will become an actuality when the club makes its first appearance under the auspices of the local alumni of the University of Minnesota.

The Dramatic club is making a tour and playing in the larger towns of the state. The appearance in Duluth will conclude the club's tour.

The engagement will be, according to present indications, both a social and financial success.

It is Dr. Vincent's wish that the tour of the Dramatic club become an annual institution, just as the tours of the Yale and Harvard clubs have been.

The committee in charge has several halls in mind and will announce the theater as soon as definite arrangements are concluded.

Junior-Senior Party.

A pretty party in every detail, the junion-senior ball at the Masonic Temple last evening was enjoyed by over 200 dancers. The gold and black of the junior class and the gold and maroon of the senior class were effectively arranged in streamers of crepe paper and class and Central High school penants added the school touch to the decorations.

LaBrosse's orchestra played a program of twenty dances, giving the popular pieces which are favorites of the day. Chaperoning the party were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Young. Miss Addie Smith, Miss Margaret Taylor and Miss Grace Wright as well as other parents and members of the faculty.

The programs were dainty folders in gold and white. The committee of juniors who had charge of this function at which the junior class entertained the graduates, consisted of Miss Florence Mars, Lawrence Dow, Miss Dorothy Meckln, Miss Florence Whipple, Miss Margaret McDonald, Miss Ruth Prosser, Miss Grace Vroman, Miss Eunice Whipple, William Elder, Stanley Grogan, Kenneth Harris, Harold Miles and Thornton McLean.

Closing chapel exercises this morning at which a short talk was given by Principal Young and Mr. Denfeld as well as the class presidents was the last school session of the year and this evening the formal commencement exercises for the senior class will be held at the high school assembly hall at 8 o'clock.

JOHN D.'S DAUGHTER SNUBBED IN CHICAGO

—Copyright by H. W. Sterlche.

MRS. H. McCORMICK.

Society in Chicago is all stirred up because the Saddle and Cycle club has snubbed Mrs. Harold McCormick. Be it known that Mrs. McCormick is the daughter of John D. Rockefeller and ambitious to be the leader of social Chicago. Also she lives up to the very stern principles of her parent who advises inquisitive and questioning reporters to "eat lightly." John's daughter told Chicago society recently to drink lightly and not in public and her remarks gave great offense. Hence her exclusion from the receiving line at the club's opening entertainment.

MATINEE TEA.

Miss Lawson Will Be Soloist at Spalding Social.

At the matinee musical tea tomorrow afternoon at the Spalding hotel, Miss Florence Lawson will be the soloist, playing the cello solo, Nevin's "Love Song." The trio numbers will be as attractive as usual, a particularly pretty selection having been made for the afternoon. Informal parties are being planned for the event by groups of from three to eight.

The program which will be played by the trio, Miss Wally Heymar, violinist; Miss Alice Mae Brown, pianist, and Miss Lawson, cellist, follows:

Pastel Minuet .....Paradis
"The Quaker Girl" .....Nelson
"The Gondoliers" .....Nevin
Cello solo—"Love Song" .....Nevin
Florence Lawson.
"Naughty Marietta" .....Herbert
"The Return of Spring" ...Waldteufel
Selection—"Around the World"...Klein

Farewell Surprise.

Mrs. Charles Sion who with her son will leave Sunday for a several months' visit in Canada, was pleasantly surprised yesterday afternoon by a number of her friends at her home, 200 North Sixty-first avenue west. The afternoon was made pleasant with music and refreshments were served to the following guests:

Mesdames:
Harry Dfoe, Rotell,
Faulkner, Charles West,
D. Memetz, J. Crattat,
F. Gnatt, Pheney,
Miss Violet Phenney.

Swenson-Anderson.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Anna Swenson of this city to Fred Anderson of Ashland on Wednesday, June 26. They will reside in Ashland where Mr. Anderson is in the grocery business with his father, Alfred Anderson.

Picnic Supper.

The members of the faculty of the C. C. Salter school enjoyed a picnic supper last evening in the domestic science room of the school building. A centerpiece of pink roses was used on the table at which covers were laid for fourteen.

Dinner Party.

Mrs. Robert Stewart of Eeventh avenue west and Fourth street entertained at dinner of twelve covers Wednesday evening at her home in compliment to Mrs. William Garvey. Palms and pink carnations were prettily arranged about the rooms and after the dinner the guests played cards, the favor going to Mrs. William McCauley.

Church Meetings.

Members of the Christian Endeavor society of the Glen Avon Presbyterian church will give a "magazine social" this evening at the church parlors. Everyone will go dressed to represent in some way the name of a magazine and a guessing contest will be the feature of the evening.

* * *

A maple sugar festival at the Endion M. E. church tomorrow evening will take the nature of an informal farewell reception to Dr. J. W. Powell, pastor of the church who will leave Monday for a trip to Europe. The women of the church have planned this affair.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. A. C. Jones left yesterday for Davenport, Iowa, where she will visit relatives and friends.

Mrs. J. A. Miller and daughters, Agnes and Jennie, of 2016 West Second street have left for a month's visit with relatives in Milwaukee and Chicago.

THE EVENING STORY

HEARTLESS

By H. J. Fidler.

Stephen Allonby, the eminent surgeon, rose from his chair, his face set and resolute.

"Very well, Marion," he said, "I will do it. But it is for your sake—not his!

It was the old, old story. The woman who sat opposite him had gone far to break his heart, and yet had flown to him for help in her hour of need. Fifteen years before he had been engaged to her; a week before the day appointed for their wedding she had run away with Robert Fall, the actor—the "matinee girls' idol." Allonby, with infinite courage, had crushed the memory of her out of his heart—and now the ghosts of the past had risen to haunt him.

For Robert Fall had failed to redeem his early promise; he had gone down the hill, and with him he had dragged the girl whom he had married, and whom Allonby had loved with the whole force of his strong, self-contained nature. Fall had been a great actor and everywhere his genius was proclaimed aloud.

But, in the heyday of his fame, a grievous calamity had happened—he had gone partially bald! There must be some subtle connection between the hairs on a man's head and his dramatic ability. At least, so it would appear.

And Robert Fall, unable to obtain engagements, had taken to evil courses, and had, while hopelessly drunk, been knocked down by a van and terribly injured. Only an immediate operation could save him, and the hospital surgeons had said that Stephen Allonby was the only living man who would dare such an operation. And so Marion Fall had set off post haste to plead with him for her husband's life.

They drove to the hospital together, and Allonby, with a grim face, performed the operation, and performed it successfully. The man who had lain at death's door would live; his life had been saved by the masterly skill and courage of the man whom he had injured and supplanted.

Allonby left the operating theater, and hurried to rejoin Mrs. Fall in the waiting room.

"The operation has been completely successful, and your husband will live," he said, smiling at her reassuringly.

"Ah, thank God!" she cried tearfully. She sprang from her chair, and wrung Allonby's hand in a fervor of gratitude.

The surgeon was conscious of a dull feeling of anti-climax. Like a knight of old, he had come to the rescue of the girl he had loved; and yet, to his own complete surprise, he found that he could look on her emotion absolutely unmoved. The fires of his passion had been extinguished—even the ashes were cold!

With a kind of deathbed interest, Allonby noted the signs of approaching middle age; the puffiness of the cheeks; the faint marks of crows' feet round the eyes; the tendency to stoutness which had overtaken the once willowy, girlish figure.

And the act of crying had a tendency to make a woman's nose red—Allonby gave a shiver of distaste as his mind subconsciously noted the fact. Ah, well, his dream was over; but the discovery that it was an illusion left a bitter taste in his mouth.

And suddenly a sense of self reproach stung him. After all, any woman is bound to age in fifteen years, and he had loved Marion for her qualities of mind as much as for her physical beauty. Her tender nature at least remained; witness her anxiety to save a drunken and worthless husband.

"Your married life has been happy, I hope?" he asked. She shrugged her shoulders.

"We have had very little happiness," she said. "Only troubles and worries; and Stephen has at times been cruel to me. But still, I am so thankful that he is better."

Allonby's heart glowed at the words; she could forgive the man who had ill-treated her; his memory of her sweet disposition was no dream.

"I am glad to hear you speak so," he said cordially. "I like to imagine your gentle woman's nature forgetting all bygone injuries which your husband may have inflicted on you, and rejoicing in his recovery. It is only at such moments that we men fully realize the charity of the sweet spirit of forgiveness and mercy, which lie hidden in a woman's soul."

She started at him vaguely, only half understanding.

"Yes; one must make allowances. It would have been too terrible—" she said shuddering.

The same gentle Marion as of old," he muttered beneath his breath. Mrs. Fall did not hear him.

"You see," she said rising to go, "when poor Robert could get no more engagements he sank every penny he had in the world in an annuity. What I should have done if anything had happened to him I simply can't think!"

OLDEST PENSIONER.

Port Clinton, Ohio, June 14.—Joseph Banor, who is said to be the oldest survivor of the Civil war, and who also was a veteran of the Mexican war, has made application through his attorney, William C. Wierman of this city for increase in pension, under the new law.

He is 101 years of age. He was born near Monroe, Mich., March 11, 1811. He resides on a farm in Erie township and is in fairly good health. After the Civil war he moved to Lucas county and lived there till five years ago, when he came to Ottawa county.

He served with the Forty-seventh Ohio, Company K. He will receive $30 a month, the maximum pension under the service law.

SHE SEEKS A MATCH FOR DEAD GOLD FISH.

New York, June 14.—There was not the slightest trace of a smile on the face of a fashionably dressed woman yesterday in a Fulton street department store in Brooklyn as she opened a package containing a dead fish.

"I wish to match this exactly," she said to a saleswoman.

Had the woman smiled, the clerk would have considered her a practical joker, but the request, unaccompanied by a smile, seemed so uncanny that the clerk, impelled by fear, passed a secret sign to summon Manager Neaderland, who asked:

"Why do you wish to match this madam?"

"It died in the aquarium of a friend while the friend was out of town, depending on me to care for her fishes, and I want to replace the dead fish with a live one exactly the same."

"Third aisle to the right," said the manager, leading the way to a goldfish tank, and an exact duplicate of the dead fish was transferred to a globe.

Erase Those Wrinkles and Look Years Younger

The old-fashioned Chinese ice-pencil is now advocated for rubbing out wrinkles and fine lines, and it is so simple to use and so effective that furrows are inexcusable. The ice-pencil is rubbed the long way of the wrinkle, then the skin gently massaged. A few treatments will banish every line or crease and leave the skin smooth and clear.

This treatment gradually dissolves the fatty tissues on each side of the wrinkle and energizes the delicate membrane under the crease. Because of its slight astringency, the Chinese ice-pencil is splendid to correct flabby skins and "chops." The ice is applied and massaged well in, and a few times using gradually contracts the muscles until they are normal. Using the Chinese ice-pencil cleanses the skin and makes it soft, velvety and of a beautiful tint. Any druggist can supply one for a trifling sum.

IRONWOOD BANK CLOSES.

Run on Institution Compels People's Bank to Quit.

Ironwood, Mich., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The People's bank, a state institution here closed its doors. Wednesday morning because of a run that began as soon as the bank opened its doors for business. The run was the result of the uneasiness that has been manifested here ever since the Ironwood State bank closed its doors several weeks ago upon the death of President Karste of the German bank; at Sheboygan and the closing of the Sheboygan bank. The People's bank is a state bank, S. Curry being its president, and Edward Curry its cashier. This is the third Ironwood bank that has been forced to suspend during the past two years and the last two closed their doors within a month of each other.

Curry makes the statement that every depositor will be paid 100 cents on the dollar within the next ninety days. Efforts are being made to have the Gogebic National bank take over the affairs of the people's bank, it being Mr. Curry's intention to retire from the banking business here when the claims of the depositors are settled in full.

POSLAM BRINGS SKIN HEALTH AND COMFORT

Poslam and Poslam Soap mean lasting skin health and comfort to all who are afflicted with any annoying or disfiguring skin disease. The Perfect Laxative For Elderly People

Age has its attractions no less than youth in a more serene and quieter life. But it is this very life of rest without sufficient exercise that brings with it those disorders that arise from inactivity. Chief of these are a chronic, persistent constipation.

Most elderly people are troubled in this way, with accompanying symptoms of belching, drowsiness after eating, headaches and general lassitude. Frequently there is difficulty of digesting even light food. Much mental trouble ensues, as it is hard to find a suitable remedy. First of all the advice may be given that elderly people should not use salts, cathartic pills or powders, waters or any of the more violent purgatives. What they need, women as well as men, is a mild laxative tonic, one that is pleasant to take and yet acts without griping.

The remedy that fills all these requirements, and has in addition tonic properties that strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which thousands of elderly people use, to the exclusion of all other remedies. Trustworthy people like Miss M. H. Burling, Ripon, Wis., and J. P. Crider, Kimball, Minn., say they take it at regular intervals and in that way not only maintain general good health, but that they have not in years felt as good as they do now. You will do well to always have a bottle of it in the house. It is good for all the family.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

ON THE IRON RANGES

BIG FIGHT ON BOARDS

Hibbing Council Will Have Lively Tussle Over Vacating Streets.

Petitions for and Against Mining Company's Request Coming in.

Hibbing, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tonight's meeting of the council promises to be one of the most important of the year. The chief business to come up will be action on a petition bearing between 1,500 and 1,600 signatures asking for the vacation of portions of streets on property owned by the mining company in the vicinity of the Sellers mine. There will be a counter-petition in evidence also largely signed.

It is freely predicted that whatever action is taken will mark the opening of a fight between the mining company and property holders in that section of the city that may have far-reaching results and result in litigation that will be bitterly fought on both sides.

Property Owners May Organize.

There is talk of an organization of property holders to fight any action on the part of the companies which may be construed as further encroachment upon the business section of the north end and of damage suits to recover for damage, already alleged to have been sustained by local business houses in that section by reason of the cutting off of the viaduct on the old Chisholm road and making several locations as accessible to Chisholm as they are to Hibbing at present. The whole question is one that has been much agitated recently and the situation is generally regretted by the disinterested business people.

Local business men who have interviewed President W. J. Olcott of the Oliver Iron Mining company have been informed that the company has no present intention of coming any farther than the forty lines of the Sellers pit. Mr. Olcott states that the extent of the ore measures under the city are not definitely known. Local people claim to have positive knowledge that they are the richest on the Mesabe range. It is claimed that drifts run out of the village well at the pumping station have been run into ore and have developed its presence in considerable quantities.

Rich Ore Under Tower.

It is also claimed that every foot of the townsite has been explored and that test pits sunk on the side of the old Healy theater and in other sections of the city have established beyond a reasonable doubt the presence of a valuable ore body.

Another matter to come before the council will be the ordinance providing for the inspection of all animals slaughtered for sale in local meat markets and a general inspection of local food supplies. There will be two candidates for the position of inspector. Drs. Mason and McDevitt, both veterinary surgeons.

A. P. Silliman will also submit preliminary estimates and blue prints of the proposed routes for the diversion of the sewer outlet. This is an improvement to be made in Hibbing this summer, which will cost between $60,000 and $80,000.

CLEARING ATHLETIC FIELD.

Work of Enlarging Gilbert High Sport Ground Starts.

Gilbert, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Martin Masterson and G. J. Rook have started clearing and leveling the addition to the high school athletic field, for which they recently secured the contract. When this work is completed it will give Gilbert one of the finest athletic fields on the range. It will be large enough for a full sized football field and a quarter mile track.

SHOCK TO TACONITE.

Unexpected Death of John Meagher Surprise to Friends.

Taconite, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Taconite schools closed Friday with a very interesting program and a fine exhibit.

The death of John Meagher occurred at his home in this village Monday morning. Mr. Meagher was employed as track foreman for the Oliver Iron Mining company. He was taken with pneumonia. The deceased was a young man and although his illness was considered serious his sudden demise was a shock to his friends. He is survived by his wife and little daughter, Grace. The remains were taken to Akeley his former home for interment.

Miss Mata Loux, a student at the Minneapolis university, is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Loux.

Mrs. Flannigan of Ishpeming, Mich., is the guest of Mrs. J. C. Downing.

Miss Esther Hermison and sister, Mabel, are visiting in Minneapolis.

Miss D. Coron of Hibbing spent a few days with the Misses Lillian and Agnes Reilly.

Mr. and Mrs. David Roche arrived home from their wedding trip.

Miss Bernice Dowd is a Duluth visitor.

Mr. Meagher was called here from his home in Akeley by the death of his son.

Eugene Cassidy of Hibbing was a Taconite caller.

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly kills the dandruff germs which rob the hair of its life, color and lustre, makes the scalp clean and healthy, gives the hair strength, color and beauty, and makes it grow.

Get a 50 cent bottle from your druggist today. He will give your money back if you are not satisfied after a fair trial.

Special agent, Max Wirth, 13 West Superior street.

EDITORS PROMISED VERY FINE OUTING

Grand Rapids and Other Western Points to Entertain.

Bemidji, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the Northern Minnesota Editorial association meet at Grand Rapids next week they will have a chance to see Sam Gordon, lieutenant governor and a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, in action as a baseball pitcher in the game between the fats and leans.

Mary D. McFadden, the Duluth newspaper writer, has been invited to preside as umpire.

Grand Rapids, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Everything points to one of the most successful editorial association meetings ever held in this section of the state, when the editors of Northern Minnesota assemble here June 21, 22 and 23 to be the guests of Grand Rapids, Coleraine, Bovey and Cohasset.

Arrangements for the entertainment of the editors are about completed. On Friday, the first day, the visitors will be shown the city and points of interest, including the paper mill at the Itasca Paper company. On Friday evening there will be a big banquet and dance at the Pokegama hotel. Arrangements are being made to include President Vincent of the state university, who will be here as one of the speakers on the university week program.

Going to See Mines.

On Saturday the visitors will be taken to the state northeast experiment farm, where that very interesting place will be shown by Superintendent McGuire, and where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. McGuire at a big dinner. The annual championship baseball game between the Scanlon and other local all-star athletic sports will also be pulled off. Leaving the farm at 2 o'clock the visitors will be taken to Coleraine, from which place they will be taken on an "observation special" through the mines and through the ore concentrating plant as the guests of Superintendent Godfrey of the Oliver Iron Mining company and the citizens of Colarine and Bovey. The villages of Bovey and Colerine will be looked over and in the evening they will be banqueted at the Fitger hotel at Bovey, returning to Grand Rapids by moonlight in automobiles.

Sunday the pen pushers and their wives and sweethearts will be given a day near to nature's heart on Pokegama lake. They will be taken to Cohasset by auto, and from there up the Mississippi river in launches and steamboats to and around Pokegama lake, returning in the afternoon to Grand Rapids.

GREAT NOTHERN TRAIN CUTS HOSE

Otherwise Fire at Brooklyn Might Have Been Extinguished Quicker.

Hibbing, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire of unknown origin early yesterday destroyed the residence of Joseph Gembush, 405 Fifth avenue, Brooklyn, together with all its contents, entailing a loss of about $5,000, covered by insurance of $2,500. Gembush and his family awoke to find the house filled with smoke and flames and barely escaped in their night clothing.

The fire was first noticed bursting from the roof by a night policeman who turned in the alarm. The apparatus and firemen from the No. 2 house responded and laid a line of hose from a hydrant across the Great Northern railroad tracks. An ore train passing ran over the hose and put it out of commission and the department was subjected to considerable delay as a result. But for this fact the building and much of its contents might have been saved.

STAR ISLAND INN READY.

Cass Lake Structure Built to Replace Burned Hostelry.

Cass Lake, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Star Island inn, which was built to replace the Cottage hotel, which was destroyed by fire in April, is practically ready to receive guests. The inn contains twenty-four outside bed rooms, a large dining room and lobby with fireplace, and has screened porch on two stories. It is located on the sandy beach facing the lake on the edge of the forest. After the fire which destroyed the Cottage hotel the Commercial club immediately took steps to encourage Sultor & Seelye to rebuild, and Cass Lake people generally are much elated over the rapid work that was done. The opening will be Friday, June 14, when there will be a Masonic picnic on Star Island, and when the picnickers will have a banquet at 6 o'clock in the evening at the inn.

TWO HARBORS STORE ELECTS ITS OFFICERS.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Svea Co-operative company held its annual meeting this week at the Scandia hall and elected the following officers: President Ole Brand; vice president, Theodore G. Johnson; secretary, Charles F. Falf; treasurer, John Norlen. Trustees: Ole Brand, Theodore G. Johnson, Charles Falf, Fred Wickstrom, Fred Hagberg, John Norlie and Charles Digerstad. Financial committee: C. G. Carlson and Axel Essen.

EVELETH STUDENTS GIVE FINE PROGRAM

President Bonahan of Duluth Normal Addresses Graduates of High.

Eveleth, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nineteen students were graduated from the Eveleth high school last evening. Dr. C. W. More, president of the board of education, presented the diplomas to the graduating class and to the forty-nine graduates of the eighth grade.

Carl Niemi, the salutatorian, spoke on "The Boy," and outlined in a well prepared and splendidly delivered oration the needs of the boy in his training in the home and at school to develop in him the qualities of a good citizen. He also reminded the boy of his debt to his parents and the public school for the opportunities afforded as well as the guidance received in the shaping of his life for good citizenship.

Miss Ethel Wilk, valedictorian, gave, in her essay, her idea of the American of the future. Her paper also was excellently written and delivered in a clear, forceful manner.

Duluth Man Speaks.

The commencement address was delivered by Prof. E. W. Bohannon, president of the Duluth normal school. He spoke for nearly an hour on "Education," and held the close attention of the audience that filled the large school auditorium to its capacity.

The music consisted of selections by the high school orchestra and singing by the glee club, with a solo by Mrs. E. K. Medler. This year's graduating class was the largest in the history of the Eveleth high school, and for the first time contained more boys than girls.

The Graduates.

The graduates were as follows: Lawrence Andrews, Bina Bent, Margaret Corbett, Irene Campbell, David Erickson, Charles Crottier, Jacob Saarl, Axel Turnquist, Adeline Rohrer, Clara Rohrer, Percy Pryor, Milton Fellows, Hugo Newberg, Ethel Wilk, Albina Vigier, Anna Niemi, Carl Niemi, Gilbert Finnegan and Jennie Mulligan.

TOWER PREPARES FOR COUNTY CLUB

Commercial Club Planning to Entertain Visitors in August.

Tower, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club held an enthusiastic meeting at the Vermilion hotel Wednesday evening to plan for the entertainment of the St. Louis County club in August. A committee was appointed to get an idea of the amount needed to be raised to procure excursion boats and music and provide for a banquet, and report at the next meeting. The chair appointed on such committee Messrs. Weinzierl, Fogelberg, Erkilo, McCaigney, Osterberg, Lofgren, and Jeffrey.

The matter of some poor roads leading into Tower on the south was brought to the attention of the club by a tourist using an automobile. On investigation the sections of poor roads were found to lie outside the Tower district and were matters that could be better cared for by the Eveleth and Virginia clubs acting through the commissioner of their district.

Owing to the expense of the St. Louis County club meet here, it was decided to send no delegates to the Northern Minnesota Development association meeting at International Falls.

ITASCA ROADS GOOD.

Motorists Speak in Praise of Highways There.

Nashwauk, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Automobile owners who have traversed the road from Hibbing to Grand Rapids are loud in their praise of the excellent highways and the natural scenic beauty and further state that the trip is one of the most delightful that a party could possibly undertake in this section of the state. The numerous beautiful lakes which one encounters, together with ever changing magnificent scenery are, to the lover of nature, things that are not soon forgotten. The trip from Nashwauk to Grand Rapids and Cohasset cannot be overrated by the most enthusiastic autoist. There are many things of interest to be seen in traversing over this route.

WILL GREET FARMERS.

Grand Rapids to Entertain Them University Week.

Grand Rapids, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Farmers' day of the university week here, June 17-22, will be made one of the chief days of the week by the business men of Grand Rapids and others interested in farming and farmers.

As a special inducement for the farmers to be present on that day to take advantage of the opportunity of listening to what the great array of talent provided for that day will have to present, the farmers are particularly invited to come and have a good time and mix with one another. The farmers are requested to bring their basket lunches, and the Commercial club will furnish coffee and sugar, while the Itasca Co-operative Creamery will provide cream.

The program for the day contains some splendid subjects by some of the best speakers on farm topics on the lecture platform. This and the neighborly feeling fostered and the acquaintances made, the exchange of ideas and the getting away from the daily grind of work on the farm should make the day one well worth coming a long ways to enjoy.

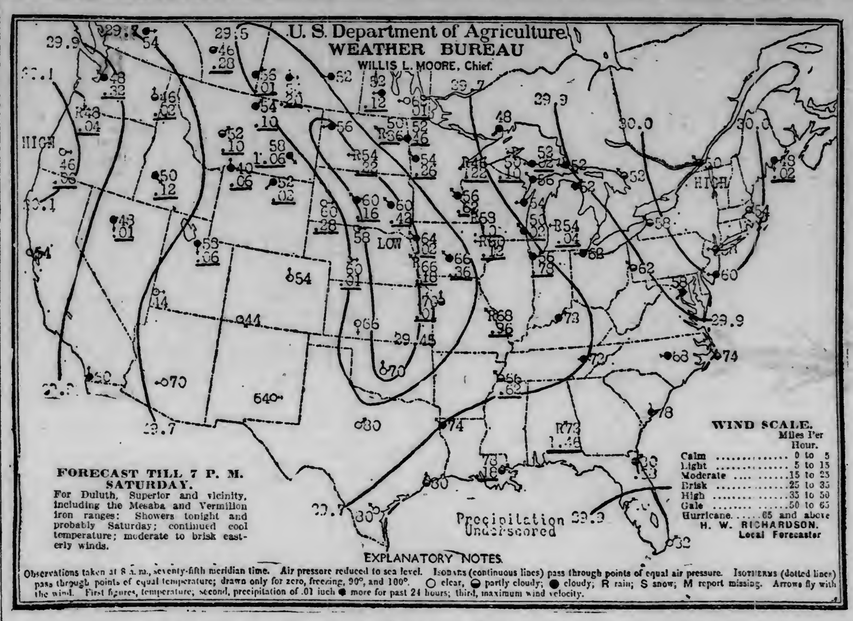

PLEASE WRITE

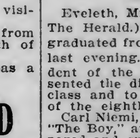

There is just one kidney medicine that gets such results that its compounders desire to hear from and advise with cases not yielding, and what is most important is that the supposed incurable stage of kidney disease (the chronic form established about the sixth month) is no bar to recovery in most cases providing the patient has a fair heart and recuperative power. The name of this preparation is Fulton's Renal Compound.

Here is a serious Census fact that every kidney patient ought to know—Over nine out of ten of the dead from kidney disease had Bright's Disease whether they knew it or not. There is only one thing in the world that reaches these cases.

Official Map of the Weather

The weather man is on a rampage again, and Duluthians were greeted this morning by a cold, raw wind accompanied by rain. There is no hope of improvement held out for the next thirty-six hours. Probably showers tonight and Saturday, with continued cool temperatures, is the prediction.

Beautiful weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:12 and it will set at 8:04 this evening, giving fifteen hours and fifty-two minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The disturbance centered over the Missouri valley has caused light to heavy rains throughout North Pacific states, the Missouri, Red river and Mississippi valleys, Western lake region and Eastern gulf states during the last twenty-four hours. No weather prevailed Thursday in Kentucky, North Carolina, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona. Showery and cool weather may be expected in St. Louis and Douglas counties during the ensuing thirty-six hours, and there will be more or less fog on Western Lake Superior in the meantime."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, June 14.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Upper Michigan—Showers tonight and Saturday.

Wisconsin—Unsettled weather tonight and Saturday, with showers and thunderstorms; warmer in east portion tonight.

Minnesota—Showers tonight; Saturday cloudy.

Iowa—Showers and thunderstorms this afternoon and probably tonight; Saturday cloudy.

North Dakota — Showers tonight; Saturday cloudy.

South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Saturday; cooler tonight.

Upper lakes—Moderate to brisk easterly and southeasterly winds. Showers tonight and Saturday.

HELP FARMERS BY GOOD ROADS

Lake County Board Planning to Give Soil Tillers Good Outlets.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Commissioners Hans Otterlie, John Norlen, L. C. Anderson and A. F. Sonju accompanied by Sheriff Emil Nelson and County Attorney B. F. Fowler, made a trip to Maple, Cramer and Echo lakes yesterday to inspect the road work already completed and to decide on a route for the road that will connect with the Cook County Lake Shore road now under construction.

It is the aim of the county board to open all the land in Lake county that they possibly can by building good substantial roads wherever they are considered most needed and where they will benefit the farmers most. Those interested in farming are beginning to realize the fertility of Lake county soil and consequently the land is being taken up for farming purposes very rapidly, thus creating a demand for the county to get busy and build roads. The county commissioners have been very busy of late engaged in surveying and considering roads in the northern section of the county where roads are needed and demanded by settlers. The commissioners will submit a report of their investigation at the next meeting of the board.

Called to Bigfork.

Grand Rapids, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Anna Wang, county tubercular nurse, returned last night from Bigfork, where she went in answer to a telephone call telling of a case of tuberculosis in a hotel at that village. Miss Wang reports that the man who was sick had been removed by his friends three weeks ago, with the result that she had her trip for no purpose. While here Miss Wang took care of Elmer Moore, who is very ill with tuberculosis.

SOON TO BEGIN STRIPPING JOB

Winston-Dear Company Ready to Tackle Section 27 Overburden.

Hibbing, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Winston-Dear company have equipment on the ground and are all ready to begin stripping at section 27 adjoining the Monroe-Tener in the Chisholm district. As soon as some questions affecting the Great Northern's right of way to the property are disposed of a shovel will be started there in removing overburden. Other shovels will be working there in the course of a few weeks. At the Buffalo-Susquehanna the Winston-Dear company are now down to the ore body and are stripping ore. This mine will be added to the list of open pit shippers from the Hibbing district some time later in the season.

GETS HYBRID FOXES.

Hibbing Man Has Taken Some Rare Young Animals.

Hibbing, Minn., June 13.—(Special to The Herald.—Frank Traves, a local taxidermist, has returned from a trip to the country fifty miles north of Hibbing bringing with him four fox cubs, the pelts of two big black bears and six wolf skins, all of which he secured on a hunting trip for specimens. In the fox cubs Mr. Traves may have a prize. One of them is black and the other three are apparently a cross between a black and red fox. If they live in captivity their fur will be worth a large sum of money. The foxes were smoked out of their den by Mr. Traves.

No Hibbing Dog Tax.

Hibbing, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village of Hibbing will not collect a dog license this year. Last year the plan was found to cost as much money as it actually brought in and this year it has been decided to abandon the plan. The ordinance relating to dogs being muzzled, however, will be rigidly enforced, announces Chief of Police Wring.

You Couldn't Hire Me to Wear Dress Shields Again!

I Use That Marvel, PERSPI-NO!

Rip out the dress shields from your dresses, girls! Rip them out! You don't need them any more, absolutely never more! Never again will your gown get

Simply a Powder

One, Two, Three, and It's Done

stained, fade, get stiff and be ruined because of a big soppy perspiration spot at the arm-pits.

It doesn't matter how light or heavy your clothing, or how stuffy and hot it may be indoors, in the theatre, ballroom or concert-hall, PERSPI-NO will keep your arm-pits just as fresh and dry as the back of your hand,—just glorious!

There'll be no more running of colors in colored gowns, at the arm-pits. No more misery from rolled up dress shields that form a ropy wad under the arms. No more humiliation! Just a little PERSPI-NO will do it all. It's a powder, applied with a pad. A pad in each box. It's done in a minute. Never injures or stains the fabric, absolutely safe. Satisfaction guaranteed or money back.

PERSPI-NO is for sale at your druggist's at 25c a box, or sent direct, on receipt of price, by the Perspo Co., 2715 Lincoln Ave., Chicago.

VIRGINIA WILL BE REPRESENTED

Commercial Club Names Five Delegates to N. M. D. A. Meet.

Virginia, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club last night decided to send five representatives to the Northeastern Minnesota Development association meeting at International Falls June 20 and 21 as follows: Edward L. Boyle, H. O. Johnson, N. B. Arnold, Andrew Hawkinson and W. E. Hannaford.

The club has decided to put on a July Fourth celebration that will be larger and saner than any heretofore attempted and appointed as an executive committee to make full arrangements the following: Al. G. Flournoy, chairman; Harry S. Gillespie, Mayor M. A. Murphy, Charles C. Olson and Albert E. Bickford. The club will ask the state to sell its platted property on the North side in lots to purchasers on the same terms as state land is sold, in order to prevent speculation on this land.

Depot Is Insanitary.

Report was made of insanitary conditions at the Great Northern depot, where there is no lavatory or sewer connections, and the club will request the council to have the board of health investigate this and report to the state board of health, if the conditions are found as insanitary as has been reported. The club will also make inquiry from the city council as to the likelihood of having the public market this year, for which a site has been acquired at the end of Cleveland avenue and a part of which is still submerged in Virginia lake.

MORE DULUTH TRAINS

Promised Hibbing If Missabe's Plans Are Carried Out.

Hibbing, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be a complete rearrangement of the passenger train schedules of the road from Duluth to Hibbing when the Canadian Northern starts its passenger service out of Duluth about Sept. 1, and Hibbing will get three trains a day from the Head of the Lakes instead of two, as at present. All the details have not been worked out, but when the new time card becomes effective it will be permanent. The American Express company will vacate the portion of the old Missabe depot they are at present occupying and it will be immediately razed and the old Missabe tracks taken up so that the park board may begin its work of improvement there.

FIND BOY'S BODY.

It Is Taken From Long Lake After Protracted Search.

Ely, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Carl Mariana, the 12-year-old son of Tony Mariana, was found cast up among the rocks of the shore of Long lake late Wednesday night by Richard Trezona, Joseph Seraphine and William Grew, who were passing near the shore in their boat and discovered it.

The current had carried the body over half a mile. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon at the Catholic church. Carl went out with a party of young people two weeks ago Saturday night and climbed out of the boat onto the boom of a raft of logs and was running around on the logs. He was on some of the inside logs when they turned over, throwing him into the lake. It was impossible for his companions to save him. For two weeks men have been searching for the body. Dynamite has been used, the lake has been dragged thoroughly, but nothing resulted until the body was found where the waves had rolled it on the shore.

YUNG SING EVICTED.

Chinaman Running Virginia Hotel Put Into Street.

Virginia, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth Brewing & Malting Co. took forcible possession yesterday of its New England hotel, evicted the tenant, Yung Sing, and by the aid of the sheriff's officers removed the entire fixtures and equipment of the New England restaurant and the forty-four rooms and halls of the building into the street. Yung Sing has operated the hotel for several years under a lease. He claims the lease has not yet expired. The owners of the building claim it has and gave notice to him to vacate. He did not do so, but instead employed legal counsel and prepared to make a fight to retain possession. The result was his eviction under a court order. Yung Sing hauled his equipment to a large vacant building on the north side for storage.

ELY K. OF P. PICNIC.

Lodgemen Will Celebrate Fourth With Outing.

Ely, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Knights of Pythias will celebrate the Fourth of July with a picnic at Sandy Point. A general committee on arrangements, consisting of T. H. Williams, Nenry Chinn and A. J. McPherson, was appointed by the lodge. This committee has appointed the following sub-committees to make all plans: Music, S. B. Phillips, Peter Schaefer and L. M. Brownell; finance, James Moonan, Richard Coad and L. J. White; sports, James Tonkin, D. L. Childers and J. H. Nicholas; refreshments, G. G. Denning, A. S. James and Thos. McLaughlin; transportation, J. L. Laing, O. A. Mattson and E. F. Stidd; decorations, James Mitchell, William Richards, J. T. Nankervis, C. M. Hanson, R. J. Coombe, Iver Wisted, E. R. Chappel and J. W. G. Jones.

Winton Woman Buried.

Winton, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Andrew Peterson, a well known resident of Winton, died at her home Thursday morning from a goiter. She leaves three sons. The funeral services were held this afternoon, Rev. E. F. Stidd conducting the services.

GLAVIS MUST PAY FOR VISIT TO PRESIDENT.

Washington, June 14.—An economic echo of the famous Ballinger-Pinchot controversy was heard in the treasury department when Controller Tracewell decided yesterday that L. R. Glavis must pay the expenses of the trip he made across the continent to present his charges against Secretary Ballinger to President Taft, which resulted in Glavis' own dismissal from the public land office. The trip from Spokane to Beverly, Mass., and return in 1909 cost $322, including $55 for typewriting Glavis' 146-page report to the president.

The comptroller of the treasury held that Glavis made the trip of his own accord, and was not under orders of his official superior.

ROBLIN AND M'BRIDE KNIGHTED BY GEORGE V.

London, June 14.—The king's birthday honors were issued last night. The Earl of Carrick, Field Marshal Sir William Gustavus Nicholson, Sir Francis Allstone Channing, who was born in the United States, and Sir Thomas Borthwick are created barons of the United Kingdom. Carrick's earldom is Irish, and the English peerage gives him a seat in the house of lords.

Rodmond Paten Roblin, premier of Manitoba, and Richard McBride, premier of British Columbia, are made knight commanders of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, while John McDougald of the department of customs and James Melville Macoun of the department of mines, Canada, are appointed companions of the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

DODGED TROLLEY CAR; KILLED BY LOCOMOTIVE.

Washington, June 14.—Accidental death was the verdict returned by the coroner's jury which investigated the death of Representative Robert C. Wickliffe of Louisiana, killed by a railroad train here Monday. Representative Wickliffe was deaf in one ear, and the testimony showed he was struck by a south bound train while watching one north bound. One witness testified that Mr. Wickliffe narrowly escaped being run down by a nearby trolley car just before he was struck by the locomotive.

ATKINS SAYS TROOPS ARE NOT NEEDED IN CUBA.

Washington, June 14.—Edwin Atkins of Boston, largely interested in sugar plantations in Cuba, and recently arrived from there, called at the state department to inform the officials of the conditions in the farming districts as he left them. He saw no need for American troops, but admitted that the presence of the American naval vessels had had a salutory effect in restraining the natives from acts of violence.

BLAMES CAPTAIN OF CALIFORNIAN

Lord Mersey Gives Hint of Findings in Titanic Inquiry.

London, June 14.—The British court of inquiry into the Titanic disaster will find that the steamer Californian defaulted from its duty. In the course of the hearing Lord Mersey, the president, stated without qualification:

"I have no doubt that the Californian did see distress signals, that they were signals from the Titanic, and that the Californian ought to have made efforts to get to the Titanic."

NEGRO SHOOTS FARMER AND IS QUICKLY LYNCHED.

Cordele, Ga., June 14.—An unknown negro farm hand, who shot and seriously wounded E. C. Ritchie, a prominent farmer, at his home in Wilcox county, was captured a few hours later by a posse of Ritchie's neighbors and hanged to a tree. The body was then riddled with bullets. Ritchie was shot in the chest and right arm, and his condition is said to be serious.

HOTELS IN CHICAGO BADLY OVERCROWDED.

That the Chicago hotels are hopelessly over-engaged for Republican convention week is the opinion of Edwin H. Lee, proprietor of the Spalding hotel of Duluth. He has just returned from Chicago where he was on business, and says that even now the hotels of the Windy City are having difficulty accommodating those already in the city, while every train brings in new attendants for the coming convention and there are several days yet before the convention will assemble.

Mr. Lee says that the lobbies of the various hotels are crowded with excited groups discussing the actions of the national committee and trying to prognosticate for the convention. Roosevelt badges seem to be in the majority, Mr. Lee says.

DENIES INJUNCTION ON COPPER CONTROL.

Lansing, Mich., June 14.—Judge Howard Wiest of the Ingham circuit court has denied the petition of Charles M. Turner of this city for a temporary injunction restraining the stockholders of the Calumet & Hecla company from voting for directors in the Osceola company at the annual meeting of the latter corporation. Turner's petition was a part of the effort to prevent the Calumet & Hecla from obtaining control of the Osceola.

KILLS WIFE FOR FEAR SHE WILL GET HIS DISEASE.

Winnipeg, Man., June 14.—Fearing that his wife, aged 75, would contract tuberculosis from him, Roderick MacDonald, aged 76, shot and probably fatally wounded the woman, according to provincial constables, who arrived here with MacDonald as their prisoner. MacDonald is a farmer at Flaharton, Man.

HUGHES WILL NOT BE THE NOMINEE

New York, June 14.—Justice Charles E. Hughes of the United States supreme court, with his family, passed through this city on his way to the Adirondacks, where he will pass the summer. He has taken a camp at Lake Placid for the season.

To friends who spoke to him of the reports from Chicago in which he has been mentioned as a possible compromise nominee for the presidency, Justice Hughes said that he was completely out of politics and would not permit the use of his name under any circumstances. He gave his friends clearly to understand that they must regard this as final.

doesn't want to make. He parried calmly and the interviewer was suppressed.

"I believe the Baltimore convention will go off very nicely when we know who the Republican candidate is," said Mr. Bryan. "I think we will settle matters with complete harmony."

Changes Subject.

Mr. Bryan was asked if he was going to Baltimore to be on hand to protest if they attempted to settle on him there as a compromise candidate. He smiled a knowing smile and began to talk about the weather.

The great commoner arrived in Duluth this morning. This evening he will give a lecture at the First M. E. church under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. His lecture will be on "The Signs of the Times," a discussion of the progress of the world, intellectually, morally and in the science of government.

Mr. Bryan went to the Spalding on his arrival this morning and took breakfast with Charles O. Baldwin, T. T. Hudson, E. W. Mitchell and C. W. Bridenthal, all friends of many years' standing. He met many old Duluth friends at the Spalding this morning. This afternoon he was the guest at a public reception at the Commercial club from 12:30 to 1:30. Later he went to Superior to give a lecture this afternoon, returning to Duluth for dinner and the lecture this evening.

Mr. Bryan served notice on his interviewer at first approach that he would not discuss politics on his present visit.

"I am here to give a non-political talk and am the guest of a non-political committee, so it would be unseemly for me to talk partisan politics," he said. "If I should talk Democratic politics, I might get around to Republican politics and then I might say some things with which my Republican friends on the committee of which I am the guest might not agree."

Many Friends Here.

Mr. Bryan referred to Duluth as one of the cities which he enjoys visiting.

"I believe I have more friends of many years' standing in Duluth than in any city in the country of the same size and the same distance from my home," he said. "Charlie Baldwin and I were friends when we were boys. He and Mrs. Bryan were schoolmates. I have known Mr. Hudson and Mr. Mitchell for many years. Mr. Bridenthal was in my regiment. I have many other old friends in the city and I like to visit with them."

Although Mr. Bryan declines to talk politics while he is in Duluth, he cannot get away from his own significance as a political factor. In the lobby of the Spalding he was the object of great attention whenever he appeared. Men took pleasure in introducing themselves and shaking his hand. At the Commercial club this afternoon, men of all shades of political belief met him and paid their tribute of admiration.

Mr. Bryan has not lost any of his vigor in recent years. He is the same commanding figure he was when he first ran for the presidency. He shows the effect of the years in greater dignity and greater girth, perhaps, but his eye has the same bright flash and his speech is just as forceful and as vigorous as in the days of his early manhood.

Mr. Bryan will be greeted by a great crowd at the First M. E. church tonight. The ticket sales have been heavy and the Y. M. C. A. officers are wondering if the church will be able to accommodate the crowd.

clared that as the situation now stands, the Taft forces actually count less than ten votes in their favor. Others insisted that yesterday's developments in seating ten Roosevelt delegates from Missouri left the president eleven short of a bare majority on the temporary roll.

The fight for the uninstructed delegates, the Southern delegates and the thirty-six La Follette delegates from Wisconsin and North Dakota today became intense. Every possible means is being used by the campaign managers on both sides to get the advantage in these quarters.

The Roosevelt men directed a concerted effort toward the Southern delgates in attempting to make them believe that they would represent an absolutely certain majority against President Taft's side, both as to the nomination and matters pertaining to organization of the convention.

La Follette Men in Control?

As a result of the tightening of the Taft-Roosevelt lines, the La Follette delegates loom larger than ever as a strategic force, and in the calculations of the managers of the other camps it ranks a close second to the Southern and uninstructed vote in the convention.

It was pointed out that if President Taft is not in absolute control of the convention from start to finish, La Follette will hold a balance of power. The question of debate among leaders was whether this possible balance would be used.

Roosevelt leaders frankly said they expected the aid of the La Follette strength in a combination to defeat United States Senator Elihu Root as temporary chairman. To this end the Roosevelt forces have suggested that they would be willing to support any candidate for the temporary chairmanship that the La Follette men might choose.

Houser Denies Alliance.

Walter L. Houser, Senator La Follette's campaign manager, today, however, repeated his assertions to the effect that the La Follette delegation would positively avoid all combinations of any character with any other candidate. Mr. Houser declared that the La Follette organization is looking ahead only to the senator's political future and the success of the policies which he has advocated in his fight through the various state primaries.

William Barnes, Jr., of New York, in calculations tabulated personally, announced that President Taft would have 574 votes on the temporary roll call of the convention. If this claim be found correct when the national committee completes the hearing of contests tomorrow, the president would have a majority on paper of exactly seventy votes over the combined opposition.

Ridicule Roosevelt Chances.

When the situation affecting the possible winning of Taft delegates to the Roosevelt side was discussed, the Taft leaders insisted that even heroic efforts to that end would be futile, in the face of the president's strength on paper. They pointed out that from their figures Roosevelt would have only 458 votes, that it would be necessary to capture thirty-six Southern delegates in order to get control of the convention out of the hands of the president's supporters, and that then it would be necessary to get forty-six delegates more, the number instructed for La Follette and Cummins, in order to nominate Col. Roosevelt.

Many of the Roosevelt leaders concede the improbability of the nomination of Col. Roosevelt on the first ballot, but at the some time say that President Taft cannot muster enough votes to adopt the report of the committee on credentials. Here is the point where they claim the Taft ship will go on the rocks. The credentials committee, it is admitted by many, will be similar to the national committee.

Watching for Root.

Principal interest today centered in the coming of Senator Root, the work of the national committee in the contest hearings, and a score of impassioned addresses by leaders on both sides at various meetings of delegates.

With the arrival of hundreds of delegates, representing both factions, the differences which were a matter of comparatively quiet debate when only the leaders were on hand have become the foundation for numberless street corner and hotel corridor arguments. Excited members of the rank and file of the delegates meet in little groups to argue and denounce. The arguments soon become joint debates with audiences of varying size gathering to cheer or jeer the principals.

Influx of Iowans.

There was an influx of Iowa leaders early today and who made activity around the headquarters of Senator Cummins. R. J. Flemming of Des Moines, who has managed many campaigns in Iowa for Cummins, joined Senator Kenyon for a conference.

William G. Dows and Luther A. Brewer of Cedar Rapids, the latter a delegate-at-large from Iowa and instructed for Taft, says the sixteen delegates that are instructed will stand by the president. These delegates are insisting that the ten Cummins delegates vote with them for Senator Root for temporary chairman of the convention. This question is causing considerable discussion among the Cummins men.

The Iowa delegation will hold a caucus Monday morning and select its members of the various committees. It is understood that George D. Perkins of Sioux City is slated for the committee on resolutions, and John T. Adams of Dubuque will be made national committeeman.

Poindexter on Hand.

Senator Miles Poindexter, delegate-at-large from Washington, whose seat is contested, arrived today and joined the Roosevelt forces.

"I suppose I'll be flattened out by the steam roller," said the senator in speaking of the Washington contests, "but I am going before the committee and present our case anyway."

Harry M. Daugherty, a delegate from Ohio, today joined the Taft forces.

It was reported that the Taft leaders had abandoned the idea of asking the convention to pass a resolution compelling delegates to obey instructions until released by the candidates. Many of the Taft people thought this plan, which is said to have been suggested by Gen. Powell Clayton of Arkansas, would effectually bring their delegates from Southern states in line.

Today, however, the Taft leaders in several Northern states objected to the plan, and insisted that Taft was the second choice of a number of delegates instructed for Roosevelt, who would be willing to change their votes after the first ballot.

In this class are said to be 20 from Illinois, 6 from Ohio, 8 from Pennsylvania and 5 from Maryland.

The Taft leaders now insist their candidates will be in as good a position to make an open fight for votes on the floor of the convention as Roosevelt, providing there is no choice on the first ballot.

The West Virginia and Maryland delegations, aboard special trains, arrived in Chicago about the same time. The West Virginia train, in addition to the sixteen delegates and an equal number of alternates from that state, contained Mrs. Glasscock, wife of the governor, Mrs. Hatfield, wife of the lieutenant governor, Mrs. William Seymour Edwards of Charleston and 150 others.

"Taft and Ballinger."

Col. Edward Carrington of Baltimore, chairman of the Maryland delegation, declared he was confident Col. Roosevelt would be nominated.

"I have special reasons, which I do not deem it strategic to reveal now, for my belief that Col. Roosevelt will be nominated in the convention," said Col. Carrington. "But regardless of where or when Col. Roosevelt is nominated, Maryland electors will vote for him in the electoral college. That point definitely is settled.

Surprise From South.

"The biggest surprise of this convention to the Taft forces will be the way the majority of the Southern delegates will go. I have sufficient dependable assurance to state that the Roosevelt strength with these Southern delegates has vastly been underestimated by the Taft campaign managers."

Rev. John Wesley Hill, former pastor of the Metropolitan Temple of New York, who will be one of the convention chaplains, reached Chicago today.

Home-Made Beauty Aids

(By Ella Ellis in The Arch).

"If you dissolve an original package of mayatone in a half pint witch hazel you have a true complexion beautifier that will make your skin smooth, clear, satiny and free from blemish. Gently massage the face, neck and arms with this simple lotion and you will be delighted with the improvement. It is better than face powder.

"Put four ounces of powdered orris root in a fruit jar, add an original package of therox, shake together, and you have a perfect dry shampoo powder. Sift a teaspoonful on the head, brush through the hair, and it removes dust, excess oil and dandruff. Therox makes the hair grow long and luxuriantly, and keeps it soft, fluffy and lustrous.

"To make a hair remover, mix powdered delatone and water in sufficient quantities to form a paste. Cover the hairs on face or forearms with the paste, allow to remain two minutes, then wash the skin and the hairs will be gone. This method is sure, safe and speedy.

"Thin eyebrows come in long, thick and silky if pyroxin is applied to lash roots with thumb and forefinger. Thin, straggly eyebrows will grow long, thick and lustrous with the same treatment."

UNCLE SAM TO WATCH LAKE EXCURSION BOATS.

Chicago, June 14.—Lake excursion steamers plying out of Chicago will be under constant surveillance of federal inspectors all this season. Rowdyism with which the steamship companies have had to contend with in past seasons, and possible violations of the white slave act, such as are referred to in the report of the Chicago vice commission, will come under the observation of federal agents.

GRAND FORKS WILL ENTERTAIN K P. MEET.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota Grand Lodge of Knights of Pythias will meet here July 24 and 25.

The state meeting of the Pythian Sisters, the ladies' auxiliary to that order, will be held at the same time and their entertainment will be in the hands of the local branch.

G. A. R. VETERAN PASSES AWAY

Capt. John Donovan Was an Early Settler on Vermilion Range.

Capt. John Donovan, well known in Duluth and on the iron ranges, died early this morning at St. Mary's hospital of paralysis.

Last Saturday the captain suffered a slight attack of paralysis and on Sunday, at the Ormonde hotel on Lake avenue, a very severe attack, affecting his right side, seized him. He was at once removed to St. Mary's hospital, where he lingered until this morning at 5 o'clock, when he passed away.

Capt. Donovan was one of the best known of the pioneers in this section of the country. He came to this part of the state twenty-six years ago and in the early days took a claim on the Vermilion range. During his residence in this part of the country the captain has been a prospector, and was interested in iron and timber lands, until a few years ago.

The deceased was 68 years old and never married. He has two sisters living in Elmira, N. Y., and they have been notified of his death. He served in the Civil war with Company B, One Hundred Forty-first New York Infantry Volunteers from 1862 to 1865, and was a member of Willis A. Gorman post, G. A. R., Duluth.

The funeral will be held from Crawford's undertaking rooms at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow, under the auspices of Gorman post and the Sons of Veterans, and interment will be at Soldier's Rest, Forest hill.

WANT WIDOWS OF TWO WARS ON SAME FOOTING.

Dubuque, Iowa, June 14.—United Spanish War veterans of Iowa in annual encampment here decided to petition congress to put widows and orphans of the Spanish war veterans on the same pension basis as those of the Civil war.

Discuss Beef Trust Suit.

Washington, June 14.—Whether the department of justice will further attack the "beef trust" at this time will be decided at a conference here next week between Attorney General Wickersham and United States Attorney Wilkerson of Chicago. The question of filing a civil suit under the Sherman law for the dissolution of the National Packing company will be determined.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

BRUCE'S COLUMN

COMMENT AND DIVERS DISCUSSION OF THE MERRY WORLD OF SPORT.

IN SPRING the thoughts of the young men are liable to turn to love and baseball and bass fishing—for the young women, let us say spring hats, the proper scenery and then the human male shadow. But, anyway, speaking of fishing, it seems that every one has the fishing bug at the present time. Black bass have the call in the popular fancy, with trout and pike splitting the odds. The lakes around Duluth are being visited every day and twice on the Sabbath. Last week there was a big crowd of Duluthians up at Brainerd, getting some of the bass from the numerous lakes around the new iron center. Up on the Vermilon range they do say that the bass fishing is very good at the present time.

One good fishing trip will bring one down with the fever. The fever around Duluth is spreading and from some of the converse let slip today around the hardware stores, friend Ryberg, and the cigar holdouts and the other places of social chat, it is certain that there will be a large number out to the places where the fish are biting.

Some day we are going to write a story of the biggest fish that were not caught, and if you have any local color to contribute, it will be gladly accepted.

CURLEY ULRICH always manages to make it easy for the sporting writers. He either phones or writes of his future movements, thus furnishing some copy for the days that are devoid of incident. A letter from the blonde gent with the ringlets and the wavy name came yesterday. He scribbles that he is to meet Chief McDonald, an Indian, perhaps a bad one, at Detroit on June 14, today. It is one of the ambitions of Curley to complete twenty years of fighting in the ring. Cy Young is anxious also to complete some twenty-five years or so in the big show, but it is doubtful if he will accomplish his ambish.

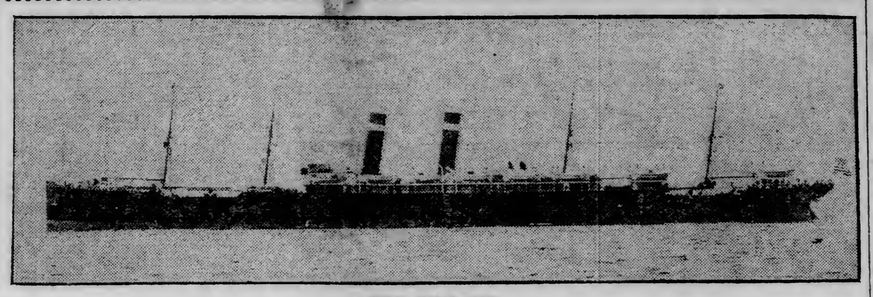

But with a fighter, Archie, it is so different. So long as he is healthy and his nerve keeps up he is liable to get some kind of fights. He can walk from place to place, if he dates his engagements ahead long enough. Often there are promoters who refuse to send tickets along with the articles of agreement. But Curley is rather wise in little matters of this kind, and he generally is found in the chair car when the conductor gives the high sign to the Casey Jones ahead in the cab.

Curley is older than many people think, and yet he remains a pretty tough lad for the boys around the bushes to crack. Perhaps his ambition to fight for twenty years will be realized. Curley has a diamond ring that really scintillates, which is more than some diamonds do, and he had also, last winter, a mink coat that would attract notice at the Waldorf. If he continues in the game for twenty years and is prudent and pretends to be deaf when the gang gathers, it may be that he will have a house and lot when he has completed his subscription service to the merry art of pugilism.

IT MIGHT be mentioned here that the series of articles that are being run in the Saturday Herald anent the great old sport of trap shooting are being written by a man who has been through the sport, is himself a crack shot, and who has been a close follower of the traps for the past two decades. The author is contributing the articles because he loves the sport and because he wishes to see it thrive in these parts. To followers of shooting it is quite needless to remark that the articles in question are filled with interesting incidents and contain some very valuable information.

BEST ATHLETES IN UNITED STATES ARE ON THEIR WAY TO STOCKHOLM

THE FINLAND.

Col. Robert Thompson has guaranteed the expenses of the Olympic team going to Stockholm. This includes the charter of the Finland for the voyage and as a place of living while at the Swedish capital. Some of the friends of the athletes will be taken as pessengers. A special dress has been adopted for the Americans and those who go as spectators are expected to join the members of the team in the parade which precedes the opening of the games.

SUPERIOR DROPS A DOUBLE-HEADER

Winnipeg's Heavy Hitting Too Much for the Taylor Crew.

Winnipeg, Man., June 14.—Winnipeg took both games of a double-header from Superior yesterday, the evening game being won by a score of 14 to 5, and the afternoon game going the Winnipeg way by a 10 to 2 score. Taylor chose to work Chief Chase in both games, and he was chased, the other pitchers also being hit heavily.

The all-around play of the Peggers featured both of the contests, but the feature of the day was the hitting of Clothier, the stocky boy getting three home runs in the two games. Superior got a five-run lead in the evening game, but the heavy hitting of the Maroons overcame the lead and pulled the locals into the lead.

SOX CUT DOWN BOSTON'S LEAD TO ONE FULL GAME.

Chicago, June 14.—Playing on a rain-soaked diamond, Chicago cut Boston's lead down to one full game by winning the opening game of the series, 3 to 2. Walsh's single, scoring Zeider, who ran for Bodie, scored the winning run in the ninth. Boston's only hits were made in the third inning.

Admirers of James McAleer and Robert McRoy, owners of the Boston club, presented them with gifts before the game. McAleer received a chest of silver and McRoy a watch. Manager Stahl was presented with flower tributes. Umpire Sheridan chased eight members of the Boston team out of the park for protesting a decision. Chicago players raised a flag emblematic of the city championship.

JOHNSON WILL BET ON HIMSELF

East Las Vegas, N. Mex., June 14.—Jack Johnson today offered to bet $16,000 on himself against $8,000 to be staked upon the chances of his challenger, Jim Flynn.

It was a legitimate offer and the giant colored man reached for his checkbook to draw off a forfeit. As the other side of the argument, if such it could be called, was not prepared to stake the $8,000 at anything but 3 to 1, there was nothing doing.

But the offer, it is said, goes for anybody else who thinks the same way about Flynn's chances.

Westerners to Back Flynn.

The matter came up during a talk between Johnson and John O. Talbott of Denver, the man selected by the club to handle the official and only pools and bets that will be made publicly in East Las Vegas on the big battle. Talbott will open his room on the corner of Sixth and Lincoln streets here the latter part of the week, the big blackboard having been put in place last night.

Talbott is handling the commission of $8,000 from Capser, Wyo., that is to be placed on Flynn's chances in the coming fight. The pool is made up by some wealthy men of that place and Cripple Creek and also one Chicagoan, and already has been discussed in dispatches from the Far West. During the course of the conversation Talbott mentioned that he had this commission now and that it was to be placed at 3 to 1.

Johnson thought for a few minutes and then said:

Jack Wants to Wager.

"I'll take the entire $8,000 at 2 to 1 and put up a reasonably good forfeit right now if you wish."

But Talbott said he had no authority to place the money at the shorter price, and after a little more discussion the matter was dropped.

TEN EYCK IS ROUNDING OUT A SMOOTH EIGHT

Duluth Appears to Have the Best Chance in Years to Take Down the Junior Event.

(BY BRUCE.)

All things will out, including murder, scandal, shirt waists and spring chickens—therefore let us write of the eight of the Duluth Boat club.

The improvement Ten Eyck has accomplished in two weeks is remarkable. Then he had a ragged combination, possessing neither form nor speed; today the eight is rowing together, the men have the lift that comes when eight men are getting their backs on, and there is a smoothness that bodes well for the success of the locals at the Winnipeg event.

Of course, there are rough places in the boat. It must be remembered that there are two green men in the boat, Glass, the youngster from Central high school, has never rowed before, and then there is—oh, ah, Beschenbossel—that's it. The boy with the long name is rowing at 2, and while he loses smoothness with the raising of the stroke, as is natural with a green man, he, like Glass, is coming along remarkably well for a youngster who is green at the game.

Last evening Ten Eyck sent the men home at a fairly rapid clip from the mile-and-a-half mark. From the old yacht club on he gave little McKenzie, the infant cox, the word to let them out. The boys hit her up to a 33 mark and finished remarkably smooth and with power, sending the nose of the big new shell sliding through the choppy water.

Jimmy says the boys will have to get the stroke higher and will also have to keep their form with the increase of the stroke. But here is the dope—they have something like a month and a half to iron the rough places out of the crew, to get the stroke raised and to retain with the increase of the stroke all the power that is apparent in the boat at the present.

Right at the present time there is a better application of power than has been possessed by any Duluth eight of the past. Rowing truly is one of the exact sciences of sport. It means instant application of every ounce of power, and the power is quite futile and quite wasted unless it is put on at the right time and at the right place. That is the business of the coach to teach his men to master a science.

Have the Rhythm.

Watching the Duluth eight go over the course it is gratifying to one used to watching local eights, to observe that Ten Eyck has already got his men into the rhythm of the long swing—the movement that comes with the quick catch and slow slide, the men putting their full power into the catch that lifts the boat with the instantaneous application of legs and back.

Wallace Quimby looks like a new man this year. Always one of the hardest workers in the squad, he is getting his hands away quicker and is handling his oar cleaner. The same goes for young Grant. He has not had the experience that some of the veterans of the eight have had, but he is coming along nicely and showing improved form.

Young Glass is making good, and Beschenbossel is coming along nicely. These men should show great improvement within the next month, and should they come up to expectations, the boat should be the best that has ever been sent out of this port.

Of course it is the men in rowing, but then, too, it is the way you row. The layman watching eight men working in a shell would fail to grasp at first observation the hundred little details that distinguish the oarsmen from the passengers. Ten Eyck has eight men who look well, but the best thing, and the most hopeful augury for victory at Winnipeg, is that he is teaching them how to row.

Thorburn, Lathrop, Kent, Quimby, Thompson—these men are veterans and should give Ten Eyck little worry. Grant, Glass and Beschenbossel are green men, though Grant rowed quite a bit last season—and if they come fast the eight is going to come mighty near sweeping the river in the junior event.

Sole has been out of it with a bad cold, but he is still a candidate and may yet make a hard fight for a seat in the boat. But it begins to look as if Jimmy has made his choice for the eight, and that the men will row through the season the way they are at the present time, barring accidents.

With Horak at stroke, D. Moore at 3, Rhineberger at 2 and P. Moore at bow, with Cowan fighting for a place in the boat, the bantams are going fairly well at the present time. The banties went over the course last night ahead of the eight and maintained a fairly even pace all the way down.

It is a long way to a win, as the turtle remarked in passing the sleeping hare—but, George, we 'ave 'opes, and there may be a surprise for the brilliant blazer bunch, the boys of Canadian convictions and coin that speaks every language in the world.

ANNUAL BALL GAME FOR THE EDITORIAL CHAMPIONSHIP

The editorial forces of The Herald and the News Tribune will play baseball, one inning at a time, for the official editorial championship of the Head of the Lakes at Athletic park Sunday morning, June 23.

The Herald team will put in some hard licks at practice next week after which they hope to administer to the News Tribune gang their annual drubbing.

Experience is said to be a good teacher, but the morning outfit seems to be the exception to the general rule. Thrice in as many years have they tackled the skilful players representing Duluth's respectable family journal and as many times have they left the park gnawing diamond dust and bitting, kicking and offering dire and threatening remarks about what would happen the next year. But, alas, their fondest hopes are yet to be realized.

Always with the spring of the year their ambitions spring up again and assert themselves. This year as usual they have challenged and the challenge has been gleefully accepted.

This season The Herald team is particularly able to care for its laurel, properly. The team this year will be composed entirely of the editorial and business office employes, it being understood that printers are barred, as printers have a habit of being real ball players at times.

Capt. Robert B. Liggett, who will appear for the first time in this country in a mask and big mitt, will be ably assisted by a Mr. Y. Marquard Grenner, The Herald's last year's find, and who was loaned to the Adams' team for a time.

The other performers will be Rockwell on first, Kaplin on second, who gets his first tryout this year, Armstrong on third, Getty at short, McCarthy, who has a batting reputation to sustain, and who will play near the Durham sign, Mack or Strand in right, the former having a reputation for stealing home, and either Caldwell or Naughton in the center garden, both of the latter mentioned being unknown qualities. The News Tribune is invited to glance over the list, file any protests promptly, and publish the names of its nine "bushers."

CORNER LOTTERS TO HAVE LEAGUE

Here is the chance for the amateur teams of Duluth—those teams that average 16 years of age and under. The Quayle-Larsen Hardware company, which concern has always taken a deep interest in the development of the amateur teams of the city, has offered a handsome cup to the team that will win the greatest number of games in the league that is just being organized, and the managers of all of the teams in Duluth coming under the age limit mentioned, are invited to send their names into A. L. Ryberg, head of the sporting goods department of the store.

It is the idea of the Quayle-Larsen people to publish the standings of the teams from time to time in The Herald and in every way encourage the success of the league, which will probably be known as the Corner Lot league.

It is just the chance for the smaller teams to have a little league of their own, and also for the winning team to secure a silver loving cup with the names of the members of the team neatly engraved on it.

All captains or managers of teams wishing to enter for play in the league are invited to send in their names to Mr. Ryberg, or call at the Quayle-Larsen store. The league will be organized immediately and the play will probably continue through until the first of September.

PILGRIM GOING TO THE OLYMPIC

New York, June 14.—Paul Pilgrim, the former New York A. C. athlete who won the 400 and 800-meter races at the Athens Olympiad in 1906, will accompany the Olympic team to Stockholm in the capacity of assistant manager to Matthew Halpin, is is stated today. Lawson Robertson, a trainer of the Irish-American A. C., will be sent by his club to look after the Irish-American A. C. representatives.

Fifteen athletes, who were placed on the supplementary list, embarked on the Finland today. The Irish-American A. C. has raised money to send Jim Rosenberger and Alvah Meyer, the sprinters. The South Paterson A. C. will send Gaston Strobino, the Marathoner, and the Boston A. A. will stand the expenses of Larry Whitney, the young weight throwing star; Tom Halpin, the middle distance runner, and John Johnson, the high jumper. The alumni association of the University of Pennsylvania will pay the expenses of Jervis Burdick, the high jumper; Donald Lippincott, the sprinter; Louis Mariera and Wallace McCurdy, the distance runners.

The Zavier A. A. has enough funds to send Hal Heiland, the Cherry X. sprinter, and the Chicago A. A. will send P. J. Coyle, the pole vaulter. Wesley O'Lear, the New York A. high jumper; Fred Kaiser, the mercury foot walker, and Sam Schwartz, the former Pastime A. C. pedestrian, will pay their own expenses and the Bronx Church house is working to obtain funds to senrd Harry Smith, the long distance runner.

YALE LOSES TO PRINCETON TEAM

Tigers Have Won Two Out of Three From Old Eli.

New York, June 14.—With a score of 19 runs to 6, Princeton defeated Yale at American league park yesterday and won the baseball series of 1912. Ten thousand partisans about equally divided, crowded the stands and bleachers to encourage their respective teams.

Princeton won by good batting. Yale was painfully weak in her pitchers, calling upon five twirlers none of whom was effective. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Yale	2 0 1 1 2 0 0 0 0	6	10	2
Princeton	1 8 2 1 1 1 4 1 x	19	18	5

BUSINESS MEN TO AID COLORED BOY.

Springfield, Mass., June 14.—In order that Howard P. Drew, the negro sprinter of the Springfield high school, who equaled the world's 100-meter record Saturday, may sail with the Olympic team to Sweden, the high school pupils are raising funds to provide for Drew's family while he is absent.

Enthusiastic meetings of the various classes and school organizations have been held to discuss ways and means. Leading business men have promised to assist.

A. Metzdorff, physical director of the public schools, is of the opinion that the plan is legitimate. In case objection is raised by the A. A. U., some other way, Mr. Metzdorff says, will be devised to provide for Drew's wife and two children.

Drew's case is attracting much attention. The fact that he is a negro, that he is married and is trying to work his way through school, constitute an unusual combination of circumstances. Drew is receiving his honors with commendable modesty.

CRIGER AFTER PLAYERS.

Veteran Catcher Visits Duluth in the Role of Scout.

Lou Criger, famous as the battery mate of Cy Young, and for years the idol of the Boston fans, was here for awhile yesterday in the capacity of a scout for the St. Louis Americans. The veteran is after a third baseman and is said to have his eyes out for some likely looking material in the See-Eye. Leber is one of the players that Criger will look over on the present trip.

Rumors from Superior say that Dad Ford is going to leave the Taylorites. Report has it that he is going to the Indianapolis team of the American association. It is also stated that W. J. Somer has about come to the conclusion that his team must be entirely made over to cut much of a factor in the race for the flag in the new league.

Jacksonville, Ill., June 14.—During a motor cycle race here yesterday afternoon, Harry Wells met instant death. His machine skidded and crashed into the fence.

No Decision.

Columbus, Ohio, June 14.—Freddy Welsh of Wales and Grover Hayes of Columbus, fought ten rounds to no decision here last night at catch weights. The bout was uninteresting up to the sixth round, when the boys started some real fighting.

TEN EYCK PERE HAS GREAT TEAM.

Jim Ten Eyck has heard from his father, the famous old oarsman who is coaching the Syracuse University crew, and young Jim stated today that Ten Eyck pere expects his crew to take the measure of both Cornell and Columbia. The older Ten Eyck writes that he has one of the best crews that he has ever had during the long number of years he has been coaching.

Boxing Bill Vetoed.

Phoenix, Ariz., June 14.—Governor Hunt vetoed the bill permitting 20-round prize fights in Arizona. In a message to the legislature Governor Hunt declared the bill was a step backward.

AMERICANS WIN COACHING HONORS.

London, June 14.—The honors of the coaching Marathon in connection with the Richmond horse show were divided today between Alfred G. Vanderbilt and Judge William H. Moore, who took first prizes for road and private coaches respectively.

Twenty-three competitors started this morning from Hyde Park corner and drove to Richmond, and a large crowd of spectators gathered all along the route to see the four-in-hand pass.

Mr. Vanderbilt also was awarded the second prize for private coaches.

INCREASE IN ACTIVITY

Missabe Road Shipping More Ore Than It Did Last Year.

Figures Nearly 600,000 Tons in Excess of a Year Ago.

From its docks at the West end, the Duluth Missabe & Northern Railroad company has shipped so far this year, 2,027,963 tons of ore.

Last year up to this time 1,435,587 tons had been shipped, showing an increase this season over last of 592,376 tons.

Both the Great Northern docks at Allouez and those of the Missabe, show increases over the business of last year. The increase at the Allouez docks, according to figures given out yesterday, amounts to 1,029,896 tons.

The greater part of the ore this year is being shipped from the Great Northern docks, something over 3,156,383 tons having already been handled.

The notice of cancellation of the Hill ore lease is the reason for the great activity at the Great Northern docks.

Even with the greater activity at the Allouez docks, the figures of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern show a substantial increase over the business up to this time last year. It is believed that the business all the present season at these docks will be far in advance of last year.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Follies."

Have you heard the new suffragette song at the Lyceum theater this week? The members of the Boston Lyric Musical Comedy company in their opening production of the summer season, "The Follies of June 9," are featuring this song. Headed by their leader, Mary Talker, portrayed by Miss Tommy Allen, a body of women come to an election and demand their vote. They do not care on what ticket they vote, for all they want is a vote. The number is a good comedy feature.

It is just such popular and late songs that are being featured by the summer musical comedy. Next week in "The Follies of June 16," the song hit will be "The Barnyard Rag," which has scored such a success at the American Roof Garden in New York and was made famous last season by the various opera and vaudeville stars of Paris. The barnyard dance will be seen next week for the first time in Duluth.

Besides the "Barnyard Rag" song next week, the following song successes will be featured: "Henry, Oh Henry," "Everybody's Two Step" and "The Boogyman Moon." The same chorus of twenty voices will be heard in the various musical numbers.

"The Follies of June 9" will be played again this evening and tomorrow, with a special priced matinee in the afternoon. "The Follies of June 16" will open with a matinee Sunday and continue throughout the week with matinees next Wednesday and Saturday.

NOTED MUSICAL TRIO WILL OPEN AN ENGAGEMENT AT THE HOLLAND HOTEL

ESTHER ALFHILD PEDERSON.

The Holland hotel management has secured the services of Joseph Konecny a noted Bohemian violinist, who will be assisted in furnishing entertainment at this popular hotel by Miss Alma Hays Reed, soprano, and Miss Esther Alfhild Pederson, pianist.

The trio is one of the best known in the country and it comes to Duluth with flattering testimonials from a number of Eastern cities.

Josef Konecny is a pupil of Prof. Sevcik, teacher of Jan Kubelik. Mr. Konecny's playing is characterized by that fiery temperament, so predominating a trait of the Slavic race.

Miss Reed, a Southern beauty, of more than usual ability as a singer, has appeared in opera and in concert, having been equally successful at both.

Miss Pederson, pianist, has won fame as an accompanist. She has studied at all the music centers in the United States.

The trio will appear for a limited engagement at the Holland.

FOURTH STREET PAVING A PUZZLE

Contractors to Bid on One Hundred and Eighteen Combinations.

City Engineer Wilson is having troubles of his own. The latest is the figuring out of what property owners along East Fourth street between Fourteenth and Twenty-third avenues really want in the way of paving. Some time ago bids for paving this stretch of the street were opened, but as the property owners could not come to an agreement as to what they wanted, the whole matter was thrown out and now advertising for bids will begin again.

The specifications for the benefit of the bidders have Mr. Wilson dreaming figures at night.

Almost every known paving material will be bid on, and together with the alternatives to be used between the car tracks, and the curbs and gutters, and the combined curb and gutter, there are 472 possible combinations that can be bid on. Bids on 118 combinations are all that are asked, however, but the contesting contractors can go as far as they like.

SUGAR TRUST ORDERS ISSUED IN CIPHER.

New York, June 14.—Correspondence between Henry O. Havemeyer and Oscar W. Donner indicating that Mr. Havemeyer sometimes employed a cipher code in directing those sent to represent him in acquiring beet sugar plants in Western states, was introduced when the government's suit to dissolve the so-called "sugar trust" was resumed.

Among the letters introduced was one dated Nov. 25, 1902, in which Donner repeated a telegram previously sent, translations of the cipher words used appearing in parentheses. From the various letters introduced it was indicated that Donner was sent west by Mr. Havemeyer to report confidentially on the men from whom control of the beet sugar industry is alleged to have been acquired.

HOTEL MEN ARE COMING

State Convention in Duluth Will Last Three Days.

Duluth hotel men are preparing to give the state hotel men a grand time on June 20, 21 and 22. On those dates the state hotel men will gather here for the annual convention, and the local bonifaces are going to give their brothers a welcome that will not be forgotten.

Hotel men are coming here from every part of the state. It is expected that there will be considerably over 100 delegates. The Duluth Hotel Men's association will take charge of the affair and will see to it that the visitors are suitably entertained.

While the program has not been made up as yet, it is stated that the three days of the Duluth stay will be filled with interesting features. Seeing Duluth will be one of the main objects of the visitors.

IS BURIED BESIDE LIEUT. SELFRIDGE

Lieut. Hazlehurst Given Military Funeral in Arlington Cemetery.

Washington, June 14.—Lieut. Leighton W. Hazlehurst, the army officer, who was killed in the fall of a biplane on the government aviation field here Tusday, was buried in Arlington National cemetery early today with unusual military honors.

Though the army regulations call for only a platoon of infantry for an officer of his rank, the entire garrison of Fort Myer, consisting of the first squadron of the Fifteenth cavalry, the second battalion of the Third field artillery, the cavalry band and every officer and enlisted man of the aviation corps were turned out. Orville Wright also attended.

Eight other aviator officers were honorary bearers, and the body bearers were enlisted men of the aviation school. Lieut. Hazlehurst's body was buried beside the grave of Lieut. Selfridge, the first United States army officer to give his life for the development of aviation.

G. A. R. REUNION UNITES BROTHERS

Walter and Jacob Quick, Separated Forty Years Ago, Meet at Antigo.

Antigo, Wis., June 14.—Grand Army encampment week in Antigo was a rarely happy event for two brothers, members of the Grand Army, who met here unexpectedly after a lapse of forty years, during which long period neither had seen nor heard of the other. They are Walter Quick of Aniwa, Wis., and Jacob Quick of Horicon, Wis. The former was a member of Company C of the Eighth Wisconsin regiment and his brother belonged to Company C of the Twenty-ninth Wisconsin. Jacob Quick is a wealthy farmer, while his brother has met reverses.

In front of encampment headquarters Mayor George W. Hill found a seat for Walter Quick. Next to him sat another veteran, and they became engrossed in a conversation in the course of which they discovered that they were brothers. From that moment they had had enough of the encampment, and arm in arm made their way to the depot and went to Jacob's home.

IDENTIFICATION BY WITNESS WEAK

Not Able to Identify Accused Conductors at Fargo Trial.

Fargo, N. D., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first witness against Soo Conductors Toms and Angier in the federal court today told a strange story about how he secured tickets from Portal to Minneapolis, but his failure to identify the accused definitely nullified this statement.

He was B. P. Falkenburg, formerly of the Pinkerton agency in St. Paul. He told how Hans Portal, night bartender in the Grand View hotel at North Portal, got him and a friend tickets from Portal to Minneapolis for $8 each; how the conductor carried them nearly to Enderlin on tickets furnished by Hocket, then gave them other tickets to show the East end conductor. But Falkenburg was unable to identify either Toms, Angier or Hocket.

FARGO HIGH TO GRADUATE FORTY-NINE.

Fargo, N. D., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forty-nine boys and girls will be graduated tonight from the Fargo high school. George Booth is valedictorian. He completed the four-years' course in three years. The diplomas will be presented by President Holt of the board of education.

ALL HOPE VANISHES OF FINISHING EXTRA SESSION THIS WEEK

ators Hackney, V. L. Johnson and Hanson are delegates to the Republican national convention, and they will go Sunday. Senator Dwinnell is now in New York. Senator Stebbins must be in Michigan Monday. Senators Gunn, Donaldson, Rockne, Odell, Ahmann, Moonan, Anderson, Olson and Works have declared that they will go for good tomorrow. Senator Cheadle says that, after the state wide primary and gross earnings bills are through, he is going home to stay till the sergeant-at-arms brings him back. If this continues, there won't be enough senators back Monday to do anything on which there is any division.

Primary Bill in Critical State.

The situation on the state-wide primary bill is critical. The senate has passed a bill, but the house is now working on a bill of its own apparently with the intent to pass its own bill and sidetrack the senate bill, instead of substituting the senate bill as its own. This will open the way for a crisscross movement between house and senate, which can easily defeat any primary legislation whatever. Besides, while the senate is emphatically on record for the second choice with the elimination feature, the house appears likely to favor the plan of simply adding first and second choices together where there is no first choice majority.

If this difference between the two houses should develop and prove irreconsilable, the condition that would follow, coupled with the probable necessity of the legislature standing still while its officers bring back the missing members, makes it not unlikely that the session will end in a row, with nothing done besides the ratification of the constitutional amendments and the increase in the railroad gross earnings tax. Perhaps some of those who are threatening to leave will think better of it when it comes to the test, in which case trouble may be averted. There can be no adjournment before Wednesday, anyway.

Gross Earnings Bill Passed House.

The house this morning passed the new Rines-Warner 5 per cent gross earnings tax bill, 105 to 2. A separate bill repealing the 1911 law, to prevent confusion, and a resolution calling on the tax commission to search out all railroad property now untaxed and tax it on the ad valorem basis for back years, also passed. These measures were put through with extraordinary care to prevent mistakes, and they will reach the senate by tomorrow.

* * *

Representative Knapp succeeded this morning in getting a meeting of the reapportionment committee, which recommended for passage the Congdon reapportionment bill with the few changes that have been described. The committee killed the makeshift reapportionment bill proposed by Representatives Warner and 'Neill, and the Lundeen congressional reapportionment bill.

* * *

Lobbyists to be Excluded.

Speaker Dunn this morning said that there had been complaints of lobbyists and he issued instructions to the sergeant-at-arms to stop their operations summarily, as it was interfering with the important work before the house.

Representative Robinson asked that all persons not entitled to the privilege of the floor be removed, and Speaker Dunn said that that would be done if necessary.

The lobbying is being done mostly over the bill asked for by the Modern Woodmen of America intended to head off the proposed increase in insurance rates in that body.

Senator Saugstad of Polk county this morning offered in the senate a resolution aimed at the brewery-owned saloon. It charges that the breweries are in the retail liquor business and that they foster blind pigs, and it provides for the appointment of a committee of three by Lieutenant Governor Gordon to investigate the situation and report at the regular session.

The resolution was put over to tomorrow by a notice of debate given by Senator W. W. Dunn of St. Paul.

* * *

The senate is considering the corrupt practices act, and the house this afternoon was to take up the state-wide primary bill. The senate adopted an amendment exempting candidates for United States senator and congressmen from the provisions of the act.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

Montana Jumps Separate.

Bozeman, Mont., June 14.—Mrs. Ellen E. Jump of Bozeman was granted an absolute divorce from her husband, Clyde W. Jump, a physician of this city, in district court yesterday. The ground for the divorce has not been made public.

"Realizing a majority of the voters were for Roosevelt, the Taft men decided to hold a convention of their own. They went to a place not designated in the call. We sent a photographer to take a picture of their convenpher to take a picture of their convention, but the photographer was kicked out. In their convention only 120 persons, including spectators, were present."

Roosevelt Chief "Deposed."

Joseph A. Gill, heading the Taft delegation, declared that just before the committee met at Tulsa on March 14, the committee "deposed" as chairman W. S. Cochran, who favored Roosevelt, "because of his arbitrary and irregular rulings and because he had changed his residence and was no longer a member of the committee." Six other Roosevelt men also were excluded because their proxies were not acceptable he said.

"The bolters proceeded to hold a convention in the opera house contrary to the official call," declared Mr. Gill. "This meeting had no temporary roll of delegates prepared by the congressional committee and had no credentials from the several counties."

Roosevelt Delegates Unopposed.

Of the contests confronting the committee when it met today, those from North Carolina, South Carolina and Oklahoma were expected to take but little time. In the remaining North Carolina district, the Fourth, the contest involved local issues and no question existed to Col. Roosevelt's title to the two delegates.

In the First South Carolina district the Taft forces claimed that the Roosevelt men bolted, while the opposing delegation claimed to have been regularly and legally elected.

In the Third Oklahoma district the Roosevelt forces declare the Taft delegates were outnumbered, and refused to go to the hall where the convention was called to meet, holding their convention elsewhere. The Taft delegates, on the other hand, claimed they controlled and organized the Third district convention and that the Roosevelt wing then bolted.

Bitter Local Fights.

In the Tennessee contests, embracing the First, Second, Ninth and Tenth districts, bitter local fights were involved. The delegations from the Memphis or Tenth district were both for Taft, or at least neither was claimed by the Roosevelt forces. In the First and Second districts local political differences resulted in the organization of separate conventions and district committees and conventions, from which the opposing delegates came with claims of equal regularity.

The Texas cases involve probably the hardest fight the committee will meet. The Roosevelt delegations from that state are all championed by Cecil Lyon, national committeeman and one of Col. Roosevelt's most ardent supporters in the South. The Taft delegations represented the organization perfected by H. F. McGregor of Houston to unseat Col. Lyon and end his power in the state.

Texas Rivalry Hot.

Rival state conventions and rival district conventions were held in Texas and their actions form the basis of the Texas contests before the national committee. The Taft forces claimed to have proceeded regularly to hold district conventions after the state committee under Col. Lyon's domination had refused to call such conventions.

The Lyon-Roosevelt forces, on the other hand, claimed not only to have held the district conventions specified by the call of the Republican national convention, but to have observed also the state primary law. The Roosevelt district delegates were chosen twice, it was claimed, first by the state convention and later by district conventions in their respective districts.

Oklahoma Case First.

The question involved in the Third Oklahoma district contest as brought out by questions was as to which of the two conventions in Tulsa complied with the call.

Francis J. Heney, holding a proxy, asked Mr. Gill whether it was the custim to designate the place at which the convention was to be held. Mr. Gill replied that in this instance the Taft adherents had not so designated a place. The Roosevelt attorneys contended that a place for holding the convention had been fixed.

"This seems to be a question of veracity," remarked Senator Borah. "Have you any documents on either side to prove your statements?"

Ormsby McHarg, the Roosevelt contest attorney, started to declare what he thought was the best evidence of veracity, when A. M. Stevenson of Denver, holding the proxy of Committeeman Barker of Alabama, objected to a speech by the counsel after his time has expired.

The committee enjoyed a lively minute's interchange. Senator Borah said McHarg was "answering the question."

Colorado Man Aroused.

Mr. Heney broke in to refer to "gag rule in Colorado," directing his remark to Mr. Stevenson.

"I object to such a statement," said Thomas L. Devine of Colorado, who held the committee proxy for that tate. "The gentleman is insulting Colorado when he makes such a charge."

Mr. McHarg asserted his right to make a statement presenting evidence of the veracity of his witnesses. Chairman Rosewater declared he should have presented his evidence during his time for argument, but Mr. McHarg proceeded to make a statement to the committee.

The two Taft delegates, Joseph A. Gill of Vinita and J. W. Gilliland of Holdenville, then were seated by the committee after a motion to seat the Roosevelt delegates had been defeated.

Roll Call Refused.

Senator Borah asked for a roll call on the Roosevelt motion, but it was refused. The Taft delegates were seated without a roll call, the Roosevelt men voting "No."

An objection to the presence of Grant Victor, United States marshal for the Eastern district of Oklahoma, as a member of the national committee was made just before the Oklahoma vote by Francis J. Heney.

"I present a protest from the Oklahoma people," he said, "against Mr. Victor voting on this contest on the ground that he organized the bolting convention and that he is a United States marshal and is a partisan in this case."

The committee took no action on the protest.

The First South Carolina district, next called, presented another one-sided contest, both factions being credited to President Taft. Committeeman Capers of South Carolina, when the case was taken up, said he understood the sentiment in the district convention was for Taft, tho the contest resulting from an alleged "bolt" in the convention.

The committee seated the contesting delegates, Thomas L. Grant and Aaron P. Prioleau, both Taft men. No Roosevelt contest was involved. Committeeman Capers suggested the seating of both the contesting Taft delegations, but his motion was lost.

The Fourth North Carolina district contest, where Col. Roosevelt's claim to delegates is conceded, but where local fights produced a contest for the delegate seats, was passed over temporarily by the national committee.

Fight Among Taft Men.

Two contesting Taft delegations again appeared when the First Tennessee district's contest was called. Congressman Sam R. Sells and R. E. Donnally appeared as the first Taft delegation, while G. McHenderson and E. C. Alexander contested their right to a place on the temporary roll. No Roosevelt delegates were concerned in this contest.

Former Congressman Z. D. Massey represented the contestants. He declared that Sells' forces had been outnumbered in the county and district conventions.

Samuel J. Elder of Boston, representing Mr. Sells and his associate, said they were selected by the only regularly authorized conventions. An attempt has been made to defeat Congressman Sells, he declared, by an "illegal reorganization of the congressional committee."

The Sells delegation will be seated by the national committee. Committeeman Monday of Tennessee moved that Congressman Sells and his associate be recognized. Mr. Murphy of New Jersey suggested the seating of one delegate from each of the factions, but the proposal received no support.

THINK PRISONER WESLEY EDWARDS

Kentucky Police Arrest Alleged Member of the Allen Clan.

Lexington, Ky., June 14.—The arrival of an officer from Hillsville, Va., who knows Wesley Edwards, is depended upon by the police of Clay Center, Ky., for the identification of a man whom they arrested on suspicion of being one of the Hillsville courthouse assassins.

A man who was with the suspect escaped, and is believed to be headed for Lexington. The police of Lexington today are watching for him.

The prisoner says his name is Hathley, that he came from West Virginia and had been working on a railroad in the mountains in Kentucky for several months. He cannot say whom he worked for or give the name of the West Virginia town whence he came.

WOMAN HELPS FIVE FROM GUARD HOUSE

Chicago Seamstress, in Hired Motor, Aids Soldiers to Escape.

Chicago, June 14.—Mrs. Delia Lawrence, 25 years old, aided five prisoners to escape from the guardhouse at Fort Sheridan, where they were held awaiting a transfer today to Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

She rented an automobile, and drove it near to the guardhouse at an appointed time. When the prisoners saw the machine coming, they broke down a door, eluded the guards, leaped into the machine, and sped away.

Several hours later, after a company of soldiers had been called out in pursuit of the escaped prisoners, the woman was arrested on an elevated train, bound for Chicago. She and one soldier had left the party shortly after the machine reached Evanston. She attempted to leap from a window to avoid arrest. A man believed to be one of the escaped prisoners jumped from the train when soldiers took Mrs. Lawrence into custody.

Mrs. Lawrence is a seamstress. She is not living with her husband. Efforts to induce her to tell why she aided the men in making their escape proved futile.

FAVOR FORCED ARBITRATION

Iowa Federation of Labor Delegates Approve Cedar Rapids Plan.

Muscatine, Iowa, June 14.—A. L. Urick of Des Moines was re-elected president of the Iowa State Federation of Labor, and Des Moines was selected as the meeting place next year at the close of a special session here last night. Other officers elected were: Vice president, J. M. Leonard, Des Moines; secretary-treasurer, J. H. Strief, Sioux City. The Cedar Rapids plan, which would eliminate strikes and lockouts through forced arbitration, was approved by the convention and will be referred to the various central labor bodies throughout the state for consideration.

STATE LAND SALES.

Bemidji, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the state land sale here this week, conducted by Theodore Nelson of the state auditor's office, 2,280.33 acres of Beltrami county land were sold, the total sale price amounting to $13,019.08; the average price per acre being $5.75. The amount collected by the state for timber was $700.

Mr. Nelson went from Bemidji to Park Rapids, where, Thursday, he conducted a special land sale and today the regular state sale is being held in Walker.

SUSPECT IN IOWA MURDERS HELD

Villisca Tragedy Is Laid to Man Arrested in Illinois.

Villisca, Iowa, June 14.—On receipt of a telegram from Sheriff W. F. Fitzpatrick of Warren county, Ill., County Attorney Ratcliff left late last night for Monmouth, Ill., accompanied by Miss Fay Van Gilder, 16-year-old niece of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Moore, victims of last Sunday's octuple assassination.

They went to see if Miss Van Gilder can identify a man under arrest there as a man with whom she talked on Saturday morning preceding the murders.

The young woman relates that she was accosted by a stranger who inquired where the home of the Moores was located. Later, when she told Mrs. Moore of the occurrence the latter said a man who answered the description of the stranger had been hanging about their place.

The Monmouth suspect, who gives the name of Joe Ricks, told the Illinois officers that he came from Clarinda, Iowa, fifteen miles from here.

Not the Man.

Burlington, Iowa, June 14.—A telephone message from Monmouth, Ill., states that Miss Fay Van Gilder failed to identify the man held there as the Villisca murder suspect.

WORKED WITH HILL FIFTY YEARS AGO.

St. Paul, Minn., June 14.—Funeral servies for John Feeney were held in St. Vincent's church this morning. The body was sent to Darwin, Minn., for burial.

Mr. Feeney died last Tuesday at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. William M. Martens. Mr. Feeney often related that fifty years ago he used to work on the docks with James J. Hill, afterwards going into the employ of Mr. Hill's railway. Seven children survive.

Shattuck College Honored.

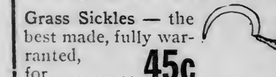

Faribault, Minn., June 14.—Shattuck college of this city has been placed on the distinguished list of ten military schools, according to a telegram received by Rev. R. L. Dobbin, director of the school. The designation carries with it the privilege of nominating an honor graduate as second lieutenant in the United States army without examination. Shattuck was in competition with 100 other schools.

FEVER CARRIED FROM LAKESIDE

West Duluth Children Were Thought to Have Only the Measles.

Scarlet fever has been carried from Lakeside garbage cans to a large family of children at West Duluth, or at least this is the way that the city health authorities have figured it out.

This peculiar situation has come up in the family of a garbage collector, whose home is at West Duluth between the Union Match factory and the Irving school.

The man's work, however, is confined entirely to the Lakeside district, and it is supposed that it was from the garbage that the contaglon came, and that he unknowingly carried it to his family at West Duluth.

There are five children in the family and three of them were taken sick about two weeks ago. Their cases are mild and it was first thought that the youngsters were suffering from measles.

A visitor at the home one day this week noticed some of the characteristics of scarlet fever and had a physician summoned. He diagnosed the cases and notified the health authorities, who have put the house under quarantine.

It is understood that two of the children of this family attended school during the past week and continued to do so until the residence was quarantined. The sick children were being treated with old-fashioned remedies, the parents being ignorant of the real ailment.

The health authorities are cautioning parents to be particularly watchful of their children, especially during the vacation months. At school the presence of fevers and headaches may be more readily detected.

FIRE CAUSES LOSS OF $800

Fire starting from a defective chimney caused about $800 damages to the home of Alderic Paquin, 510 North Fifty-second avenue west, at 6:30 o'clock this morning.

The fire burned in the center of the building, which is occupied by two families, Mr. Paquin living on the first floor. The fire spread through the walls and floors of the structure causing a heavy smoke. The firemen of department No. 5, who answered the call, were compelled to chop into the walls and floors to get at the flames. The loss to the building is estimated at $300, which is fully covered by insurance, while the furnishings of both families were damaged to the extent of about $500.

CONTRACT FOR POTATO WAREHOUSE AWARDED.

The contract for the Proctor Potato company's new warehouse was yesterday afternoon awarded to John Preston, a local contractor. His bid was $2,250.

The new building will be one story high, with a frontage of 50 feet. A large sub-basement will be built, in which the heating plant will be installed. Construction work will begin at once, so that the structure may be finished in time for the fall season. The capacity of the warehouse will be 12,000 bushels.

The new warehouse will be the first of its kind erected in this part of the state. Most of these farmers have no place to store their potatoes and are thus compelled to take whatever price is offered.

The site for the building was donated by the D. M. & N. railroad and the necessary amount was subscribed by the farmers and merchants living in and about Proctor. A corporation was formed last winter with the following officers and directors in charge: Albert Miller, president; Peter Hanson, vice president; James Grady, secretary; F. G. Sugg, treasurer; Messrs. McCabe, Hanson and Sugg, building committee; Messrs. Witte, Peyton and Johnson, incorporation committee; Messrs. Miller, Grady and Peterson, leases committee and Otto Witte of Hermantown, Albert Miller of Munger, James R. Grady of Hermantown, Peter Hanson of Carlton county, Michael Johnson and John Peterson, both of Midway, P. McCabe, F. G. Cugg and H. H. Peyton of Proctor, directors.

SCHOOL CLOSES FOR THE SUMMER.

With the final graduation exercises of the Duluth Industrial high school last evening, the school closed this morning for the year. The classes of the Irving school also finished their studies this morning.

S. A. Foster, principal of the schoo, will spend most of his summer vacation in Duluth. He will visit occasionally with relatives and friends in Minneapolis. The various teachers at the school will spend their vacations as follows: Miss Adele Abbott, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Miss Margaret Cunneen, Madison, Wis.; Mrs. B. Crawford, Detroit, Mich.; Joeephine McMahon, Sioux Rapids, N. D.; Miss Edna M. Jones, Dead Lake, Minn., Miss Vera Stevens, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Miss Cecelia Vaughan, Eyota, Minn.; Miss Mary J. Burke, Albert Lea, Minn.; Miss Bernice Foster, Minneapolis and Duluth; Miss Winnifred Smith, Minneapolis; W. A. Nonamaker, Ohio; Miss L. Lamaun, St. Peter, Minn.; Miss Mae Jackson, Mansfield, Ohio.; Miss Mae Crumpton, Superior, Wis.; Miss Jane Murray, Toronto, Can.; Miss Irene Walker, Miss Mae Westall, Miss Effie White, Mrs. Agnes Walker, Mrs. Helen Besnah, Frank Kriedler and H. J. Sullivan, Duluth.

Mr. Kreidler will work in one of the local machine shops during the summer months and Mr. Sullivan is planning to work on a farm, which he owns in the southern part of the state. Most of the teachers, who are planning to spend their summers in Duluth, have their homes here the year round.

Over 300 people attended the high school graduation exercises last evening. R. E. Denfeld, superintendent of schools, presented the graduates with the diplomas. The members of the class are as follows, with the four honor pupils listed first:

Myrtle Sophia Amundson, Anna Mary Neubauer, Alice Mabel Isaacson and Clifford Stowell; Isadore Abramson, Edna Elizabeth Brigham, Katherine Gertrude Lois Connelly, Esther Anna Donald, Francis Joseph Ehr, Julia Anna McNulty, Edith Mae Phillips, Theresa Quinn, Florence Myrtle Salter, Mildred Elizabeth Simons, John Everett Simpson, Edna Earle Spindler, Roy Earl Williams.

"MERRITT VILLAGE" WILL BE REOPENED.

The "Merritt Village" at Pike Lake will be opened early next week for its annual summer season. All the Merritt families at Oneota live at this village during the summer months. There are eighteen in the party, which will stay at Pike Lake until Sept. 1.

The village consists of two large cottages and ten tents. Those heading the party are: Mr. and Mrs. Leonidas Merritt, 115 North Fifty-sixth avenue west; Mr. and Mrs. Alva L. Merritt, 6003 Oneota street; Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Merritt, 4611 Oneota street, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Merritt, 4610 Magellan street.

CLOTHES AND WATCH STOLEN WHILE HE SLEPT.

Chris Olson, a roomer at the Palmer house, corner Grand and Central avenues, this morning reported to the police at the West Duluth station that some of his clothes and a watch had been stolen during the night. The man is unable to explain the theft beyond saying that the articles were gone when he awoke this morning. The police are investigating.

FERGUS FALLS PASTOR WILL PREACH HERE.

Rev. J. O. Larson of Fergus Falls, Minn., will preach Sunday morning and evening at the Third Swedish Baptist church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Ramsey street.

Attending Convention.

L. A. Barnes, cashier of the Western State bank, is attending the annual convention of the Minnesota State Bankers' association in session at St. Paul today and tomorrow. Mr. Barnes is one of the members of the Duluth delegation, which has invited the association to come to Duluth for the 1913 convention. Mr. Barnes will return tomorrow evening.

New Baseball Team.

The Oriole team of West Duluth has organized for the season and a general challenge to any 16-year-old team in the city has been issued by William O'Connor, Calumet 424-L. The lineup of the team is as follows: Joseph Regan, right field; Lloyd Matthews, center field; Emil Quiding, right field; William O'Connor, first base; Early Donaldson, second base; Helmer Nelson, third base; Russel Method, shortstop; James Regan, catcher and captain, and Lyle McMillian, pitcher.

Missionary Society Meets.

The Plymouth Home and Foreign Missionary society was entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. F. Olson, 521 North Fifty-ninth avenue west. Mrs. Allen Clark led the discussion on "Western Africa" and papers were read by the Mesdames H. C. Brown and C. R. Keyes. The next meeting of the society will be held at the home of Mrs. Carrie Cox, 5218 Wadena street.

May Build Hotel.

George N. Borden, proprietor of the Silver Lake hotel of Bemidji, was in New Duluth yesterday looking over some of the building sites in this end of the city. Mr. Borden is planning to erect a large hotel here some time this fall.

School Picnic.

The children of the second, third, fourth and fifth grades of the Longfellow school were entertained at a picnic on the hillside yesterday afternoon. Games were played and a basket lunch enjoyed the latter part of the afternoon. Misses Margaret Ireland, Clara Johnson, Lillian Meinhart, Belting and Olson were in charge of the children.

Church Social.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Bethel Norwegian Lutheran church, Sixtieth avenue west and Bristol street, will entertain at a social in the church parlors this evening. Refreshments will be served by the following committee: Mesdames P. Peterson, M. Anderson, B. L. Opdahl and Berg.

Picnic at Park.

The first and second grade pupils of the Ely school held their annual picnic at Fairmont park this afternoon. Although the affair was postponed from yesterday on account of the cold weather, the children all urged the teachers to go today. Mrs. Marie Roe and Miss Fannie Mendelson were in charge of the children.

Illustrated Lecture.

Rev. E. Iverson of Eau Claire, Wis., will give an illustrated lecture next Wednesday evening on "The Life of Christ" at the Bethel Norwegian Lutheran church, Fifty-third avenue west and Wadena street. The lecture is the feature of an entertainment to be held during the evening by the young people's society of the church. A program of musical numbers and recitations will be rendered.

West Duluth Briefs.

Rev. and Mrs. G. Oberg of 427 North Fifty-third avenue west will return tomorrow from Metropolitan, Mich., where they have been spending the past week with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Brain of 618 North Fifty-seventh avenue west left last evening for a month's visit with relatives at Augusta, Wis.

OKLAHOMANS IN FIST FIGHT

Come to Blows in Dispute Over Seating of Delegates.

Chicago, June 14.—A fist fight between Grant Victor, United States marshal for the Eastern district of Oklahoma, a Taft supporter, and L. G. Dieney and Patrick Dore of Westville, Oklahoma, Roosevelt adherents, took place outside the rooms of the Republican national committee today just after the hearing in the third Oklahoma district contest.

Scores of politicians and spectators who had gathered at the entrance of the committee room to await results of decisions witnessed the conflict and a number of men aided detectives in separating the combatants.

In the committee room previously, Francis J. Heney, after the argument in the Third district contest had closed, had asked that Grant Victor, holding the proxy of T. A. Marlow of Montana, be excluded from voting on the case because of his personal interest in it. The suggestion was not put to a vote. Victor, however, retired with Former Senator Charles Dick and other Taft attorneys.

Loud remarks were made about the Oklahoma case, Disney and Dore upholding the claims of the Roosevelt faction. It was then, according to Disney, that Victor aimed a blow at him. Dore rushed into the thick of the fray and Victor was put on the defensive.

Detectives on duty near the committee room took a hand, and with the aid of Mr. Dick and other spectators separated the men, who were allowed to leave the building without any arrests being made.

OBITUARY

Henry George Hicks, seven times a member of the Minnesota legislature, judge of the district court from 1897 to 1906, Civil war veteran and for years a leading member of the State Bar association, died in Minneapolis June 11, aged 74.

Terence Devitt, over 97 years old, died in Eau Claire, Wis., June 14, at the home of his son-in-law, Capt. Charles H. Henry. Mr. Devitt was born in County Clare, Ireland, and served forty-two consecutive years in Eau Claire as justice of the peace, retiring several years ago.

Rev. William Tharp, said to have been the oldest Christian church minister in the world, is dead at his home in Middletown, Ky. He was 96 years old and had been pastor of the Middletown church for fifty-five years.

Chester H. Pond, inventor of the self winding apparatus used in clocks, is dead at Moorhead, Miss. He was a native of Medina, Ohio. Among survivors are Mrs. Ogden Jewell of New York, a daughter, and a brother, Rev. C. M. Pond of Oberlin, Ohio.

CUTWORMS DAMAGING NORTH DAKOTA CORN.

Bismarck, N. D., June 14.—Cutworms are discouraging corn growers in North Dakota at the present time, and are said to be doing an immense amount of damage throughout the state. The continued cool weather of the past few weeks, while it has enabled the wheat and other small grains to secure a good stand, has not aided the corn. The advent of warm weather predicted in the immediate future will terminate loss from this source.

PATRICIDE FROM ILLINOIS TAKEN

Young Italian Arrested in North Dakota Admits Slaying Father.

Fargo, N. D., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Paul Jarzo, a 17-year-old Italian, was arrested on D. G. Ford's farm near Chaffee, N. D., for the murder of his father in Pullman, Ill. The boy admits shooting his father. He claims his father was in the habit of beating him and recently when he attempted to administer punishment, Paul pulled a revolver, shot his father and ran. He claims he did not know his father was dead.

"MISTAKE," SAYS DAVIS

When Brought From Washington, N. D., on Forgery Charge.

Bottineau, N. D., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. K. Davis, formerly a prominent insurance agent in this state, is under arrest, charged with forgery. He was arrested in Washington several days ago, and came here without fighting extradition. The signature to a note for $700, it is claimed, was forged by him. He declares that the proceedings are based on a mistake. Davis has spent several days in jail, being unable to procure bond.

Mrs. Bryan's Sympathetic Act.

Anoka, Minn., June 14.—Mrs. William Jennings Bryan came here from the Twin Cities by automobile early yesterday to express in person her sympathy for Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Lurton, whose two sons, aged 15 and 17, are suffering from typhoid fever. Mrs. Bryan and Mrs. Lurton have been close friends since Mr. Bryan and the father of Mrs. Lurton were colleagues in congress at Washington.

PINE RIVER CROPS BETTER THAN EVER

Small Grains, Vegetables, Hay and Berry Outlook Record-Breaking.

Pine River, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crop conditions in this section are as good or better than they have been any time during the past fifteen years. All small grains are in prime condition and the potato and vegetable crops could not be bettered. The hay crop will be a monster cut and the wild berries, including blueberries, strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, will be the biggest in years.

The corn crop is not quite as far advanced as last year at this time, but will recover easily with the coming warm weather.

PINE RIVER PLANNING FOR BIG CELEBRATION.

Pine River, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pine River is making big plans for a monster Fourth of July celebration, the program to include a big feature parade, participated in by local fraternal societies, ball teams, business enterprises, school children and many others. The Pine River band of twenty pieces will furnish the music for the occasion and a championship game of baseball will be played between the Emily-Outing team and the Pine River team. The list of sports will include a host of land and water sports, besides horse races, and arrangements are being being for a high dive act.

RECOVERING HIS SIGHT.

Omaha Brakeman, Blinded By Injury, Now Sees.

Mankato, Minn., June 14.—A remarkable recovery of sight has just been experienced by George W. Cady, Jr., of this city, who was injured a year ago while a brakeman on the Omaha road. He was switching on a side track and was struck on the top of the head by a piece of coal, from the effects of which he lost the sight of his left eye. He treated with leading specialists and Monday noticed the sight had partially returned to his injured eye. Tuesday he went to St. Paul to consult with an occulist and has telephoned home that his sight is fast returning.

NORTH DAKOTA STATE FIRE MARSHAL WANTED.

Williston, N. D., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota firemen want a state fire marshal and the starting of a campaign to have such a law passed at the next session of the state legislature is one of the direct results of the twenty-ninth annual convention and tournament of the North Dakota Firemen's association just held here.

The convention was the best in the history of the association. Devils Lake carried off the first prize of $40 for making the finest appearance in the big fire companies' parade. Hatton took second prize, $30; Bottineau third, $20, and Mohall fourth, $10.

JUDGE BLAMES PARENTS.

Dressing Children in "Grownups" Clothes Often Causes Downfall.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 14.—Parents are to blame for the delinquency of their children, if they permit girls of 10 or 12 to dress like girls of 18 and 20, and they should be amenable to the law, asserted Judge Backus in municipal court, in the case of Peter Karlas, charged with contributing to the delinquency of a 12-year-old girl.

"This girl is only 12, yet she is dressed so that she appears to be 20," said the court. "The parents are to blame. There should be a law whereby the parents might be brought into court and punished for allowing their daughters to dress in this manner. It causes more delinquency than any other one thing."

Fulton Retains Headquarters.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 14.—Edson A. Darling, Detroit, Mich., has been elected supreme vice master of the Mystic Workers of the World. The city of Fulton, Ill., succeeded in retaining the headquarters, though Peoria and Cedar Rapids made strong bids.

ITALIANS DRIVE BACK THE TURKS

Make Counter Attack When Assault Is Made on Stronghold.

Homs, Tripoli, June 14.—A strong force composed of Turks and Arabs with artillery attacked the Italian positions at this point on the night of June 11. All the available Italian troops were turned out and made a counter-attack. A long and fiercely contested battle ensued, the Turks being driven back with heavy losses. Italian burying parties found forty-two bodies in one part of the field alone.

The Italians had thirty-one men killed and fifty wounded.

TEACH PEOPLE HOW TO USE OIL

Campaign of Education Is Planned By Petroleum Association.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fourth annual convention of the Independent Petroleum Marketers' association of the United States, closed here today with election of officers. They are:

President, W. H. Barber, Minneapolis; first vice president, F. E. Van Tilburg, Minneapolis; second vice president, W. D. Simmons, Chicago; third vice president, A. E. Roblee, Cleveland; treasurer, H. C. Mather, Cincinnati; secretary, W. C. Platt, Cleveland; sergeant-at-arms, G. J. Ellegerwald, Cleveland.

The inauguration of a campaign of education in the use of oils to lessen the fire hazard and investigation of a plan to deliver all explosive oils in sealed packages, were the features of the convention.

FRENCH ELECTION DECIDED BY CARDS

Choice of Candidates in Small District Settled By Lot.

Paris, June 14.—The United States is not the only country in which a political campaign has been raging recently, nor yet the only one which produces many office seekers. Sundays are election days in France.

Elections were held in nearly 37,000 communes, and no fewer than 439,341 municipal councillors were selected. As there were, on an average, three candidates for every seat, one-fourteenth of the entire male population of France was "in the hands of its friends."

The polling and the campaign which it brought to an end revealed many curious wrinkles in the French system. A man need not live in a particular town in order to be mayor or to serve on its municipal council, nor must he live in the constituency which he represents in congress. If the same system were in force in the United States and Mr. Taft sought to represent a state, he might be defeated in Kansas and Missouri and Pennsylvania and California and finally gain election by appealing to the voters of Rhode Island.

That arrangement enables the parish of Jarrye-Gaudran, in the department of the Seine-et-Oise, to revel in the enjoyment of the fiercest of all the campaigns waged this year. That commune has only twenty inhabitants, but it is entitled to ten municipal councilors, that number being prescribed by law as the minimum. There are only four voters, so candidates had to be "drafted" from several neighboring communes.

On the first Sunday only five candidates received the requisite majority, so the campaign was prolonged for an extra week and the town voted again on the next Sunday. The four votes represented three parties. Two were Republicans, forming the Tartre-Gaudran "bloc;" one was an independent with Socialistic tendencies, and the fourth was a moderate with Liberal leanings.

The "bloc" seemed destined to win the day, but at the last moment its members decided to be magnanimous. A compromise was effected, by the terms of which each voter voted for the candidate of his choice and the fifth councillor was selected by a game of cards.

In many other respects French campaign methods differ from those employed in America. There never is a "swing around the circle" by a candidate. In the first place, the entire French "circle" is so small that the "swinging" could be accomplished in a very few days, and, in the second, no office is filled by election by the nation at large. Even the president of the republic is chosen by congress.

Most of the electioneering is done on posters. Candidate Durand flaunts his virtues on a yellow sheet. Candidate Lecroix selects green and Candidate Thenard chooses pink. Candidates may take any color they desire, but it must be a color. The law forbids the use of white posters in the exploitation of an office-seeker's ambitions. White is reserved for official documents and government proclamations.

LATEST EFFORT OF MAN TO NAVIGATE THE AIR

M. MOULIN'S "AVIETTE."

The contest of aviettes at Issyales Moulineaux in France last month was very interesting in spite of the fact that nobody succeeded in accomplishing the feat of flying over a mark by his own power and winning the prize offered. There were some very creditable exhibitions, and the aviette constructed by M. Moulin made as good a showing as any.

BRYAN'S MOTOR AFIRE.

Machine Blows Up at New Richmond While Nebraskan Speaks.

St. Paul, Minn., June 14.—While William J. Bryan was exploding bombs of eloquence in his address at New Richmond, Wis., Wednesday evening, an automobile waiting to take him back to Minneapolis, exploded and set a building on fire.

The automobile is a new 110-horse-power, six-cylinder car, belonging to Guy Thomas of Minneapolis. Mr. Thomas and Mr. Bryan went to New Richmond together on the Soo line train. The automobile arrived at 7 o'clock p. m. and was left standing about a block from the opera house.

It is thought a short circuit occurred in some way and the spark was communicated to the gasoline tank, which promptly blew up.

The oil set fire to a nearby building and about $2,500 damage was done.

Few left the hall and the address was not interrupted. No one was hurt.

Mr. Bryan and Mr. Thomas returned to St. Paul on the Soo line train.

WILSON-BRYAN LEAD.

Pierre, S. D., June 14.—Wire returns on delegates to the Democratic national convention have been received by the secretary of state from all but five counties. The figures give the Wilson-Bryan delegates headed by T. M. Simmons, 4,666, the Clark-Bryan delegates, headed by Andrew E. Lee, 4,349, and the Champ Clark list, 2,874. Indications now are that the delegation will be contested.

Naval Reserves to Cruise.

Escanaba, Mich., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Orders have been issued to the members of the Escanaba division of the naval reserves to proceed to Hancock on July 4 and there board the training ship Yantic for several days' cruise.

ACCUSE LA CROSSE MAN.

Charge Doctor With Luring Woman There for Immoral Purposes.

La Crosse, Wis., June 14.—Dr. R. T. Allen of this city was held for trial in the circuit court by Judge Baldwin in the county court yesterday afternoon under the "white slave" law. Allen is charged with enticing Lydia Nelson, aged 19 years, of St. Paul to join him in La Crosse for immoral purposes. The young woman testified that the doctor represented that he desired an actress for a play that he was about to stage, and when she learned his purposes, escaped from the Allen home and sought refuge in the police station. Allen was placed under $3,000 bonds. He is married and is a physical culture specialist.

FORMER ST. CLOUD MAN TAKES ACID

J. R. Cornell Commits Suicide While in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 14.—J. R. Cornell, once a wealthy farmer of St. Cloud, Minn., committed suicide last night in his apartment by swallowing carbolic acid. Loss of money was thought to have caused his act. He is survived by a young widow.

COUNTY UNABLE TO LOCATE WITNESSES.

Isaac Negovan, alias E. Zoria, who has been in the county jail for the past seven months awaitting trial on a charge of having threatened Paul Basta, a fellow laborer, with a revolver at New Duluth on Dec. 1 last, was released from custody aoday.

The state has been unable to locate one of the principal witnesses and County Attorney John H. Norton this morning in Judge Dibell's court asked that the indictment against the prisoner be dismissed. The court granaed the motion.

POLICE OF SAN DIEGO BUY OLD ARMY RIFLES.

San Diego, Cal., June 14.—Twenty Krag-Jorgensen rifles of the pattern discarded by the war department several years ago, have been received by the police department. The department, according to Chief of Police J. K. Wilson, took advantage of the price of $5.35 each made by the government for the rifles. He denied that the purchase had anything to do with the recent Industrial Workers of the World trouble.

SEAT MORE TENNESSEE DELEGATES FOR TAFT.

Chicago, June 14.—The two Taft delegates from the Ninth Tennessee district were seated by the Republican national committee today. Roosevelt members voted "no." A substitute motion to seat the Roosevelt members was defeated. Roll calls were refused.

The two Taft delegates from the Second Tennessee district also were seated without roll call, Roosevelt men voting "no." A movement by Committeeman Monday to seat the Roosevelt delegates was defeated.

WOULD FORCE SALE OF CHICAGO CAR LINES.

Chicago, June 14.—The Boston holders of underlying bonds amounting to $7,242,000 brought suit in the United States court here today against the receivers of the Metropolitan Street railway company to foreclose the mortgage and force the sale of all the lines.

RECEIPT FOR GAS BILL PREVENTS TRAIN CRASH.

Madison, Wis., June 14.—A red gas office receipt probably prevented a serious grade crossing accident at Mendota Beach yesterday, when a farmer's wagon with a load of hay became stalled on the tracks. A university professor waved a little red gas office receipt and the engineer of a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul train stopped the train before it reached the crossing.

TAFT ASKS $1,250,000 FOR IMPERIAL VALLEY.

Washington, June 14.—In a special message President Taft today asked congress to appropriate $1,250,000 to protect the Imperial valley of California against emergencies of floods from the Colorado river while negotiations for the protection of that territory are pending with Mexico.

Postpones Texas Cases.

Chicago, June 14.—The Republican national committee postponed until tomorrow the Texas and Virginia and Washington contest hearings.

DISCUSS WORK IN INSTITUTIONS

Charities and Corrections Delegates Hear C. E. Faulkner of Minneapolis.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 14.—Public supervision and administration of various institutions toward which its activities are directed was scheduled for discussion in general session today by the National Conference of Charities and Correction. The report of the committee on this branch of the work, presented by H. C. Bowman, chairman, dealt with the administration of state institutions and the supervision and control of certain private institutions that receive state aid, care for the insane, for dependent children or solicit financial help throughout the state.

C. E. Faulkner, superintendent of the Washburn Memorial Orphans' home, Minneapolis, was slated for a discussion of the problem of dependent and neglected children, as seen from the viewpoint of state supervision.

Several section meetings rounded out the day's work, among those to be held being one of the courts and prisons section and the national probation association, in conjunction, the children and families and neighborhoods sections, jointly, and the housing and recreation section.

The conference today decided to hold its 1913 session in Seattle, Wash.

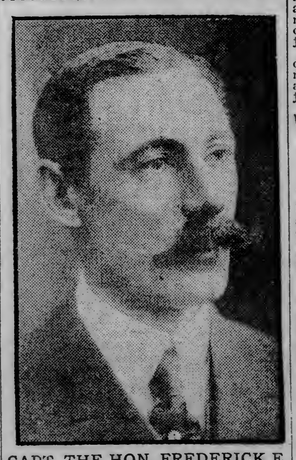

CZAR'S INCOME FROM VODKA IS $400,000,000.

St. Petersburg, June 14. — Public opinion, strongly expressed in the duma and the press, has at last aroused the government to take steps to fight the vodka fiend. A home for inebriates will be started, and an institute for anti-alcoholic research will follow.

Over 80 per cent of the city population of Russia become confirmed vodka fiends before they are 25 years old, while 45 per cent of the girls fall into the habit between the ages of 7 and 12. Recruits are driven to drink through insufficient food and cold barracks, because four-fifths of the coal and meat allotted to them are snapped up by officers and purveyors before it reaches the stores.

Vodka has been a crown monopoly since the sixteenth century. The czar has now 30,000 vodka saloons and controls 4,000 distilleries on which he realizes $400,000,000 a year. While the government spends only 3½ cents per head on education, each Russian citizen carries between 36 cents and $7 a year into the czar's saloons. The vodka spirit is distilled from potatoes and cereals.

AMERICAN'S HUSBAND IS ROYAL TREASURER

CAPT. THE HON. FREDERICK E. GUEST.

Capt. the Hon Frederick E. Guest, the husband of Amy Phipps of Pittsburg, has been made treasurer of King George's household. He is the officer next below the lord stewart and acts as his deputy in his absence. The lord steward sits in an office known as the board of green cloth and bosses the officers and servants of the royal household, except those of the chamber, the chapel and the stables. The steward of a hotel isn't regarded as of much consequence socially, but the lord steward of a royal household is a person of note and social influence. Therefore the Guests are highly honored, and to show their appreciation of the distinction conferred on them, they have bought a bankrupt millionaire's palace and prepared to dazzle the British capital.

VIGILANT ROOSTER AS BURGLAR ALARM.

Louisville, Ky., June 14.—The goose whose cackling warned the Roman populace of the invasion of the Goths and Huns will now have to share honors with Wallace Renfro's rooster, which crowed so loud one night that he awakened Mr. Renfro's neighbors in time for them to give chase to two burglars who were rifling his hen coop.

The looters managed to secure four fowls, which they carried despite the fact that they were pursued for several blocks. They had evidently come with the intention of making a wholesale cleanup, as they left behind several bags in which they had intended to stow the fowls.

Mr. Renfro was not at home at the time of the raid on his hen coop, but the shrill crowing of his rooster caused several neighbors to peep out of their windows just in time to see dusky forms gliding about in the back yard of the home at No. 3911 West Broadway. They gave chase, but were outdistanced by the fleet thieves.

The hen roost of C. F. Minott, at 3909 West Broadway, next door to Mr. Renfro's place, was also robbed, and several valuable fowls were taken.

DOG ON STATE PAYROLL DIES A MARTYR TO DUTY.

Topeka, Kan., June 14.—Jimmy B. Damm is dead. Jimmy was the only dog ever on the Kansas state pay roll. He died a martyr to his duty.

Jimmy was the most bow-legged, most disreputable-looking animal that ever crossed the borders. A granite slab is to be erected to his memory and to mark his last resting place.

For many years Jimmy has been furnished good things to eat, and a nice place to sleep by the state water analysis department as the official stamp licker. The analysis department examines the water of some 600 Kansas towns every three months. When a sample arrived at the department.

When Dr. C. C. Young, head of department or one of his assistants would write the label to be placed on a bottle of food or water, three, distinct raps would be given on a table and instantly Jimmy would be at the side of the analyst. The label would be held down, and Jimmy would proceed to lick the gum and see that the label was pasted on the bottle properly. A man could pound on the table all day and Jimmy would not budge, but let him give three short raps and Jimmy would be right on the job.

Jimmy finally died of a disease engendered by doing his duty.

GUARDS COMMERCE COMMISSIONERS

Senate Adopts New Amendment to Legislative Bill.

Washington, June 14.—The senate today further amended the legislative appropriation bill to prohibit any one federal judge from restraining or injoining an order of the interstate commerce commission, and providing that any such injunction must be unanimously sanctioned by the chief justice of the United States and two other justices.

The legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, carrying aniendments to abolish the commerce court and end the terms of office of its five justices, passed the senate today.

McGOVERN WILL SEEK THE CHAIR

Will Be Urged for Temporary Chairman at Chicago Convention.

Madison, Wis., June 14.—Governor Francis E. McGovern this afternoon, when asked concerning rumors that Wisconsin may not have a candidate for temporary chairman at Chicago, declared that it was decided unanimously at the meeting in Milwaukee Monday night that his name should be presented to the Republican national convention as Wisconsin's choice for temporary chairman of the convention.

Governor McGovern has gone so far as to prepare a speech as temporary chairman, and expects to reach Chicago late Sunday night or early Monday morning.

The Wisconsin program includes a strong fight of the La Follette delegation to have enacted in the platform to be adopted at Chicago, as many of La Follette's ideas as possible.

CLEARS UP ITS WORK.

Minnesota Senate Passes the Murray Corrupt Practices Act.

St. Paul, Minn., June 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota state senate today passed the Murray corrupt practices act, thus clearing up all the work at present before the upper house in the extra session recently convened.

ESCANABA MAN NAMED SOURWINE CANDIDATE.

Escanaba, Mich., June 14.—John P. Sourwine of Escanaba is a receptive candidate for the Democratic nomination for congress from the Twelfth district. He served as mayor of Escanaba and once was the nominee of the Democracy for representative in the legislature.

BUYS BABE WHICH IS ON POINT OF IMMOLATION.

San Francisco, Cal., June 14.—Saved from sacrifice on an altar of fire during a famine in the northern part of the Island of Luzon, in the Philippines, ten years ago, little Felicidad, a child of a member of one of the almost extinct aboriginal tribes, who was bought for 30 pesos by Mrs. Abreu, a Filipino woman, just as the fire was cracking under the pyre upon which the then 2-year-old little girl had been placed, was the most popular passenger on the liner China in from the Orient today.

Given possession of little Felicidad, the aged Filipino woman, after days of wearily trudging through the thickets and swamps, made her way to Manila. For six years she kept the little girl in her hut near the city until two years ago, when the good old woman was stricken with fever and died.

On her deathbed she bequeathed her most valuable earthly possession—little Felicidad—to Mrs. J. L. Dunham, a supervising teacher in the public schools of Manila, who has come to San Francisco after an absence of eleven years in the Philippines.

MOVEMENT DOWNWARD

Favorable Weather Reports From Winter and Spring Wheat Sections.

Revival of Demand for Flaxseed on Duluth Market Causes Bulge.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 14.—Wheat took another downward turn on the American markets this morning. Weather reports were still favorable for the growing crops in both winter and spring wheat sections and the general bearish feeling caused a steady downward movement. Duluth July wheat today closed 1⅞c to 1½c lower. Cash wheat was a cent over the July price. Durum closed ¼c off and oats ⅞c off. Rye and barley closed unchanged. Duluth July linseed closed 2½ cents up, September 4 cents up and October 3 cents up.

The morning on the wheat markets of America was very bearish. There were good weather reports from almost every section. The general outlook was shown to have improved vastly during the last few days. The primary wheat receipts of this country as usual showed some falling off from what they were a year ago, but the decrease was not sensational.

Duluth July wheat, which closed yesterday at $1.12¼-1.12⅜, opened today at $1.12 bid, and at noon was quoted at $1.10⅞-1.11. There was also quite a decline at Chicago and at Minneapolis. The Winnipeg market was slightly higher.

The decline of wheat on the American market was helped by bearish news from Liverpool, where wheat today closed ⅜d to ½d lower. Heavy shipments from India and larger shipments from Russia were reported. There was a good buying demand, however, in France and elsewhere on the European continent.

Flaxseed Goes Higher.

The recent decline in the price of flaxseed on the Duluth market, together with the higher price at Winnipeg, has resulted in a restoration of the buying demand at Duluth, and today a brisk demand, together with a dearth of selling orders caused quite a bullish movement on the Duluth flaxseed market. Duluth July flaxseed at noon today was 2½c up, September 4c up and October 3c up. Winnipeg July was 1c up at $2.12. Buenos Ayres July last night closed unchanged at $1.83⅝ and London July today closed ⅞c off at $2.30¾.

Harvesting will begin in Central Kansas this week in Dickinson and Salina counties.

Bracken wired from Kansas City: "The corn and wheat region bulletin shows rain in four points in Missouri and three points in Southeastern Kansas. Nothing west."

T. E. Hegna, owner of a grain elevator at Beach, Billings county, N. D., who was a visitor on the Duluth Board this morning, said the prospects were fine for a splendid crop in his section this year. "We have had an abundance of rain," he said. "The same is true of Eastern Montana. We are but a short distance from the Montana line and get reports from that section as well as the western part of our own state. What we need now is plenty of bright, dry weather to push the growth along and get the grains ripe. If there should be another early fall, the frost might damage the crops very seriously. Our seeding was very late. We were about three weeks behind the people of the Fargo region. But our total acreage is about the same as it was a year ago. Owing to the lateness of the spring, we could not sow as much wheat as usual, but for that very reason we sowed a larger acreage of flaxseed, which can stand later planting. The wheat is about high enough now to conceal the ground."

The Modern Miller, St. Louis, says: "Numerous reports are received from soft winter wheat states of large and well filled heads, the cool weather for several weeks past having caused the plant to mature slowly. Spots, due to a worm and red rust, are reported in some sections, but no extensive damage has been done. Frequent and extensive rains have fallen in the hard winter wheat regions, notably in the northwest part of Kansas and southwestern Nebraska, where most damage was claimed. Prospects are for a crop of 80,000,000 bu in Kansas and 45,000,000 bu in Nebraska."

A wire from Grand Forks says: "The rain which fell in this section of the country yesterday was very welcome. It was an easy, steady rain, which soaked the ground. Today it is very cloudy and cool, which will give the moisture a fine chance to sink into the ground and do the most good. There is a very low barometer, 28.7; temperature, 56 above."

A. D. Goodman of the Duluth board said today: "Flour buyers are still very bearish and are putting off their purchases in the hope of wheat going down a great deal farther. In this I am afraid they will be disappointed. To my mind the general situation, notwithstanding recent declines, looks decidedly bullish. It should be remembered that the great wheat territory of the Central West, tributary to Chicago, will have a wretched wheat crop this year. That will mean comparatively small receipts on the Chicago market. The market of Chicago will be bullish and will pull the others up, for the Chicago quotations are a mighty influence. I do not think the crop of the Southwest will be good enough to make up for the losses of the Central West. The hope of the country lies in the spring wheat of the Northwest."

W. A. Day, field agent of Randall, Gee & Mitchell, recently took a trip through Northwestern Minnesota and Eastern North Dakota. "In Cass county, North Dakota," he said, "the weather has been undesirably dry and windy. Yet most of the grain was seeded early, as the fall plowing was done pretty thoroughly in that section, and the grain now has enough of a start to stand a considerable amount of dry weather. I do not think there is yet any cause for alarm in that quarter. But in Northwestern Minnesota, in Kittson, Marshall and Polk counties, the situation is somewhat different. There the fall plowing was about 20 per cent short of its usual acreage, and much plowing had to be done in the spring. The land that was plowed in the fall was for the most part seeded with wheat in the spring, and for that reason there is about the usual amount of wheat acreage. As a rule, the fall-plowed land is not given over so largely to wheat, but this year the spring was late and farmers were in a great hurry to get their spring wheat planted. After the planting of spring wheat came the sowing of oats, barely and flax. These grains were for the most part put in on the spring-plowed land. The land was quickly turned by the use of traction engines. But the lateness of this sowing makes the dryness dangerous to the coarser grains, as they have not had a good enough start to stand much drouth. Perhaps there is no cause for alarm, but rain in Northwestern Minnesota would be welcomed by the farmers."

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Fine Crop Reports and Light Trading Cause Declines in Wheat.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 14.—Further recessions in wheat today on excellent crop reports and light trading. July relatively weakest contract, because trades were transferred mostly to deferred months. July closed 1¾c lower than yesterday, September ⅜c lower and December ¾c lower. Local elevator stocks of wheat decreased 1,000,000 bu for the week.

Car lot wheat receipts: Minneapolis today, 111; week ago, 68; year ago, 85. Duluth today, 23; week ago, 22; year ago, 32. Winnipeg today, 241; week ago, 183; year ago, 148.

Cash wheat was in good demand today and the market was reported steady. Mills were active buyers of the light offerings. No. 1 northern sold for 2c above the July contract.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,449 tons. Demand was generally slow, although one mill reported improved sales. Prices steady.

Wheat—July opened $1.11⅜; high, $1.11⅜@1.11½; low, $1.10¼; closed, $1.10⅝. September opened $1.04⅞@1.04¾; high, $1.04¾; low, $1.04⅛; closed, $1.04¾. December opened $1.05; high, $1.05; low, $1.04⅝@1.04¾; closed, $1.04¾. WEAKNESS IN STOCKS

Prices Decline and Some Heaviness in the Prominent Issues.

Fractional Recoveries Due to Short Covering in Final Hour.

New York, June 14.—A two-point rise in Guggenheim Exploration and 3 points in Liggett & Myers were the only features of a dull and narrow stock market at the opening. Most of the active issues were slightly under yesterday's close, likewise numerous specialties.

Active stocks recorded little change in the first hour except Lehigh Valley, which rose a point. Atlantic Coast Line, Sears-Roebuck, Malting common and preferred and General Electric were up 1 to 2. There was a further decline in Virginia-Carolina Chemical and weakness in Ontario & Western and Airbrake.

From an irregular opening prices declined, displaying some heaviness in the prominent issues, particularly Union Pacific, Steel and Amalgamated Copper. Trading was so insignificant as to rob the movement of any actual importance.

The market closed weak. Fractional recoveries, resulting largely from short covering were made in the final hour, after which the list again lapsed into an apathetic state.

Cotton Market.

New York, June 14.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 6@11 points. Trading was active. The market continued firm during the early trading on a scattering outside demand and covering of shorts. The official forecasts for unsettled weather and showers in the Eastern belt, and for clear weather in most sections of Texas and Oklahoma added to the nervousness over the new crop outlook and prices toward the end of the first hour were from 9 to 14 points net higher.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points higher; middling uplands, 11.90; middling gulf, 12.15. Sales, 100 bales. Futures closed very steady; closing bids: June, 11.38; July, 11.48; August, 11.57; September, 11.59; October, 11.69; November, 11.73; December, 11.80; January, 11.77; February, 11.81; March, 11.88; May, 11.93.

Victor Kuoti's DULUTH
Stamped on Confectionery You Will Know That the Height of Candy Perfection Has Been Obtained

Yes, you can buy it cheaper at one place than at another—if you couldn't there would be no need of more than one store.

"Hello, John! Where are you going?" "I am going down to a wholesale house to put in my order for groceries." "Why, I didn't know you could buy your groceries at wholesale? Will they sell you?" "Why, yes; Barthe-Martin Co., wholesale grocers, sell to anybody. They buy their supplies from the manufacturer, the same as other wholesalers, and sell direct to the people, but they do not sell any of the stores." "Why don't they sell to the stores?" "Because they can't sell to the stores and to the people at the same time—it would conflict. They must either sell at wholesale to one or the other." "Well, I shouldn't think the retail stores would like that?" "Well, they don't, but we folks with big families like it. The cost of living is high enough without paying middlemen's profits plus their cost of doing business." "Then you mean to say that you are buying your groceries just as cheaply as the storekeeper up the street?" "Yes, sir; that's exactly what I mean, and my bills show I am saving 20 per cent. That's better than 3 per cent from the savings bank, isn't it?" "And does this wholesale house carry everything in groceries?" "Over 1,500 different articles, and they deliver orders amounting to $5.00. Of course orders from West Duluth, Lakeside and Woodland must amount to $10.00 before they deliver." "I say, John, I am going down with you now and place an order."

THE SATURDAY HERALD

IS THE SUNDAY PAPER IN THE OUTSIDE TOWNS

The Saturday Herald is delivered bright and early Sunday morning to thousands of regular subscribers in the Copper and Iron districts of Northern Michigan.

The Saturday Herald is the favorite Sunday paper on the Iron Ranges, being delivered by our own carriers to thousands of regular subscribers.

The Saturday Herald, always 28 to 32 pages, is replete with features interesting to all members of the family. The news of neighboring towns furnished by our own correspondents, is one of the pleasing features of The Saturday Herald.

The Saturday Herald furnishes the Sunday reading for the great majority of homes in Duluth and tributary towns.

The Saturday Herald has a circulation greater by thousands than that of any other Saturday or Sunday paper in this territory.
